The Republican.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Pubr.

OAKLAND, . . . MD.

King Menelik never knows when to quit dying.

Rouge is now a Newport fad. The people who use it need it.

Football has begun and the doctors are busy saving the pieces.

The facial expression of a man waiting at the phone is not his best.

The man who really practices what he preaches does mighty little preaching.

Some of the Philippine uprisings are so hardy that they last over night.

Scandal is the one thing that never gets worn out at the edges by being passed around.

A married man informs us that one who tells his wife all he knows doesn't know much.

There are 600 rooms in Kaiser Bill's new palace. He'll have to keep a hired girl, we fear.

Wealthy Americans now coming home in the steerage could not wait for the flying machines.

While a wooden leg may be the sad result of an accident, the hobble skirt is a woman's own fault.

And now, since men have proved themselves the best dishwashers the women want them to retain the job.

It took Moissant three weeks to get from Paris to London by airship. Still, walking would have been worse.

A young lady says it does no good to "hitch your wagon to a star" for the darned star don't stop to let you get in!

It is hard to predict occurrences from day to day further than that an aviation record of some sort will be broken.

A Chicago man defeated a woman in a dishwashing contest. It were witter for his sex had he considerate-hur lost.

Inasmuch that the Balkan war cloud has nogun hanging around again it is hane to send up a flock of airships soninvite it to go hence.

Another naval hero. A captain of a warship has been [illegible] wounded [illegible] gradually forward [illegible] has broken while he was dancing at Newport.

Chicagoans will now be expected to carry around a microscope to see whether their ice cream contains more than 5,000,000 germs, the new limit.

A New York policeman recently ate 61 ears of corn at a sitting. Our only hope in this connection is that he did not have an overhanging mustache.

When a man's wife has gone away for the summer he ought to have the decency at least to look downhearted in the photograph which he sends to her.

If man had had as complete command over the seas as he has had over the forests they would all be dried up and crying for irrigation by this time.

An airship line is to be established between Baltimore and Washington. Those two cities are so near together that the ground betwen them can be padded all the way.

Prizes have been offered for the best poems in Esperanto. This ought to give the magazines a much-needed rest, and it ought also to cheer up the unappreciated poets.

It is a harsh and hasty judgment to assume that every handsome young woman who is seen walking with crutches has been rashly intimate with a hobble-skirted gown.

The woman who slashed nine persons when she saw her husband slip a quarter to a girl in church must have thought that particular act of charity covered an unusual amount of sin.

A New York court has declined to permit a literary society to call itself the Souse club. Occasionally a New York court tosses aside technicalities and legal verbiage and gets right down to business and common sense.

The United States forest service is advertising for a xylotomist. We are not quite certain what a xylotomist is but the man in the flat overhead plays something that sounds like it every night.

Indiana now eats more beans than Massachusetts. See what literature does!

We learn from London that the silk hat is dying out. Occurs it's been an uncommon long time dying. There's no more pathetic sight on earth than a silk topper on its last legs. Somebody ought to put it out of its misery. Maybe it's only one of those hot weather stories, though. In London, when ever news is dull, they send out a hardened reporter to kill the plug hat.

MARVELS of THE EARTH

CURIOUS, ODD AND INTERESTING OBJECTS AND PLACES

HORSE AND DOG WERE PALS

For no other reason than because his bulldog refused to be comforted since he sold his horse, Arthur Baker, a farmer of Springfield, Ohio, went to Dayton and purchased back his trotter at an increased price, which he had sold the week before. It and the dog were boon companions since the canine's eyes were open.

After the horse was taken away the bulldog did nothing but yell and howl and positively refused to eat the food offered it. Mr. Baker could not stand it any longer, and he got the purchaser to sell him the horse back.

When the horse was returned to the Baker stable the canine ceased barking and yelping, the pair nosed each other for quite a time, and altogether the greeting between the two dumb animals was most affectionate.

WHEN THE ALARM WENT OFF

An odd thing happened in Paris the other week, where a woman named Charlotte Berdulli was arrested outside a shop on the Place de la Bastille, and charged by one of the shop's private detectives with stealing some cheap jewelery. She denied the theft indignantly, and refused even more indignantly to allow herself to be searched. "I am the wife of a magistrate," she declared, "and will have you punished for the indignity to which I am being subjected." Unfortunately for her, an alarm clock which she had stolen went off at this moment. Mrs. Burdulli was searched, and three alarm clocks, a small size, two watches, and eight brooches of small value were found in a specially made pocket inside her skirt.

FINDS SNAKE IN BEDROOM

Otho Guessford, who lives at the foot of North Mountain, in Blairs valley, near Clear Springs, Md., had an exciting experience with a big black snake.

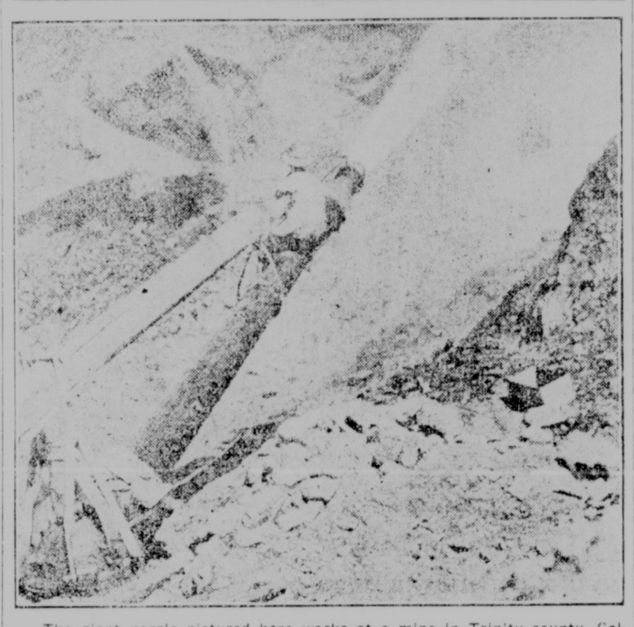
Soon after retiring he heard something drop from the ceiling to the floor. Getting up and lighting a lamp, he was horrified to see lying on the floor, close to his bed, a reptile [illegible] feet long.

He killed the snake, which showed fight. The snake had crawled up a vine alongside the house and crept into the open window of the bedroom.

COMPLETELY WALLED CITY

One of the chief attractions for the tourist in southwest France is the medieval walled city of Carcassonne, which is perched upon a rock ridge above the Aude river most picturesquely. The modern town, itself several centuries old, lies across the river from the old city, which is preserved in all its medievalism by an intelligent municipality. The old city is completely enclosed by walls of great solidity, portions of which are supposed to date back to the time of the Visigoths. It contains a castle and an ancient cathedral.

Giant Gold Mining Nozzle



The giant nozzle pictured here works at a mine in Trinity county, California. About 50,000 gallons, or 200 tons, of water pass through it in a minute. This great force undermines the gold-bearing gravel at the rate of about a thousand cubic yards an hour. The nozzle is nineteen feet long and ten inches in diameter at the mouth.

TROUT ALMOST KILLS A DOG

Wallace Short of New York state has a dog. Its name is Skip. It was long-haired, but it isn't any more. The other morning it went fishing. Short said no, but the dog said yes, and then it took a flying leap and with a bobwow of delight landed in the center of one of the pools of Frank Drumboller's trout hatchery on the Tranquillity turnpike. The dog was a bit hungry, and when it jumped it had its gaze fixed on a large trout that had been basking in the sun, with one eye on Skip and the other on a bread crumb near by.

The dog had a long, shaggy coat when it entered the pool. It had seen but one, and had no means of knowing or even suspecting there were 3,000 other trout in the same pool, all full grown and hungry, for it was feeding time. Scarcely had Skip struck the water when it began to bark or help. Short and Drumboller ran to the edge of the pool, and what they saw made their eyes pop.

The thousands of trout had massed themselves about the dog, and swimming around and around had engulfed him in a perfect piscatorial whirlpool. Occasionally one of the large fish would make a side leap and take a bite at the dog. Skip was in a bad way when the men arrived. The silent mass of fish gradually would have forced him under the water. He had gone in long haired, but came out like a hairless Mexican dog. The secret was that Skip suffered from a skin affection, and his master had rubbed him with olive oil, appetizing to the fish. So they almost skinned him.

BEES SWARM ON PICTURE HAT

Mme. Rodier, wife of a landowner at Borne, in Holland, had a rather peculiar experience recently. The good lady, who rejoices in the possession of a large picture hat of realistic floral design, was sitting dozing in her garden, when a swarm of bees surrounded her and settled on the hat. Waking up and realizing the danger of the situation, with great presence of mind she went over to an empty hive, and shook her hat into it, whereupon the bees took possession. Mme. Rodier did not receive a single sting.

SHOULDER BLADE AS A SLATE

The shoulder blade of a camel is used as a slate by the children of German East Africa. It is remarkable that the bone is always punched through, as it is believed that otherwise it can be used for purposes of black magic. Once the bone is broken it is supposed to lose its magical powers. The shoulder bones of all animals are supposed to possess powers that can be used maliciously by practitioners of black magic. This belief is common throughout the east, from Constantinople to Tokio.

PEAR TREE'S QUEER ACTION

A pear tree in bloom and laden with fruit at the same time is a freak at Basking Ridge, N. J. The blossoms completely cover the tree and the ripening fruit peeping from between the clusters of petals makes a novel sight.

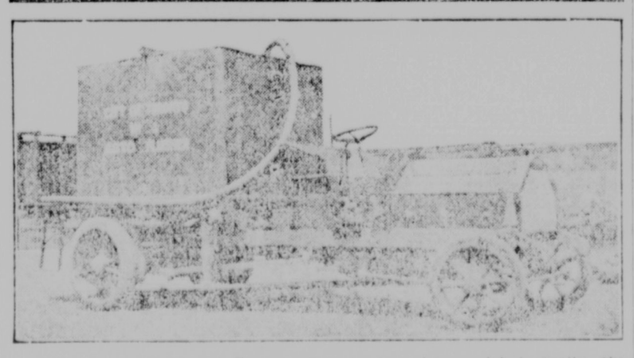
During the hot and dry weather of July the leaves of the tree appeared to wither and even the fruit itself showed signs of beginning to shrivel up. Then copious rains fell and the tree gave evidence of the benefits it received. Buds began to swell again and an entirely new set of blossoms began to appear.

A horse chestnut tree in full bloom in Bayonne is causing much interest among the residents in that section. Similar trees nearby are filled with nuts.

FROZEN TO DEATH IN HEAT

The recent heat wave brought the usual crop of fatalities, but surely the most remarkable was that of a teamster, who was frozen to death while the thermometer stood at 105. The victim was a Mexican employed by an ice supply company at Maricopa, Arizona. Unable any longer to bear the torrid heat while out with a load of ice the man was seized by what appeared to be the happy idea of seeking cooling shade under his wagon. Apparently he slumbered, for when the absence of the teamster from the wagon was noticed, and search was made he was discovered lying quite dead, with all the symptoms of having been frozen to death.

Auto-Flusher for Toronto



The city authorities of Toronto, Canada, have been quick to realize the value of motor-traction. The illustration shows one of the two big auto-flushers that are now in service on Toronto streets. The water tank has a capacity of 1,200 gallons. While working the flusher will travel at a speed of eight miles an hour. It will do the work of three horse-drawn tanks.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

HOPE FOR NARCOTIC VICTIMS

Actual Thirst or Craving for Alcohol Is Not Inherited—Curious Selective Action.

The causes and effects of alcoholism form a vast subject about which much truth and many falsehoods have been written. The falsehoods have done more tha na passing harm, for they have caused in the minds of the ignorant a disbelief in the truth, and the strict truth displays a terrible picture, writes Alexander Lambert, M. D., in Success Magazine. The use of alcohol is the most common and widespread of all the narcotics, and unlike morphine and cocaine it may be indulged in modestly without ever being taken to excess; but, also, unlike morphine and cocaine, when used even in moderation, it may cause pathologic changes in the body, and when taken in excess invariably produces degenerative changes in the various viscera.

Alcohol has a curious selective action, and as individuals reach differently to equal doses, so, too, do individuals show different patholicic changes from equal indulgence. The brain and central nervous system, or the heart and arteries, or the liver and kidneys, may each separately bear the brunt of the alcoholic poison. Thus the brain and nervous system may entirely escape the poison, and the individual die of cardic or other visceral degenerations; or the brain and nervous system may become early degenerated and the viscera escape, and the chronic alcoholic live long years, a nuisance and a curse to his community. Unfortunately, when alcoholic excesses are committed in the youthful, formative period of life, the brain and nervous system are the more prone to be affected. The man who indulges in alcoholic excesses is like a man who recklessly signs drafts which he never expects to be cashed in, but when overtaken with acute disease or accident these drafts are cashed in with pitiless insistence. The effects of alcohol do not always remain confined to the generation which commits the over-indulgence, since idiocy, epilepsy, moral degeneracy and weakness, unstable mentality are more often found in the children of alcoholic parents than in those of non-alcoholic parentage. The actual thirst or craving is not inherited, but the weaker moral character which is bequeathed easily gives way to any temptation and quickly forms habits of [illegible] indulgence.

NATION'S LARGE DRINK BILL

Decrease in Amount of Alcohol Consumed in United States Shown by Estimate.

That the people of America are beginning to grow more sober in their habits again is the apparent lesson of the American Grocer's estimate of the nation's drink bill for 1909.

In spite of ten years of prohibition agitation 1907 was the banner year for the liquor trade. Consumption reached then its maximum. In two years the population increased by 2,749,966, but the money spent upon alcoholic drinks fell off $110,185,600. This was not an economic after effect of the panic; that would have been more apparent in 1908; besides, tea, coffee and cocoa established in 1909 a record.

The per capita use of spirits in 1909 was the smallest since 1900; of beer since 1905. Of both there was a decline in 1908 and again in 1909. The consumption of wine alone increased, but by a trifle.

The treasury in 1909 derived from spirits $109,868,817; from fermented liquors, $75,550,754; from imported alcoholics, $15,650,113, and from tobacco, $59,355,084. The average tax per capita from all these sources was $2.93.

Taking the estimated retail price of alcoholics and adding coffee, tea and cocoa, the 1909 drink bill of the nation was:

Malt liquors	$ 904,212,837
Spiritous liquors	539,469,744
Wines	131,881,657
Coffee, tea, etc.	216,440,988
Total	$1,792,005,226

This is $97.15 for each family of five persons—enough in all conscience! But the alcoholic part of the expenditure shows now for two successive years a decided tendency to slacken.

Progress.

A positive advance today is found in our appreciation of peace after warfare. No parades of victors bearing the scalps and spoils, or captives taken, would be tolerated. Instead, great commemoration is made annually of peace proclamations.—Rev. Charles E. Perkins, Presbyterian, Salt Lake City.

Honor Above All.

Believe it to be the greatest of all infamies to prefer your existence to your honor, and for the sake of life to lose every inducement to live.—Juvenal.

Very Much So.

"The young lady to whose help you went when she fainted in the station had very taking ways, had she not?" "Very. She got my watch."—Baltimore American.

The Therapeutics of Joy

By RT. REV. SAMUEL FALLOWS, D. D., LL. D. Chicago, Illinois

The Bible is a wonderful therapeutic book. From the viewpoint of the new evangelism of health and happiness it is a new book. A flood of light is poured from its pages upon the surpassing problems of the spiritual regeneration of both the physical, mental and social life of man. These are the fundamental notes of the present mighty movement for the complete deliverance of the race from the thralldom of baleful unrest and inhibiting disease.

The inspired word chimes in with the latest teachings of science regarding the great influence of joy upon the human frame. Joy imparts strength, for it belongs to a happy family which numbers cheerfulness, gladness, mirthfulness, contentment, pleasure and delight among its members. It excites the whole muscular system. It increases the activity of all the vital functions. It quickens the pulse, brightens the eye, flushes the cheek, and nerves the arm. It makes play of work. It removes fatigue, while stimulating all the powers of body and mind.

Darwin has told us in the expression of the emotions in "Man and Animals" that with animals of all kinds the acquirement of almost all their pleasures, with the exception of those of warmth and rest, have long been associated with active movements, as in hunting in the search after food and other kindred things.

Joy, therefore, naturally shows itself in manifestations of strength. The nostrils are dilatted, the angles of the mouth, the eyelids and the eyebrows are raised, all indicative of potential actual energy.

Joy acts powerfully upon all the digestive processes and works a transformation upon the jaundiced dyspeptic. It expands the lungs which have been contracted as if by the strong grip of a giant hand through sadness or disappointment. The sigh of melancholy is changed to songs of gladness. With the change comes the deepening and expanding of these vital organs and the oxygenating and enriching of the blood.

While we Americans are an active people, we are, as a rule, a joyless people. We act as though we were driven like slaves to our tasks. We take our pleasures on a boverish run. Observant foreigners have noticed this rarity of joy upon our faces. They see, as a keen philosophic writer among us has seen, "lines of thought, and of care and of fear—many lines, shrewd, grasping lines, but how few happy lines." It would seem as if the rarest feeling that lightened our countenances was the genuine contentment of a loving, joyful soul.

It looks also as though our religion did not agree with us. We make of it weights instead of wings. We have gloomy thoughts of ourselves, of God, of our earthly existence, of our fellow men, of the life to come. We hang our harps upon the willows. We think this world to be a prison house. We say we cannot sing the songs of Zion in this strange land.

But this world is our home, our school, our workshop, our temple. We have been placed in it by almighty wisdom, power and love. We are the children of the Heavenly Father. And the joy of Jehovah is to be our strength—the joy that He is the ever watchful, ever providing, ever loving one—God over all blessed fovever-more.

Too many of us, as some one has said, "think black is the color of heaven and the more we can make our faces the color of midnight, the more evidence we have of grace." What a supreme mistake we are making. True religion is sunshine and loveliness. The New Testament interprets and emphasizes the Old. The historical Christ, the real, human-divine Christ, not a Christ evaporated into nothingness by the wild speculations of an erratic philosopher, says: "These words have I spoken unto you that my joy might remain in you and that your joy might be full." This fullness of joy in the heart makes life and death radiant with brightness.

I visited the home of a bereaved Christian who had forgotten the Christian teachings of that New Testament to "rejoice in the Lord always." The room on the north side of the house had every window darkened with heavy shades. She was clothed in garments of blackest black. The lines of her face were drawn down. The room was a fearsome, chilling tomb. Nothing could be more antithetical of a Christian's attitude and environment.

Not until I had thrown the curtains up and let the blessed light stream in could I speak the words of comfort, of hope and of assurance. Think of such a Christian's understanding of the command of the light-bringing Christ, "Let your light shine." Her light was turned to Egyptian darkness, which "could be felt."

There is no light to stream over land or sea like the light of joy. It must pour itself out amid sorrows and trials and tribulations. It is the one alchemy that can turn the basest metals into pure gold.

We were not made to live continually in the transports of joy. As God carries on His work by average men and carries on the processes of nature in average ways, so He means that our joys shall be on median lines. Ecstacies are only for rare occasions.

The Toad Our Best Friend

by EDWARD B. CLARK

COPYRIGHT BY W. A. PATTERSON

UNCLE SAM'S scientists have had more than one good word to say for the toad. Several government publications have been issued, I am told, telling about the toad and its good work. There is no department in nature which is overlooked by the scientists of Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson's department. If it is believed by the experts that any benefit may come to the people of the United States by the study of the habits of a particular animal, that animal is studied forthwith and studied carefully.

In folk lore history and in the history of localities which hardly can be classed as folk lore, the frog and the toad frequently have been confused; sometimes stories have been told of frog visitations and it has turned out that the invading army was composed of toads. The reverse of the statement also has been found to be true on several occasions.

Some years ago an army of track-hopping tramp toads took possession of the gravel road bed of the Sioux City and Pacific railway, and its unbroken column miles in length, as the local story had it, the toads marched past the town of Blencoe, Iowa. It is stated that there were so many millions in this mighty army that nothing like an accurate estimate of the toads could be made. The ground was said to be brown with the color of its visitants.

If there was such an army of the batrachians as it is said there was it would be no wonder if the residents of the infested district might have feared that the toads would divert their course from the railroad into the towns, to repeat Pharaoh's plague of the frogs. "When the rivers brought forth frogs abundantly, which went up into the houses, and into the bed chambers, and even upon the beds, and upon the people, and even into the ovens and into the kneading troughs."

Now the toad is not nearly so hideous a being as is his frog cousin. He never could "a-wooing go" like his green-coated brother, despite the fact that Shakespeare proclaims that his toadship has a jewel in his head. Ugly and venomous, the lord of Avon writes the toad down, and ugly and venomous to the people's mind in many places he is to this day, although in reality he ranks with the birds as one of humanity's best friends. As a matter of fact, it is likely that the brown-skinned army which moved without banners in military array some years ago was on the march to meet the great army of Rocky Mountain locusts which was moving steadily forward in an opposite direction and in General Sherman's words, "Foraging liberally upon the country."

Even though the toads are so harmless and helpful, they perhaps will never get anyone to love them. It must be admitted that appearances are against them. The Iowa people who some years ago were visited by the toads had no reason to arrogate to themselves any particular distinction on account of the visitation, for in scores of instances the animals have appeared in immense bodies, and in some cases, without any intention so to do, they have inaugurated veritable reigns of terror.

Years ago, in the little Puritan settlement of Windham, Conn., out of which sprang as many notable American families, perhaps, as have come from any other colonial hamlet, a migration of toads led the people to believe that the toesin of the last day had been sounded, and they were all summoned, sinners and sinless, to answer at the bar of judgment. Tradition says that the migration which brought this fear upon the people was one of the frogs. Scientists of today lean rather to the toad theory, but it made little difference to the frightened populace which species of batrachian brother it was that brought horror into their midst.

Now it happened that there lived in Windham two colonial colonels, big men and dignified, by names Dyer and Elderkin. It may do no harm at this late day to say that both these military titled gentlemen were more fond of good living, so the story goes, than was perhaps exactly consistent with the strictest Puritan thought. Some of the elders of the place, it is said, looked a bit askance at some of the views of Colonels Dyer and Elderkin. There were slaves in that day in Connecticut and Windham held its share.

One peaceful night in May the Windham families retired at their usual hour, not long after "candle light." At midnight they were wrapped in the profoundest slumber, but no sleep however sound could withstand the roar that broke upon that peaceful hamlet in the watches of the night. There were blended the noises of a million throats. It was guttural, harsh and horrible, and it came out of the jetty blackness of midnight. The people of Windham jumped from their beds panic stricken, threw on what clothes they could, and rushed outdoors, many bearing pine torches, which ate little light holes in the inky blackness.

The slaves were prostrated with fear and clung to the knees of their masters. The noise ceased not for an instant, but on the contrary increased with every moment, and then, to the added horror of all, the noise found shape in words which one quick-eared, imaginative woman interpreted into this, all but two of the people accepting the interpretation readily: "Dudge-out-dar; Judgment day; Colonel Dyer and Elderkin too, and catch a nigger too."

It is perhaps needless to say that the only two people among the white inhabitants of Windham who did not thoroughly accept the interpretation were Colonels Dyer and Elderkin. In a few minutes the light of the torches showed an immense concourse of toads or frogs, whichever they were, bearing down the main street of the town, croaking and "glucking" like a myriad of night demons. It suddenly struck the people that if Judgment day was at hand, notwithstanding the fact that Colonels Dyer and Elderkin seemed to have been singled out by the visitors, the day of accounting according to the Bible was an all-embracing affair, and thereat all the Windham people started trembling violently.

There are living today a good many persons who are direct descendants of the Colonel Elderkin whom the batrachians called to judgment that night. In Chicago until recently there lived a Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Norris, a direct descendant of Colonel Elderkin. Mrs. Norris had heard the story of the invasion of the village a score of times from the lips of her grandmother, who as a child was taken time after time to see the place from which the night disturbers came. To the days of their deaths Colonels Dyer and Elderkin were called Frog Dyer and Frog Elderkin, and if local Connecticut authorities are to be believed, there has not been seen from that day to this either a toad or a frog in the meadow and pond from which started that midnight migration.

To get away, for a moment, from frogs and toads, and in order to lead back to them again, let it be said that out in Utah the gull is a carefully protected bird. Olive Thorne Miller speaks of them as "great, beautiful, snowy creatures who look strangely out of place so far from the seashore." I have been told that these gulls are sacredly protected by the law and the people of the western state, and I have also been told that the early settlers, the Mormons, believed that the Lord has sent the birds to his chosen people.

It is no wonder that it was believed the gulls were specially sent. Clouds of grasshoppers had destroyed the crops in that early day in many of the western territories. They attacked Utah by the million millions. Then it was that the gulls appeared—birds never before seen in that locality within the memory of man. They came in tremendous flocks and devoured without stopping the hosts of the enemy, and they completely saved the crops from destruction. Now the gulls follow the plains like chickens, and in Utah at least, it is said that no one has any desire to raise his hand against them.

What the gull was to Salt Lake region the toad was to one section of a northwest Texas county, some time ago. There was but a comparatively small area of the county under cultivation, but the growing things were threatened with destruction by a horde of Rocky Mountain locusts; then there appeared to the astonished gaze of the resident Texans an army of toads, before which in numbers the great army of Xerxes was but as a score. These dismal-looking, warty-backed Hop-o'-my-thumbs came along as on business bent. They said nothing and they ate grasshoppers. They cleaned up utterly one entire flight of the creatures. And they quietly sat under the cabbage leaves and beet tops to wait for more. They didn't come. The toads had saved the crops, and it may be judged that if one wants to be certain to get in a quarrel he can get it if he will go that section of Texas and malign a toad.

Should anyone be inclined to doubt the insect-eating capabilities of a common every-day American toad, let him listen to the evidence of an experimenter, who is at once a scientist and a clergyman, the one fact establishing his accuracy and the other his veracity. This theologue-naturalist, as the record shows, found a toad in his garden and proceeded to make a pet of it. He went to call on master toad one morning about ten o'clock and without knowing how many insects already had fallen before the toad's darting tongue, proceeded to feed him on plant pests. The toad ate readily and greedily twenty-three large squash bugs which were offered him, and then looked up inquiringly for more.

The squash bug larder was depleted, so the clergyman turned his attention to caterpillars. Of these hairy, repulsive creatures the toad ate ninety-four, so the story record goes, and then he shut down to hop heavily off to a shady corner to take that rest which it is said aids animal digestion.

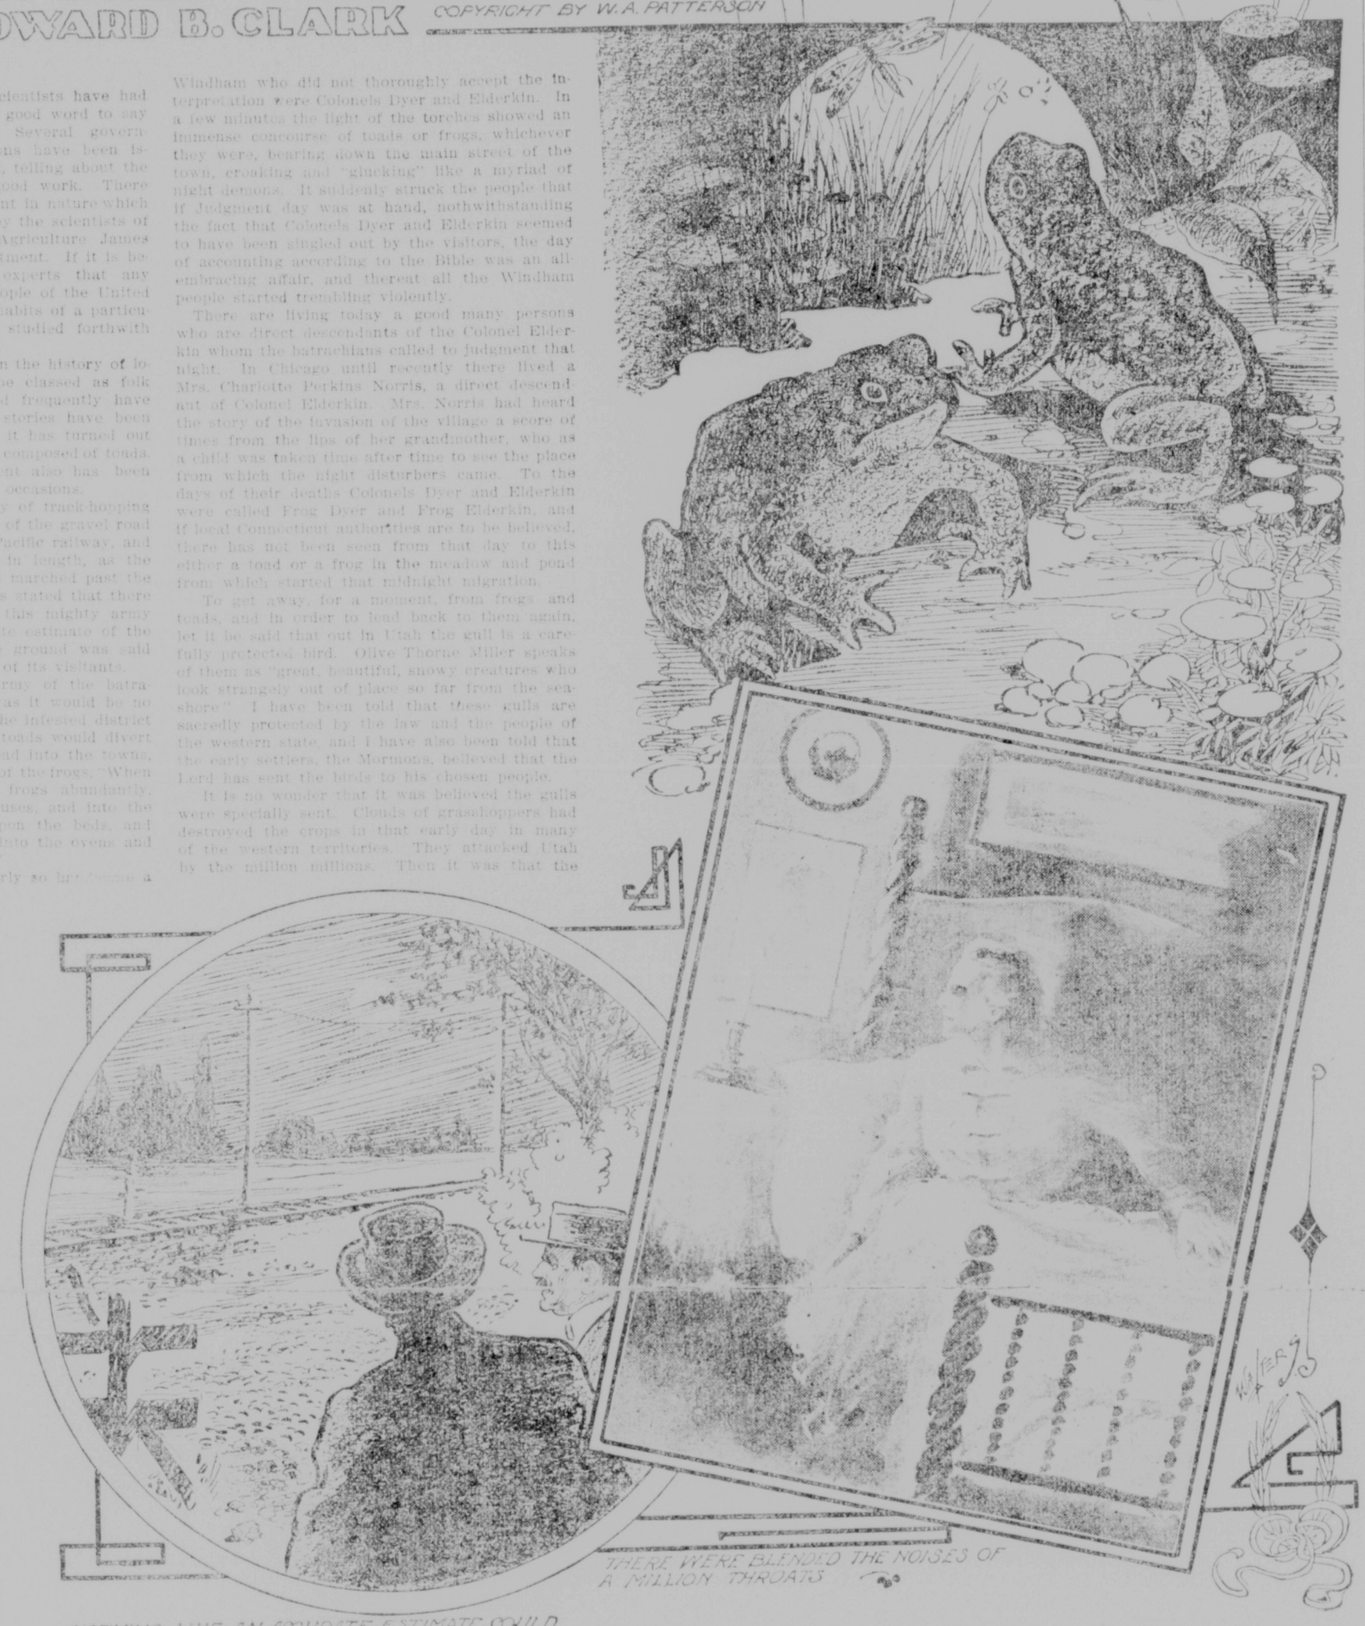
Now this same experimenter tells tales of toads which might appear a bit overdrawn, were not the gentleman's cloth what it is. He took in his experiments with one toad some large "tangle-legged" grasshoppers. Master toad took kindly to this species of food, but owing to to the nature of the insect's legs and their extreme length he found difficulty in swallowing. In order to aid in the process, as soon as he would get a firm grip on the grasshopper he would look for a stick or a stone by means of pushing against which he could force his prey down his throat. Now in order to see what the toad would do if no stone or stick were at hand, all of these articles were removed from his vicinity, and then he was fed another big grasshopper with great knotted legs.

Now it must be remembered that the present writer is not vouching for this toad story; he is simply setting it down as it has been told by an observer, and if it is a "nature fake" the blame must go elsewhere. The toad, finding he could not swallow the big grasshopper, looked about as usual for a stone and, finding none, he attempted to use the ground as a pusher. He was unable to get the right angle to secure sufficient force, and so as a last and perfectly effective means, he stood on his head and without the least difficulty forced his food down his throat.

This toad unquestionably was a wonder. One day, we are told, he happened to find an angleworm of great length. He took hold of one end and succeeded in swallowing about an inch and a half of the worm, which then realizing its danger apparently, wound the rest of its body boa-like around the neck of the toad. This gave the worm leverage enough to enable it to tug away at that part which the toad already had swallowed. The result was that although by a mighty effort the toad could swallow about half an inch, the worm, when the relaxation came, succeeded in withdrawing three-quarters of an inch. The toad saw his breakfast slipping away from him, but his infinite wit came to his rescue. It is said that he sat up like a squirrel took one mighty swallow, and then before the worm could get in its withdrawing work, he pressed his fore feet against his throat and held the swallowed part of the breakfast in place; then, so the story goes, by a series of quick successive swallowing and throat squeezing, the toad soon had the worm in the dark interior where he was needed for breakfast.

Toad migrations are not extraordinarily uncommon events. They have taken place in many parts of the country, and once the toads in traveling succeeded in stalling a railroad train on the Canadian Pacific line. The story of this runs to the effect that the wheels crushed the creatures and so greased the rails that progress was impossible for some time. The passengers said that they could have stood the situation more philosophically if the blockaders had been frogs, for then the question of the food supply would have been settled for a lot of hungry people. Frogs' legs make good eating.

It is not generally known, perhaps, to the layman that toads, like frogs, lay their eggs in the water. Countless millions of eggs will be deposited in some morass. They hatch out, the young get big enough, and migrate in a body to the dry land, sometimes going long distances as an outfit. These, it is said, are the marching armies of toads which astonish people and accounts of which are spread broadcast over the earth.



NOTHING LIKE AN ACCURATE ESTIMATE COULD BE MADE

THERE WERE BLENDED THE NOISES OF A MILLION THROATS

Straw Hats and Autos

"You might scarcely think," said Mr. Mac-Blink, "that there was anything in common between straw hats and automobiles, but by that way of thinking you'd be surely forgetting their cost of upkeep, in which respect they are strikingly alike.

"They say it costs more to keep an automobile than it does to buy one; precisely the same is true of the straw hat. You take my own experience for an illustration.

"Early in the season I bought a straw hat for which I paid $2. I know a place where you can get a very good straw hat for that money, and if it hadn't rained all summer I should have been on the straw hat account under no additional expense.

"But it always does rain more or less, just as it has done this summer, and as is very well known if a drop of rain gets on a straw hat it is all up. Raindrops on a straw hat will accumulate dust, and then you have to have the hat cleaned, and that costs money; in some places 25 cents; in some 15.

"I find by reference to my books that I have paid out this summer in straw hat account for upkeep only $2.50, which is a good deal. While the automobile man has been spending his money for gasoline and things I have been blowing mine for hat cleaning, and it has cost me more to keep that hat going than it cost me originally.

"But in this I find some slight satisfaction. In this respect at least I find myself on the same footing with the man who at the beginning of the season bought instead of a straw hat an automobile."

NOT CUT OUT FOR SOLDIER

Widow Healy Indulges In Some Plain Speaking to Her Devoted but Timid Lover.

The courting of the Widow Healy by Terence Corcoran was a tedious affair to every one in Magraw place, most of all to the widow herself, who tried various expedients to assist her timid admirer.

"I'm thinking I might go for a sojer," Terence announced one night, when his fancy had been stirred by a newspaper account of a military pageant. "I'm not so old but I could do it. I was wanst in a school regiment."

"You go for a sojer!" cried the Widow Healy in mingled scorn and alarm. "A man that calls on a lone widow for two years and more, without pluck enough to spake his mind, hasn't the makings of a drummer boy in him."

BABY'S SKIN TORTURE

"When our baby was seven weeks old he broke out with what we thought was heat, but which gradually grew worse. We called in a doctor. He said it was eczema and from that time we doctored six months with three of the best doctors in Atchison but he only got worse. His face, head and hands were a solid sore. There was no end to the suffering for him. We had to tie his little hands to keep him from scratching. He never knew what it was to sleep well from the time he took the disease until he was cured. He kept us awake all hours of the night and his health wasn't what you would call good. We tried everything but the right thing.

"Finally I got a set of the Cuticura Remedies and I am pleased to say we did not use all of them until he was cured. We have waited a year and a half to see if it would return but it never has and to-day his skin is clear and fair as it possibly could be. I hope Cuticura may save some one else's little ones suffering and also their pocket-books. John Lenson, 1403 Atchison St., Atchison, Kan., Oct. 19, 1909."

HER FIRST PROPOSAL.

Ethel—Was she glad when he told her the old, old story?

Marjorie—You bet she was. Why, that girl never heard it before.

Love's Crime.

George was a manly fellow, yet, surprising as it may seem, he was guilty of a grave charge, a criminal offense—theft, for had he not many times stolen kisses from his fair sweetheart?

Maude, one of the most lovable of girls, was equally guilty as an accessory; she received the stolen property. Each seemed to have perfect confidence in the other, however, and when sentence was pronounced by a properly qualified official, they decided to serve their time together.

They remained loyal to the end, neither making any effort to have their sentence abrogated or shortened, but during the course of their long term together several small offenses were directly chargeable to them.—J. W. B. in Puck.

I hold it indeed to be a sure sign of a mind not poised as it ought to be if it be insensible to the pleasures of home.—Lex.

"The Smack" of the "Snack"

Post Toasties and Cream

A wholesome, ready-cooked food which youngsters, and older folks thoroughly enjoy.

Let them have all they want. It is rich in nourishment and has a winning flavour—

"The Memory Lingers"

POSTUM CEREAL CO., LTD., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

Entered at the Postoffice in Oakland, Md., as Second-class matter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

The Republican is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year.....$1.25
One copy six months..... .75
One copy three months..... .40

Advertising Rates made known upon Application.

Remittances may be made by Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft and addressed to

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1910.

For Congress, Sixth Congressional District.

BRAINARD H. WARNER, JR.,
Of Montgomery County.

NOT DISCOURAGED

The Baltimore Sun follows up its one-sided arguments sent down to it by a staff correspondent who paid a flying visit here and who after very superficial observation cast an unanimous vote for Lewis, the Democratic candidate, at the same time predicting defeat for Warner, the Republican nominee, by the assertion, made editorially yesterday, that the "Republicans are discouraged in the Sixth District."

This theory, for it is only such, is so gauzy that it hardly needs controvertion; so baseless, that it will float away into nothingness without recourse to extended argument, for harmony and a combined purpose looking towards assured success has strengthened the Republicans in the Sixth Maryland District as never before, when with wrangles and dissensions being waged among certain factions—now dissolved mutually—the Republicans still carried the district regularly as clockwork, so much so, that the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland became known, as it is today, as the Gibraltar of Maryland Republicans. Ten weeks ago, the Sun might have argued, Democratic expectations were based upon the belief that there might have been irreparable dissension in the Republican party in the Sixth—which might have led to a certain form of discouragement, as has been the case in other states over issues on which party sentiment was more or less divided. But all this was ended with the nomination of Warner—a candidate who [illegible] drawn to him every section—every [illegible] section, it [illegible] must be used, of the Sixth District Republicans, who, far from being discouraged at the outlook, have the utmost confidence in the election of their candidate. They view the outcome of the election with equanamity because they know that in Mr. Warner they have nominated a man who is individually strong as well as politically, and in endorsing him, in working for him shoulder to shoulder, they can afford to ignore the theory of a political organ which is never without a reason for the faith that is in it, even though it be a shadowy reason such as the one used by the Sun to base its arguments—discouragement in the Republican ranks.

If the Sun can properly and consistently point out any reason for discouragement in the Republican ranks of the Sixth District, we will give it due consideration. The Republicans are united and entirely satisfied with their candidate Brainard H. Warner, Jr. The Sixth District, represented in Congress for two decades by Republicans, is populous and prosperous. With the exception of 1890 and 1892, when the Democrats elected W. M. McKaig, the district has been surely Republican by a large and growing majority. Where now then is there any reason for discouragement? Where or upon what can the Democrats place their claims for victory for their party?

The Sun bases some of its claims on "discouragement" upon the dissatisfaction of the people here because of the increased cost of living. Those who are to do the deciding next month at the election—the voters—are everywhere alive to the hypocrisy and humbuggery of the "tariff-for-revenue-only preachment of the compaign literature which is fostered by the Sun and the Democratic party. All hypocrisy and humbuggery! All claims made to bolster up a lost cause!

As election day approaches, every sign of discord has vanished in the Sixth Maryland District among the Republicans and, with a candidate, Brainard H. Warner, Jr., the selection of the Republican party—the combined Republican party—there is no possible room or a reason for discouragement—except in the vapid and partisan utterances of the Sun, whose object in attempting to stir up something that dosen't exist among Republicans here will prove entirely futile. This is not a Democratic year for the Sixth Maryland District and one has to go back to the close of the war and the years following to find when it was a Democratic year, with the exception of the two terms served by Mr. McKaig, mentioned herein. This year will prove that the Gibraltar of Republicanism is still the same rockbed, staunch and true to the principles advocated by the Republican party, whose standard-bearer, Brainard H. Warner, Jr., will, backed by a united, satisfied and confident people, carrry the flag once again to victory.—Cumberland News.

WARNER'S RESIDENCE

This silly talk by the Democratic press about Hon. Brainard H. Warner, Jr., the Republican candidate for Congress, being a resident of Washington because he happens to live within a day's journey of the District of Columbia from his home in Kensington, Montgomery county, Maryland, is growing exasperatingly ridiculous because of its persistence. By the same token is not David J. Lewis a resident of West Virginia because a three minute walk from his Cumberland home would find him in Ridgeley if his meanderings bore him in that direction? Or again if the logic of the Democracic press be pertinent, is Mr. Lewis eligible to a Democratic nomination, since but a few years ago he was allied with the Free Silver-Poplist party and previous to that had been a Republican? The people at this moment are directly concerned with Mr. Lewis' present political convictions and not what he professed to believe a few years ago, therefore his eligibility for the Democratic nomination stands unquestioned. So it is with Mr. Warner's place of residence. He did serve as United States consul to Leipzig, Germany, for a period of six years, but for all that he retained his citizenship and his permanent abode in Montgomery county, Maryland, which is just as much a part and parcel of the Sixth Maryland Congressional District as is our own county of Garrett.

The Republicans of the Sixth District are not to be deluded or turned aside by false declarations of Mr. Warner's residence without the district. This falsehood has been given emphatic and convincing denial weeks ago. Mr. Warner is registered and has voted the Republican ticket in Montgomery county since attaining his majority and if he were not a bona fide resident with the attendant electoral privileges, the Democratic supervisors of election of Montgomery county would have stricken him from the list of registered voters long since, depend upon it.

OCTOBER'S COMMISSION.

It is pleasant to turn from the interminable subject of the duties and obligations laid upon men to the commissions given by Nature to the seasons. The summer has been enfolded in the drooping petals of the rose; it has vanished with the warmth and strength of the sun. It has flown on the pinions of the far-soaring birds of passage. It is gone. Yet the commission it received when the luscious days of June came in the wake of spring has been well fulfilled. It was a commission to robe the earth in the beauty of the vernal sward, to create the phantasy of the drowsy woods. It was sent forth to tell the brooks and the rivers that to dance and laugh through the days is not the only duty they have, but to water the soil that it might bring forth bud, blossom and fruitage, so that the summer has passed with an excellent record.

October, mild-eyed and veiled in mist, has come. Figured emblematically in the turning leaf, in the full sheaf, in the golden rod, in the migration of birds, it is supremely entertaining. The air is soft and the quick chill of eventide is succeeded by a deeper tinge of cold as night settles down, to be followed by the opening of the new day with the dawn of warmth, mellow and soothing—not heat producing, but suggestive of the time at hand when the chestnut burrs will open and roll out the brown nuts from their prickly prison, suggestive as well of the golden and russet and red-cheeked winter apples, of the pumpkins ripening in the fields. October appears to be the spirit of dreamland. It moves the inner fluids of the tissues, it brings a soporific calm to the body, it seems to instil a sense of all is right with the world. To some it forebodes melancholy. It brings to the soul the reflective and meditative state of uncertainty and disquiet, but persons so affected are out of harmony with the true commission of October.

The golden month of the year is sent forth by Dame Nature to bring to the world the message of completion. It has its mission to bring the chapters of the spring and summer to the finish. It is the climatic month, when the lover of nature who has been following its changful forms finds the action of the play of the seasons become as slow and mystical as a Greek chorus. It is the month for the bearing of the trees and the deepening of the folds in the skins of the fur-bearing animals. It is the month of conservation. It does not hold alone the place of conserving the products of summer. It is not alone in provision for man and beast the grain, the bulbs, the roots and the berries. With November it shares the recessional part in the antiphonal chorus of the year. October, however, is the magnificat of the months. Those who are uplifted by October until praise thrills their being and the spirit becomes tense with the longing to abandon the forms of contentional life and merge with Nature in all her gentle moods, as the marsh mist merges into the shade and sunlight of the short days, are truly children of the most magnanimous and bountiful month of the year—the month that tells so well the story of the common dependence of all living things upon the field and the forest.

The Grand Army Club of Maryland, which has a large membership in Western Maryland, adopted a resolution last Friday night heartily indorsing Mr. Brainard H. Warner, Jr., Republican candidate for Congress in the Sixth district. Here is the resolution, which bears the signature of General John R. King, president of the club and Captain Robert S. Sunstrom, recording secretary.

WHEREAS the candidate for Congress in the Sixth district of Maryland is a son of a veteran and, as well as his father, is a member of this club, and,

WHEREAS, this club is organized for the purpose of looking after the interests of the old soldiers and of taking such part in political matters as will forward such interests, therefore

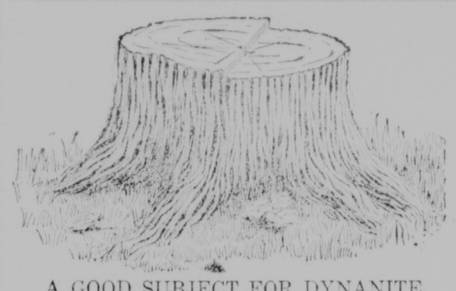
RESOLVED, That the Grand Army Club of Maryland indorse the candidacy of Mr. Brainard H. Warner, Jr., for member of the House of Representatives from the Sixth district of Maryland and appeal to all the members of this club especially and to all old soldiers and sons of veterans residing in that district to earnestly support Mr. Warner and work heartily to forward his election.

A Good Position

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the county there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph Institute operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and Wireless officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Cincinnati, O., or Philadelphia, Pa.

29-5t e. o. w.

J. M. DAVIS & SONS.



A GOOD SUBJECT FOR DYNANITE.

DU PONT

Red Cross Dynamite

Dupont No. 6. Blasting Caps.

Victor No. 6 Electro Fuse.

and all kinds of Blasting Supplies.

YOU CAN BLOW OUT

STUMPS and BOULDERS easily, quickly and cheaply bo using

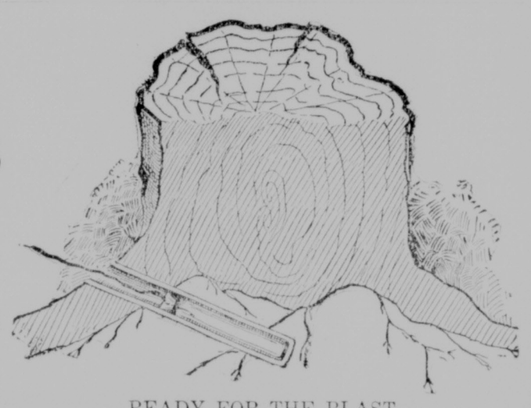
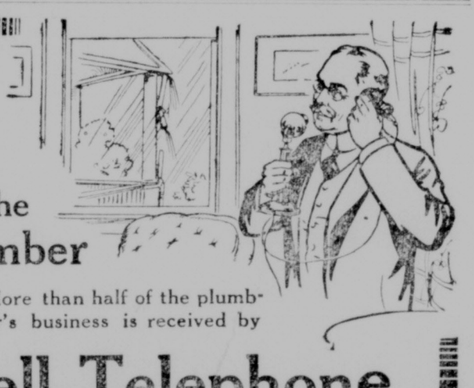
DU PONT

RED CROSS DYNAMITE.

Full line of DU PONT goods is handled by J. M. DAVIS & SONS, Oakland, Md., who will be pleased to furnish any data required and any information that may be needed.



READY FOR THE BLAST.



A Call for the Plumber

More than half of the plumber's business is received by

Bell Telephone

Yet the plumber is only one. The builder, the merchant and tradesmen in general are easily and quickly reached. If you are still without this convenience of Bell Service, call the Business Office to-day.

D. P. DAVIS,
Agent,
Keyser, West Va.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany County.

Stands First among the State Banks of Maryland

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and open an account with us.

JAMES M. SLOAN, President. DUNCAN R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

Capital - $50,000
DEPOSITS, - $175,000

The First National Bank

Friendsville, Md.

Surplus Fund, . $26,000
Undivided Profits 6,000

OFFICERS:

L. E. FRIEND, President,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Vice-Pres't
R. C. McCANDLISH, Vice-Pres't
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier

DIRECTORS:

L. E. FRIEND, Merchant,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Lumber and Coal
W. W. SAVAGE, Merchant,
D. S. CUSTER, Merchant,
H. M. RUMBAUGH, Farmer,
W. H. H. FRIEND, Pension Agent and Surveyor,
HORACE R. DEWITT, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCANDLISH,
JOHN T. GEARY.

THREE GOOD THINGS TO KEEP: Your Temper Your Secrets Your Money

Your money kept with us will earn you 4 Per Cent. Interest compounded semi-annually. Keep it here and after a while it will keep you.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.

Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
F. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, F. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

No New Quarters and Halves.

There will be no supply of bright new quarters and half dollars for shopkeepers to hand over their counters at holiday time this year.

Requests for 1910 coins of that denomination are already coming through the banks to the Treasury Department. The banks say their large customers demand the new coins at holiday time for advertising purposes, and that women shoppers in particular trade where they can get them.

It is because the Treasury has a stock of $20,000,000 in quarters and half dollars on hand in the vaults that it has been decided not to coin any new ones this year. The mints soon will be busy to their full capacity coining gold which will be needed to meet the increasing demand for gold certificates.—Washington Post.

I have some great bargains in farm and town properties. It will pay you to call and see me before buying. Farms from $600 to $40,000. Town properties from $1,000 to $10,000. One excellent 7 room house, gas and steam heat, desirable location in Oakland; best bargain at $2500.

E. S. WEST,
Real Estate and Insurance.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

This is to give notice that the firm of Cuppett & Lytle, doing a general merchandise business in the town of Sang Run, Md., has this day been dissolved by mutual consent.

CUPPETT & LYTLE.

Sang Run, Md., Oct. 11, 1910.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, Maryland, letters of administration on the estate of

SAMUEL B. SANDOE,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 16th day of March, 1911, they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 15th day of September, 1910.

F. G. TROUT,
Administrator,
Kitzmiller, Md.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., Oct. 25, 1910.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on Wednesday, Nov. 9th, 1910,

for the purpose of transacting all routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

FOR SALE CHEAP—A Durham cow; 7 years old; will be sold cheap. Apply to S. A. Smith, Crellin. 27-3t

ORDER NISI.

James A. Sincell vs. Mary Laraway and Albert B. Laraway, Mortgagors.
No. 1090 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered this 12th day of September, in the year nineteen hundred and ten, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in equity, that the sale made and reported in the above cause by Edward H. Sincell, attorney, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 14th day of October, 1910; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week, for three successive weeks before the 7th day of October, 1910.

The report states the amount of sale to be $1525.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—Test,
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

CHOICE REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

At Loch Lynn Heights

No. 9—Well established general mercantile stand. Buyer has option on both stock and building or may purchase stock and lease building.

At Mountain Lake Park

No. 10—Gentleman's country estate. Farm of 105 acres, best in Garrett county; practically all under cultivation; everything modern and up-to-date; large barn and house brand new with city improvements; excellent running water. Price $12,000.

No. 6. 50 Acres $4,000.

7 acres wood, balance in cultivation; good new 6 room house; small barn and all other necessary outbuilding; good water handy; fine young orchard of about 120 trees; ½ mile to church and school; 2 miles from Mt. Lake Park. Worth investigating.

No. 7. 100 Acres $3,500.

50 acres in cultivation; 50 acres timber; buildings old; good spring; good young orchard; 1 mile to school and church; 1 mile to Mt. Lake Park.

No. 13. 65½ Acres.

2½ miles from Mt. Lake Park; good house, small barn; watered with springs and creek. Bargain.

Other properties listed are not advertised here. For particulars address

M. M. SCHROCK, Agent,
Mt. Lake Park, Md.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF

The Garrett National Bank

of Oakland, Maryland.

At the close of business Sept. 1, 1910.

Resources

Loans and Discounts,	$321,213.81
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured,	5.86
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation,	50,000.00
Bonds, Securities, etc.,	143,255.00
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures,	14,500.00
Due from other Banks,	1,071.67
Due from approved Reserve Agents,	88,974.32
Redemption Fund, (5 per cent. of circulation),	2,500.00
Cash on hand,	33,429.19
Total,	$654,949.85

Liabilities

Capital Stock,	$ 50,000.00
Surplus Fund,	45,000.00
Undivided Profits,	1,077.83
Circulation	49,000.00
Due to other Banks,	9,411.54
Deposits,	500,460.48
Total,	$654,949.85

The best laughing show booked at the Opera Hosue this season is Sis Perkins.

Dr. R. A. Ravenscroft, of Baltimore, spent last Friday in Oakland on business.

Senator H. J. Speicher, of Accident, was in the city a few hours Monday on business.

Miss Flo White, after a visit of a day or two to Cumberland friends, returned to Oakland this morning.

Mrs. Calvin Echard, who was on a visit to relatives and friends in Berlin, Pa., has returned to her home in Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard I. Gonder, of Butte, Montana, arrived in Oakland this morning to visit relatives and friends.

Attorneys George W. Legge and Stuart F. Hamill were in Parkersburg, W. Va., last Thursday and Friday on professional business.

Mrs. John F. White left Oakland Tuesday morning for Pittsburg where she will be the guest for several weeks of her daughter, Mrs. Browning.

It's an old saying the more you laugh the longer you live. See Sis Perkins at the Opera House next Wednesday night and you will never die.

Dr. Webster Ravenscroft has purchased a larger and more powerful Maxwell automobile from the agents, having received his new machine Saturday.

Lost—Thursday, the 13th inst., on the road between William Browning's and Swallow Falls, a long, light tan coat. Reward if returned to Sincell's store, Oakland. 2t

Patrick Kildow, U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kildow, returned to Fortress Monroe Sunday afternoon after spending a ten day's furlough with his parents in Oakland.

Subscribe for The Republican.

Rev. J. B. Workman, who spent two days in Oakland on business connected with the publishing of the Conference journal of the M. E. church, returned to his home Friday morning.

Mrs. Joseph White and two children and Miss Dora Brown, who spent two weeks in New York city as the guests of Mrs. Adam Kline, returned to Oakland Monday morning.

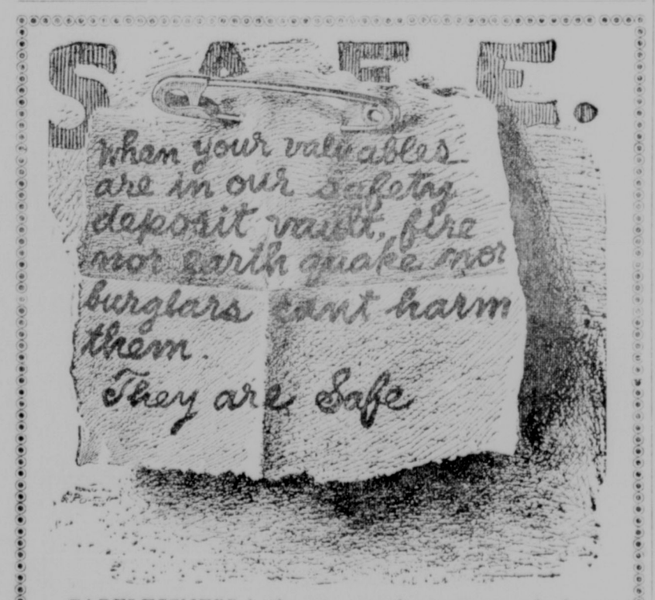
Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Naylor and children, who were on an extended visit to relatives and friends in Berkely county, W. Va., and Washington county, Md., returned home last Thursday afternoon.

The Mountain City Band tendered Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Goss a serenade Monday evening, the couple having returned to Oakland from their honeymoon that morning. The band rendered several selections very admirably.

Wallace Smouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smouse, is suffering with an attack of appendicitis, having been taken ill a week ago. His condition is such, however, that his attending physician hopes to effect a cure without having to resort to an operation.

A clean and refreshing comedy that has made more people laugh than any play ever produced. Bring the old folks. They enjoy a good laugh, and they will enjoy more fun looking at Sis Perkins than any show they have ever seen. At the Opera House, Wednesday, evening, Oct. 26.

Mr. Gilmor S. Hamill left for Chicago, Ill., Tuesday afternoon from which city he will accompany Mrs. Hamill and their son Byrne, home, whose conditon has improved to such an extent as to permit of his removal from the hospital at Des Moines, Iowa, where he has been confined several weeks suffering with an attack of sciatic rheumatism.



CARELESSNESS is the reason why many people do not put their valuables—jewels, heirlooms, notes, deeds, wills—into our safe deposit vaults. ARE YOU CARELESS? Our vaults are absolutely safe against fire and burglars and it will only cost you $2.00 and up to rent a box in our safety deposits vaults for a whole year. Then you can sleep well or leave home knowing you are safe against fire and the burglars.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
OAKLAND, MD.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

The only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

No Alum, No Lime Phosphate

Dr. R. B. Ward, of Cameron, arrived in Oakland Monday afternoon and expects to have his family here the latter part of the week when they will occupy the residence vacated yesterday by Dr. Reed, who moved into the Fraley property on Oak street, which hereafter will be known as the superintendent's residence.

Messrs. Fred. A. Thayer and E. H. Sincell, of Oakland, who in company with Messrs. Wilson and Chaffey, of Elkins, W. Va., were on a business trip through the Southwest, returned to Oakland Tuesday evening. The gentlemen visited Oklahoma, Indian Territory and other sections of the country and were within six miles of the Texas border.

A driving horse belonging to the Kelly livery in Oakland dropped dead while being driven through Mountain Lake Park Sunday afternoon. The animal was a handsome black and it is presumed that having been frightened by a passing automobile it suffered an attack of heart disease and died instantly. The the valuation of the horse was $125.

Mr. G. A. Fraley, who recently disposed of his dwelling house to the Methodists as a residence for the district superintendent of the Oakland district, is having his household goods removed to the Episcopal rectory which he has rented for the coming winter months. In the spring Mr. Fraley expects to build on a lot on Second street.

Rev. E. Manges, pastor, and Mr. E. G. Naylor, delegate, representing the Lutheran congregation of Oakland left on Monday afternoon for Smithburg, Washington county, where they are attending the Synod of Maryland. They expect to be absent until the early part of next week. The body of Lutherans represented in the Synod include all those of Maryland, Eastern West Virginia and Southern Pennsylvania.

At the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners held last week the work of building the retaining walls and approaches to the court house by Contractor W. A. Liller was taken off his hands and a draft for the amount of the contract price was given him. The grounds around the building have been symetrically graded and placed in the finest condition possible and present a handsome appearance. The fact that the two handsome maple trees growing on the lawn had to be removed is regrettable, but this was necessary in order to make the grade possible.

Mr. J. A. Kelly, the proprietor of the Kelly livery stable in Oakland, has advertised a sale of fifty head of horses, a number of them being half-bred Belgian and Percheron colts, wagons, harness, etc., to take place at his stable on Saturday, October 29th, at 10 o'clock. Mr. John A. Post, of Washington, Pa., will be the auctioneer. Among the horses to be sold will be four teams of heavy draft animals. Some excellent bargains may be secured by those desiring horses if they attend this sale, which, if successful, will be followed by others of like nature in the very near future.

Public Sale Saturday October 29, 1910

At their farm six miles from Oakland on the Cranesville road, commencing at 10 a. m., we will offer for sale to the highest bidder all the following personal property consisting of 30 head of Cattle, principally Durham and Polangus stock, described as 6 milk cows, 11 head of two-year-old cattle, 7 head of yearling, 1 four-year-old Bull and 6 Calves; 1 Bay Mare nine years old, 1 Bay Horse six years old, 1 Gray Horse four years years old, 70 head of Sheep, 1 large brood sow, 1 male hog, 8 Shoats, weighing from 75 to 100 lbs. 2 Bee Stands, a lot of Chickens. A big assortment of farm implements consisting of 1 Milwaukee Reaper good as new, 1 Grain Drill, 1 2 horse Troy road wagon, 1 2 seat carriage, 2 bob sleds, 1 buggy, plows, cultivators, mower, hay rake, hay fork, complete fanning mill, 1 double set work harness, 1 double set buggy harness, 1 single set, saddle bridle and many other things too numerous to mention. A lot of feed consisting of 35 tons of hay, 10 tons of Straw, 400 shocks of fodder and all the grain raised on the farm this season, such as oats, wheat, corn, buckwheat, potatoes, also a lot of household goods, such as stoves, beds, sewing machine, couch, telephone, chairs, rockers, kitchen ware, etc; also a lot of dairy fixtures such as cream separator, churn, crocks and jars.

Terms of Sale—All sums under $5 cash on day of sale; all over $5 a credit of six months will be given, with approved security bearing interest at 6 per cent.

Terms of sale to be complied with before goods are removed from premises.

J. M. FALKENSTEIN,
H. V. LEIGHTON.

A Number of Minor Accidents.

Tuesday was a day of accidents and started off early in the morning when Thayne White, U. S. Express delivery agent, was thrown from his wagon and received a number of bruises, the most serious being a badly sprained knee. He has been confined to his home since the occurrence.

Later in the day C. W. Gibson, of Mountain Lake Park, got his thumb mixed up with a chain on his wagon tongue, which resulted in a bad laceration as well as painful wound.

Dominico Taschino, an Italian workman on the B. & O., had several toe cut off when his foot was run over by a car of the train upon which he was employed. Dr. Henry W. McComas rendered surgical aid to all of the above.

"Sis Perkins."

There is so much that is good in the rural comedy drama, "Sis Perkins," that no one wonders at the unusual success that has been accorded to the play. Its realistic pictures of country life appeal to all classess, for in it is found comedy and pathos, laughter and tears. It is clean and wholesome; its humor is crisp and quaint, and its bits of homely philosophy are remembered and laughed at over and again.

The presentation of this famous play at Beckwith's Opera House next Wednesday night, will introduce a carefully selected company, and the engagement promises to be a record breaker.

Call for Your Letters.

Mrs. C. W. Chandler, N. J. Amick, Bomistam Stempa, Albert Sivisler, Mrs. Harry M. Shaffer, T. J. Bymr.

FRIENDSVILLE.

Still dry weather, but fine for the time of year, beans, tomatoes, etc., still growing in the gardens and no flowers yet killed by frost.

C. C. Frederick is home for a few days.

Amster Friend, our genial assistant station agent, with his family, are moving into the McCandlish property on Maple street this week.

Again this week several hundred sheep were shipped away from this town.

F. G. Fox lost a very valuable cow, by being run over by the B. & O. train while coming from Kendall, just a short distance from the depot, on Saturday. Some who saw the accident thought the train could have been stopped before it ran on the cow, if the crew has wanted to do so.

Miss Mary Neil left for Accident on Saturday to spend a few days.

An automobile went through town Saturday night so fast that we should have thought it a comet or meteor, but for the dust and gasoline smell it left behind.

Rev. Zimmerman of Accident, was in town on business on Saturday.

C. V. Guard bought the "chute the chute" from the Knights of Pythias and stored it away last week.

Miss Margaret Snyder who was reported sick last week we learn has a bad case of the measles. Her room in the school has been closed until she is again able to teach.

Mrs. John Carlson left a note for her husband when he returned from work on Thursday, saying she intended leaving him for good. She left for Pittsburg, we understand, after buying a lot of clothing and millinery and having it charged to her husband.

E. C. W. Ryland's family have been down with the measles this last week.

Ross Garletts is a visitor to our city.

The hotel has been crowded most of the week. Space forbids us giving a list of the guests.

Mrs. Leon Hardie returned last week from a visit to her home in Virginia.

These are the days when our band can get in a good many hours practice and we expect soon to hear them giving a concert.

When we see the water rushing the race and turning the machinery thro, and notice the mighty power we wonder why it is that the people of our town and vicinity don't get together and form a Board of Trade and try and get some manufacturieg concerns to locate here. Water power we have in abundance, coal is to be had for steam purposes and all that is needed is a little push to get people interested. We have also lime stone in vast quantities. What could not be made from the resources around here?

Church Services.

ST PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
Preaching 10:45 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Epworth League Monday 7:30 p. m.
Prayermeeting Wednesday p. m. 7:30
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

G. R. WILLIAMSON, Pastor.

ST. MATTHEW'S P. E.

Service every Sunday at 11 a. m.
Sunday School at 2:30 p. m.

W. H. SHEARER

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Ferndale—Preaching at 11 a. m.
Loch Lynn—Preaching at 7:30 p. m.
Everybody invited.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

A full line of Gas Ranges, Heaters, Hot Plates, Inverted and Upright Lights. Call and see us. S. Lawtont & Sons.

ESTABLISHED 1884.

Will you allow us to talk "ROOFING" to you. We have kinds and at any price.

TARRED ROOFINGS—
1, 2 and 3 ply.

RUBBER ROOFINGS—
2 and 3 ply, double and single rolls.

AMETITE—
The superior of all Gravel Roofings.

CAREY'S ROOFING, (Best of All)—
Contains a heavy flexible body, a strong Calcutta burlap, woolen felt and other durable materials, all united into an indivisible weather and water proof sheet that lasts the life of the building.

SHEETING PAPER, NAILS AND CAPS.

Yours to please,

A. D. NAYLOR & CO.

PRICES RIGHT. BOTH PHONES

H. CREUTZBURG.

SEE MY FALL LINE OF

Dress Goods, Outing Flannels, Etc.

Ladies', Children's, Men's and Boys' Shoes.

Rain Coats for Ladies and Children. Rubber Boots & Shoes.

Full Line of MEN'S AND BOYS CLOTHING.

See my Special Pure Wool $10.00 Black Thibet Suits for Men

Prices Suits $2.50 and up.

Hand-Made[illegible]ion. [illegible]n Shoes for Men and Boys.

Full Line Gro[illegible] [illegible]rket in Connection,

ALL A[illegible]HT PRICE.

H. CREUTZBURG, Opp. P. O., Oakland, Md.

Pay Market Price for Produce.

Our Grocery Department

This department of Bolden, Brown & Weimer's Store is stocked to overflowing with dependable, fresh Groceries of every line and description. In fact our Grocery stock is so large and so varied that were we to undertake to mention a small portion of the many lines carried our advertisement would overrun the space set apart for it. Come, inspect the stock and we feel sure that we can fill every want.

A new department—our five and ten cent counters—has recently been added. Here you may purchase many suitable and dependable articles for less than one-half value.

BOLDEN, BROWN & WEIMER.

THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT 1908 BY BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

"Miss Armstrong Is Very Ill and Unable to See Any One."

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Innes, spinster and guardian of Gertrude and Halsey, established summer headquarters at Sunnyside. The servants desert. Gertrude and Halsey arrive with Jack Bailey. The house was awakened by a revolver shot and Arnold Armstrong was found shot to death in the hall. Miss Innes found Halsey's revolver on the lawn. He and Jack Bailey had disappeared. Gertrude revealed that she was engaged to Jack Bailey, with whom she talked in the billiard room shortly before the murder. Detective Jamieson accused Miss Innes of holding back evidence. He imprisoned an intruder in an empty room. The prisoner escaped. Gertrude was suspected because of an injured foot. Halsey reappears and says he and Bailey were called away by a telegram. Cashier Bailey of Paul Armstrong's bank, defunct, was arrested for embezzlement. Paul Armstrong's death was announced. Halsey's fiancee, Louise Armstrong, told Halsey that while she still loved him, she was to marry another. It developed that Dr. Walker was the man. Louise was found at the bottom of the circular staircase. Recovering consciousness, she said something had brushed by her on the stairway and she fainted. Bailey is suspected of Armstrong's murder. After "seeing a ghost," Thomas, the lodgekeeper, was found dead with a slip in his pocket bearing the name of "Lucien Wallace." Dr. Walker asked Miss Innes to vacate in favor of Mrs. Armstrong. She refused. A note from Bailey to Gertrude arranging a meeting at night was found. A ladder out of place deepens the mystery. The stables were burned. During the excitement a man stole into the house. A search failed to reveal him. Miss Innes shot an intruder. A man limping was seen on the road. Halsey mysteriously disappeared. Louise scenting danger before his absense was noted.

CHAPTER XXV.—Continued.

"He's as dear to me as he is to you," she said sadly. "I tried to warn him."

"Nonsense!" I said as briskly as I could. "We are making a lot of trouble out of something perhaps very small. Halsey was probably late—he is always late. Any moment we may hear the car coming up the road."

But it did not come. After a half-hour of suspense, Louise went out quietly, and did not come back. I hardly knew she was gone until I heard the station hack moving off. At 11 o'clock the telephone rang. It was Mr. Jamieson.

"I have found the Dragon Fly, Miss Innes," he said. "It has collided with a freight car on the siding above the station. No, Mr. Innes was not there, but we shall probably find him. Send Warner for the car."

But they did not find him. At four o'clock the next morning we were still waiting for news, while A[illegible] watched the house and Sam [illegible] grounds. At daylight I dropped [illegible] accounted gleep. Halsey had not [illegible] back and there was no word from the detective.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Halsey's Disappearance.

Mr. Jamieson came back about eight o'clock the next morning; he was covered with mud, and his hat was gone. Altogether we were a sad-looking trio that gathered around a breakfast that no one could eat. Over a cup of black coffee the detective told us what he had learned of Halsey's movements the night before. Up to a certain point the car had made it easy enough to follow him. And I gathered that Mr. Burns, the other detective, had followed a similar car for miles at dawn, only to find it was a touring car on an endurance run.

"He left here about ten minutes after eight," Mr. Jamieson said. "He went alone; at 8:20 he stopped at Dr. Walker's. I went to the doctor's about midnight, but he had been called out on a case, and had not come back at four o'clock. From the doctor's it seems Mr. Innes walked across the lawn to the cottage Mrs. Armstrong and her daughter have taken. Mrs. Armstrong had retired, and he said perhaps a dozen words to Miss Louise. She will not say what they were, but the girl evidently suspects what has occurred. That is, she suspects foul play, but she doesn't know of what nature. Then, apparently, he started directly for the station. Along somewhere in the dark stretch between Carol street and the depot he evidently swerved suddenly—perhaps some one in the road—and went full into the side of a freight. We found it there last night."

"He might have been thrown under the train by the force of the shock," I said tremulously.

Gertrude shuddered.

"We examined every inch of track. There was—no sign."

"But surely—he can't be—gone!" I cried. "Aren't there traces in the mud—anything?"

"There is no mud—only dust. There has been no rain. And the footpath there is of cinders. Miss Innes, I am inclined to think that he has met with bad treatment, in the light of what has gone before. I do not think he has been murdered." I shrank from the word. "Burns is back in the country on a clew we got from the night clerk at the drug store. There will be two more men here by noon, and the city office is on the lookout."

"The creek?" Gertrude asked.

"The creek is shallow now. If it were swollen with rain it would be different. There is hardly any water in it. Now, Miss Innes," he said, turning to me, "I must ask you some questions. Had Mr. Halsey any possible reason for going away like this, without warning?"

"None whatever."

"He went away once before," he persisted. "And you were as sure then."

"He did not leave the Dragon Fly jammed into the side of a freight car before."

"No, but he left it for repairs in a blacksmith shop, a long distance from here. Do you know if he had any enemies? Any one who might wish him out of the way?"

"Not that I know of, unless—no, I cannot imagine of any."

"Once. By the habit of carrying [illegible] J. Lewis [illegible] Virginia because a [illegible] carried it far. No, he his Cumberland [illegible]re than enough for cur-Ridgeley if his [illegible]."

[illegible] in that direction got up then and be[illegible] the room. It was an unwonted concession to the occasion.

"Then I think we get at it by elimination. The chances are against flight. If he was hurt, we find no trace of him. It looks almost like an abduction. This young Dr. Walker—have you any idea why Mr. Innes should have gone there last night?"

"I cannot understand it," Gertrude said thoughtfully. "I don't think he knew Dr. Walker at all, and—their relations could hardly have been cordial, under the circumstances."

Jamieson pricked up his ears, and little by little he drew from us the unfortunate story of Halsey's love affair, and the fact that Louise was going to marry Dr. Walker.

Mr. Jamieson listened attentively.

"There are some interesting developments here," he said thoughtfully. "The woman who claims to be the mother of Lucien Wallace has not come back. Your nephew has apparently been spirited away. There is an organized attempt being made to enter this house; in fact, it has been entered. Witness the incident with the cook yesterday. And I have a new piece of information." He looked carefully away from Gertrude. "Mr. John Bailey is not at his Knickerbocker apartments, and I don't know where he is. It's a hash, that's what it is. It's a Chinese puzzle. They won't fit together, unless—unless Mr. Bailey and your nephew have again—"

And once again Gertrude surprised me. "They are not together," she said hotly. "I—know where Mr. Bailey is, and my brother is not with him."

"Miss Gertrude," he said, "if you and Miss Louise would only tell me everything you know and surmise about this business, I should be able to do a great many things. I believe I could find your brother, and I might be able to—well, to do some other things." But Gertrude's glance did not falter.

"Nothing that I know could help you to find Halsey," she said stubbornly. "I know absolutely as little of his disappearance as you do, and I can only say this: I do not trust Dr. Walker. I think he hated Halsey, and he would get rid of him if he could."

"Perhaps you are right. In fact, I had some such theory myself. But Dr. Walker went out late last night to a serious case in Summitville, and is still there. Burns traced him there. We have made guarded inquiry at the Greenwood club and through the village. There is absolutely nothing to go on but this: On the embankment above the railroad, at the point where we found the machine, is a small house. An old woman and a daughter, who is very lame, live there. They say that they distinctly heard the shock when the Dragon Fly hit the car, and they went to the bottom of their garden and looked over. The automobile was there; they could see the lights, and they thought some one had been injured. It was very dark, but they could make out two figures, standing together. The women were curious, and, leaving the fence, they went back and by a roundabout path down to the road. When they got there the car was still standing, the headlight broken and the bonnet crushed, but there was no one to be seen."

The detective went away immediately, and to Gertrude and me was left the woman's part, to watch and wait. By luncheon nothing had been found, and I was frantic. I went upstairs to Halsey's room finally, from sheer inability to sit across from Gertrude any longer and meet her terror-filled eyes.

Liddy was in my dressing room, capriciously red-eyed and trying to put a right sleeve in a left arm-hole of a new waist for me. I was too much shaken to scold.

"What name did that woman in the kitchen give?" she demanded, viciously ripping out the offending sleeve.

"Bliss. Mattie Bliss," I replied.

"Bliss. M. B. Well, that's not what she has on her suitcase. It is marked N. F. C."

The new cook and her initials troubled me not all. I put on my bonnet and sent for what the Casanova liveryman called a "stylish turnout." Having once made up my mind to a course of action, I am not one to turn back. Warner drove me; he was plainly disgusted, and he steered the livery horse as he would the Dragon Fly, feeling uneasily with his left foot for the clutch, and working his right elbow at an imaginary horn every time a dog got in the way.

Warner had something on his mind, and after we had turned into the road he voiced it.

"Miss Innes," he said. "I overheard a part of a conversation yesterday that I didn't understand. It wasn't my business to understand it, for that matter. But I've been thinking all day that I'd better tell you. Yesterday afternoon, while you and Miss Gertrude were out driving, I had got the car in some sort of shape again after the fire, and I went to the library to call Mr. Innes to see it. I went into the living room, where Miss Liddy said he was, and half-way across the library I heard him talking to some one. He seemed to be walking up and down, and he was in a rage, I can tell you."

"What did he say?"

"The first thing I heard was—excuse me, Miss Innes, but it's what he said, 'The damned rascal,' he said. 'I'll see him in'—well, in hell was what he said, 'in hell first.' Then somebody else spoke up; it was a woman. She said: 'I warned them, but they thought I would be afraid.'"

"A woman! Did you wait to see who it was?"

"I wasn't spying, Miss Innes," Warner said with dignity. "But the next thing caught my attention. She said: 'I knew there was something wrong from the start. A man isn't well one day, and dead the next, without some reason.' I thought she was speaking of Thomas."

"And you don't know who it was!" I exclaimed. "Warner, you had the key to this whole occurrence in your hands and did not see it!"

However, there was nothing to be done. I resolved to make inquiry when I got home, and in the meantime, my present errand absorbed me. This was nothing less than to see Louise Armstrong, and to attempt to drag from her what she knew, or suspected of Halsey's disappearance. But here, as in every direction I turned, I was baffled.

A neat maid answered the bell, but she stood squarely in the doorway, and it was impossible to preserve one's dignity and pass her.

"Miss Armstrong is very ill and unable to see any one," she said. I did not believe her.

"And Mrs. Armstrong—is she also ill?"

"She is with Miss Louise and cannot be disturbed."

"Tell her it is Miss Innes, and that it is a matter of the greatest importance."

"It would be of no use, Miss Innes, my orders are positive."

At that moment a heavy step sounded on the stairs. Past the maid's white-strapped shoulder I could see a familiar thatch of gray hair, and in a moment I was face to face with Dr. Stewart. He was very grave, and his customary geniality was tinged with restraint.

"You are the very woman I want to see," he said promptly. "Send away your trap, and let me drive you home. What is this about your nephew?"

"He has disappeared, doctor. Not only that, but there is every evidence that he has been either abducted or —" I could not finish. The doctor helped me into his capacious buggy in silence. Until we had got a little distance he did not speak; then he turned and looked at me.

"Now tell me all about it," he said. He heard me through without speaking.

"And you think Louise knows something?" he said when I had finished. "I don't—in fact, I am sure of it. The best evidence of it is this: She asked me if he had been heard from, or if anything had been learned. She won't allow Walker in the room, and she made me promise to see you and tell you this: don't give up the search for him. Find him, and find him soon. He is living."

"Well," I said, "if she knows that, she knows more. She is a very cruel and ungrateful girl."

"She is a very sick girl," he said gravely. "Neither you nor I can judge her until we know everything. Both she and her mother are ghosts of their former selves. Under all this, these two sudden deaths, this bank robbery, the invasions at Sunnyside and Halsey's disappearance, there is some mystery that, mark my words, will come out some day. And when it does, we shall find Louise Armstrong a victim."

Then we drove slowly home. I had the doctor put me down at the gate, and I walked to the house—past the lodge where we had found Louise, and, later, poor Thomas; on the drive where I had seen a man watching the lodge and where, later, Rosie had been frightened; past the east entrance, where so short a time before the most obstinate effort had been made to enter the house, and where, that night two weeks ago, Liddy and I had seen the strange woman. Not far from the west wing lay the blackened ruins of the stables. I felt like a ruin myself as I paused on the broad veranda before I entered the house.

Two private detectives had arrived in my absence, and it was a relief to turn over to them the responsibility of the house and grounds. Mr. Jamieson, they said, had arranged for more to assist in the search for the missing man, and at that time the country was being scoured in all directions.

Gertrude.

The household staff was again depleted that afternoon. Liddy was waiting to tell me that the new cook had gone, bag and baggage, without waiting to be paid. No one had admitted the visitor whom Warner had heard in the library, unless, possibly, the missing cook. Again I was working in a circle.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

His Little Joke.

"I'm sorry, old man," said the doctor when his patient came out of the chloroform, "but we had to remove your leg to save your life."

"Will I get better?" asked the man feebly.

"Yes, you're all right now. You ought to live 20 years more."

"Ah," sighed the victim, "that's a long while to live with one foot in the grave."

ENGAGEMENT NOW OUT.

Ethel—Weren't you surprised when you heard about my horse running away with me?

Ernest—Not very. I'd do the same thing myself if I got the chance.

Good Advice, but——

A traveler entered a railway carriage at a wayside station. The sole occupants of the compartment consisted of an old lady and her son, about twelve years old. Nothing of note occurred until the train steamed into the station at which tickets were collected. The woman, not having a ticket for the boy, requested him to "corrie doon."

The traveler intervened and suggested putting him under the seat.

"Man," said the excited woman, "it's as shair as daith; but there's twa under the sait a'ready!"

Fair Play.

One of the hardest things to wash is a mechanic's shirt. It accumulates dust and grime and grease, naturally, and the effort to get that dust and grime and grease out with ordinary soap is something tremendous. "Easy Task Soap," however, does half the work for you and makes the other half easier. Its duty is to get after the dirt and take it out. You don't have to rub and scrub over the tub. Tell your grocer you want it. Five cents a cake—same price as poor soaps.

Points to Good Future.

Seven poor children, four girls and three boys, all about ten years old, went to a nearby seashore resort, in charge of two women, for a day's outing. The funds for the picnic were provided by two boys who sell papers and who live in one of the two houses from which the excursion party was recruited. One of the women in charge of the children said that the boys had arranged the outing "of their own accord, and the remarkable thing is this: They are not good boys by any means and one of them is probably the naughtiest boy in the neighborhood. But—[illegible] do little things like this they will come out all right."—New York Tribune.

Woman-Like.

"I hate him! I think he is the meanest man I ever met."

"Gracious, Jeanette! What is the trouble?"

"Why, he told me he loved me devotedly and I told him it would be impossibly for me to love him in return. The poor fellow looked so downhearted I told him to try and forget me."

"Well?"

"Boo-hoo! He—he did."

Generosity.

The Backer—Go it, Billy, you ain't half licked yet.

The Fighter—Well, you come and 'ave the other 'arf. I ain't greedy!—Tit-Bits.

The Only Way.

"How can I win you for my very own?"

"You fellows might get up a raffle," answered the summer girl. "I'm engaged to seven of you."

A FOOD DRINK.
Which Brings Daily Enjoyment.

A lady doctor writes:

"Though busy hourly with my own affairs, I will not deny myself the pleasure of taking a few minutes to tell of my enjoyment daily obtained from my morning cup of Postum. It is a food beverage, not a poison like coffee.

"I began to use Postum eight years ago, not because I wanted to, but because coffee, which I dearly loved, made my nights long weary periods to be dreaded and unfitting me for business during the day.

"On the advice of a friend, I first tried Postum, making it carefully as directed on the package. As I had always used 'cream and no sugar,' I mixed my Postum so. It looked good, was clear and fragrant, and it was a pleasure to see the cream color it as my Kentucky friend always wanted her coffee to look—like a new saddle.'

"Then I tasted it critically, for I had tried many 'substitutes' for coffee. I was pleased, yes, satisfied, with my Postum in taste and effect, and am yet, being a constant user of it all these years.

"I continually assure my friends and acquaintances that they will like it in place of coffee, and receive benefit from its use. I have gained weight, can sleep sound and am not nervous."

"There's a Reason."

Read "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR KIDNEYS.

Little kidney troubles gradually grow more serious and pave the way to dropsy, diabetes, and fatal Bright's disease. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills at the first sign of trouble. They cure all kidney ills.

Mrs. J. R. Hayes, Anamosa, Iowa, says: "I suffered such awful pain I could not lie down. I was perfectly helpless for six months. My ankles were so badly swollen I could not wear my shoes. Soon after using Doan's Kidney Pills I was able to walk without crutches. I gradually improved until I ceased to bloat and the kidneys became normal."

Remember the name—Doan's.

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box.

Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

IGNORANT OF ART.

The Kid—Mister, Johnnie says that purple thing in front of the picture's a windmill an' I say it's a tree; which is right?

The Impressionist—That's a cow.

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive

About the size of your shoes, many people wear smaller shoes by using Allen's Foot-Ease, the Antiseptic Powder to shake into the shoes. It cures Tired, Swollen, Aching Feet and gives rest and comfort. Just the thing for breaking in new shoes. Sold everywhere, 25c. Sample sent FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Illiterate Immigrants.

Ellis island records show that of 52,727 immigrants who arrived here in July 12,895, or about 25 per cent., are illiterates. Illiteracy is no bar to an immigrant so long as he appears physically able to care for himself. Only 1,127 persons who sought to enter the country were barred at this port last month.—New York Press.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

A Question.

Vera (eight years old)—What does transatlantic mean, mother?

Mother—Across the Atlantic, of course; but you mustn't bother me.

Vera—Does "trans" always mean across?

Mother—I suppose it does. Now, if you don't stop bothering me with your questions I shall send you right to bed.

Vera (after a few minutes' silence)—Then does transparent mean a cross parent?—Ideas.

Of Course.

"What's the matter?"

"Cold, or something in my head."

"Must be a cold, old man."—Lippincott's.

It must be a lot of trouble to hunt for trouble all the time.

Some people are happy only when they are envied.

Munyon's Witch Hazel Soap is more soothing than Cold Cream; more healing than any lotion, liniment or salve; more beautifying than any cosmetic.

Cures dandruff and stops hair from falling out.

Muddled Brains

result from an overloaded stomach, sluggish liver, inactive bowels, or impure blood. Clear thinking follows the use of

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Sold Everywhere. In boxes 10c. and 25c.

STERLING TYPEWRITERS, the marvel of today. A standard business machine for $25. Typewriter and Company Stock, great salesmen's opportunity. Everyone should investigate promptly. Sterling Co., Rochester, N.Y.

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

Cleveland Directory

TRUSSES EXPERT FITTING. 6 years experience. Prices low. E. M. HESSLER, 64 Public Sq., Cleveland

Our KODAK Work

How Good—not—How Cheap. Send for price list and catalog. TARR'S PHARMACY, 1804 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, O.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT...

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL, Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle

The Seas In the Hollow Of God's Hand

"Who hath measured the seas in the hollow of his hand" (Isaiah xl, 12).

On the Ocean, October 16.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle is enjoying his usual health, en route for London. He expects to be back in Brooklyn the first Sunday in December. His Sundays in Great Britain will be given to London, filling appointments with as many as possible of the smaller cities week days. His discourse for today from the foregoing text follows:—

The wonderful force and immensity of the thought of our text, cannot be appreciated by those who have never been upon the great Ocean. As we travel through the water at railroad speed and keep watch in every direction, yet seldom see a vessel, large or small, day after day, we begin to get a little conception of the world in which we live. It is so much larger than previously we were able to comprehend. Yet by the aid of the telescope and the mathematical calculations we perceive that our earth and its seas are small, in comparison to many other worlds. We perceive that our solar system (our sun and his planetary satellites) constitutes but a small fraction of God's great creation. Astronomers tell us that by the aid of sensitive photographic plates they are able to count about one hundred and twenty-five millions of suns, around which planets are revolving, as our earth revolves around our sun. And they estimate that probably only a portion of these suns is visible to our naked eye—so far distant are they. Astronomers estimate that there are millions of other suns so far distant that their light cannot even be discerned by photography.

We stand appalled at the immensity of space and the law and order which everywhere reign. We heartily assent to the words of the Prophet David, "Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night showeth knowledge; there is no place where their voice is not heard." The person who can look upon this wonderful display of superhuman power and who can believe that these worlds created themselves, shows to the majority of us that, if he has brains, they are sadly disordered [illegible] enhanced. The person who, after intelligent thought, concludes that there is no God, that everything came to be what it is by chance or by the operation of some blind force—that person is described in the Scriptures in the following words, "The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God" (Psalm xiv, 1).

"The Half Was Never Told."

On first reading our text some of us might have been inclined to say, Ah, a beautiful poetic extravagance! But not so, dear friends! As scientific instruments demonstrate to us the immensity of the universe we perceive that the Prophet used very moderate language indeed in his description of the majestic power and greatness of the Creator, representing him as weighing the mountains in his balances and holding the seas in the hollow of his hand and that, from his standpoint, a thousand years are but as a watch in the night. How insignificantly small we all feel in the presence of our God! No wonder some great men have been inclined to say that humanity is too insignificant from the Divine standpoint to be worthy of the least consideration—much less to be objects of Divine care and providence! The Scriptures encourage us to reason from the known to the unknown. They tell us that although God is so great, so wise, so powerful, he is also just and loving. And the more we consider the matter, the more reasonable this Bible description of the Almighty appears. His power we see demonstrated. The wisdom of One so great cannot be doubted. Then we come to consider, Could One so wise and so powerful be unjust or ungenerous? Our hearts answer, No! No one is really great who is devoid of justice and love. So surely as our God is Jehovah he must possess these qualities.

When we came in contact with the Bible, and particularly after we learned something of its teachings and got rid of the misrepresentations which gathered about it during the dark ages—then we began to recognize it as the message of Jehovah to his creatures. It informed us that the great Creator of the universe is not only Almighty and All-wise, but loving and kind, with Justice as the very foundation of his Empire. From the Bible we learned, too, that our Creator had been pleased to make us in his own image, in his own moral likeness, to the intent that we might enjoy him and the fruits of his righteousness to all eternity. From this standpoint we began to realize that the loftiest sentiments of the human mind and heart are merely the reflections of this Creator.

Thus coming into sympathetic accord with our Maker we can comprehend the principles of his character—what justice signifies, and mercy and kindness—what is wisdom as contrasted with foolishness. From this standpoint we were enabled to see the glorious perfection of our Maker's character and attributes, which justify the name which he has taken to himself when he declares through his ambassador, "God is Love." As we come to realize this more and more, we are grasping the Infinite; we are getting near to the heart of the great Eternal One, who weighs the mountains as in a balance and measures the seas in the hollow of his hand.

"Like Unto Your Father."

Godlikeness is love-likeness, and, as the Scriptures declare, "Love is the fulfilling of the (Divine) Law" (Romans xiii, 10). Our great Creator, the only living and true God, is thus seen in contrast with all the gods of the heathen, who are pitiless, merciless, vengeful, devilish. From the Bible we learn that Jehovah, the True God, takes delight in doing good—in the exercise of his Almighty power and wisdom in the creating of beings in whose everlasting life and enjoyment forever he takes pleasure. With such glorious intentions his creative work began with the celestial beings, who are still enjoying his favor. With similar benevolence he created man a little lower than the angels, crowning him with glory and honor as the king of all creatures, on the animal, the human, plane, the likeness of his Maker, who is a spirit. Hearkening to the explanations of the Divine purposes by the Apostles and Prophets, we have received assurances that nothing has befallen humanity in all the dire experiences of the past six thousand years that the great Creator did not foresee. Further, we have the assurances that Divine Wisdom purposes eventually that the tears and sorrows, cryings and dying, the penalty for Original Sin, under which man has suffered all these centuries, the great Creator purposes shall work no real disadvantage to his creatures. Instead, the end of the Divine Program will attest the various elements of the Divine character as nothing else could have done. The holy angels, who have known no sin, will in mankind read to eternity a valuable lesson of the exceeding sinfulness of sin and the wisdom and blessedness of righteousness.

And even mankind, although at present suffering seriously under the weight of Divine displeasure and con[illegible] cessation to death, will ultimately be so blessed and the weight of blessing so outweigh the sorrows of the curse, that every creature shall bow the knee and every tongue confess to Divine Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power, in connection with the Divine dealings with humanity.

"Joy Cometh In the Morning."

A night of weeping six thousand years long, involving suffering and sorrow to twenty-thousand millions, is an awful thought. But the proposition is yet a different one when we remember that the majority of Adam's children die in infancy and that to those who live their three score years and ten with labor and sorrow, there are pleasing and happifying experiences, as well as tears. And when we read that even the tears of a few years are a part of the disciplines, instructions and experiences which God designs shall be valuable lessons in preparation for a glorious and joyous eternity—then the whole matter begins to have a new aspect to our minds. If the light afflictions of this present time will work out blessings for eternity then we can rejoice in them for ourselves, our neighbors and all humanity. And this is the Divine proposition. Not that God has ever proposed eternal life for a single rebellious soul, but that he has prepared blessing for all of Adam's race who shall come into full harmony with himself. At present he is teaching great general lessons to humanity as a whole by the exceeding sinfulness of sin. It would be too bad if, as these lessons are learned, there should be no opportunity of profiting by them. But there will be an opportunity of profiting, and this is the great message which God has sent to mankind and which, Scripturally, is styled The Gospel—the "good tidings of great joy which shall be unto all people," through Christ.

The night of weeping, six thousand years long, is about to be followed by the morning of joy. The New Day, in which darkness and sin will be abolished and in which the Sun of Righteousness will bless and heal the world of mankind, is a Thousand-Year Day for the blessing and uplifting of our race (II Peter iii, 8). The Bible describes that day in most glowing terms. It is the day of Messiah, the day in which God's Kingdom shall come and his will be done on earth as it is done in heaven, the day in which the poor and needy will be lifted up from the dunghill of superstition and depravity, the day in which the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth.

And there shall be no more fear. That day will not end as do others. It will not be followed by a night, but lead on to a glorious eternity for all of God's creatures who appreciate Divine goodness and, using the Divinely provided opportunities, will return to full harmony with their Creator. Such he will in turn recognize as his sons and, at his right hand of favor, they will enjoy pleasures for evermore.

The Revelation of Our God.

One of old truly said, "Thou art a God which hidest thyself" (Isaiah xiv, 15). How true! As a result the world by wisdom knows not God. He is near in his wisdom and love, yet he can be seen only by those whose eyes of understanding have been opened. But we are glad that the time is coming when all the blind eyes shall see clearly. "As I live, saith the Lord, the whole earth shall be filled with my glory." "The knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth as the waters cover the great deep" (Habakkuk ii, 14). Then all shall see what God hath wrought and our temporary blindness will but accentuate the glorious brightness of his Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power:

"Blind unbelief is sure to err,
And scan his work in vain;
God is his own interpreter,
And he will make it plain!"

In the end it will be seen that the Divine permission of the reign of sin and death in the earth, instead of being a blot upon Divine character and a demonstration of Divine unwisdom and incompetency, will reveal the great Creator to his subjects, his children, as nothing else could have done. Besides, the experiences of mankind during the seven thousand years from Adam's creation to the end of Messiah's mediatorial Kingdom will demonstrate traits of the Divine character which could not otherwise be manifested to angels or to men.

For instance, without the permission of sin, the element of Divine Justice and the unalterable opposition of God to all sin would never have been known to his creatures. His sentence upon father Adam and his race and the permission of the reign of death and sin for all these centuries have demonstrated the fact that Divine Justice cannot be trifled with. And this reign of sin and the strength of the Divine opposition to sin, and the sentence upon sinners, in turn gave opportunity for the exhibit of Divine mercy, compassion, sympathy, love. Undoubtedly God's love was known to the angelic hosts before, but not to the same extent. His dealing with humanity will prove the depth of his sympathy to angels and to men. "God commended his love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us" (Romans v, 8). Surely, as the poet declares, we have in this a manifestation of

"Love Divine, all love excelling."

More than this; some of us at one time were, perhaps, inclined to criticize our Maker and to say that he had no right to redeem us at the cost of Calvary; that it was wrong to cancel the sins of one and require their payment of another. But we erred. It was not thus. Rightly understood, the dealings of the Father with the Son add still further to his glory—magnify still more his Wisdom, Justice, Love [illegible] and Power. With all power and authority the Almighty would not command the death of his Son. For Jesus to become man's Redeemer meant his voluntary sacrifice of himself. And how shall we understand this—the Redeemer's willingness to be man's ransom-price? The Scriptures, replying, tell us that it was because of his great love for the Father, his great confidence in him and his willingness to submit to the Divine will and purposes and arrangement in everything. Yet, notwithstanding the willingness of the Redeemer, the Father would not permit him to engage in this great undertaking which would cost himself so much, unless he would give him the corresponding reward. Thus we read of Jesus, that "for the joy that was set before him he endured the cross and despised the shame."

"No! It Is Just Like Him."

The Divine Plan being set forth to an old colored woman, she was asked if it was not strange that God should do such great things for us. Her answer was, "No, Master; it is just like him!"

So we say respecting the great God who made the heavens and the earth and sun and stars, It is not strange that he should have a glorious Plan for all of his creatures—a Plan which will fully exemplify his character—his Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power!

And amongst these wonderful things of the Divine Purpose none is more wonderful than that which relates to the Church class, "the elect," drawn and called and begotten of the holy Spirit during this Gospel Age. These, justified by faith instantly, are a separate class from the world, who will be justified, perfected, through works during Messiah's glorious reign. The arrangement for their faith-justification through the merit of the Redeemer in advance of the world's justification is for the purpose of allowing these, who by nature are "children of wrath even as others," to become sons of God on the spirit plane, "partakers of the divine nature."

Dealing on lines of impartiality, God's offer to these members of Adam's race, a "little flock" in all, is that, if they join with their Redeemer in sacrifice and walk in his footsteps, his merit shall cover their blemishes and they may become for all eternity his glorious Bride and joint-heirs with him in his Kingdom—that they may sit with him in his Throne and be associated in the great work of uplifting the children of men.

How wonderful is our God, infinite in all his qualities! "Who hath known the mind of the Lord; who hath been his counsellor?" (Romans xi, 34.) How came all these wonderful things which are written in his Book, unless by his own knowledge? Let us bow before him and adore him and be faithful followers in the footsteps of Jesus until the end of the race—until we receive the crown of life.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.
Prompt attention given all ca day or night.
Garrett County Telephone. 24-1yr.

DR. W. W. GRANT,
DENTIST.
Office, McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Bridge and Crown Work a Specialty.
Gold and Silver Fillings. 21-09-1y.

DR. LOUIS I. PREVOST,
VETERINARY SURGEON,
MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.
Office Hours in Oakland from 2 to 5 o'clock p m

DR. J. G ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE
OF VALUABLE
Real Estate

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage from William D. King and Sadie E. King to Clarence M. Rathbun and Alonzo D. Naylor bearing date the 21th day of January, 1909, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 43, folio 265, &c., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, Maryland, the undersigned as attorney named in said mortgage to make said sale in case of default, will on

MONDAY,
the 31st Day of October, 1910,

at 10:30 o'clock A. M., in front of the First National Bank Building in the town of Oakland, Maryland, will offer and sell at public auction all that piece or parcel of land situate in the town of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, aforesaid, and which on the plat of said town is designated as lot No. 7, in Block No. 2. Said property is improved by a good two story dwelling house in fine condition, together with the necessary out buildings, and is considered one of the most desirable residences in said town.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale or upon the ratification thereof; conveyancing at the cost of the purchaser.

FRED. A. TAAYER,
Attorney named in the Mortgage.

SHERIFF'S SALE
OF VALUABLE
PersonalProperty

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett County in a suit wherein Samuel P. Arnold and V. F. Irwin, partners, doing business as The Curwensville Drilling Company is plaintiff, and The Western Maryland Coal and Coke Company are defendants, the same being No. 10 Judicials to September Term, 1910, I Andrew Shartzer, Sheriff of said Garrett county, will on the 29th Day of October,

SATURDAY,

beginning at 10:30 a. m., at the Club House, at Kendall, in said Garrett county, offer and sell at public auction one Standing desk, one roll top desk, three office chairs, one telephone, fifteen rolls of tar paper, 200 or more kegs of powder, 3 sets of sash transoms, 1 door, 1 shot drill and all fixtures thereto, 1 lot of gum hose, 1 set of blacksmith tools, including two anvils, 2 bellows, 1 blacksmith drill, 2 large grindstone, 1 lot of iron, 1 lot of chains, 16 mine cars and about 1000 feet of mine T rail, and immediately following thereafter at Friendsville in said Garrett county, I will offer and sell 1 iron safe, 4 office chairs, 1 office table and 1 telephone.

Terms of Sale—CASH.

ANDREW SHARTZER,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
OF Valuable Coal
AND
OTHER PROPERTY
Situate in Garrett County, Md.,
Known as the Gillespie Property.

By virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, by decree entered on the 26th day of May, 1910, in the matter of C. D. Gillespie, bankrupt, pending in the District Court of the United State for the Northern District of West Virginia, the undersigned Trustee will, on

SATURDAY,
the 23rd Day of July, 1910,

at Eleven O'clock A. M.,

at the front door of the Court House, in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, the following real estate, situate in Garrett county, Maryland, owned by C. D. Gillespie.

I

All the coal and the right to mine and remove the same, underlying being part of a tract known as "Elk Garden," situate in Garrett county, Maryland, together with 100 acres of the surface of said 315 acres and all the rights and privileges granted to the said C. D. Gillespie in connection with said coal property. Two-thirds of said property was conveyed to the said C. D. Gillespie by Ada A. V. Halterman, by deed dated the 6th day of June, 1906, of record in the Clerk's office of Garrett county, Maryland, in Liber No. 43, folio 152, and the remaining one-third was conveyed to the said C. D. Gillespie by Austin Brown, Sheriff, by deed bearing date December 1, 1909, recorded in the Clerk's office of Garrett county, Maryland, in Liber No. 50, folio 433, to which deeds reference is now here had for a more particular description of said property.

315 Acres of Land.

This property is situated very near the Western Maryland Railroad, near the station of Henry on said railroad and adjacent to the coal property now being operated by the Davis Coal & Coke Company at its mines at Henry. The coal underlying this property which is to be sold is very valuable.

II

All of the coal underlying a tract of land containing

68 1-2 Acres,

situate in Garrett county, Maryland, being known as a part of the "Elk Garden" tract and being the same coal conveyed to the said C. D. Gillespie by Peter F. Snyder and wife, by deed bearing date October 25, 1906, recorded in the Clerk's office of Garrett county, Maryland, in Liber No. 50, folio 364, to which deed reference is here had for a particular description of said 68½ acres, together with all the rights and privileges as to mining rights, surface and rights of way, as were vested in said Gillespie by said deed.

This 68½ acres of coal is considered very valuable. It is located a distance of about three or four miles from the railroad.

III

An undivided one half interest in ten acres of land, situate in Garrett county, Maryland, being also a part of what is known as the "Elk Garden" tract, said undivided one-half interest having been conveyed to the said Gillespie by Henry F. Marshall and wife, by deed dated the 11th day of August 1902, recorded in the Clerk's office of Garrett county, Maryland, in Liber No. 42, folio 300, to which deed reference is had for a particular description of said property.

IV

A tract or parcel of land containing one acre, more or less, situate in Garrett county, Maryland, on the Western Maryland Railroad, near Gorman, having been conveyed to the said Gillespie by Henry C. Stemple and wife, by deed dated the 26th day of April, 1905, recorded in the Clerk's office of Garrett county, Maryland, in Liber No. 54, folio 464. There are situated, on this property, several buildings, one of which can be used for a combination dwelling house and store building.

All of the above described property will be sold free and acquit from all liens and incumbrances. The title to all of said property is considered good.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-third cash in hand on day of sale and the residue upon a credit of six and twelve months, the purchaser to give interest bearing notes, with good personal security, for the deferred purchase money and the legal title to the property to be retained as additional security, until said deferred purchase money has been paid.

C. W. MAXWELL, Trustee.

The above sale is continued until
Thursday, October 20th,
at 2 o'clock P. M., at the same place.

This property will positively be sold at the time and place mentioned.

ORDER NISI.

Fred. A. Thayer, Trustee, vs. Lewis A. Rudisill and Kate B. Rudisill.

No. 1694 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Ordered, by the CircuitCourt for Garrett county, sitting as a court of equity, this 21st day of September, 1910, that the sale of the property mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Fred. A Thayer, Trustee, under a power of sale contained in a deed of trust from the said Lewis A. Rudisill and Kate B. Rudisill, his wife, to the said Fred. A. Thayer, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 21st day of October, 1910; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 14th day of October, 1910.

The report states the amount of sale to be $2500.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Notice to Creditors.

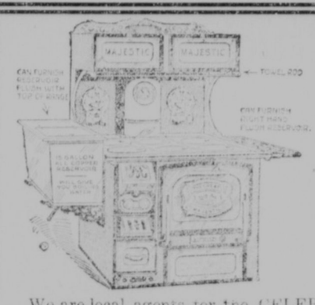
This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters testamentary on the estate of

JOHN E. BEALMAN,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 15th day of March 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 13th day of September 1910.

MARY M. BEALMAN,
Administratrix,
Grantsville, Md.



MAJESTIC RANGES
For Coal or Wood

HONEST GOODS.
HONEST PRICES.

We are local agents for the CELERRATED MAJESTIC RANGES—the Ranges with a national reputation. Nothing better is made in the stove line. Goods which are cheap, but not good, are dear at any price.

Why you should have a Great and Grand Majestic Range in your Kitchen—
It cuts the fuel bill in half because it is riveted air-tight, HOLDS the heat where it belongs, and has the proper arrangement of flues.
It is used by your neighbor, who would have no other.
It browns bread all over just alike without turning.
Has large warming closets with the right kind of doors. The only warming closets that you can clean.
It is made in any size and style desired.
It is made of better and heavier material than any other.
It is the only range in the world made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron.
It costs a little more, but lasts much longer.
It is the only range made that has a ventilated ash pit.

S. LAWTON & SONS, Oakland, Md.

THE GREATEST SALE OF
Gas Stoves, Heaters
AND TINWARE

In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting
A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

EXAMINERS' NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned appointed by the County Commissioners of Garrett county, to view the lands through which the following described new county road is prayed to be located, said road beginning for the same at a point about forty rods west of the McDermott house on the upper farm and running thence through the lands of James McDermott, William Umbel, Joseph Thomas and M. M. Thomas, a distance of about one and a quarter miles, to intersect the county road at the Pennsylvania State line near the gate house, and examine whether the said new county road should be located, will meet on the Twenty-ninth day of October, 1910, for such purpose, and to determine whether the public convenience requires the said locating of said new county road, and if so, to locate the same and perform their duty in the premises.

WM. H. THOMAS,
JEFFERSON LOWDERMILK,
FRANK HUMBERSON, } Examiners.

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

The Maryland Agricultural College
COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND.
Maryland's School of Technology
Fifty-fourth year begins Sept. 15.
Entrance examinations 13, 14.

Eight courses of Instruction leading to professional degree of B. S.

Agricultural, Horticural, General, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Biological and Chemical.

The College has a close association with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. College students are permitted to visit the Experiment Farms at Arlington and Beltsville and thus secure an additional equipment for their professional career.

The demand of the age is for men for life's activities. Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all departments. Graduates qualified to enter at once upon life's work. Boarding department supplied with all modern improvements. Bath room, steam heat, electric lights. Location unsurpassed for health.

Tuition, books, heat, light, laundry, board, medical attention, annual deposit, chemical and athletic fees all included in the annual charge of $80.00 per quarter, payable in advance.

Sanitorium for isolation of contagious disease, resident physician and trained nurse in attendance.

Catalog giving full particulars on application. Attention is called to the Two Years Courses in Agriculture and Horticulture. Failure to report promptly means loss of opportunity to student.

Early application necessary for admittance. Write for particulars.

R. W. SYLVESTER, President.

GEORGE W. LEGGE, JR.,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Practice in the Courts of Garrett and adjoining counties, and in the Maryland Court of Appeals. Associated with Thomas Peddicord, First National Bank Building.

Coiffures

COIFFURES which show the turban and Greek styles combined, are the most popular. Hat brims grow wider and the pretty turban coiffure fails to supply the requisite amount of hair to fill in the wide flaring brims. The turban coiffure with the addition of puffs or curls in a little chignon at the back solves the problem of a graceful balance between hat and coiffure.

The little fringe of wavy hair or loose curls about the face, barbed by a full braid wrapped about the head, make up the quaint style which is ideal for the possessor of a pretty face or well shaped head. It is, in fact, almost always becoming. It is only when one aspires to picture hats or long turbans that it falls short. Sometimes the addition of a cluster of curls is all that is needed.

A new coiffure which is of recent design shows the hair parted in the middle, rolled back at the sides into a full, soft roll and the ends laid in a coil at the crown of the head. This coiffure is finished with five short curls pinned in at the top of the coil and falling to the sides and toward the front where they are pinned with invisible pins to place.

Girls make for themselves many pretty hair ornaments of velvet and spangles or rhinestones. Little June roses made of ribbon and finished with millinery rose foliage is among the smartest and most fascinating of these decorations. The fashion of wearing a velvet band across the top of the head finished with a little rosette at each side which was in vogue a half century ago is with us again. The modern girl wears her rosette less primly set and wherever she finds them, in her opinion, most becoming.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

WAIST TO MATCH THE SKIRT

Pretty Yet Simple Style That Has Some Touches of Novelty to Recommend It.

This is a pretty, simple style, suitable to be made in the same material as the skirt; if washing material is used the pointed straps in front may be of broderie Anglaise; for silk, crepe de Chine or thin woolens, lace insertion would be used. The Claudine collar and cuffs are of plaited muslin edged with lace; the fulness at waist is gathered into a band to which also the skirt might be attached.

Materials required: 1¼ yard 42 inches wide, 1¼ yard trimming.

Black and White Eton.

Among the new eton suits sent out by the Paris dressmakers may be noted cream-colored moire suits with square black sailor collars of mousseline de soie and also black satin suits with white cloth sailor collars, finished with a double row of gilt buttons down the front of the short jacket.

In black and white fabric combinations white silk with a black velvet stripe has been seen.

Powder Puff Hatpin.

The powder puff with which miladi "takes off the shine" has been hidden in many places, but the latest is to have it in the hat pin. The head of the pin opens like a locket and within is the tiniest of powder puffs. The inside of the head that closes over this has a tiny mirror. The outside is the jeweled or painted head of the pin, that in all respects is like many other pins, with no suggestion of the secret beautifier.

SIMPLE "GOOD MANNER" RULE

"Do as You Would Be Done By" Is the Root of All Forms of Etiquette.

If you are puzzled about a question of etiquette and have not time to consult an older or more experienced friend or relative apply the golden rule—to do as you would be done by—for this will almost always bring you out of your difficulty with flying colors. The expression "a nature's gentleman" is often applied to some simple-minded and unsophisticated man who is thus guided; for, whether one be gentle or simple, the truest "good breeding" is shown by care for the feelings of others. The real "great lady" is as thoughtful and considerate for those beneath her in social position as she would be for royalty, though she would show her thought in a different fashion, and since all may be "queens by love," it behooves every one to be royally courteous and considerate. The brusque, rough woman who confounds a pleasant manner of speaking with insincerity is greatly to be pitied, for she has thrown away her scepter and lost her crown.

The Dainty Neckbow.

Its selection has a great deal to do with the effect of the get-up as a whole.

Never has it been seen in greater and more charming variety.

Narrow, flat bows of point d'esprit, either black or white, are now "the thing."

Most of the bows, of various materials are flat.

There is an apparent liking among well dressed women for the plaited silk bow, edged with Persian.

For morning, there are airy little frills and jabots of black net and point d'esprit.

Among the fancy tid bits are little clusters of silk roses, with plain corded silk for stems.

The Irish and cluny bows are as popular as ever, particularly when these laces are used as edging or trimming on bits of fine muslin.

Ornamental Sailor Collars.

No one seems to think a liberty is taken with the sailor collar when that usually substantial adjunct of dress is rendered in the most frivolous materials. Hence we see it fashioned in gauze, with tassels to weight it at the corners and even in gold and silver lace upon the most vaporous of evening wraps as well as on the daytime toilette.

The tailors are naturally making use of the design, and are applying it to their serge coats and even to suits they are making. Smart, too, is a coat of purple moire with a sailor collar held down at the corners beneath rosettes of purple lace, each one centered by a moire-covered button. The dress worn with the coat was made of the same materials and had a couple of deep flounces of purple lace above the hem of the skirt.

The KITCHEN CABINET

FOLKS sometimes fails to note the possibilities that lie
In the way yer mouth is curving, an' the twinkle in yer eye;
It ain't so much whut's said that hurts ez what ye think lies hid,
It ain't so much the doin' ez the way a thing is did;
An' many a home's kep' happy an' contented day by day,
An' like as not a kingdom hez been rescued from decay,
By jes' laughing.

Gather Up the Fragments.

The best historical example of economy is given us in the miracle of the loaves and fishes. "There were gathered up of the fragments twelve baskets full." We learn here the dignity of economy.

Far too often the food that would preserve life is made to feed the kitchen fire. Bits of butter left on the butter plates is often mussy looking, but perfectly good to use in cooking. A tablespoonful of cream or half a cupful of milk may be put into the mashed potato rather than the garbage pail.

All cold mashed potatoes should be saved for croquettes or puffs. One cupful will make six croquettes or a good-sized puff.

Much of the wastefulness in the kitchen is from want of knowledge. Rice water, for example, may not be known as nourishing. If the water in which rise is cooked is allowed to cool it makes a jelly, digestible and strengthening. Such water is an addition to any soup stock and should never be thrown away.

Bits of fat may be tried out and used in many ways in the cooking. Even mutton and lamb fat may be saved for healing chapped hands and making soap.

When one remembers the countless uses for bread crumbs, one marvels that they are ever discarded as worthless.

Another point in providing for a family is the wastefulness of large amounts. It is not a proof of liberality to have large quantities of left over food; it is rather a lack of management. Have just enough.

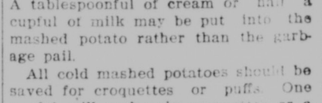
Water in which vegetables have been boiled, except potato and asparagus water, should be saved for the basis of soups.

A cupful of cold boiled rice may be added to breakfast muffins or waffles, making them lighter, more easily digested and more palatable.

The half cup of peas left from today's dinner may be used in an escalloped dish for tomorrow's luncheon or supper.

When using a little onion for seasoning, leave the peeling on and turn the cut side down on a plate; it will keep fresh for a week with this treatment.

Economy and forethought stand as the first of domestic duties.



DELIBERATE long before thou consecrate a friend; and when thy impartial judgment concludes him worthy of thy bosom, receive him joyfully and entertain him wisely; impart thy secrets boldly and mingle thy thoughts with his; he is thyself; and use him so; if thou firmly believe him faithful, thou makest him so.

—F. Quarles.

Culinary Suggestions.

When casting about for something for a change try grilling a piece of lamb. Score the top, brush it over with beaten yolk of egg, dredge it with salt and pepper, cover with a layer of bread crumbs and bake, basting with butter and water every 15 minutes. When it is cooked, garnish with currant jelly and serve with caper sauce.

Salmon croquettes are especially good made in this manner: Mix a large can of salmon with three good sized boiled potatoes that have been mashed, add bread crumbs, a beaten egg, vinegar or lemon juice to moisten, and season with pepper and salt. Shape into croquettes, roll in egg and crumbs and fry in deep hot fat.

Minced lamb, which may be prepared from the above grilled lamb, is an appetizing way of serving a left-over. Remove all the good meat from the roast and mince fine. Put the bones and skin in a saucepan and cover with a pint of water. Add a few sprays of parsley, half a carrot cut in pieces, one onion, two mint leaves and simmer for half an hour, add any gravy left from the roast and strain. Thicken with a tablespoonful each of flour and butter, season with salt, cayenne, then add the lamb, heat to the boiling point and serve.

Remedies.

To remove a splinter from a child's finger, fill a large bottle with hot water and hold the injured finger in the steam. This will draw the flesh and aided by gentle pressure, the splinter will come out in a short time.

The pernicious habit of allowing a baby to have a pacifier or his thumb to suck cannot be too severely condemned. A child has both sets of teeth in the mouth at birth and any undue pressure on the gums as constant as this habit, is sure to throw them up and out making the ugly projecting teeth. This is not the worst result either of the habit, for mouth breathing and adenoids are often the outcome. It is necessary to have these adenoids removed by the knife.

Nellie Maxwell.

THE GENTLE SHEEP AS A RAPID-FIRE MONEYMAKER.

An enormous number of sheep are coming into the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, which are being sent there by Western grazers on account of the scarcity of feed in that section of the country, and which must be sold at buyers' prices.

The states of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, are well provided with good feed and an opportunity of this kind, if offered by one of the great dry goods houses or department stores of Chicago, would deplete three-quarters of the homes of that city of its womenkind inside of half an hour after the notice appeared. All they would want would be time enough to throw a few clothes over them; some wouldn't even stop to put "rats" in their hair, thousands would forget the "powder," none would stop to "paint," but every "father's daughter" of them would make a "B" line to hubbies' pants, and extract therefrom without leave, license or consent, all that therein was to be found in the shape of cash, and then tumble over each other to be first on the spot.

Lots of these women would buy much more than they required, and would quietly hold over their purchases until the close of the sale, and then let loose their surplus stock upon their less wide awake friends, and reap thereby a harvest of "sheckels" which we may take for granted would be at once returned to the trouser pockets of their husbands while those gentlemen still slept. That is the woman of it.

Let us take a lesson from her thrifty and honest example. Extracting from the pockets of a slumbering spouse, under such circumstances is not robbery, it is only borrowing, and more than that, it is borrowing on account of that most beautiful of all female characteristics — thoughtful consideration—She did not wish to disturb the peaceful rest of her softly sleeping consort.

Sheep feeding at this particular time, and after the season of Western drought just experienced, will be most profitable to those who are fortunate enough to have the feed, and such as have, can in the course of sixty days turn over their money in such a satisfactory way as will add very largely to their bank accounts.

There is nothing in sight at the present moment, that offers a better and safer investment than the purchase of these sheep, in numbers that each buyer can accommodate, and nothing that offers so speedy and so certain a return.

No Help Needed.

A little miss of five years who had been allowed to stay up for an evening party, was told about 8:30 to go to bed. Very, very slowly she moved toward the stair. An aunt, seeing her reluctant, asked:

"Helen, can I do anything to help you?"

"No," replied Helen, "I will get there altogether too soon as it is."

Something About Chinaware.

Every woman is proud of her china, and wants to keep it looking new and perfect. So often she will use the wrong kind of soap on it and injure it in appearance—make it look worn and cheap. "Easy Task Soap"—the hard, white, pure laundry soap—is the only kind to use on china. Not only does it clean china quickly and safely, but its antiseptic qualities sterilize the china. In these days of germ-caused diseases this is an important point.

Latest Mine Horror.

The Doctor—Of course, if the operators in the anthracite and bituminous fields form a coalition—

The Professor—Then there will be nothing for the consumers to do but to coalesce.

(Slow curtain.)

New Version.

"Now, Harry," said the Sunday school teacher to the brightest boy in the class, "can you tell me how Elijah died?"

"He didn't die at all," replied the youngster. "He was translated from the original Hebrew."

Itching Piles Permanently Cured by a Jar of Resinol Ointment.

About three weeks since I was suffering agony from itching piles, I got a sample jar of Resinol and after bathing with warm water and applying the Resinol, I was in a few days entirely relieved of the itching and believe I am permanently cured.

W. W. Evans, Carrollton, Ky.

Not Strictly Orthodox.

Police Justice—Young man, what is your religion, if you have any?

Chauffeur (arrested for overspeeding)—Something like Jim Bludso's, your honor—never to be passed on the highway.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over 30 Years.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

The World on Wheels.

"Well, I mortgaged my home yesterday."

"What make of auto are you going to get?"—Houston Post.

If a woman doesn't hate a man all of the time she is in great danger of loving him part of the time.

HIS RUBBERS HAD VANISHED

Consequently Man From the Country Had Little Use for City Methods.

The benches in the waiting rooms at the Union depot in Kansas City are used for other purposes than to rest on by travelers, the Kansas City Star enlightens us. At every midnight the maids clean out the rooms. They do not forget to poke under the benches for stray bundles left by trusting travelers.

Sometimes, after intervals, the travelers return to claim their property. Some time ago a red cap at the depot saw a man in a linen duster, a felt hat and the manner of one who had spent his life in a secluded part of the Ozarks get down on his knees and peer carefully under several of the benches.

"Lost anything, mister?" the red cap queried.

"Wall, no, sonny, not 'zactly. I left a pair of rubbers here last January when I was on the way tew Emperey. Hain't seen nuthin' of 'em, have you?"

The red cap explained that he hadn't, and, moreover, that the room had been cleaned out several cozen times since last January.

"Well, I swan," replied the traveler, blinking and stroking his beard. "The city methods do beat me."

Why He Wouldn't Hurry.

They were riding to church and were late. Several of the party were worried and one remarked: "The audience will be waiting." "Well," observed the old pastor (who was to preach that forenoon), "don't let's fret over it if we are a little late. It reminds me of the man who was being taken to execution. His guards were greatly exercised over the fact that they could not possibly get there on time. 'Never mind,' said the poor fellow, philosophically. 'Don't fuss over it. The people can wait. There'll be nothing doing till I get there.'"—Christian Herald.

Pleasant Place to Prosper.

TO THE EDITOR: We want to hear from people who would appreciate securing a fruit, dairy or poultry farm in the Kuhn irrigated tract in Sacramento Valley, California, at half the true value. Best water right in state. Low maintenance cost. Work costing millions now actually being done. Roads, drainage and water right included in price. Ten month's growing season. Ten tons alfalfa per acre. Splendid dairy conditions. 500 hens earn $100 a month or better. Oranges, lemons, grape fruit, figs, English walnuts and a thousand other fruits, nuts, vegetables and flowers grow here. Gardens winter and summer. Charming place to live. Very healthful. Who wants such a home? Land selling fast. Work for everybody. Write us for enthusiasm. H. L. Hollister & Co., 35 La Salle St., Chicago, or 345 Four. Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

Flirting With Fashion.

That innate tendency on the part of the fair consumer to flirt with fashion, playing fast and loose with various commodities, is responsible for the uncertainties that have prevailed during the month. There was such a lack of confidence as to the ultimate acceptance of the various lines prepared by distributers and consumers that buying was somewhat minimized. Prosperity or adversity has nothing to do with the millinery business. Fashion alone makes or breaks.—Millinery Trade Review.

The Weeds Return.

"Confound these election bets, anyway!" grumbled Harker.

"Lose heavily?" inquired his friend.

"No, I won ten boxes of cigars and they were so rank I sold the whole lot to the corner tobacconist for a dollar."

"Well, you made a dollar, anyway."

"Yes, but that is not the worst of it. My wife saw the boxes in the window marked 'A Bargain, $2,' and bought the whole lot to give me as a birthday present."

STATE OF OHIO CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & CO., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

SEAL

A. W. GLEASON, NOTARY PUBLIC.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Same With Political Pastry.

Teacher—Now, Willie, which would you rather have, two-sixths of a pie or one-third?

Willie—One-third, miss.

Teacher (sarcastically)—You would, eh! And why so?

Willie—'Cause if you cut it into sixths I'll lose more of the juice.

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

Every Time.

"What do you do when a woman asks you what you think her age is?"

"Tell her what I think it isn't."—Houston Post.

A friend in need is a friend we usually try to dodge.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Galena, Kans.—"A year ago last March I fell, and a few days after there was soreness in my right side. In a short time a bunch came and it bothered me so much at night I could not sleep. It kept growing larger and by fall it was as large as a hen's egg. I could not go to bed without a hot water bottle applied to that side. I had one of the best doctors in Kansas and he told my husband that I would have to be operated on as it was something like a tumor caused by a rupture. I wrote to you for advice and you told me not to get discouraged but to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did take it and soon the lump in my side broke and passed away."—Mrs. R. R. HUEY, 713 Mineral Ave., Galena, Kans.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write forit to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

Your Liver is Clogged up

That's Why You're Tired—Out of Sorts—Have No Appetite.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS will put you right in a few days. They do their duty. Cure Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, and Sick Headache.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE

Genuine must bear Signature

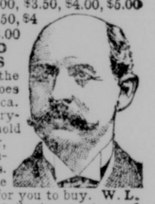
Brent Good

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES

HAND-SEWED PROCESS

MEN'S $2.00, $2.50, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $5.00
WOMEN'S $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4
BOYS' $2.00, $2.50 & $3.00

THE STANDARD FOR 30 YEARS



They are absolutely the most popular and best shoes for the price in America. They are the leaders everywhere because they hold their shape, fit better, look better and wear longer than other makes. They are positively the most economical shoes for you to buy. W. L. Douglas name and the retail price are stamped on the bottom—value guaranteed.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE! If your dealer cannot supply you write for Mail Order Catalog.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

PIMPLES

"I tried all kinds of blood remedies which failed to do me any good, but I have found the right thing at last. My face was full of pimples and black-heads. After taking Cascarets they all left. I am continuing the use of them and recommending them to my friends. I feel fine when I rise in the morning. Hope to have a chance to recommend Cascarets." Fred C. Witten, 76 Elm St., Newark, N. J.

Pleasant. Palatable. Potent. Taste Good. Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back. 922

FLORIDA VIEWS Magnificent Album of beautiful Florida scenes given free to every new subscriber to the handsomest illustrated weekly in the South. Covering every phase of Florida life it is invaluable to those who are interested in Florida and the tropics. Full of beautiful pictures, stories, history and current topics peculiar to Land of Flowers. 52 weeks $1.00. Send for sample copy.

THE FLORIDA RECORD
912 Realty Building Jacksonville, Fla.

STOCKERS & FEEDERS

Choice quality; reds and roans, white faces or angus bought on orders. Tens of Thousands to select from. Satisfaction Guaranteed. Correspondence invited. Come and see for yourself.

National Live Stock Com. Co.
At either
Kansas City, Mo., St. Joseph, Mo., S. Omaha, Neb.

PATENT your ideas, 64-page book and advice FREE. Established 1869. Fitzgerald & Co. Box K, Washington, D.C.

PISO'S is the name to remember when you need a remedy for COUGHS and COLDS

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 41–1910.

COLT DISTEMPER

Can be handled very easily. The sick are cured, and all others in same stable, no matter how "exposed," kept from having the disease, by using SPOHN'S LIQUID DISTEMPER CURE. Give on the tongue, or in feed. Acts on the blood and expels germs of all forms of distemper. Best remedy ever known for mares in foal. One bottle guaranteed to cure one case. 50c and $1 a bottle; $5 and $10 a dozen of druggists and harness dealers, or sent express paid by manufacturers. Cut shows how to poultice throats. Our free booklet gives everything. Local agents wanted. Largest selling horse remedy in existence—twelve years.

SPOHN MEDICAL CO., Chemists and Bacteriologists, Goshen, Ind., U. S. A.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Quincy, Illinois.

Coiffures

COIFFURES which show the turban and Greek styles combined, are the most popular. Hat brims grow wider and the pretty turban coiffure fails to supply the requisite amount of hair to fill in the wide flaring brims. The turban coiffure with the addition of puffs or curls in a little chignon at the back solves the problem of a graceful balance between hat and coiffure.

The little fringe of wavy hair or loose curls about the face, barbed by a full braid wrapped about the head, make up the quaint style which is ideal for the possessor of a pretty face or well shaped head. It is, in fact, almost always becoming. It is only when one aspires to picture hats or long turbans that it falls short. Sometimes the addition of a cluster of curls is all that is needed.

A new coiffure which is of recent design shows the hair parted in the middle, rolled back at the sides into a full, soft roll and the ends laid in a coil at the crown of the head. This coiffure is finished with five short curls pinned in at the top of the coil and falling to the sides and toward the front where they are pinned with invisible pins to place.

Girls make for themselves many pretty hair ornaments of velvet and spangles or rhinestones. Little June roses made of ribbon and finished with millinery rose foliage is among the smartest and most fascinating of these decorations. The fashion of wearing a velvet band across the top of the head finished with a little rosette at each side which was in vogue a half century ago is with us again. The modern girl wears her rosette less primly set and wherever she finds them, in her opinion, most becoming.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

WAIST TO MATCH THE SKIRT

Pretty Yet Simple Style That Has Some Touches of Novelty to Recommend It.

This is a pretty, simple style, suitable to be made in the same material as the skirt; if washing material is used the pointed straps in front may be of broderie Anglaise; for silk, crepe de Chine or thin woolens, lace insertion would be used. The Claudine collar and cuffs are of plaited muslin edged with lace; the fulness at waist is gathered into a band to which also the skirt might be attached.

Materials required: 1¼ yard 42 inches wide, 1¼ yard trimming.

Black and White Eton.

Among the new eton suits sent out by the Paris dressmakers may be noted cream-colored moire suits with square black sailor collars of mousseline de soie and also black satin suits with white cloth sailor collars, finished with a double row of gilt buttons down the front of the short jacket.

In black and white fabric combinations white silk with a black velvet stripe has been seen.

Powder Puff Hatpin.

The powder puff with which miladi "takes off the shine" has been hidden in many places, but the latest is to have it in the hat pin. The head of the pin opens like a locket and within is the tiniest of powder puffs. The inside of the head that closes over this has a tiny mirror. The outside is the jeweled or paiated head of the pin, that in all respects is like many other pins, with no suggestion of the secret beautifier.

SIMPLE "GOOD MANNER" RULE

"Do as You Would Be Done By" Is the Root of All Forms of Etiquette.

If you are puzzled about a question of etiquette and have not time to consult an older or more experienced friend or relative apply the golden rule—to do as you would be done by—for this will almost always bring you out of your difficulty with flying colors. The expression "a nature's gentleman" is often applied to some simple-minded and unsophisticated man who is thus guided; for, whether one be gentle or simple, the truest "good breeding" is shown by care for the feelings of others. The real "great lady" is as thoughtful and considerate for those beneath her in social position as she would be for royalty, though she would show her thought in a different fashion, and since all may be "queens by love," it behooves every one to be royally courteous and considerate. The brusque, rough woman who confounds a pleasant manner of speaking with insincerity is greatly to be pitied, for she has thrown away her scepter and lost her crown.

The Dainty Neckbow.

Its selection has a great deal to do with the effect of the get-up as a whole.

Never has it been seen in greater and more charming variety.

Narrow, flat bows of point d'esprit, either black or white, are now "the thing."

Most of the bows, of various materials are flat.

There is an apparent liking among well dressed women for the plaited silk bow, edged with Persian.

For morning, there are airy little frills and jabots of black net and point d'esprit.

Among the fancy tid bits are little clusters of silk roses, with plain corded silk for stems.

The Irish and cluny bows are as popular as ever, particularly when these laces are used as edging or trimming on bits of fine muslin.

Ornamental Sailor Collars.

No one seems to think a liberty is taken with the sailor collar when that usually substantial adjunct of dress is rendered in the most frivolous materials. Hence we see it fashioned in gauze, with tassels to weight it at the corners and even in gold and silver lace upon the most vaporous of evening wraps as well as on the daytime toilette.

The tailors are naturally making use of the design, and are applying it to their serge coats and even to suits they are making. Smart, too, is a coat of purple moire with a sailor collar held down at the corners beneath rosettes of purple lace, each one centered by a moire-covered button. The dress worn with the coat was made of the same materials and had a couple of deep flounces of purple lace above the hem of the skirt.

The KITCHEN CABINET

FOLKS sometimes fails to note the possibilities that lie
In the way yer mouth is curving, an' the twinkle in yer eye;
It ain't so much whut's said that hurts ez what ye think lies hid,
It ain't so much the doin' ez the way a thing is did;
An' many a home's kep' happy an' contented day by day,
An' like as not a kingdom hez been rescued from decay,
By jes' laughing.

Gather Up the Fragments.

The best historical example of economy is given us in the miracle of the loaves and fishes. "There were gathered up of the fragments twelve baskets full." We learn here the dignity of economy.

Far too often the food that would preserve life is made to feed the kitchen fire. Bits of butter left on the butter plates is often mussy looking, but perfectly good to use in cooking. A tablespoonful of cream or half a cupful of milk may be put into the mashed potato rather than the garbage pail.

All cold mashed potatoes should be saved for croquettes or puffs. One cupful will make six croquettes or a good-sized puff.

Much of the wastefulness in the kitchen is from want of knowledge. Rice water, for example, may not be known as nourishing. If the water in which rise is cooked is allowed to cool it makes a jelly, digestible and strengthening. Such water is an addition to any soup stock and should never be thrown away.

Bits of fat may be tried out and used in many ways in the cooking. Even mutton and lamb fat may be saved for healing chapped hands and making soap.

When one remembers the countless uses for bread crumbs, one marvels that they are ever discarded as worthless.

Another point in providing for a family is the wastefulness of large amounts. It is not a proof of liberality to have large quantities of left over food; it is rather a lack of management. Have just enough.

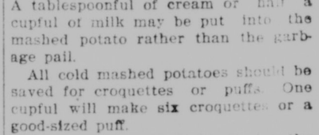
Water in which vegetables have been boiled, except potato and asparagus water, should be saved for the basis of soups.

A cupful of cold boiled rice may be added to breakfast muffins or waffles, making them lighter, more easily digested and more palatable.

The half cup of peas left from today's dinner may be used in an escalloped dish for tomorrow's luncheon or supper.

When using a little onion for seasoning, leave the peeling on and turn the cut side down on a plate; it will keep fresh for a week with this treatment.

Economy and forethought stand as the first of domestic duties.



DELIBERATE long before thou consecrate a friend; and when thy impartial judgment concludes him worthy of thy bosom, receive him joyfully and entertain him wisely; impart thy secrets boldly and mingle thy thoughts with his; he is thyself; and use him so; if thou firmly believe him faithful, thou makest him so.

—F. Quarles.

Culinary Suggestions.

When casting about for something for a change try grilling a piece of lamb. Score the top, brush it over with beaten yolk of egg, dredge it with salt and pepper, cover with a layer of bread crumbs and bake, basting with butter and water every 15 minutes. When it is cooked, garnish with currant jelly and serve with caper sauce.

Salmon croquettes are especially good made in this manner: Mix a large can of salmon with three good sized boiled potatoes that have been mashed, add bread crumbs, a beaten egg, vinegar or lemon juice to moisten, and season with pepper and salt. Shape into croquettes, roll in egg and crumbs and fry in deep hot fat.

Minced lamb, which may be prepared from the above grilled lamb, is an appetizing way of serving a left-over. Remove all the good meat from the roast and mince fine. Put the bones and skin in a saucepan and cover with a pint of water. Add a few sprays of parsley, half a carrot cut in pieces, one onion, two mint leaves and simmer for half an hour, add any gravy left from the roast and strain. Thicken with a tablespoonful each of flour and butter, season with salt, cayenne, then add the lamb, heat to the boiling point and serve.

Remedies.

To remove a splinter from a child's finger, fill a large bottle with hot water and hold the injured finger in the steam. This will draw the flesh and aided by gentle pressure, the splinter will come out in a short time.

The pernicious habit of allowing a baby to have a pacifier or his thumb to suck cannot be too severely condemned. A child has both sets of teeth in the mouth at birth and any undue pressure on the gums as constant as this habit, is sure to throw them up and out making the ugly projecting teeth. This is not the worst result either of the habit, for mouth breathing and adenoids are often the outcome. It is necessary to have these adenoids removed by the knife.

Nellie Maxwell.

THE GENTLE SHEEP AS A RAPID-FIRE MONEYMAKER.

An enormous number of sheep are coming into the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, which are being sent there by Western grazers on account of the scarcity of feed in that section of the country, and which must be sold at buyers' prices.

The states of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, are well provided with good feed and an opportunity of this kind, if offered by one of the great dry goods houses or department stores of Chicago, would deplete three-quarters of the homes of that city of its womenkind inside of half an hour after the notice appeared. All they would want would be time enough to throw a few clothes over them; some wouldn't even stop to put "rats" in their hair, thousands would forget the "powder," none would stop to "paint," but every "father's daughter" of them would make a "B" line to hubbies' pants, and extract therefrom without leave, license or consent, all that therein was to be found in the shape of cash, and then tumble over each other to be first on the spot.

Lots of these women would buy much more than they required, and would quietly hold over their purchases until the close of the sale, and then let loose their surplus stock upon their less wide awake friends, and reap thereby a harvest of "sheckels" which we may take for granted would be at once returned to the trouser pockets of their husbands while those gentlemen still slept. That is the woman of it.

Let us take a lesson from her thrifty and honest example. Extracting from the pockets of a slumbering spouse, under such circumstances is not robbery, it is only borrowing, and more than that, it is borrowing on account of that most beautiful of all female characteristics — thoughtful consideration—She did not wish to disturb the peaceful rest of her softly sleeping consort.

Sheep feeding at this particular time, and after the season of Western drought just experienced, will be most profitable to those who are fortunate enough to have the feed, and such as have, can in the course of sixty days turn over their money in such a satisfactory way as will add very largely to their bank accounts.

There is nothing in sight at the present moment, that offers a better and safer investment than the purchase of these sheep, in numbers that each buyer can accommodate, and nothing that offers so speedy and so certain a return.

No Help Needed.

A little miss of five years who had been allowed to stay up for an evening party, was told about 8:30 to go to bed. Very, very slowly she moved toward the stair. An aunt, seeing her reluctant, asked:

"Helen, can I do anything to help you?"

"No," replied Helen, "I will get there altogether too soon as it is."

Something About Chinaware.

Every woman is proud of her china, and wants to keep it looking new and perfect. So often she will use the wrong kind of soap on it and injure it in appearance—make it look worn and cheap. "Easy Task Soap"—the hard, white, pure laundry soap—is the only kind to use on china. Not only does it clean china quickly and safely, but its antiseptic qualities sterilize the china. In these days of germ-caused diseases this is an important point.

Latest Mine Horror.

The Doctor—Of course, if the operators in the anthracite and bituminous fields form a coalition—

The Professor—Then there will be nothing for the consumers to do but to coalesce.

(Slow curtain.)

New Version.

"Now, Harry," said the Sunday school teacher to the brightest boy in the class, "can you tell me how Elijah died?"

"He didn't die at all," replied the youngster. "He was translated from the original Hebrew."

Itching Piles Permanently Cured by a Jar of Resinol Ointment.

About three weeks since I was suffering agony from itching piles, I got a sample jar of Resinol and after bathing with warm water and applying the Resinol, I was in a few days entirely relieved of the itching and believe I am permanently cured.

W. W. Evans, Carrollton, Ky.

Not Strictly Orthodox.

Police Justice—Young man, what is your religion, if you have any?

Chauffeur (arrested for overspeeding)—Something like Jim Bludso's, your honor—never to be passed on the highway.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over 30 Years.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

The World on Wheels.

"Well, I mortgaged my home yesterday."

"What make of auto are you going to get?"—Houston Post.

If a woman doesn't hate a man all of the time she is in great danger of loving him part of the time.

HIS RUBBERS HAD VANISHED

Consequently Man From the Country Had Little Use for City Methods.

The benches in the waiting rooms at the Union depot in Kansas City are used for other purposes than to rest on by travelers, the Kansas City Star enlightens us. At every midnight the maids clean out the rooms. They do not forget to poke under the benches for stray bundles left by trusting travelers.

Sometimes, after intervals, the travelers return to claim their property. Some time ago a red cap at the depot saw a man in a linen duster, a felt hat and the manner of one who had spent his life in a secluded part of the Ozarks get down on his knees and peer carefully under several of the benches.

"Lost anything, mister?" the red cap queried.

"Wall, no, sonny, not 'zactly. I left a pair of rubbers here last January when I was on the way tew Emporey. Hain't seen nuthin' of 'em, have you?"

The red cap explained that he hadn't, and, moreover, that the room had been cleaned out several cozen times since last January.

"Well, I swan," replied the traveler, blinking and stroking his beard. "The city methods do beat me."

Why He Wouldn't Hurry.

They were riding to church and were late. Several of the party were worried and one remarked: "The audience will be waiting." "Well," observed the old pastor (who was to preach that forenoon), "don't let's fret over it if we are a little late. It reminds me of the man who was being taken to execution. His guards were greatly exercised over the fact that they could not possibly get there on time. 'Never mind,' said the poor fellow, philosophically. 'Don't fuss over it. The people can wait. There'll be nothing doing till I get there.'"—Christian Herald.

Pleasant Place to Prosper.

TO THE EDITOR: We want to hear from people who would appreciate securing a fruit, dairy or poultry farm in the Kuhn irrigated tract in Sacramento Valley, California, at half the true value. Best water right in state. Low maintenance cost. Work costing millions now actually being done. Roads, drainage and water right included in price. Ten month's growing season. Ten tons alfalfa per acre. Splendid dairy conditions. 500 hens earn $100 a month or better. Oranges lemons, grape fruit, figs, English walnuts and a thousand other fruits, nuts, vegetables and flowers grow here. Gardens winter and summer. Charming place to live. Very healthful. Who wants such a home? Land selling fast. Work for everybody. Write us for enthusiasm. H. L. Hollister & Co., 705 La Salle St., Chicago, or 345 Fourth Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

Flirting With Fashion.

That innate tendency on the part of the fair consumer to flirt with fashion, playing fast and loose with various commodities, is responsible for the uncertainties that have prevailed during the month. There was such a lack of confidence as to the ultimate acceptance of the various lines prepared by distributers and consumers that buying was somewhat minimized. Prosperity or adversity has nothing to do with the millinery business. Fashion alone makes or breaks.—Millinery Trade Review.

The Weeds Return.

"Confound these election bets, anyway!" grumbled Harker.

"Lose heavily?" inquired his friend.

"No, I won ten boxes of cigars and they were so rank I sold the whole lot to the corner tobacconist for a dollar."

"Well, you made a dollar, anyway."

"Yes, but that is not the worst of it. My wife saw the boxes in the window marked 'A Bargain, $2,' and bought the whole lot to give me as a birthday present."

STATE OF OHIO CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY. }

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & CO., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

SEAL } A. W. GLEASON, NOTARY PUBLIC.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Same With Political Pastry.

Teacher—Now, Willie, which would you rather have, two-sixths of a pie or one-third?

Willie—One-third, miss.

Teacher (sarcastically)—You would, eh! And why so?

Willie—'Cause if you cut it into sixths I'll lose more of the juice.

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

Every Time.

"What do you do when a woman asks you what you think her age is?"

"Tell her what I think it isn't."—Houston Post.

A friend in need is a friend we usually try to dodge.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Galena, Kans.—"A year ago last March I fell, and a few days after there was soreness in my right side. In a short time a bunch came and it bothered me so much at night I could not sleep. It kept growing larger and by fall it was as large as a hen's egg. I could not go to bed without a hot water bottle applied to that side. I had one of the best doctors in Kansas and he told my husband that I would have to be operated on as it was something like a tumor caused by a rupture. I wrote to you for advice and you told me not to get discouraged but to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did take it and soon the lump in my side broke and passed away."—Mrs. R. R. HUEY, 713 Mineral Ave., Galena, Kans.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

Your Liver is Clogged up

That's Why You're Tired—Out of Sorts—Have No Appetite.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS will put you right in a few days. They do their duty. Cure Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, and Sick Headache.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE

Genuine must bear Signature

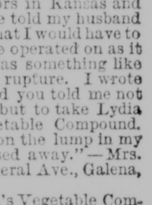
Brent Good

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES

HAND-SEWED PROCESS

MEN'S $2.00, $2.50, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $5.00
WOMEN'S $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4
BOYS' $2.00, $2.50 & $3.00

THE STANDARD FOR 30 YEARS



They are absolutely the most popular and best shoes for the price in America. They are the leaders everywhere because they hold their shape, fit better, look better and wear longer than other makes. They are positively the most economical shoes for you to buy. W. L. Douglas name and the retail price are stamped on the bottom — value guaranteed.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE! If your dealer cannot supply you write for Mail Order Catalog.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

PIMPLES

"I tried all kinds of blood remedies which failed to do me any good, but I have found the right thing at last. My face was full of pimples and black-heads. After taking Cascarets they all left. I am continuing the use of them and recommending them to my friends. I feel fine when I rise in the morning. Hope to have a chance to recommend Cascarets." Fred C. Witten, 76 Elm St., Newark, N. J.

Pleasant, Palatable, Potent, Taste Good. Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back. 922

FLORIDA VIEWS Magnificent Album of beautiful Florida scenes given free to every new subscriber to the handsomest illustrated weekly in the South. Covering every phase of Florida life it is invaluable to those who are interested in Florida and the tropics. Full of beautiful pictures, stories, history and current topics peculiar to Land of Flowers. 52 weeks $1.00. Send for sample copy.

THE FLORIDA RECORD
912 Realty Building Jacksonville, Fla.

STOCKERS & FEEDERS

Choice quality; reds and roans, white faces or angus bought on orders. Tens of Thousands to select from. Satisfaction Guaranteed. Correspondence Invited. Come and see for yourself.

National Live Stock Com. Co.
At either
Kansas City, Mo., St. Joseph, Mo., S. Omaha, Neb.

PATENT your ideas, 64-page book and advice FREE. Established 1869. Fitzgerald & Co. Box K, Washington, D.C.

PISO'S is the name to remember when you need a remedy for COUGHS and COLDS

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 41-1910.

COLT DISTEMPER

Can be handled very easily. The sick are cured, and all others in same stable, no matter how exposed, kept from having the disease, by using SPOHN'S LIQUID DISTEMPER CURE. Give on the tongue, or in feed. Acts on the blood and expels germs of all forms of distemper. Best remedy ever known for mares in foal. One bottle guaranteed to cure one case. 50c and $1 a bottle; $5 and $10 dozen of druggists and harness dealers, or sent express paid by manufacturers. Our shows how to poultice throats. Our free Booklet gives everything. Local agents wanted. Largest selling horse remedy in existence—twelve years.

SPOHN MEDICAL CO., Chemists and Bacteriologists, Goshen, Ind., U. S. A.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Quincy, Illinois.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT...

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL, Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle

The Seas In the Hollow Of God's Hand

"Who hath measured the seas in the hollow of his hand" (Isaiah xl, 12).

On the Ocean, October 16.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle is enjoying his usual health, en route for London. He expects to be back in Brooklyn the first Sunday in December. His Sundays in Great Britain will be given to London, filling appointments with as many as possible of the smaller cities week days. His discourse for today from the foregoing text follows:—

The wonderful force, and immensity of the thought of our text, cannot be appreciated by those who have never been upon the great Ocean. As we travel through the water at railroad speed and keep watch in every direction, yet seldom see a vessel, large or small, day after day, we begin to get a little conception of the world in which we live. It is so much larger than previously we were able to comprehend. Yet by the aid of the telescope and the mathematical calculations we perceive that our earth and its seas are small, in comparison to many other worlds. We perceive that our solar system (our sun and his planetary satellites) constitutes but a small fraction of God's great creation. Astronomers tell us that by the aid of sensitive photographic plates they are able to count about one hundred and twenty-five millions of suns, around which planets are revolving, as our earth revolves around our sun. And they estimate that probably only a portion of these suns is visible to our naked eye—so far distant are they. Astronomers estimate that there are millions of other suns so far distant that their light cannot even be discerned by photography.

We stand appalled at the immensity of space and the law and order which everywhere reign. We heartily assent to the words of the Prophet David, "Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night showeth knowledge; there is no place where their voice is not heard." The person who can look upon this wonderful display of superhuman power and who can believe that these worlds created themselves, shows to the majority of us that, if he has brains, they are sadly disordered—unbalanced. The person who, after intelligent thought, concludes that there is no God, that everything came to be what it is by chance or by the operation of some blind force—that person is described in the Scriptures in the following words, "The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God" (Psalm xiv, 1).

"The Half Was Never Told."

On first reading our text some of us might have been inclined to say, Ah, a beautiful poetic extravagance! But not so, dear friends! As scientific instruments demonstrate to us the immensity of the universe we perceive that the Prophet used very moderate language indeed in his description of the majestic power and greatness of the Creator, representing him as weighing the mountains in his balances and holding the seas in the hollow of his hand and that, from his standpoint, a thousand years are but as a watch in the night. How insignificantly small we all feel in the presence of our God! No wonder some great men have been inclined to say that humanity is too insignificant from the Divine standpoint to be worthy of the least consideration—much less to be objects of Divine care and providence! The Scriptures encourage us to reason from the known to the unknown. They tell us that although God is so great, so wise, so powerful, he is also just and loving. And the more we consider the matter, the more reasonable this Bible description of the Almighty appears. His power we see demonstrated. The wisdom of One so great cannot be doubted. Then we come to consider, Could One so wise and so powerful be unjust or ungenerous? Our hearts answer, No! No one is really great who is devoid of justice and love. So surely as our God is Jehovah he must possess these qualities.

When we came in contact with the Bible, and particularly after we learned something of its teachings and got rid of the misrepresentations which gathered about it during the dark ages—then we began to recognize it as the message of Jehovah to his creatures. It informed us that the great Creator of the universe is not only Almighty and All-wise, but loving and kind, with Justice as the very foundation of his Empire. From the Bible we learned, too, that our Creator had been pleased to make us in his own image, in his own moral likeness, to the intent that we might enjoy him and the fruits of his righteousness to all eternity. From this standpoint we began to realize that the loftiest sentiments of the human mind and heart are merely the reflections of this Creator.

Thus coming into sympathetic accord with our Maker we can comprehend the principles of his character—what justice signifies, and mercy and kindness—what is wisdom as contrasted with foolishness. From this standpoint we were enabled to see the glorious perfection of our Maker's character and attributes, which justify the name which he has taken to himself when he declares through his ambassador, "God is Love." As we come to realize this more and more, we are grasping the Infinite; we are getting near to the heart of the great Eternal One, who weighs the mountains as in a balance and measures the seas in the hollow of his hand.

"Like Unto Your Father."

Godlikeness is love-likeness, and, as the Scriptures declare, "Love is the fulfilling of the (Divine) Law" (Romans xiii, 10). Our great Creator, the only living and true God, is thus seen in contrast with all the gods of the heathen, who are pitiless, merciless, vengeful, devilish. From the Bible we learn that Jehovah, the True God, takes delight in doing good—in the exercise of his Almighty power and wisdom in the creating of beings in whose everlasting life and enjoyment forever he takes pleasure. With such glorious intentions his creative work began with the celestial beings, who are still enjoying his favor. With similar benevolence he created man a little lower than the angels, crowning him with glory and honor as the king of all creatures, on the animal, the human, plane, the likeness of his Maker, who is a spirit. Hearkening to the explanations of the Divine purposes by the Apostles and Prophets, we have received assurances that nothing has befallen humanity in all the dire experiences of the past six thousand years that the great Creator did not foresee. Further, we have the assurances that Divine Wisdom purposes eventually that the tears and sorrows, cryings and dying, the penalty for Original Sin, under which man has suffered all these centuries, the great Creator purposes shall work no real disadvantage to his creatures. Instead, the end of the Divine Program will attest the various elements of the Divine character as nothing else could have done. The holy angels, who have known no sin, will in mankind read to eternity a valuable lesson of the exceeding sinfulness of sin and the wisdom and blessedness of righteousness.

And even mankind, although at present suffering seriously under the weight of Divine displeasure and condemnation to death, will ultimately be so blessed and the weight of blessing so outweigh the sorrows of the curse, that every creature shall bow the knee and every tongue confess to Divine Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power, in connection with the Divine dealings with humanity.

"Joy Cometh In the Morning."

A night of weeping six thousand years long, involving suffering and sorrow to twenty-thousand millions, is an awful thought. But the proposition is yet a different one when we remember that the majority of Adam's children die in infancy and that to those who live their three score years and ten with labor and sorrow, there are pleasing and happifying experiences, as well as tears. And when we read that even the tears of a few years are a part of the disciplines, instructions and experiences which God designs shall be valuable lessons in preparation for a glorious and joyous eternity—then the whole matter begins to have a new aspect to our minds. If the light afflictions of this present time will work out blessings for eternity then we can rejoice in them for ourselves, our neighbors and all humanity. And this is the Divine proposition. Not that God has ever proposed eternal life for a single rebellious soul, but that he has prepared blessing for all of Adam's race who shall come into full harmony with himself. At present he is teaching great general lessons to humanity as a whole by the exceeding sinfulness of sin. It would be too bad if, as these lessons are learned, there should be no opportunity of profiting by them. But there will be an opportunity of profiting, and this is the great message which God has sent to mankind and which, Scripturally, is styled The Gospel—the "good tidings of great joy which shall be unto all people," through Christ.

The night of weeping, six thousand years long, is about to be followed by the morning of joy. The New Day, in which darkness and sin will be abolished and in which the Sun of Righteousness will bless and heal the world of mankind, is a Thousand-Year Day for the blessing and uplifting of our race (II Peter iii, 8). The Bible describes that day in most glowing terms. It is the day of Messiah, the day in which God's Kingdom shall come and his will be done on earth as it is done in heaven, the day in which the poor and needy will be lifted up from the dunghill of superstition and depravity, the day in which the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth.

And there shall be no more fear. That day will not end as do others. It will not be followed by a night, but lead on to a glorious eternity for all of God's creatures who appreciate Divine goodness and, using the Divinely provided opportunities, will return to full harmony with their Creator. Such he will in turn recognize as his sons and, at his right hand of favor, they will enjoy pleasures for evermore.

The Revelation of Our God.

One of old truly said, "Thou art a God which hidest thyself" (Isaiah xiv, 15). How true! As a result the world by wisdom knows not God. He is near in his wisdom and love, yet he can be seen only by those whose eyes of understanding have been opened. But we are glad that the time is coming when all the blind eyes shall see clearly. "As I live, saith the Lord, the whole earth shall be filled with my glory," "The knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth as the waters cover the great deep" (Habakkuk ii, 14). Then all shall see what God hath wrought and our temporary blindness will but accentuate the glorious brightness of his Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power:

"Blind unbelief is sure to err,
And scan his work in vain;
God is his own interpreter,
And he will make it plain!"

In the end it will be seen that the Divine permission of the reign of sin and death in the earth, instead of being a blot upon Divine character and a demonstration of Divine unwisdom and incompetency, will reveal the great Creator to his subjects, his children, as nothing else could have done. Besides, the experiences of mankind during the seven thousand years from Adam's creation to the end of Messiah's mediatorial Kingdom will demonstrate traits of the Divine character which could not otherwise be manifested to angels or to men.

For instance, without the permission of sin, the element of Divine Justice and the unalterable opposition of God to all sin would never have been known to his creatures. His sentence upon father Adam and his race and the permission of the reign of death and sin for all these centuries have demonstrated the fact that Divine Justice cannot be trifled with. And this reign of sin and the strength of the Divine opposition to sin, and the sentence upon sinners, in turn gave opportunity for the exhibit of Divine mercy, compassion, sympathy, love. Undoubtedly God's love was known to the angelic hosts before, but not to the same extent. His dealing with humanity will prove the depth of his sympathy to angels and to men. "God commended his love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us" (Romans v, 8). Surely, as the poet declares, we have in this a manifestation of

"Love Divine, all love excelling."

More than this; some of us at one time were, perhaps, inclined to criticize our Maker and to say that he had no right to redeem us at the cost of Calvary; that it was wrong to cancel the sins of one and require their payment of another. But we erred. It was not thus. Rightly understood, the dealings of the Father with the Son add still further to his glory—magnify still more his Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power. With all power and authority the Almighty would not command the death of his Son. For Jesus to become man's Redeemer meant his voluntary sacrifice of himself. And how shall we understand this—the Redeemer's willingness to be man's ransom-price? The Scriptures, replying, tell us that it was because of his great love for the Father, his great confidence in him and his willingness to submit to the Divine will and purposes and arrangement in everything. Yet, notwithstanding the willingness of the Redeemer, the Father would not permit him to engage in this great undertaking which would cost himself so much, unless he would give him the corresponding reward. Thus we read of Jesus, that "for the joy that was set before him he endured the cross and despised the shame."

"No! It Is Just Like Him."

The Divine Plan being set forth to an old colored woman, she was asked if it was not strange that God should do such great things for us. Her answer was, "No, Master; it is just like him!"

So we say respecting the great God who made the heavens and the earth and sun and stars, It is not strange that he should have a glorious Plan for all of his creatures—a Plan which will fully exemplify his character—his Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power!

And amongst these wonderful things of the Divine Purpose none is more wonderful than that which relates to the Church class, "the elect," drawn and called and begotten of the holy Spirit during this Gospel Age. These, justified by faith instantly, are a separate class from the world, who will be justified, perfected, through works during Messiah's glorious reign. The arrangement for their faith-justification through the merit of the Redeemer in advance of the world's justification is for the purpose of allowing these, who by nature are "children of wrath even as others," to become sons of God on the spirit plane, "partakers of the divine nature."

Dealing on lines of impartiality, God's offer to these members of Adam's race, a "little flock" in all, is that, if they join with their Redeemer in sacrifice and walk in his footsteps, his merit shall cover their blemishes and they may become for all eternity his glorious Bride and joint-heirs with him in his Kingdom—that they may sit with him in his Throne and be associated in the great work of uplifting the children of men.

How wonderful is our God, infinite in all his qualities! "Who hath known the mind of the Lord; who hath been his counsellor?" (Romans xi, 34.) How came all these wonderful things which are written in his Book, unless by his own knowledge? Let us bow before him and adore him and be faithful followers in the footsteps of Jesus until the end of the race—until we receive the crown of life.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.
Prompt attention given all ca day or night.
Garrett County Telephone. 24-1yr.

DR. W. W. GRANT,
DENTIST.
Office, McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Bridge and Crown Work a Specialty.
Gold and Silver Fillings. 21-09-1y.

DR. LOUIS I. PREVOST,
VETERINARY SURGEON,
MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.
Office Hours in Oakland from 2 to 5 o'clock p. m.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE
OF VALUABLE
Real Estate

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage from William D. King and Sadie E. King to Clarence M. Rathbun and Alonzo D. Naylor bearing date the 21th day of January, 1903, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 43, folio 365, &c., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, Maryland, the undersigned as attorney named in said mortgage to make said sale in case of default, will on

MONDAY,
the 31st Day of October, 1910,

at 10:30 o'clock A. M., in front of the First National Bank Building in the town of Oakland, Maryland, will offer and sell at public auction all that piece or parcel of land situate in the town of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, aforesaid, and which on the plat of said town is designated as lot No. 77 in Block No. 2. Said property is improved by a good two story dwelling house in fine condition, together with the necessary out buildings, and is considered one of the most desirable residences in said town.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale or upon the ratification thereof; conveyancing at the cost of the purchaser.

FRED. A. TAAYER,
Attorney named in the Mortgage.

SHERIFF'S SALE
OF VALUABLE
PersonalProperty

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett County in a suit wherein Samuel P. Arnold and V. F. Irwin, partners, doing business as The Gurnsville Drilling Company is plaintiff, and The Western Maryland Coal and Coke Company are defendants, the same being No. 10 Judicials to September Term, 1910, I Andrew Shartzer, Sheriff of said Garrett county, will on

SATURDAY,
the 29th Day of October,

beginning at 10:30 a. m., at the Club House, at Kendall, in said Garrett county, offer and sell at public auction one Standing desk, one roll top desk, three office chairs, one telephone, 40 feet rails for corner, 200 pounds kegs of powder, 5 sets of sand traps, 1 door, 1 shot drill and all fixtures thereto, 1 lot of gum hose, 1 set of blacksmith tools, including two anvils, 2 bellows, 1 blacksmith drill, 2 large grindstone, 1 lot of iron, 1 lot of chains, 14 mine cars and about 1200 feet of mine T rail, and immediately following thereafter at Friendsville in said Garrett county, I will offer and sell 1 iron safe, 4 office chairs, 1 office table and 1 telephone.

Terms of Sale—CASH.

ANDREW SHARTZER,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
OF Valuable Coal
AND
OTHER PROPERTY
Situate in Garrett County, Md.,
Known as the Gillespie Property.

By virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee by decree entered on the 26th day of May, 1910, in the matter of C. D. Gillespie, bankrupt, pending in the District Court of the United State for the Northern District of West Virginia, the undersigned Trustee will, on

SATURDAY,
the 23rd Day of July, 1910,

at Eleven O'clock A. M.,

at the front door of the Court House, in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, the following real estate, situate in Garrett county, Maryland, owned by C. D. Gillespie.

I

All the coal and the right to mine and remove the same, underlying

315 Acres of Land.

being part of a tract known as "Elk Garden," situate in Garrett county, Maryland, together with 100 acres of the surface of said 315 acres and all the rights and privileges granted to the said C. D. Gillespie in connection with said coal property. Two-thirds of said property was conveyed to the said C. D. Gillespie by Ada A. V. Halterman, by deed dated the 6th day of June, 1904, of record in the Clerk's office of Garrett county, Maryland, in Liber No. 43, folio 152, and the remaining one-third was conveyed to the said C. D. Gillespie by Austin Brown, Sheriff, by deed bearing date December 1, 1909, recorded in the Clerk's office of Garrett county, Maryland, in Liber No. 50, folio 453, to which deeds reference is now here had for a more particular description of said property.

This property is situated very near the Western Maryland Railroad, near the station of Henry on said railroad and adjacent to the coal property now being operated by the Davis Coal & Coke Company at its mines at Henry. The coal underlying this property which is to be sold is very valuable.

II

All of the coal underlying a tract of land containing

68 1-2 Acres,

situate in Garrett county, Maryland, being known as a part of the "Elk Garden" tract and being the same coal conveyed to the said C. D. Gillespie by Peter F. Snyder and wife, by deed bearing date October 27, 1906, recorded in the Clerk's office of Garrett county, Maryland, in Liber No. 50, folio 364, to which deed reference is here had for a particular description of said 68½ acres, together with all the rights and privileges as to mining such coal conveyed by said deed.

This 68½ acres of coal is considered very valuable. It is located a distance of about three or four miles from the railroad.

III

An undivided one half interest in ten acres of land, situate in Garrett county, Maryland, being also a part of what is known as the "Elk Garden" tract, said undivided one-half interest having been conveyed to the said Gillespie by Henry F. Marshall and wife, by deed dated the 11th day of August 1902, recorded in the Clerk's office of Garrett county, Maryland, in Liber No. 42, folio 300, to which deed reference is had for a particular description of said property.

IV

A tract or parcel of land containing one acre, more or less, situate in Garrett county, Maryland, on the Western Maryland Railroad, near Gorman, having been conveyed to the said Gillespie by Henry C. Stemple and wife, by deed dated the 30th day of April, 1901, recorded in the Clerk's office of Garrett county, Maryland, in Liber No. 34, folio 434. There are situated, on this property, several buildings, one of which can be used for a combination dwelling house and store building.

All of the above described property will be sold free and acquit from all liens and incumbrances. The title to all of said property is considered good.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-third cash in hand on day of sale and the residue upon a credit of six and twelve months, the purchaser to give interest bearing notes, with good personal security, for the deferred purchase money and the legal title to the property to be retained as additional security, until said deferred purchase money has been paid.

C. W. MAXWELL, Trustee.

The above sale is continued until
Thursday, October 20th,
at 2 o'clock P. M., at the same place.

This property will positively be sold at the time and place mentioned.

ORDER NISI.

Fred. A. Thayer, Trustee, vs. Lewis A. Rudisill and Kate B. Rudisill.

No. 1691 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Ordered, by the CircuitCourt for Garrett county, sitting as a court of equity, this 21st day of September, 1910, that the sale of the property mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Fred. A. Thayer, Trustee, under a power of sale contained in a deed of trust from the said Lewis A. Rudisill and Kate B. Rudisill, his wife, to the said Fred. A. Thayer, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 21st day of October, 1910, provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 14th day of October, 1910.

The report states the amount of sale to be $2500.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Notice to Creditors.

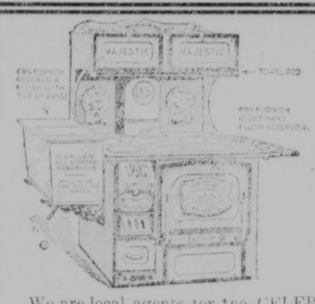
This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters testamentary on the estate of

JOHN E. BEALMAN,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 16th day of March 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 13th day of September 1910.

MARY M. BEALMAN,
Administratrix,
Grantsville, Md.



MAJESTIC RANGES
For Coal or Wood

HONEST GOODS.
HONEST PRICES.

We are local agents for the CELERRATED MAJESTIC RANGES—the Ranges with a national reputation. Nothing better is made in the stove line. Goods which are cheap, but not good, are dear at any price.

Why you should have a Great and Grand Majestic Range in your Kitchen—

It cuts the fuel bill in half because it is riveted air-tight, HOLDS the heat where it belongs, and has the proper arrangement of flues.
It is used by your neighbor, who would have no other.
It browns bread all over just alike without turning.
Has large warming closets with the right kind of doors. The only warming closets that you can clean.
It is made in any size and style desired.
It is made of better and heavier material than any other.
It is the only range in the world made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron.
It costs a little more, but lasts much longer.
It is the only range made that has a ventilated ash pit.

S. LAWTON & SONS, Oakland, Md.

THE GREATEST SALE OF
Gas Stoves, Heaters
AND TINWARE

In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting
A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

EXAMINERS' NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned examiners of Garrett county, to view the lands through which the following described new county road is prayed to be located, said road beginning for the same at a point about forty rods west of the McDermott house on the upper farm and running thence through the lands of James McDermott, William Umbel, Joseph Thomas and M. M. Thomas, a distance of about one and a quarter miles, to intersect the county road at the Pennsylvania State line near the gate house, and examine whether the said new county road should be located, will meet on the Twenty-ninth day of October, 1910, for such purpose, and to determine whether the public convenience requires the said locating of said new county road, and if so, to locate the same and perform their duty in the premises.

WM. H. THOMAS,
JEFFERSON LOWDERMILK, } Examiners.
FRANK HUMBERSON,

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

The Maryland Agricultural College
COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND.
Maryland's School of Technology
Fifty-fourth year begins Sept. 15.
Entrance examinations 13, 14.

Eight courses of Instruction leading to professional degree of B. S.—Agricultural, Horticultural, General, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Biological and Chemical.

The College has a close association with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. College students are permitted to visit the Experiment Farms at Arlington and Beltsville and thus secure an additional equipment for their professional career.

The demand of the age is for men for life's activities. Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all departments. Graduates qualified to enter at once upon life's work. Boarding department supplied with all modern improvements. Bath room, steam heat, electric lights. Location unsurpassed for health.

Tuition, books, heat, light, laundry, board, medical attention, annual deposit, chemical and athletic fees all included in the annual charge of $60.00 per quarter, payable in advance.

Sanitorium for isolation of contagious disease, resident physician and trained nurse in attendance.

Catalog giving full particulars on application. Attention is called to the Two Years Courses in Agriculture and Horticulture. Failure to report promptly means loss of opportunity to student.

Early application necessary for admittance. Write for particulars.

R. W. SYLVESTER, President.

GEORGE W. LEGGE, JR.,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Practice in the Courts of Garrett and adjoining counties, and in the Maryland Court of Appeals. Associated with Thomas Peddicord, First National Bank Building.

ENOCH PRATT
BALTO.
Register of Wills

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 34. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1910. NUMBER 35

WARNER GAINING GROUND AS THE ELECTION NEARS

Bright Outlook for Sixth District Republican Congressional Candidate.

The Baltimore American under a date line from Hagerstown, Monday printed the following article from a staff correspondent, in which is pointed out that Brainard H. Warnrr, the Republican Congressional candidate, is gaining many friends, that he is making headway as the campaign progresses and that his election seems assured:

With the election but two weeks off the political situation is the all-absorbing topic of conversation on every side. At every country store and every place where crowds gather in the evening politics is discussed. The new primary election law has elicited more political discussion this year than in any previous congressisnal campaign to which there is not coupled national or county issues.

The Republican nominee, Brainard H. Warner, Jr., of Montgomery county, being a new man, has naturally increased the interest in the campaign. It has been incumbent upon him to cover much ground in order to meet as many people as possible and thus become better acquainted. Of course, the name Warner is well known to the general public of Western Maryland. "B. H. Warner, Jr.," said a friend of his, "was well enough advertised in 1897 when President McKinley appointed him consul at Leipzig, Germany, to last the ordinary man a lifetime." Mr. Warner, however, except to the party leaders, was little known to the rank and file of the people of the Sixth District before this summer. Now, if a man, woman or child does not know him either by sight or to speak to, they must live in a place where Warner has not had time to visit or to which his friends have forgotten to send his lithographs or campaign buttons. Mr. Warner has been on the go for months, and has not only made himself well known, but has drawn around him a host of friends.

Mr. Warner is a large, heavy-set man around five and thirty, of attractive personality and genial manner. He is refined, well educated and dignified and what is such a valuable political asset—a good mixer. Your correspondent has been somewhat surprised, in view of reports which had been sent to Baltimore, to find conditions in such good shape for the Republican nominee. I have no hesitancy in saying that Warner is today the strongest candidate the Republican party could have selected in Western Marvland. Indeed, this is the statement of his opponent (Mr. David J. Lewis). There is no malice in the makeup of Mr. Warner and to hear him speak of his Democratic opponent one would think that he was one of his strongest supporters.

Warner has never been identified with any particular faction. He has always been a close friend of Col. Geo. A. Pearee, of whose active support he is assured. Indeed, Pearre, before the party nominee had been selected, told the people of the district through the columns of the American that he would do all he could in support of the Republican nominee.

In old Montgomery, Mr. Warner's home, the stronghold of Democracy, there is a friendliness for the candidate which cannot fail to carry with it the good wishes of a large number. The supporters of Lewis are claiming for him a majority of 1000 in the county. As a matter of fact, "It is not in the wood." The county is Democratic, by from 300 to 500, on state and county issues, but closer when a national campaign is involved. There is nothing I could find either at Rockville, Gaithersburg or Barnesville which would indicate an increased Democratic majority.

At the Frederick fair last Thursday afternoon, I could not help but note the presence of a large number of Montgomery people—farmers, lawyers and county office-holders—some of whom openly stated that while they were Democrats they were going to vote for Warner. In Frederick county there is a very decided sentiment in favor of the young candidate from Montgomery.

Upon first entering the grandstand at the fair grounds, before getting my bearings, I asked a man standing next to me, "Have you seen Mr. Warner, Republican nominee for Congress? I want to meet him." "Yes. There he goes now. Come along, I'll introduce you." I met Warner and before he let go of my hand I had been invited to vote for him, and in a way that I felt my vote would be appreciated. From all that I could gather, in and about the stores and hotels of Frederick, Warner will secure a most flattering vote throughout the county.

Nor is that the only place. Just over the mountain range to the west is Washington county, where there exists, in spite of the dry season that has been visited upon it, a condition of prosperity and contentment never before experienced in the history of the county. Hagerstown, the county seat, is also the home of Hon. Alexander R. Hagner, former candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress and chairman of the Republican County Central Committee. If Warner has a more loyal supporter than Alex Hagner in Washington, I was unable to locate him. Mr. Hagner is hard at work for the success of the Republican candidate "There is no disaffection in our ranks," said Hagner. "Democratic farmers are not convinced that 50 cent wheat would benefit them. I don't know of a single Republican who is not in line for Warner, and I know of a host of Democrats who for one reason or another are out openly for the Republican nominee."

Former State Senator Norman B. Scott, Jr., is much interested in the campaign as are Charles D. Wagaman, Thompson D. Brown, D. W. Doub, Harry Brindle, Alex Armstrong Scott, A. Wolflinger, Joseph W. Wolflinger, Charles W. Adams and Capt L. H. Kuhn, in addition to a long list of others. All of these gentlemen predict that Warner will carry Washington county by a very large majority.

With a united party in thesee three Eastern counties, I can see but one result, and that is a sweeping victory for Brainard H. Warner, Jr., the Republican candidate.

LET NO GARRETT COUNTY REPUBLICAN GO TO THE RESCUE OF LEWIS SINCE HE HAS RENOUNCED THE PARTY AND ITS TENETS.

THE PATRY WHICH HAS MET EVERY CRISIS.

In every crisis which has presented itself in the fifty years of its existence the Republican party has risen promptly and grandly to the demands of the occasion. Now that radicalism and socialism in various shapes are making a powerful appeal for popular support, a review of the Republican party's achievements in protecting the vested interests of capital and labor against demagogic assaults is timely.

When the greenback inflationists of a third of a century ago demanded that all government and private debts—the wage of the laborer as well as the coupon of the bondholder—be paid in depreciated currency, except in the cases in which specie was expressly named in the contract, the Republican party, by an Act of Congress, passed against the solid opposition of the Democracy, and signed by President Grant on January 14, 1875, brought all the country's currency up to the gold line. And the Republican party has held the currency up to that line ever since, despite the assaults which have been made by radicalism in various guises supported by the Democratic party. The Resumption Act of 1975, by warding off greenback inflation, saved billions of dollars to the property, business and laboring interests of the country.

Populism in 1890-92, by it renewal of the war in favor of unlimited national currency and its demand for the issue of bank notes against the deposit of agricultural products, attempted to resuscitate the greenbackism of two decades earlier, plus the addition of a few new fads and follies. At that time David J. Lewis, the present Democratic nominee, was a Populist, and a strenuous upholder of all the wild, wierd fallacies of that short-lived party. In those days, having not yet partaken of the joys of public office, it is said that Mr. Mr. Lewis changed his political faith and affiliations with every election.

The war against prosperity and business and industrial sanity was renewed in another form in 1896, when the Democratic National Convention at Chicago in July, with its fifty cent dollar propaganda, assailed the Republican demand at the St. Louis Convention for a gold dollar worth 100 cents. Again the Republican party was triumphant. By the Republican victory at the polls in 1896, by the Republican Gold Standard Act of March 14, 1900, and by the Republican triumph in the November election of that year, the 100 cent dollar was written in the statutes so firmly and so decisively, that Alton B. Parker, who four years later was to be Democracy's candidate for the Presidency, declared that Republican legislation had protected business, industry and property against further danger from the currency dilutionists. By this time the political complexion of Mr. David J. Lewis, the present Democratic candidate, had undergone several remarkable changes and alterations. A Populist in 1890-92, the fervor of his Populism waned with the declining fortunes of that peculiar and evanescent party. He saw what was coming and got out from under and when the crash came it found Mr. Lewis for once at least safely and sanely ensconed in the protecting arms of the Republican party. But not for long. The alluring doctrine promulgated by the Free Silver wing of the Democracy that the laborer was worthy of his hire and should receive it in fifty cent Mexican dollars proved so irresistibly fascinating to Mr. Lewis that he succumbed to the temptation, jumped the Republican reservation and was gathered into the Democratic fold with all his political baggage. Shortly afterward he was elected to an office, and he is there yet. He has been a Populist and he has been a Republican. To say the least, it is strange indeed that Mr. Lewis, having expressly recanted, abjured and repudiated every doctrine and policy of Republicanism by leaving the Republican party in order to become a Democrat, should now, as a Democratic candidate, seek election to the Congress of the United States by the aid of Republican votes, and that, too, in the strongest Republican congressional district in Maryland. But if Mr. Lewis expects to ride into the halls of Congress on the shoulders of Republican voters he is foredommed to a dismal awakening and a bitter disappointment. The Democratic nominee stands for nothing that the great party of Lincoln, Grant and McKinley stands for. Moreover Mr. Lewis has been part and parcel of every Democratic effort to abolish Republicanism in Maryland and drive that historic party from the soil of the State by means of the iniquitous disfranchising amendments, so fatal to the individual freedom and public progress for which the Republican party has always stood and stands today. The Republicans of the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland owe Mr. Lewis nothing but a signal defeat by an overwhelming majority. In fact, no Republican owes anything to the Maryland Democracy or its candidates except resentment and retaliation of the Democratic attempts on two occasions to destroy the Republican party in this state. If the flame and spirit of Republicanism are to be kept alive in Maryland it is imperative, in the coming election, that every member of the party make it his personal concern and duty to see that its full voting strength is polled in favor of Brainard H. Warner, Jr., the nominee of the Republican party, who supports its policies, adheres to its principles, defends its life and existence in this State and reveres its splendid traditions. This is no time for any Republican to lend aid and comfort to the enemy.

Some Large Potatoes.

Mr. C. L. Paugh, of near Deer Park, had on exhibition in Oakland one day recently ten potatoes of the Bruce variety, whose aggregate weight was seventeen pounds and nine ounces. The largest of the tubers weighed two pounds, four ounces. Mr. Paugh has been growing this variety of potatoes for two years and this year raised about two hundred and fifty bushels.

Subscribe for The Republican.

STOYER.

Not seeing any items from this place I concluded to pen a few and if these escape the waste paper basket will come again.

The farmers in this section are very busy husking corn and doing up their fall work.

Mr. J. A. DeBerry, of near Deer Park, made a business call at W. T. Stoyer last Saturday.

Mr. W. G. Riley, owner of the Bear Range Poultry farm, had a corn husking last Thursday night and every body reported a good time.

Misses Grace Riley and Lida Stoyer made a business call at Mountain Lake Park one day last week.

Mr. Harrison Stoyer, who is running the south bound transfer from the White church to this place, is doing a hustling business at this time. We think he will locate in our town in the near future.

Our two very successful hunters, J. B. Shockey and Albert Stoyer, killed a large gray fox last Thursday night.

Mr. C. E. Shillingburg and W. H. Stoyer are working for theNever Sweat Lumber Co., and report business good.

OAKLAND IS WAKING UP

A First Class Creamery and Ice Cream Plant to be Constructed at Once.

A few months ago a number of citizens of Oakland wrote the Hastings Industrial Co., of Chicago, asking them to send a representative here for the purpose of effecting an organization to erect a creamery and ice cream manufactory. In response to this request, Mr. C. C. Whinnery appeared on the ground a few days ago and in company with Lieut. E. S. West he visited a number of the most progressive farmers and business men in this vicinity. Those seen were unanimous in their approval of this movement and almost without exception were ready to assist in a financial way. The stock was over-subscribed and the contract closed on Monday of this week for the machinery,, which goes to prove that all we need do to bring helpful enterprises to Oakland is less selfishness on our part and proper encouragement to men of this kind.

This company, which will immediately be incorporated under the laws of Maryland, is composed of the following men: T. W. Casteel, H. M. Casteel, E. S. West, W. S. Friend, Geo. Porter, E. E. Sollars, John Stevenson, A. D. Naylor, H. Creutzburg, Hopwood Kildow, A Townshend, S. Lawton & Sons, S. T. Jones, F. A. Thayer, C. E. Markwood, D. E. Orndorf, Wm. Casteel, Lewis Bowman, Dixon & Kelso, Jas. Tracy, Bolden, Brown & Weimer, The Bebber Bros. Co., G. B. M. Friend, J. T. Glotfelty, D. T. Thayer, D. H. Riley, John Mitchell, H. W. Helbig, Henry Lauer.

The executive committee which will have supervision of the plant during course of construction is E. S. West, Truman Casteel and J. T. Glotfelty. The builder is already on the ground and it is expected that the entire plant will be completed in a short time.

It is customary for companies of this character to put a team or more on the road for the purpose of collecting milk and another from the factory each morning to deliver butter, milk, cream, cottage cheese, ice cream and buttermilk to patrons in and around town. The milk will be clarified and placed in sterilized bottles for delivery in town and the Parks.

Mr. Whinnery has impressed us as a man who thoroughly understands his business and one who attends to it. We congratulate him and Lieut. West on their success and wish them the same good fortune in their next effort for our benefit and that of the community, which we understand is to be a first class canning factory. Let the good work go on, and let every one see to it that he helps.

The plant will be located on a lot located opposite the residence of Mr. H. L. Jones, on Third street, which was purchased yesterday from Mr. Thomas Harne.

The statement recently made by H. R. Wright, State dairy commissioner in Iowa, that corn is king, but the dairy cow is queen, and from the royal pair Iowa gets her greatest wealth, is exemplified in the report of the secretary of agriculture, showing that Iowa produced $44,500,000 worth of dairy products last year.

Such a vast sum is hard to conceive but when it is compared to other resources some idea of what it means can be obtained. For instance, it is more than seventy percent of the total production of gold in the United States for the same period, more than twice and nearly three times the amount of gold mined in California, the leading gold producing State of the union.

This amount is enough to equip the United States navy with four first class battleships and then have a million or so left over for spending money.

The dairy business is practically new as the agricultural reports show that not a pound of creamery butter was made before 1871. In that year John Stewart, of Manchester, Iowa, went into the business. He sent some of his products to the centennial exposition exposition at Philidelphia and carried off first prize.

This started other farmers, until the business today consists of the manufacture of over 100,000,000 pounds of creamery butter, to say nothing of other grades, 3,500,000 pounds of cheese and other products that had a value of $44,500,000 last year.

THREE FOREIGNERS WERE INSTANTLY KILLED FRIDAY

Night Near Swanton When They Were Struck by Fast Express Train.

Three Slavs, working for the contractor who is engaged in making improvements to the Baltimore and Ohio railway at Swanton, were run down by the fast express train No. 48 on a small bridge near Swanton Friday evening and instantly killed, the men in each case having their skulls crushed and their legs broken.

The bodies of the men, known only by the numbers of their pay checks, 25, 40 and 43, were sent to the undertaking rooms of Bolden, Brown & Weimer Saturday morning and prepared for burial, which took place Sunday afternoon in the Catholic cemetery, Rev. James E. Connell officiating.

Notice.

This is to give notice that I will no longer be responsible for any debts contracted in my name by my wife, Matilda, she having deserted me.

JOHN CARLSON.
Friendsville, Md., Oct. 17, 1910.

DIXON & KELSO

DIXON & KELSO have an unusually large stock of

WORK GOODS

for the cold snap that is sure to come.

Big line Men's Heavy Fleece Under wear. - - - - - 45c.

Big line Ladies Vests and Pants, worth 65c., for - - - 25c.

Big line Boys' Heavy Fleece Shirts and Drawers, worth 35c. for . 25c

Children's underwear worth 40c. for from 12½c. to 25c. piece.

A nice assortment of Lanies' and Misses' Wraps at attractive prices. Call and inspect.

Have a big stock Men's and Boys' High-cut Shoes in both Leather and Rubber goods.

Plenty Heavy Flannel and Fleece Shirts ranging from 50c to $1.75 each.

Also nice stock Men's and Boys' Overcoats. Come in and inspect.

Will pay 30c for Fresh Butter and 30c dozen for Eggs.

Yours to Please. DIXON & KELSO.

TEDDY-TAFTY.

Copyrighted.

TEDDY TAFTY

Teddy-Tafty Sundae

The Latest in Ice Cream.

Healthful
Delightful
Refreshing

Oakland Steam Bakery

Manufacturers of Ice Cream complying absolutely with the Pure Food Laws of the United States.

We Freeze our Reputation into our Ice Cream.

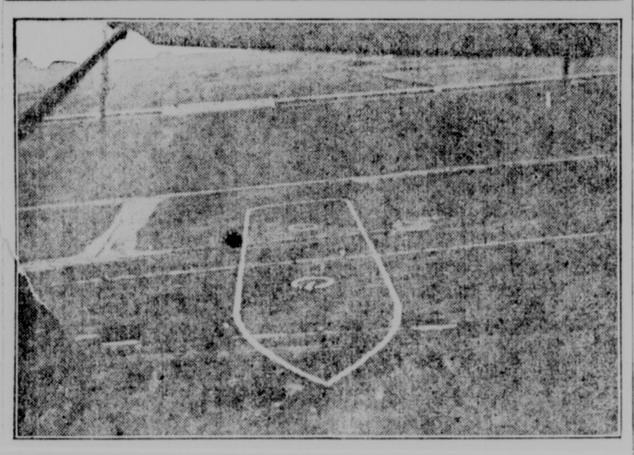
TEDDY TAFTY

TEDDY-TAFTY.

The World's Wonders

STRANGE THINGS FOUND IN VARIOUS PORTIONS OF THE EARTH

Target for Aeroplanists



At the recent Harvard-Boston aero meet, great interest was aroused by the "bomb" dropping contests in which the aeroplanists attempted to hit targets representing battleships, drawn on the ground. They were very successful, the bags of flour representing bombs often falling upon the mark though dropped from aeroplanes moving rapidly at a height of 1,800 feet. Claude Grahame-White of England, who gave a similar demonstration recently at Blackpool, England, was one of the best marksmen.

DUST FROM SHOOTING STARS

The group of shot-like pellets arranged in the middle of the illustration are minute hollow spheres of steel known as meteoric dust; they are infinitely finer than ordinary seashore sand, a few grains of which have been placed around the group for the purpose of showing their comparative size. The whole is magnified twelve hundred times, or thirty-five diameters, and could be placed inside a circle one-tenth of an inch in diameter. Their origin is interesting. Meteors, or shooting stars, as they are more generally called, have from the beginning of things been bombarding the world at a rate estimated by the highest authority at many thousands an hour, of which, however, an average of only five or six are visible to the naked eye during the same period of time. Fortunately owing to our protecting envelope of air, very few of these missiles reach us. In size, meteors vary from a few ounces to many pounds in weight, and it is only very occasionally that one is of sufficient dimensions to survive the passage of eighty to one hundred miles through an atmosphere increasing in density as the earth is approached. The speed at which they enter the atmosphere, calculated at not less than thirty-five miles a second, generates such intense heat by friction that the iron of which the meteor principally consists is immediately reduced to an incandescent vapor, which is the luminous train so frequently seen in the heavens on a clear night. The vapor rapidly cools, and condenses in the form of these minute particles, which assume the spherical form as does shot during its fall from the top of the tower. Finally, the little spheres are scattered by the winds and currents in the upper regions, and gradually descend in their millions as an invisible but never-ending shower.

PECULIAR MISHAP TO HAWK

More than 30 years ago a farmer living in Shasta county, California, set out a number of small steel traps to catch the gophers that were playing havoc with the crops.

One day while looking after these traps the rancher chanced to see a very big yellow hawk swoop down on one of the traps.

The bird was caught sure enough, and while it was struggling to free itself from the trap, the slender wire chain was torn from the fastening and away the hawk flew, carrying with it the trap and chain—both dangling to the left foot.

Recently a farmer living in Sacramento county—more than 300 miles from the rancher, shot and killed a very large yellow hawk. Securely attached to this hawk's left leg was a No. 3 steel trap and more than a yard of small chain. Beyond all doubt this was the very bird that had carried off the other rancher's trap—over three years before and had flown with it several hundred miles.

MOTHER DOG ADOPTS KITTEN

Mrs. Edward E. Leach of Montclair, N. J., is the owner of a French poodle that is acting as foster mother to a Maltese kitten. The dog has three puppies, and to give her adopted progeny proper care Fido has installed it in a separate home.

The day after the puppies were born Mrs. Leach's son, Edward, found a litter of kittens in the barn. He was about to drown them, when Fido appeared. She nosed the kittens over, and finally selected one which she deposited in a box with her own.

The puppies being larger crowded the newcomer, but Fido was equal to the emergency. Lifting the kitten, she carried it to a horse stall and made a bed for it. The poodle has taken excellent care of both families, dividing her time between them.

JOKE BY THE WIND.

A strange freak of the whirlwind in its tantrums was witnessed near Neufchatel, Switzerland, some time ago. A large field of barley had been reaped, and the work of harvesting had just begun. The first wagon was being loaded when a sudden whirlwind almost in an instant swept the whole field clear. The grain rose to a great height in the air, was then turned over, and finally disappeared in the distance, coming down in quite a different district. So sudden was the occurrence that everything had disappeared, while the amazed harvesters stood with their implements in their hands. From the whole field not so much as one cartload could be secured.

COW GUARDS DYING WOMAN

Guarded by the family cow as death came slowly from self-destruction, Mrs. L. A. Lambert, aged 36 years, was found unconscious in a field near her home, about two miles from Windber, Pa.

Beside her were a bromo chloral bottle and a carbolic acid bottle, both empty. She died in a short time. Melancholia, due to illness, is given as the cause of the suicide.

Her only child, Irvin, aged 16, noticed that morning that the cow had not come to the barn for milking, and he started to find the animal. He found the cow standing beside the body of his mother, who had slipped from the house during the night.

WILD DEER KICKS A MAN

Carl Muller, a member of a party of politicians returning to San Mateo, Cal., from Halfmoon Bay, tried to capture a deer single handed near Aqua lake. The deer kicked Muller on the chin, rendering him unconscious, and made its escape.

Five deer were in the road when the automobile party, of which District Attorney J. J. Bullock was a member, approached. No one in the party was armed, but Muller conceived the idea of capturing one of the animals alive.

He jumped from the automobile and sneaked up to the herd. As he got within striking distance of a young buck the animal let fly its heels and caught Mr. Muller squarely on the chin. That ended the chase.

It was five minutes before the deer chaser could be resuscitated and the trip resumed.

STITCHING A HEART

A remarkable surgical operation is reported from Philadelphia, where at the Pennsylvania hospital a man named Joseph Spence was admitted suffering from a bad knife stab received in a quarrel. It was found that his heart had been gashed, and Dr. Francis Stewart, the house surgeon, decided to attempt the delicate operation of stitching up the injured organ. This he accomplished successfully, putting five stitches in the man's heart, and afterwards sewing up the wound in his side.

Dr. Stewart was compelled practically to hold the man's heart in his hand while inserting the stitches, which to make the operation more delicate than ever, had to be inserted between the heart beats. Spence was then returned to the ward, and his recovery appears quite probable.

STRANGE LIGHTNING FREAK

A farmer in Lincolnshire, Eng., who some time ago, lost a hand and now wears a steel hook on his arm in its place, was caught recently in a severe storm. A terrific flash of lightning rendered him unconscious, and on coming to he felt severe pain in his maimed arm. Looking down, he saw that the hook had been straightened out and twisted, his coat sleeve and the leather sheath (which is fitted to the handless arm and to which the hook is fixed) were torn to ribbons, and the stump of the arm itself was severely injured. He was otherwise uninjured, but the arm is now completed paralyzed.

BENT PROCLAMATION TREE

At the mouth of Pattalonga creek at Glenelg, South Australia, within a half mile of the golden sands of Hold fast Bay, stands an old, decaying bent gum tree on which is fixed a board bearing the following inscription; "On this spot on the 28th December, 1836, the colony, South Australia, was proclaimed a British dependency." On the day mentioned Captain Hindmarsh landed in the bay from the Buffalo and proceeded with the officers of his council to a tent where the orders creating the colony a British province and appointing the colonial officers were read, the oaths administered and the proclamation made.

Football on Brighton Sands

So fond are the English of their national winter game of football that they want to play it even in the heat of summer. So on the broad sands at Brighton, young men may often be seen clad in bathing suits and engaging in the exciting sport, to the delight of crowds of spectators.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

ALCOHOL IS CAUSE OF EVIL

Most Prominent Figure in Crime, Pauperism and Insanity—Problem is Hygienic.

The following interesting study of the temperance problem in its close relation to hygiene, as seen from a medical point of view, has recently been added to the vast array of evidence which science is accumulating against alcohol by Dr. F. D. Crothers, superintendent of the Walnut Lodge Hospital, Hartford, Conn., and one of the foremost medical experts of the United States:

"The so-called temperance movement of today is really an evolutionary struggle upward from the ignorance and delusions of the past, and a call for a larger knowledge of the great laws and forces that govern the progress of the race. The study of inebriety is scientific, and should be confined to the facts and the laws which govern the growth and development of this great evil. Every advance of scientific knowledge makes it clear, from a larger study of the causes, that many of the diseases which afflict the race are preventable. This is confirmed in the diminishing mortality in diseases of the present day. An exact study of crime, pauperism, insanity and a great variety of evils of this class show that alcohol is the most prominent exciting and contributing cause.

"This fact is also more and more evident in disease, accidents and losses, and it is the consciousness of this, felt in almost every home in the land, that gives to the temperance movement a power above all sentiment or theory. Statistics show beyond question that over half a million persons are sick and dying yearly in this country, and that alcohol is most intimately related as a prominent cause. Also, in many cases, the use of alcohol is a symptom of conditions which existed before, and in all cases it contributes to make fatal and hurry on the degenerations that are present. Inebriety is an insanity, springing from states of exhaustion, poisoning, defective living, and alcohol is a narcotic, covering up these conditions and intensifying them. The inebriate is literally insane, because his conduct is suicidal to his own interests and antagonizes every impulse of life and healthy living.

"Scientific study and experience show that the inebriate is curable, not by emotional appeals or secret drugs, but by the use of accurate means and measures, applied along the lines of exact laws of cause and effect. The suppression of the saloon and educational measures are all helpful, but removing the causes farther back, training parents and children to live on higher planes of hygienic life in both conduct and thought, will prevent and stamp out this great menace to civilization.

"The army of inebriates, with all the associated degenerations seen in crime and pauperism, are as truly grown and cultivated in our midst as weeds in the garden. Given certain conditions and surroundings, and all these degenerations will follow from them, with the same certainty that typhoid fever germs, scattered through drinking water, result in an epidemic of that disease. It is the stress and strain of life, and ignorant conduct that brings on fatigue and weakness, and resort to alcohol to cover it up. How to live right, how to take care of the body and the mind, is the highest kind of temperance culture, that will bring a race of total abstainers, to whom alcohol can never have any fascination. Break up the great delusion of today that alcohol is a stimulant and a tonic, and a new age will come in. The saloon is doomed to disappear, and alcohol is going to be one of the great fuel and light producing forces of the world. Already its power has been demonstrated, and it only awaits the inventor to devise means for harnessing it into the great productive forces of the world.

"The temperance problem is a hygienic one, and the diseased insane inebriate is curable by means and measures along lines of exact science. These facts are becoming more and more prominent, and with them the absolute certainty that inebriety will be stamped out and many of the conditions of which crime and pauperism are only results will be removed. Both local option and prohibition are terminals that are absolutely certain to be reached in the near future. What we want today is a study of the causes and conditions which make inebriates in every community. Knowing these, we can apply means for their removal. This must be done by physicians and scientists, and it is the great unknown field of preventive medicine, that is to be occupied in the very near future."

Drink Cause of Accidents.

"Why do we have so many accidents on our roads?" was asked by the high authorities of an American railway system. They made an investigation and found that the losses of life, limb and property were the result of rum drinking by their employees. Now they have rules that men who drink must stop it or their places will be filled at once with sober men. This has become an old story in a few months all over the land.

SAID BY THE YOUNGSTERS

Some Bright Remarks Worth Preserving, That Have Fallen From Childish Lips.

A little girl, after listening to the hymn, "In heaven there stands an ever open door," remarked that there must be two heavens, "'cause grandma'd never had any open door where she is." And a dear little country laddie, visiting a city Sunday school and hearing about the "many mansions" of the better land, later explained that they had been "studying all about 'Paradise Flats.'"

Ecclesiastical modes and matters frequently are puzzling to the little ones. A small Chicago citizen was taken to a fine church, where the music, windows, furnishings, and all accessories were as impressive as the building. The minister, living up to his enviable reputation as an orator, indulged in a brilliant rhetorical flight.

"I know," he declared, "who gilds the sun and silvers the stars and paints the flowers and tints the sky and lends to the rivers their beauty, to the ocean its glory, to the skies their perfect light," and so on through long and effective periods. Finally came the interrogatory climax: "Who is it, my friends, who performs all these wonders? Who is it? Who?"

From the front pew where the baby listener had been all eager attention came a shrill, disappointed pipe:

"You said you knew!"

A FEW THINGS.

Reggy—Bah Jove, I'd like to chastise those blawsted reporters!

Cyril—Why so?

Reggy—We have been insulted. The other day the firemen rescued us fellows from the burning clubhouse, and now the reporters have the account headed, "A Few Things Saved, but Nothing of Value."

WASTED A FORTUNE ON SKIN TROUBLE

"I began to have an itching over my whole body about seven years ago and this settled in my limbs, from the knee to the toes. I went to see a great many physicians, a matter which cost me a fortune, and after I noticed that I did not get any relief that way, I went for three years to the hospital. But they were unable to help me there, I used all the medicines that I could see but became worse and worse. I had an inflammation which made me almost crazy with pain. When I showed my foot to my friends they would get really frightened. I did not know what to do. I was so sick and had become so nervous that I positively lost all hope.

"I had seen the advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies a great many times, but could not make up my mind to buy them, for I had already used so many medicines. Finally I did decide to use the Cuticura Remedies and I tell you that I was never so pleased as when I noticed that, after having used two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills, the entire inflammation had gone. I was completely cured. I should be only too glad if people with similar disease would come to me and find out the truth. I would only recommend them to use Cuticura. Mrs. Bertha Sachs, 1621 Second Ave., New York, N. Y., Aug. 20, 1909."

"Mrs. Bertha Sachs is my sister-in-law and I know well how she suffered and was cured by Cuticura Remedies after many other treatments failed. Morris Sachs, 321 E. 89th St., New York, N. Y., Secretary of Deutsch-Ostrowoer Unt.-Verein, Kempner Hebrew Benevolent Society, etc."

A Good Job.

Jacob H. Schiff, at a dinner on the yacht Ramona, condemned a concern that had gone up.

"Straight business methods are the only ones," he said. "There is a moral in the receiver story.

"A man, you know, said one day to a little boy:

"'Well, Tommy, what are you going to be when you grow up?'

"'A receiver, sir,' Tommy answered promptly. 'Ever since pa's been a receiver we've had champagne for dinner and two automobiles.'"

A Woman's Hands.

It isn't work that ruins the hands—it is the soap, the common, dangerous yellow rosin soap. It will eat into and rot cloth, so what won't it do to that delicate skin of a woman's hands? "Easy Task Soap" is pure and antiseptic; it has no nasty, disagreeable odor; it does the cleaning for you and you don't have to wear out your skin and your muscles with rubbing. As it costs no more than poor soaps, why should you ruin your hands? Your grocer has it.

A Kansas woman wants a divorce because her husband throws bricks at her. No man has a right to throw anything at his wife but bouquets and hot air.

HER PHYSICIAN APPROVES

Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sabattus, Maine.—"You told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills before child-birth, and we are all surprised to see how much good it did. My physician said 'Without doubt it was the Compound that helped you.' I thank you for your kindness in advising me and give you full permission to use my name in your testimonials."—Mrs. H. W. MITCHELL, Box 3, Sabattus, Me.

Another Woman Helped.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored my health and strength, and proved worth mountains of gold to me. For the sake of other suffering women I am willing you should publish my letter."—Mrs. CHARLES BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

MEAN INSINUATION.

Miss Lively—Isn't it strange that baseball players are seldom sunstruck?

Mr. Fussy—Not necessarily. Sunstroke is an affection of the brain.

Simple Expedient.

An American student at a German university tells of a professor who was reading aloud in a classroom papers on a celebrated living German novelist, which had been written by the members of the class. After reading one he commented upon its excellence. "You show an exact comprehension of the matter," he said, addressing the student who had written the paper; "tell us what method you used." "Oh," replied the student, "I just wrote to X——, stating what I wanted to know, and that was what he sent back."

Uncalled For.

"I hear the old bridge outside of Plunkville has collapsed."

"Yes, and the town council can't understand it. We had just given that bridge a coat of paint. Why, it looked like new."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

DAME NATURE HINTS, When the Food Is Not Suited.

When Nature gives her signal that something is wrong it is generally with the food. The old Dame is always faithful and one should act at once.

To put off the change is to risk that which may be irreparable. An Arizona man says:

"For years I could not safely eat any breakfast. I tried various kinds of breakfast food, but they were all soft, starchy messes which gave me distressing headaches. I drank strong coffee, too, which appeared to benefit me at the time, but added to the headaches afterwards. Toast and coffee were no better, for I found the toast very constipating.

"A friend persuaded me to quit the old coffee and the starchy breakfast foods, and use Postum and Grape-Nuts instead. I shall never regret taking his advice. I began using them three months ago.

"The change they have worked in me is wonderful. I now have no more of the distressing sensations in my stomach after eating, and I never have headaches. I have gained 12 pounds in weight and feel better in every way.

"Grape-Nuts make a delicious as well as a nutritious dish, and I find that Postum is easily digested and never produces dyspepsia symptoms."

"There's a Reason."

Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Winter Hats

HATTERS' plush, velvet and leaves will probably divide the honors of popularity during the coming winter. All furry surfaces are in great demand among those who are making ready for the winter the enticing millinery which never fails to fill our eyes with beauty and our hearts with longing. Milliners are busy in the dog days buying their stocks and by the first of October they will launch out into the business stream prepared to show their patrons the best millinery that has been produced for many a season.

The winter hats are good from the viewpoint of shape, size, material, and workmanship. The colorings are rich and elegant, there is an absence of overtrimming, and in the majority the size is not exaggerated. Ostrich plumes and fancy feathers, Persian draperies and metal tissues play the conspicuous parts in their trimming. The shapes of hatter's plush are large and picturesque, as a rule, and trimmed with masses of ostrich plumes, five being a conservative number for one hat. Fur hats, on the other hand, are turban shape, and by comparison with the average size, to which we have become accustomed, they may be called small. Beavers are medium or large, and trimmed in many ways. The trimming is selected with regard to the age of the wearer, for the beaver hat is no respecter of ages, and is worn by the little miss and the mature matron.

Three examples of this thoroughly practical hat are shown here. A pretty turban shape is finished with a single broad plume and Persian silk fashioned into an ornament and drape. This Persian shows touches of gold. The hat is in tones of blue and green belonging to the peacock colorings.

A lovely tricorn in black and white is trimmed with a plush ornament and a spray of short white and black half plumes mounted three in the cluster. A smart black aigrette garnishes the pompon trimming.

Ahe large shape in a petunia color is designed for a miss, and is therefore simply trimmed with a big bow made of shaded moire ribbon. The lines of the flat shape are almost unbroken.

These hats have much to recommend them. They are durable and comfortable, as well as pretty and fashionable. The fortunate possessor of a last year's beaver will find it easy to remodel, and the hat is a good investment. JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

BUTTONS ARE OF ALL KINDS

Wide Selection Possible This Season for Those Fond of This Kind of Ornament.

Pearl buttons lead in favor as trimmings and for practical use in the fall styles. They are in white, black, mother-of-pearl and dyed shades. Most of these buttons are very large, nearly all in 18 and 20 line sizes.

Demiglobe and cup shapes are seen, with false eyes or black-rimmed eyelets. Often the artificial ivory buttons are dyed in two colors, or in black and a color.

Metal buttons, like metal passementeries, are largely Byzantine in effect. Dull brown, antique gold and silver and hammered copper are some of the effects shown, usually in shell pattern.

Glass and enamel buttons show animal figures—polar bears, wolves, dogs, etc.—mounted in silver. These are especially designed for fur coats. A few porcelain buttons are also shown, painted in Egyptian patterns.

Among novelties, pendants, in imitations of jewels, and small black and red glass buttons are offered.

NEW WAIST MODEL.

This charming new model is of blue silk voile. The front and bretelles are of silk embroidery of the same shade, and the corselet is of blue liberty.

The short sleeves are cut in one piece with the body of the waist, and are finished with bands of the embroidery over puffs of white muslin.

CHARM IN PERFECT VOICE

Probably No One Thing Is More Worth Cultivating Than Pure Musical Tone.

Many women overlook the fact that nothing betokens true refinement more unerringly than a pure, earnest, well modulated voice, free from affectation. In fact, it is in the voice that the secret of the charm of many women lies.

Not every person may have the advantage of lessons in elocution, but every person who will may cultivate a pure tone and a pleasant voice.

The first step in learning to talk well is to breathe correctly.

Let your tones be clear and as musical as you can produce them. Did you ever hear a person speak the name of Brown so that it sounded really musical?

Most people pronounce it with the throat almost closed and from the front of the mouth. There must be a resonance in the voice.

Do not waste your breath in speaking, but let your last tone be as distinct as the first.

Listen yourself when you speak and catch the first false note.

Do not speak in monotone, but modulate your voice to give expression, just as you would follow the signs in music.

Pitch your voice to suit the time and place—not so low as to appear secret, nor so high as to seem bold and nervous.

The Vogue of Satin.

"Satin," says a Paris authority, "is used for everything that a woman could carry."

That includes handbags, scarfs, parasols, bands on long gloves, the new reticules in our grandmothers' style, fans, everything—all appear in heavy satin, usually in black or in black and white.

So look carefully to that material for all your dress accessories.

Black and White Eton.

Among the new eton suits sent out by the Paris dressmakers may be noted cream-colored moire suits with square black sailor collars of mousseline de soie, and also black satin suits with white cloth sailor collars, finished with a double row of gilt buttons down the front of the short jacket.

In black and white fabric combinations white silk with a black velvet stripe has been seen.

Enoch, Man Who Walked With God

By REV. C. A. S. DWIGHT, D. D.

Text.—And Enoch walked with God; and he was not; for God took him.—Gen. 5:24.

God has many distinguished servants whose dignity is all derived from their heavenly Master. The names and histories of many of these, as portrayed in the Scripturaes, are coupled with tell-tale epithets or brief characterizations, which have now become familiar as household words, that are significant of the peculiar aptitudes and achievements of the men to whom they are applied. Of one man in the Bible a phrase is used (applied elsewhere to one other, Noah) which is strangely suggestive and wonderfully inspiring—for it is said of Enoch that he "walked with God." All men, good and bad, walk in the sight of God, and all good men may be said to walk before or in the presence of God—guided by his eye, shone upon by his glory, and surrounded by tokens of his love—but of that primal, pre-eminent man of an early rude age it is declared that he walked "with God," which must mean something very illustrious, and denote a nignity almost, if not quite, unexampled in the whole course of human history.

The character of Snoch, as viewed through the lengthened vistas of the varying ages, seems to shine with a pure white light almost, if not quite, unearthly. Its gleam was never lightened on man-made altars, the sheen is not dimmable by earth-born mists or garish glare or historic contraventions. We cannot know just what were the psychologic qualities of this holy, happy man, but we may be sure of one thing, that his character was singularly pure, far above that of his fellows, or the unexampled honor of "walking with God" and of being translated without hint or hurt of death would never have been given to him. "Be ye holy, for I am holy," must have been fulfilled in marvelous degree in Enoch's case. He was a sinner, as were others of his contemporaries, but somehow, in close contact with the fires of the Divine holiness, the dress of his own humanity was burned away so that even before he was caught aawy to paradise, he became detached from earth and filled with the very spirit of heaven.

Enoch walked with God it appears, as a prophet. God may have revealed to him in quiet, tender converse many wonderful secrets of his plans. What did Enoch see in prophecy? Who knows but that in those ecstatic 300 years there may have passed before his vision, revealed by the direct will and wish of Jehovah, the outlines of redemption—the coming history of the ages, exhibited as it were, in an elongated panorama, all illustrating the wonders of grace and centering about the cross, whose distant gleam Enoch's quickened eyes may have clearly seen? Paul, in a later age, was taken up into the third heaven — why may Enoch not have been granted the vision of a redeemed earth? We cannot saoy that it was so—but we may wonder whether such dreams and visions did not come to that holy and unique man.

We are told, at any rate, in "the or the United States Senate, spent a few days this week as the guest of his sister, Mrs. Edward E. Sollars, near Oakland. Mr. Keller has occupied a position in the capitol for nearly thirty five years and has been steadily advanced from policeman to the very responsible position he now holds.

Call for Your Letters.

Mrs. G. J. Bryce, Mrs. Mary Knell, Miss Yozicpu Loimlonric, Paul W. Cox, J. W. Miller, Mrs. A. Eisentrout, Andrew Fenelon, Edith Grimes, Miss Lizzie Harding, Mrs. Nellie Ross, Mrs. R. Schyler, H. E. Simond, M. E. Tuney.

Subscribe for The Republican, Oldest and Best Paper in Garrett county.

Public Sale Saturday October 29, 1910

At their farm six miles from Oakland on the Cranesville road, commencing at 10 a. m., we will offer for sale to the highest bidder all the following personal property consisting of 30 head of Cattle, principally Durham and Polangus stock, described as 6 milk cows, 11 head of two-year-old cattle, 7 head of yearling, 1 four-year-old Bull and 6 Calves; 1 Bay Mare nine years old, 1 Bay Horse six years old, 1 Gray Horse four years old, 70 head of Sheep, 1 large brood sow, 1 male hog, 8 Shoats, weighing from 75 to 100 lbs. 2 Bee Stands, a lot of Chickens. A big assortment of [illegible] and because I will lived in a simple age, that, therefore, he enjoyed exceptional opportunities for being religious, while in this characteristically worldly day it is quite out of the question to maintain a spiritual frame. The fact is that Enoch lived in an age that was rude, riotous and coarse, when vice was rampant, when the sanctions of society itself were largely lacking, when there were no Bibles, churches, Endeavor societies, religious clubs or religious books or weeklies, and, therefore, it was all the more to his praise that, under conditions even more unfriendly, perhaps, to righteousness than those that obtain today, he walked with God and comported himself as befitter a saint of the Most High.

Salvation means more than simply a kind of ticket to heaven.—Rev. Carter H. Jones, Baptist, Louisville.

ACT PROMPTLY.

Kidney troubles are too dangerous to neglect. Little disorders grow serious and the sufferer is soon in the grasp of diabetes, dropsy or fatal Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure all distressing kidney ills. They make sick kidneys well, weak kidneys strong.

E. C. McClanahan, Market St., New Richmond, O., says: "Kidney disease had almost brought me to my grave. I was rendered almost helpless and suffered agony. My feet were so badly swollen I could not walk. The kidney secretions were thick and painful in voiding. I doctored but steadily grew weaker. I then used Doan's Kidney Pills and gradually improved. They saved my life."

Remember the name—Doan's.

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box.

Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

TO SAVE TIME.

Algy Weakling—Miss Wise, I-aw-that is—Gladys, I-er-desire to-aw! really—

Gladys Wise—Keep right on; I'll consider your proposal and have my answer ready by the time you have gotten it out of your system.

When Woman's Work Is Done.

Somebody said, "Woman's work is never done." Anything that emancipates her from this form of slavery is hailed with joy. This is the reason for the constantly increasing popularity of "Easy Task Soap," the hard, white, pure laundry soap, that does half the work of wash-day by itself. Add to this the fact that it positively does not rot or streak the clothes, that it launders laces, linens, flannels, silks, bedding, table cloths and all fabrics perfectly, and you will understand why it should be in your house right away.

Experience Teaches.

"Sure, and Oi t'ink it pays to be honest, afther all," said Pat. "Oi troied thot phoneyweight business in my grocery sthore lasht year, and Oi losht money by ut."

"How so? Did you get found out?" asked his friend.

"No, sorr," returned Pat. "Oi made the mistake of fillin' me weights wid lead, so thot ivery mon thot come to me for wan pound of sugar got twinty-three ounces to the pound."—Harper's Weekly.

Editorial Favor.

"A month ago you rejected a story [illegible]"

"I have returned [illegible] Damascus, Va., last Saturday but did not come on account of the breaking down of the large mill there.

Leonard Lytle has had a handsome bay window built onto his dwelling, greatly improving the property.

John Knecht, of West Salisbury, was here last week to load up the small engine known around here, as "Dirty Face" He will take it to the foundry and it will undergo repairs, and then be used by contractors on the Wabash railroad. The engine originally came from the Keystone Mines, Pa., brought here by Young and McCullough, and after being in use by them sold to the Meadow Mountain Lumber Co., then to the Loch Haven Co., and now will leave again for Pennsylvania, after being here some 15 or 16 years. It has been in a good many wrecks, but Mr. Knecht informs us he will again have it in good condition in a short time. It seems as if we were bidding farewell to an old friend.

The ladies of Grace Lutheran church will hold a festival on Thanksgiving in the opera house. Bills will soon be out announcing the event.

The B. & O. Railroad crossing on Maple street has been greatly improved by the company.

The Salt-town Planing [illegible] every bottle guaranteed. Over 600,000 bottles sold last year $.50 and $1.00. Any good druggist, or send to manufacturers. Agents wanted. Spohn Medical Co., Spec. Contagious Diseases, Goshen, Ind.

The average married man kicks because his wife worries because he doesn't get home right on time, but suppose she didn't care whether he ever came or not?

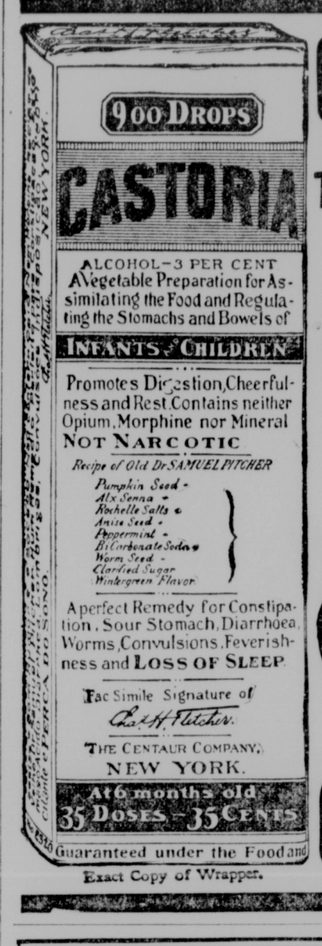
Instant Relief for All Eyes, that are irritated from dust, heat, sun or wind, PETTIT'S EYE SALVE, 25c. All druggists or Howard Bros., Buffalo, N. Y.

But the pure food laws do not make any provisions for love that is adulterated with filthy lucre.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.
For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

An optimist believes in mascots; a pessimist believes in hoodoos.



Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

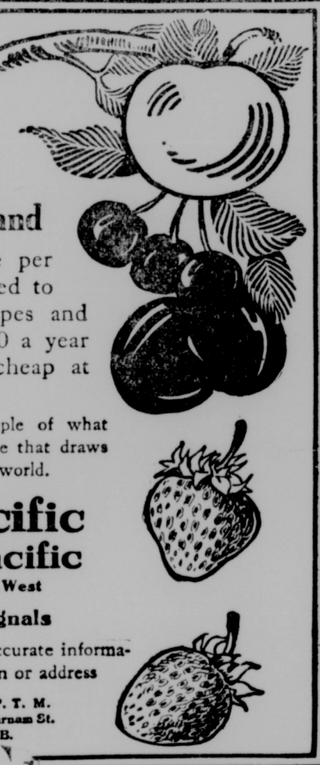
In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Net Income $3,000

From 28 Acres of California Land



The original price per acre was $40. Planted to peaches, plums, grapes and pears it yields $3,000 a year net, and would be cheap at $500 an acre.

This is only one example of what has been done in a climate that draws tourists from all over the world.

Union Pacific
Southern Pacific
Standard Route of the West
Electric Block Signals

For further facts and accurate information about California call on or address

GERRIT FORT, P. T. M.
U. P. R. R., 871 Farnam St.
OMAHA, NEB.

Our G[illegible]
Depart[illegible]

This department of Bo[illegible]mer's Store is stocked [illegible] dependable, fresh Groce[illegible] description. In fact ou[illegible] large and so varied that [illegible] to mention a small porti[illegible] carried our advertisement [illegible] space set apart for it. [illegible] stock and we feel sure t[illegible] want.

A new department—ou[illegible] counters—has recently [illegible] you may purchase many [illegible] able articles for less than [illegible]

BOLDEN, BROW[illegible]

J. B. KELLOG

ASTHMA

Remedy for the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask your druggist for it. Write for FREE SAMPLE. NORTHROP & LYMAN CO. Ltd., BUFFALO, N.Y.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

DEFIANCE STARCH—16 ounces to the package—other starches only 12 ounces—same price and "DEFIANCE" IS SUPERIOR QUALITY.

PISO'S
IS THE NAME OF THE BEST MEDICINE for COUGHS & COLDS

Beautiful

ht eyes, rosy cheeks, rounded figure, ch of every woman.
ise and due amount of sleep with an

[illegible]'s Pills

ely use of these pills will strengthen and relieve nausea and depression. on the bowels, liver, stomach, blood test aid to health and in a true sense tions, 10c. and 25c.

Cosmetic

WHAT'S Your Health Worth?

ou start sickness by mistreating nature d it generally shows first in the bowels d liver. A 10c box (week's treatment) CASCARETS will help nature help ou. They will do more—using them gularly as you need them—than any edicine on Earth. Get a box today; ke a CASCARET tonight. Better in the morning. It's the result that makes millions take them. 881

CASCARETS 10c a box for a week's treatment, all druggists. Biggest seller in the world. Million boxes a month.

A man is judged by his appearance

TRADE Gillette MARK
KNOWN THE WORLD OVER

FOR SALE—Improved Farms and Farm Lands in Crawford Co., Mich., in good farming community, good climate, water, close to market towns, schools and railroad. Liberal terms. Largest apple orchard in Michigan near these lands. Write to HENRY A. BAUMAN, Grayling, Mich.

TRUSSES EXPERT FITTING 45 years' experience. Prices low E.M.HESSLER, 64 Public Sq., Cleveland

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

Entered at the Postoffice in Oakland, Md., as Second-class matter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

The Republican is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year.....$1.25
One copy six months 75
One copy three months 40

Advertising Rates made known upon Application.

Remittances may be made by Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft and addressed to

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1910.

For Congress, Sixth Congressional District.

BRAINARD H. WARNER, JR.,
Of Montgomery County.

REPUBLICAN MEETINGS.

Republican Meetings will be held at the following places upon the dates specified at 7.30 o'clock each evening:

At Bloomington, Monday, Oct. 31.

At Kitzmiller, Tuesday, Nov. 1.

At Swanton, Wednesday, Nov. 2.

At Deer Park, Thursday, Nov. 3.

At Crellin, Friday, Nov. 4.

At Oakland, Saturday, Nov. 5

Prominent speakers will address the above meetings.

AUSTIN BROWN,
Chairman.

TRUE PRINCIPLES OF REPUBLICANISM

However ardently the triumph of truly Republican principles and the election of a worthy public candidate such as Warner may be desired, no intelligent member of the party can feel anything but contempt for those dense and disingenuous organs of the opposition, supporting Lewis, which howl warnings of disaster in the event of Republican success. These absurd declarations disgust thinking men and, besides doing harm to the Democratic party, are calculated to alienate the great independent vote, that so often hold the balance power, and which, in the present election, is bound to cleave to Warner. Misrepresentation never hurts a worthy cause; and the Republican cause is a worthy cause. The knowledge the Democrats may have is that they may be certain that their misrepresentation will react to the injury of their party. Do the alarmist organs fancy that the people have so soon forgotten the panic and Democratic adversity of Cleveland's time.

Republicanism—the school of political thought that has been ornamented by Lincoln, Seward, Blaine, McKinley, Roosevelt, Dolliver, and many others—is something vaster, nobler and more magnificent than peanut Democracy can conceive. It is not offered, as its detractors seem to think, as an unfallible cure for financial bunions or commercial corns, nor as the vaccine preventative of the natural and inevitable results of reckless speculation and an imperfect econmic system. It is simply an idea—that of steady, consistent progress along the line of legitimate legislation toward the Democratic ideal of a government completely of, for and by the people. It needs no apologists—no detractors—nor any liars.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

(Writers for the People's Forum are requested to make their communications as brief as possible. As a rule they should not exceed 500 words, and when they do they will, except in cases of unusual interest or importance, be reduced to that limit or returned to the writer for condensation. Letters must bear the names and addresses of the writers as evidence of good faith and the names will not be made public without the consent of the contributors. The editor will not be responsible for any views expressed by the contributors to this column.)

Will Mr. Browning Please Answer?

To the Editor of The Republican:

The question repeatedly asked through the press of our town as to the amount of the salary received by the teacher of the Manual Training School has not been answered by the School Board or its mouthpiece, and the people are entitled to know just what Mr. Loraditch is to receive.

Will Mr. Browning condescend to take the people into his confidence just long enough to answer this question?

TAXPAYER.

Oakland, October 26th, 1910.

For Rent.

Two six room cottages, one furnished; running water on both properties; stable on one lot. Apply at this office.

Notice to Trespassers.

All persons are hereby notified not to trespass upon my farm, two miles south of Oakland, for any purpose whatever. Persons trespassing will be dealt with according to law.

EDWARD E. SOLLARS.

J. M. DAVIS & SONS.

The FREE

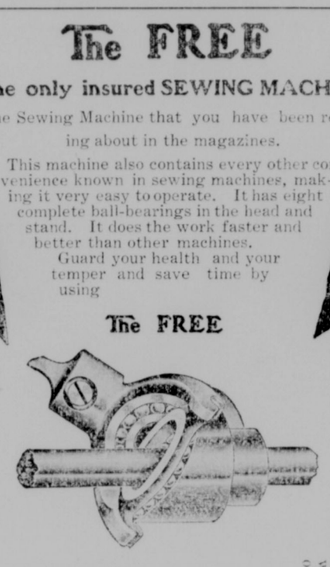
The only insured SEWING MACHINE

The Sewing Machine that you have been reading about in the magazines.

This machine also contains every other convenience known in sewing machines, making it very easy to operate. It has eight complete ball-bearings in the head and stand. It does the work faster and better than other machines.

Guard your health and your temper and save time by using

The FREE



8 EIGHT SETS OF BALL BEARINGS 8

The Free is the Sewing Machine you really and truly ought to buy

Should you through accident in moving or otherwise break any part or the whole machine, we will replace that part or the machine, gratis; that if you break a needle, if you break a belt, or if one wears out; if you break any attachment, we will replace these parts to you absolutely without cost.

The recent invention of the wonderful ROTOSCILLO MOVEMENT has made it possible to use the old fashioned shuttle in a rotary sewing machine and still have it sew easier and smoother than any round bobbin machine.

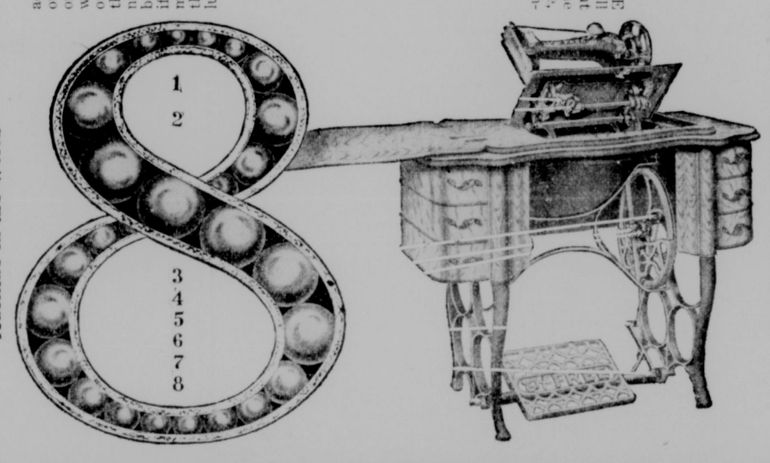
The FREE

IS THE ONLY INSURED SEWING MACHINE

It is insured for five years against breakage, wear, fire, tornado, lightning and water.

To means that if your home burns and The FREE sewing machine is destroyed or injured, we will supply a new The FREE sewing machine without cost; that if in a cyclone or flood, your machine is rendered unfit for use, we will replace it without expense to you.

The FREE is the Lightest Running Sewing Machine in the World



The FREE is the Lightest Running Sewing Machine in the World

LIST OF NOMINATIONS.

OAKLAND, MD., October 26, 1910.

In compliance with the provisions of Section 47 of Article 33 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, we certify that the following are the names of the candidates of the different parties whose certificates of nomination have been filed with us and whose names will appear on the Official Ballot in the following order:

WM. R. OFFUTT, President.
THOS. J. JOHNSON.
SAMUEL LAWTON.
Board of Supervisors of Elections for Garrett County, Md.

EDMUND JAMISON, Clerk.

HOYES.

Quite a change in the atmosphere since our writing last week. Today (Tuesday) an electrical storm passed over this community, followed by quite a fall in temperature and a drizzling rain.

Mrs. Minnie Thayer and two little daughters, of near Crellin, came to Hoyes last week and spent a few days with relatives, returning to their home Sunday afternoon.

Otho Friend, of Mt. Lake, was visiting his grand parents, Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Friend, the past week.

All the measles cases are much improved, except some members of Reuben Enlow's family, who are quite ill with them yet.

Miss Blanche Callis was a guest of Mrs. D. O. Dewitt last Sunday.

Joseph McRobie, telephone lineman, accompanied by his son, Wvant, spent last Saturday night with W. A. Smith.

The first protracted meeting of the coming year will be conducted at this place by Rev. Powers, pastor, and will commence Monday night, October 31st.

Misses Oscie Casteel, Olia, Bernadette and Irene Mattingly were shopping at Cumberland last Saturday, also spent some time in Oakland, and returned home Sunday enening.

Mrs. Mary Dewitt and two children, of Deer Park, spent several days the past week with Mrs. Dewitt's mother, Mrs. Ellen Wilburn.

H. R. Dewitt and wife, of Oakland, arrived in Hoyes Monday evening of this week and will look after Mr. Dewitt's farm interests for a few days.

Mrs. Jennie Miller and children, of Stone House, accompanied by Miss Pearl Bishop, of Oakland, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bishoff at this writing.

Miss Collier, of Cove, and Mr. Charles Schlossnagle, of Accident, spent last Sunday with Troy Glover and family.

We are glad to see William Bowman our community and able to be out again after having a severe siege of measles and pneumonia.

SHORT RUN.

Suppose the readers of THE RUBULICAN have forgotten that there ever was a little village in Garrett county called Short Run, but here we are again, the same jolly folks, all of us still alive and ready for our three meals daily.

The farmers are all very busy digging potatoes, husking corn and gathering apples. Everyone reports very good crops in spite of the dry weather.

We have been having very nice warm weather for the time of year. Have had no frost yet, but the weather is much cooler at the present writing.

Our school is progressing very nicely under the skillful management of Miss Anna Bell.

Mr. Scott Harvey, who has been away operating his thrashing machine for the past month returned to his home here a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Granville Harvey and Beryl McGarvey, of Thomas, W. Va., spent several days last week visiting J. H. Wilson.

Mr. Alex Wilson, of Thomas, spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents.

Mr. T. K. Harvey, of Stoyer, is visiting relatives here, at this writing.

Messrs. George White and S. A. Moon, of Kurtz Chapel, were callers at Mrs. S. E. Harvey's Saturday evening.

Mr. Charles Harvey has been employed by Ringer Finger Co., at Hendricks, W. Va., and is now at work in their large wholesale and retail establishment at this place.

Miss Jeanette Wilson recently purchased an oil stove and is preparing to keep the "parlor furniture" from freezing this winter.

Mr. Robert Harvey was visiting friends at Kurtz Chapel, Sunday.

Mr. Russell Fichtner, of Kitzmiller, was visiting the fair sex here Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs Blaine Kalbaugh, of Elk Garden, W. Va., spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives here.

Mr. T. R. McRobie of Eagle Rock, is helping James Wilson gather his apples.

Mr. L. B. Moore is working at the carpenter trade in Blaine, W. Va.

Miss Ida Wilson spent Srturday in Cumberland.

Mr. Riley Paugh, who is clerking for the Judge, spent Sunday at home.

With best wishes to THE REPUBLICAN.

HARRIGAN.

Church Services.

ST. PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 2:15 p. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., by Rev. J. B. Workman.
Epworth League Monday 7:30 p. m.
Prayermeeting Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

G. R. WILLIAMSON, Pastor.

ST. MARK S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
Preaching at 10.30 a. m.
Luther League Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Deer Park—Preaching at 7:30 p. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

MT. LAKE PARK M. E.

Class meeting at 10 a. m.
Preaching at 11.00 a. m. and 7.45 p. m.
Sunday school at 2.30 p. m.
Epworth League at 6:45 p. m.

P. Z. MUSGRAVE, Pastor.

ST. MATTHEW'S P. E.

Service every Sunday at 11 a. m.
Sunday School at 2:30 p. m.

W. H. SHEARER

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Ferndale—Preaching at 11 a. m.
Loch Lynn—Preaching at 7:30 p. m.
Everybody invited.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany County.

Stands First among the State Banks of Maryland

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and open an account with us.

JAMES M. SLOAN, President. DUNCAN R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

Capital - $50,000
DEPOSITS, - $175,000

The First National Bank

Friendsville, Md.

Surplus Fund, . $26,000
Undivided Profits 6,000

OFFICERS:

L. E. FRIEND, President,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Vice-Pres't
R. C. McCANDLISH, Vice-Pres't
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier

DIRECTORS:

L. E. FRIEND, Merchant,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Lumber and Coal
W. W. SAVAGE, Merchant,
D. S. CUSTER, Merchant,
H. M. RUMBAUGH, Farmer,
W. H. H. FRIEND, Pension Agent and Surveyor,
HORACE R. DEWITT, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCANDLISH,
JOHN T. GEARY.

THREE GOOD THINGS TO KEEP: Your Temper, Your Secrets, Your Money

Your money kept with us will earn you 4 Per Cent. Interest compounded semi-annually. Keep it here and after while it will keep you.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department Takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.
C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.
C. H. Jennings, J. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF

The Garrett National Bank

of Oakland, Maryland,

At the close of business Sept. 1, 1910.

Resources

Loans and Discounts,	$321,213.81
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured,	5.86
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation,	50,000.00
Bonds, Securities, etc.,	143,255.00
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures,	14,500.00
Due from other Banks,	1,071.67
Due from approved Reserve Agents,	88,974.32
Redemption Fund, (5 per cent. of circulation),	2,500.00
Cash on hand,	33,429.19
Total,	$654,949.85

Liabilities

Capital Stock,	$ 50,000.00
Surplus Fund,	45,000.00
Undivided Profits,	1,077.83
Circulation	49,000.00
Due to other Banks,	9,411.54
Deposits,	500,460.48
Total,	$654,949.85

Miss Brenninger, of Sunnyside, was in Oakland yesterday shopping.

Mrs. J. Wilson Humbird, of Cumberland, is here visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. R. Offutt.

Mrs. Harland L. Jones accompanied by Misses Grace Jones and Bess Offutt went to Cumberland this morning where they will spend the day.

State Road Commissioner Crosby will arrive in Oakland today and inspect that portion of Hooppole road which has been completed under Mr. Francis' contract

Dr. J. Lee McComas, who spent the summer in Oakland with his son, Dr. Henry McComas, has returned to Washington where he expects to spent the winter.

Mrs. Wade H. Hinebaugh left Oakland this morning, accompanied by her little daughter, to made a visit to relatives and friends at and near Winchester, Va.

Mr. C. C. Whinnery, of Marietta, Ohio, who was here for a week organizing the creamery and ice cream company, returned to nis home last night, but expects to be in Oakland again next week.

I have some great bargains in farm and town properties. It will pay you to call and see me before buying. Farms from $600 to $40,000. Town properties from $1,000 to $10,000. One excellent 7 room house, gas and steam heat, desirable location in Oakland; best bargain at $2500. E. S. WEST,
Real Estate and Insurance.

Mrs. Martha Brown and daughter Miss Emma of near Kingwood, and Mrs. John Brown, of Rowlesburg, are here on a visit to Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Ravenscroft at their home on Third street.

The Republican has been publishing quite a number of communications from the various towns and villages in the county and would be delighted to have a correspondent at every postoffice who will give the news of the various neighborhoods.

Mr. N. U. Bond and his two nieces, Misses Helen Chapin and Mary Bond, left here Monday afternoon for Brockwayville, Pa., the home of the ladies, whose return was delayed owing to the illness of Miss Bond, who was quite sick for more than a week.

Election Day falling upon the second Tuesday in November this year the Orphans' Court will not hold a session that day but will meet upon the following day, November 9th, at the usual hour. All persons having business with the court should bear this in mind.

Mr. Calvin Echard is making quite a number of splendid improvements to his residence on Pennington street. The building has been moved from its former location to the centre of his lot, raised about eighteen inches, and a cellar is being excavated and a solid stone foundation will be built under it.

Ex-State Senator W. McCulloh Brown was in Oakland Monday, having come here from the camp of the engineering corps which is surveying the West Virginia-Maryland boundary. The camp is now located a few miles south of Cranesville and the engineers hope to have their field work completed within the next three or four weeks.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

This is to give notice that the firm of Cuppett & Lytle, doing a general merchandise business in the town of Sang Run., Md., has this day been dissolved by mutual consent.

CUPPETT & LYTLE.
Sang Run, Md., Oct. 11, 1910.

YOUR CHILDREN MIGHT NEED YOUR MONEY SOME DAY

PUT SOME IN THE BANK FOR THEM NOW it WILL WORK FOR THEM IN THE BANK

SUPPOSE YOU DIED TODAY, would you leave behind helpless little children? You will not fear for the future of your family if you have money in our bank.

Make OUR Bank YOUR Bank.

We pay liberal interest consisteet with safety—3 der cent.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
OAKLAND, MD.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

The only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

No Alum, No Lime Phosphate

TO VOTE ON SALOON QUESTION

In Grantsville and District No. 5 on November 8.

In this paper today the Board of Election Supervisors gives the usual notice of election and the official ballot, by order of the board, is also published.

The ballot will be of the same size and uniformity as that published in this paper today, except those to be voted in Election District No. 5 and the town of Grantsville, where the voters will be called upon to be decide whether or not liquor shall be sold.

District No. 5 is practically dry; the law by which it became anti-saloon territory prescribes that no liquor shall be sold within a given distance of any church. By the operations of this provision the only saloon in the district, that located in the Ries hotel, was closed and liquor can only be secured at the Miller distillery. Should the result of the election be "wet" the law prohibiting the sale within the prescribed radius of the church will not be abrogated, and no saloon could as a result be opened, but should the vote be "dry" then the Miller distillery would be closed to the retail trade at least.

At Grantsville, in Election District No. 3, the town alone is dry and an effort is being made by those in sympathy with the saloon to make the town "wet." The temperance people will bend every energy toward defeating the proposition to create saloons in Grantsville again and they feel that their efforts will be successful.

Notice of Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between R. T. Miller and W. N. Wilson, doing a general mercantile business at Mountain Lake Park, was mutually dissolved on September 22, 1910, said Wilson by by the terms of the article of dissolution to assume all indebtedness of the firm and to receive all credits due said firm.

R. T. MILLER,
W. N. WILSON.

Mr. Thomas W. Keller, of Washington, D. C., assistant sergeant at arms of the United States Senate, spent a few days this week as the guest of his sister, Mrs. Edward E. Sollars, near Oakland. Mr. Keller has occupied a position in the capitol for nearly thirty five years and has been steadily advanced from policeman to the very responsible position he now holds.

Call for Your Letters.

Mrs. G. J. Bryce, Mrs. Mary Knell, Miss Yozicpu Loimlonnic, Paul W. Cox, J. W. Miller, Mrs. A. Eisentrout, Andrew Fenelon, Edith Grimes, Miss Lizzie Harding, Mrs. Nellie Ross, Mrs. R. Schyler, H. E. Simond, M. E. Tuney.

Subscribe for The Republican, Oldest and Best Paper in Garrett county.

Public Sale Saturday October 29, 1910

At their farm six miles from Oakland on the Cranesville road, commencing at 10 a. m., we will offer for sale to the highest bidder all the following personal property consisting of 30 head of Cattle, principally Durham and Polangus stock, described as 6 milk cows, 11 head of two-year-old cattle, 7 head of yearling, 1 four-year-old Bull and 6 Calves; 1 Bay Mare nine years old, 1 Bay Horse six years old, 1 Gray Horse four years years old, 70 head of Sheep, 1 large brood sow, 1 male hog, 8 Shoats, weighing from 75 to 100 lbs. 2 Bee Stands, a lot of Chickens. A big assortment of farm implements consisting of 1 Milwaukee Reaper good as new, 1 Grain Drill, 1 2 horse Troy road wagon, 1 2 seat carriage, 2 bob sleds, 1 buggy, plows, cultivators, mower, hay rake, hay fork, complete fanning mill, 1 double set work harness, 1 double set buggy harness, 1 single set, saddle bridle and many other things too numerous to mention. A lot of feed consisting of 35 tons of hay, 10 tons of Straw, 400 shocks of fodder and all the grain raised on the farm this season, such as oats, wheat, corn, buckwheat, potatoes, also a lot of household goods, such as stoves, beds, sewing machine, couch, telephone, chairs, rockers, kitchen ware, etc; also a lot of dairy fixtures such as cream separator, churn, crocks and jars.

Terms of Sale—All sums under $5 cash on day of sale; all over $5 a credit of six months will be given, with approved security bearing interest at 6 per cent.

Terms of sale to be complied with before goods are removed from premises.

J. M. FALKENSTEIN,
H. V. LEIGHTON.

BITTINGER.

This week begins rather cool, giving evidence of the near approach of winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Sampson Bittinger and children, off Crellin, were visiting relatives here last Sunday and Monday.

Miss Althea Bittinger, of near Oakland, is spending a few days with relatives and friends here this week.

W. W. Bradley is spending this week in this community, selling a new model spray pump.

Lloyd F. Brenneman, of Elk Lick, Pa. was visiting his parents here last week.

Many of our young people attended a corn husking at Alvin Schrock's last Monday evening and report an enjoyable time.

Peter G. Stark is having a well drilled on his farm.

Rev. W. Morris, of Grantsville, conducted the funeral services of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Platter at this place on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Rev. Young has announced services to be held in the Lutheran church at this place on next Saturday evening, Oct. 29.

FRIENDSVILLE.

At last the frost came and we now are having October weather for sure.

Mrs. Sophia Friend, with her two children, are the guests of C. V. Gauard and wife.

Mrs. L. M. Welch, has been very sick but is recovering.

Miss Margaret Snyder returned to teach the scholars in room 2 at the public school on Monday. She has been very sick with the measles.

John Steele left for Reason Run, Pa., where he intends to work for the lumber company there.

Mrs. Ross was taken very sick last week. We trust she may soon recover.

The sheriff will sell the mining cars of the coal company in a few days.

Hallowe'en will be next Monday. Boys don't play anything but harmless jokes.

The band will give a festival on Saturday evening in the opera house. They will serve oysters, chicken and sandwiches, ice cream, cake, coffee, fruit and other refreshments. The citizens should turn out in full force and patronize the boys, as it takes money to run a band and since its organization it must be acknowledged they are making wonderful improvement.

W. F. East and son returned Tuesday evening, from Hoyes where they painted the Catholic church.

Silas Beachy, of Bittinger, was a visitor on business to our city last week.

All the poles are up and and wire being strung from the L. E. Friend water power house and in a week or so the electric lights will be furnished from there.

Donald Chisholm has been very sick with measles.

Some people in our town do not seem afraid to build, as can be seen by the monster building going up for R. M. Holman. It will contain store rooms, offices and show rooms.

John W. McCollough and family were to have returned from Damascus, Va., last Saturday but did not come on account of the breaking down of the large mill there.

Leonard Lytle has had a handsome bay window built onto his dwelling, greatly improving the property.

John Knecht, of West Salisbury, was here last week to load up the small engine known around here, as "Dirty Face" He will take it to the foundry and it will undergo repairs, and then be used by contractors on the Wabash railroad. The engine originally came from the Keystone Mines, Pa., brought here by Young and McCullough, and after being in use by them sold to the Meadow Mountain Lumber Co., then to the Loch Haven Co., and now will leave again for Pennsylvania, after being here some 15 or 16 years. It has been in a good many wreeks, but Mr. Knecht informs us he will again have it in good condition in a short time. It seems as if we were bidding farewell to an old friend.

The ladies of Grace Lutheran church will hold a festival on Thanksgiving in the opera house. Bills will soon be out announcing the event.

The B. & O. Railroad crossing on Maple street has been greatly improved by the company.

The Johnstown Planing Mill Co's mill has been idle for a few days on account of the breaking of a shaft on their narrow gauge engine, but started running Monday.

C. V. Guard's saw mill at Elder has been shut down until the water raises in run at their present location.

The band serenaded F. G. Fox at the Crawford Hotel last week.

Reese Friend was a visitor to Oakland last week.

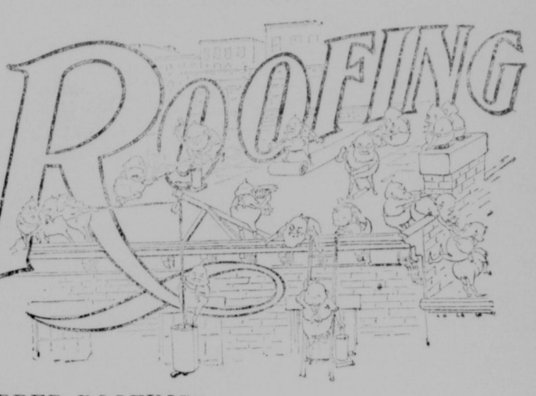
Arthur Chisholm returned from Pennsylvania where he had gone on business for his mill.

Garthright Has For Sale

Two large double heating stoves, the finest ever made; two six hole ranges of a standard make, and five medium to large heating stoves. They may be seen at the Hustling Store, Loch Lynn Heights.

ESTABLISHED 1884.

Will you allow us to talk "ROOFING" to you. We have kinds and at any price.



TARRED ROOFINGS—
1, 2 and 3 ply.

RUBBER ROOFINGS—
2 and 3 ply, double and single rolls.

AMETITE—
The superior of all Gravel Roofings.

CAREY'S ROOFING, (Best of All)—
Contains a heavy flexible body, a strong Calcutta burlap, woolen felt and other durable materials, all united into an indivisible weather and water proof sheet that lasts the life of the building.

SHEETING PAPER, NAILS AND CAPS.

Yours to please,

A. D. NAYLOR & CO.

PRICES RIGHT. BOTH PHONES

H. CREUTZBURG.

SEE MY FALL LINE OF

Dress Goods, Outing Flannels, Etc.

Ladies', Children's, Men's and Boys' Shoes.

Rain Coats for Ladies and Children. Rubber Boots & Shoes.

Full Line of MEN'S AND BOYS CLOTHING.

See my Special Pure Wool $10.00 Black Thibet Suits for Men

Boys Suits $2.50 and up.

Hand-Made Wisconsin Shoes for Men and Boys.

Full Line Groceries.

Meat Market in Connection,

ALL AT THE RIGHT PRICE.

H. CREUTZBURG, Opp P. O., Oakland, Md.

Pay Market Price for Produce.

Our Grocery Department

This department of Bolden, Brown & Weimer's Store is stocked to overflowing with dependable, fresh Groceries of every line and description. In fact our Grocery stock is so large and so varied that were we to undertake to mention a small portion of the many lines carried our advertisement would overrun the space set apart for it. Come, inspect the stock and we feel sure that we can fill every want.

A new department—our five and ten cent counters—has recently been added. Here you may purchase many suitable and dependable articles for less than one-half value.

BOLDEN, BROWN & WEIMER.

The Republican.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Pubr.

OAKLAND, - - - MD.

An early and severe winter is predicted. This is cold comfort.

New York is the second city in the world, but it feels big as the first.

The redeeming feature about the pictured hobble skirt is its impossibility.

Alcohol is a necessity in paint. It seem to have a special affinity for red paint.

Whose business it is, anyway, what particular variety of hat you choose to wear?

The man who said summer is over is hunting his old straw hat in the ash barrel.

The government is advertising for a xylotomist. If you know a good one tell him about it.

Here's a centenarian who swears off on liquor and tobacco. It's never too late, you know.

Infant paralysis is no respector of age. It has just killed a woman of sixty-six in Connecticut.

Pittsburg man invents an apparatus for forecasting earthquakes. No family should be without one.

Count Zeppelin's airships can never increase their popularity by making a specialty of blowing up.

What a fine opening that alligator swimming at large in Paw Paw lake offers to ambitious bathers!

Market report announces, "Eggs strong at 32 cents a dozen." How much for those that are not?

A fund to pension aged and worn-out authors is suggested. Why not pension worn-out readers?

The man who "always gets up at daylight in the summer time" does it because the flies won't let him sleep any longer.

According to advices counterfeit fifty-dollar bills are being circulated, but fortunately most of us are out of the danger zone.

A $60,000 bulldog has died in England, and there is to be a post-mortem investigation. It is an important thing to be a $60,000 bulldog.

Emperor William is a man of stubborn opinions. He still sticks to the divine right of kings and to his belief that he can write an opera.

A western minister informs us that automobile speeders never go to heaven. Probably the golden strets are policed too well to attract them.

New York plans to spend over $4,000,000 for its health next year. As that is less than $1 for each New Yorker, it would seem to be worth the money.

It has been estimated that the average American eats 82 pounds of sugar every year. Now we'd like to know how many pounds he pays for to get that quantity.

The astronomers who are trying to work up another comet scare are hereby politely but firmly advised that the public is disillusioned now about anything coming back.

The hobble skirt, according to one of the fashion journals, "will die a natural death." Having seen it in action, we are afraid some of its wearers will not be so fortunate.

"The grasshopper serves no useful purpose," declares a scientist. Indeed! Did the scientist ever go out after small-mouth bass in August when the bass wouldn't bite on green frogs?

The aviating joy ride has been inaugurated. This should be nipped in the bud. With aviation going on in a scientific and respectable manner it will upset aerial travel at the start to have reckless aviators darting along through space, ready to collide with any other old aeroplane which may happen along, or to drop on unsuspecting pedestrians without warning.

In actual warfare the dropping of a dynamite bomb down the funnels of a battleship from an aeroplane would doubtless cause serious internal complications on the part of the battleship. But also the planting of a one to three-inch shot in the motor or steering apparatus of the aeroplane would doubtless disorganize the air ship belligerent. It is all a question of which gets its projectile properly located first.

A parachute performer in red tights frightened the Rockefeller estate by descending on it from the air and was carefully carried outside the gate. Perhaps they thought it was the Titian-haired siren, whose recent discovery has so perturbed the oil trust.

A young woman in New York tried to kill herself because editors would not publish her poetry. If that were cause for suicide, half the present population of the country would long ago have ceased making a show in the census returns.

THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

ILLUSTRATIONS BY ROY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT 1908 BY BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Innes, spinster and guardian of Gertrude and Halsey, established summer headquarters at Sunnyside. Arnold Armstrong was found shot to death in the hall. Gertrude and her fiance, Jack Bailey, had conversed in the billiard room shortly before the murder. Detective Jamieson accused Miss Innes of holding back evidence. Cashier Bailey of Paul Armstrong's bank, defunct, was arrested for embezzlement. Paul Armstrong's death was announced. Halsey's fiancee, Louise Armstrong, told Halsey that while she still loved him, she was to marry another. It developed that Dr. Walker was the man. Louise was found unconscious at the bottom of the circular staircase. She said something had brushed by her in the dark on the stairway and she fainted. Bailey is suspected of Armstrong's murder. Thomas, the lodger-keeper, was found dead with a note in his pocket bearing the name "Lucien Wallace." A ladder found out of place deepens the mystery. The stables were burned, and in the dark Miss Innes shot an intruder. Halsey mysteriously disappeared. His auto was found wrecked by a freight train. It developed Halsey had an argument in the library with a woman before his disappearance. New cook disappears. Miss Innes learned Halsey was alive.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Who Is Nina Carrington?

The four days, from Saturday to the following Tuesday, we lived, or existed, in a state of the most dreadful suspense. We ate only when Liddy brought in a tray, and then very little. The papers, of course, had got hold of the story, and we were besieged by newspaper men. From all over the country false clews came pouring in and raised hopes that crumbled again to nothing. Every morgue within 100 miles, every hospital, had been visited, without result.

The inaction was deadly. Liddy cried all day, and, because she knew I objected to tears, sniffled audibly around the corner.

"For heaven's sake, smile!" I snapped at her. And her ghastly attempt at a grin, with her swollen nose and red eyes, made me hysterical. I laughed and cried together, and pretty soon, like the two old fools we were, we were sitting together weeping into the same handkerchief.

On Tuesday, then, I sent for the car and prepared to go out. As I waited at the porte-cochere I saw the undergardener, an inoffensive, grayish-haired man, trimming borders near the house. The day detective was watching him, sitting on the carriage block. When he saw me, he got up.

"Miss Innes," he said, taking off his hat, "do you know where Alex, the gardener, is?"

"Why, no. Isn't he here?" I asked.

"He has been gone since yesterday afternoon. Have you—employed him long?"

"Only a couple of weeks."

"Is he efficient? A capable man?"

"I hardly know," I said vaguely. "The place looks all right, and I know very little about such things. I know much more about boxes of roses than bushes of them."

"This man," pointing to the assistant, "says Alex isn't a gardener. That he doesn't know anything about plants."

"That's very strange," I said, thinking hard. "Why, he came to me from the Brays, who are in Europe."

"Exactly." The detective smiled. "Every man who cuts grass isn't a gardener, Miss Innes, and just now it is our policy to believe every person around here a rascal until he proves to be the other thing."

Warner came up with the car then, and the conversation stopped. As he helped me in, however, the detective said something further.

"Not a word or sign to Alex, if he comes back," he said cautiously.

I went first to Dr. Walker's. I was tired of beating about the bush, and I felt that the key to Halsey's disappearance was here at Casanova, in spite of Mr. Jamieson's theories.

The doctor was in. He came at once to the door of his consulting room, and there was no mask of cordiality in his manner.

"Please come 'n," he said curtly.

"I shall stay here, I think, doctor." I did not like his face or his manner; there was a subtle change in both. He had thrown off the air of friendliness, and I thought, too, that he looked anxious and haggard.

"Dr. Walker," I said, "I have come to you to ask some questions. I hope you will answer them. As you know, my nephew has not yet been found."

"So I understand," stiffly.

"I believe, if you would, you could help us, and that leads to one of my questions. Will you tell me what was the nature of the conversation you held with him the night he was attacked and carried off?"

"Attacked! Carried off!" he said, with pretended surprise. "Really, Miss Innes, don't you think you exaggerate? I understand it is not the first time Mr. Innes has—disappeared."

"You are quibbling, doctor. This is a matter of life and death. Will you answer my question?"

"Certainly. He said his nerves were bad, and I gave him a prescription for them. I am violating professional ethics when I tell you even as much as that."

I could not tell him he lied. I think I looked it. But I hazarded a random shot.

"I thought perhaps," I said, watching him narrowly, "that it might be about—Nina Carrington."

For a moment I thought he was going to strike me. He grew livid, and a small crooked blood-vessel in his temple swelled and throbbed curiously. Then he forced a short laugh.

"Who is Nina Carrington?" he asked.

"I am about to discover that," I replied, and he was quiet at once. It was not difficult to divine that he feared Nina Carrington a good deal more than he did the devil. Our leave-taking was brief; in fact, we merely stared at each other over the waiting room table, with its litter of year-old magazines. Then I turned and went out.

"To Richfield," I told Warner, and on the way I thought, and thought hard.

"Nina Carrington, Nina Carrington," the roar and rush of the wheels seemed to sing the words. "Nina Carrington, N. C." And I then knew, knew as surely as if I had seen the whole thing. There had been an N. C. on the suit case belonging to the woman with the pitted face. How simple it all seemed. Mattie Bliss had been Nina Carrington. It was she Warner had heard in the library. It was something she had told Halsey that had taken him frantically to Dr. Walker's office, and from there perhaps to his death. If we could find the woman, we might find what had become of Halsey.

We were almost at Richfield now, so I kept on. My mind was not on my errand there now. It was back with Halsey on that memorable night. What was it he had said to Louise, that had sent her up to Sunnyside, half wild with fear for him? I made up my mind, as the car drew up before the Tate cottage, that I would see Louise if I had to break into the house at night.

Almost exactly the same scene as before greeted my eyes at the cottage. Mrs. Tate, the baby-carriage in the path, the children at the swing—all were the same.

She came forward to meet me, and I noticed that some of the anxious lines had gone out of her face. She looked young, almost pretty.

"I am glad you have come back," she said. "I think I will have to be honest and give you back your money."

"Why?" I asked. "Has the mother come?"

"No, but some one came and paid the boy's board for a month. She talked to him for a long time, but when I asked him afterward he didn't know her name."

"A young woman?"

"Not very young. About 40, I suppose. She was small and fair-haired, just a little bit gray, and very sad. She was in deep mourning, and, I think, when she came, she expected to go at once. But the child, Lucien, interested her. She talked to him for a long time, and, indeed, she looked much happier when she left."

"You are sure this was not the real mother?"

"O mercy, no! Why, she didn't know which of the three was Lucien. I thought perhaps she was a friend of yours, but, of course, I didn't ask."

"She was not—pock-marked?" I asked at a venture.

"No, indeed. A skin like a baby's. But perhaps you will know the initials. She gave Lucien a handkerchief and forgot it. It was very fine, black-bordered, and it had three hand-worked letters in the corner—F. B. A."

"No," I said with truth enough, "she is not a friend of mine." F. B. A. was Fanny Armstrong, without a chance of doubt.

With another warning to Mrs. Tate as to silence, we started back to Sunnyside. So Fanny Armstrong knew of Lucien Wallace, and was sufficiently interested to visit him and pay for his support. Who was the child's mother and where was she? Who was Nina Carrington? Did either of them know where Halsey was, or what had happened to him?

CHAPTER XXVIII.

A Tramp and the Toothache.

The bitterness toward the dead president of the Traders' bank seemed to grow with time. Never popular, his memory was execrated by people who had lost nothing, but who were filled with disgust by constantly hearing new stories of the man's grasping avarice.

But, like everything else those days, the bank failure was almost forgotten by Gertrude and myself. We did not mention Jack Bailey; I had found nothing to change my impression of his guilt, and Gertrude knew how I felt. As for the murder of the bank president's son, I was of two minds. One day I thought Gertrude knew or at least suspected that Jack had done it; the next I feared that it had been Gertrude herself, that night alone on the circular staircase. And then the mother of Lucien Wallace would obtrude herself, and an almost equally good case might be made against her. There were times, of course, when I was disposed to throw all those suspicions aside, and fix definitely on the unknown, whoever that might be.

I had my greatest disappointment when it came to tracing Nina Carrington. The woman had gone without leaving a trace. Marked as she was, it should have been easy to follow her, but she was not to be found. A description to one of the detectives, on my arrival at home, had started the ball rolling. But by night she had not been found. I told Gertrude, then, about the telegram to Louise when she had been ill before; about my visit to Dr. Walker, and my suspicions that Mattie Bliss and Nina Carrington were the same. She thought, as I did, that there was little doubt of it.

I said nothing to her, however, of the detective's suspicions about Alex. Little things that I had not noticed at the time now came back to me. I had an uncomfortable feeling that perhaps Alex was a spy, and that by taking him into the house I had played into the enemy's hands. But at eight o'clock that night Alex himself appeared, and with him a strange and repulsive individual. They made a queer pair, for Alex was almost as disreputable as the tramp, and he had a badly swollen eye.

Gertrude had been sitting listlessly waiting for the evening message from Mr. Jamieson, but when the singular pair came in, as they did, without ceremony, she jumped up and stood staring. Winters, the detective who watched the house at night, followed them, and kept his eyes sharply on Alex's prisoner. For that was the situation as it developed.

He was a tall lanky individual, ragged and dirty, and just now he looked both terrified and embarrassed. Alex was too much engrossed to be either, and to this day I don't think I ever asked him why he went off without permission the day before.

"Miss Innes," Alex began abruptly, "this man can tell us something very important about the disappearance of Mr. Innes. I found him trying to sell this watch."

He took a watch from his pocket and put it on the table. It was Halsey's watch. I had given it to him on the twenty-first birthday; I was dumb with apprehension.

"He says he had a pair of cuff-links also, but he sold them—"

"Fer a dollar'n half," put in the disreputable individual hoarsely, with an eye on the detective.

"He is not—dead?" I implored. The tramp cleared his throat.

"No'm," he said huskily. "He was used up pretty bad, but he weren't dead He was comin' to hisself when I"—he stopped and looked at the detective. "I didn't steal it, Mr. Winters," he whined. "I found it in the road, honest to God, I did."

Mr. Winters paid no attention to him. He was watching Alex.

"I'd better tell what he told me," Alex broke in. "It will be quicker. When Jamieson—when Mr. Jamieson calls up we can start him right. Mr. Winters, I found this man trying to sell that watch on Fifth street. He offered it to me for $3."

"How did you know the watch?" Winters snapped at him.

"I ha seen it before, many times. I used it at night when I was watching at the foot of the staircase." The detective was satisfied. "When he offered the watch to me, I knew it, and I pretended I was going to buy it. We went into an alley and I got the watch." The tramp shivered. It was plain how Alex had secured the watch. "Then—I got the story from this fellow. He claims to have seen the whole affair. He says he was in an empty car—in the car the automobile struck."

The tramp broke in here and told his story, with frequent interpretations by Alex and Mr. Winters. He used a strange medley, in which familiar words took unfamiliar meanings, but it was gradually made clear to us.

On the night in question the tramp had been "pounding his ear"—this struck me as being graphic—in an empty box-car along the siding at Casanova. The train was going west, and due to leave at dawn. The tramp and the "brakey" were friendly, and things going well. About ten o'clock, perhaps earlier, a terrific crash against the side of the car roused him. He tried to open the door, but could not move it. He got out of the other side, and just as he did so, he heard some one groan.

The habits of a lifetime made him cautious. He slipped on to the bumper of a car and peered through. An automobile had struck the car and stood there on two wheels. The tail lights were burning, but the headlights were out. Two men were stooping over some one who lay on the ground. Then the taller of two started on a dog-trot along the train looking for an empty. He found one four cars away and ran back again. The two lifted the unconscious man into the empty box-car, and getting in themselves, stayed for three or four minutes. When they came out, after closing the sliding door, they cut up over the railroad embankment toward the town. One, the short one, seemed to limp.

The tramp was wary. He waited for ten minutes or so. Some women came down a path to the road and inspected the automobile. When they had gone, he crawled into the box-car and closed the door again. Then he lighted a match. The figure of a man, unconscious, gagged, and with his hands tied, lay far at the end. The tramp lost no time; he went through his pockets, found a little money and the cuff-links, and took them. Then he loosened the gag—it had been cruelly tight—and went his way, again closing the door of the box-car. Outside on the road he found the watch. He got on the fast freight east, some time after, and rode into the city. He had sold the cuff-links, but on offering the watch to Alex he had been "copped."

The story, with its cold recital of villainy, was done. I hardly knew if I were more anxious, or less. That it was Halsey, there could be no doubt. How badly he was hurt, how far he had been carried, were the questions that demanded immediate answer. But it was the first real information we had had; my boy had not been murdered outright. But instead of vague terrors there was now the real fear that he might be lying in some strange hospital receiving the casual attention commonly given to the charity cases. Even this, had we known it, would have been paradise to the terrible truth. I wake yet and feel myself cold and trembling with the horror of Halsey's situation for three days after his disappearance.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Alex Was Almost as Disreputable as the Tramp.

Labor That Aids the World.

It is true that all wealth comes from labor, but not necessarily from labor by the hands. The thinkers of the world have added inestimably to its development. It was a portrait painter who invented the telegraph, a college professor who produced the telephone, and the list might be extended almost indefinitely. It is well that to-day, with all our indulgence in rest and play, that we remember that it is intelligently directed energy of whatever kind which makes man better and helps along the world to the millennial dawn.

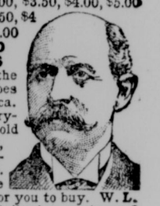
Four Pellets of MUNYON'S DYSPEPSIA CURE every hour will heal, soothe and invigorate worn out stomachs and relieve distress.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES

HAND-SEWED PROCESS

MEN'S $2.00, $2.50, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $5.00
WOMEN'S $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4
BOYS' $2.00, $2.50 & $3.00

THE STANDARD FOR 30 YEARS



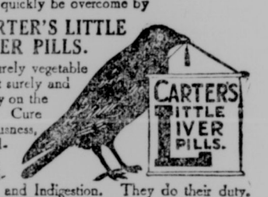
They are absolutely the most popular and best shoes for the price in America. They are the leaders everywhere because they hold their shape, fit better, look better and wear longer than other makes. They are positively the most economical shoes for you to buy. W. L. Douglas name and the retail price are stamped on the bottom — value guaranteed.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE! If your dealer cannot supply you write for Mail Order Catalog.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

The Wretchedness of Constipation

Can quickly be overcome by CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.



Purely vegetable—act surely and gently on the liver. Cure Biliousness, Headache, Dizziness, and Indigestion. They do their duty.

Small Pill, Small Dose, Small Price.

Genuine must bear Signature

Breath Good

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

A LITTLE TOO PRIMITIVE

Shower Bath Arrangement Something of a Snock to the Participant.

August Belmont, at a dinner in Saratoga, praised the seaside towns of New England.

"But some of them," he added, "are a little too primitive. "I remember a story about the primitive town of Rockford. Rockford had a rough bathing establishment, with a shower bath. You stood in your bathhouse and pulled a rope and a deluge of cool water descended from the ceiling.

"Well, a lady visitor stood one day in her bathhouse, ready for the shower. She pulled the rope and braced herself, but no shower followed. She gave the rope another tug, when the gruff voice of the sailor proprietor of the establishment sounded from aloft.

"'Stand a p'int more to the nor-east, mum,' it said, 'if ye want to get the full force.'

"And the horrified lady, looking up, saw the old sailor frowning impatiently through a hole in the ceiling and tilting a barrel of sea water for the shower.

Managing a Husband.

Men are like children; they want managing, although you must never let them dream that you think so. No child likes to be ordered about, no man will endure coercion. But managing! It is an art so subtle, so elusive, that few women understand even the rudiments of it. Sisters mine, let us reason together, says Woman's Life. In every human being there is a spark of the divine; it is yours to fan that spark into a flame—that is managing a man—it is to get the very best out of him there is to have, and not two women in ten can do it.

Do not think that there is anything unworthy in managing a man—to bring out the best is a high vocation. Only let us see to it that we are worthy of it. There are women who have made angels of men, but at the cost of their own divinity. There is room for more than one unselfish person in a family.

Post Toasties

A bowl of these crisp fluffy bits served with cream or milk is something not soon forgotten.

What's the use of cooking breakfast or lunch when Post Toasties, ready to serve direct from the package, are so delicious?

"The Memory Lingers"

POSTUM CEREAL CO., LTD., Battle Creek, Mich.

HOW BENTON WON LIFE'S BATTLE

by JOSEPH W. FOLK
FORMER GOVERNOR OF MISSOURI

COPYRIGHT BY JOSEPH B. BOWLES

OUTSIDE of Missouri the home of Thomas H. Benton, United States senator from 1821 to 1851, is known only to the student of history. Webster, Clay and Calhoun are familiar words everywhere, yet Benton served in the United States senate longer than any of these, and was responsible for more sound legislation than all of them together. His name was never prominently connected with the presidency, yet he accomplished more for his country than have the majority of the presidents.

This remarkable man came into the world in 1782, six years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, and departed in 1858, three years before the Civil war. Thus his life covered the formative epoch of a government by the people in the making, and ended just before the outbreak that shook the foundations of the republic and bathed the nation in blood. For many years he ignored the mutterings in the political sky and preferred to believe the talk of war between the states over the question of slavery mere idle chatter. When he realized that the sentiment of disunion was real he took an uncompromising stand in favor of the union and refused to alter his position or trim his sails to meet the breezes from Missouri that were blowing the other way. Though entering public life as an advocate of the admission of Missouri into the union unrestricted as to slavery, he left the public service in the evening of life because he would not consent to vote for the extension of slavery into territory that had before been free. He was a firm believer in the doctrine of state rights, which was, as he understood it, the right of the states to govern themselves as to all matters except those delegated to the federal government. His theory of the republic was an "indissoluble union of self-governing states"—a federated republic.

His education, that is the school part of it, was limited to the grammar schools and a short time in the University of North Carolina. In a larger sense he continued his studies until the day of his death, and was one of the best informed men of his time. While other statesmen were indulging in the dissipations common to that period among public men, he devoted his spare moments to investigation and study, and his knowledge of the details of public matters was vastly superior to that of any of his compeers.

Benton's high moral character was blemished by his pugnacious disposition. In his early days he was involved in many "affairs of honor" as duels were termed then. He had not been in St. Louis long when the most unfortunate event in his career occurred. In the trial of a law suit some trivial dispute arose between him and a young attorney named Charles Lucas, a highly esteemed and most estimable young man. Lucas won the case and Benton challenged him. Lucas declined the challenge at first, but Benton persisted and offered deliberate insults. Lucas then accepted. They fought a first duel and no one being injured a second meeting was insisted upon by both parties. In the second duel Lucas fell, mortally wounded. Before dying he took Benton's hand and forgave him, but Benton never forgave himself, and the shadow of this tragedy went with him through the years to his grave. The code-duello was resorted to in those days often for insignificant things, and every public man of consequence had figured in such an affair either as principal or second. This duel was fought the year after Benton arrived in St. Louis. Four years later the father of the lamented victim of the duelling custom was one of the unsuccessful candidates for senator against Benton.

His Fight With "Old Hickory."

Benton, like Andrew Jackson, was of North Carolina birth, and, like Old Hickory, moved to Tennessee when a youth just entering upon manhood's estate. He became Jackson's friend while they both lived in Nashville and co-operated with Jackson in raising the brigade of militia which became the nucleus of the army that was to annihilate the British at New Orleans and make January 8, 1815, a red-letter day in American annals. It was on Benton's advice that the brigade was formed and offered to the government by Jackson, and for a time he was on Jackson's staff. Their friendly relations were, however, interrupted by a disgraceful brawl. Jesse Benton, a brother of Thomas Benton, had fought a duel and Jackson had seconded the antagonist. An angry dispute arose, Benton espousing his brother's cause. Jackson struck Benton with a horsewhip, and in return was shot in the shoulder by Benton. Jackson carried Benton's bullet in his shoulder until the close of his presidential term, and the wound gave him some physical distress to the end of his days. The feeling between them ran high after this episode, not to subside until the hand of fate was to bring them together again, one a senator from another state, and the other as a candidate for the presidency of the United States. A year or so after the fight Benton moved to St. Louis, where he opened a law office in connection with a newspaper of which he became editor. He became prominent at once in the discussion of public questions, and took a leading part in securing the admission of Missouri into the union. After a five years' residence in Missouri he was elected by the legislature one of the state's first two United States senators.

Declined Money Profit from Public Service.

Immediately upon his election, with scrupulous regard for his official integrity, Benton called all of his clients to his office and told them that he could not further serve them, as there might be a conflict between their interest and the public welfare. For some of his clients he had litigation over land grants, and as senator he was in a position, through the enactment of laws, to make them and himself wealthy in the settlement of disputed titles. He refused even to recommend an attorney to them, lest this might embarrass him in his public duty. His idea of public office was that an official had no more right to use his public functions to aid personal friends or to advance his own fortune than he would have to put his hand into the public treasury and take money therefrom to pay a private debt. Through all his official career Benton was true to this ideal and was incorruptible and above reproach from any venal standpoint.

Championed "Missouri Compromise."

Benton's career of constructive statesmanship was the greatest Missouri or the west has produced. He came upon the stage of public activity with the enactment of the Missouri compromise, which was largely his work. He left public life coincident with the repeal of that measure. Under this compromise Missouri was admitted into the Union (though it was some years later before the state was formally recognized) as a slave state, with the provision that no state created out of the Louisiana purchase, north of the southern boundary of Missouri, should be admitted with slavery. It hushed slavery agitation for a decade, and any attack upon it for a time was resisted by south as well as north. Benton was 39 years old when he took his seat and had lived exactly half the years given to him. Monroe was just beginning his second term as president, Calhoun was secretary of war, Henry Clay was speaker of the house of representatives. In the next presidential contest Benton supported Clay against Jackson, but ever after that he was Clay's political enemy and Jackson's warmest and strongest supporter.

Father of Homestead Law.

To Benton more than any other man is due the fact that there is no frontier in the United States today. What was a wilderness west of the Rocky mountains fifty years ago is now settled by happy and prosperous men and women by reason of his effort in securing the enactment of the homestead law. Benton established the policy of selling public land at a maximum of $1.25 an acre, giving preference to actual settlers and securing to settlers the right of preemption. This made settlement easy and streams of sturdy men and women began at once to move westward.

Benton looked into the future further than any other statesman of his time. In answer to the taunts that the western country, particularly Oregon, would never be anything more than a hunting ground, he prophesied that the time would come when there would be more people west of the Rockies than east. He advocated the construction of a military road to New Mexico, and was so earnest in his support of the idea of a transcontinental railroad that his enemies charged him with being mentally unbalanced on the subject, and even his friends feared he was too enthusiastic. In one of his first speeches he prophesied that the Pacific coast would soon become the door of Asia and advised sending ministers to China and Japan—a proposal at that time considered extremely humorous.

Brought About Specie Payments.

It was through Benton's effort that specie payments were established and that all our money became based on gold and silver. So earnest was he in the demand for a specie basis that he was nicknamed "Old Bullion," of which he became very proud, and in his speeches often referred to himself by that term. He was at first inclined to favor a protective tariff system, but later strongly opposed protection merely for the sake of protection. He stated his position thus: "The fine effects of the tariff upon the prosperity of the west have been celebrated on this floor. With how much reason let facts respond and people judge. I do not think we are indebted to the high tariff for our fertile lands and navigable rivers, and I am certain we are indebted to those blessings for the prosperity we enjoy." While he opposed the protective system he voted for a protective duty on lead, which was largely produced in Missouri. In this he made the mistake that has been made by so many senators and congressmen of this day, who say they oppose protection, but vote for protection on the products of their own states, thereby placing themselves in the position of not being able to successfully question the justice of the demand of those in other states for a larger share of protection for themselves.

After the election of Andrew Jackson to the chief magistracy Benton became the right arm of that great president. In the atttempted nullificaion of the tariff laws by South Carolina, Benton made effective Jackson's ultimatum to that state demanding submission to the law, by engineering the passage of a compromise tariff bill which stopped everybody from talking of fighting, but satisfied nobody.

Fought United States Bank.

Jackson's greatest battle was against the United States bank, which he declared must either be put out of business or it would run the government. Benton led this fight in the senate. He brought up the question in 1831 by submitting a resolution to the effect that it was not expedient to re-charter the bank. The war against the bank raged fiercely for years. It had many powerful adherents and obtained the support of a number of members of congress, as was shown later by investigation, through what amounted to brazen bribery in the way of favoritism on loans. In the midst of the fight the presidential election of 1832 took place and Jackson was triumphantly re-elected. Shortly after this Jackson made an order withdrawing the public funds from the bank. This precipitated a tremendous public uproar and the senate adopted a resolution censuring Jackson for the act. Benton immediately began a fight to expunge this resolution from the record, and finally, in the last days of the Jackson administration, the motion prevailed amidst great excitement and the resolution of censure was expunged by having a black border drawn around it and across its face the words: "Expunged by order of the senate, January 16, 1837." Jackson deeply appreciated the value of Benton's support and years later, on his deathbed, said to a friend: "Tell Col. Benton I am grateful."

Benton was the supporter of Jackson's successors to the presidency, particularly of Van Buren and Polk, but after Andrew Jackson, the presidents up to the Civil war wielded little influence compared with those before, and were largely engaged in a game of hide-and-seek on the slavery question.

In 1848 the anti-Bentonites carried a majority of the Missouri legislature, and a resolution was passed demanding that slavery be permitted to exist in territory north of the Missouri compromise boundary and instructing the senators to vote accordingly. Benton denounced this resolution as treasonable and refused to obey it. He said it did not represent the sentiment of the people of the state and he appealed from the Missouri legislature to the Missouri people. The struggle was bitter and intense. As Benton was up for re-election, it being the close of his fifth term as senator, the effort was to control the legislature which was to elect the senator for the following term. Neither side obtained a majority of the members and a deadlock resulted to be broken by the anti-Benton Democrats combining with the Whigs and bringing about Benton's defeat.

The old warrior was not dismayed and kept up the fight. In 1852 he was sent to the lower house of congress from St. Louis as a Union Democrat. For thirty years he had been absolute dictator in the politics of Missouri. His word was final, and his wishes law, but the tide had turned, and for the remaining years of his life set steadily against him. Yet at no time in his career does Benton present a more inspiring figure than when, with his back to the wall, crowded on every side by foes, he continued to battle for the principles he believed in. By compromising and by truckling to the public sentiment of his state he could have regained his seat in the senate, but he would have lost the love and admiration due the brave man who prefers defeat with the right to victory with what he considers wrong.

Benton's mannerisms were marked and did not tend to make him popular with the masses. He seemed egotistical to the point of absurdity, yet in him it was merely exaggerated self-respect. To the casual observer stern and pompous, he was gentle and tender-hearted to those who knew him well. His public and private life were above reproach. His high sense of honor as a public servant, his incorruptible integrity, his unwavering adherence at whatever cost to the principles he believed in, his powerful intellect and his aggressive energy combined to make him a fighter eminently qualified to lead and represent the militant people of the West in the first half of the last century.

He was defeated for re-election to the house in 1854, and in 1856 became the candidate of the Union Democrats for governor, and ran third in the race. He was now 74 years old, but as vigorous and robust as ever. Without lamenting his fate or the people's ingratitude, he cheerfully took up the completion of his "Thirty Years' View," giving a mental picture of the important events in the history of our country with which he had been connected. In 1858 he died in Washington, undismayed by the storm of public misunderstanding that had wrecked his political life. He looked into the future and saw the approval of coming generations whose views would not be obscured by the passions and excitement of the moment. When the news of his death reached Missouri there was an entire change of sentiment and all classes united to do honor to his memory. They then realized that the mightiest man of Missouri was dead, the man who towered above friends and foes. All the state was in mourning and his funeral at St. Louis was attended by more than forty thousand people.

Saved Missouri to Union.

It was the fight Benton made that enabled others, when the war came, to keep Missouri in the Union. If Missouri had seceded there probably would have been a different story to tell than that which came from Appomattox.

So Benton won life's battle by simple honesty, by perseverance, by having ideals and remaining true to them in sunshine and in shadow. His influence will be felt for good as long as this republic lasts, and the failure to secure political preferment at the end of his life by giving up the fight accentuates the grandeur of his character. He lost for the moment, but in losing he gained for all time. For him there was victory in defeat. The lesson of his life is—it is not essential always to win, but it is essential to keep the faith.

The Mystery of a Duel.

Having fought his duel and saved his honor by firing a shot in the air, the editor of a French provincial newspaper went back to his desk and the incident had quite left his mind when he felt something strange in his thigh. He looked and found that he was bleeding profusely.

A doctor was called, who discovered that a bullet was embedded in the editor's thigh some two inches deep and required extraction. "Why was this not taken notice of on the spot where the duel took place?" he asked. The editor was as much in the dark as the doctor. At the moment of the duel he had fired into the air and his adversary also took a distracted sort of aim. There had evidently been no intention of doing the slightest harm on either side. The editor felt nothing as he left the field and had shaken hands with his antagonist as a sign of reconciliation. How a bullet came to be lodged in his thigh was simply one of the mysteries of dueling.

Another Boom for the Crops.

"Not many delegates appeared at the Esperantist congress that met in Kansas."

"No. Most of them stopped off and hired out as harvest hands."

Strategy.

Bessie—But didn't you say if George tried to kiss you, why, you wouldn't stand for it?

Peggy—I didn't. I—I sat down in a hammock.

WHY NEW ORLEANS

CITY IS LOGICAL POINT FOR WORLD'S PANAMA EXPOSITION.

Its Geographical Position and Many Other Considerations Mark It as Most Suitable Spot for Dedication of Great Work.

Public sentiment has decided that the completion of the Panama Canal in 1915 shall be celebrated with a great International Exposition in which all the nations of the world may participate; and the question of where this Exposition is to be held will be settled by Congress at its approaching session.

New Orleans and San Francisco are contesting for the honor of holding this Exposition, and both cities have guaranteed immense sums of money as an evidence of their ability to finance so great an enterprise.

An Exposition worthy of the term "World's Fair," such as New Orleans proposes to build, will be a great educational movement. Its success as such, however, will depend entirely upon the percentage of our population who can secure its educational advantages, this in turn, depends upon its location, as the time in traveling to and from the Exposition, and the cost in railroad and Pullman fares, are the most important factors.

Considering these matters, New Orleans' claims to being the "Logical Point" for this Panama Exposition, seem to be fully substantiated by the following facts:—

New Orleans is 500 miles from the center of population in the United States. San Francisco is 2,500 miles distant therefrom.

Within a radius of 500 miles from New Orleans there are 17,500,000 people. Within the same radius from San Francisco there are only 2,000,000.

Within a radius of 1,000 miles from New Orleans, there are 65,000,000. Within the same radius from San Francisco there are only 6,000,000.

At an average of 900 miles from New Orleans, there are 70 of our principal cities with a combined population of 20,000,000. Averaging 900 miles from San Francisco there are only 8 large cities, with a combined population of just 1,000,000. The average distance of all these cities to New Orleans is 792 miles,—to San Francisco 2,407 miles.

Over 75 per cent. of the people of the United States could go to an Exposition there at an average expense for railroad fare of $12.50, as against an average of $37.50 to the Pacific Coast; and for several millions of our people, the Pullman fare and Dining Car expenses alone, for a trip to San Francisco, would amount to more than all their transportation expenses for a trip to New Orleans.

This is an important public question to be settled by Congress at the session which convenes in December.

Many of our readers will wish to visit this World's Panama Exposition, and if held in New Orleans a great many more could spare the time and money for the trip than could go to San Francisco. Therefore, we urge our readers to write to the two senators from this State and the congressman from this district, requesting them to support New Orleans in the contest.

The Retort Courteous.

"Now," said the suffragette orator, sweeping the audience with her eagle eye, "I see Mr. Dobbs sitting down there in the third row—a man who has condescended to come here tonight and listen to our arguments. He has heard what I have had to say, and I think we should like to hear from him, and get a man's view of our cause. Mr. Dobbs, tell us what you think of the suffragettes."

"Oh, I c-c-couldn't, m-m-ma'am," stammered Dobbs. "I rur-really c-couldn't. Thu-there are l-l-lul-ladies pup-present."—Harper's Weekly.

He Came by It Honestly.

"Lend me your pencil, Johnny." The small boy handed it over and teacher continued to correct the exercises of the class. When she finished she suffered a sudden lapse of memory and laid the pencil away in her desk. As she stood up to excuse the class she encountered the scornful gaze of Johnny's eyes. Rising in his seat he fixed her with an accusing forefinger and uttered the single word "Graft!"

Johnny's father writes for a current magazine.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Consulting the Playwright.

"My star can wiggle his ears and whistle through his teeth."

"Um."

"Now, can you build me a first-class comedy around that?"

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

A careless philosopher says a man never knows who his friends are until he hasn't any.

A woman is judged by the society she's unable to get into.

THE GRANGE

Conducted by
J. W. DARROW, Chatham, N. Y.,
Press Correspondent New York State Grange

A LIVE INSTITUTION.

Center County Pomona Grange of Pennsylvania Does Things.

It Has a Fire Insurance Company, Has Organized Its Own Fair Association and Operates a Patrons' Rural Telephone Company With Fourteen Branch Organizations and Is Now Talking About a Grange Bank.

Thirty-four years ago Center county Pomona grange of Pennsylvania was organized. During those years it has established several business enterprises such as those named in the heading of this article. First the Grange Fire Insurance company was organized in the spring of 1876, with an insurance of $206,000, and was incorporated by the state under the laws governing insurance companies. The plans for its government were drawn by its own membership, so that there is not a rule or law that has not been devised and perfected by the county grange.

Its sole purpose is to insure the most humble as well as the most affluent member who has a home that the Order has pledged itself to protect. The company has now been in active operation for thirty-three years and carries an insurance of $6,270,942 at an average cost of 21 cents per $100 of actual insurance for thirty-three years, which is 12 cents less per $100 than the average cost in all mutual companies doing business in Pennsylvania for the same period and from 2 to 7 cents less per $100 than the average cost in all other companies doing business in Center county for the same length of time. The average cost in all mutual companies doing business in Pennsylvania for the last year was 49 cents per $100 of insurance.

"Our company," says the grange editor of the National Stockman, "has paid to distressed Patrons who lost their homes by fire since its organization in 1876 $159,445.23. It is doubtful whether any other fraternal organization has contributed a larger amount for relief of its distressed membership during the same period of time."

A Big Grange Fair.

In 1891 the county grange purchased twenty-eight acres of land at Center Hall, which were converted into a park, and now has one of the finest fair grounds in Pennsylvania. This association has no debt and pays all its fair premiums in cash. The county grange has also helped to organize and capitalize other business enterprises in the interests of the Order, besides holding stock in national banks that are worth in the market $140 per share and ten shares in building and loan associations that are now worth $77 per share. It also holds shares of stock in fourteen branch telephone companies.

Patrons' Rural Telephone Company.

Then the county grange took up another enterprise which has been carried forward with marked success. In 1905 it organized the Patrons' Rural Telephone company, which has now under its management fourteen branch companies, with an estimated paid up capital of $6,000 under an incorporated company with an authorized capital of $10,000, and has upward of 250 phones in use on its lines, giving service to its members at from $5 to $7 less per instrument than that given by the old line companies, all brought about in the short period of three years by the united and loyal support of the membership of the Order.

And, lastly, the grange is considering the organization of a co-operative grange bank.

What Is the Grange?

Here is a good, short, comprehensive answer to the question which has been asked thousands of times and through all the forty-three years of its existence, "What is the grange?" The grange is a fraternal organization of farmers to secure educational, social, financial and legislative benefits, national in scope, nonpartisan in politics, but truly patriotic; seeking to develop the highest standards of citizenship; nonsectarian in religion, but having its high ideals of morality founded on the teachings of the Bible; including in its membership not only the farmer, but his family; seeking to restore agriculture to the place assigned it by the Father of his Country as "the most healthful, the most useful and the noblest calling of man."

When Do Grange Dues Begin?

We are asked when a member should begin paying dues—at time of initiation or later. In New York he begins with the month succeeding the one in which he takes his first degree. The dues of charter members likewise begin the month following that in which the grange was organized. The subordinate grange does not pay dues to the state grange on a member until the quarter following that in which he was received into the grange, but does pay dues to the state grange on any names dropped during the quarter by demit or expulsion.

The Grange Did It.

It has been estimated by persons who have made a study of the subject that real estate values in rural districts have increased $750,000,000 since the establishment of the rural free delivery system.

GRAVEL MADE ROADS

Highway Engineer Shows Why They Are Easily Built.

ROADBED MUST BE KEPT DRY.

Surface Should Be So Shaped That Water Will Run Off and Not Penetrate—Value of Underdrains, Side Ditches and Rolling.

At a meeting of the Missouri Highway Engineers' association, held at Jefferson City, F. P. Spalding of Columbia, Mo., read a paper on gravel roads and said in part:

Gravel or broken stone when used for a road is intended to form a hard surface, which will resist the wear of the traffic and which will shed the water without softening in rainy weather or when snow is melting. The gravel, or macadam, is not in itself a rigid structure, but depends upon the firmness of the earth below to carry the loads which come upon it. The object of the gravel is to make the surface harder and more resistant to wear and the action of water than the earth surface that it replaces, and it can only be effective when the road below it is properly shaped and drained and when the surface has such form as to cause the water which falls upon it to quickly run off without penetrating the road.

Filling mudholes with gravel is not making a gravel road. This is only wasting good material. I can recall a mudhole into which gravel was regularly dumped every spring for years, and each time when the ground thawed out in the following spring the mud was again on top and ready to swallow another dose of gravel. Probably there is enough gravel in that hole, 200 or 300 feet long, to make a mile of good gravel road. Finally a road supervisor came along, who put in a few hundred feet of tile and crowned the road surface, and there has been no mudhole there since.

BAD ROAD THAT GRAVEL WOULD IMPROVE.

The form which should be given to an earth roadbed and the methods of drainage to be used depend in each instance upon the local conditions surrounding the road. The ability of earth to sustain a load depends in a large measure upon the amount of water contained by it. Most earth forms a good foundation so long as it is kept dry, but when wet it loses its sustaining power, becoming wet and incoherent. When softened by water soil is easily displaced by the settling of the road or forced upward into any space that may exist in it. In order, therefore, that the loads may be uniformly sustained and the surface of the road kept firm and even it is of first importance that the roadbed be kept dry. The improvement and maintenance of a road are therefore largely questions of drainage, the objects being to prevent water from reaching the road and to provide means for immediately removing such as does reach it before the soil becomes saturated and softened.

Surface drainage is always necessary if the body of the road is to be kept in a dry condition and is accomplished by having the surface of such form that water falling upon it will quickly run into the gutters. Underdrains will not drain water from the surface of a road, and unless the crown is at all times maintained and the surface kept smooth water is likely to stand upon the surface and penetrate into the road. And this is just as true of a gravel or stone road as of the earth surface.

At the side of the road longitudinal ditches must be provided for the purpose of carrying the water drained from the surface of the road to some point where it may be turned into a natural drainage channel. In many instances these side ditches also carry drainage from land adjacent to the road. The size and form of the gutters will naturally depend upon the quantity of water to be carried and the slope of the gutters. Where the quantity of water to be carried is small the extension of the slope of the road surface may be sufficient without any special gutter being provided.

In forming a roadbed upon which to place a gravel or macadam surface the earth roadbed should be made as firm and smooth as possible before the placing of the surfacing material. Wherever possible the earth after being brought to grade and given the proper form for receiving the surface should be rolled with a heavy roller until it is firmly packed and able to yield efficient support to the surface. In any case the surface should not be placed until the roadbed is thoroughly settled and packed in place.

Highway Maintaining Scheme.

Many German highways are lined with cherry trees. When the fruit is ripe it is gathered and sold, and the proceeds go to the fund for maintaining the highways.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mr. C. W. Hopkins left Monday last to visit relatives in California. He expects to return soon accompanied by Mrs. Hopkins who has been in California several months.

Mr. Newman Wilson has moved into own house in Loch Lynn.

Messrs. A. Lincoln and Asa Callis have purchased the blacksmith shop from Mr. A. W. Miller and will conduct the business at the old stand.

Mrs. J. A. Enlow, who has been visiting her sister, the wife of Rev. W. E. Dean, in Ohio, for several weeks, will return to her home here Saturday.

Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson is negotiating for the purchase of one of the most valuable properties in the Park to be occupied as a summer home for himself and family. This is the seventh property which has passed into strong hands within the last two months, and all of them among the best in the Park.

Saturday last Miss Anna De Berry, principal of our public school, took twenty-eight of her pupils on an excursion to Corinth, W. Va. The day was very pleasantly spent in a grove near Corinth in gathering chestnuts. The day was quite chilly but a large log fire was made and the children did not suffer from the cold.

Mr. Doman has added new machinery to his mill and is better prepared to make the best and give the largest turnout of buckwheat flour.

Our few sick in the Park and Loch Lynn are all improving.

Mr. John Michael received a consignment of fifty high grade chickens last week.

There are seventy-two families now residing in the Park.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hayden expect to move to Oakland for the winter

Rev. Jacob H. Cuppet preached in the M. E. Church last evening.

Preaching Sunday in the M. E. church at 11.00 a. m. and 7.45 p. m.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, Maryland, letters of administration on the estate of

ROBERT W. YOUNG,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of April, 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 26th day of October, 1910.

S. F. BISHOP,
Administrator,
Kitzmiller Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters testamentary on the estate of

HENRY BEITZEL,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 25th day of April 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 26th day of October 1910.

GEO. H. BEITZEL,
Administrator,
Accident, Md., R. D. 1.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett Co., Md., deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 17th day of April, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

CLEAVER H POOL,

Given under my hand this 26th day of February, 1910.

GERTRUDE E. POOL,
Administratrix,
Kitzmiller, Md.

SHERIFF'S SALE

OF VALUABLE

PersonalProperty

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett County in a suit wherein Samuel P. Arnold and V. E. Irvin, partners, doing business as The Curwensville Drilling Company is plaintiff, and The Western Maryland Coal and Coke Company are defendants, the same being No. 10 Judicials to September Term, 1910, I Andrew Shartzer, Sheriff of said Garrett county, will on the 29th Day of October,

SATURDAY,

beginning at 10.30 a. m., at the Club House, at Kendall, in said Garrett county, offer and sell at public auction one Standing desk, one roll top desk, three office chairs, one telephone, fifteen rolls of tar paper, 300 or more kegs of powder, 5 sets of sash transoms, 1 door, 1 shot drill and all fixtures thereto, 1 lot of gunpowder, part of blacksmith tools, including two anvils, 2 bellows, 1 blacksmith drill, 1 large grindstone, 1 lot of iron, 1 lot of chains, 14 mine cars and about 1000 feet of mine T rail, and immediately following thereafter at Friendsville in said Garrett county, I will offer and sell 1 iron safe, 4 office chairs, 1 office table and 1 telephone.

Terms of Sale—CASH.

ANDREW SHARTZER,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., Oct. 25, 1910.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on Wednesday, Nov. 9th, 1910,

for the purpose of transacting all routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.

Prompt attention given all ca day or night.
Garrett County Telephone. 21-1yr.

DR. W. W. GRANT,
DENTIST,
Office, McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.,
Bridge and Crown Work a Specialty,
Gold and Silver Fillings. 21-09-1y.

DR. LOUIS I. PREVOST,
VETERINARY SURGEON,
MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.

Office Hours in Oakland from 2 to 5 o'clock p m

MORTGAGEE'S SALE

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage from William D. King and Sadie E. King to Clarence M. Rathbun and Alonzo D. Naylor bearing date the 21th day of January, 1903, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 43, folio 267, &c., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, Maryland, the undersigned as attorney named in said mortgage to make said sale in case of default, will on the 31st Day of October, 1910,

MONDAY,

at 10:30 o'clock A. M., in front of the First National Bank Building in the town of Oakland, Maryland, will offer and sell at public auction all that piece or parcel of land situate in the town of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, aforesaid, and which on the plat of said town is designated as lot No. 77 in Block No. 2. Said property is improved by a good two story dwelling house in fine condition, together with the necessary out buildings, and is considered one of the most desirable residences in said town.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale or upon the ratification thereof; conveyancing at the cost of the purchaser.

FRED. A. TAAYER,
Attorney named in the Mortgage.

SUPERVISORS' NOTICE OF ELECTION.

OFFICE OF
THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF ELECTIONS
FOR GARRETT COUNTY.

OAKLAND, MD., Oct. 26, 1910.

Notice is hereby given to the Judges and Clerks of Election and to the qualified voters of Garrett county, Maryland, that in accordance with the provisions of Article XXXIII of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, passed at the January session, 1906, and amended by the Acts of 1908, 1904, 1902, 1904, 1906 and 1908, an election will be held in the several districts of said Garrett county, at the usual places of holding elections and hereinafter set forth, on

TUESDAY,

The 8th Day of November, 1910,

for the purpose of balloting for—

One person for member of the House of Representatives of the United States in the sixty-second Congress from the Sixth Congressional District of the State of Maryland.

Also for or against the following proposition to apply only to District No. 5:

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to a petition filed by certain qualified voters of the Fifth Election District of Garrett County, in accordance with Chapter 643, of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for 1908, that at the Election to be held on Tuesday, the 8th day of November, 1910, the proposition "Shall District No 5 of Garrett County, Maryland, Become Anti-Saloon Territory," will appear on the ballots for said District No. 5.

And also for or against the following proposition, to apply only to the town of Grantsville in District No. 3: "Shall the town of Grantsville Continue to be Anti-Saloon Territory."

The polls of said election will be opened in each and every Election District of said Garrett county, at the usual places of holding the polls, at 8 o'clock a. m. and will be closed at the hour of 6 o'clock p. m. when the ballots shall be counted according to law.

For the information of all persons concerned the following Act of the Legislature, passed March 24, 1864, is published:

CHAPTER 161.

AN ACT prohibiting the sale of spirituous or fermented liquors in the several counties of the State on the day of election.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That it shall not be lawful for the keeper of any hotel, tavern, store, drinking establishment, or any other place where liquors are sold, or for any person or persons, directly or indirectly, to sell, barter, give or dispose of any spirituous or fermented liquors, ale beer, or intoxicating drinks of any kind on the day of the election hereafter to be held in the several counties of the State.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That any person violating the provisions of this Act shall be liable to indictment by the Grand Jury of the county where the offense is committed and shall, upon conviction by the Judge of any Circuit Court of the State, be fined a sum not less than fifty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each and every offense—one half of the fine shall be paid to the informer, the other half to the County Commissioners for the use of public roads.

And the places of election in the several districts of said Garrett county will be as follows:

Election District Number One—
Swanton,

in the Election Building in the town of Swanton.

Election District Number Two—
Friendsville,

in the Council Chamber in the town of Friendsville.

Election District Number Three—
Grantsville,

in the old Postoffice Building in the town of Grantsville.

Election District Number Four—
Bloomington,

in Andrew Mullen's house in the town of Bloomington.

Election District Number Five—
Accident,

in the house of Mrs. Susan Englehart in the town of Accident.

Election District Number Six—
Sang Run,

in the Election Building in the town of Sang Run.

Election District Number Seven—
Oakland,

in the office of the Board of Election Supervisors at the Court House in the town of Oakland.

Election District Number Eight—
Ryan's Glade,

in the Election Building on the Northwestern Turnpike.

Election District Number Nine—
Johnson's,

in the shop of Thomas Johnson on the National Road.

Election District Number Ten—
Deer Park,

in the building owned by Charles R. Savage in the town of Deer Park.

Election District Number Eleven—
The Elbow,

at the residence of Joseph Warnick.

Election District Number Twelve—
Bittinger,

in the G. W. Engle building in the village of Bittinger.

Election District Number Thirteen—
Kitzmiller,

in the Band Hall in the town of Kitzmillerville.

Election District Number Fourteen—
Oakland,

in the Gortner Building, corner Oak and Second streets in the town of Oakland.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of Elections for Garrett county, Maryland.

WM. R. OFFUTT, Pres.,
THOS. J. JOHNSON,
S. LAWTON,
Board of Election Supervisors of Garrett county, Md.

EDMUND JAMISON, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Fred. A. Thayer, Trustee, vs. Lewis A. Rudisill and Kate B. Rudisill.

No. 1694 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Ordered, by the CircuitCourt for Garrett county, sitting as a court of equity, this 21st day of September, 1910, that the sale of the property mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Fred. A Thayer, Trustee, under a power of sale contained in a deed of trust from the said Lewis A. Rudisill and Kate B. Rudisill, his wife, to the said Fred. A. Thayer, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 21st day of October, 1910 provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 14th day of October, 1910.

The report states the amount of sale to be $2500.00.

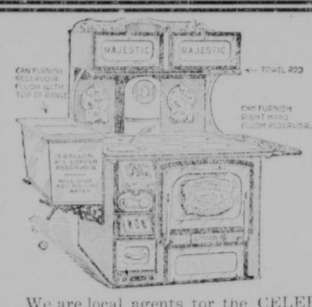
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

DR. J. G ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.

Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

Subscribe for The Republican:



MAJESTIC RANGES

For Coal or Wood

HONEST GOODS.
HONEST PRICES.

We are local agents for the CELERRATED MAJESTIC RANGES—the Ranges with a national reputation. Nothing better is made in the stove line. Goods which are cheap, but not good, are dear at any price.

Why you should have a Great and Grand Majestic Range in your Kitchen—

It cuts the fuel bill in half because it is riveted air-tight, HOLDS the heat where it belongs, and has the proper arrangement of flues.
It is used by your neighbor, who would have no other.
It browns bread all over just alike without turning.
Has large warming closets with the right kind of doors. The only warming closets that you can clean.
It is made in any size and style desired.
It is made of better and heavier material than any other.
It is the only range in the world made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron.
It costs a little more, but lasts much longer.
It is the only range made that has a ventilated ash pit.

S. LAWTON & SONS, Oakland, Md.

THE GREATEST SALE OF

Gas Stoves, Heaters

AND TINWARE

In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting

A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

EXAMINERS' NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, appointed by the County Commissioners of Garrett county, to view the lands through which the following described new county road is prayed to be located, said road beginning for the same at a point about forty rods west of the McDermott house on the upper farm and running thence through the lands of James McDermott, William Umbel, Joseph Thomas and M. M. Thomas, a distance of about one and a quarter miles, to intersect the county road at the Pennsylvania State line near the gate house, and examine whether the said new county road should be located, will meet on the Twenty-ninth day of October, 1910, for such purpose, and to determine whether the public convenience requires the said locating of said new county road, and if so, to locate the same and perform their duty in the premises.

WM. R. THOMAS,
JEFFERSON LOWDERMILK,
FRANK HUMBERSON, } Examiners.

The man Who Makes A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

The Maryland Agricultural College

COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND.

Maryland's School of Technology

Fifty-fourth year begins Sept. 15.

Entrance examinations 13, 14.

Eight courses of Instruction leading to professional degree of B. S. Agricultural, Horticural, General, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Biological and Chemical.

The College has a close association with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. College students are permitted to visit the Experiment Farms at Arlington and Beltsville and thus secure an additional equipment for their professional career.

The demand of the age is for men for life's activities. Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all departments. Graduates qualified to enter at once upon life's work. Boarding department supplied with all modern improvements. Bath room, steam heat, electric lights. Location unsurpassed for health.

Tuition, books, heat, light, laundry, board, medical attention, annual deposit, chemical and athletic fees all included in the annual charge of $60.00 per quarter, payable in advance.

Sanitorium for isolation of contagious disease, resident physician and trained nurse in attendance.

Catalog giving full particulars on application. Attention is called to the Two Years Courses in Agriculture and Horticulture. Failure to report promptly means loss of opportunity to student.

Early application necessary for admittance. Write for particulars.

R. W. SYLVESTER, President.

GEORGE W. LEGGE, JR.,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.

Practice in the Courts of Garrett and adjoining counties, and in the Maryland Court of Appeals. Associated with Thomas Peddicord, First National Bank Building.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 34. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1910. NUMBER 36

NEW BANK ORGANIZED AT GRANTSVILLE

Stockholders Met and Elected Officers Saturday.

The stockholders of the new bank at Grantsville, which has been chartered under the banking laws of the State of Maryland, to be known as the First State Bank of Grantsville, meet on Saturday and elected the following directors of the instutution:

Dr. G. C. Keller, Jacob J. Bender, John O. Getty, J. S. Miller, Ralph Engle, Charles H. Bill, J. A. Beachy, Charles H. Younkin, Gilead Broadwater, Peter Nathan and C. E. Ellithorp. The directors organized by the election of Dr. G. C. Keller, president; J. J. Bender, vice president, and John O. Getty, cashier.

The bank, the building for which has been completed and equipped with first-class fixtures, expects to be open for business on next Monday.

MT. ZION

Husking corn and picking apples is the order of the day.

R. F. Sharpless returned Saturday evening from a week's visit to Fredericksburg, Richmond and Orange, Va.

The Mt. Zion school is progressing nicely under the able management of Miss Margaret Hannah, to Lonaconing.

Misses Georgia Davis, Leola, Cora and Bessie Sharpless, and Messrs. R. F., Grover and Hollie Sharpless, and Mr. and Mrs. Birkley Sharpless, attended a social at the home of Wm. Good, at Swanton, Sunday.

Sunday school Sunday at 10 o'clock. All are invited to attend.

Ollie Paugh is quite ill at this writing.

J. S. Shank was a business caller at R. F. Sharpless', Monday.

Noah Stark and Grover Tasker were pleasant callers at the home of of Robert Sharpless, Sunday.

Mr. Wm. H. Sharpless made a business trip to Swanton, Monday.

Mr. Joe McRobie was calling on Joe Davis Sunday evening.

The Sharpless school is progressing nicely under the management of Miss Georgia Davis.

Hollie Sharpless was at Blaine, W. Va., Saturday last.

Mr. S. R. Harvey, who has been ill with typhoid feyer, is improving fast.

The Three Fork Mines, of near Chaffee, W. Va., are running full time.

Mrs. Emma Stottlemeyer, of Chaffee, was calling on Mrs. Jack Rhodes last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Tichnel, were at Piedmont, one day last week.

Notice.

This is to give notice that I will no longer be responsible for any debts contracted in my name by my wife, Matilda, she having deserted me.

JOHN CARLSON.

Friendsville, Md., Oct. 17, 1910.

FRIENDSVILLE.

The latter part of last week we had winter weather—wind, snow and frost.

Milton Forsythe and wife are the proud parents of a fine little girl which arrived Thursday evening.

John W. McCullough and family returned from the South last week.

D. A. Friend is building a house near his property on the West Side.

Mrs. Joseph Shultz and son Allen were the guests of Mrs. Jessie Frazee for a few days lately.

A son was born to W. F. East and wife Sunday night.

Wm. Frederick is remodeling his tin shop and improving it.

The band festival Saturday night was a great success and the boys have a nice sum to put in the treasury. The stormy night and the lights going off prevented many from going.

Last week one of the guests stopping at the Crawford Hotel, a Mr. Zegler, connected with the Waverly Oil Co., was found dead in his bed. He retired in apparent good health and answered a call in the morning, but not appearing for breakfast parties went to his room and found him dead. An inquest was held and the jury decided that death was caused by heart failure. The remains were taken to Johnstown, Pa., the home of deceased.

What might have been a serious accident occurred at the planing mill Saturday evening. In the absence of the engineer some one turned off one of the cocks of the water guage and the men coming in and seeing the guage full of water blew some of the steam out and started the pump, the consequence being that most of the boiler flues started to leak, and we were deprived of electric lights Saturday and Monday nights.

E. C. Ryland's horse ran away last week breaking the shafts, one of which inflicted a serious wound on the horse.

Several of Oakland's hunters were in our midst for a few days' hunting.

Big High Class Show Coming.

Manager Beckwith, of the local play house takes great pleasure in announcing to the people of Oakland and vicinity, that he has succeeded in securing Fred Raymond's great comedy success, "The Missouri Girl," for the date of Tuesday, Nov. 15th. This is the same show exactly that plays New York, Chicago and all the larger cities. The company carries two complete sets of special scenery, the smaller of which will fit the local stage very nicely, thus insuring the complete production the same as seen in the regular city theatres. As the management here is under a very heavy expense in securing this excellent attraction, it is to be hoped that local theatre goers will appreciate his efforts to give them first class attractions, by packing the house on the above date. Tickets may now be secured at Harned's drug store. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents.

WILL THE REPUBLICANS OF GARRETT COUNTY VOTE TO TRADE REPUBLICAN PROSPERITY FOR DEMOCRATIC HARD TIMES?

No one disputes or even questions that wages in the United States are fully twice as large as in England, over three times as large in continental Europe, and ten times as large as in other parts of the world. It is known, too, that the hours of labor are less in this country than abroad, making the relative wages per hour still more. Men who have toiled at wages in other lands that barely sustained life, and opened no avenue of promise to them or their children, know this good land of hope as well as the swallow knows the land of summer. They testify that here there are better conditions, wider and more hopeful prospects for workingmen than in any other land. These conditions the Republican party continuously throughout the half century of its existence, has brought about and maintained by protecting the workers of America from the competition of the cheap labor of Europe. This the Republican party will continue to do. It is the basic principle of Republicanism.

But what of the Democratic party and its candidate for Congress, David J. Lewis? What has the Democratic party done in the past, and what will it and its candidate, Mr. Lewis, do, if successful in the coming election? What effect would the election of Mr. Lewis and a Democratic Congress have on this busy, prosperous Sixth Congressional District of Maryland? We can only judge the future by the past. For nearly a generation prior to the year 1892, under the Republican party, with ebb and flow, but a more or less constant swelling of the tide of progress, our nation grew in power and wealth and our people prospered materially, till suddenly, in 1893, the Republican party was displaced by a Democratic President, Senate and House of Representatives, pledged, as the Democratic party and its candidate, Mr. Lewis, are pledged today, to what amounted to a Free Trade Tariff. Democratic Free Trade Rule lasted but four years, yet what industrial and financial havoc was it accompanied, what distress and ruin followed the legislation of that last Democratic Congress? In the midst of that last Democratic administration, which came as a killing frost to the commerce and industries of the country and to the prosperity which had prevailed under Republican rule, Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of labor, said on December 11, 1893:

"Since August of this year we have been in the greatest industrial depression this country has ever experienced. It is no exaggeration to say that more than three million of our fellow toilers throughout the country are without employment, and have been so since the time named."

Under the Republican administration of Benjamin Harrison, which preceded that of Cleveland, the country was busy and prosperous,—there was work for every man, and, too, at the highest level of wages yet reached in the United States. But the next four years of Democratic administration changed all this, produced "the greatest industrial depression this country has ever experienced," and threw 3,000,000 toilers out of employment. We all remember what those four years of Democratic rule and Free Trade Tariff did for Garrett county. They brought the hardest times in the memory of any living person, and are remembered as a terrible nightmare by every manufacturer, business man who had to struggle through those four lean, idle years of Democratic rule, until at last the American people uprose in their mighty wrath and ended the miserable tragedy of idleness and starvation by placing a Republican President, William McKinley, the advance agent of prosperity, in the White House. And whatever the alleged faults and mistakes of the Republican party, no one, not even the Democrats, denies that we have had prosperity ever since. We had it under McKinley, we had it under Roosevelt, and we have had it under Taft. And during all these years of Republican prosperity the Republicans of the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland have gone to the polls on election day and sent to Washington a Republican Congressman to uphold the hands of the Republican Presidents. A vote for David J. Lewis is a vote to return to the Democratic hard times, the stagnation of commerce and the paralysis of industry of 1892-1896. A vote for Brainard H. Warner is a vote to continue the prosperity which even the Democrats admit the country has always enjoyed when the Republican party has been in power.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Word has been received of the death of Col. James M. Burns, United States Army, retired, in Lebanon, Ohio, where he had recently removed from Morgantown, W. Va. Col. Burns died from pneumonia. For some years past he spent his summers with his family here and was president of the Annual Meeting a number of terms and was deeply interested in Mountain Lake Park. Col. Burns served four years in the Union army, rising from the ranks to captain. After the war he continued his service and won high distinction in frontier fights against the Indians. He attained the rank of major and after his retirement by special act of Congress was advanced to the rank of lieutenant colonel. He bore several medals for gallantry. His last military service was with the corps of cadets at the West Virginia University, Morgantown, which he brought to a high state of efficiency. He became a citizen of Morgantown, where he was a member of Hoffman Post, Grand Army of the Republic. His wife, who was with him when he died, who was the grand daughter of ex-Gov. Corwin of Ohio. He also leaves a daughter, Miss Evelyn Burns, and three sons, James, a student at the Marvland Agricultural College; Corwin, Morgantown, and Edward.

Rev. L. A. Rudisill, who has been postmaster at Mountain Lake Park for many years, sent in his resignatian a few days ago, and Mr. C. J. Rathbun has been put in charge of the office until an appointment is made.

Mr. Eddie Rathbun has fully recovered from his late illness.

Mr. Sterling, teacher at Loch Lynn, has moved to the rooms over the post-office.

Dr. W. W. Davis preached in the M. E. church Sunday morning.

Preaching in the M. E. church Sunday evening by the pastor.

Return of the Mighty Hunters.

Messrs. Paul Naylor and Ralph Weber, who spent upwards of a month in the big woods of Maine, returned to their homes here Tuesday night. They went to Maine especially to hunt the big bull moose, but this variety of game having become somewhat scarce, they took the next largest thing they could find and succeeded in bagging three good sized deer, two being sent to their homes in Oakland by express. Very generously the big game hunters supplied some of their friends with choice cut from the animals, a goodly portion finding its way to the domicile of THE REPUBLICAN editor which was greatly enjoyed by the family and for which we return our thanks.

Subscribe for The Republican.

AS A HEALTH RESORT GARRETT COUNTY IS AHEAD.

Curative Powers of the Mountains, as Compared to the Atmosphere of the Sea Shore.

Mr. Elmer Haulenbeek, whose summer home is located at Deer Park, has returned to his city residence in Baltimore and resumed his duties in the real estate department of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Mr. Haulenbeek was taken ill several weeks ago as he was about to leave on his Saturday trip to the mountains. He felt that he would be unable to make the journey, and accordingly went to his home on East Twenty-fourth street, went to bed and summoned his physician. Upon an examination the doctor declared that he should be taken to the sea shore at once, and upon the arrival of his wife from Deer Park, a journey was made to Ocean City, New Jersey. The use of a cottage was tendered by a Philadelphia friend of the family as long as it was necessary to remain there, but during Mr. Haulenbeek's sojourn at the sea shore there was no improvement; indeed it was quite the reverse.

He was then taken to his home at Deer Park and from the day of his arrival in the mountains improvement in his condition was noticed and when he returned to Baltimore a few days ago he was fully restored to health, and all owing, as Mr. Haulenbeek contends, to the difference in location in altitudes. He is more than ever wedded to the mountains, and declares that while the sea shore may do for a day occasionally he will take the mountains of good old Garrett county forever more.

THEY HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Whole Family, a Neighbor and the Attending Physician Overcome by Gas

The family of Rev. C. W. Hudson and Mrs. C. V. Harvey of Loch Lynn Heights and Dr. Henry W. McComas, the attending physician, all had a very narrow escape last Thursday night when they were overcome by a gas which formed in the room by the consumption of the oxygen by an open gas stove.

Mrs. Hudson, and her little child were in an unconscious state while Mr. Hudson and Mrs. Harvey had almost collapsed. Dr. McComas retained sufficient coasciousness, however, to grasp the danger facing himself as well as his patients and in some manner reached the open air. He sent his driver into the room who carried Mrs. Hudson and the little child as well as Mr. Hudson down the stairway where they were revived and after a day's illness had completely recovered. The escape from death was a very narrow one for all concerned.

Call For Your Letters.

J. L. Rowe, G. H. Workman, Paul W. Cox, Jozefin Bouoloronvic, Mason Arlington.

DIXON & KELSO

Bargains In Ear Corn!

DIXON & KELSO have car

EAR CORN

coming to sell at

60c. Bushel of 70 Pounds.

Sweet Potatoes!

For a short time will sell

Fancy Jersey Sweet Potatoes

$2.00 Barrel.

Yours to Please. DIXON & KELSO.

BITTINGER.

On October 28th and 29th, the first snow storm of the season struck this place, covering the ground two or three inches deep with snow.

Mrs. Katharine Bittinger and daughter Miss Effie drove up to Oakland last Sunday for a short visit with relatives and friends living in that neighborhood.

Mrs. W. W. Althers and Mrs. Alvin Slabach of near Oakland are visiting at this place this week.

G. N. Emory, of Romney, W. Va., spent a part of last week with his son in this village.

The most serious wind storm of the Fall swept over this section on Thursday of last week. In the course of the storm, straw stacks were blown over, and some roofs lifted and we have had a report that turkeys were blown from their roosts during the night of the storm.

Miss Myrtle Emory came to this village last week and will spend the winter here with her brother.

Prof. J. C. Beahm made a business trip to Grantsville last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hutson, of West Chester, Pa., were visitors in this village last Sunday.

Buried in Oakland.

The ten-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Tuhill, of Tunnelton, died at her home last Thursday and Saturday the remains were brought to Oakland and interred in the Catholic cemetery after services in the church conducted by Rev. James E. Connell.

Lodge to Celebrate.

The twenty-third anniversary of the founding of Garrett Lodge Knights of Pythias will be observed on Friday evening next. Invitations have been sent out by the committee having the affair in hand and a social evening is anticipated by those who will attend.

The Republican for Job Printing.

TEDDY-TAFTY.

Copyrighted.

TEDDY-TAFTY

Teddy-Tafty Sundae

The Latest in Ice Cream.

Healthful

Delightful

Refreshing

Oakland Steam Bakery

Manufacturers of Ice Cream complying absolutely with the Pure Food Laws of the United States.

We Freeze our Reputation into our Ice Cream.

TEDDY-TAFTY.

The Republican.
BENJ. H. SINCELL, Pubr.
OAKLAND, - - - MD.

The fish is the real father of lies.

There will continue to be more weather than aeroplanes in the higher altitudes.

Now we are told that flat life will cause us to round out existence in a lunatic asylum.

Cincinnati surgeons are going to amputate a citizen's six-inch nose, but not by keeping it on the grindstone.

For some time to come, however, the popular way of crossing the Alps will be by means of the tunnel under them.

Good old authority says that it's impossible to tell all the stars, but Uncle Sam's experts have catalogued them.

It is reported from New Jersey that a cow wrecked an aeroplane. It must have been the same cow that jumped over the moon.

Sometimes it does seem that everybody in the world is calling everybody else a liar, and nobody knows whom to believe.

The average driver of a sprinkling cart, as perhaps you have observed, always becomes fiendishly active just before a heavy rainstorm.

And if you do find baseball in heaven, and if the umpires manage to get there, too, how do you expect to express your opinion of them?

"American women make poor wives," says an English writer. Yes, a foreign husband can make an American wife poor, in short order.

It may be old fashioned, but nevertheless we cling to the notion that a revolver is something that no man carries for any good purpose.

Occasionally, when the weather man predicts "partly cloudy," he is breaking it to you gently that a rainfall of an inch or more impends.

A Wyoming girl recently killed a coyote by beating it with a riding whip. If you meet a Wyoming girl with a riding whip be polite to her.

New York chews more gum than any other city, we are told. If it's really true, New York must know how to chew and talk at the same time.

Somebody suggests that the United States should go into the business of coining half pennies. They might come in handy to put into children's banks.

We have read the new football rules and have arrived joyfully at the conclusion that the grand old game will still be the antithesis of a pink tea.

A New Jersey rag picker in one week found $1,800 worth of jewelry in old clothes. Moral—sift your old clothing before sending it to the rag picker.

A Pennsylvania woman found a $200 pearl in an oyster she was eating in a hotel dinner. From which it is to be inferred that the pearl-fishery season is fairly opened.

Having discovered and excoriated the meanest man, what shall be said of the woman who is charged with appropriating and pawning her neighbor's false teeth?

On the hottest day of the year New York authorities received bids for the removal of snow. If it had been put to a vote of the sweltering citizens, they would have unanimously resolved, if only snow would come just then, to let it stay.

Uncle Sam is going to build a barb wire fence 1,000 miles long on his southern border. For a respectable lady smuggler such a device would be even harder to beat than a pier full of custom house inspectors.

A woman in New York cut off her husband's ear because he annoyed her by talking too much. That shows the illogical and inconsequent nature of woman. If a man had been in her place, he would have cut off the offending tongue.

The new postal savings bank system will soon be in partial operation at least. The government has on hand 5,000,000 of the stamps which can be sold at ten cents each, with the cards to which they are to be attached. The cards also cost ten cents each, so when a card has nine stamps affixed the whole may be turned in to represent a deposit of one dollar. Such an arrangement encourages small savings, the aggregate of which may become very large.

A New York lunacy commission is stumped by the question: Is a man insane because he reads his paper upside down. Well—er—was it a New York paper?

France is to equip its army with a new rifle at a trifling cost of $120,000,000. Meanwhile the military authorities are carrying on experiments with airships, which are expected to play an important part in war hereafter. If battles are to be fought high in air of what practical value will be the costly new firearm?

The World's Wonders

STRANGE THINGS FOUND IN VARIOUS PORTIONS OF THE EARTH

Posting Letters in the Sea

During the months in which vessels do not call at the island of St. Kilda in the outer Hebrides, letters are dispatched in what seems a most haphazard manner. The mail is placed in a waterproof, buoyant case that looks like a football and is cast upon the waters. Usually this remarkable mail packet is picked up on the coast of Norway, to be forwarded later to the London office. Four packages out of six reach their destination.

BODIES OF TWO KINGS FOUND

M. Lucien Magne, the French inspector general of historical monuments, has made one of the most remarkable discoveries of recent years in the old abbey of Fontevrault. That certain of England's kings and queens were buried there was well known, but it has always been told that the tombs were rifled many years ago. Henry II. and Richard I. were buried there, as were the wives of King John and Henry II.

The architects who were engaged in restoring the abbey, after digging down to the original level of the nave and demolishing the seventeenth-century partition, discovered traces of inscriptions and paintings in an arched recess of the northwest wall of the transept. It would seem that the abbess, Louise of Bourbon, in redecorating the cloisters had closed up the opening of the tombs, and hence they had escaped being rifled as so many other tombs were in the revolutionary movement of 1789. And so they are unearthed today—the actual remains of Richard the Lion-Heart, and of his father. Here the archaeologists and other onlookers had before them all that remains of the once fiery Richard. The most curious detail, however, is that the sixteenth-century builders, who transferred the tombs of the Plantagenets to this side chapel, did not hesitate to bend forward the upper part of Henry II.'s skeleton down to the lower part in order to shorten the tomb so that it might serve to support the vaulted arch designed to protect the second pair of tombs; and he who died of a broken heart through the ingratitude of his sons was thus cruelly and irreverently maltreated after death. It is believed that the remains of all four sovereigns will be reburied under its own funeral monument at the entrance to the choir of the newly restored abbey.

ANT THAT "CANS" FOOD.

Capt. Percy L. Jones of the United States army medical corps makes an interesting statement about certain ants that attack the larvae of flies. "They do so in a way which proves that they are no novices at the procedure. One will attack an extremity, and apparently bite it, and as soon as the larva begins to coil and makes efforts to escape, numbers of others will immediately jump upon it, and in the course of a few moments the larva will be apparently dead. I believe that the ant introduces some venom in the act of biting, formic acid in character, which preserves the larva as food until such time as the ant needs it—cans it, in other words."

MONOPLANE HAT IN PARIS.

Considerable sensation was caused on the Paris boulevards by a lady with a monoplane hat. The hat, which was exactly the shape of a Blériot monoplane, was fastened on with two large pins having ebony propellers by way of knobs, and these propellers turned in the wind. The new fashion obtained so much recognition that the owner of the hat called a taxicab. But to the crowd's intense amusement, the lady could not get in through the door, and the hood had to be lowered before she could enter.

WOMAN IS ACTIVE AT 110.

Mrs. Sarah Brandon of Moundsville, W. Va., is said by many to be not only the oldest woman of her state, but also one of the most distinguished. Mrs. Brandon is one hundred and ten years of age, is hale and hearty and does her own housework, washing, ironing, scrubbing, and tends a tiny garden in the rear of her humble home just on the outskirts of the city. She has seldom been ill during her long and strenuous career, and then only with slight colds, headaches, and such minor ailments.

Almost one hundred years ago Mrs. Brandon, but a slip of a girl, while playing with her little brother, suffered an accident, the marks of which she has carried through life. The boy and girl were playing Indian, and in discharging his crossbow, the youngster shot out the right eye of his little sister.

This venerable lady was married at the age of fifteen to a man much her senior. The couple were then living in Ohio, their native state. Twenty-three children, two sets of twins, blessed their union, only one a girl. Sixteen of the boys served in the Civil war, fourteen fighting on the Union and two on the Confederate side, while all escaped the severe actions with their lives. Every one was wounded in battles, Evan, the youngest, now seventy years old, being shot or stabbed 17 times, bearing the scars today.

For producing the most soldiers of any woman for the war, Mrs. Brandon's picture adorns the national gallery at Washington, while at Columbus, O., she has been similarly honored by her native state.

She is a smoker and says that her pipe is her only comfort as the weight of years bears upon her. Tobacco of the strongest variety is the only kind suited to her taste, and her teeth are worn away where she clamps the pipe stem.

Her husband has long since been dead, but ten of her sons still live, and all are the fathers of large families. Her oldest, now eighty-nine, boasts that he never suffered a sick day in his life. He is a millworker, and lives at Bellaire, O. Her youngest, Evan, is a coal miner and seldom loses a day's work, though he was recently badly mashed by a fall of slate. He has nine children, all grown.

Beside receiving personal notice from the government for her sons' war service, the aged woman receives a liberal pension, owing to her husband having also been a soldier. Each pension day, the stooped figure may be seen wending its way toward the county clerk's office, where she receives her check, then tramping back to her cottage, a distance of over three miles. Beside this, Mrs. Brandon also makes her weekly pilgrimage to market, returning with a well-filled basket of vegetables and staples on her arm.

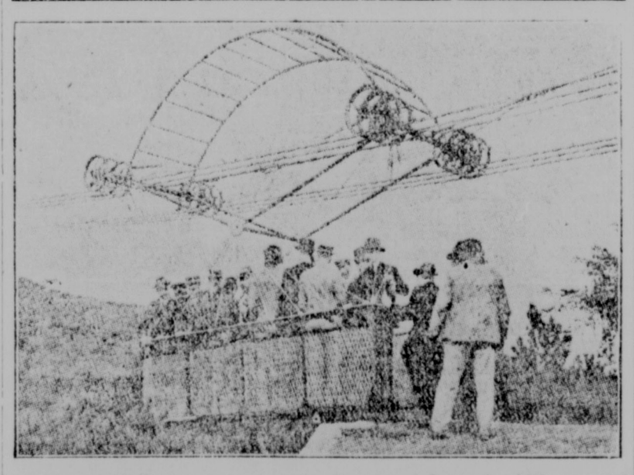
ROMANCE OF A LOTTERY.

For some time no claim was made for the chief prize of $40,000 in the Brussels Exhibition lottery. The identity of the winning ticket has just been established in a curious way.

A young Belgian miner who had purchased a ticket for the lottery was killed while at work through a stone falling on his head some days before the results were announced. According to custom he was buried in his best suit of clothes.

When the weeks passed and the prize remained unclaimed the young man's relations remembered that he had a lottery ticket in his waistcoat pocket, and applied to the authorities for permission to exhume the body. After some delay the request was granted, and the winning ticket was found in the dead man's pocket.

Odd Aerial Ferry in Spain



The special British embassy under the earl of Granard, which was sent to Spain to announce the accession of King George, was received by King Alfonso at San Sebastian, and in going there had the pleasure of riding across a river at Ulia, a suburb of San Sebastian, on a unique kind of "transporter" or aerial ferry. The experience was greatly enjoyed by the Englishmen.

SHATTER SOME OLD THEORIES

Investigations Carried on in England Tend to Show Environment Counts Most.

Attention is directed by the Medical Record to the interesting and decidedly surprising results of an investigation recently made in England with the purpose of determining the physical and mental effects on children of alcoholism in parents. It has hitherto been held as indisputably true and "of common knowledge" that these effects are many and serious—that the drunkard's child has nothing like a fair start in life, and is, if not sure, at least very likely, to be a weakling in both mind and body. An examination by careful scientists of 2,000 children in Manchester and Edinburgh—where, if anywhere, the consequences of alcoholism could be found—discredits this old assumption.

The parents of half these children were sober people, and of half either the father or mother or both habitually drank to excess. The conclusions reached were: That the death rate among the children of alcoholic parents was slightly greater than among the others, the difference being most notable when the mother was intemperate; that the children of the sober were a little heavier; that the health of the two classes was about the same; that parental alcoholism is not the cause of mental defect in offspring, and affects intelligence very slightly, if at all, and that, for some inexplicable reason, the eyesight of the alcoholics was somewhat the better.

Nothing was decided as to the existence of a predisposition toward drunkenness in the children of drunkards, but it was shown, the investigators think, that what little superiority was found in the children of the sober was due not to the abstinence of the parents from intoxicants, but to the better care and training which their children naturally received. In other words, in this case, as in so many, if not all others, it is early environment rather than heredity that counts, and there is no more of a prenatal doom for the drunkard's child than for that of the consumptive.

The temperance advocates will not welcome these conclusions, and they can say, fairly enough, that the investigation was not broad enough to be decisive. They may even question the wisdom of publishing such statements, even if true. The truth, however, is never dangerous, while falsehood and inaccuracy always are. Experience has shown that the restraints of the old belief are ineffectual, and any lightening of the dark cloud of hopeless heredity, exploited by Zola and Ibsen, is certainly to be desired as tending to strengthen the sense of personal responsibility and to inspire ambition and effort.

DRINKING HABITS OF WOMEN

Perturbed Physical Conditions Given as Main Causes—Its Results Are Dreadful.

Inebriety from a fondness for alcohol for its own sake—vicious indulgence—is far less frequent in women than in men, and it is well that it is so. Drunkenness is bad enough in a man, but in a woman it is even more pitiable, and, if it be possible, more far-reaching and more dreadful in its results. With women it would, we think, be safe to say that the origin of the drink habit lies in perturbed physical conditions—in fact, that it is a disease, and not a mere moral obliquity, as many would have us believe. The consequences of alcoholism in women are not so quickly evident as in men. In the earlier stages of inebriety in those cases in which there is power of volition, a peculiar shrinking from publicity protects some women against the symptoms noted among men at a like period. Two causes may be given for the lapse of women into inebriety. First is the nervous condition due to lack of nutrition and the wear and worry of domestic life and the demands of society—an exhaustion for which relief is mistakenly sought in the transient aid of alcohol; secondly, the pain and unrest incident to disorders of their sex, for which solace is sought in the anaesthetic and paralyzing effects of alcohol. In the first place, the woman who flies to drink must be unaware or unmindful of the fact that its taking involves a great risk of creating a morbid condition that often finds expression in constant inebriety. In the second case, the so-called solace, with startling and sorrowful frequency, ends in confirmed alcoholism.—Health Culture.

The Laboring Man's Curse.

The great curse of the laboring man is intemperance.

It has brought more desolation to the wage earners than strikes, or war, or sickness, or death.

It is a more unrelenting tyrant than the grasping monopolist. It has caused little children to be hungry, and cold, to grow up among evil associates, to be reared without the knowledge of God.

It has broken up more homes and wrecked more lives than any other cause on the face of the earth.—Cardinal Gibbons.

TERRIBLE SUFFERING ENDED.

How An Allegan, Mich., Woman Regained Her Health.

Mrs. Robert Schwabe, R. F. D. No. 5, Allegan, Mich., says: "Doctors could not cure me and I was rapidly running into Bright's disease. Kidney secretions were like blood and I arose 8 to 10 times at night to void them. I became frightened at my condition. My sight began to fail and pains in my back were like knife-thrusts. I cried for hours, unable to control my nerves. After I started using Doan's Kidney Pills, I began to feel better and soon I was cured. I am a living testimonial of their merit."

Remember the name—Doan's.

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box.

Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Place of Honor.

Farmer Hodge was of the good, old-fashioned school, and he always gave a feast to his hands at harvest time.

It was harvest time and the feast was about to commence.

Giles was the oldest hand and the hostess, with beaming cordiality, motioned him to the seat by her right hand. But Giles remained silently unresponsive.

"Come," said the hostess, "don't be bashful, Mr. Giles"—he was just Giles on ordinary occasions—"you've a right to the place of honor, you know."

Giles deliberated a moment, then spoke.

"Thank you kindly, Mrs. Hodge," he said, "but if it's all the same to you, I'd rather sit opposite this pudden!"

Who Scratched the Bathtub?

Nice, porcelain bathtub, too; and all the folks thought it was just lovely. But somebody was washing it out and used common laundry soap—the yellow kind with rosin and strong caustic in it—and away went the enamel and the finish. (If that kind of soap will harm porcelain enamel, what won't it do to clothes?) "Easy Task Soap," the pure, white, antiseptic, five-cents-a-cake kind, will not harm anything but dirt. Try two cakes and get your money back if it isn't as represented.

History of Red Cross Seal.

"Charity stamps," first used in Boston in 1862 for the soldiers' relief funds during the Civil war, were the original forerunners of the Red Cross Christmas seal, which will be used this year to bring happiness and cheer to millions. The Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis society in 1907 for the first time in America made use of a stamp for the purpose of getting revenue to fight consumption. In a hastily organized campaign of only three weeks they realized $3,000. The next year, 1908, the American Red Cross conducted the first national tuberculosis stamp campaign. From this sale $135,000 was realized for the anti-tuberculosis movement. In 1909, under many adverse conditions, $250,000 was realized from these stamps. This year the slogan of the tuberculosis fighters and the Red Cross is "A Million for Turberculosis From Red Cross Seals in 1910."

Prudent Bridegroom.

"The uncertainties of life in New York are reflected in wedding rings," said the jeweler. "Of all the wedding rings I have sold this season more than half were brought back after the ceremony to have the date put on. The rest of the inscription was engraved when the ring was purchased, but in order that the date might be correct it was cautiously omitted until after the knot was tied."

News to Her.

He—Concerning love, everything possible has been said and thought.

She (coyly)—But not to me.—Fliegende Blaetter.

COFFEE WAS IT.
People Slowly Learn the Facts.

"All my life I have been such a slave to coffee that the very aroma of it was enough to set my nerves quivering. I kept gradually losing my health but I used to say 'Nonsense, it don't hurt me.'

"Slowly I was forced to admit the truth and the final result was that my whole nervous force was shattered.

"My heart became weak and uncertain in its action and that frightened me. Finally my physician told me, about a year ago, that I must stop drinking coffee or I could never expect to be well again.

"I was in despair, for the very thought of the medicines I had tried so many times nauseated me. I thought of Postum but could hardly bring myself to give up the coffee.

"Finally I concluded that I owed it to myself to give Postum a trial. So I got a package and carefully followed the directions, and what a delicious, nourishing, rich drink it was! Do you know I found it very easy to shift from coffee to Postum and not mind the change at all?

"Almost immediately after I made the change I found myself better, and as the days went by I kept on improving. My nerves grew sound and steady, I slept well and felt strong and well-balanced all the time.

"Now I am completely cured, with the old nervousness and sickness all gone. In every way I am well once more."

It pays to give up the drink that acts on some like a poison, for health is the greatest fortune one can have.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

How Stonewall Jackson Won Life's Battle

By JOSEPH W. FOLK, former Governor of Missouri

COPYRIGHT BY JOSEPH B. BOWLES

"YOU may be whatever you resolve to be." This was the motto of Stonewall Jackson. By this rule he lived and conquered, and by it died in the rush of victory. Such was Jackson's faith in God and himself, he inspired not only his own men with the certainty of victory, but the entire confederacy felt sure of ultimate triumph while he was in the field. No warrior was ever worshiped by his people as was this Soldier Saint of the Lost Cause. While he lived and fought the people of the south saw in him the incarnation of God's justice struggling for them. When the wound which was inadvertently given by his own men at Chancellorsville terminated fatally, the news came as a chilling shock to southern hopes. The history of modern times affords no parallel to the deep sorrow that throbbed in the hearts of the confederate people when Jackson died. Those who had never seen his face wept for him as for their nearest kindred. They began to realize that with him removed their cause was doomed. As one of the leaders declared when he heard the news of Jackson's death, "God has deserted us, else he would not have taken Jackson."

In being so bowed down with grief at Jackson's loss, it must not be understood that they loved Robert E. Lee and their other generals less, for to the first named at least, their devotion amounted to idolatry, but there was something in Jackson that the others did not possess which appealed to the people of the south, and gave them a sublime confidence. This was the reflection of his absolute faith that the hand of Providence was guiding him on.

Christened "Stonewall" at Manassas.

Stonewall Jackson, as every schoolboy knows, was plain Thomas J. Jackson until in the battle of Manassas when the day seemed to be going against the southern forces, Gen. Bee rode up to Jackson and in despair exclaimed: "They are beating us back," and Jackson replied: "Then we will give them the bayonet." Catching the inspiration of Jackson's indomitable will, Bee galloped back to his command and shouted: "There is Jackson standing like a stone wall. Rally behind the Virginians. Follow me." Gen. Bee charged at the head of his men, and in a little while fell mortally wounded with his face to the front. From that time Jackson was known as "Stonewall," and his command became immortal as the Stonewall brigade.

Stonewall Jackson's ancestors had lived in Maryland and Virginia for more than 100 years and were of Scotch-Irish descent. They were all honest, God-fearing people, and they were of fighting blood, taking a conspicuous part, first in the Indian troubles, and then in the revolutionary war.

Not Robust in Boyhood.

The boy who was to become one of the greatest military commanders the world has ever known, was born in 1824 in Clarksburg among the beautiful mountains of what was then Virginia, and now West Virginia. He was left an orphan at an early age by the death of his father, and his mother being unable to support him, he lived with an uncle, through whose kindness he was given the benefit of the best schools of those times. Without showing any special aptness as a scholar, he by perseverance mastered whatever he undertook, and through hard study learned his lessons well. Like all geniuses of war he excelled in mathematics. As a boy he was not strong physically, and in his early years suffered a partial paralysis, which later disappeared through the strenuous exercises at the military academy.

Served as County Constable.

Partly for the healthful outdoor work that the office would give and partly to obtain funds to aid in his further education, he secured the appointment as constable in his district. He was under age at the time, but was in such general favor that no one raised the question as to the legality of the court appointing a minor to the office. He performed the duties of this place with industry and fidelity, though the kind of people he was thrown in contact with officially, were not such as to aid in the development of character.

As he approached manhood he did not display that sober, serious nature that afterwards dominated him. The spiritualization of everything he did, and his rule of making every act of his life a religious act came later. At this time he was little different from other young men in attending horse races, house raisings and country dances. His truthfulness and aggressive honesty remained untarnished from childhood. He was always modest, self-reliant and full of dignity and courtesy.

Success in Mexican War.

At the age of 18 he obtained a West Point cadetship and entered that institution. His literary education had not been thorough, and he progressed with difficulty. In the examinations which closed the first half year's novitiate, he came within a fraction of failing. He steadily improved, however, through his earnest application and untiring perseverance, and graduated at the age of 22, in 1846, seventeenth in a class of about seventy. The Mexican war was then in progress, and Jackson was at once made second lieutenant by virtue of his West Point commission. His services were brilliant in this campaign, and he was promoted to the rank of major.

Became Devout Christian.

So far Jackson had not given deep study to religious subjects, and had little knowledge of creeds. When he returned to the United States at the close of the Mexican war, he became intensely concerned in Christianity, and joined the Episcopal church. From that time forward his every act was characterized by extreme piety. He is quoted as having said that two hours was as long as he could go without communing with his Maker in prayer. Conscientiousness was one of his marked traits, and duty was to him of first consideration. His reverence of the Deity was that of the standard of perfection and of the source of authority. He believed in a special Providence, and was erroneously called a fatalist by some. His abiding trust and simple faith were those of a child. He never questioned the whys and wherefores of Providence but fervently prayed for everything and was satisfied with what occurred. "I prefer God's will to my own," he said.

A few years after the close of the Mexican war, he accepted the chair of natural philosophy in the Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, and took charge of the cadets at that place. This connection opened up for him his career in the war. At the outbreak of hostilities between the states he responded to the call of the governor of Virginia, and placed his cadets and himself under Gen. Robert E. Lee's command. He was appointed colonel of the Virginia Volunteers. After the battle of Harper's Ferry he was promoted to the rank of brigadier general in recognition of his eminent ability.

A Thunderbolt in War.

He then began those marvelous military operations that have won the plaudits of all mankind. Military experts have pronounced his maneuvers greater in some respects than Napoleon's and surpassing in details those of Julius Caesar. He was a thunderbolt of war-energy. He would strike at one point and in an incredibly short time attack at some distant place, and hurl his forces against the weakest line of his opponent. He was never routed in battle and never had an organized portion of his army captured. The baffling strategy which he brought to bear upon the opposing forces, his furious attacks, and his remarkable marches made his name and fame as a leader of armies undying. While the battle raged he would be in the very front of danger, and when the crisis was passed he would retire to his tent for prayer. His trust in the Almighty made him fearless of all things else. He united qualities that seemed incompatible, by combining military genius of the highest order with intense religious fervor. He would never tell his plans of war even to his closest associates, and those around him would not know what he intended to do until the orders were given. He made rapid marches, advancing and retreating with a swiftness unheard of before in the annals of war. His sudden onslaughts usually swept all before him, and when the opposition brought against him overwhelming numbers he would suddenly disappear to crash like lightning in a new and unexpected place. His tactics were to advance and fight and go on fighting until victorious. Through it all he prayed and prayed. More than once as his brigade was passing into action, he could be seen sitting motionless upon his horse with right hand uplifted, and while the war columns swept by him in solemn silence, into the fiery storm of shot, his lips would move in earnest prayer as the earth trembled beneath the thunder of cannon, and the very air of the heavens seemed agonized with the shriek of shell.

Slain by His Own Men.

"You may be whatever you resolve to be," and so he resolved and so he won. He believed that his marvelous victories would go on to the end of the war, and that the southern cause would triumph, but God willed otherwise. His victory at Chancellorsville was followed soon after by his death from the injuries inflicted by the fire of his own soldiers, who in the darkness of night mistook him and his escort for the enemy. He accepted the Divine Will with that same satisfaction he did His favors, knowing it to be best. As he lay on his deathbed conscious that his earthly aircastles were in ruins, and that his life was ebbing fast, he was thoroughly resigned to his fate. When the shadows came closer, and he realized that the end was at hand, he said as his last words: "Let us cross over the river and rest under the shade of the trees." So he died courageous and trustful, a noble example of the winning of life's battle by simple faith and devotion to duty.

Fought for State's Rights.

Was he sincere? His critics question. How, it has been asked, could a man pray for the continuation of human slavery? The civil war was not waged for or against slavery. It is true the agitation of the slavery question brought about the issues out of which the war came; but the south did not fight to keep negroes slaves, nor did the north fight to make negroes free. The south battled for what it conceived to be the rights of free and independent states confederated under a constitution guaranteeing those rights; the north fought to establish the indissolubility of the union of those states. It is plain now that armed conflict over this question was inevitable from the time the states came together to form a "more perfect union," and adopted a constitution without settling the question of the right of a state to withdraw from that compact. The future was certain to bring either disunion or the sealing of the union in blood. If the difference as to the dissolubility of the union had not arisen out of slavery, it would have come over some other problem. The south was deeply impressed with the righteousness of its cause, and Lee and Jackson and the other great leaders believed in it as they did in their religion. They were fighting for the freedom of their states—not for the slavery of men and women.

These disputes are all forever settled now, and no patriotic American wishes they had terminated other than as they did. Nevertheless, the southern cause was to millions of good people a sacred cause, worth praying for and dying for. Exactly as no southerner now regrets that the union was maintained, so no patriotic northerner denies the sincerity of the southerners in fighting so bravely for a cause they believed altogether righteous.

Roused North and Thus Saved Union.

The evening bells of life are tolling for the survivors of that fierce conflict, and one by one they are being laid to rest in their last camping ground. The animosities of other years have subsided in the soft twilight of time and the deeds of those who wore the gray as well as those who wore the blue are the common glory of a united country. Jackson believed and taught that God's will is best, and so all see it was in the ending of that contest. It was this man of iron and of faith that was raised up through his mighty victories to arouse the nation, and thus preserve this federated republic that is the hope of the oppressed of every land.

Faith in God, faith in his fellow men, faith in himself, these are the ways by which Jackson won a fame that will become brighter and brighter as time flies through the ages.

At the Austrian Border

"You may talk about the difficulties you encounter with the customs inspectors on arriving in New York," said an English woman in New York the other day, "but you will find that worse troubles of the kind accumulate for you in certain parts of Europe. Especially is this apt to be true on the Austrian border.

"I was coming up from Turkey on my way to Paris a few months ago. Owing to the fact that my cousin, who had been traveling with me, could not get away from Constantinople, I had to make the journey alone.

"The train on which I traveled is supposed to be one of the finest in Europe, but most of the way to Vienna it stops every few minutes. They told me the reason was that they had been unable to get enough coal to start with and that these stops were necessary to get fuel. Apparently they took on about a shovelful at each station.

"We reached the Austrian frontier about two o'clock in the morning, and then uniformed customs officials went through the train routing out everybody. They wouldn't let the women dress, and I had to hurry out with nothing on but a dressing gown, and the night was cold, too. We were huddled in a room in the station and our hand luggage was brought out, while every compartment in the train was searched. Then they made us open our bags and satchels.

"The man who attended to my luggage was a very disagreeable sort of person. He insisted upon my opening every parcel I had.

"Now, in my effects was a large box of Turkish delight, which, as you may know, is a sort of sweet paste or gum and is considered a great delicacy out there. I was taking it to some friends at home. The box was solidly constructed; in fact, there were two outer cases of wood, and the candy was in a sealed tin box.

"'You must open this box,' said the official in gruff German.

"'I certainly shall not,' I replied, and I explained what it contained.

"'But it must be opened,' he insisted. He refused to believe me.

"'Then open it yourself,' I said; 'but you must fasten it up again.'

"He growled and started in. The outer case was securely nailed and it took some time to get the top off. When he had removed that and revealed another wooden box the official swore. Then when he had got the top off the second box there was the tin. He spoiled the blade of his knife cutting that open and then when he came to the Turkish delight he was disgusted.

"Of course I laughed in his face. Then he refused to pack the boxes again, but I insisted, threatening him with all sorts of things about appealing to the British ambassador, and so on, so he finally turned in and did as I ordered him, while my fellow passengers chaffed him at being ordered about by a woman.

"I learned afterward that a woman traveling alone had been smuggling a lot of Turkish tobacco into Austria and that the officials had lately been keeping a sharp lookout for her. My being unaccompanied had aroused suspicion."

The dentists who took a stand against kissing probably lost the patronage of all kissable girls.

Blessings of Imperfection

By HENRY F. COPE

Text.—We are saved by hope.—Romans 8:24.

To every man life is either an infliction or an inspiration. It all depends on how you take it, as a dose or as a spur. It is easy to become so conscious of calamities possible, troubles impending, and difficulties present as to be oppressed with a sense of the universe as warring against you, or you can see it all as a glorious struggle in which it is a joy to have a part.

Life is not all a joyous way of pleasure. No person of sensibilities can ignore altogether its pain and need, or ever be free from the sense of personal incompleteness, and of unrealized adjustment to the universe. But this incompleteness, restlessness, and dissatisfaction, may be the cause of our profoundest joy and largest hopes.

A man is greater than an angel, though he may not be better, and may be worse. In an important sense imperfection is better and greater than perfection. That which is perfect has found its limits, has reached its fullness. Man sees no limit about him and goes on forever without the sense of completeness. That is the mark of living, that the more you live the larger life stretches before you.

But for our imperfections there would be no growth; the future would lie like a blank without the hope of larger things. This it is that makes the new days welcome, no matter what freight of woe they may bring to us—that they stretch before, they promise onward steps, new vistas, the chance to be more, feel more, know more. Perfection might mean peace, but it would be the peace of death.

If ever we are inclined to complain of the shocks of fortune, the buffets and smarts of living, we ought to turn and look on them all with gratitude. They shake us out of dull content; they testify to our incompleteness and call on us to learn life's lessons, to gain new strength to withstand their oncoming attacks. The fact that we are vulnerable makes us ultimately victorious.

Now, it matters not how religious a man may profess to be, how freely he may handle pious phraseology, if he spends his breath in complaining about the sorrows of this existence and in sighing about another world where he will be free from the present penalties and pains and will enter into the life of perfection, the life that has attained and knows no further desire, his religion is a menace to this world and to him as a dweller here.

Our present business is with the life that is full of prophecy of larger being, that reminds us by our present failures and friction of the greatness of our shortcomings; our business is to take this life of pain and need and use all its provocations, its troubles, difficulties, problems as the curriculum of larger life. We ought to be grateful, as they who take life wisely certainly will be, for all that moves us on though it may seem to lay us low at the time of the blow.

True religion is that which places the light of aspiration before a man's eyes and sets in his heart the vision of a life which knows no limit. Religion interprets the universe in terms of a reasonable plan of life, with a hope in life which does not mock us. Religion is the spirit that enables one to trust the ultimate wisdom of the plan of our present imperfection.

The present struggle is the finest thing that we have. Not that we need to add to its intensity or increase its complications. But we ought not to try to dodge its demands nor ought we to be blind to its splendid promise. For imperfection is ever the prophecy of development, and he who bravely, hopefully struggles on, bears, endures, aspires, not only finds the way through the clouds to the stars, but in the struggle finds the high and divine in himself.

Here faith plays her part, aiding us to cling to our visions of the larger life and greater universe, giving us confidence even in darkest nights that we do not walk in a maze, to come out where we went in, hearing the mocking laughter of idiot gods. We believe better things of our world, and that means taking our world in a nobler way and trusting that love rules through it all. That means finding our way out through imperfections and needs to a wholeness and perfection which we call God, the desire of every soul.

The Christian's Privilege.

The great master hand sends the thoughts of sorrow, of joy, of strength, into our life in varying forms as mighty means under the Spirit's power, to mold and bring us into the Divine image, for "to stand by the side of Jesus Christ and look upon life and its possibilities is to behold a vision of marvelous beauty." It is this ever-deepening vision of life that is the Christian's privilege as he walks by the side of his Master and touches the hand which is molding his life into the highest beauty. Though earth is dark, in His presence it is always day.

Church Work.

Present-day church work is to minister to all needs of men every day in the week the year round.—Rev. W. A. Bartlett, Congregationalist, Chicago.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

Entered at the Postoffice in Oakland, Md., as Second-class matter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

The Republican is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year.....$1.25
One copy six months ..... .75
One copy three months ..... .40

Advertising Rates made known upon Application.

Remittances may be made by Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft and addressed to

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1910.

For Congress, Sixth Congressional District.

BRAINARD H. WARNER, JR.,
Of Montgomery County.

REPUBLICAN MEETINGS.

Republican Meetings will be held at the following places upon the dates specified at 7.30 o'clock each evening:

At Oakland, Saturday, Nov. 5.

Prominent speakers will address the above meetings.

AUSTIN BROWN,
Chairman.

SCHOOLMASTER IN POLITICS.

Back in that reverberent era when William Jennings Bryan left a streak of free silver speeches trailing all over the West—that is to say in the presidential campaign of 1896—there was a time preceding election day when even the judicious and discriminating began to believe that pretty much any sort of wild theory, vociferously asserted, was as good as a demonstrated fact for electioneering purposes. But when the election returns were cast up it was found that Bryan was snowed under; the majority against him in the electoral college being 95. The failure of the free silver preachment should have taught even the Democrats that it is difficult to mislead the people—even enough of them to win a national election—by a theory contrary to the facts of experience. But here is another campaign when we find the Democratic spellbinders industriously proclaiming the discredited theory of free trade and using glittering generalities of speech for argument.

In New York state, Democratic candidate for governor, Dix, has suffered the humiliation of having to pose as a tariff reformer, that is to say as the sort of reformer who would cut and slash the rates of the Payne bill, if he had a chance, made ridiculous. Somebody out of the files a letter from Mr. Dix's wall paper firm sent to the congressional committee that was revising the tariff schedules, which communication demanded a raise of the old duty on wall paper from 25 to 35 per cent. So Candidate Dix is shown up as a high protectionist in his own business and a low tariff man when he talks to the people. Even in New Jersey, Dr. Wilson—the so-called scholar in politics—has been called down for vagaries and unsubstantial statements by the clearly demonstrative arguments of his opponent. The schoolmaster in politics is always interesting, but he is apt to prove a shining failure if he attempts to play tricks of educational jugglery.

This is a campaign of education, all right, but the classes who are occupying the benches and listening to the gentlemen who is delivering the educational lecture, are demanding that the propositions be demonstrated. The man who uses the Republican protectionist principle as the subject of his discourse, can point to ample practical demonstration of its beneficence and efficiency; but what sort of demonstration can the free trade propaganda point out?

A STRANGE LINE OF ATTACK.

The tactics of the Cumberland Evening Times, the Democratic organ, in behalf of the Democratic Congressional nominee, Mr. Lewis, in continually urging the election of that gentleman because he is a resident of Allegany county, whereas his Republican opponent, Mr. Warner, comes from another county, are at once devoid of justice, wisdom and even common sense. The argument is devoid of justice because, carried to its logical extent, it amounts to a contention that the Sixth District's representative in Congress ought to come from Allegany county all the time. This assumption is unreasonable to the point of absurdity and so manifestly incapable of realization as not to require extended comment. Another phase of the argument advanced by the Democratic organ in behalf of Mr. Lewis amounts to a proposition that where one of the candidates resides in Allegany county, and the other candidate does not, the people of Allegany county should display undivided hostility to the latter candidate, whether he be a Republican or Democratic nominee, and should sacrifice him in favor of whoever might happen to be the local candidate to the utter exclusion of any consideration of the personal qualifications of the candidates, their views on political and economic questions and the issues of the campaign. This argument of the Democratic organ in favor of Mr. Lewis because he happens to hail from Allegany county is devoid of wisdom because of its inevitable tendency in this and future elections to breed resentment and antagonism among the people of the other counties against any Allegany countian who may happen to be nominated by either of the great political parties for important public office. The line of argument pursued by the Democratic organ, the Cumberland Evening Times, is offensive in the extreme to the two classes of voters. To begin at home, it is offensive to the Republicans of Allegany county to be called upon by the Democratic organ to support the Populist-Socialist nominee of the Democratic party, Mr. Lewis, for no better reason than that he is a local lawyer living in this county. The thinking Republicans of Allegany county vote on reason and principle, and not on mean and petty local prejudice. They remdmber with satisfaction and appreciation the loyal support accorded in the past by the faithful Republicans of the other counties of the District to candidates of the party who happen to be citizens of Allegany county. The Republicans of this county do not desire nor can they afford to reward this unwavering fidelity and allegiance with cheap ingratitude. The occasion calls for reciprocity, the loyalty of the other counties to Allegany's sons when they have been Republican congressional candidates will be remembered, and the answer to the insulting suggestions and arguments of the local Democratic organ will be recorded by the Republicans of this county on election day in the form of a sweeping majority for Brainard H. Warner.

The other class of voters to whom the Democratic proposition that Mr. Lewis should be supported by the people of Allegany county, without regard to party affiliations or political principles, but merely because he is a resident of Allegany county, cannot be otherwise than offensive, is composed not only of the Republican but the Democratic voters as well of Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery counties. Comment on this seems hardly necessary. The attitude which the local Democratic organ has assumed in behalf of Mr. Lewis amounts in substance to a contention that our own good county of Allegany is the entire Sixth Congressional District of Maryland, and that, for the present campaign, at least, any candidate who does not live in the Sixth Congressional District. We do not admit the contention nor we believe, will it be admitted by the voters in the other counties. Fortunate it is for its candidate that the limited sphere of influence of the Democratic organ will prevent its appeal to local prejudice in behalf of Mr. Lewis from becoming generally known beyond the confines of our own county. For, in the possession of such knowledge, the good people of Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery counties might hesitate to establish as a precedent for the future against the political aspirations of their favorite sons the latest vote-getting dodge and dogma of Mr. Lewis's management in this county, his home—that he must be elected though the heavens fall for that he is the local nominee, and that candidates from the other four counties do not live in the Sixth District.—Cumberland News.

J. M. DAVIS & SONS.

The FREE

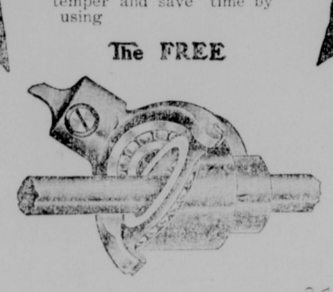
The only insured SEWING MACHINE

The Sewing Machine that you have been reading about in the magazines.

This machine also contains every other convenience known in sewing machines, making it very easy to operate. It has eight complete ball-bearings in the head and stand. It does the work faster and better than other machines.

Guard your health and your temper and save time by using

The FREE



8 EIGHT SETS OF BALL BEARINGS 8

The recent invention of the wonderful ROTOSCILLO MOVEMENT has made it possible to use the old fashioned shuttle in a rotary sewing machine and still have it sew easier and smoother than any round bobbin machine.

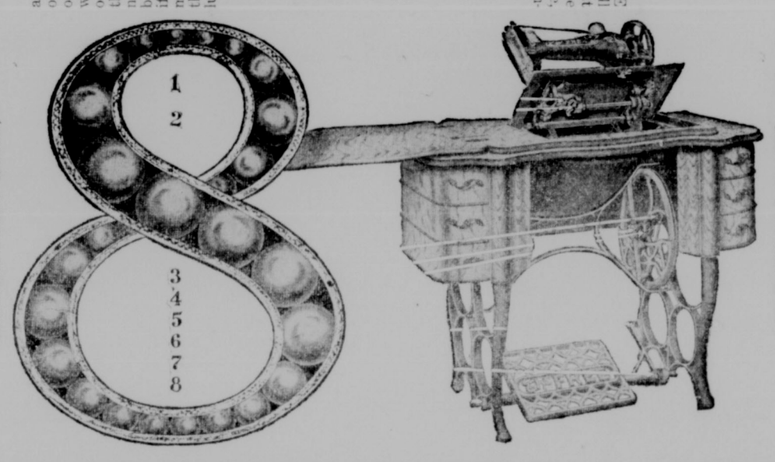
The Free is the Sewing Machine you really and truly ought to buy

Should you through accident in moving or otherwise break any part or the whole machine, we will replace that part or the machine, gratis; that if you break a needle, if you break a belt, or if one wears out; if you break any attachment, we will replace these parts to you absolutely without cost.

The FREE IS THE ONLY INSURED SEWING MACHINE

It is insured for five years against breakage, wear, fire, tornado, lightning and water.

Is means that if your home burns and The FREE sewing machine is destroyed or injured, we will supply a new The FREE sewing machine without cost; that if in a cyclone or flood, your machine is rendered unfit for use, we will replace it without expense to you.



The FREE is the Lightest Running Sewing Machine in the World

The FREE is the Lightest Running Sewing Machine in the World

LIST OF NOMINATIONS.

OAKLAND, MD., October 26, 1910.

In compliance with the provisions of Section 47 of Article 33 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, we certify that the following are the names of the candidates of the different parties whose certificates of nomination have been filed with us and whose names will appear on the Official Ballot in the following order:

FOR REPRESENTATIVE IN THE SIXTY-SECOND CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES FROM THE SIXTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND

VOTE FOR ONE.

FINLEY C. HENDRICKSON, OF ALLEGANY COUNTY.	PROHIBITION
DAVID J. LEWIS, OF ALLEGANY COUNTY.	DEMOCRATIC
BRAINARD HENRY WARNER, JR., OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY.	REPUBLICAN
PAUL OSWALD WEBER, OF ALLEGANY COUNTY.	SOCIALIST

WM. R. OFFUTT, President,
THOS. J. JOHNSON,
SAMUEL LAWTON,
Board of Supervisors of Elections for Garrett County, Md.

EDMUND JAMISON, Clerk.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany County.

Stands First among the State Banks of Maryland

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and open an account with us.

JAMES M. SLOAN, President. DUNCAN R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

Capital - $50,000
DEPOSITS, - $175,000

The First National Bank

Friendsville, Md.

Surplus Fund, . $26,000
Undivided Profits 6,000

OFFICERS:

L. E. FRIEND, President,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Vice-Pres't
R. C. McCANDLISH, Vice-Pres't
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier

DIRECTORS:

L. E. FRIEND, Merchant,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Lumber and Coal
W. W. SAVAGE, Merchant,
D. S. CUSTER, Merchant,
H. M. RUMBAUGH, Farmer,
W. H. H. FRIEND, Pension Agent and Surveyor,
HORACE R. DEWITT, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCANDLISH,
JOHN T. GEARY.

THREE GOOD THINGS TO KEEP: Your Temper, Your Secrets, Your Money

Your money kept with us will earn you 4 Per Cent. Interest compounded semi-annually. Keep it here and after while it will keep you.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays. 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, J. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

SYSTEM NOT TO BE COUNTENANCED

A Bertillion enthusiast in attendance upon the American Prison Association Convention, now in session in Washington, wants every mother's son of us measured, numbered and tagged. "Full biographic and civic data of each of its component units," is the way Albert Hall of Minneapolis, member of the committee on criminal law reform, puts the case. We have developed the registration of domestic animals, says Mr. Hall; why omit the record of human life?

One very ready answer to the animal proposition would be that we have done no such thing. A few animals which stands out from the razorbacks, the lowly mule and the cur of low degree have been registered, but the animal proletariat has not been registered, and never will be. By the same token the Boston bulls, the Percherons and Berkshires of the human race have a way of registering themselves without any aid from the Bertillion system. Whether they tunnel the Hudson or fly over the Alps or lead the Four Hundred, they secure their registration by their own efforts.

And so far as any compulsory process is concerned—Well, Mr. Hall had better study the genius of American institutions for a while. We are not quite ready for an organized system of domiciliary espionage, even though conducted by a card index bureau. Such a system might give the sleuths more time to play penuchle, but this convenience will hardly outweigh the odium of placing the American people in an omnibus class of prospective criminals.—Baltimore News.

Mill Burned at Eglon.

The large flour, planing and saw mill of Messrs. Fike Bros., at Eglon, W. Va., was burned to the ground Tuesday morning about five o'clock, entailing a loss of about fifteen thousand dollars with no insurance. The firm owning the mill had built up an excellent trade and just at this time when the season is the busiest the loss falls heavy upon them.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Garrett National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Commenced business November 14, 1888.

CAPITAL, ...	$ 50,000
SURPLUS AND PROFITS. .	45,000

OFFICERS:

D. E. OFFUTT, President.

G. S. HAMILL, Vice President.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

G. A. FRALEY, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Daniel E. Offutt — Gilmor S. Hamill
John M. Davis — George W. Legge
John T. Mitchell — William R. Stull
Scott T. Jones

Interest at the rate of 3% per annum paid on Time Certificates of Deposits and Savings Accounts.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent at reasonable rates.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. West, of Troy, West Va., were the guests of their son, Lieut. E. S. West, near Oakland, for several days recently, returned to their home Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Workman, of Wheeling, West Va., who spent a week here as the guests of Mr. and Mrs Grover C. Stemple, returned to their home this afternoon.

Cards are out for the wedding of Miss Gretchen Wellington, daughter of Senator and Mrs. George L. Wellington, and Mr. J. Elder Humbird, of Cumberland, the wedding to occur in the Lutheran church of that city on the 23rd inst. Mrs. W. R. Offutt, of Oakland, will be one of the matrons.

Cards have been received in Oakland for the wedding of Miss Frances Belle Grimes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Grimes of Pittsburg, and Mr. George L. Sincell, of Keyser, W. Va. The wedding will be a home affair and will occur at the bride's residence in Knoxville, Pittsburg, Thursday next.

I have some great bargains in farm and town properties. It will pay you to call and see me before buying. Farms from $600 to $40,000. Town properties from $1,000 to $10,000. One excellent 7 room house, gas and steam heat, desirable location in Oakland; best bargain at $2500.

E. S. WEST,
Real Estate and Insurance.

"Old Folks Day" will be observed at the Methodist Episcopal church, Sunday morning, the 6th. A special effort will be made to make the service attractive and helpful for the aged. Those who can help the aged and infirm to the service by rendering any assistance possible, will confer a great favor, and do an act of kindness that, in all probability, will be appreciated beyond the power of words to express.

The Republican has been publishing quite a number of communications from the various towns and villages in the county and would be delighted to have a correspondent at every postoffice who will give the news of the various neighborhoods.

Mr. Ralph Thayer, who was engaged with a B. & O. engineering corps durthe fall months, returned to Oakland Saturday night and will leave here Tuesday morning for Morgantown, where he will again enter the engineering department of the University there.

The boiler in connection with the old Rasche mill on Water street, gave way Wednesday afternoon but did no serious damage to the property aside from the boiler. Repairs are being made as rapidly as possible and the mill will resume operations in a day or two.

Messrs. Dixon & Kelso, of Oakland, who have been operating a mill along with their grain business, will put in additional machinery in a short time for the purpose of manufacturing flour. A first class manufactory of this character has been a standing need in this community for a number of years and with the facilities which are guaranteed by the installation of this mill quite an impetus will be given to the wheat growing industry in this community.

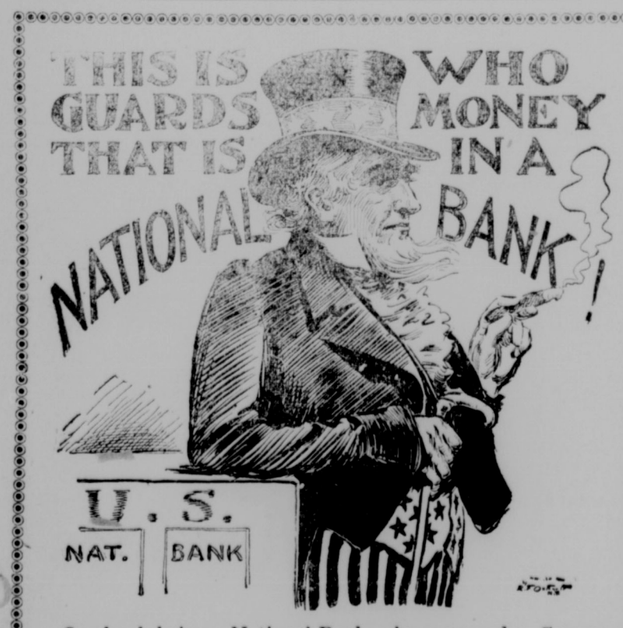
For Rent.

Two six room cottages, one furnished; running water on both properties; stable on one lot. Apply at this office.

Notice to Trespassers.

All persons are hereby notified not to trespass upon my farm, two miles south of Oakland, for any purpose whatever. Persons trespassing will be dealt with according to law.

EDWARD E. SOLLARS.

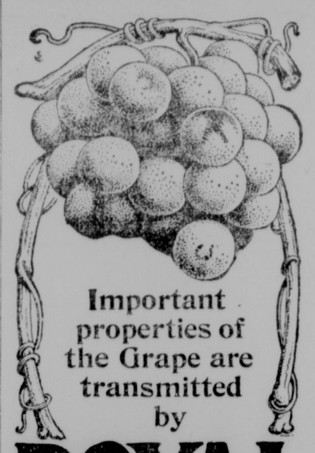


Our bank being a National Bank, places us under Government Supervision, and guarantees safety to every depositor. We refer those who have not dealt with us to those who have.

Make OUR Bank YOUR Bank.

We pay liberal interest consisteet with safety—3 der cent.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
OAKLAND, MD.



Important properties of the Grape are transmitted by

ROYAL Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

to the food.

The food is thereby made more tasty and digestible

NOVEMBER WEATHER

Forecast By Prognosticator Peter R. Smith.

According to the possibilities denoted by the conditions presented in the outlining of the month it will be above the average November month for fair, mild and comparative dry weather. However, the month will have its season storms, which will be much lessened in the rigor and scope of action in all sections. Thunder showers will show up in southern parts and also in central sections.

The month will come in with a rising temperature and also storm sections in process of formation in western parts, which will be on transit, passing east on the 2d and 3d. The kind of weather to be expected at this period will be cloudy and light showery weather, with possibly a thunder shower, which will end in sleet and a snow flurry in central sections. In northern parts the wave will be much more severe and blustery. On the heels of this storm wave will be freshened with northwestern winds for several days.

A storm wave will be on transit on the 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th in the different sections of the country over which the wave will pass. The possibility is that rain in limited quantities may fall, snow flurries and northwestern winds will prevail for several days and the period wind up with frosty nights.

A wave weather disturbance will prevail on the 14th, 15th, 16th and 17th. The possibilities which attended this period are November storms of rain, flurries of snow and gales of wind from the northwest. Possibly a thunder shower may show up within the period.

Late in the evening on the 16th the moon will be totally eclipsed, which will begin at 5:44 eastern time total begins. At 6:58 middle period of totality is 7:21; the end of totality is 7:47.

Threatening weather will prevail on the 18th, 19th and 20th. The possibility of blustering wind clouds on passage will denote the disturbance, except the temperature will change to colder.

A storm period will begin on the 23d and be prolonged to the 27th of the month in its passage over the different sections of the country. The temperature will advance on the 24th and then cloudiness will prevail—rain, wind, and possibly a thunder shower in a number of places, followed by a flurry of snow and a cold wave.

Barn Burned.

Last night the barn of ex-County Commissioner A. Clyde Smith, who recently purchased a farm on Hooppole, a few miles north of Oakland, burned to the ground, along with all its contents, including grain, hay, live stock and machinery. The loss will be quite heavy.

Subscribe for The Republican, Oldest and Best Paper in Garrett county.

MR. BROWNING'S PAY ENVELOPE

His Salary, Whatever it Is, Is plenty Large.

THE REPUBICAN trusts it learned from last week's Democrat the basis on which the salaries of teachers is fixed, viz.: length of service. This seems to be the thought implied in the article of the president of the school board. Every year there is great anxiety among the teachers as the opening of the shcools approaches because they have no idea what their salaries will be and are unable to find out until their first checks are received at the middle of the second month. We venture to say there isn't another county in Maryland, if there is in the Union, in which there is such a deplorable state of affairs and in which the salaries are not fixed on some systematic basis. If they are fixed here on the basis of the term of service, why doesn't the school board so announce that everybody may know? And if they are fixed on that basis we want to congratulate the old teachers, the pioneers in the profession in being honored with the top places in the salary list.

We didn't know but the matter of fixing the salaries was considered the special prerogative of the county superintendent exclusively, by which he could reward those who are willing to turn as spokes in his political wheel and punish those who are not.

In some states, especially New England and the most progressive western states, the school boards consider that qualifications should be a factor in fixing salaries and are so bold even as to print on their letter heads "None but college graduates employed in high schools," or "None but graduates of approved schools employed as high school teachers."

Such boards should wake up and come to Garrett and find out how to run a school.

And some counties even will not employ a man as superintendent unless he is a reasonably good scholor in the various subjects taught in the public schools so that he can be a leader in educational thought and work and not a stumbling-block in the way of progress.

As far as our remarks about salaries are concerned we believe we are safe in asserting that it is costing the taxpayers of this county $1800 per year in salary to run the school board office, exactly the same work that was done by Superintendent Browning's predecessor for $1000 per year. Is this not true, Mr. President?

And further, does the president of the school board deny that Miss Thayer's predecessor as vice principal of the Oakland School was paid $75.00 per month for the same work that she did last year for $60.00 per month and from which the despot in the school board office sliced another $5.00 per month this year without any warning?

And we have grave doubts if Prof. H. W. Browning has taught for less than $75.00 per month before this year for several years.

But what matters it about the exact salary of the county superintendent? We venture to assert that he is getting fifty per cent. more than he ever received before and will ever get again if it is ever possible to pry him loose from his present job.

Teachers' Institute

The following is the program of the teachers' institute to be held at Kitzmiller, Md., Nov. 19, 1910:

10 a. m, song; invocation, R. A. McCauley; address of welcome, A. L. Lee; response, Prof. E. A. Browning; spelling, its importance and methods of teaching it, G. W. Weitzell, Benjamin Jackson and G. B. Moon; benefit of commercial work in the school, Prof. E. A. Browning.

1.30 p. m., song; remarks, Supt. E. A. Browning; cause of that dull pupil, Prof. A. W. Dewitt and Prof. Duncan; geography methods, Prof. Browning; discipline—kind, use and methods of securing it, Prof. F. E. Rathbun. A general discussion on each subject before next is taken up.

We desire the presence of all teachers and lovers of education.

G. W. WEITZELL.

Church Services.

ST PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 2:15 p. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., by Rev. J. B. Workman.
Epworth League Monday 7:30 p. m.
Prayermeeting Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

G. R. WILLIAMSON, Pastor.

ST. MARK S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Luther League Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

ST. MATTHEW'S P. E.

Service every Sunday at 11 a. m.
Sunday School at 2:30 p. m.

W. H. SHEARER

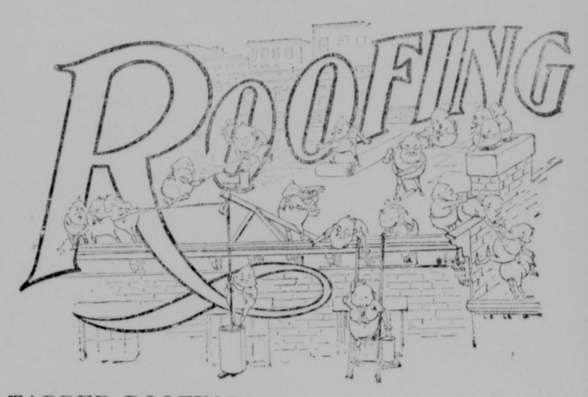
MT. LAKE PARK M. E.

Class meeting at 10 a. m.
Preaching at 7:45 p. m.
Sunday school at 2.30 p. m.
Epworth League at 6:45 p. m.

P. Z. MUSGRAVE, Pastor.

ESTABLISHED 1884.

Will you allow us to talk "ROOFING" to you. We have kinds and at any price.



TARRED ROOFINGS—
1, 2 and 3 ply.

RUBBER ROOFINGS—
2 and 3 ply, double and single rolls.

AMETITE—
The superior of all Gravel Roofings.

CAREY'S ROOFING, (Best of All)—
Contains a heavy flexible body, a strong Calcutta burlap, woolen felt and other durable materials, all united into an indivisible weather and water proof sheet that lasts the life of the building.

SHEETING PAPER, NAILS AND CAPS.

Yours to please,

A. D. NAYLOR & CO.

PRICES RIGHT. BOTH PHONES

H. CREUTZBURG.

SEE MY FALL LINE OF

Dress Goods, Outing Flannels, Etc.

Ladies', Children's, Men's and Boys' Shoes.

Rain Coats for Ladies and Children. Rubber Boots & Shoes.

Full Line of MEN'S AND BOYS CLOTHING.

See my Special Pure Wool $10.00 Black Thibet Suits for Men

Boys Suits $2.50 and up.

Hand-Made Wisconsin Shoes for Men and Boys.

Full Line Groceries,

Meat Market in Connection,

ALL AT THE RIGHT PRICE.

H. CREUTZBURG, Opp P.O., Oakland, Md.

Pay Market Price for Produce.

Our Grocery Department

This department of Bolden, Brown & Weimer's Store is stocked to overflowing with dependable, fresh Groceries of every line and description. In fact our Grocery stock is so large and so varied that were we to undertake to mention a small portion of the many lines carried our advertisement would overrun the space set apart for it. Come, inspect the stock and we feel sure that we can fill every want.

A new department—our five and ten cent counters—has recently been added. Here you may purchase many suitable and dependable articles for less than one-half value.

BOLDEN, BROWN & WEIMER.

THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

ILLUSTRATIONS BY ROY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT 1908 BY BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Innes, spinster and guardian of Gertrude and Halsey, established summer headquarters at Sunnyside. Arnold Armstrong was found shot to death in the hall. Gertrude and her fiance, Jack Bailey, had conversed in the billiard room shortly before the murder. Detective Jamieson accused Miss Innes of holding back evidence. Cashier Bailey of Paul Armstrong's bank, defunct, was arrested for embezzlement. Paul Armstrong's death was announced. Halsey's fiancee, Louise Armstrong, told Halsey that while she still loved him, she was to marry another. It developed that Dr. Walker was the man. Louise was found unconscious at the bottom of the circular staircase. She said something had brushed by her in the dark on the stairway and she fainted. Bailey is suspected of Armstrong's murder. Thomas, the lodgekeeper, was found dead with a note in his pocket bearing the name "Linden Wallace." A ladder found out of place deepens the mystery. The stables were burned, and in the dark Miss Innes shot an intruder. Halsey mysteriously disappeared. His auto was found wrecked by a freight train. It developed Halsey had an argument in the library with a woman before his disappearance. New cook disappears. Miss Innes learned Halsey was alive. Dr. Walker's face becomes livid at mention of the name of Nina Carrington. Evidence was secured from a tramp that a man, supposedly Halsey, had been bound and gagged and thrown into an empty box car.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—Continued.

Mr. Winters and Alex disposed of the tramp with a warning. It was evident he had told us all he knew. We had occasion, within a day or two, to be doubly thankful that we had given him his freedom. When Mr. Jamieson telephoned that night we had news for him; he told me what I had not realized before—that it would not be possible to find Halsey at once, even with this clew. The cars by this time, three days, might be scattered over the union. But he said to keep on hoping, that it was the best news we had had. And in the meantime, consumed with anxiety as we were, things were happening at the house in rapid succession.

We had one peaceful day—then Liddy took sick in the night. I went in when I heard her groaning, and found her with a hot-water bottle to her face, and her right cheek swollen until it was glassy.

"Toothache?" I asked, not too gently. "You deserve it. A woman of your age, who would rather go around with an exposed nerve in her head than have the tooth pulled! It would be over in a moment."

"So would hanging," Liddy protested, from behind the hot-water bottle.

I was hunting around for cotton and laudanum.

"You have a tooth just like it yourself, Miss Rachel," she whimpered. "And I'm sure Dr. Boyle's been trying to take it out for years."

There was no laudanum, and Liddy made a terrible fuss when I proposed carbolic acid, just because I had put too much on the cotton once and burned her mouth. I'm sure it never did her any permanent harm; indeed, the doctor said afterward that living on liquid diet had been a splendid rest for her stomach. But she would have none of the acid, and she kept me awake groaning, so at last I got up and went to Gertrude's door. To my surprise it was locked.

I went around by the hall and into her bedroom that way. The bed was turned down, and her dressing-gown and night-dress lay ready in the little room next, but Gertrude was not there. She had not undressed.

I don't know what terrible thoughts came to me in the minute I stood there. Through the door I could hear Liddy grumbling, with a squeal now and then when the pain stabbed harder. Then, automatically, I got the laudanum and went back to her.

It was fully a half-hour before Liddy's groans subsided. At intervals I went to the door into the hall and looked out, but I saw and heard nothing suspicious. Finally, when Liddy had dropped into a doze, I even ventured as far as the head of the circular staircase, but there floated up to me only the even breathing of Winters, the night detective, sleeping just inside the entry. And then, far off, I heard the rapping noise that had lured Louise down the staircase that other night, two weeks before. It was over my head, and very faint—three or four short muffled taps, a pause, and then again, stealthily repeated.

The sound of Mr. Winters' breathing was comforting; with the thought that there was help within call, something kept me from waking him. I did not move for a moment; ridiculous things Liddy had said about a ghost—I am not at all superstitious, except, perhaps, in the middle of the night, with everything dark—things like that came back to me. Almost beside me was the clothes chute. I could feel it, but I could see nothing. As I stood, listening intently, I heard a sound near me. It was vague, indefinite. Then it ceased; there was an uneasy movement and a grunt from the foot of the circular staircase, and silence again. I stood perfectly still, hardly daring to breathe.

Then I knew I had been right. Some one was stealthily passing the head of the staircase and coming toward me in the dark. I leaned against the wall for support—my knees were giving way. The steps were close now, and suddenly I thought of Gertrude. Of course it was Gertrude. I put out one hand in front of me, but I touched nothing. My voice almost refused me but I managed to gasp out, "Gertrude!"

When I Came To It Was Dawn.

"Good Lord!" a man's voice exclaimed, just beside me. And then I collapsed. I felt myself going, felt some one catch me, a horrible nausea—that was all I remembered.

When I came to it was dawn. I was lying on the bed in Louise's room, with the cherub on the ceiling staring down at me, and there was a blanket from my own bed thrown over me. I felt weak and dizzy, but I managed to get up and totter to the door. At the foot of the circular staircase Mr. Winters was still asleep. Hardly able to stand, I crept back to my room. The door into Gertrude's room was no longer locked; she was sleeping like a tired child. And in my dressing room Liddy hugged a cold hot-water bottle and mumbled in her sleep.

"There's some things you can't hold with hand-cuffs," she was muttering thickly.

CHAPTER XXIX.

A Scrap of Paper.

For the first time in 20 years I kept my bed that day. Liddy was alarmed to the point of hysteria, and sent for Dr. Stewart just after breakfast. Gertrude spent the morning with me, reading something—I forget what. I was too busy with my thought to listen. I had said nothing to the two detectives. If Mr. Jamieson had been there I should have told him everything, but I could not go to these strange men and tell them my niece had been missing in the middle of the night; that she had not gone to bed at all; that while I was searching for her through the house I had met a stranger who, when I fainted, had carried me into a room and left me there, to get better or not, as it might happen.

And there was something else: The man I had met in the darkness had been even more startled than I, and about his voice, when he muttered his muffled exclamation, there was something vaguely familiar. All that morning, while Gertrude read aloud, and Liddy watched for the doctor, I was puzzling over that voice, without result.

Dr. Walker came up, some time just after luncheon, and asked for me.

"Go down and see him," I instructed Gertrude. "Tell him I am out—for mercy's sake don't say I'm sick. Find out what he wants, and from this time on, instruct the servants that he is not to be admitted. I loathe that man."

Gertrude came back very soon, her face rather flushed.

"He came to ask us to get out," she said, picking up her book with a jerk. "He says Louise Armstrong wants to come here, now that she is recovering."

"And what did you say?"

"I said we were very sorry we could not leave, but we would be delighted to have Louise come up here with us. He looked daggers at me. And he wanted to know if we would recommend Eliza as a cook. He has brought a patient, a man, out from town, and is increasing his establishment—that's the way he put it."

"I wish him joy of Eliza," I said tartly. "Did he ask for Halsey?"

"Yes. I told him that we were on the track last night, and that it was only a question of time. He said he was glad, although he didn't appear to be, but he said not to be too sanguine."

"Do you know what I believe?" I asked. "I believe, as firmly as I believe anything, that Dr. Walker knows something about Halsey, and that he could put his finger on him, if he wanted to."

There were several things that day that bewildered me. About three o'clock Mr. Jamieson telephoned from the Casanova station and Warner went down to meet him. I got up and dressed hastily, and the detective was shown up to my sitting room.

"No news?" I asked, as he entered. He tried to look encouraging, without success.

"It won't be long now, Miss Innes," he said. "I have come out here on a peculiar errand, which I will tell you about later. First, I want to ask some questions. Did any one come out here yesterday to repair the telephone, and examine the wires on the roof?"

"Yes," I said promptly; "but it was not the telephone. He said the wiring might have caused the fire at the stable. I went up with him myself, but he only looked around."

Mr. Jamieson smiled.

"Good for you!" he applauded. "Don't allow any one in the house that you don't trust, and don't trust anybody. All are not electricians who wear rubber gloves."

He refused to explain further, but he got a slip of paper out of his pocket-book and opened it carefully.

"Listen," he said. "You heard this before and scoffed. In the light of recent developments I want you to read it again. You are a clever woman, Miss Innes. Just as surely as I sit here, there is something in this house that is wanted very anxiously by a number of people. The lines are closing up, Miss Innes."

The paper was the one he had found among Arnold Armstrong's effects, and I recall it again:

——by altering the plans for—— rooms, may be possible. The best way, in my opinion, would be to——the plan for——in one of the——rooms——chimney.

"I think I understand," I said slowly. "Some one is searching for the secret room, and the invaders—"

"And the holes in the plaster—"

"Have been in the progress of his—"

"Or her—investigations."

"Her?" I asked.

"Miss Innes," the detective said, getting up, "I believe that somewhere in the walls of this house is hidden some of the money, at least, from the Traders' bank. I believe, just as surely, that young Walker brought home from California the knowledge of something of the sort, and, failing in his effort to reinstall Mrs. Armstrong and her daughter here, he, or a confederate, has tried to break into the house. On two occasions I think he succeeded."

"On three, at least," I corrected. And then I told him about the night before. "I have been thinking hard," I concluded, "and I do not believe the man at the head of the circular staircase was Dr. Walker. I don't think he could have got in, and the voice was not his."

Mr. Jamieson got up and paced the floor, his hands behind him.

"There is something else that puzzles me," he said, stopping before me. "Who and what is the woman Nina Carrington? If it was she who came here as Mattie Bliss, what did she tell Halsey that sent him racing to Dr. Walker's, and then to Miss Armstrong? If we could find that woman we would have the whole thing."

"Mr. Jamieson, did you ever think that Paul Armstrong might not have died a natural death?"

"That is the thing we are going to try to find out," he replied. And then Gertrude came in, announcing a man below to see Mr. Jamieson.

"I want you present at this interview, Miss Innes," he said. "May Riggs come up? He has left Dr. Walker and he has something he wants to tell us."

Riggs came into the room diffidently, but Mr. Jamieson put him at his ease. He kept a careful eye on me, however, and slid into a chair by the door when he was asked to sit down.

"Now, Riggs," began Mr. Jamieson kindly. "You are to say what you have to say before this lady."

"You promised you'd keep it quiet, Mr. Jamieson." Riggs plainly did not trust me. There was nothing friendly in the glance he turned on me.

"Yes, yes. You will be protected. But, first of all, did you bring what you promised?"

Riggs produced a roll of papers from under his coat, and handed them over. Mr. Jamieson examined them with lively satisfaction, and passed them to me. "The blue-prints of Sunnyside," he said. "What did I tell you? Now, Riggs, we are ready."

"I'd never have come to you, Mr. Jamieson," he began, "if it hadn't been for Miss Armstrong. When Mr. Innes was spirited away, like, and Miss Louise got sick because of it, I thought things had gone far enough. I'd done some things for the doctor before that wouldn't just bear looking into, but I turned a bit squeamish."

"Did you help with that?" I asked, leaning forward.

"No, ma'm. I didn't even know of it until the next day, when it came out in the Casanova Weekly Ledger. But I know who did it, all right. I'd better start at the beginning.

"When Dr. Walker went away to California with the Armstrong family, there was talk in the town that when he came back he would be married to Miss Armstrong, and we all expected it. First thing I knew, I got a letter from him in the west. He seemed to be excited, and he said Miss Armstrong had taken a sudden notion to go home and he sent me some money. I was to watch for her, to see if she went to Sunnyside, and wherever she was, not to lose sight of her until he got home. I traced her to the lodge, and I guess I scared you on the drive one night, Miss Innes."

"And Rosie!" I ejaculated.

Riggs grinned sheepishly.

"I only wanted to make sure Miss Louise was there. Rosie started to run, and I tried to stop her and tell her some sort of a story to account for my being there. But she wouldn't wait."

"And the broken china—in the basket?"

"Well, broken china's death to rubber tires," he said. "I hadn't any complaint against you people here, and the Dragon Fly was a good car."

So Rosie's highwayman was explained.

"Well, I telegraphed the doctor where Miss Louise was and I kept an eye on her. Just a day or so before they came home with the body I got another letter, telling me to watch for a woman who had been pitted with smallpox. Her name was Carrington, and the doctor made things pretty strong. If I found any such woman loafing around, I was not to lose sight of her for a minute until the doctor got back.

"Well, I would have had my hands full, but the other woman didn't show up for a good while, and when she did the doctor was home."

"Riggs," I asked suddenly, "did you get into this house a day or two after I took it, at night?"

"I did not, Miss Innes. I have never been in the house before. Well, the Carrington woman didn't show up until the night Mr. Halsey disappeared. She came to the office late, and the doctor was out. She waited around, walking the floor and working herself into a passion. When the doctor didn't come back, she was in an awful way. She wanted me to hunt him, and when he didn't appear, she called him names; said he couldn't fool her. There was murder being done, and she would see him swing for it.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Dresden China.

Judging by your recent note, writes a correspondent, it seems that the geographical knowledge possessed by girl typists is about on a level with that possessed by the damsels who represent the postmaster general behind the counters of our suburban post offices. Having occasion recently to telegraph funds to a town in Germany, it became necessary for the clerk to consult the post office guide. After a long and fruitless search I ventured to suggest that she was not likely to find the town I wanted in the section devoted to the celestial empire, where she was looking. "Not under China" she retorted superciliously. "You said Dresden, didn't you?"

The Consoling Volume.

There was a backward student at Balliol who, for failure to pass an examination in Greek, was "sent down." His mother went to see the master, Dr. Jowett, and explained to him what an excellent lad her son was. "It is a hard experience for him, this disgrace," said the old lady; "but he will have the consolation of religion, and there is always one book to which he can turn." Jowett eyed her for a moment and then answered: "Yes, madam; the Greek grammar. Good morning."

CROESUS OF KOREA

Hoosier Farmer Boy Becomes Millionaire in Hermit Kingdom.

Financier Born in Indiana, Whole Career Reads Like a Modern Arabian Night's Tale—Man With Midas Touch.

Columbia City, Ind.—At irregular intervals throughout the year a private car pulls into the little station at Columbia City, disgorges a solitary passenger and is shunted onto the siding to await its owner's pleasure. The passenger, having shaken hands with the ticket agent, greeted the telegraph operator with a quiet salutation and nodded a nonchalant recognition to the drivers of the two or three cabs lined up in waiting, steps into the tonneau of Columbia City's one public automobile and is whisked out of the town and along a country roadway to a farmhouse some thirteen miles north of the little burg.

The passenger in question is the Korean mining magnate, Leigh Hunt, and the farmhouse which is his destination is the homestead where was born about fifty-four years ago the financier whose career reads like a modern Arabian Nights tale.

Hunt, after his schooling, became the principal of the village high school. His tastes were expensive and he got into debt. Then he departed suddenly. He became a lecturer on Lincoln, superintendent of schools in a Tennessee town, later he got a similar position at Ames, Ia., after that the principalship of a school at Des Moines, and then the presidency of the Iowa agricultural college. Again his salary proved too small for his needs and he cut loose and went west with only $200 in his pocket. Here his first step was to seek an interview with the proprietor of the Seattle Post. Was the publication for sale?

The proprietor intimated that it was, upon the proper terms.

"And those are—?" delicately hinted Mr. Hunt.

"Eighteen thousand dollars," replied the newspaper man. "On time," he added, with what must have been occult prescience of that lone $200 reposing in his caller's inside pocket.

"I'll take it," promptly responded Mr Hunt, and forthwith handed over his $200 to bind the bargain.

Things now began to come Leigh Hunt's way. The latest Midas touch developed with surprising celerity.

Leigh Hunt.

The Post proved a paying investment from the start. Later Mr. Hunt purchased the Intelligencer.

Mr. Hunt's first financial coup was in connection with the prospected navy yards at Seattle. Learning about four of a certain afternoon the government's probable choice of a site for these yards, Mr. Hunt hurried off and before nightfall had secured an option on the land. He cleared $200,000 on the deal.

And now one day there came to Seattle and to the office of the Post-Intelligencer a young civil engineer from the middle west. He was bubbling with a project which he proceeded enthusiastically to lay before the owner of the publication. His proposition was the purchase in conjunction with Mr. Hunt of lands adjoining the city, and the inauguration of a boom which should net each of the promoters an independent fortune. The rest is the history of Seattle's boom of the early nineties, which netted Leigh Hunt a cool million.

Then came the panic of 1893, and the proprietor of the Post-Intelligencer came out of the crisis worsted to the extent of that same million—and then some.

Again he cut loose. This time Korea was his ultimate refuge, and here it was that fortune perched again, and finally, upon his banner, and he now has a fortune beside which the shorter lived one swallowed by the panic in Seattle was a mere bagatelle.

On the old homestead near Columbia City and in the comfortable dwelling of hewn logs in which her famous son was born, lives the widowed mother of Leigh Hunt.

Upon large and well conducted farms near by reside two brothers of the multimillionaire, prosperous farmers and content thus to remain. A third brother is located in Chicago, and a fourth, after some years in the Korean mines, now lives with his mother on the old home place.

"Blood Will Tell"

Strength, stamina and vitality depend upon the blood supply. Keep it pure, fresh and red with

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Sold Everywhere. In boxes 10c. and 25c.

FLORIDA VIEWS Magnificent Album of beautiful Florida scenes given free to every new subscriber to the handsomest illustrated weekly in the South. Covering every phase of Florida life it is invaluable to those who are interested in Florida and the tropics. Full of beautiful pictures, stories, history and current topics peculiar to Land of Flowers. 52 weeks $1.00. Send for sample copy.
THE FLORIDA RECORD
912 Realty Building Jacksonville, Fla.

The Army of Constipation

Is Growing Smaller Every Day.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are responsible—they not only give relief—they permanently cure Constipation. Millions use them for Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Sallow Skin.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

KNOWN SINCE 1836 AS RELIABLE
PLANTEN'S (TRADE MARK)
C & C OR BLACK CAPSULES
SUPERIOR REMEDY FOR MEN ETC. ETC.
AT DRUGGISTS. TRIAL BOX BY MAIL 50c
PLANTEN 93 HENRY ST. BROOKLYN, N.Y.

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

SLIGHTLY DAMAGED, still serviceable. Household stoneware carefully assorted. Full barrel lots only $1.99 shipped from Pittsburg. L. Bussey & Co., Portland, Me.

PISO'S
THE BEST MEDICINE
for COUGHS & COLDS

Cleveland Directory

TRUSSES EXPERT FITTING 45 years' experience. Prices low
E.M. HESSLER, 64 Public Sq., Cleveland

Our KODAK Work
How Good—not—How Cheap.
Send for price list and catalog.
TARR'S PHARMACY, 1804 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, O.

Tit for Tat.

Lloyd C. Griscom, in an interview in New York, said of party dissensions:

"They are animated by a nasty spirit, a tit-for-tat spirit; and they go from bad to worse.

"It's like the case of the engaged couple at the seaside dance. The young man, a little jealous, said coldly to his fiancee at supper:

"'Let me see—was it you I kissed in the conservatory?"

"'About what time?' the young girl answered, with a little laugh."

"Thank You's."

The man who is not thankful for the lessons he learned in adversity didn't learn any.

There must be plenty of thankfulness in the world if those who have loved and lost could know just what they have lost.

"Why are you giving thanks? They took $10,000 from you in Wall street a little while ago, didn't they?"

"Yes; but I got out with $20 they didn't know I had."—Judge.

Heart's Trouble.

"Faint heart never won fair lady."

"Faint heart has no business to try to win anything; faint heart ought to see a doctor."

Economy is the art of living as though you are poor when you are really not so; whereas, if you are really poor and live that way that's stinginess.

Toothsome Tid-Bits

Can be made of many ordinary "home" dishes by adding

Post Toasties

The little booklet, "GOOD THINGS MADE WITH TOASTIES," in pkgs., tells how.

Two dozen or more simple inexpensive dainties that will delight the family.

"The Memory Lingers"

Postum Cereal Company, Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ribbon Effects

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

NOTHING is prettier in ribbon arrangements than a bow and ends in simple or in elaborate designs. But one may not always arrive at the desired effect by the use of bows. A shape may be modified or changed in appearance by building it in one direction or another with ribbon arranged in loops. Flower forms may be copied or simulated, and nothing is more fashionable than small, compact roses and foliage made of ribbon.

These examples are given here of ribbon in unusual arrangements. In the first a cap-like shape covered with big velvet poppies is lengthened at the back with wired loops of heavy satin ribbon. These bows redeem the shape, lifting it from the commonplace into one of those which the French have described as "the fleeting profile" shapes. They are full of style. The loops in this instance are made overloops of boned wire sewed to the shape at the back.

A pretty drooping brimmed round hat, having the brim edge finished with a shirring of velvet shows plaitings of ribbon and velvet bows poised together about the round crown. This forms a sort of rosette, in which the plaited ribbon sets, and the result makes one thing of a flower. In fact, each velvet and ribbon decoration is much like a huge pansy in shape. The pretty hat, which is of king's blue felt, needs no other decoration.

A hat for a miss faced with changeable taffeta gathered in the underbrim, is bound with a puff of velvet. A collar of ribbon about the crown is finished with a very full plaiting or shirring of ribbon at the left front. Such a hat is ideal for a miss of 16 or more years, and is quite within the range of amateur millinery to make.

GIRL'S OUTING COSTUME

This pretty costume, designed especially for boating or sailing, is of white linen trimmed with bands of blue and white striped linen. The skirt is made with a group of plaits at each side, above which it is ornamented with buttons, and is encircled about knee high, with an inserted band of the striped linen.

The blouse has a bib-like plastron of the material ornamented with buttons. The sailor collar and cuffs are embroidered with anchors and trimmed with the bands of striped linen. The odd cravat and the girdle are of black liberty.

Stenciling Hints.

When stenciling a design for a wallpaper frieze, draw the diapered pattern on heavy paper so as to allow the skeleton design to hold firmly together after the sprays have been cut out from stencil plates. Cut out each piece of the drawing with a sharp knife, and lay it on a rough piece of the cardboard so that the edge of the knife is not turned.

Prepare each piece to resist the action of the color by sizing or by shellac dissolved in methylated spirits.

Mix the color with one-third picture copal varnish and two-thirds turpentine, using only a small portion at a time, as it is very volatile. Then dab the color all over the surface of the design with a stencil brush. You will then be ready to apply it to the walls.

JEWELS FOR DAY AND NIGHT

Precious and Semi-Precious Stones Very Much in Evidence on All Occasions.

With low-cut necks narrow velvet collars set with three or five graduated ornaments of paste set in old silvered metal are smart and becoming with both afternoon and evening gowns.

Earrings do much to break the line of a long neck with a collarless gown. Lovely new ones are shown in Parisian diamonds, colored stones and baroque pearls.

A good looking set of earrings has a bowknot and dangler of diamonds with baroque drop; another set that screws on has three baroque pearls, one above the other, connected by jeweled chains with amethyst drops.

A shield-shaped corsage ornament of Parisian diamonds and French emeralds, with a shoulder catch to correspond, gives a brilliant finish to a low-necked evening gown.

The woman of bony neck should purchase one of the high dog collars of rows of seed pearls crossed by narrow side bars and a square central bar of Parisian diamonds.

For traveling or sports the watch bracelet is growing in favor. One of the new ones has a flexible woven strap and buckle of gold wire set with a red enamel watch studded in pearls.

On a gray suede wrist strap is a small watch of gold rims studded with alternate rubies and pearls or sapphires and pearls. Cheaper for hard wear are tan or gray suede bracelet with a small open-faced gold or silver watch.

A fascinating ornament of French jewelry that can be used for the hair or corsage is a pair of Mercury wings set to form a hollow that can encircle the hair knot.

Black Waist.

The black chiffon blouse over white or over a silk in Persian colors is even more popular now than at the end of last season, when it was hailed as a novelty. The veiled effect is more pleasing and satisfactory in a waist than a skirt, since it gives a color effect which cannot be obtained by pipings or bands. There is a beautiful messaline, woven in the designs and colorings of the famous India shawls, which is used extensively in combination with black for waists. The plain black silk waists are worn a great deal. The smartest of them have a narrow round yoke of white lace, which gives them a dressy appearance, relieving the somberness of the black.

A New Tie.

A fetching new tie that gives a touch of color to a dark or white costume is made from bias satin or velvet formed into inch wide folds. These are ended with bunches of tiny flowers and leaves, while a similar bunch holds the leaves together in front.

A RARE SHEEP OPPORTUNITY

Enormous Receipts at Market—Farmers and Sheep Feeders Can Stock Up at Bargain Prices.

CAUSES OF THE RUN.

200,000 sheep and lambs received in three days—such, in round numbers, is the record-breaking run thus far this week on the Chicago market!

This enormous over-marketing of sheep is the result of temporary and peculiar causes, and offers a rare opportunity for farmers and sheep feeders to stock up at bargain prices.

This great rush of sheep to market comes mainly from Montana and adjoining western range country, and cannot last more than two or three weeks longer. It is no evidence of over-production. Its principal causes are the recent drought, which so burned out the grass that there will be very little winter feed on the range, and which prevented the putting up of sufficient hay to carry any considerable number of sheep over winter, while last winter was a very severe one and hay was so closely fed that there is no old hay left over for the purpose. The consequence is that sheep owners are forced to market the bulk of their sheep this fall, or else lose them in the fierce storms of winter.

The most serious cause of the present general liquidation, however, is the restriction of the range through occupation and fencing by dry farmers, who are grain growers, and not live stock raisers. The tremendous rush of these settlers upon the range within the last three years, and especially within the last twelve months, is hard for eastern people to realize. It is not alone the area actually enclosed by these settlers, but the breaking up thereby of vast regions of grazing lands into such small sections that they are no longer available to stockmen for grazing their flocks, which is one of the main reasons why the sheep supplies of the western range country are being more closely marketed this year than ever before in the history of the trade.

This means an inevitable shortage at market later on and next year, and with a constantly growing demand for both mutton and wool, it would seem that future good prices are assured.

The western range country has heretofore been the chief source of sheep market supplies, but unless the farmers of the corn belt begin at once to raise many more sheep than they have ever done before, there will be a great scarcity of both mutton and wool before long in this country.

Moreover, there is a world-shortage of live stock of all kinds. All Europe is short of sheep, and even Australia's supply is declining with rapidity. The same general causes that exist in this country are operating in other countries also. Populations are growing rapidly everywhere, while grazing areas are being reduced. As pasture land is turned to production of cereals, sheep raising declines.

Thousands of American farmers can turn this situation to their benefit, through increase of both soil fertility and money profit, by beginning right now each to keep a small flock of sheep upon his farm. And by taking advantage of the present opportunity to buy healthy, thrifty, growing western range sheep at bargain prices upon the heavily supplied Chicago market, they can stock up at minimum cost, whether they want foundation stock for breeding or the growing kind to fatten for market.

A Distant Compliment.

They were talking about a certain man who did not seem to be particularly popular. At last one of the group decided that it was time for him to say something complimentary about the subject of the conversation.

"That stepchild of his is a good little feller," he remarked, "and they say that he takes after his father, too."—Youth's Companion.

"Smoke" Was Mosquitoes.

A cloud of "smoke" which appeared to be arising from the cathedral tower at Belgrade was found, when the fire brigade arrived, to be a large cluster of mosquitoes, compact at the base and tapering toward the top.

New Idea for Pontoon Bridge.

Denmark is trying out a new pontoon bridge in which the pontoons are anchored beneath the surface of the water, the bridge remaining motionless irrespective of the rise and fall of the tide.

Chinese Seek Education.

The sudden demand for popular education in China is shown by the fact that the school attendance in one province has increased 8,000 per cent. in five years.

Say Raisins Impart Energy.

Speaking of the announcement by scientists that people may become energetic by eating raisins, the Chicago Record-Herald puts in the comment that the trouble is that most of the energy produced by eating raisins has to be expended in removing the seeds.

Abraham's Predicament.

The Sunday school class had reached the part in the lession where "Abraham entertained the angel unaware."

"And what now is the meaning of 'unaware?'" asked the teacher.

There was a bashful silence, then the smallest girl in the class piped up: "Un'erware is what you takes off before you puts on your nightie."—Lippincott's.

When a man seals up his head he is apt to think he is holding the fort.

Like the Other Kind.

It was in a "down east" village that the young man met his sweetheart, a charming country beauty. When he returned to the city he sent her a jar of cold cream to keep her cheeks as fresh as the budding rose.

On his next visit he asked her how she liked his little gift.

"The taste was very nice," she said, with a rather sickly smile, "but I think that I like the other kind of cream best, dear."—Lippincott's.

HIS HANDS CRACKED OPEN

"I am a man seventy years old. My hands were very sore and cracked open on the insides for over a year with large sores. They would crack open and bleed, itch, burn and ache so that I could not sleep and could do but little work. They were so bad that I could not dress myself in the morning. They would bleed and the blood dropped on the floor. I called on two doctors, but they did me no good. I could get nothing to do any good till I got the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. About a year ago my daughter got a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and in one week from the time I began to use them my hands were all healed up and they have not been a mite sore since. I would not be without the Cuticura Remedies.

"They also cured a bad sore on the hand of one of my neighbor's children, and they think very highly of the Cuticura Remedies. John W. Hasty, So. Effingham, N. H., Mar. 5, and Apr. 11, '09."

He Knew.

A small boy brought up by a fire-eating father to hate anything connected with England or the English was consigned recently to eat dinner with the nurse while the family entertained a genuine English lord in the dining room. The grown-ups' meal had come to that "twenty minutes past" stage where conversation halts directly, when a childish treble fell upon the dumb-waiter shaft from the kitchen. This is what the astonished nobleman heard:

"Fe, fi, fo, fum,
"I smell the blood of an Englishmun."—Wasp.

What Did Your Shirtwaist Cost?

Whether you bought it ready to wear, or had it made, or made it for yourself, you know that it cost enough, even if it is pretty and fresh and clean. And if it is frayed and soiled and worn and homely looking after it has been in the wash three or four times, it has cost entirely too much. Might as well throw your shirtwaist money away as allow your shirtwaists to be washed with common yellow soap. Easy Task Laundry Soap takes the dirt and leaves the goods as they were. Your grocer is selling lots of it at five cents a cake.

Just Guessed.

"Mrs. Wadsworth, I am very glad, indeed, to meet you. But, haven't I had the honor of being introduced to you before? What was your name formerly, if I may ask?"

"My maiden name?"

"No; your name before you were divorced."

"How did you know I had been divorced?"

"Why, hasn't everybody?"

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Poor Prospects.

"Yes," said Miss Passay, "I found a very nice boarding house today, but the only room they had to offer me had a folding bed in it, and I detest those things."

"Of course," remarked Miss Pert, "one can never hope to find a man under a folding bed."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over 30 Years.
The Kind You Have Always Bought.

More to Be Pitied.

Tramp (to lonely spinster)—Come Missus, arst yer 'usband if 'e ain't got a pair o' trousers to give away.

Spinster (anxious not to expose her solitude)—Sorry, my good man, he—eh—never wears such things.—Punch.

When Rubbers Become Necessary

And your shoes pinch, shake into your shoes Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder for the feet. Cures tired, aching feet and takes the sting out of Corns and Bunions. Always use it for Breaking in New shoes and for dancing parties. Sold everywhere 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

When a girl marries for money the devil is usually the best man at the wedding.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

A critic is a man who by the light of his own experience explains to others why they, too, have failed.

The future and the past are near relations to the present.

Slightly Mixed.

Two Englishmen were resting at the Red Home inn at Stratford-on-Avon. One of them discovered a print picturing a low, tumbling building underneath which was printed: "The House in Which Shakespeare Was Born." Turning to his friend in mild surprise he pointed to the print. His friend exhibited equal surprise and called a waiter, who assured them of the accuracy of the inscription.

"'Pon my word," said the observing Englishman, shaking his head dubiously. "I thought he was born in a manger!"

AS SOON BE WITHOUT MATCHES AS WITHOUT RESINOL IN THE HOUSE.

Resinol is the never failing article resorted to by my wife for the many bruises, chafings, cuts, burns and accidents of the children and has been our cure-all for years. I have used it in cases of irritation and inflammation and have invariably been relieved almost instantly. We would as soon think of being without matches in our house as without Resinol Ointment.

B. Rush Davenport, Philadelphia, Pa.

Still a Woman.

Hewitt—She is a man in her enjoyment of baseball.

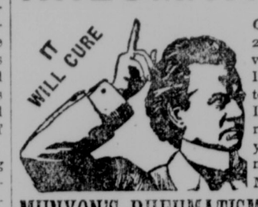
Jewett—But she showed that she is still a woman by refusing to sit through the thirteenth inning.

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

You may call the farmer slow, but he takes more chances from year to year than any dozen men who work inside at a salary.

RHEUMATISM



Get a 25-cent vial. If it fails to cure I will refund your money. Munyon.

MUNYON'S RHEUMATISM CURE

Bad Breath

"For months I had great trouble with my stomach and used all kinds of medicines. My tongue has been actually as green as grass, my breath having a bad odor. Two weeks ago a friend recommended Cascarets and after using them I can willingly and cheerfully say that they have entirely cured me. I therefore let you know that I shall recommend them to any one suffering from such troubles."—Chas. H. Halpern, 114 E. 7th St., New York, N. Y.

Pleasant, Palatable, Potent, Taste Good, Do Good, Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back. 923

COINS AND STAMPS

Thousands of coins and stamps that appear ordinary to you command premiums. Many are worth 100 times face value. You might handle some every day and not know it.
Send for free booklet B
ROYAL MONEY & STAMP CO.
160 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK CITY

Breech Loading Single, $3.95 Double, $6.75 GUNS Sportsmen's Supplies. Cheaper than elsewhere. Catalog for 4c Stamp. POWELL & CLEMENT CO. Cincinnati Ohio

PATENT YOUR IDEAS. They may bring you wealth. 64-page Book Free. Est. 1856. Fitzgerald & Co., Pat. Attys., Box F, Washington, D. C.

W. N. U., CELEVELAND, NO 43-1910.

CONVINCING PROOF

OF THE VIRTUE OF

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

What is the use of procrastinating in the face of such evidence as the following letters represent? If you are a sick woman or know one who is, what sensible reason have you for not giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? For 30 years we have been publishing such testimonial letters as these—thousands of them—they are genuine and honest, too, every one of them.

Mrs. S. J. Barber says:

"I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world for women—and I feel it my duty to let others know the good it has done for me. Three years ago I had a tumor which the doctor said would have to be removed by an operation or I could not live more than a year, or two, at most. I wrote Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for advice, and took 14 bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today the tumor is gone and I am a perfectly well woman. I hope my testimonial will be of benefit to others." —Mrs. S. J. Barber, Scott, N. Y.

Mrs. George May says:

"No one knows what I have suffered from female troubles, neuralgia pains, and backache. My doctor said he could not give me anything to cure it. Through the advice of a friend I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the pain soon disappeared. I continued its use and am now in perfect health. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a God-send to me as I believe I should have been in my grave if it had not been for Mrs. Pinkham's advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." —Mrs. George May, 86 4th Ave., Paterson, N. J.

Mrs. E. F. Hayes says:

"I was under the doctor's treatment for a fibroid tumor. I suffered with pain, soreness, bloating, and could not walk or stand on my feet any length of time. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, followed her directions and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. To-day I am a well woman, the tumor was expelled and my whole system strengthened. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." —Mrs. E. F. Hayes, 1890 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

Mrs. W. K. Housh says:

"I have been completely cured of a severe female trouble by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and want to recommend it to all suffering women." —Mrs. W. K. Housh, 7 Eastview Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, etc.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3 $3.50 & $4 SHOES FOR MEN & WOMEN

BOYS' SHOES, $2.00 $2.50 AND $3.00.

W. L. Douglas $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes are positively the best made and most popular shoes for the price in America, and are the most economical shoes for you to buy.

It you realize that my shoes have been the standard for over 30 years, that I make and sell more $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes than any other manufacturer in the U.S., and that DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR, I GUARANTEE MY SHOES to hold their shape, look and fit better, and wear longer than any other $3.00, $3.50 or $4.00 shoes you can buy? Quality counts. It has made my shoes THE LEADERS OF THE WORLD.

You will be pleased when you buy my shoes because of the fit and appearance, and when it comes time for you to purchase another pair, you will be more than pleased because the last ones were so well, and gave you so much comfort.

CAUTION! None genuine without W. L. Douglas name and price stamped on bottom. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE

If your dealer cannot supply you with W. L. Douglas Shoes, write for Mail Order Catalog.

W. L. DOUGLAS, 145 Spark Street, Brockton, Mass.

FOR PINK EYE DISTEMPER, CATARRHAL FEVER AND ALL NOSE AND THROAT DISEASES

Cures the skin and acts as a preventive for others. Liquid given on the tongue. Safe for brood mares and all others. Best kidney remedy. 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle; $5.00 and $10.00 the dozen. Sold by all druggists and horse goods houses, or sent express paid, by the manufacturers.

SPOHN MEDICAL CO., Chemists, GOSHEN, INDIANA

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Quincy, Illinois.

THE COUNTRY NEWSPAPER

Ought to Earn $5 Per Year For the Underpaid Editor.

Arthur Brisbane, editor for William Randolph Hearst's syndicate of newspapers, including the New York Journal, Chicago American, San Francisco Examiner, and others, writes to the American Press about the country newspaper and the country editor in a way that shows the country weekly is regarded as a necessary institution by an experienced man, whether the community in which the paper is printed appreciates its value or not. Mr. Brisbane is perhaps the ablest and highest salaried newspaper man of the time, and his utterances, therefore, command attention. He says in part:

"As conditions are today the local editor, the man who is leading thousands of good fights all over the country, is poorly recognized or not recognized at all. With few exceptions, it is impossible for men of great ability, public spirit and integrity to make by hard work in a year of intelligent journalism a quarter as much as can be made by any rascal willing to sell himself to a corporation. It is a great harm to the country that the ambitious newspaper man should be moving always toward the big cities in order to make a decent living. Every community where there is a congressman needs a good editor. Every community where a judge sits and looks at the corporation with one eye and the little people with the other eye—and a very different eye for each—needs an honest editor, with both eyes on the judge.

"It would be a very good thing indeed for this country if country editorship meant a comfortable income, a permanent fortune, permanent independence, in addition to a position of honor and dignity.

* * * * * *

"Mr. Hearst's newspaper in San Francisco, as an example, the Examiner, earns $5 every year for every copy of the paper sold. This newspaper can earn this amount of money because advertisers through that newspaper can reach directly the people that have the money to spend and supply them immediately. How much it would mean to the owner of a small newspaper if his circulation could be worth to him $5 a copy! What a good thing it would be for the intelligent, earnest energetic and honest editor with 2,000 circulation if 2,000 circulation in the country meant $10,000 profit a year! Two thousand circulation in the country would be worth more than 2,000 in the city to the owner of the paper if this country had the parcels post. In the long run it would be far better for the local storekeeper. It might crowd out the man who is hesitating about failing and who is going to fail in the end anyhow. But it would certainly help the able man, and it would make rich men of many struggling editors.

"I believe I could prove this to the satisfaction of any intelligent newspaper man if I had a chance to talk to him for five minutes. If the man who owns a newspaper in the country had the power, backed with parcels post, to distribute manufactured goods to his readers directly his paper would be of the greatest possible value and infinitely more valuable per copy of circulation than any newspaper in any big city.

* * * * * *

"Whenever I speak in public before advertisers I make it a point to emphasize the value of the country newspaper, and I intend always to do so. This is good advice from the point of view of the advertiser, and it is still better advice from the point of view of the average citizen. It would be a sad day indeed for this country if there were not scattered in every little hamlet a conscientious, clean newspaper man, willing for ridiculously small pay to watch and protect the interests of the neighborhood."

ON ADVERTISING.

Effective advertising has come to be as much of an art these days as painting pictures or forming trusts. The merchant who pays only perfunctory attention to his advertising is in the class with him who permits his janitor or errand boy to decorate his show windows.

One morning last winter an author, whose name is known throughout the country, called upon a wealthy friend, one of the country's captains of industry. He found the famous business man in his library, surrounded by piles of newspapers and magazines.

"Do yon read all of these?" asked the friend,

"I read what you write," responded the captain of industry, "and, of course, the leading news of the day, but outside these I read, principally, the advertisements. A man in my position cannot keep abreast of the times without reading the advertisements. They hold the news of the industrial world; they tell me the latest trend of inventive and advanced business thought. There is a guarantee, to my mind, in every advertisement; the man who has enough confidence in his goods to advertise them boldly is the man who appeal to me."

There seems to be so much logic in this brief argument that it is presented here without further comment.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

Real Estate for Sale.

I will sell at private sale 80 acres, more or less, one-fourth of a mile from Altamont station. Twenty-five acres cleared land. All nice laying land, well watered, all smooth land, and there is about one hundred thousand feet of good saw timber on it, or I will sell said saw timber and keep the land.

I will also sell Military Lot No. 1164 near Fairfax Stone, in this county, all covered with timber. Said land is principally level. Apply to

Z. G. GIBSON,
2-tf Mt. Lake Park, Md.

HOYES.

The weather is back again to sunshine after several days of snow and very severe freezing.

Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Friend attended the wedding last week of their granddaughter, Miss Sarah Friend, of near Mountain Lake Park, to a well respected young man of Connellsville, Pa.

Mrs. Rankin and two children, of Johnstown, Pa., returned to their home last Saturday, after visiting relatives at Hoyes and Mountain Lake Park for about two weeks.

Henry Hauser and family, of Red House, are moving on W. A. Smith's farm, and Mr. Glover, who has had charge of the farm for the past two years, is moving on the Pike near Grantsville.

Mrs. Lou. Keller, of Romney, W. Va., spent a few days the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dewitt. She was accompanied home by her brother, H. R. Dewitt, of Oakland.

Misses Olia and Bernadette Mattingly, accompanied by Messrs. Willie Bishoff and Ed. Mitchell, made a trip to Glade Farms last Saturday and returned to their home Sunday. They were guests of Mrs. Cuppett while there, who gave them a Halloween party which was greatly enjoyed.

Misses Sadie Wilburn and Auburn Smith spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Rose Wilburn.

Mr. Henry Atkinson and son Harry made a business trip to Hoyes last week and purchased a fine lot of jar butter.

Miss Pearl Bishoff returned to her home Sunday evening after spending a few weeks in our neighborhood.

We were much pleased to have Rev. Orr, of Cranesville circuit, with us Sunday evening and enjoyed his most excellent sermon. He was a former minister of this Circuit.

Notice of Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between R. T. Miller and W. N. Wilson, doing a general mercantile business at Mountain Lake Park, was mutually dissolved on September 22, 1910, said Wilson by by the terms of the article of dissolution to assume all indebtedness of the firm and to receive all credits due said firm.

R. T. MILLER,
W. N. WILSON.

Garthright Has For Sale

Two large double heating stoves, the finest ever made; two six hole ranges of a standard make, and five medium to large heating stoves. They may be seen at the Hustling Store, Loch Lynn Heights.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

This is to give notice that the firm of Cuppett & Lytle, doing a general merchandise business in the town of Sang Run., Md., has this day been dissolved by mutual consent.

CUPPETT & LYTLE.
Sang Run, Md., Oct. 11, 1910.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, Maryland, letters of administration on the estate of

ROBERT W. YOUNG,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of April, 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 26th day of October, 1910.

J. F. BISHOP,
Administrator.
Kitzmiller Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters testamentary on the estate of

HENRY BEITZEL,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of April 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 26th day of October 1910.

GEO. H. BEITZEL,
Administrator,
Accident, Md., R. D. 1.

OPERA HOUSE

School of Music

First Door Upstairs to Right.

Teaching hours all day and all evening, to suit the convenience of our pupils. Music students: try the quick original methods of an old, long time teacher of music, who can show rapid, careful results.

Terms arranged on application.

MRS. K. R. RASCHE,
Opera House. OAKLAND, MD

TRUSTEE'S SALE

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

Near Swanton, in Garrett Co. Md.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from Jacob R. Lee to Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, bearing date the 8th day of January, 1907, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 53, folio 582, etc., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, Maryland, default having occurred under the covenants contained in said Deed of Trust, the said Trustee, at the instance and request of the beneficiaries thereunder, hereby gives notice, that on

SATURDAY,

The 26th Day of November,

1910, at the hour of 11 o'clock A. M., in front of The First National Bank building, in the town of Oakland, Maryland, he will offer at public auction and sell to the highest bidder all of the following real estate, situate near the village of Swanton, in Garrett county, Maryland, and known as

"THE OLD ORCHARD."

1. Military Lot No. 1808, containing 50 acres, more or less.
2. All that part of a tract of land called "SWANTON," adjoining the above mentioned parcel, described as follows: Beginning for the same at a white oak tree, the beginning of Military Lot No. 1808, and running thence, North 67 degrees West, 50½ perches to stake on the North side of Crab Tree creek, North 22½ degrees West, 24 perches to the Oakland and Swanton road, and with said road, North 69 degrees East, 9 perches, North 65½ degrees East, 16 perches, North 71½ degrees East, 28 perches, North 33½ degrees East 20 perches, North 35 degrees East 18 perches, North 54 degrees East, 13 perches, North 79 degrees East, 26 perches, thence leaving said road, South 19 degrees East, 60 perches, South 32½ degrees West, 136 perches, North 11 degrees West, 72 perches, thence by a straight line to the beginning, containing 43 acres, more or less.

A large part of this land has been cleared and is improved by a house, stable and orchard, and is most desirably located.

TERMS OF SALE, as prescribed by the Deed of Trust—Cash on the day of sale, but arrangements can be made whereby a part of the purchase money may be carried on mortgage.

EDWARD H. SINCELL, Trustee.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

In and Near Gorman, Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from William A. Harvey and Benjamin E. Harvey to Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, bearing date the 2nd day of September, 1907, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 55, folio 140, etc., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, Maryland, default having occurred under the covenants contained in said Deed of Trust, the undersigned Trustee hereby gives notice that on

FRIDAY,

the 25th day of November,

1910, at the hour of 11 o'clock a. m. in front of the Station of the Western Maryland R. R. Company in Gorman, Maryland, he will offer at public auction, and sell to the highest bidder, all of the following described real estate, situate and being in Garrett county, Maryland, in and near said town of Gorman, to-wit:

1. All the surface and the timber thereon of all those pieces, parcels, tracts and lots of lands, the same being a part of the tract of land called "The Addition to Paradise," and also a tract of land called "Beechwood," lying near Gorman, containing more or less, fully described by courses and distances in said Deed of Trust, saving and excepting, however, from this sale, all that part or strip of the surface thereon, of the above described land, which lies southeastwardly of the following described lines:

181 Acres,

Beginning for the same at a point in the 5th line of the land above described, which point is northwestwardly, 150 feet, at right angles, from the middle of the main track of the Western Maryland Railroad Company, as now located, and running thence with the curves of said Railroad at the equal distance of 150 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, through that portion of the land above described which was included within the lines of the tract called "The Addition to Paradise," to the 6th line of the said tract called "Beechwood," thence reversing said 6th line of "Beechwood," to a point which is northwestwardly, 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, and running thence with the curves of said Railroad, at the equal distance of 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, through the said tract called "Beechwood," and thence continuing through that portion of the said tract called "The Addition to Paradise," which was originally Military Lot No. 1313, at the equal distance of 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, to a point in the 2nd line of said Military Lot No. 1313 which said point is northwestwardly, 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located.

2. All that other lot of ground in Gorman, the same being one-half of Lot No. 3, as designated on Lewis Nydegger's Plat of the "First Addition to Elkins," as recorded among the Land Records of Garrett county, Maryland, bounded as follows:

Beginning at a stake West of the County road and corner to Lot No. 2 thence with said Lot, North 65 East, 3 poles to a stake by the road, thence with said road, North 25 West, 54 feet to a stake by the road, thence South 65 West, 3 poles to a stake, thence South 25 East, 54 feet to the beginning, containing

One-Eighth of an Acre,

more or less.

The above described surface is covered with considerable timber, and is excellent grass land, and the town lot will make a desirable building site.

TERMS OF SALE. Cash on day of sale, but terms may be made whereby a portion of the purchase money may be carried on credit for a reasonable time, upon proper security satisfactory to the undersigned.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
Trustee.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., Oct. 29, 1910.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on Wednesday, Nov. 9th, 1910,

for the purpose of transacting all routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.

Prompt attention given all ca day or night.
Garrett County Telephone. 24-1yr.

DR. W. W. GRANT,
DENTIST,
Office, McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Bridge and Crown Work a Specialty.
Gold and Silver Fillings. 21-09-1y.

DR. LOUIS I. PREVOST,
VETERINARY SURGEON,
MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.
Office Hours in Oakland from 2 to 5 o'clock p. m

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Ravenscroft Building, Second St.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett Co., Md., deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 17th day of April, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

CLEAVER H POOL,

Given under my hand this 26th day of February, 1910.

GERTRUDE E. POOL,
Administratrix.
Kitzmiller, Md.

SUPERVISORS' NOTICE OF ELECTION.

OFFICE OF
THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF ELECTIONS
FOR GARRETT COUNTY.

OAKLAND, MD., Oct. 26, 1910.

Notice is hereby given to the Judges and Clerks of Election and to the qualified voters of Garrett county, Maryland, that in accordance with the provisions of Article XXXIII of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, passed at the January session, 1906, and amended by the Acts of 1909, 1961, 1902, 1904, 1906 and 1908, an election will be held in the several districts of said Garrett county, at the usual places of holding elections and hereinafter set forth, on

TUESDAY,

The 8th Day of November, 1910,

for the purpose of balloting for—

One person for member of the House of Representatives of the United States in the sixty-second Congress from the Sixth Congressional District of the State of Maryland.

Also for or against the following proposition to apply only to District No. 5:

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to a petition filed by certain qualified voters of the Fifth Election District of Garrett county, in accordance with Chapter 645 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for 1910, that at the Election to be held on Tuesday, the 8th day of November, 1910, the proposition "Shall District No. 5 of Garrett County, Maryland, Become Anti-Saloon Territory," will appear on the ballots for said District No. 5.

And also for or against the following proposition, to apply only to the town of Grantsville in District No. 3: "Shall the town of Grantsville Continue to be Anti-Saloon Territory."

The polls of said election will be opened in each and every Election District of said Garrett county, at the usual places of holding the polls, at 8 o'clock a. m. and will be closed at the hour of 6 o'clock p. m. when the ballots shall be counted according to law.

For the information of all persons concerned the following Act of the Legislature, passed March 24, 1864, is published:

CHAPTER 161.

AN ACT prohibiting the sale of spirituous or fermented liquors in the several counties of the State on the day of election.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That it shall not be lawful for the keeper of any hotel, tavern, store, drinking establishment, or any other place where liquors are sold, or for any person or persons, directly or indirectly, to sell, barter, give or dispose of any spirituous or fermented liquors, ale beer, or intoxicating drinks of any kind on the day of the election hereafter to be held in the several counties of the State.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That any person violating the provisions of this Act shall be liable to indictment by the Grand Jury of the county where the offense is committed and shall, upon conviction by the Judge of any Circuit Court of the State, be fined a sum not less than fifty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each and every offense—one half of the fine shall be paid to the informer, the other half to the County Commissioners for the use of public roads.

And the places of election in the several districts of said Garrett county will be as follows:

Election District Number One—
Swanton,

in the Election Building in the town of Swanton.

Election District Number Two—
Friendsville,

in the Council Chamber in the town of Friendsville.

Election District Number Three—
Grantsville,

in the old Postoffice Building in the town of Grantsville.

Election District Number Four—
Bloomington,

in Andrew Mullen's house in the town of Bloomington.

Election District Number Five—
Accident,

in the house of Mrs. Susan Englehart in the town of Accident.

Election District Number Six—
Sang Run,

in the Election Building in the town of Sang Run.

Election District Number Seven—
Oakland,

in the office of the Board of Election Supervisors at the Court House in the town of Oakland.

Election District Number Eight—
Ryan's Glade,

in the Election Building on the Northwestern Turnpike.

Election District Number Nine—
Johnson's,

in the shop of Thomas Johnson on the National Road.

Election District Number Ten—
Deer Park,

in the building owned by Charles R. Savage in the town of Deer Park.

Election District Number Eleven—
The Elbow,

at the residence of Joseph Warnick.

Election District Number Twelve—
Bittinger,

in the G. W. Engle building in the village of Bittinger.

Election District Number Thirteen—
Kitzmiller,

in the Band Hall in the town of Kitzmillerville.

Election District Number Fourteen—
Oakland,

in the Gortner Building, corner Oak and Second streets in the town of Oakland.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of Elections for Garrett county, Maryland.

WM. R. OFFUTT, Pres.,
THOS. J. JOHNSON,
S. LAWTON,
Board of Election Supervisors of Garrett county, Md.

EDMUND JAMISON, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Fred. A. Thayer, Trustee, vs. Lewis A. Rudisill and Kate B. Rudisill.

No. 1694 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Ordered, by the CircuitCourt for Garrett county, sitting as a court of equity, this 21st day of September, 1910, that the sale of the property mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Fred. A Thayer, Trustee, under a power of sale contained in a deed of trust from the said Lewis A. Rudisill and Kate B. Rudisill, his wife, to the said Fred. A. Thayer, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 21st day of October, 1910; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 14th day of October, 1910.

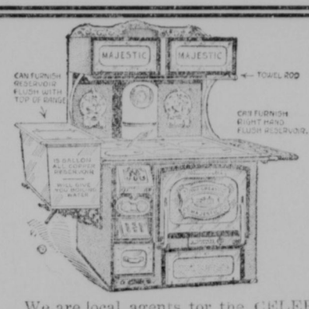
The report states the amount of sale to be $2500.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

DR. J. G ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

ubscribe for The Republican:



MAJESTIC RANGES

For Coal or Wood

HONEST GOODS.
HONEST PRICES.

We are local agents for the CELERRATED MAJESTIC RANGES—the Ranges with a national reputation. Nothing better is made in the stove line. Goods which are cheap, but not good, are dear at any price.

Why you should have a Great and Grand Majestic Range in your Kitchen—

It cuts the fuel bill in half because it is riveted air-tight, HOLDS the heat where it belongs, and has the proper arrangement of flues.
It is used by your neighbor, who would have no other.
It browns bread all over just alike without turning.
Has large warming closets with the right kind of doors. The only warming closets that you can clean.
It is made in any size and style desired.
It is made of better and heavier material than any other.
It is the only range in the world made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron.
It costs a little more, but lasts much longer.
It is the only range made that has a ventilated ash pit.

S. LAWTON & SONS, Oakland, Md.

THE GREATEST SALE OF

Gas Stoves, Heaters

AND TINWARE

In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting

A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

EXAMINERS' NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, appointed by the County Commissioners of Garrett county, to view the lands through which the following described new county road is prayed to be located, said road beginning for the same at a point about forty rods west of the McDermott house on the upper farm and running thence through the lands of James McDermott, William Umbel, Joseph Thomas and M. M. Thomas, a distance of about one and a quarter miles, to intersect the county road at the Pennsylvania State line near the gate house, and examine whether the said new county road should be located, will meet on the Twenty-ninth day of October, 1910, for such purpose, and to determine whether the public convenience requires the said locating of said new county road, and if so, to locate the same and perform their duty in the premises.

WM. H. THOMAS,
JEFFERSON LOWDERMILK,
FRANK HUBBERSON, } Examiners.

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

The Maryland Agricultural College
COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND.
Maryland's School of Technology

Fifty-fourth year begins Sept. 15.
Entrance examinations 13, 14.

Eight courses of instruction leading to professional degree of B. S.
Agricultural, Horticural, General, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Biological and Chemical.

The College has a close association with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. College students are permitted to visit the Experiment Farms at Arlington and Beltsville and thus secure an additional equipment for their professional career.

The demand of the age is for men for life's activities. Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all departments. Graduates qualified to enter at once upon life's work. Boarding department supplied with all modern improvements. Bath room, steam heat, electric lights. Location unsurpassed for health.

Tuition, books, heat, light, laundry, board, medical attention, annual deposit, chemical and athletic fees all included in the annual charge of $99.00 per quarter, payable in advance.

Sanitorium for issolation of contagious disease, resident physician and trained nurse in attendance.

Catalog giving full particulars on application. Attention is called to the Two Years Courses in Agriculture and Horticulture. Failure to report promptly means loss of opportunity to student.

Early application necessary for admittance. Write for particulars.

R. W. SYLVESTER, President.

GEORGE W. LEGGE, JR.,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.

Practice in the Courts of Garrett and adjoining counties, and in the Maryland Court of Appeals. Associated with Thomas J. Peddicord, First National Bank Building.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 34. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1910. NUMBER 37

FLEW OVER BALTIMORE

Forty Minutes he was in Continuous Over-City Flight,

With thousands of persons gathered in the street, upon roof tops and at every point of vantage, witnessing the spectacle, Hubert Latham, the French aviator, flew over Baltimore, Monday, for a $5,000 prize offered by the Sun and Evening Sun.

Latham used his 50-horse power Antoinette and consumed 42 minutes and 10 seconds in making the round trip, covering an approximate distance of 22 miles.

Latham's flight is regarded as one of the most remarkable in aviation annals. It is held to establish a new record. This consists of the fact that for practically forty minutes he was in continuous over-city flight, following a prescribed route. It is regarded as one of the most dangerous feats in aviation. In addition to winning the $5,000 Sun prize, Latham receives $500 from Ross Winans. Mr. Winans is confined to his home by illness and the original course was changed to give Mr. Winans an opportunity to view the flight. Latham maneuvered several minutes over Mr. Winans' house, performing some daring evolutions.

LAMENT.

The following lines, published in yesterday's Cumberland News, expressing, as they do the feelings of loyal Garrett county Republicans, individually and collectively, is herewith published:

Please go 'way and let us weep.
Don't disturb our sorrow deep,
We would rather weep than eat,
Grief to us is such a treat.
The election is over now,
In sorrow, we our heads do bow,
We had hopes that yesterday
Things would come along our way;
Please forgive our anguish great—
For our hearts are prone to ache.

Please go 'way and let us weep,
Don't disturb our sorrow deep,
We would rather weep than eat,
Grief to us is such a treat.
For we are so lonely, sad,
When we thought we'd be so glad:
We, last week, were gay and bright,
But the news that came last night—
There was nothing there to cheer,
Hence we can't withold a tear.

Please go 'way and let us weep,
Don't disturb our sorrow deep,
We would rather weep than eat,
Grief to us is such a treat.
If you knew how bad we feel,
O'er your heart would pity steal,
If you had no one to cheer,
Maybe you would shed a tear;
And you, too, so sad would be,
Just as we are, just as we!

—Cumberland News.

Stop that Cough.

Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound will do it. 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

THE DEATH RECORD.

MRS. SARAH C. THOMAS.

Sarah Catherine Thomas, wife of James Thomas, of White Rock, died at her home on Tuesday, Nov. 1. 1910, at 10:50 p. m. She was the mother of ten children two of whom are dead and is survived by four sons and four daughters. She had been an invalid for seven years, most of the time not being able to be out of bed. About three weeks before her death she contracted typhoid fever, of which she died. All her living children were present at the time of her death. Interment was made on November 3, 1910, at 2 p. m., in the cemetery at Keeler Glade, Md. She was 38 years, 10 months and 13 days old.

A FRIEND.

MRS. LAURA LAWSON.

Mrs. Laura Echard Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Echard, formerly of Oakland, died at Vanderbilt, Pa., last Friday after an illness of three days of infantile paralysis, aged twenty-five years. The deceased lady leaves two children, one three years old and the other an infant of three months, besides her husband, parents and a number of sisters and one brother, the latter being Mr. Calvin Echard, of Oakland. The remains of the deceased were brought to Oakland Sunday morning and later in the day taken to Thaverville where they were interred in the Union cemeterv. Rev. Johnson, of the U. B. church, officiated at the funeral services.

A Birthday Party.

Mr. B. F. Crane is the popular teacher of the ladies Bible Class of the Loch Lynn Heights Baptist Sunday school and the class showed its appreciation of him last Saturday evening by tendering him a surprise party on the occasion of fifty-fifth birthday. Under some pretext he was lured away and in his absence the ladies took possession and soon had the dining table groaning under its weight of refreshments. The whole was surmounted by an immense birthday cake around which burned fifty-five candles. After all was prepared Mr. Crane was sent for and he and his fair hosts and invited guests spent an enjovable evening playing games and in other forms of amusements. Those present including the family were: Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Crane, Wilmer and Gladys Crane, James and Thelma Hamilton, Mrs. Lucile Crane, Masters Charles and Owen Crane, Mrs. C. M. Rathbun, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Rathbun, Miss Hellice Rathbun, Mr. Warren Rathbun, Mrs. A. T. White and daughter Helen, Mrs. W. C. White, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smouse and daughter Vera, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Yutzy and daughter Hasaleah, Mrs. S. J. Shaw and daughter Gwendoline, Mrs. Charles Bunce, Mrs. J. W. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Ford, Miss Mildred and Robert Ford, Mrs. W. D. King and son Carleton, Mrs. P. S. Lish, Mr. C. W. Hudson, Miss Amelia Bunce. C. W. H.

DEMOCRATS SCORE VICTORY IN MANY STATES

Greatest Since 1892, When Cleveland Was Elected President.

B. H. WARNER DEFEATED BY D. J. LEWIS.

Flunk in Garrett County Surprising; Had Usual Republican Majority Been Given Here Republican Candidate Would Have Won

The Democratic party in the country at large has won its first great victory since the election of Grover Cleveland to the Presidency in 1892. It has elected governors in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Ohio; has upset the Republican majority in the House of Representatives, and has insured a greatly reduced majority in the United States Senate.

Bass, Republican, is elected governor of New Hampshire.

Cooper, Republican, and fusion candidate for governor defeats R. L. Taylor, the Democratic candidate, in Tennessee.

Incomplete returns from Montana indicate a close fight in the Legislature which will elect a successor to United States Senator Carter. Pray, Republican, is re-elected to Congress.

In New York, the Democratic candidate for governor, John A. Dix, is elected by a plurality of approximately 61,000 after a bitter fight.

Col. Roosevelt lost in his own election district by 60, his own county of Nassau by 300, and probably his own Congressional district. Martin W. Littleton, Democratic candidate for Congress, had a plurality in the Colonel's county over Representative Cocks, who was often a spokesman of Col. Roosevelt when the Colonel was President.

Senator Beveridge, according to returns now at hand, was defeated in Indiana by John W. Kern, and 11 out of the 13 Congressional districts in Indiana went Democratic.

Massachusetts elected Foss, Democrat, governor by a plurality estimated in excess of 20,000.

Connecticut probably has elected Judge Simeon E. Baldwin, Democrat, by a small plurality, although the Republican State chairman refuses to concetle Baldwin's election.

In Ohio, Gov. Judson E. Harmon was easily re-elected.

The Democrats also carried New Jersey, electing Woodrow Wilson, former president of Princeton University, by a handsome plurality.

In Nebraska, where, as in Indiana, election of United States Senators is practically by popular vote, Hitchcock, anti-Bryan Democrat, is elected over Senator Burkett, Republican, by 20,000.

Mayor Dahlman, of Omaha, who led the Democratic revolt against Bryan in Nebraska, carried the city of Omaha in his campaign for governor by 9,000, but Aldrich, Republican, is leading in the interior of the State, and the indications are that his pluralities in the other counties will more than offset the plurality of Mayor Dahlman in Douglas county, which includes the city of Omaha.

The Democrats will control the next House of Representatives by a majority of about thirty. The present House is Republican by forty-seven.

There will be two Socialists from Wisconsin. They will probably affiliate with the insurgent Republicans.

The Republican majority in the Senate will be reduced from twenty-five to twelve, and may be less. The loses are sustained in Maine, Indiana, New York, Ohio, New Jersey, Nebraska, Nevada, and possibly in Montana.

The solid delegation from Connecticut is broken, one Democrat coming from the Second district. Delaware remains in the Republican column. Illinois makes a big change. According to late reports the delegation will stand 16 to 9 in favor of the Democrats. Conditions in Iowa at a late hour are somewhat chaotic It is likely that another Democrat may be added to the delegation. The Republicans lost one in Kentucky.

Virginia will likely have a solid delegation. Democracy in West Virginia also turned a trick. Control of the delegation hangs in the balance.

BALTIMORE AND MARYLAND

There was no Democratic landslide in Baltimore Tuesday although the Democrats carried the city by 1972 plurality, with one precinct missing. They recovered the Third Congressional district by the election of City Councilman George Konig, Democrat, to succeed John Kronmiller, Republican, by 278 pluraiity. In 1908 Kronmiller won by 262 votes.

State Senator J. Charles Linthicum, Democrat, carried the Fourth district for Congress by 1947 plurality.

Although re-elect by an unusually large plurality, Congressman J. F. Talbott, Democrat, lost the two city wards of the Second district by 380 votes. These wards—the Fifteenth and Sixteenth—are normally Republican.

James Enos Ray, Jr., Democrat, carried the city wards of the Fifth district by 127 plurality, with one precinct missing. This is about normal.

The four city loans were ratified by overwhelming majority.

RESULT IN THE STATE.

First District—J. Harry Covington, Democrat, re-elected.

Second District—J. Fred. C. Talbott, Democrat, re-elected.

Third District—George Konig, Democrat.

Fourth District—J. Charles Linthicum, Democrat.

Fifth District—Thomas Parran, Republican, in place of Sidney Mudd, Republican.

Sixth District—David J. Lewis, Democrat, in place of Geo. A. Pearre, Republican.

At the election Tuesday the Democrats gained two congressmen, as compared with the present representation. The State delegation in the next Congress will, therefor, be composed of five Democrats and one Republican. Mr. Parran, of the Fifth district, is the lone Republican, who was elected.

The Democrats retained all the three districts carried by them two years ago and added the Third and Sixth districts to their list.

SIXTH DISTRICT

GARRETT COUNTY.

Garrett county gives Lewis 891; Warner, 1,180. The vote by districts is as follows:

	Lewis Dem.	Warner Rep.
1 Swanton	66	88
2 Selbysport	95	118
3 Grantsvile	117	125
4 Bloomington	58	34
5 Accident	139	65
6 Sang Run	29	88
7 Oakland	104	121
8 Ryan Glade	58	73
9 Johnsons	52	15
10 Deer Park	40	107
11 Elbow	31	26
12 Bittinger	21	58
13 Kitzmillersville	47	44
14 Oakland	134	218
Totals	991	1180

Warner Plurality, 189.

Pearre carried this county by 947.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Complete returns from all but four districts in this county gives Warner 650 majority. The missing districts are in the mountain section and will not materially change the result. The vote throughout the county was unusually light, not over 79 per cent. of the registered vote being polled. In Frederick city, where Warner made his greatest gain, about 80 per cent. of the registered vote was polled.

The result in the county was a disappointment to Republicans, who calculated that Warner would get fully 1,000 majority. They attributed the slump to the stay-at-home vote, which was very large.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY.

Complete returns from Montfiomery county gives Lewis 3,165, Warner 2,522. majority for Lewis, 643.

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

Complete returns from every district in Washington county show that Warner lost the county by 123 votes, Lewis victory in this county being due to the Republican stay-at-home vote, 700 fewer ballots being cast than two years ago. In this loss Warner suffered more severely than Lewis, the latter receiving within 233 votes as many as he recieved two years ago, whereas Warner ran 463 behind the vote cast for Pearre two years ago.

Married.

NEWMAN-NETHKEN—At the parsonage of St. Paul's M. E. church, Oakland, by Rev. G. R. Williamson, Miss Fannie Nethken and Mr. William Newman, both of Oakland. The wedding comes as a great surprise to many Oakland people.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

Designating Thursday, November 24, as a Day of Thanksgiving.

"This year of 1910 is drawing to a close. The records of population and harvest, which are the index of progress, show vigorous national growth and the health and prosperous wellbeing of our communities throughout this land in our possessions beyond the seas. These blessings have not descended upon us in restricted measures, but overflow and abound. They are the blessings and bounty of God.

"We continue to be at peace with the rest of the world. In all essential matthrs our relations with other people are harmonious, with an ever growing reality of friendliness and depth of recognition of mutual dependence. It is especially to be noted that during the past year great progress has been achieved in the cause of arbitration and the peaceful settlement of international disputes.

"Now therefore, I, William Howard Taft, President of the United States of America, in accordance with the wise custom of the Civil Magistrate since the first settlement in this land and with the rule established from the foundation of this Government, do appoint Thursday, November 24, 1910, as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, enjoining the people upon that day to meet in their churches for the praise of Almighty God and to return heartfelt thanks to Him for all His goodness and loving kindness.

"In witness whereof, I have here unto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington this fifth day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and ten and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and thirty-fifth.

WILLIAM H. TAFT.

"By the President:

"ALVEY A. ADEE, Acting Secretary of State.

Married at Oakland.

Mr. John A. Helfrich and Miss Rolia Wiggington, two well known young people of Fairmont, W. Va., came to Oakland yesterday and were married. Last night they telephoned the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiggington, what had happened. The bride is but 17 and her parents objected to the match on account of her youthfulness. Miss Wiggington had been an operator for the Bell Telephone Company. Mr. Helfrich is a member of the Marion News Agency.

Mr. Jay K. Wiegle and Miss Hazel Yost, of Morgantown, W. Va., come to Oakland Monday and were married. Both have been in the employ of the Acme Publishing Company at Morgantown.

DIXON & KELSO

BARGAINS

In Ladies' & Misses' Coats

DIXON & KELSO purchased a line

SAMPLE

Ladies' and Misses' Coats

at one-third the regular price.

Can Sell a $15.00 Coat at $10.00 and a $10.00 one at $6.66.

All other goods the same proportionate reduction.

The Ladies are invited to come in and inspect them.

Yours to Please. DIXON & KELSO.

TEDDY-TAFTY.

Copyrighted.

TEDDY TAFTY

Teddy-Tafty Sundae

The Latest in Ice Cream.

Healthful

Delightful

Refreshing

Oakland Steam Bakery

Manufacturers of Ice Cream complying absolutely with the Pure Food Laws of the United States.

We Freeze our Reputation into our Ice Cream.

TEDDY-TAFTY.

The Republican.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Pubr.

OAKLAND, . . . MD.

A mustache can come back.

The frost is on the Sunday school picnic.

It will take a snow storm to do away with straw hats.

Outside the slight chill of this weather, can you beat it?

The best of aviators often come down when they least expect to.

While the aeroplane is still in its infancy, it is a very husky infant.

Guess they will discard the hobble skirt now. Fashion says it's passe.

In the matter of joy-riding it is becoming harder than ever to tell a steal from a borrow.

Aeroplane flights and balloon races are fascinating, but think how good the walking is!

If the world is going insane, some modern music must be consciously written for the future.

If your digestion is bad it's because you lack "sand." A spoonful with each meal, says the doctor.

Boys in Chicago public schools are to take up sewing. Why assume bachelorhood for them so early in the day?

Not all men are poets, says a reviewer of current verse. Now, if we could only convince them of that truth.

Baden-Powell has landed in New York. If your boy asks for a khaki suit and a scout hat don't be surprised.

Why is it everybody has a bottle of carbolic setting around the house somewhere to be taken in mistake for medicine?

Japanese children are to be taught to write with both hands. The paper trust may be encouraging the movement.

Speaking of menu French, it is a fact that English is expressive enough to designate all that the ordinary man wants to eat.

An attempt is being made to Americanize hotel menus. "Pork And," "White Wings," "One in the Dark" and "Ham on Rye."

When song writing has been introduced in the schools will the pupils take their arithmetic lessons home and try them on the piano?

Now that New York has abandoned the horse cars we may entertain hopes of her one day being a real up-to-date and enterprising village.

If one had one's choice of deaths that by the administration of hot mince pie over a period of about seventy-five years would seem as desirable as any.

A hen that sings has been discovered in South Carolina. Owing to the stiff price of eggs, she will not be likely to cast much of a shadow over the hen that lays.

Any man who is inclined to feel haughty should stop and consider that according to the census he is just about 1-90,000,000th part of the population of this country.

What has become of the old-fashioned youth who grew long hair for every football season, even though he never got any closer to the game than the grand stand?

Our leading lady smugglers may console themselves with the thought that Collector Loeb will have no such perfected system of search when the ocean-going aeroplane is in commission.

The mint officials have just discovered that the citizens of the United States don't seem to be able to keep any of the $11,000,000 coined annually in gold. So they are going to stop coining it.

From the depths of the sea a new island has added itself to the Aleutian group. Uncle Sam should hurry up with a more definite government for Alaska, which is twice as large as Texas and still growing.

A court has decided that platonic affection for a married woman does not justify gifts of silk hose and lingerie—not even in these ultra-modern times. Stick to Browning and essays on friendship, and the lady will be safe in a divorce suit.

A very young magazine writer insists that girls of the present age do not know how to kiss. It is hoped that he will, with more experience, have cause to revise his opinion.

The fact that the oyster season is open is notified by the news item that a Pennsylvania woman found a $200 pearl in an oyster which she was assimilating in New York. This is calculated to increase the feminine demand for oysters, and may entail the further drain on the family purse of trips to New York.

MARVELS of THE EARTH

CURIOUS, ODD AND INTERESTING OBJECTS AND PLACES

"DROWNING" AS A LIVING.

A remarkable association of youthful professional drowners and life-saving heroes has been discovered by the Paris police. The number of boys who have fallen into the river and been rescued by their companions has grown to such an extent in the St. Louis district that the local magistrate ordered that the boys on the embankment should be watched. As a result 13-year-old Louis Berbaud was seen to let himself drop cautiously into the water, and the next instant two of his comrades sprang heroically after him and brough him to land. Berbaud played his part to perfection, and, feigning illness, was transported to the salvage station. One of his gallant rescuers remained with him, while the other hastened away, as it was afterwards ascertained, to give the news to the newspapers in order to obtain a reward. Berbaud and his friends afterwards made a full confession. Their association had a number of members, they said, but they refused to give the names. They had found the profession a paying, one as the heroes were nearly always recompensed, and they always loyally shared their profits.

HALF CAT AND HALF RABBIT

W. H. Kisinger of Truemans, Pa., is the owner of a most peculiar animal. It was born of a cat mother, but has the body, legs and tail of a rabbit, with the head of a cat. It runs like a rabbit, by jumping up and kicking with its hind feet. It has cat claws on its hind feet, but has both rabbit and cat claws on its front feet. She has had three litters of kittens, but none resembling her. She is sitting up most of the time, and stands up and walks around, when looking for anything that alarms her. She catches mice, frogs and bats. When necessary she can jump six feet in the air and catch a bat with her mouth.

VASE THAT IS WORTH $45,000

Old Sevres at its best is wonderfully beautiful, although some connoisseurs would not give a bit of blue and white china for the richest example of French craftsmanship. Nevertheless, fortunes are paid for fine Sevres. At a recent auction held in London Joseph Duveen closed the bidding for a "vaisseau a mat" with a $45,000 bid.

Besides Mr. Duveen's bargain there are only four other known specimens of the vaisseau a mat in existence, namely: One in the royal collection at Windsor castle with a grosbleu ground dated 1758; one in the Wallace collection, with a grosbleu ground; one with a Rose du Barry ground dated 1752 in Baron Rothschild's collection; and the one in the possession of J. Pierpont Morgan. Mr. Morgan's vaisseau a mat was formerly in the Earl of Coventry's collection; it is one with a Rose du Barry and green ground dated 1759.

Head Dress Worth $1,500

Among the women of Tibet those who are of pure blood and have not married Nepalese are distinguished by the Pagoh head dress, which is ornamented with many turquoises, corals and small pearls and is interwoven with the woman's own hair. It is a cumbrous affair, but the decoration can be removed without much difficulty. The pagoh as worn by the women of the upper class is worth approximately $1,500.

QUEER LIGHTNING PRANKS

During a thunderstorm in Brockton, Mass., a bolt of lightning entered a bedroom on the second floor of a house in which Edward Bolles was sitting. The lightning ripped up the bed clothing, burned the mattress and knocked the footboard through a window. A gold watch chain which was attached to a vest he was wearing was melted and his watch spirited away and has not been found, although a thorough search of the house and grounds has been made. A part of the roof of the house was lifted from its fastenings and tipped on edge. Bed clothing and curtains in every room of the house were set afire. Bolles was not even stunned by the lightning, though it played all around him.

HE HAS TOO MUCH NOSE

Surgeons at the Cincinnati City hospital believe that John Lehray, a cooper, who applied for treatment recently, has the largest nose in the world. The ponderous nasal appendage is six and three-quarter inches long and three and a half inches wide. It hangs over the lips and interferes when he eats or talks. Lehray is suffering from elephantiasis of the nose, and the physicians have decided that the organ will require to be amputated.

STEAMER'S STRANGE CARGO.

The strangest cargo that a purser ever had on a manfest was brought into New York the other day on a Ward line steamship. It was a consignment of 38 five-foot bags of dried flies. The flies were shipped by a Santa Cruz firm to Germany where they are used as chicken food.

QUEER OLD MAN OF THE SEA

There was washed up by the waves in St. Margaret's bay, near Dover, England, recently a curious root that has the appearance of a veritable old man of the sea. It is 15 inches in height and is pictured herewith just as it was found, not having been altered in any way.

SNAKES THAT MILK COWS

The unusual spectacle of snakes milking a cow was witnessed recently on the borders of Oxon and Gloucestershire, England. A Mrs. Rice, living near the village of Oddington, keeps two cows, and it was discovered that the animals, although in perfect condition, were not giving the proper supply of milk that might be expected. The cowman was at first at a loss to find a reason, but one day he visited the cows in the meadow and found one of the animals lying down quite contentedly, while two large grass snakes were sucking at the udders. The reptiles had evidently found milk a thriving diet, for each was 3 feet 7 inches in length, and over 7 inches round the thickest part of the body.

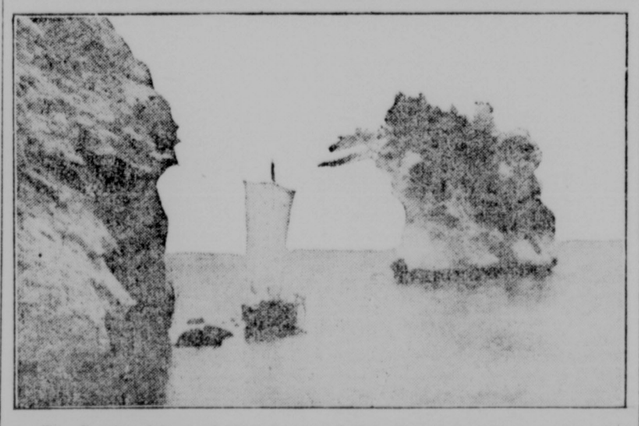
GIRL CAN LIFT 675 POUNDS.

In Scranton, Pa., lives Miss Isabelle Lengel, seventeen years old, a zealous church worker, who does not believe any other person of her age, sex and weight can equal her record of lifting, 675 pounds, without harness. Her father, who is also something of an amateur athlete, has offered to wager that she can outlift any girl of her age and weight in the world.

Miss Lengel weighs only 117 pounds. She is pretty, with a wealth of black hair and bright, snapping black eyes and a complexion that makes her the envy of her less muscular sisters.

While a student in the high school Miss Lengel was a familiar figure in the gymnasium, and easily outdid the others in her class. Miss Lengel exercises every morning with dumb-bells weighing twenty-five pounds each.

Floating Island of Japan



The floating island of Yagi is one of the attractive and mysterious features of a charming summer resort of North Yezo, Japan. The island is said to change its position continually, being affected by the tides.

Make Use of Your Gifts

By REV. ABNER H. LUCAS, D. D.

Text.—And he said, leave us not, I pray thee, for as much as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and thou mayest be with us instead of eyes. —Num. 10:31.

What more glorious use can be made of knowledge, influence, and personal strength than to turn them to the help of the needy? If your vision is penetrating and clear, what nobler service can you render then to "be eyes" for those who may not see afar? If your hand has strength and cunning, to what better use may it be turned than lifting the burdens of the weak and teaching the unskilled how best to accomplish their task?

If you have wealth you have possession of a power for good which is nearly omnipotent, if rightly applied. What more worthy aim can lead men and women of wealth than that through their help the poor may catch visions of the highest and holiest life? If we have the gift of prophecy, we must use it for the instruction of the ignorant, if we retain it. To hesitate is ingloriously to fail; selfishly to keep for ourselves what God has intended shall serve his children, is to lose life with all its opportunities of good. Hobab's knowledge and influence never were more precious to him than when, having refused the appeal to enrich himself, he accepted the opportunity to assist others. As the new dangers arose, and he helped Moses meet them and conquer them, his own mind and soul grew imperial. By the number, magnitude, and stress of the responsibilities of others, he was developed into his own worthiest life. When a great Italian commander was defeated he issued his immortal appeal: "Soldiers, I am without money and without reward. I have nothing to offer you but cold and hunger, and rags and hardship. Let him who loves his country follow me." But with that summons to self-denial and patriotism he gathered to his side the choicest souls of his generation. The men who followed in response to that appeal became courageous heroes themselves. When our Lord turned and said to the multitude, "The Son of man hath not to where to lay his head," and invited them to follow him, he was calling to men and women who had counted the cost, and were ready to surrender themselves to the cause of purity, truth, and human helpfulness. The way of life is narrow; the gate to it is narrow; but the narrowness of the way and the gate are its glory. Narrowness of the way demands energy, high purpose and noble perseverance. There is no other way. To invite a great soul to a broad path is to invite him to smallness, to the cessation of growth and impotence. The cry has been heard in every age, "Would God it were easier to be good!" "And would God it were easier to redeem the earth!" But that is a mistaken cry. When the ten spies returned from Canaan murmuring because of the obstacles to their conquest, their murmuring was an evidence of weakness of character; but the cry of Caleb and Joshua was, "Up, let us conquer these giants, and take their walled cities." That was the token of the greatness of the two.

Jesus Christ did not come primarily to change the circumstances that should make life easy, but to give a new incentive and lofty inspiration that would enable men to meet life's circumstances as they are. He never promised his friends that the path of duty should be free from danger. In the spirit of the Spartan mother who charged her soldier son, "Come home with your shield or on it," Christ says to his disciples, "Take the field and save humanity, cost what it may." It is always true that the choice of the broad path of personal ease and comfort, instead of the narrow path of duty, leads to the loss of self-respect, the world's esteem, and true success. Sir Henry Stanley describes bravery as a requisite for those who push into the African forest, and says: "The bigger the work the greater the joy of doing it. The whole-hearted striving and wrestling with difficulty to lay hold with a firm grip and level head, and the calm resolution of the monster, and tugging and toiling and westling at it today, tomorrow, and the next, until it is done—is the soldier's creed of forward, ever forward; it is a man's faith that for this task he was born." When McKay wrote from Uganda in Africa to the home church, he said, "For our work at this station we want the best men in England; not a man who can be easily spared, but the man who cannot be spared." Christianity from the beginning has grown upon tasks that were so great as to require the consecration of all its power. "O, pray not for easy lives, pray to be stronger men; do not pray for power equal to your tasks; then the doing of your work shall be miracle, but you shall be a miracle; every day you shall wonder at yourself, at the richness of the life which has come to you by the grace of God."

Final Aim.

The main reason why men are so quickly swept off their feet by passion, why gambling and lust and drink are so strong, is because God has not been chosen as the final aim of life to furnish a standing check upon the tiger and the ape in the menagerie of the soul.—Rev. J. P. D. Lewyd, Presbyterian, Seattle.

For Sprains "Gave Me Instant Relief"

"I fell and sprained my arm and was in terrible pain. I could not use my hand or arm without intense suffering until a neighbor told me to use Sloan's Liniment. The first application gave me instant relief and I can now use my arm as well as ever."—MRS. H. B. SPRINGER, 921 Flora St., Elizabeth, N. J.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is an excellent antiseptic and germ killer—heals cuts, burns, wounds, and contusions, and will draw the poison from sting of poisonous insects.

25c., 50c. and $1.00

Sloan's book on horses, cattle, sheep and poultry sent free. Address

Dr. Earl S. Sloan, Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

The Spots Disappeared.

Mrs. Dolan lived in a district which was not as favorable for the outdoor household experiments recommended by the Ladies' Helper as it might have been. This fact Mrs. Dolan was rapidly assimilating, and in a manner not so uncommon as it might be she blamed the estimable periodical for her difficulties.

"I wisht I had a holt o' that woman that runs the 'Handy Hints' department," she remarked to her husband one morning after an early excursion into the back yard, whence she returned in high dudgeon.

"I t'ought you t'ought she was a grand wan," said Mr. Dolan, cautiously testing his cup of tea.

"Well, I've changed me mind, as I've the rights to do," replied his wife. "She said to put sody on thim stains in the tablecloth, and I'ave it out overnight on the line, an' they'd be gone entirely whin morning come. Sure 'tis the tablecloth that's gone—the desaving woman that she is!"—Youth's Companion.

A Logical Landlord.

Many a tenant will sympathize with the man in this story, from the Philadelphia Record. He was renting a small house which the landlord had refused to repair. One day the owner came to see him.

"Jones," he said, "I shall have to raise your rent."

"What for?" asked Jones, anxiously. "Have taxes gone up?"

"No," the landlord answered, "but I see you've painted the house and put in a new range and bathtub. That, of course, makes it worth more rent."

The Family Growler.

"Why are you weeping, little boy?"

"I broke de pitcher."

"Well, there's no use crying over spilt milk."

"G'wan! Dis wuz beer."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

When the patient man is once aroused he makes up for lost time.

When It's "What for Breakfast?"

Try

Post Toasties

Serve with cream or milk and every member of the family will say "ripping" good. And don't be surprised if they want a second helping.

"The Memory Lingers"

Postum Cereal Company, Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

Why We Should Fertilize the Soil

by BURT E. POWELL

MAN'S best friend is his mother—the earth. All she asks is the opportunity and she will yield him the wealth of an account that has been growing for ages. And he has treated her as he usually treats his best friends. He has taken all she had to give, bought an automobile and a house in town and then hid his address from his relatives of the soil for fear they would bring their earthy smell into his new residence.

With quiet indifference old Mother Earth endures this ingratitude, but the time comes when she has nothing for his greed. What happens then? Look to India for one answer. Ten million of our own Aryan blood starve there in a single famine year—starve upon a soil that once was, and still could be, almost inconceivably fertile.

Russia offers another reply, where with stomachs empty men enter a world that never fills them. Yet another answer, centuries old, may be found in the Tigris-Euphrates valley, which, once marvelously fertile, now scorches uselessly in the tropic sun. The necessity of man forged a weapon that brought him plenty; but the greed of man forged a weapon that brought him penury. For do you think there can be prosperity when the earth no longer yields? Do not forget that the shame of Rome was coincident with the time when one bushel of seed returned but four in the harvest. When the soil exploited, that is when it is so farmed that the essential elements are taken out in crops and nothing returned to build it up, the result is exactly the same as when men are exploited in workshops and nothing returned to build on their bodies. You cannot haul phosphorus and nitrogen in oats and wheat and corn from your farms year after year and maintain the fertility of the soil if you give back no phosphorus and nitrogen in return. Twelve thousand abandoned farms in the state of New York alone testify to this. After sixty years of cultivation the lands of the corn belt are beginning to hint at the same thing.

TWO FIELDS OF CLOVER IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS SHOWING EFFECT OF USING LIME STONE ROCK PHOSPHATE IN ADDITION TO MANURE

CORN FIELD IN URBANA PLAT, 3 YEAR ROTATION NO TREATMENT

ALFALFA - SHOWING ADVANTAGE OF HAVING THE SOIL INOCULATED WITH BACTERIA

We all feel the results; and it is not the man with the bayseed in his hair who feels it first but the man with the pen behind his ear. Month by month the price of each separate commodity puts a little large puncture in his salary, until by the end of the year his savings, which began hopefully, as an unknown quantity, have ended as "X = nothing." He it is who knows the cold dread of middle age; for unless the land can be induced to yield abundantly prices will not settle down to the point where the man on a moderate salary can live free from fear. Farmer and clerk alike, we are all vitally concerned in this problem of maintaining and increasing the fertility of the soil that is fertile, and of restoring soils that have been cruelly exploited.

Fortunately they can be restored. Intelligence is more potent than avarice and can undo the evil it has wrought. Even those soils that have been exploited to the point of apparent ruin can be nursed back to health. Dr. Cyril Hopkins, head of the agronomy department of the University of Illinois, a soil specialist of national reputation and the author of numerous pamphlets and a book entitled "Soil Fertility and Permanent Agriculture," is one of the most enthusiastic workers along this line. He is a man of hard facts and loves pretty theories even as the devil loves holy water. Every fact that he gives out must prove itself over and over again in tests upon his own farms, or those belonging to the university or upon one of the various experimental plots. There are about thirty of these plots scattered through the state of Illinois, where the soils are carefully examined and then cropped according to their needs. I could tell you tales of what Mother Earth has done in the way of corn, wheat, oats, or clover when she has received proper treatment that would set you to building castles in the air upon an earthy foundation. The corn yield upon one of the university farms in 1909 was 87 bushels to the acre, due to treatments with limestone and phosphorous. But before we go farther let us consider a few fundamentals of crop growing.

First, there are six positive, absolutely essential factors. They are: (1) the seed, (2) the plant home, (3) the food of which the plant is made, (4) moisture, (5) heat, (6) light. Now, except in the case of the seed and plant food these factors are largely beyond the farmer's control. Dame Nature can, however, be trusted to attend to them satisfactorily. How, then, has the farmer made use of his ability to control the two factors? By exercising judgment and care in the selection of seed and by ignoring the matter of plant food entirely. The result? When the land was worn out and had no plant food to give the good seed the agriculturist arose frately in farmers' institute and told what he thought of the seed seller. The trouble all the time was not with the seed but with the soil, which had had the elements of plant food removed in previous crops, and as a consequence could not respond to the call of the seed.

What are these elements? There are ten in the list, but eight are provided abundantly. Three—oxygen, hydrogen and carbon—come directly from the air and water. Most normal soils contain enough potassium, magnesium, iron, calcium and sulphur, although sometimes the first must be supplied. The problem of plant food, therefore, narrows itself, in most cases, to maintaining and increasing the phosphorus and nitrogen.

Now nitrogen is as easy to catch as the measles if one knows how. The air contains it in inconceivable amounts. Dr. Hopkins has estimated that the air above an acre of ground contains about $10,000,000 worth, if sold over the counter at ordinary commercial rates. In order to induce this nitrogen to enter the earth, where it may reappear as food for man, all that is necessary is to plant clover, alfalfa, peas or any legume. By means of the bacteria upon the roots these legumes draw the nitrogen into the soil. How necessary the element of nitrogen is may be seen from the fact that a 100-bushel crop of corn takes from the soil almost 100 pounds of nitrogen in the corn and about 48 pounds in the stalks. Rich, well-balanced land in the corn belt contains about 8,000 pounds of nitrogen. Therefore, if the process of subtraction of nitrogen goes on year after year with never an addition, it can be seen clearly that the farmer's finances cannot multiply. Rotation plans for grain farmers always should include a crop of legumes. Wheat, corn, oats and clover is a satisfactory rotation; also wheat, corn and cow peas; also cotton, corn and oats and cow peas. The first of these rotations should include a catch crop of clover seeded the first year and plowed under for corn as late as practicable the second year. The other two should include catch crops of legumes whenever possible. Legumes when plowed under perform valuable services besides supplying the soil with nitrogen—as they decay they supply organic matter to the soil which helps other elements of plant food to free themselves from the earth and into the farmer's bank account.

Now that the question of nitrogen has been outlined, suppose we turn to the problem of phosphorus, the only element of plant food we ever shall have to buy. As to the importance of the use of phosphorus upon the common soils of the United States, Dr. Hopkins has this to say:

"Phosphorus is the key to permanaent agriculture on these lands. To maintain or increase the amount of phosphorus in the soil makes possible the growth of clover or other legumes and the consequent addition of nitrogen from the inexhaustible supply in the air; and with the addition of decaying organic matter in the residues of clover and other crops and in manure, made in large part from clover, hay and pasture, and from the larger crops of corn and other grains which clover helps to produce comes the possibility of liberating from the immense supplies in the soil sufficient potassium, magnesium and other essential abundant elements supplemented by the amounts returned in manure and crop residues for the production of large crops at least for thousands of years, whereas if the supply of phosphorus in the soil is steadily decreased in the future in accordance with the past and present most common farm practise, then poverty is the only future for the people who till the common agricultural lands of the United States."

Phosphorus may be applied in liberal amounts—as much as 1,000 pounds to the acre every three or four years—and it costs about $7 a ton.

After the problem of returning the elements to the soil has been solved the farmer may find another condition of the soil which must be corrected before his farm will produce as it should. This is the tendency of certain soils to acidity. Clover, alfalfa and other valuable legumes cannot thrive upon soil that is sour. Sometimes on acid soils when applications of farm manure are made the legumes will seem to grow well, but examination reveals the fact that the nitrogen gathering bacteria fail to develop properly. Hence the most valuable contribution the legumes have to make to the soil is largely lost. Upon certain fields belonging to one of the most famous agricultural stations in the world, that of Rothamstead, England, applications of natural limestone were made a century ago. They are still moderately productive, although other fields near by, which have never received the application, are extremely unproductive.

Care should be taken that limestone is used for the one and only purpose of correcting soil acidity.

And while we are upon this subject of soil stimulation, have you ever thought that most of our improvements have that in view and that only? Improved seed, improved machinery, irrigation, even crop rotation, all are means for extracting from the soil the richness that is in it, not for returning any of the food elements of grain building. All of these methods of soil stimulation are excellent in their way, if used in connection with methods of returning the elements of plant food; but if used without them they are means of hastening the impoverishment of the soil.

To return to the question of limestone, one ton to the acre finely ground will correct the acid condition of most soils. It is, however, in the end cheaper and easier to apply more and to apply it less often. As much as ten tons to the acre was applied to the soil of one of the experiment fields in southern Illinois and the crop yields there have been greater than upon any other fields in that district.

A question that has been given much attention lately is the question of crop rotation. Undoubtedly it is absolutely essential for successful grain farming, but it is not the universal panacea some would have us believe. For instance, a group of theorists have declared that fertilization is unnecessary, that crop rotation will keep the soils in perfect condition. The idea is that plants do not injure the soil because they use its plant food elements but because they throw off poisonous excreta as animals do. Therefore a so-called worn-out soil simply has become saturated with this excreta. Plant a crop which will neutralize the poison of the last crop and the soilsoil will be sweetened and the breasts of Mother Earth kept dripping with plenty forever. This is very attractive—as a theory. It has, however, no foundation in fact. As Dr. Hopkins has said, the rotation of crops has just the same effect upon wealth in the soil as the rotation of the check book among the members of the family has upon the wealth in the bank. Plant food elements cannot be used up and not returned without resulting in impoverishment of the soil.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

INEBRIATE IS DEAD WEIGHT

Progress Is Pushing Drunkard to One Side With Relentless Force—Old Order Was Kind.

If conditions 60, 70 or 80 years ago were considered, the decrease shown in inebriety would be most striking, one drunkard being found in a thousand where formerly there were probably 20 or 30. In the early days of the republic, whisky was an article of wide consumption, made so because it was the only alcoholic stimulant easily obtainable at a distance from the sea coast, and because large quantities of grain could be profitably converted into liquor in the interior communities.

Economic causes have operated powerfully to diminish hard drinking. Fifty or 60 years ago there were thousands of communities in which professional men could drink to excess without suffering in public opinion. Now such offenders would quickly lose their standing, and not only professional men, but workers in all the trades, especially those in which machinery is employed, are obliged to keep sober in order to hold their places. The inebriate is a dead weight in modern society, says New York Tribune. The older order was more than kind to him, but the newer is relentless. The younger generation has accurate views on that point, and the proportion of young men handicapping themselves with drinking habits is becoming smaller every year. Young men nowadays are too intent on other things to be greatly attracted by the cheap lure of dissipation.

All progress in the past half century has helped the cause of moderation. Legislation has been appealed to both to end the sale of liquors and to regulate it. But economic and educational pressure has done more than legislation to put a rigorous ban on inebriety.

THEY ARE SOBER ENGINEERS

Stringent Rules Against Drunkenness Enforced by Brotherhood—One Notable Example.

It is safe to say that no other union, club or organization of any sort applies quite such heroic treatment to undesirable citizens as the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. One thing that the brotherhood most strenuously insists upon is that its members shall not drink. Thirty-five members were expelled for getting drunk in 1909, and their shame was publicly proclaimed in the Journal. The treatment does not stop here by any means. The brotherhood will not risk the lives of its members and the general public by permitting a drinking man to run an engine, writes Charles Frederick Carter in Century. When a man has been duly convicted of drinking and punished according to the laws of the order, the facts are laid before the proper authorities on the road that employs him, and his discharge is demanded. In one notable instance the engineer of a fast train got drunk during his layover and disgraced himself. He was tried, convicted and expelled, the management was informed, and the offender's discharge requested in regular form. But as the engineer had been a good man, the railroad company demurred, saying that he had not been drunk while on duty.

"But," said the brotherhood, "there is no telling when a man who gets drunk off duty may take a notion to get drunk on duty, and we do not intend to take any chances on having a drunken man tearing through the country at sixty miles an hour, endangering the lives of others. It is unfair both to the employees in your service and to your patrons."

The culprit was discharged. He can never be employed on a railroad again.

Temperance in Ireland.

Increased taxes on whisky have had a tendency to decrease its consumption in Ireland. It is shown that with the decrease of consumption there has been a corresponding decrease in the number of arrests for drunkenness. So great has been the improvement that Mr. Lloyd George has not hesitated to say "that it would be criminal on the part of any government to reduce the impost which had produced such immediate and satisfactory result in the improvement of the habits of the people." In other words, the loss to the national exchequer is more than recouped by the increased prosperity to the nation and the consequent improvement in its ability to meet the calls of the tax payer.

Temperance in Germany.

The cause of temperance is making steady progress in Germany, and according to the latest statistics just published there are over 140,000 members of the different temperance associations throughout the country, the most important being the International Order of Good Templars, with 40,000 members, the Blue Cross associations with 32,000 members, and the Salvation army with 8,000 total abstainers. The greatest number of converts have been made during the last year, in which time the International Order of Good Templars increased its membership by nearly 400 per cent.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

Entered at the Postoffice in Oakland, Md., as Second-class matter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

The Republican is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year.....$1.25
One copy six months ..... .75
One copy three months ..... .40

Advertising Rates made known upon Application.

Remittances may be made by Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft and addressed to

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1910.

THE CAUSES

The causes which led to the results in Tuesday's election are legitimate subjects for comment, but some of the commentators are rather hasty in their conclusions. There are probably more causes than they see at first glance and which will appear to them later. There is a disposition in some quarters to blame [the Republican disaster upon Theodore Roosevelt. He may be responsible in part, but hardly for all of it. Perhaps if the leaders who are so ready to put the blame upon him would examine themselves carefully, they would find that some of the blame belongs elsewhere.

He may have been too active and strenuous in the fight for the best interests of the Republican cause, but there is no way of knowing what the result might have been if he had kept quiet and let other people make the noise. It must be conceded that he meant well. He may have made a mistake in his judgment of the best method to pursue in furthering his purpose, but that is a common error among the most astute politicians—even among those who can detect the mistakes in a campaign after it is over. But suppose he is responsible for his party's present woes? What good can it do to rant about it and censure him for an effort which was honest, but as his critics think, misguided? It is done and the wisest thing to do is make the best of the present situation. The colonel is a Republican asset and must be reckoned with in future campaigns. The party should aim to conserve his energy and to guide it into the most useful channels in the campaigns to come. The main cause of the Republican disasters Tuesday was the lack of harmony among members of the party. Wherever they put aside personal quarrels, recognizing that their party is greater than any individual in it and entitled to their support, there will be no trouble about the result, and Garrett county will return her usual majority.

THE DEMOCRATIC ROOSTER REDIVIVUS.

Out of the "pi-box," out of the dusty galley racks, the battered cuts of the Democratic rooster are fluttering down to greet the rising sun of victory. Most of them have not seen sunlight since the fall of 1892; many of them have been in retirement since their crow was silenced in mid-career in 1876. Cheek by jowl with quaint woodcuts of Seymour and Greeley and Tilden, fresher from their fellowship with Bryan and Parker, they are coming forth with some of the gloss rubbed from their burnished wings, but none of the lusty vigor lost from their victorious attitude.

It requires an effort of memory to recall the Democratic rooster as he was in the heyday of his youth. The methods of journalism have changed since he went to roost during the long Democratic eclipse. Occasionally he has come forth to celebrate a State or local victory, but he was not the chantecler of old. Then he had the pride of all his race as he "strutted, standing still," with comb erect and head thrown back. Not infrequently a scroll fluttered from his expanded beak, breathing hot, crisp words of defiance. His was the place of honor in the enthusiastic Democratic organ of the day. Perhaps as a bantam, he led the scarehead in the first page—perhaps as a magnified, clead-cut Leghorn, he extended entirely across eight columns. Perhaps, multiplied in numbers, he ran, as a frieze across the top or swept as a graceful border around the page. In duplicate, he adorned the editorial column, where "Fire-Alarm" Foraker or "Bloody-Shirt" Morton was denounced in unmeasured terms and the people was proclaimed as having come into their own again. The ballahoo man at the side show, the herald of the knightly tournaments, were modest and retiring compared with him.

But since the news of general Democratic victory, he stirs again, something of the old pride, when he felt that the sun rose to hear him crow, has set his clarion notes ringing across the continent from the front page and the masthead of countless contemporaries sometimes known as rural—where he generally belongs. It is like a note from the misty past, and it gathers volume as it goes.

J. M. DAVIS & SONS.

The FREE

The only insured SEWING MACHINE

The Sewing Machine that you have been reading about in the magazines.

This machine also contains every other convenience known in sewing machines, making it very easy to operate. It has eight complete ball-bearings in the head and stand. It does the work faster and better than other machines.

Guard your health and your temper and save time by using

The FREE

The recent invention of the wonderful ROTOSCILLO MOVEMENT has made it possible to use the old fashioned shuttle in a rotary sewing machine and still have it sew easier and smoother than any round bobbin machine.

The Free is the Sewing Machine you really and truly ought to buy

Should you through accident in moving or otherwise break any part or the whole machine, we will replace that part or the machine, gratis; that if you break a needle, if you break a belt, or if one wears out; if you break any attachment, we will replace these parts to you absolutely without cost.

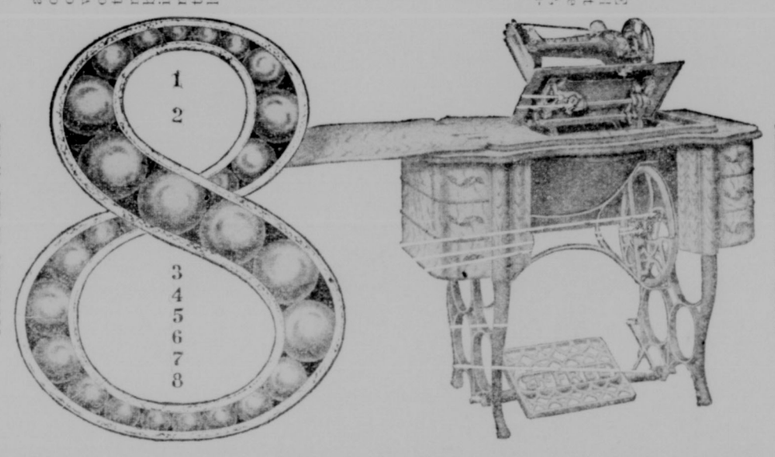
Its means that if your home burns and The FREE sewing machine is destroyed or injured, we will supply a new The FREE sewing machine without cost; that if in a cyclone or flood, your machine is rendered unfit for use, we will replace it without expense to you.

The FREE IS THE ONLY INSURED SEWING MACHINE

It is insured for five years against breakage, wear, fire, tornado, lightning and water.

The Free

8 EIGHT SETS OF BALL BEARINGS 8



The FREE is the Lightest Running Sewing Machine in the World

The FREE is the Lightest Running Sewing Machine in the World

22222 The Lonaconing Savings Bank Of Allegany County. 22222

Stands First among the State Banks of Maryland

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and open an account with us.

JAMES M. SLOAN, President. DUNCAN R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

Capital - $50,000
DEPOSITS, - $175,000

The First National Bank

Friendsville, Md.

Surplus Fund, . $26,000
Undivided Profits 6,000

OFFICERS:

L. E. FRIEND, President,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Vice-Pres't
R. C. McCANDLISH, Vice-Pres't
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier

DIRECTORS:

L. E. FRIEND, Merchant,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Lumber and Coal
W. W. SAVAGE, Merchant,
D. S. CUSTER, Merchant,
H. M. RUMBAUGH, Farmer,
W. H. H. FRIEND, Pension Agent and Surveyor,
HORACE R. DEWITT, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCANDLISH,
JOHN T. GEARY.

THREE GOOD THINGS TO KEEP: Your Temper, Your Secrets, Your Money

Your money kept with us will earn you 4 Per Cent. Interest compounded semi-annually. Keep it here and after while it will keep you.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily, except Sundays and Holidays. 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

Deforestation and What It Means to the Whole Country.

To the Editor of The Republican:

It is claimed that a good thing is never appreciated until it is removed, or you are removed from it. This is especially true of our American forests.

When I see the whole trainloads of fire wood shipped into this part of Texas from the timber belt or from Arkansas, and notice how knurly and crooked it is and note the vast amount of labor it takes to split and prepare it for use, it makes me feel keenly the enormous waste and destruction of valuable and merchantable timber in my own any many other of the Eastern States. In this part of Texas, merchantable timber is entirely wanting. The meager timber here can be used only for posts and firewood. Of the posts used there is not one in fifty that a Garrett countian would think it possible to use. Most of them are made of the mesquite which seldom gets large enough to make more than a single post, and it would be easier to get straight posts of mountain laurel in Garrett county than of these mesquite bushes. This may seem like exaggeration, but it is not. And the average firewood that the Texas boy has to split in the morning before he starts to school would put the most daring "hill billy" that infests Backbone mountain to flight at first sight.

I do not remember having seen a native tree in Navarro county that would be called merchantable by an eastern lumberman. If my father's old place was here today as it was twenty years ago when the lumberman left it for "well culled," it would be all the fortune that I would need to keep me in Texas in luxury for a lifetime.

The American people are not awake to the fact that their forests are vastly valuable and they are being wasted by careles or avaricious lumbermen, or are being turned over to the enemies of forests and forest reservation.

The greatest enemy of our forests is fire. And the greatest agent for distributing this fire is the railroads. These which a few years ago were hailed as the greatest agents of industry and prosperity, are now recognized as the enemy which comes with flaming sword to destroy one of the most valuable natural products of our section of the country. But this in an unnatural and unnecessary result of the railroad system. The reasons for it are these: The government gave the railroads too much land and authority in the beginning, and all these years they have scarcely at all been subject to the laws that govern other citizens. This made them careless and wholly unconcerned as to what became of the property of owners along whose lands their lines passed, and in certain instances they heve been known to plan the destruction of the property of certain land owners who were a hindrance to their complete lordship. But in most instances it was because they did not care. A spark from the smoke-stack might start a forest fire which for aught that they cared might burn itself out without interruption. At first there were scarcely any laws to bring the railroads to account for these things. And when laws were made, the authorities were liberal in their interpretation of them or lax in their execution, and we were not without instances of where the glitter of gold was used to blind the eyes of the wielder of the executive sword. But a great precedent has been set in these matters within the last few days, when a jury was found with a sense of law violation keen enough to consider that a railroad company could commit a crime by destroying a large part of the Black Hills National Forest and who have decided that the railroad people should pay not only for the merchantable timber destroyed, but also for the growth that would have been merchantable in a few years.

Now the precedent once set, there is no reason that private land owners should not receive a compensation for forests destroyed by the carelessness of the railroad companies. The great bulk of the forests are owned by private men or companies and nearly all, at some time or other, have suffered loss from fire. But I think the first record in the United States of where a railroad company had to pay for the young growing as well as the older and mature timber, that had been destroyed, was made the other day when the jury decided such in regard to the Black Hills case.

Garrett countians should be interested in this. For nearly all the forest fires in this county destroys the young and yet unmerchantable timber. Thousands of acres can be found along the B. & O. Railroad, and along the West Virginia Central Railroad which has been left barren by the fires that have been started by the railroads. Much of this land is fit for little else than to produce timber. When it is subject to a burning as often as it produces enough vegetation to invite a fire, it must remain perfectly useless. And more, the soil of much of this land which would produce pasture, by repeated burnings becomes so poor that it will not produce healthy briars. Yet, who ever heard of any land owner in the county receiving the least compensation for the young timber destroyed by any of these fires which started from the railroads?

It is to be hopod that from this on the railroad companies will be held responsible for their actions the same as other men, and that this will make them more careful, and that Garrett county's fire-destroyed regions may be given an opportunity to reforest themselves.

G. N. STEYER.

Blooming Grove, Tex., Oct. 27, 1910.

Call for Your Letters.

Mary F. Seloyd, Clyde Vanwents, Evelyn Cotton, Mrs. Rebecca Davis, Cedric Dening, Mrs. Denton Duvar, Bruce Fichtner, Herman Taylor.

Real Estate for Sale.

I will sell at private sale 80 acres, more or less, one-fourth of a mile from Altamont station. Twenty-five acres cleared land. All nice laying land, well watered, all smooth land, and there is about one hundred thousand feet of good saw timber on it, or I will sell said saw timber and keep the land.

I will also sell Military Lot No. 1164 near Fairfax Stone, in this county, all covered with timber. Said land is principally level. Apply to

Z. G. GIBSON,
2-tf Mt. Lake Park, Md.

Notice of Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between R. T. Miller and W. N. Wilson, doing a general mercantile business at Mountain Lake Park, was mutually dissolved on September 22, 1910, said Wilson by by the terms of the article of dissolution to assume all indebtedness of the firm and to receive all credits due said firm.

R. T. MILLER,
W. N. WILSON.

Garthright Has For Sale

Two large double heating stoves, the finest ever made; two six hole ranges of a standard make, and five medium to large heating stoves. They may be seen at the Hustling Store, Loch Lynn Heights.

MISS SADIE RAYMOND AND FRANK F. FARRELL IN "THE MISSOURI GIRL"
"ZEKE AND DAISY" ALL TIRED OUT.

At Beckwith's Opera House, Tuesday, November 15th.

NORTH GLADE.

As it has been a long time since I have seen any news items in THE REPUBLICAN from this quaint old village I thought I would try and send in a few jottings of daily occurance and say we have the same jolly crowd as we had years ago, not any older in appearance, especially the old maids and bachelors.

Rev. Reid began his protracted meeting in the M. E. church Sunday night. A large attendance has been so far, and some excellent sermons are being preached by Mr. Reid.

Miss Ada Beckman spent a few days last week among friends in Piedmont and Westernport.

Miss Florence Benard is spending a few days with her parents near Deer Park.

Mr. Theodore Beckman gave his friends and neighbors last Wednesday a corn husking. A large crowd attended the frolic. At evening after the day was over they all sat around the stove for a while listening to some of the anecdotes which Mr. Theo remembered years ago.

Mr. C. S. Harvey was an Oakland visitor Saturday.

Mr. John Fitzwater, one of our popular school teacher, who is now the principal of the Painter school, spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents here.

George Reckner, our champion hunter, received from Arbuckle Bros. last week 25 helpless rat traps.

Mr. Donahue, of Cumberland, one of the enterprising butchers of that place, was up in this country several days the last two weeks selecting some fat cattle of which he purchased about thirty head, consisting mostly of yearlings and two year olds.

Mr. Tilden Wilt, one of our hustling young men from Fort Hill, is employed by Theodore Beckman pulling turnips and shucking corn, which we understand Mr. Beckman has a large and fine variety.

Mr. Salem Lee, who finished thrashing about a month ago and since has been spending a vacation near Friendsville, was visiting old friends here Sunday.

MORE ANON.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Garrett National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Commenced business November 14, 1888.

CAPITAL, ...	$ 50,000
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, .	45,000

OFFICERS:

D. E. OFFUTT, President.

G. S. HAMILL, Vice President.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

G. A. FRALEY, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Daniel E. Offutt — Gilmor S. Hamill
John M. Davis — George W. Legge
John T. Mitchell — William R. Stull
Scott T. Jones

Interest at the rate of 3% per annum paid on Time Certificates of Deposits and Savings Accounts.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent at reasonable rates.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

The only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

No Alum, No Lime Phosphate

"THE CONVICT'S DAUGHTER"

To be Given Under the Auspices and for the Benefit of the Uniform Rank, K. of P.

It is the oddest play ever written. Plenty of comedy and pathos. It is a beautiful production, leaving a strong impression on all who witness it. It appeals to father, mothers, sweethearts and wives. A clean, refined, high-class play.

Do you believe in true friendship? See this great play and be warned. A lesson that will never be forgotten.

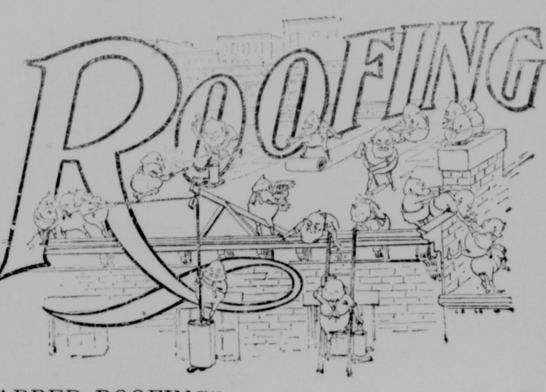
It is safe to say that in the whole range of the drama there is no character found with such power to compel alternate laughter and tears as is shown by Jerry, the tramp.

The dramatic interest is intense, the appeal to the sympathy of the human heart powerful, and the comedy is as refined as it is successful in moving the audience to laughter.

The entire stage production will under the personal direction of Chas. Barton, of New York City, and will be given at Nally Empire Theatre on Thursday and Friday evenings, Nov. 17 and 18.

ESTABLISHED 1884.

Will you allow us to talk "ROOFING" to you. We have kinds and at any price.



TARRED ROOFINGS—
1, 2 and 3 ply.

RUBBER ROOFINGS—
2 and 3 ply, double and single rolls.

AMETITE—
The superior of all Gravel Roofings.

CAREY'S ROOFING, (Best of All)—
Contains a heavy flexible body, a strong Calcutta burlap, woolen felt and other durable materials, all united into an indivisible weather and water proof sheet that lasts the life of the building.

SHEETING PAPER, NAILS AND CAPS.

Yours to please,

A. D. NAYLOR & CO.

PRICES RIGHT. BOTH PHONES

H. CREUTZBURG.

SEE MY FALL LINE OF

Dress Goods, Outing Flannels, Etc.

Ladies', Children's, Men's and Boys' Shoes.

Rain Coats for Ladies and Children. Rubber Boots & Shoes.

Full Line of MEN'S AND BOYS CLOTHING.

See my Special Pure Wool $10.00 Black Thibet Suits for Men

Boys Suits $2.50 and up.

Hand-Made Wisconsin Shoes for Men and Boys.

Full Line Groceries,

Meat Market in Connection,

ALL AT THE RIGHT PRICE.

H. CREUTZBURG, Opp P. O., Oakland, Md.

Pay Market Price for Produce.

Our Grocery Department

This department of Bolden, Brown & Weimer's Store is stocked to overflowing with dependable, fresh Groceries of every line and description. In fact our Grocery stock is so large and so varied that were we to undertake to mention a small portion of the many lines carried our advertisement would overrun the space set apart for it. Come, inspect the stock and we feel sure that we can fill every want.

A new department—our five and ten cent counters—has recently been added. Here you may purchase many suitable and dependable articles for less than one-half value.

BOLDEN, BROWN & WEIMER.

The Missouri girl at Beckwith's Opera House Tuesday night.

Mr. James Wilson, of District No. 13, was in Oakland this morning on business.

A sure remedy for that cough: Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound. Only 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

Confirmation services will be conducted in St. Matthew's P. E. church tomorrow evening at 7.30 o'clock by Bishop Murray.

Mr. Charles S. Davis has been confined to his home for more than a week suffering with an attack of erysipelas and neuralgia.

Mrs. C. F. Shroder and daughter Mary, of Grafton, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred. A. Thayer at their residence on Third street.

Mrs. John T. Mitchell and daughter Miss Lucile, who visited relatives and friends in Kansas and Missouri for a month, returned to Oakland Saturday night.

The Ladies' Home Missionary Society of the M. E. church will hold an exchange in J. M. Davis & Sons store on Saturday, Nov. 12th. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Mrs. Ophelia Trippett, sister of Mrs. Scott T. Jones, who has been in Colorado for a year or more, is here on a brief visit to her relatives. This morning Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Trippett went to Terra Alta where they will spend the day visiting friends and relatives.

I have some great bargains in farm and town properties. It will pay you to call and see me before buying. Farms from $600 to $40,000. Town properties from $1,000 to $10,000. One excellent 7 room house, gas and steam heat, desirable location in Oakland; best bargain at $2500.

E. S. WEST,
Real Estate and Insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Sincell and Mr. Edward H. Sincell went to Pittsburg yesterday morning where they will attend the wedding of Miss Frances Belle Grimes and Mr. George Luther Sincell which is to occur this evening.

The Missouri Girl, to be presented at Beckwith's Opera House, Tuesday night, comes to Oakland with flattering press notices and is the same company which plays in the larger centres of population. See it and enjoy a rare treat.

The Board of County Commissioners met yesterday and will be in session tomorrow for the transaction of routine business. Today the Board will be occupied passing upon the accounts of election officials and other matters coming to their attention.

Messrs. Stuart F. Hamill and George W. Legge, Jr., who have formed a co-partnership for the purpose of practicing law, writing insurance, etc., have opened their offices in the new Nally building where they will be pleased to transact business with all who may require their services.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ravenscroft, of Ridgeway, Pa., is in Oakland visiting Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Ravenscroft, for a few days prior to their departure for Denver, Colorado, for which city they will probably leave the latter part of this month where they will make their home with their son, Mr. William Ravenscroft.

Workmen have been engaged for more than a week past in raising the water tank at the Baltimore and Ohio station in Oakland in order to give more pressure on the main which feeds the penstock used in wattering passenger trains at the station. The tank will be raised about twenty feet above its original position.

DONT LET IT SLIP Through your FINGERS PUT IT IN THE BANK

THEN YOU WILL HAVE IT

Wise old BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, when he died, willed $5,000 to the city of Boston. This money was to be put out at compound interest. One hundred years thereafter (in 1893) this $5,000 and the interest amounted to $431,735—nearly half a million.

YOUR MONEY will grow if you'll let us keep it for your. Make OUR Bank YOUR Bank.

We pay liberal interest consisteet with safety—3 per cent.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OAKLAND, MD.

Miss Nettie Kepner was called to Cumberland last week by a message stating that her father, Mr. E. D. Kepner, who is residing in that city with his daughter, Mrs. Alvin Getty, was seriously ill and with slight hopes for recovery. Yesterday Mr. Kepner had lapsed into unconsciousness and slight hopes are entertained by his relatives for his recovery.

A great quantity of material for the construction of the creamery buildings to be erected on the Harne lots recently purchased by the creamery company, is upon the ground and workmen are engaged in putting in the foundatian and making things ready for the superstructure. It is expected to have the work done by the holidays and the manufacture of butter and other creamery products will begin shortly thereafter.

Last night during the moving picture show at the Empire Theatre a pile of wast in the engine room was set on fire by some unknokn cause which filled the theatre with smoke and a stampede of the audience was narrowly averted. As it was there was no danger from the smoking waste and the room was emptied in a few minutes. The application of a bucket of water was sufficient to put out the fire and a few minutes afterward the show was resumed.

Colds frequently develop into pneumonia. A sure preventative is Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound. 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

THE REPUBLICAN office was headquarters for election news Tuesday night. After returns begun to come in the crowd, which until that time had been a merry one, in anticipation of victory, was plunged into a blue funk and at ten o'clock when it was sure defeat that was our portion the meeting broke in two without even a suggestion. Everybody took a quiet sneak for their respective homes and some have not been seen since.

Church Services.

ST PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 2:15 p. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., followed by Communion.
Preaching at 7:30 p. m.
Epworth League Monday 7:30 p. m.
Prayermeeting Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

G. R. WILLIAMSON, Pastor.

ST. MARK S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
Preaching 7.30 p. m.
Luther League Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Deer Park—Preaching at 11 a. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

ST. MATTHEW'S P. E.

Service every Sunday at 11 a. m.
Sunday School at 2:30 p. m.

W. H. SHEARER

MT. LAKE PARK M. E.

Class meeting at 10 a. m.
Preaching at 11.00 a. m. and 7.45 p. m.
Sunday school at 2.30 p. m.
Epworth League at 6:45 p. m.

P. Z. MUSGRAVE, Pastor.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Elder Hill—Preaching at 11 a. m.
Thayerville—Preaching at 7.30 a. m.
Everybody invited.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

Were Married Monday.

There was a quiet wedding at Oakland, Md., Monday morning when Miss Anna Laura Dowden, of this city, and Mr. Samuel McQuay, also of Grafton, were married. The young couple went to Oakland on an early train Monday morning where the wedding took place and they returned to Grafton on train No. 55 last evening. The bride is a well known young lady of the city and is a sister of Mr. Ed. Dowden. The groom is in the employ of the Tygart Valley Glass Company, and came to Grafton some time ago from Pennsylvania. For the present the young people will reside in Grafton.—Grafton Sentinel.

For Rent.

Two six room cottages, one furnished; running water on both properties; stable on one lot. Apply at this office.

Attendance Roll.

The following students in the Oakland High School were neither late nor absent during September.

U. G. PALMER, Prin.

Ruth Arnold, Edward Chance, Preston Deberry, Walter Dawson, Stella Gibson, Nora Gauer, Bernadette Hart, Evelyn Helbig, Frank Kildow, Agatha Martini, Fred Peddicord, Hellice Rathbun, Morris Sincell, Edna Shank, Francis Shaffer, Edna Trickett, Mildred Welch, Rhoda Welch, Robert White.

Nora Gauer's name was omitted from September roll, in error.

Honor Roll of Bittinger School.

The following named pupils of the Bittinger graded school merited 100 per cent. in deportment and averaged 90 per cent. in their daily recitations for October: Fifth Grade—Althea Oester, Lucile Beahm, Verna Detrick, Ruth Brenneman, Hulda Stark, Lena Keller, Zula Stanton, Oscar Hetrick, Ernest Hetrick, Dewey Wiley, Allan Stanton, Lester Bittinger, Lawrence Buckel and Martin Stanton. Sixth Grade—Cora Bowser, Estelle Beahm, Edna Wiley, Leroy Emory, George Stark, Lester Hetrick, Dewey R. Wiley and Austin Bittinger. Seventh Grade—Leonora Wiley, Ruth Beahm, Ray Engle, Oscar Brennemen.

J. C. BEAHM, Prin.

Report of Loch Lynn School for October.

Number enrolled, boys 17; girls 17, total 34, average attendance, boys 16 girls 14, total 30.

Those present every day were Carlton King, Adna Sterling, Earle Sterling, Talmage Johnson, Robert Ford, Britten Martin, Lester Meindoe, Wm. Johnson, John Martini, Walter Callis, Alice Johnson, Ione Smith, Ethel Smith, Mildred Ford.

G. W. STERLING, Teacher.

Clearance Sale of Valuable Merchandise. Vehicles. Stoves. Etc.

We will offer at Public Auction on Saturday, November 19th, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., a lot of Hats and Caps, dry goods consisting of Flannels, Outings, Waistings, Dress Goods and quite a few remnants of various kinds, Shoes, Gum Goods, Winter Underwear, and considerable line of Boys Clothing. Also one Buggy, one Light Wagon, one Light Sled, one Road Wagon, one Double Heater for coal, one Single Heater, one large Burnside, one lot second hand Lamps. Many goods will be sold regardless of price. Come and get some bargains. Terms cash on day of sale or a four month note approved by the undersigned will be accepted.

Very truly yours,
2t CUPPETT, LEIGHTON & Co.

Big High Class Show Coming.

Manager Beckwith, of the local play house takes great pleasure in announcing to the people of Oakland and vicinity, that he has succeeded in securing Fred Raymond's great comedy success, "The Missouri Girl," for the date of Tuesday, Nov. 15th. This is the same show exactly that plays New York, Chicago and all the larger cities. The company carries two complete sets of special scenery, the smaller of which will fit the local stage very nicely, thus insuring the complete production the same as seen in the regular city theatres. As the management here is under a very heavy expense in securing this excellent attraction, it is to be hoped that local theatre goers will appreciate his efforts to give them first class attractions, by packing the house on the above date. Tickets may now be secured at Harned's drug store. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents.

Locomotive Engineer Dead.

Frank Patton is dead at his home in Morgantown, W. Va., from apoplexy. He was a member of the Odd Fellows and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers at Grafton, where he once resided. He was an engineer on the Morgantown and Kingwood railroad. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

This is to give notice that the firm of Cuppett & Lytle, doing a general merchandise business in the town of Sang Run., Md., has this day been dissolved by mutual consent.

CUPPETT & LYTLE.

Sang Run, Md., Oct. 11, 1910.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS
COPYRIGHT 1908 BY BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Innes, spinster and guardian of Gertrude and Halsey, established summer headquarters at Sunnyside. Arnold Armstrong was found shot to death in the hall. Gertrude and her fiance, Jack Bailey, had conversed in the billiard room shortly before the murder. Detective Jamieson accused Miss Innes of holding back evidence. Cashier Bailey of Paul Armstrong's bank, defunct, was arrested for embezzlement. Paul Armstrong's death was announced. Halsey's fiancee, Louise Armstrong, told Halsey that while she still loved him, she was to marry another. It developed that Dr. Walker was the man. Louise was found unconscious at the bottom of the circular staircase. She said something had brushed by her in the dark on the stairway and she fainted. Bailey is suspected of Armstrong's murder. Thomas, the lodgekeeper, was found dead with a note in his pocket bearing the name "Lucien Wallace." A ladder found out of place deepens the mystery. The stables were burned, and in the dark Miss Innes shot an intruder. Halsey mysteriously disappeared. His auto was found wrecked by a freight train. It developed Halsey had an argument in the library with a woman before his disappearance. New cook disappears. Miss Innes learned Halsey was alive. Dr. Walker's face becomes livid at mention of the name of Nina Carrington. Evidence was secured from a tramp that a man, supposedly Halsey, had been bound and gagged and thrown into an empty box car. Gertrude was missing. Hunting for her, Miss Innes ran into a man and fainted. A confederate of Dr. Walker confessed his part in the mystery.

CHAPTER XXIX.—Continued.

"She struck me as being an ugly customer, and when she left, about 11 o'clock, and went across to the Armstrong place, I was not far behind her. She walked all around the house first, looking up at the windows. Then she rang the bell, and the minute the door was opened she was through it, and into the hall."

"How long did she stay?"

"That's the queer part of it," Riggs said eagerly. "She didn't come out that night at all. I went to bed at daylight, and that was the last I heard of her until the next day, when I saw her on a truck at the station, covered with a sheet. She'd been struck by the express and you would hardly have known her—dead, of course. I think she stayed all night in the Armstrong house, and the agent said she was crossing the track to take the up-train to town when the express struck her."

"Another circle!" I exclaimed. "Then we are just where we started."

"Not so bad as that, Miss Innes," Riggs said eagerly. "Nina Carrington came from the town in California where Mr. Armstrong died. Why was the doctor so afraid of her? The Carrington woman knew something. I lived with Dr. Walker seven years, and I know him well. There are few things he is afraid of. I think he killed Mr. Armstrong out in the west somewhere, that's what I think. What else he did I don't know—but he dismissed me and pretty nearly throttled me—for telling Mr. Jamieson here about Mr. Innes' having been at his office the night he disappeared and about my hearing them quarreling."

"What was it Warner overheard the woman say to Mr. Innes in the library?" the detective asked me.

"She said 'I knew there was something wrong from the start. A man isn't well one day and dead the next without some reason.'"

How perfectly it all seemed to fit!

CHAPTER XXX.

When Churchyards Yawn.

It was on Wednesday Riggs told us the story of his connection with some incidents that had been previously unexplained. Halsey had been gone since the Friday night before, and with the passage of each day I felt that he might be carried thousands of miles in the box-car, locked in, perhaps, without water or food. I had read of cases where bodies had been found locked in cars on isolated sidings in the west, and my spirits went down with every hour.

His recovery was destined to be almost as sudden as his disappearance, and was due directly to the tramp Alex had brought to Sunnyside. It seems the man was grateful for his release, and when he learned something of Halsey's whereabouts from another member of his fraternity—for it is a fraternity—he was prompt in letting us know.

On Wednesday evening Mr. Jamieson, who had been down at the Armstrong house trying to see Louise—and failing—was met near the gate at Sunnyside by an individual precisely as repulsive and unkempt as the one Alex had captured. The man knew the detective, and he gave him a piece of dirty paper, on which was scrawled the words: "He's at City hospital, Johnsville." The tramp who brought the paper pretended to know nothing, except this: The paper had been passed along from a "hobo" in Johnsville, who seemed to know the information would be valuable to us.

Again the long-distance telephone came into requisition. Mr. Jamieson called the hospital, while we crowded around him. And when there was no longer any doubt that it was Halsey, and that he would probably recover, we all laughed and cried together. I am sure I kissed Liddy, and I have had terrible moments since when I seem to remember kissing Mr. Jamieson, too, in the excitement.

Anyhow, by 11 o'clock that night Gertrude was on her way to Johnsville 380 miles away, accompanied by Rosie. The domestic force was now down to Mary Anne and Liddy, with the under-gardener's wife coming every day to help out. Fortunately, Warner and the detectives were keeping bachelor hall in the lodge. Out of deference to Liddy they washed their dishes once a day, and they concocted queer messes, according to their several abilities. They had one triumph that they ate regularly for breakfast, and that clung to their clothes and their hair the rest of the day. It was bacon, hardtack and onions, fried together. They were almost pathetically grateful, however, I noticed, for an occasional broiled tenderloin.

It was not until Gertrude and Rosie had gone and Sunnyside had settled down for the night, with Winters at the foot of the staircase, that Mr. Jamieson broached a subject he had evidently planned before he came.

"Miss Innes," he said, stopping me as I was about to go to my room upstairs, "how are your nerves tonight?"

"I have none," I said happily. "With Halsey found, my troubles have gone."

"I mean," he persisted, "do you feel as though you could go through with something rather unusual?"

"The most unusual thing I can think of would be a peaceful night. But if anything is going to occur, don't dare to let me miss it."

"Something is going to occur," he said. "And you're the only woman I can think of that I can take along." He looked at his watch. "Don't ask me any questions, Miss Innes. Put on heavy shoes, and some old dark clothes, and make up your mind not to be surprised at anything."

"She Walked All Around the House First, Looking Up at the Windows."

Liddy was sleeping the sleep of the just when I went upstairs, and I hunted out my things cautiously. The detective was waiting in the hall, and I was astonished to see Dr. Stewart with him. They were talking confidentially together, but when I came down they ceased. There were a few preparations to be made: the locks to be gone over, Winters to be instructed as to renewed vigilance, and then, after extinguishing the hall light, we crept, in the darkness, through the front door, and into the night.

I asked no questions. I felt that they were doing me honor in making me one of the party, and I would show them I could be as silent as they. We went across the fields, passing through the woods that reached almost to the ruins of the stable, going over stiles now and then, and sometimes stepping over low fences. Once only somebody spoke, and then it was an emphatic bit of profanity from Dr. Stewart when he ran into a wire fence.

We were joined at the end of five minutes by another man, who fell into step with the doctor silently. He carried something over his shoulder which I could not make out. In this way we walked for perhaps 20 minues.

The doctor was puffing somewhat when we finally came to a halt. I confess that just at that minute even Sunnyside seemed a cheerful spot. We had paused at the edge of a level cleared place, bordered all around with primly trimmed evergreen trees. Between them I caught a glimpse of starlight shining down on rows of white headstones and an occasional more imposing monument or towering shaft. In spite of myself, I drew my breath in sharply. We were on the edge of the Casanova churchyard.

I saw now both the man who had joined the party and the implements he carried. It was Alex, armed with two long-handled spades. After the first shock of surprise, I flatter myself I was both cool and quiet. We went in single file between the rows of headstones, and although, when I found myself last, I had an instinctive desire to keep looking back over my shoulder, I found that, the first uneasiness past, a cemetery at night is much the same as any other country place, filled with vague shadows and unexpected noises. Once, indeed—but Mr. Jamieson said it was an owl, and I tried to believe him.

In the shadow of the Armstrong granite shaft we stopped. I think the doctor wanted to send me back.

"It's no place for a woman," I heard him protesting angrily. But the detective said something about witnesses, and the doctor only came over and felt my pulse.

"Anyhow, I don't believe you're any worse off here than you would be in that nightmare of a house," he said finally, and put his coat on the steps of the shaft for me to sit on.

There is a sense of desecration, of a reversal of the everlasting fitness of things, in resurrecting a body from its mother clay. And yet that night, in the Casanova churchyard, I sat quietly by, and watched Alex and Mr. Jamieson steaming over their work, without a single qualm, except the fear of detection.

The doctor kept a keen lookout, but no one appeared. Once in a while he came over to me, and gave me a reassuring pat on the shoulder.

"I never expected to come this," he said once. "There's one thing sure—I'll not be suspected of complicity. A doctor is generally supposed to be handier at burying folks than at digging them up."

The uncanny moment came when Alex and Jamieson tossed the spades on the grass, and I confess I hid my face. There was a period of stress, I think, while the heavy coffin was being raised. I felt that my composure was going, and, for fear I would shriek, I tried to think of something else—what time Gertrude would reach Halsey—anything but the grisly reality that lay just beyond me on the grass.

And then I heard a low exclamation from the detective and I felt the pressure of the doctor's fingers on my arm.

"Now, Miss Innes," he said gently. "If you will come over—"

I held on to him frantically, and somehow I got there and looked down.

"But the Face That Showed in the Light—"

The lid of the casket had been raised and a silver plate on it proved we had made no mistake. But the face that showed in the light of the lantern was a face I had never seen before. The man who lay before us was not Paul Armstrong!

CHAPTER XXXI.

Between Two Fireplaces.

What with the excitement of the discovery, the walk home under the stars in wet shoes and draggled skirts, and getting upstairs and undressed without rousing Liddy, I was completely used up. What to do with my boots was the greatest puzzle of all, there being no place in the house safe from Liddy, until I decided to slip upstairs the next morning and drop them into the hole the "ghost" had made in the trunkroom wall.

I went asleep as soon as I reached this decision, and in my dreams I lived over again the events of the night. Again I saw the group around the silent figure on the grass, and again, as had happened at the grave, I heard Alex's voice, tense and triumphant:

"Then we've got them," he said. Only, in my dreams, he said it over and over until he seemed to shriek it in my ears.

I wakened early, in spite of my fatigue, and lay there thinking. Who was Alex? I no longer believed that he was a gardener. Who was the man whose body we had resurrected? And where was Paul Armstrong? Probably living safely in some extraditionless country on the fortune he had stolen. Did Louise and her mother know of the shameful and wicked deception? What had Thomas known, and Mrs. Watson? Who was Nina Carrington?

This last question, it seemed to me, was answered. In some way the woman had learned of the substitution, and had tried to use her knowledge for blackmail. Nina Carrington's own story died with her, but, however it happened, it was clear that she had carried her knowledge to Halsey the afternoon Gertrude and I were looking for clews to the man I had shot on the east veranda. Halsey had been half crazed by what he heard; it was evident that Louise was marrying Dr. Walker to keep the shameful secret, for her mother's sake. Halsey, always reckless, had gone at once to Dr. Walker and denounced him. There had been a scene, and he left on his way to the station to meet and notify Mr. Jamieson of what he had learned. The doctor was active mentally and physically. Accompanied perhaps by Riggs, who had shown himself not overscrupulous until he quarreled with his employer, he had gone across to the railroad embankment, and, by jumping in front of the car, had caused Halsey to swerve. The rest of the story we knew.

That was my reconstructed theory of that afternoon and evening; it was almost correct—not quite.

There was a telegram that morning from Gertrude.

Halsey conscious and improving. Probably home in day or so.

GERTRUDE.

With Halsey found and improving in health, and with at last something to work on, I began that day, Thursday, with fresh courage. As Mr. Jamieson had said, the lines were closing up. That I was to be caught and almost finished in the closing was happily unknown to us all.

It was late when I got up. I lay in my bed, looking around the four walls of the room, and trying to imagine behind what one of them a secret chamber might be. Certainly, in daylight, Sunnyside deserved its name; never was a house more cheery and open, less sinister in general appearance. There was not a corner apparently that was not open and above-board, and yet, somewhere behind its handsomely papered walls I believed firmly that there lay a hidden room, with all the possibilities it would involve.

I made a mental note to have the house measured during the day to discover any discrepancy between the outer and inner walls, and I tried to recall again the exact wording of the paper Jamieson had found.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

At the Half-Century Mark.

Youth is eternal to him who believes in eternity. To me youth means anywhere from eight onward. I was an exceedingly old person at eight and I trust I violate no confidence when I confess a youthful exuberance now that I have bumped against the halfway post. Fifty is a splendid time for youthful expansion; one's fancy still retains all its ingenuity while one's judgment is bettered by experience. When sitting on the 50 milestone the vane of man's vision points southward to the past and northward to the future with a minimum of oscillation. Rancorous thought and splenetic expression give way to quieter nerves and calmer view, and the mellow lighted vista of the years that have gone soften the heart of the youth of a half century of years.—John Philip Sousa in the Circle.

Different.

"I wrote him that I was ready to come home."

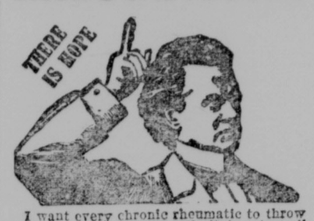
"Was he glad?"

"He wrote me that he would have to borrow money to pay my fare."

"What did you do?"

"I asked him what I should do, and he said he would borrow money enough for me to stay there a while longer."

RHEUMATISM



I want every chronic rheumatic to throw away all medicines, all liniments, all plasters, and give MUNYON'S RHEUMATISM REMEDY a trial. No matter what your doctor may say, no matter what your friends may say, no matter how prejudiced you may be against all advertised remedies, go at once to your druggist and get a bottle of the RHEUMATISM REMEDY. If it fails to give satisfaction I will refund your money.—Munyon

Remember this remedy contains no salicylic acid, no opium cocaine, morphine or other harmful drugs. It is put up under the guarantee of the Pure Food and Drug Act.

For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

Completely Pauperized.

Albert W. Hebbard, New York's charity expert, said at a recent dinner:

"The great danger of charity is its pauperizing effect. This effect must be avoided, or the recipients will all become Jack Hanches.

"Jack Hanch, on the score of bad health never worked, and the pastor of the Methodist church, a man whose heart sometimes outran his head, sent the idler and his family weekly gifts of food and clothing—supported the whole crew, in fact.

"A church visitor, after listening to Jack's complaints one day, said:

"'Yes, of course, you have had bad health, we know that; but one thing at least you ought to be thankful for, and that is our pastor's kindness in sending you all this bread and meat and jelly and blankets and so on. Don't you think it is good of him to look after you so well?"

"'Good of him?' said Jack, impatiently. 'Why, what's he for?'"

Fable of Pan of Biscuits.

A Vassar girl married a Kansas farmer.

Two weeks later a cyclone made the happy pair a friendly call.

It cavorted around the premises, ripping up the fences, scattering the haystacks and playing horse with the barn, but when it looked through the open window it drew back in alarm.

There lay the bride's first pan of biscuits.

"I ain't feelin' very strong this morning," murmured the cyclone.

And with another glance at the terrible pan it blew itself away.

Wrong Guess.

It was exhibition day at No. 3, and as the parents of Jack Grady, the dullest pupil, were listening hopefully, the teacher tried her best to help the boy. "How did Charles I. of England die?" she asked, assigning the easiest question on her list to Jack. As he looked at her, with no indication of a coming answer, the teacher put her hand up to her neck. Jack saw the movement and understood its meaning, as he thought. "Charles I. of England died of cholera," he announced briskly.—Youth's Companion.

Deadlock.

"Who is that man who has been sitting behind the bar day after day?" inquired the stranger in Crimson Gulch.

"That's Stage Coach Charley. He's in a peculiar predicament. He went to town last week and got his teeth fixed. Then he came here, and, bein' broke, ran up a bill on the strength of his seven dollars' worth of gold fillin'. Charley won't submit to havin' the nuggets pried out an' the proprietor won't let him git away with the collateral, and there you are!"

So They Say.

Stranger—I say, my lad, what is considered a good score on these links?

Caddie—Well, sir, most of the gents here tries to do it in as few strokes as they can, but it generally takes a few more.—Scottish American.

WISE WORDS.
A Physician on Food.

A physician, of Portland, Oregon, has views about food. He says:

"I have always believed that the duty of the physician does not cease with treating the sick, but that we owe it to humanity to teach them how to protect their health, especially by hygienic and dietetic laws.

"With such a feeling as to my duty I take great pleasure in saying to the public that in my own experience and also from personal observation I have found no food equal to Grape-Nuts, and that I find there is almost no limit to the great benefits this food will bring when used in all cases of sickness and convalescence.

"It is my experience that no physical condition forbids the use of Grape-Nuts. To persons in health there is nothing so nourishing and acceptable to the stomach, especially at breakfast, to start the machinery of the human system on the day's work.

"In cases of indigestion I know that a complete breakfast can be made of Grape-Nuts and cream and I think it is not advisable to overload the stomach at the morning meal. I also know the great value of Grape-Nuts when the stomach is too weak to digest other food.

"This is written after an experience of more than 20 years, treating all manner of chronic and acute diseases, and the letter is written voluntarily on my part without any request for it."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

NATURAL ACT FOR MOTHER

Women Understand That Not Heroism but Simply Love Prompted Self Sacrifice.

A few days ago, in a somewhat squalid neighborhood, a house caught fire. The flames shot quickly through the litter on the floor and the untidy array of clothing on the walls. A woman talking with a neighbor ran screaming to the house and without an instant's hesitation sprang through the smoking doorway into what already seemed an inferno. A moment later she staggered out, her hands and face blackened and blistered and her clothing on fire. In her arms she bore her baby, safe from harm.

The afternoon papers came out with the story, printed under headlines extolling this mother's heroism. Men read it on street cars, and as their eyes gleamed with the stirring of the spirit which leaps to greet noble deeds they said: "That woman dared to do what most men would be afraid to do." But the mothers who read it at home did not think that way. Perhaps the danger to the baby, the wrecking of the home and the burns the woman suffered brought moisture to their eyes, but to them the act was not one of heroism—it was simply what any natural mother, no matter how timid, would do under the same circumstances.—Cleveland Leader.

REST AND PEACE

Fall Upon Distracted Households When Cuticura Enters.

Sleep for skin tortured babies and rest for tired, fretted mothers is found in a hot bath with Cuticura Soap and a gentle anointing with Cuticura Ointment. This treatment, in the majority of cases, affords immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning, scaly, and crusted humors, eczema, rashes, inflammations, irritations, and chafings, of infancy and childhood, permits rest and sleep to both parent and child, and points to a speedy cure, when other remedies fail. Worn-out and worried parents will find this pure, sweet and economical treatment realizes their highest expectations, and may be applied to the youngest infants as well as children of all ages. The Cuticura Remedies are sold by druggists everywhere. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole proprietors, Boston, Mass., for their free 32-page Cuticura Book on the care and treatment of skin and scalp of infants, children and adults.

Was Getting Monotonous.

A handsome woman who had been so unfortunate as to find occasion to divorce not one but several husbands was returning from Nevada. In Chicago she happened to meet her first husband, for whom, by the way, she always has entertained a real affection.

"Upon my soul, if it isn't Charlie!" exclaimed the ex-wife, cordially shaking hands with the gentleman whose name she had formerly borne. "I'm awfully glad to see you, Charlie!" Then, after a wistful expression had come to and been banished from her countenance, she added:

"Old chap, I've often wondered where you were and what you were doing. It was too bad we didn't get on better together. I hope your experience hasn't been as unpleasant as mine. I'm sick and tired of marrying strangers!"

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.
For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25cts a bottle.

Some politicians are too modest to face the nude truth.

Make the Liver Do its Duty

Nine times in ten when the liver is right the stomach and bowels are right.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS gently but firmly compel a lazy liver to do its duty.

Cures Constipation, Indigestion, Sick Headache, and Distress after Eating.

Small Pill, Small Dose, Small Price

Genuine must bear Signature

Breath Good

The par excellence of all razors

Gillett

KNOWN THE WORLD OVER

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S ASTHMA

Remedy for the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask your druggist for it. Write for FREE SAMPLE. NORTHROP & LYMAN CO. Ltd., BUFFALO, N.Y.

FOR SALE—Improved Farms and Farm Lands in Crawford Co., Mich., in good farming community, good climate, water, close to market towns, schools and railroad. Liberal terms. Largest apple orchard in Michigan near these lands. Write to HENRY A. BAUMAN, Grayling, Mich.

TRUSSES EXPERT FITTING 45 years' experience. Prices low E. M. HESSLER, 64 Public Sq., Cleveland

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

REMEMBER PISO'S for COUGHS & COLDS

Gay Winter Blossoms

THEY are enough to almost make us welcome the coming winter, those gay velvet blossoms that maids and matrons are wearing on their new millinery. Big, flat poppies, giant wild roses, the clematis and poinsettias and some blossoms that must have sprung from the brain of the flower-maker, are blooming in rich, bright colors, that will show brighter still against a background of snow.

Besides these, there are the little roses made of silk and metal tissues that are the quaintest and prettiest things the cunning of artists have done. The bright green foliage is made of satin. The tightly folded blossoms and buds are set in prim groups about crowns or in single clusters at some point on the hat. They are used on all kinds of hats, but seem at their best on those of fur. One of the handsomest turbans has a drooping brim of sealskin, a tall scant puffed crown of silver tissue and small bouquets of these silk and tinsel blossoms set about the hat at the joining of the crown and brim. They are as vivid and rich as jewels.

Milliners use satin or ribbon, panne velvet and gold or silver cloth to make them. A sudden fancy for them has sprung up and everywhere, on fine hats, they delight the admirer of real millinery art. They are expensive because they take time, and not because they consume much material. That used, however, is of the best grade in order to get best results in color.

A hat covered with white satin draped with black chiffon is shown here. Poppies of velvet in white and bright red are set about half the brim and against the crown at the left side. A bow of wide velvet ribbon is perched at the right side. This is a very handsome model and might be attempted with every chance of success, by the home milliner.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

BLACK AND WHITE COSTUME

Models of Some of the Best Ideas That Have Developed During the Season.

For this costume black and white material is employed. The skirt is one of those that are not more than 2½ yards round foot.

The panel front is of black taffetas, continued in a deep band at foot; the edge is just finished by a row of machine stitching. The smart little semi-fitting jacket has no collar, but the neck and edges of fronts are outlined by a band of taffetas. Two jet buttons with cord loops form the fastening. Bands of silk also finish the wrists of the sleeves.

White chip hat, trimmed with black ribbon, white wings, and a white lace veil.

Materials required for the costume: 5 yards 44 inches checked material, 2 yards double width taffetas, 4 yards silk 22 inches wide for lining jacket, 2 buttons.

Dancing Frocks.

Dancing frocks for the smart girl are of chiffon, plain or embroidered; net, marquisette or some other soft, sheer fabric. All of these are made over linings of satin, messaline or silk. Nearly all silk frocks are veiled to soften the effect.

TO MAKE MILLINERS' FOLD

The Cutting of the Material is the Only Thing to Be Kept in Mind.

To make a milliner's or French fold, cut the material three times the width that the fold is to be when it is finished. Then fold a third of this width back on the wrong side, and fold down over this raw edge the remaining part. Turn in the raw edge before doing this. Finally, slipstitch this edge to the thickness underneath, being careful not to let the stitches go all the way through.

To make a double fold of this sort, cut the material, again, three times the width of the fold when finished. Made a wide, plain fold, and then fold this through the center, with the stitches all on the upper edge. Place the upper fold so that it forms a cord or ridge through the center, and slipstitch this so as to hold it firmly in place. Be sure that all your stitches are out of sight.

Chic Hat for a Child.

Among the new display of fall hats for the little ones was a fine French felt, white, and in the new droopy mushroom shape. The trimming was a soft ribbon passed around the crown and held down with trim little rosettes of the ribbon, one over each ear. The left rosette was encircled by a dainty wreath of holly of the variegated kind, the soft creamy white and pale green leaves, with tiny crimson berries. The ties were of soft white ribbon, and altogether it was a most attractive bit of millinery.

A Workbasket Hint.

Keep in your workbasket several large-size safety pins, and use them to string loose buttons, hooks, eyes, etc. Keep those of the same size on the same pin, black hooks on black pins, white eyes on white pins, etc. Thus you never will have an untidy workbasket, or be delayed by not being able to find instantly what you are looking for.

Fasten the safety pins to one side of the lining of your basket—and your method of securing neatness will be complete.

To Starch Linens.

In starching linens and similar goods too light for mourning starch and too dark for the white, put in the boiling starch a large piece of tissue paper in shade to match as nearly as possible the dress material. This will dissolve, and when the starch is strained, nothing but the dye will remain making a starch of the exact color desired.

This is a good hint for the woman who does much color embroidery of the stiffly starched variety.

LABOR INVOLVED MAKES DRAFT HORSES PROFITABLE

No Class of Stock Will Give Better Returns Than Animals With Weight and Quality—Care of Colt.

Prize Winning English Draft Mares.

The colt should have a roomy box stall. If you have two colts, keep them together when the mares are at work, as there is no animal that likes company better than a colt, says a writer in American Cultivator. As they get older see that they have plenty of good clover hay and bright oats to eat. It is well to have a little pasture near the barn and let them into this when the mares are at work. Have this fenced with good, woven wire, high enough so they cannot get their heads over it. The pasture should be arranged so they can run into the barn to get away from the flies. Leave the cover to the oak box open, so they can help themselves. Keep a pail of water in the stall where they can reach it. After a little you can mix skim milk with the water, later give them clear skim milk, but let them have what water they want at all times. Some colts will take skim milk at once, but be careful and not give them too much to commence with, say two quarts at first, and as they get accustomed to it you can give them five or six quarts twice a day. This you can feed all winter, and they will go on to pasture in the spring in fine shape. If they are eating oats and drinking milk at weaning time there will be no setback, which always occurs if they are not.

When they are about a year old and on the pasture, we gradually wean them from the oats and milk, and they get nothing but pasture until fall, when they are again fed grain and hay.

We always stable all of our colts at night, but they have a roomy yard or field to run in in the day time, so that they get plenty of exercise.

We always break our colts to harnes before they are three years old. Get them used to the harness before spring work begins. Work them only half a day at a time to commence with, and see that their collars and harness fit them well.

When the weather gets warm clip your colts. By so doing you may avoid sore shoulders. If a colt gets a sore shoulder, let him rest a few days and heal it up. If you continue to work him and the sore keeps getting worse, you may have a shoulder that will always bother you when he is put to hard work.

We aim to sell all of our geldings before they are seven years old. When you intend to sell your horses see that they are in proper shape. They should be fat, as that is what the market demands. Feed them on good wholesome food; corn can be fed to quite an extent at this time, with bran and a little oil meal.

By breeding the right horses, those with weight and quality, I know of no class of stock that will bring better returns for our high-priced feeds (considering the amount of labor involved) than good draft horses.

APPLE CULLS CAUSE LOSS

It Will Prove Profitable to Squeeze Juice Out of Discards and Sell in Natural State.

(By JOHN J. TENNES.)

The amount of money lost by farmers every year through lack of interest or knowledge of the means to dispose of unmarketable apples has never been estimated. That is one of the big wastes on every farm where many apples are grown and where commercial fruit raising is made the main feature of the farm.

Even the orchardist who is in the business as a specialist must suffer more or less in his culls.

As 95 per cent. of ripe apples is juice which sells for good prices either in its natural state or as vinegar, it pays big to squeeze out this product through a press instead of allowing it to go to waste.

There are many kinds of cider presses, but an hydraulic machine extracts the very last possible drop of juice to be obtained and leaves very little substance to be thrown away.

The first advantage gained by working up unmarketable fruit into cider is that it is converted into a condensed and portable form convenient for handling and storing. The second object is to convert this valuable portion of the crop into a marketable commodity, which would otherwise be wasted and lost. The cost, the time and labor of working up several hundred bushels of apples into cider is only nominal as compared with the value of the cider itself if properly handled. Apples that have been bruised in handling are imperfectly developed, too small and gnarled apples which would not be worth the cost of packing, can be utilized in this manner and the orchardist's revenue largely enhanced. The maximum of successful financial enterprises are as applicable to the business of a practical orchardist as to any other. The little things must not be overlooked; all the byproducts must be utilized, for from them is derived much of the profit.

Burn Cabbage Stumps.

Do not leave the old cabbage stumps sticking up out of the ground. They look slovenly and breed fungous pests. Pull them up and burn them.

OXFORD SHEEP VERY PROLIFIC

The Oxford sheep originated in England in the early part of the nineteenth century from a cross of Cotswold and Hampshire Downs. They have been known since 1857 as Oxfordshire or Oxford Downs, and are now widely distributed over the United States and Canada. They are the largest and heaviest of the Down breeds. When in good flesh the rams should weigh 250 to 275 pounds and the ewes from 200 to 225 pounds. The wool is rather coarser than any other of the medium wool breeds and the fleece is heavier, weighing from 10 to 12 pounds unwashed. The face is usually an even dark gray or brown, with or without a gray spot on the tip of the nose. They are best adapted for lands furnishing good pasture, and do not succeed as well under range conditions or on rugged, broken pastures. The ewes are very prolific, triplets being not uncommon. The lambs grow very rapidly and are of good form. The chief shortcoming of the breed is that it is not as hardy as some others.

HARDY.

Mr. Heavyweight—Well, Willie, why do you look so studious?

Willie—I was wonderin' if you ever married sis, if I could be able to wear yer cast-off clothes.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

An Exacting Personage.

"I suppose you find life easier since the summer boarders have gone?"

"Nope," replied Farmer Corntossel; "we're workin' an' worryin' just as much as ever tryin' to keep the hired man contented."

Resinol Quickly Cures Ills and Accidents the Skin Is Subject To, Also Heals Wounds.

I find occasion almost daily to recommend Resinol to some of my friends, and hear of most gratifying results. We use the ointment altogether in my family, and are never without a jar of it, for it promptly cures the ills and accidents the skin is subject to. D. M. Castle, Philadelphia, Pa.

No Hurry.

"What are you in such a rush about?"

"Promised to meet my wife at three o'clock down at the corner."

"Well, there's no hurry. It isn't four o'clock yet."

"SPOHN'S."

This is the name of the greatest of all remedies for Distemper, Pink Eye, Heaves, and the like among all ages of horses. Sold by Druggists, Harness Makers, or send to the manufacturers. $.50 and $1.00 a bottle. Agents wanted. Send for free book. Spohn Medical Co., Spec. Contagious Diseases, Goshen, Ind.

Old Oaken Bucket.

Doctor (to typhoid patient)—Do you remember where you drank water?

Patient (an actor)—Oh, yes! It was back on the dear old farm—twenty years ago!—Puck.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over 30 Years.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

Both Unpardonable.

"Agnes says she will never have anything more to do with Gladys."

"Which did Gladys recommend? A dressmaker or a summer hotel?"—Harper's Bazar.

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

When a man dresses like a slouch it's a pretty good sign that he either ought to get married or get divorced.

Pettit's Eye Salve Restores.

No matter how badly the eyes may be diseased or injured. All druggists or Howard Bros., Buffalo, N. Y.

A woman hates her enemies longer than she loves her friends.

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Black Duck, Minn.—"About a year ago I wrote you that I was sick and could not do any of my housework. My sickness was called Retroflexion. When I would sit down I felt as if I could not get up. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and did just as you told me and now I am perfectly cured, and have a big baby boy."—Mrs. Anna Anderson, Box 19, Black Duck, Minn.

Consider This Advice.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial.

This famous medicine for women has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cures female ills, and creates radiant, buoyant female health. If you are ill, for your own sake as well as those you love, give it a trial.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

When the Liver is Out of Tune

the whole system is off the key—stomach upset, bowels sluggish, head heavy, skin sallow and the eyes dull. You cannot be right again until the cause of the trouble is removed. Correct the flow of bile, and gently stimulate the liver to healthful action by taking the bile remedy that is safe to use and convenient to take. A dose or two will relieve the nausea and dizziness, operate the bowels, carry new life to the blood, clear the head and improve the digestion.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

These old family pills are the natural remedy for bilious complaints and quickly help the liver to Strike the Keynote of Health

Sold Everywhere. In boxes 10c. and 25c.

Do it Now

Tomorrow A. M. too late. Take a CASCARET at bed time; get up in the morning feeling fine and dandy. No need for sickness from over-eating and drinking. They surely work while you sleep and help nature help you. Millions take them and keep well. 894

CASCARETS 10c a box for a week's treatment, all druggists. Biggest seller in the world. Million boxes a month.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3 $3.50 & $4 SHOES FOR MEN & WOMEN

BOYS' SHOES, $2.00, $2.50 & $3.00. BEST IN THE WORLD.

W. L. Douglas $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes are positively the best made and most popular shoes for the price in America, and are the most economical shoes for you to buy.

Do you realize that my shoes have been the standard for over 30 years, that I make and sell more $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes than any other manufacturer in the U.S., and that DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR, I GUARANTEE MY SHOES to hold their shape, look and fit better, and wear longer than any other $3.00, $3.50 or $4.00 shoes you can buy? Quality counts. It has made my shoes THE LEADERS OF THE WORLD.

You will be pleased when you buy my shoes because of the fit and appearance, and when it comes time for you to purchase another pair, you will be more than pleased because the last ones wore so well, and gave you so much comfort.

W. L. Douglas, President W. L. Douglas Shoe Co.

CAUTION! TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE

None genuine without W. L. Douglas name and price stamped on the bottom. If your dealer cannot supply you with W. L. Douglas Shoes, write for Mail Order Catalog.

W. L. DOUGLAS, 125 Spark Street, Brockton, Mass.

American Seating Company

215 Wabash Ave. CHICAGO, ILL.

New York Pittsburg Boston Philadelphia

MANUFACTURERS PUBLIC SEATING EXCLUSIVELY FOR

Schools, Churches and Theaters

Everything in School Supplies. Ask for this CATALOGUE Z-1.

Save money by buying from the manufacturer.

ARE YOU BUILDING OR RESEATING? If you are write for Catalogue A. M. at once, mentioning class of building.

Dealers should write Thomas M. Boyd, President, McClurg Bldg., Chicago, for our exclusive agency proposition on

SCHOOL FURNITURE AND SUPPLIES.

ABBIE BEN ADHEM.

Abbie Ben Adhem, pretty as you please
And dressed as neatly as one ever sees,
One day was absent when her friends began
To turn such absent ones beneath their scan.
"She paints!" vowed one and sadly shook her head.
"She flirts!" another, with a shudder, said.
"I've heard that so and so and so and so," a third Declared, and all cried, "Well, upon my word!"

And so in half an hour poor Abbie's fame,
As well as reputation and once honored name,
Was torn to tatters, and her friends declared
She was the sort by whom fool men were snared
And that if they were she they'd have more pride
Than to give cause for rumors undenied.

In fact, they came to the conclusion then
That Miss Ben Adhem should not be again
Held in their friendship as she once had been,
But that she should be spurned with glances keen
And that, while some reports might not be true,
Of course "a person never really knew!"

The next day these same friends met to compile
A list of those who should be asked to while Away an afternoon at tea and whist,
And each one then prepared her lengthy list,
Suggesting who to ask and who to snub,
For it, you see, was an exclusive club.

And who, think you, was most important guest?
Lo, Miss Ben Adhem's name led all the rest!

—Wilbur D. Nesbit in Life.

Not Encouraging.

Dr. Young—I feel very much discouraged over my practice.

Dr. Elder—Cheer up, my boy. You must have patience.

Dr. Young—Well, I hope I know that much. If I had patience I wouldn't be discouraged.

Why He Was Late.

Pat was late again, and the foreman was dealing out the usual reprimands.

"Nine o'clock," he said. "What do you mean by coming at this time of the day? I wonder a man of your means troubles about coming at all. Now, then, what's your excuse?"

Pat considered for a moment, and at last the excuse came.

"Sure, sor," he said, "I dreamed last night I were at a football match which ended in a draw."

"What about that?" interrupted the foreman.

"Well, sor, the referee ordered an extra half hour to be played, and, begorra, I only stopped to see the finish."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Spoiled the Story.

Tattered Terry—I'm a newspaper man, but I can't get a job.

Lady of the House—Indeed! Why not?

Tattered Terry—Yer see, I saved a train from a terrible accident once, and all de editors have been sore on me ever since.—Puck.

Merciful Provision.

Blobbs—At the next station we stop ten minutes for refreshments.

Slobbs—I wonder why trains stop only ten minutes at railroad eating houses.

Blobbs—Probably for humane reasons.—Philadelphia Record.

Ruling Passion.

"I knew Butts' smoking would get him into trouble."

"Well?"

"At his wedding, when it came to the ring part, he reached into his pocket and handed the minister a match."—Princeton Tiger.

Baby's Picture.

Willis—What! Your kid is three years old and has never had his picture taken?

Gillis—No; the first couple of years the photographs are all baby and no clothes, and after that they are all clothes and no baby.—Puck.

Also Pocketbook Conservation.

"Why don't you have your daughter's voice trained? She has a voice of fine timbre."

"Yes, but I'm for forest conservation."—Kansas City Times.

Notice to Trespassers.

All persons are hereby notified not to trespass upon my farm, two miles south of Oakland, for any purpose whatever. Persons trespassing will be dealt with according to law.

EDWARD E. SOLLARS.

BITTINGER.

The fall butchering has begun and buchwheat cakes and sausage greets the honest farmer at breakfast time.

Christian Durst and wife, of New Germany, passed through this village last Sunday morning in an automobile.

George Stark invested in a handsome little rabbit dog, last Monday and it would be well for the rabbits to migrate if they would save their lives.

Charles Ralston, of Keyser, W. Va., is spending a few days among his old friends and neighbors at this place.

Messrs Noah and Leonard Stark, of Chaffee, W. Va., are visiting their home at this place.

Benjamin Long, of Mt Lake Park, is a guest at Mrs. K. A. Bittinger's this week.

Wade H. Lohr, of Swanton, was a pleasant caller in this village last week.

Mrs. J. T. Lohr, of Mt. Lake, and her sister, Miss Nettie Brininger, were visiting here last week.

Communion service will be held in the Lutheran church at this place next Sunday morning.

HAUSER.

As it seemeth good to be introduced (perhaps it would sound better to say proper) and there being no one at hand who can do it, the Honorable Eyes and Ears will proceed to make a bow, after which in accordance with a long established custom we, the Eyes and Ears, will do our very best to say our little speech and receive an acknowledgment of duty will performed.

It shall be our earnest endeavor to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing else but the truth, to the best ability of our ears, hearing, and our eyes, seeing.

Any one desiring to contribute to these lines should ring central and tell it. Eyes never go to take a receiver down but Ears are always on hand when such a ring is made. Central is not inclined to gossip but she is unable to keep Ears away from the phone.

Bro. Wade is reported to be constantly improving in health. It is hoped he will soon be able to perform his duties.

School opened last Wednesday after having been closed nearly three weeks because of sickness.

Dr. Scherr has been making extensive visits in this neighborhood recently.

There is deep regret in this community over the fire destroying the mill at Eglon recently.

Mr. Daniel Gnegy visited Eglon on the first to interview the tax-collector of Preston county, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob't Lathrum spent Sunday afternoon with Messrs. Floyd, Elmer and O. Shafer and their families.

DeCoursey Roth celebrated the opening of the game season by getting five rabbits and in true generousness gave some to the neighbors who were not so fortunate as to possess hunting accoutrements.

S. C. Mosser recently lost a valuable horse. Mr. Henry Hauser has also lost a 4-year horse.

Mr. Arthur Yutzy, of Sunnyside, visited some of S. C. Mosser's family last Sunday.

Rob't Lathrum and L. T. Reed loaded a car of props last week.

Several of the farmers of this community are preparing to go the woods for winter work.

Miss Marguerite Becker visited the girls at Robert Lathrum home Sunday.

Master Kirk and Mrs. Rob't Lathrum were Oakland visitors last Saturday.

Miss Myrtle Lathrum, who has been at Dobbin, W. Va., for the past six weeks, returned home last Monday.

Hauser Sunday school was reopened Sunday after being closed three weeks.

The fire of the Egion mill last week is now understood to have been caused by a stranger who had taken lodging in the mill for the night. Bones have been discovered and pronounced to be human bones. It is now claimed that the night of the fire noises were heard at one time as though some one were suffering. The mill was a total loss. EYES AND EARS.

HOYES.

Our protracted meeting is still in progress and is well attended considering the cold weather.

M. E. Atkinson, son and daughter, all of Lonaconing, arrived in Hoyes Monday evening this week, and purchased another wagon load of butter of W. A. Smith. They returned to their home Tuesday.

Miss Freda Dewitt was guest of Miss Blanche Callis Sunday afternoon.

Freeman Dewitt and wife spent Sunday with D. O. Dewitt and family.

Miss Olia Mattingly, who is teaching at Friendsville, was home over Sunday.

Miss Bertha Dewitt spent a day with her aunt, Mrs. Chase, quite recently.

Troy Glover and family were visiting the past week at Hazelton, W. Va. Mr. Glover will move to his father-in-law's farm in a few days.

Mrs. Willie Mattingly and two children spent a day with Mrs. Mattingly's mother the past week.

James Wilburn sold a fine horse to Mr. Hugh Atkinson one day this week.

Some of the smaller children of Asa Friend's have been quite ill, with measles.

H. R. Dewitt and wife spent Saturday and Sunday with Arthur Dewitt and wife.

Charles Callis, teacher of Selbysport school, spent a few days with his parents the past week.

FRIENDSVILLE.

Weather still cold. It must have gone into a trust the way it keeps up.

Hurrah for the winner. By the time this is in print the election will be over and the "I told you so's" will get in their work.

R. M. Holman's little son, Oran, has been very sick.

C. V. Guard's children have had the measles.

Miss Gertrude Welch is recovering from the measles.

Harvey Fike's family have been down with the same disease, Mrs. Fike having been seriously ill with it and other complications.

Adam Shroyer, of Pittsburg, was shaking hands with his many friends here.

George Frantz, of Connellsville, was here for a few days visiting his relatives and friends.

Martin Fortner was running his automobile around town Monday evening. We think it a very wise plan to get an auto like that one, for you can hear it some time before it comes in sight.

A birthday surprise was given Miss Floretta Savage last Tuesday evening. About ten young persons enjoyed themselves.

Mrs. Sophia Friend and children are the guests of W. H. H. Friend, Jr., and family. Wm. H. Friend is still in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Friend, have rented the Lupton Frantz property at the bridge, and now residing there.

W. A. Whitehair, of Terra Alta, was in town on Saturday, shipping several carloads of sheep. He was shaking hands with his many friends. He had not been here for quite a long time.

Is it possible that the Accident people don't see the advantage of a good road to Friendsville when it would save them hundreds of dollars a year in wear and tear to their wagons and horse flesh. Citizens don't let the matter drop, but call a meeting and see what can be done. This town is bound to have better facilities for reaching neighboring towns.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

We have but few Democrats in the Park but they are a happy bunch.

The Epworth League and young people's classes will hold a monthly business meeting and social at the Chance cottage Friday evening.

An oyster supper for the benefit of the M. E. church will be given Thanksgiving eve, at the Columbian hotel. The ladies of the congregation will have charge and try to make a pleasant time for all who attend. Proceeds for a good cause.

Our people were badly frightened yesterday by a fire extending along the railroad front, started by sparks from a passing locomotive. No damage resulted.

Rev. L. A. Rudisill took an eastern trip this week.

Mr. A. W. Miller is now a resident of Mountain Lake Park. His family are domiciled in Inwood cottage.

The United Brethren of Loch Lynn are pleased with their new pastor.

Rally Day was observed by the M. E. Sunday school Sunday afternoon last. The regular program was used after a short school session. The attendance was large and the program well rendered.

A large chandelier and a number of handsome lamps formerly used in the M. E. church are for sale cheap. They are good as new and would be an ornament to any church. Inquire of the pastor or Cuppett, Leighton & Co.

There are still many inquiries with reference to the rental and purchase of Park properties, and our people are led to believe that next summer the crowds will be larger than ever before, and that building operations will be resumed.

Notice.

This is to give notice that I will no longer be responsible for any debts contracted in my name by my wife, Matilda, she having deserted me.

JOHN CARLSON,
Friendsville, Md., Oct. 17, 1910.

DR. W. W. GRANT,
DENTIST.
Office, McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Bridge and Crown Work a Specialty.
Gold and Silver Fillings. 21-09-1y.

DR. LOUIS I. PREVOST,
VETERINARY SURGEON,
MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.
Office Hours in Oakland from 2 to 5 o'clock p m

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Ravenscroft Building, Second St.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing Investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice inthe Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

DR. J. G ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
OF VALUABLE
Real Estate
Near Swanton, in Garrett Co. Md.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from Jacob R. Lee to Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, bearing date the 8th day of January, 1907, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 53, folio 332, etc., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, Maryland, default having occurred under the covenants contained in said Deed of Trust, the said Trustee, at the instance and request of the beneficiaries thereunder, hereby gives notice, that on

SATURDAY,
The 26th Day of November,

1910, at the hour of 11 o'clock A. M., in front of The First National Bank building, in the town of Oakland, Maryland, he will offer at public auction and sell to the highest bidder all of the following real estate, situate near the village of Swanton, in Garrett county, Maryland, and known as

"THE OLD ORCHARD."

1. Military Lot No. 1808, containing 50 acres, more or less.
2. All that part of a tract of land called "SWANTON," adjoining the above mentioned parcel, described as follows: Beginning for the same at a white oak tree, the beginning of Military Lot No. 1808, and running thence, North 67 degrees West, 50½ perches to stake on the North side of Crab Tree creek, North 22½ degrees West, 24 perches to the Oakland and Swanton road, and with said road, North 69 degrees East, 9 perches, North 65½ degrees East, 16 perches, North 71½ degrees East, 28 perches, North 33½ degrees East 20 perches, North 55 degrees East 18 perches, North 54 degrees East, 13 perches, North 79 degrees East, 26 perches, thence leaving said road, South 19 degrees East, 60 perches, South 32½ degrees West, 136 perches, North 11 degrees West, 72 perches, thence by a straight line to the beginning, containing 43 acres, more or less.

A large part of this land has been cleared and is improved by a house, stable and orchard, and is most desirably located.

TERMS OF SALE, as prescribed by the Deed of Trust—Cash on the day of sale, but arrangements can be made whereby a part of the purchase money may be carried on mortgage

EDWARD H. SINCELL, Trustee.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett Co., Md., deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 17th day of April, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

CLEAVER H POOL,

Given under my hand this 26th day of February, 1910.

GERTRUDE E. POOL,
Administratrix.
Kitzmiller, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County Marplany, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Aministration on the personal estate of

FREAKLIN SUTER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the day 11th of May, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

LUCINDA SUTER,
Administratrix.
Hoyes, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Garrett County, Md., has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

AGNES R. A. M. WHITTINGTON,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 11th day of May, 1910, they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 10th day of November, 1910.

W. H. FREDLOCK,
Administrator.
Piedmont, W. Va.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, Maryland, letters of administration on the estate of

ROBERT W. YOUNG,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of April, 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 26th day of October, 1910.

J. F. BISHOP,
Administrator,
Kitzmiller Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber Garrett County, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of

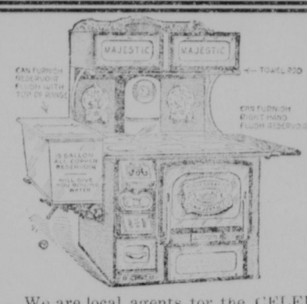
HENRY BEITZEL,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of April 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 26th day of October 1910.

GEO. H. BEITZEL,
Administrator,
Accident, Md., R. D. 1.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.
Prompt attention given all ca day or night.
Garrett County Telephone. 24-1yr.



MAJESTIC RANGES
For Coal or Wood

HONEST GOODS.
HONEST PRICES.

We are local agents for the CELERRATED MAJESTIC RANGES—the Ranges with a national reputation. Nothing better is made in the stove line. Goods which are cheap, but not good, are dear at any price.

Why you should have a Great and Grand Majestic Range in your Kitchen—

It cuts the fuel bill in half because it is riveted air-tight, HOLDS the heat where it belongs, and has the proper arrangement of flues.
It is used by your neighbor, who would have no other.
It browns bread all over just alike without turning.
Has large warming closets with the right kind of doors. The only warming closets that you can clean.
It is made in any size and style desired.
It is made of better and heavier material than any other.
It is the only range in the world made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron.
It costs a little more, but lasts much longer.
It is the only range made that has a ventilated ash pit.

S. LAWTON & SONS, Oakland, Md.

THE GREATEST SALE OF
Gas Stoves, Heaters
AND TINWARE
In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting
A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
OF VALUABLE
Real Estate
In and Near Gorman, Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from William A. Harvey and Benjamin E. Harvey to Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, bearing date the 2nd day of September, 1907, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T No. 55, folio 144, etc., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, Maryland, default having occurred under the covenants contained in said Deed of Trust, the undersigned Trustee hereby gives notice that on

FRIDAY,
the 25th day of November,

1910, at the hour of 11 o'clock a.m. in front of the Station of the Western Maryland R. R. Company in Gorman, Maryland, he will offer at public auction and sell to the highest bidder, all of the following described real estate, situate and being in Garrett county, Maryland, in and near said town of Gorman, to wit.

1. All the surface and the timber thereon of all those pieces, parcels, tracts and lots of lands, the same being a part of the tract of land called "The Addition to Paradise," and also a tract of land called "Beechwood," lying near Gorman, containing more or less, fully described by courses and distances in said Deed of Trust, saving and excepting, however, from this sale, all that part or strip of the surface thereon, of the above described land, which lies southeastwardly of the following described lines:

181 Acres,

Beginning for the same at a point in the 5th line of the land above described, which point is northwestwardly, 150 feet, at right angles, from the middle of the main track of the Western Maryland Railroad Company, as now located, and running thence with the curves of said Railroad at the equal distance of 150 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, through that portion of the land above described which was included within the lines of the tract called "The Addition to Paradise," to the 6th line of the said tract called "Beechwood," thence reversing said 6th line of "Beechwood," to a point which is northwestwardly, 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, and running thence with the curves of said Railroad, at the equal distance of 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, through the said tract called "Beechwood," and thence continuing through that portion of the said tract called "The Addition to Paradise," which was originally Military Lot No 1313, at the equal distance of 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, to a point in the 2nd line of said Military Lot No. 1313 which said point is northwestwardly, 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located.

2. All that other lot of ground in Gorman, the same being one-half of Lot No. 3, as designated on Lewis Nydegger's Plat of the "First Addition to Elkins," as recorded among the Land Records of Garrett county, Maryland, bounded as follows:

Beginning at a stake West of the County road and corner to Lot No. 2 thence with said Lot, North 65° East, 3 poles to a stake by the road, thence with said road, North 25° West, 54 feet to a stake by the road, thence South 65° West, 3 poles to a stake, thence South 25° East, 54 feet to the beginning, containing

One-Eighth of an Acre,

more or less.

The above described surface is covered with considerable timber, and is excellent grass land, and the town lot will make a desirable building site.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale, but terms may be made whereby a portion of the purchase money may be carried on credit for a reasonable time, upon proper security satisfactory to the undersigned.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
Trustee.

EXAMINERS' NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, appointed by the County Commissioners of Garrett county, to view the lands through which the following described new county road is prayed to be located, said road beginning for the same at a point about forty rods west of the McDermott house on the upper farm and running thence through the lands of James McDermott, William Umbel, Joseph Thomas and M. M. Thomas, a distance of about one and a quarter miles, to intersect the county road at the Pennsylvania State line near the gate house, and examine whether the said new county road should be located, will meet on the Twenty-ninth day of October, 1910, for such purpose, and to determine whether the public convenience requires the said locating of said new county road, and if so, to locate the same and perform their duty in the premises.

WM. H. THOMAS,
JEFFERSON LOWDERMILK, } Examiners.
FRANK HUMBERSON,

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out The workmanship passes without question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

The Maryland Agricultural College
COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND.
Maryland's School of Technology
Fifty-fourth year begins Sept. 15.
Entrance examinations 13, 14.

Eight courses of Instruction leading to professional degree of B. S.
Agricultural, Horticural, General, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Biological and Chemical.

The College has a close association with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. College students are permitted to visit the Experiment Farms at Arlington and Beltsville and thus secure an additional equipment for their professional career.

The demand of the age is for men for life's activities. Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all departments. Graduates qualified to enter at once upon life's work. Boarding department supplied with all modern improvements. Bath room, steam heat, electric lights. Location unsurpassed for health.

Tuition, books, heat, light, laundry, board, medical attention, annual deposit, chemical and athletic fees all included in the annual charge of $60.00 per quarter, payable in advance.

Sanitorium for issolation of contagious disease, resident physician and trained nurse in attendance.

Catalog giving full particulars on application. Attention is called to the Two Years Courses in Agriculture and Horticulture. Failure to report promptly means loss of opportunity to student.

Early application necessary for admittance. Write for particulars.

R. W. SYLVESTER, President.

GEORGE W. LEGGE, JR.,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Practice in the Courts of Garrett and adjoining counties, and in the Maryland Court of Appeals. Associated with Thomas, J. Peddicord, First National Bank Building.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 34. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1910. NUMBER 38

JURORS FOR DECEMBER TERM.

Were Drawn Yesterday by Associate Judge R. R. Henderson.

Associate Judge Robert R. Henderson was in Oakland was in Oakland Tuesday afternoon and yesterday when he drew the jurors for service at the December Term of the Circuit Court as follows:

District No. 1. William Hamill, Stephen Rhoades.

District No. 2. Frederick Kamp, Leslie E. Friend, Cornelius W. Friend, William W. Savage, James Guard, Wm. Wallace Schlossnagle, William W. Griffith, Walter Coddington, Horace R. Sisler, Richard T. Frazee.

District No. 3. Archibald Warnick, Charles G. Reichenbecker, Christian A. Beachy, Hiram S. Coleman, Charles H. Bill.

District No. 4. None.

District No. 5. Conrad Speicher, J. Arthur Dewitt, Floyd C. Diehl, Frederick Reichter.

District No. 6. Samuel A. Strawser.

District No. 7. John W. Arnold.

District No. 8. Henry W. Bear, Sommers C. Mosser, William C. Buncutter, Jonas Yutzy.

District No. 9. Urias McKenzie, Daniel B. Layman, George W. Blocher, John A. Garlitz.

District No. 10. Walter Hershman, A. J. Rexroad, Edward H. Smouse, Samuel G. Steyer.

District No. 11. Thomas J. Broadwater, William A. Jacobs.

District No. 12. Perry Bowser, Christian M. Schrock.

District No. 13. Allen C. Lyon, William H. Pool.

District No. 14. John W. Markley, W. E. Shirer, John G. D. Spiker, John F. Browning, David N. Sanders, William L. DeWitt.

SHAFER, W. VA.

Not seeing any items from our little village, I will pen a few.

The Kendall Lumber Co., is doing a rushing business at this writing.

Mrs. Amanda Dumire is suffering with an attack of typhoid fever.

Mr Albert Alexander has moved to Breedlove.

Mr. E. G. Lewis has resigned his position as night watchman.

Will Savage is on the sick list.

Mr. Will Sines made a flying trip to Thomas last Friday.

W. W. Groves spent Sunday with Mr. Sines.

Mr. Charley Wotring spent Saturday night and Sunday at Hearts Content.

Mr. Lloyd Wilburn and sister Malvie spent Sunday evening with Mr. Sines.

Alta Sines spent Sunday with her little friend Annie Wilburn.

Stop that Cough.

Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound will do it. 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

THE DEATH RECORD.

ORLANDO C. CRANE.

The funeral of the late Orlando C. Crane at Terra Alta Monday afternoon was the largest ever in that city. The remains were taken to the M. E. church at 11 o'clock in the morning by the pall bearers and a Knight Templar escort, and laid in state until 1:30 p. m., after which the funeral sermon was preached by the pastor. Hon. Sam B. Montgomery, of Tunnelton, and Rev. H. C. Howard, of Fairmont, both delivered beautiful addresses upon the life and character of Mr. Crane. The funeral was in charge of Terra Alta lodge, A. F. & A. M., and a Knight Templar escort from DeMolay Commandery No. 11, of Grafton, and also an escort of the Knights of Pythias and the Modern Woodmen of America. The floral tributes were beautiful and profuse and were from the different organizations, the Board of Trade and friends. At the cemetery the usual Masonic services were held and a prayer was offered by Rev. Howard. Terra Alta mourned by the closing of every place of business in the city and the public schools during the funeral.

E. D. KEPNER.

E. D. Kepner died last Thursday morning at 5 o'clock at the residence of his son-in-law, Alvin F. Getty, 20 North Smallwood street, Cumberland, from old age, in his 82nd year. He is survived by the following children: William Kepner, of Grafton, W. Va.; John D. Kepner, of Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. Jno. Alexander, of Morgantown, W. Va.; Mrs. George T. Porter and Miss Nettie Kepner, of Oakland; Mrs. Ira F. Steiner, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Alvin F. Getty, of Cumberland, all of whom, with the exception of his son, John, were at his bedside. He was a life long member of the Methodist Episcopal church, and was a soldier in the Sixth West Virginia Infantry during the War of the Rebellion. The funeral took place on Saturday morning from St. Paul's M. E. church in Oakland, the services being conducted by the pastor, Rev. G. R. Williamson.

Delegates to Peace Conference.

Governor Crothers has appointed delegates to represent Marvland at the coming International Peace Conference in Washington. Among the delegates is ex-Judge Ferdinand Williams of Cumberland.

Vote in Preston.

The total vote cast in Preston county, W. Va., in the recent election on the relocation of the county seat was 5,271. Terra Alta receive 2,834 votes and Kingwood 2,437. Terra Alta had a majority of 397, but lacked 328 of the necessary three-fifths. The total vote cast for Congressman Sturgiss was 2,108 and for Brown 3,098. Brown's majority was 990.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

200 ACRES YOUNG TIMBER BURNED

Destructive Forest Fire Near Elbow in Garrett County.

Forest fires last week in Garrett county destroyed nearly two hundred acres of young timber. Much trouble was experienced near Elbow by farmers. One of them, Neil Smith, organized a crew to fight the fire, which resulted in the saving of considerable property and timber. Fires have also been burning near Sand Patch, Pa., much to the inconvenience of the farmers, many of them being compelled to be out nearly all of Saturday night in an effort to save their property.

What Does Mr. Loraditch Receive and Why was the Building of a School House Awarded to the Highest Bidder?

To the School Board of Garrett County:

For some reason, best known to yourselves, you have refused and continue to refuse to answer the question so frequently propounded to you through the press as to the amount of salary paid your secretary and examiner, and the salary the teacher of the manual training department in the Oakland high school receives. This question has been entirely ignored by you.

The people of this county deserve better treatment than that at the hands of their public servants. They furnish the money and they have a right to know how it is expended. You know, or ought to know, that no busisess man would for one moment tolerate or keep in his employ a servant or employee who, being entrusted with his money, would spend it and then when requested to do so would refuse to tell how he spent it. Why have not the people the same right, and why should they be treated differently? If you are not ashamed of your acts, give the people a direct answer.

Another matter: It is asserted that in awarding the contract for the erection of the White Rock school house you did not award the same to the lowest responsible bidder, but awarded it to a relative of your secretary at a sum $40 or $50 in excess of the lowest bid; that you permitted the party to whom the contract was awarded to substitute much smaller joist, studding, etc., than was contained in the specifications furnished other bidders and which they figured on in making estimates, and that the foundation of the building was allowed to be constructed in a manner much inferior to the specifications.

Are these assertions true? Examine the records and let the people know the names of the parties bidding on the job, the amount of each bid and the amount you finally paid for the erection of the house. Then let us know why the specifications were changed after the contract was awarded. If these assertions are not true you ought not to hesitate to give the people the facts. If they are true, then the people want an explanation.

Will you hesitate to publish the facts? If so, why? PATRON.

White Rock, Nov. 14, 1910.

A Democrat Who Rejoices With Those Who Rejoice and Pities Those Who Weep.

To the Editor of The Republican:

The election which took place just one week ago tomorrow was, indeed, a revolution, and in some of its aspects stands, probably, without a parallel in our politihal history. The writer hereof being a Democrat rejoices with such as do rejoice and pities those who weep. But a party triumph like this should convey other lessons than the mere shoutings of its votaries and the elections of the elected. If the successful party can furnish nothing better than that given by its vanquished opponents then the victories at the polls will drop from its hand as but withered leaves. Was it General Grant who said in substance, that each Republican false move was followed by a Democratic blunder sufficient to cancel the false move? So far as this victory is limited to Congress, barring the constitutional possibility of a decision of the next presidential election in the House of Representatives, is such a victory won in the middle of an opposing administration for the betterment of the government or the tranquility of the people? Will the thoughtful and unbiased man sound in mind, deny that to each administration should be securred the opportunity to maintain the purpose and make good promises for which it was called into being? Are we convinced by experience that the election of another Congress at the end of the first two years of an administration is best for the country at large.

Wise and patriotic as were the founders of the Republic, time, perhaps, has brought to view developments never anticipated by them. Likely they never suspected that a nominee for the presidency could have a majority in the Electoral College with a pronounced majority of the popular vote against him, but it has frequently occurred and it seems to negative the cardinal intention that the will of the majority must prevail. In like manner they may not have clearly forseen the embarrassments to the executive in his failure to have the new Congress in harmony with his policies and in sympathy with his designs. This mid-time election of a Congress is not only calculated to seriously divert a president from his high duties but to check or defeat such legislative enactments as he may propose in the last two years of his term. We saw how Mr. Cleveland, one of the ablest executives that has ever graced that high office, was opposed far less in patriotism than in malice, and we see how an opposing Congres may be tempted to act during the remaining two years of President Taft.

If the method from the foundation of the government to this time of electing a new Congress at the close of the first two years of each administration has become superanuated or liable to disaster, then, Mr. Editor why not advocate the remedy of each Congress for four years, equal to the term of the president which it was chosen? RELLIM.

November 14, 1910.

They Were Not Bones of a Human.

To the Editor of The Republican:

I noticed in a letter from Hauser last week the statement that human bones were found in the ruins of Fike Bros. mill at Eglon, W. Va.

I wish to state that the bones found were positively not human, and I so stated. To further satisfy the minds of the people I sent the bones to a professor of anatomy at the Maryland University at Baltimore and he concurs fully in my opinion.

Very truly,
ARNOLD A. SCHERR, M. D.
Eglon, W. Va., Nov. 15, 1910.

Married.

GRIMES—SINCELL—The Rev. Fred Gordon of Knoxville officiated at the wedding of Miss Frances Isabel Grimes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Finley Grimes of Charles street, Knoxville, and George Sincell, of Keyser, W. Va., which took place last evening in the home of the bride. The ceremony was performed at 7.30 o'clock. A gown of white satin trimmed with duchess lace and a veil held in place with orange blossoms was worn by the bride, who carried white orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Frederick Davis was matron of honor. She wore her wedding gown of white satin and carried chrysanthemums. Miss Zillah Grimes, as her sister's maid of honor, wore a gown of yellow messaline draped with yellow flowered tulle. Her flowers were yellow chrysanthemums. The bride's maid, Miss Byrde Darrah, of Beaver, Pa., wore yellow messaline draped with white tulle and carried chrysanthemums. The little flower girl, Miss Isabel Grimes, a niece of the bride, wore a a white lingerie frock over yellow and carried a basket filled with yellow daisies. Murray Grimes was ringbearer. Jack Grimes, a brother of the bride, was best man, and the bridal party was completed by the ushers, James L. Grimes, Richmond Grimes, also brothers, and H. C. Sincell, a brother of the bridegroom. The house was decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. Mr. Sincell and his bride left for the east and will attend the Yale-Princeton game Saturday. After December 1 they will be at home in Keyser.—Friday's Pittsburg Times.

Will not Resign.

Peter H. Yost, member of the board of School Commissioners of Garrett county, Md., and wife were visiting relatives in Somerset county, Pa., over Sunday. They drove over to Meyersdale from their home three miles south of Grantsville, Friday afternoon, and spent the night with Elder Joel Gnagey and family of Trans-Meyersdale. On Saturday they proceeded to a point beyond Berlin where they visited Mrs. Yost's brother, Edward Bauermaster, and family, returning to Meyersdale Sunday afternoon and remaining till Monday morning as guests of the editor of The Republican and family. Mr. Yost has been subjected to many columns of editorial roasts from Oakland papers since he became school commissioner, and survived them, so that he no longer is afraid of editors. Because commissioners have refused to do the bidding of certain Garrett county politicians, the Governor of Maryland has been petitioned to demand the resignation of the school board, but Mr. Yost, for one, has made up his mind not to resign. He says he never sought the office, tut snice it was thrust upon him, he will discharge his official duties as he understands them, regardless of his critics, and will not resign under fire or otherwise. Mr. Yost is one of Garrett county's best farmers.—Meyersdale Republican.

BUMPER CROPS IN UNITED STATES

Farmers Harvest Large Yields in Almost all Sorts of Eatables.

Bumper crops, led by corn with the greatest harvest ever gathered, were produced by the farmers of the United States during this year. In a general review of crop conditions, the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Agriculture says:

"The harvests of 1910 have been practically completed, with results exceeding the expectations during the growing period. Preliminary estimates have been made of the production of most of the important crops, from which it appears that the aggregate production of crops in 1910 are approximately 7.6 per cent. greater than the crops of 1909—and about 9.1 per cent. greater than the average annual production of the preceding five years. Prices for important crops averaged on November 1 about 5.4 per cent. lower than a year ago.

"The production of other crops in 1910, expressed in percentage of the average productions in recent years (not compared with full crop) is estimated as follows:

"Peaches, 113.1; hops, 106.9; broom corn, 105.4; cranberries, 105.4; sweet potatoes, 104.9; sorghum, 104.6; asparagus, 102.5; peanuts, 102.5; cabbages, 100.2; Lima beans, 100.0; Kaffir corn, 99.1; pears, 98.9; beans (dry), 98.8; cantaloupes, 97.3; watermelons, 97.0; onions, 96.5; hemp, 95.5; tomatoes, 93.7 cloverseed, 93.6; strawberries, 91.5; grapes, 88.2; apples, 85.8; millet seed 85.7; rasberries, 78.0; blackberries 76.6.

"The condition of other crops, compared with average conditions at or near time of gathering, was as follows:

"Sugar cane; 104.1; rice, 102.3; sugar beets, 100.9; lemons, 99.3; cotton, 98.9; oranges, 95.5

A Fearful Experience.

Ralph Wiley, of Merrill, rode over to Bittinger last Sunday to visit his parents. On his way back his horse shied and threw him, breaking his leg. This was about 6 p. m. The horse ran away and left Mr. Wiley in the woods a long way from a human habitation. Wiley crawled to the residence of Charles Myer, which he reached at midnight, and by his cries roused Mr. Myer. The injured man was taken in and Dr. Robinson of Grantsville, summoned. Wiley had crawled through the snow and was nearly frozen when he reached the Myer residence. Dr. Robinson set the fractured leg and Mr. Wiley was taken to his home on Monday.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

This is to give notice that the firm of Cuppett & Lytle, doing a general merchandise business in the town of Sang Run., Md., has this day been dissolved by mutual consent.

CUPPETT & LYTLE.
Sang Run, Md., Oct. 11, 1910.

ROOSEVELTISM NOT CAUSE OF THE WATERLOO

The Outlook, of which Mr. Roosevelt is Contributing Editor, Gives Reasons.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, of which Mr. Roosevelt is a contributing editor, last week gave out his (Dr. Abbott's) interpretation of the recent election embodied in an editorial to appear in the next issue of that publication.

"Popular dissatisfaction with present conditions, especially with the high prices; indignation at the manifest control of the special interests of the tariff revision, and still more at the defenses and eulogies of the tariff bill; wrath at the corruption and the hypocritrical pretenses disclosed in certain influential Republican circles, coupled with the forgetfulness of the fact that the exposure and the publications were furnished by Republicans; a growing conviction that there was an alliance between the special interests and the Republican oligarchy with the belief that the easiest way to hit at it was by voting with the opposition; in difference at election which to many voters appeared to be a contest rather between persons than between principles—an impression which a too personal campaign tended to increase; a general inclination in America to make a change in political control from time to time, an inclination which the political conditions that prevail in solid states does much to justify; some fears in certain quarters, not less politically effective because wholly undefined, lest the specter of radicalism should work havoc to business interests; the fact that the Republican party was divided between the insurgents and the regulars, while the Democratic party freed from the traditions of Cleveland, the personality of Bryan was for the first time in years united. All these causes combined to bring about a political revolution.

"But I do not believe the election indicates a reaction and revolution. Nor do I think that the Jack-o-lantern bugaboo of Mr. Roosevelt's imagined monarchial ambitions cut any considerable figure in the election. The fact that the greatest falling off in the Republican vote was in the state of Pennsylvania, where his voice was not once heard in the campaign is significant if not conclusive on tne point."

Hunter Killed Near Salisbury.

The first fatality in Somerset county, Pa., since the opening of the hunting season occurred near Salisbury Monday morning. While out gunning for rabbits the gun in the hands of Frank Livengood, of Salisbury, was accidently discharged the load takikg effect in his left breast killing him almost instantly. He was aged about 45 years and is survived by his widow, who was a Miss Cochran, and several children.

DIXON & KELSO

DRESSED POULTRY

DIXON & KELSO can use

2000 to 3000 lbs.

Full Dressed Chickens

to be brought to our store Saturday, Monday and Tuesday before Thanksgiving, for which we will pay 15 cts.

10000 lbs. Fat Dry Picked TURKEYS, Satutday and Monday. Will pay 20c. lb

Also 20 to 30 Full Dressed Turkeys at 22c.

Can use fresh Eggs at 35c and frech Butter at 30c lb.

Yours to Please. DIXON & KELSO.

TEDDY-TAFTY.

Copyrighted.

TEDDY TAFTY

Teddy-Tafty Sundae

The Latest in Ice Cream.

Healthful

Delightful

Refreshing

Oakland Steam Bakery

Manufacturers of Ice Cream complying absolutely with the Pure Food Laws of the United States.

We Freeze our Reputation into our Ice Cream.

TEDDY TAFTY

TEDDY-TAFTY.

The Republican.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Pubr.

OAKLAND, . . . MD.

Isn't it strange how automobiles won't take a joke?

Possibly the society smuggler is only a kleptomaniac.

Further, an aeroplane, judiciously handled, lays golden eggs.

Portland cement is to be cheaper—have you tried digesting it?

Summer keeps running back for just one more parting word.

Detroit goat eats a $10 bill. Well, what goat ever got indigestion from swallowing ten bones?

The new five-dollar bills will be smaller, says an exchange. Easier to break, too, we presume.

King Alfonso is afraid he may lose his throne. Foolish boy!—why didn't he put it in his wife's name?

These are fine days to find mushrooms. If you feel ill the next day, you'll know that you didn't.

New York waiter buys $100,000 worth of government bonds. "All things come to him who waits."

Wild grapes are very scarce this fall, says the Boston Globe, but the sour variety are still plentiful enough.

A French duke has invited his friends to an aeroplane tea. Could any "high tea" be higher than that?

New York street car conductor breaks his arm ringing up fares. Talk about strenuosity in doing one's duty!

A New York woman who obtained a divorce 18 years ago has just applied for alimony. When is a poor devil safe?

San Francisco is waging a relentless war against rats, but it doesn't seem to have any effect on Paris coiffures, so far.

With the Bible still leading the list of best sellers, the morals of the country cannot be so very much deteriorated, after all.

An Italian has invented an aeroplane which cannot fall. This is an improvement even over those which can swim and climb trees.

If there is any argument in favor of letting college boys haze themselves it must be that they need to get it out of their systems.

Someone has written an article on "The Duty of the Dollar," this being something that our American tourists have been trying to dodge.

In New York there is a woman one hundred and two years old who has lived ninety-six years in Manhattan Well, it must have been in Harlem.

New York man, forty years old, and about to wed, says he has never yet kissed a girl. He'll still be "about to wed" forty years from now

A Pittsburg bridegroom of five weeks deserted his bride because she was "a block of ice." Naturally, she immediately proceeded to make it hot for him.

There is a man in Virginia who says that to marry after fifty means trouble. He is an optimist. What does he think it means to marry before fifty?

When a man of ninety-six walks ten miles to get a marriage license the truth that live is ever young gives another knock-out blow to the Oslerian theory.

An Ohio judge rules that a pretzel is not a dangerous weapon. Whether he will be so confident concerning the exhibition of sliced cucumbers remains to be seen.

Isn't there a fine touch of unconscious humor in the preachments on American extravagance which American millionaires deliver when they come home from motor tours through Europe?

Why is it that the man who cunningly plans to murder his wife or his sweetheart and brutally carries out his plan always "breaks down and cries like a child" when his guilt is fastened upon him?

Why should there be so much excitement when an aviator breaks the record for attaining the greatest height? The thing to become enthusiastic over, it seems to us, is in getting safely down from the greatest height.

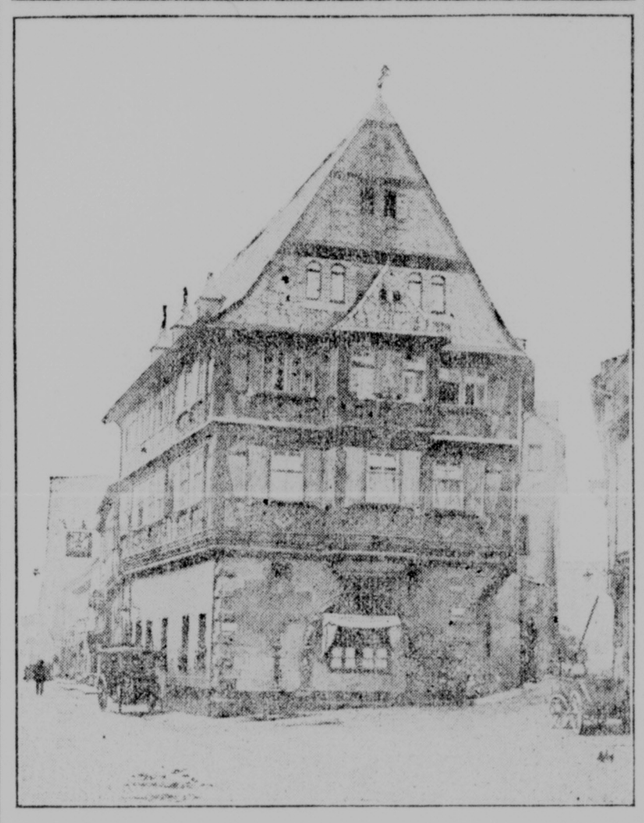
A St. Paul burglar has returned money he had stolen three years ago. He has evidently reformed—partially. When he completely reforms he will insist on paying the penalty he incurred by violating the moral and criminal law.

Thieves have been known to steal hot stoves, but even this feat is surpassed by that of robbers in New Jersey who stole six cars loaded with merchandise by cutting a freight train in two and escaping with the booty. So far, this holds the record.

The World's Wonders

STRANGE THINGS FOUND IN VARIOUS PORTIONS OF THE EARTH

Oldest Hotel in Germany



In Miltenberg on the Main, stands what is believed to be the oldest hostelry in Germany, the Hotel Zum Riesen. The date of its building is not known, but in 1158 the Emperor Frederick I. lodged there, and in the many years of its existence it has sheltered numerous other princes. In 1518 Martin Luther was a guest of the hotel when on his way to Heidelberg. The inn, still occupied, is a great attraction for tourists.

BLOOMS ONCE IN 70 YEARS.

At the London zoological gardens, says a correspondent, near the eagles' aviary visitors may now see the rare sight of an aloe in bloom.

The specimen, which stands about 24 feet high, and is shooting upwards rapidly, is a plant of symmetrical growth, with huge fleshy leaves, furnished with large spines, and disposed naturally in the shape of immense rosettes. The leaves contain a strong fiber, which is valuable for rope-making, and the expressed juice may be used as a substitute for soap. It may also be manufactured into a liquor like cider.

It has been called the "century plant," from the belief that it flowers only once in 100 years. It is a fact that it takes many years to come to maturity, in some cases extending to seventy years. It flowers but once, and then dies. The zoo is fortunate in having a second example of this very rare flowering plant, for it is just four years ago since a similar occurrence took place there.

A specimen of the aloe bloomed in Victoria Park ten years ago, when it was found necessary to remove a pane of glass from the roof of the house in which it was growing, so that the stem might have space to grow upwards. The crown of blossoms in this instance towered above the roof. At Kew Gardens, about twenty-four years ago, a similar method had to be adopted when the aloe bloomed there.

The flowers when in full bloom will be a sight worth going a long way to see, not only on account of the magnificent golden blossoms, but also because of the rarity of blooming in this country.

SAFETY SUIT FOR AIRMEN

At the International Congress of Aerial Leagues held in Boulogne recently some interesting demonstrations were given of special devices for the protection of aviators in case of fall. Among these was a safety suit consisting of a padded head-piece and jacket six inches thick, the entire apparatus weighing only eight pounds. The inventor hurled himself head-first against a very spiky place in the stone work of the old walls of Boulogne and suffered no inconvenience from the impact.

GERMAN PRINCE IN KILTS

Prince Henry of Prussia, brother of the kaiser and pleasantly remembered in the United States which he visited some years ago, is not only a warm admirer of the British, but is especially fond of their favorite sport—golf. He visits England and Scotland occasionally, and when there never fails to indulge in the Royal and Ancient game. Moreover, he sometimes dons the kilts when on the links, and the photographer caught him when dressed in the garb of the highlands.

ROOSTER HAS A LONG FAST

A remarkable instance of a fowl living twenty days without food occurred at Stamford, near Hythe, Eng. A buff Orpington cock, belonging to a resident named Franks had been missing for three weeks, and was discovered wedged in the wooden foundation on which a haystack had been constructed. The bird was terribly emaciated, but has now recovered.

WONDERFUL ENGRAVING FEAT.

An extraordinary feat has been performed by Paul P. Wentz of Sharon, Pa., who has, on the head of an ordinary pin, engraved the alphabet four times and then added his name and the date when he completed the work, making 113 characters in all.

FROGS FROM THE CLOUDS

At the conclusion of an extraordinarily violent thunderstorm the other week, Mr. Jack Ayre of Temple Bottom, near Cruwys-Morchard, in Devonshire, Eng., found a long stretch of road covered with thousands of frogs, which, it is declared, "cried like rabbits."

Mr. Ayr expresses the opinion that the frogs came down from the sky, and he is supported in this view by another resident of the district, who has experience of monsoons abroad.

This expert says that in the stillness which precedes monsoons in tropical regions all sorts of creeping things come out of their hiding places. They are often carried up into the air by whirlwinds, and when the monsoons break down they are deposited again in rainstorms, as appears to have been the case at Cruwys-Morchard.

SHELL-FISH KILLS SEAGULL.

A singular occurrence is reported from Barnstaple, England. A seagull was observed struggling in the air near the River Taw, and then to fall to the ground. It was discovered that a bivalve had closed on the bill of the bird and gradually suffocated it.

Opening the Oyster Season

The ancient civic ceremony with which the opening of the Coyne Oyster Fishery at Colchester, England, is celebrated took place this year on board the lugger Henry VII off Brightlingsea. The deputy mayor of Colchester, the town clerk and the town sergeant bearing the mace, were in their civic robes. The deputy mayor declared the Fisheries open, and the town clerk read a declaration, which dates from December 6, 1189, in the reign of Richard Coeur de Lion, confirming previous charters. Gin and gingerbread were handed round to the company. After the reading of the declaration, which ended with three cheers for the king and three for the mayor of Colchester, the chairman of the fishery board, and the deputy mayor cast the first dredges, and made a good haul of oysters. A luncheon then took place on Peewit Island, Colchester oysters being the chief item on the menu.

GOD'S MESSENGERS

By REV. STEPHEN PAULSON

Text.—He maketh the winds his messengers; his ministers a flaming fire.—Ps 104:4.

And Jacob went on his way and the messengers of God met him.—Gen. 32:1.

There are two supreme realities in the universe—God and man. From time to time messages are exchanged between them and that is religion. When man speaks to God it is prayer and worship. When God speaks to man it is guidance and inspiration. What God did once for prophets and apostles, He does for merchants and husbandmen.

Not that God's messengers always speak with human voices. He speaks through man's inner consciousness, through memory, through some incident or occurrence in your life. To David God spoke by the sad and stern prophet. To Solomon He spoke through fear; to Peter through a simple meal spread on the shore of the lake. And so every day God's messengers stand at the door of your soul, bringing encouragement or warning, or overtures of love from

Prof. A. M. Ten Eyck, superintendent

The voice of conscience in man's soul is the voice of God. What a wonderful picture of the accusatory power of conscience is drawn in Shakespeare's tragedy of Macbeth. After accomplishing his purpose on Duncan Macbeth goes into his wife's room and locks the door. It is midnight and the stars are shining brightly, and it is so still that they can hear each other's heart beat. But Macbeth hears footsteps approaching the door, and a voice which says: "Sleep no more; Macbeth hath murdered sleep." Like Jacob the guilty king had met God's messengers, and evermore he was to hear in the night the footfall of the unseen pursuer, that Nemesis which was upon his track. Oh, it is a long and thrilling journey that man makes through life, and every day the messengers of God meet him, and sometimes he heeds their message, but often he takes his own way and wanders off into the desert.

The life drama of which this meeting with the divine messengers is a part, has to do with the education of Jacob. He had deceived his aged and blind father, robbed his brother, and is now fleeing from his wrath. He is in the desert and is overcome by remorse, and he fears that armed men may overtake him and bring him back to punishment. In that day he prayed that night might come and hide him. When night fell he was alone with nature and God. The stars above him seemed to pierce into his soul like accusing eyes. He knelt and prayed and then he fell into a troubled slumber. And it seemed to him that a bright star lengthened into a long beam of light that reached to the earth, and the beam of light broadened into a stair up which the angels of God took his prayer and penitence, and down which they brought encouragement and mercy. And hope began to stir in his heart that God might pardon his sins, and that in God's mercy he might redeem the future.

How human and real is this chapter in the story of a man's soul. It might be a page torn out of our own biography. The epoch of divine messengers is not gone. There is no life so isolated, no talent so small, but that God has for it his message and purpose. In the river that flows to the sea, the individual drop loses its identity, but in the great river of humanity that flows to eternity, there is no loss of individual identity. Each soul is as it were a separate star divided by millions of miles from its neighbor

"Jacob went on his way and the messengers of God met him." It is your own story. Do not look for some great manifestation when God speaks to you. When God made Himself known to Elijah a great earthquake shook the foundations of the mountains, but God was not in the earthquake; and a fire come which blistered the rocks, but God was not in the fire; and a windstorm came which uprooted the trees, and God was not in the storm; and there came a still, small voice, and God was in that still small voice.

So the messengers of God come to you in the still small voice of daily experience. Memory bears in her arms the sheaves of the yesterday, and it is to you a messenger of God. Alone in the desert, Jacob remembered his past life with all its sordid meanness. The faces of his aged parents and of his wronged brother came up before him. Some men's sins go before them into judgment and some march like caravans under the guidance of memory.

What an illustrated volume is the book of memory. In this very moment you may open it upon your lap. There is the old house where you were born, and here are the faces of your playmates. Now you walk old paths, and now you look upon the faces of friends separated from you by many years. What magic is here! Yet what sacred ministry.

In the desert Jacob feared the consequences of his misdeeds, and fear may also be a messenger of God. A wise man of old said: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." It is wisdom indeed that fears to do wrong, that turns man from evil purposes. Such fear may save a man's soul, even as the warning of danger at the edge of a precipece may save a man's life.

The KITCHEN CABINET

OOKS is the seal of a noble mind, the ornament and pride of man, the sweetest charm of woman, the scorn of rascals and the rarest virtue of sociability.

—Sternaa.

For a Yellow Luncheon.

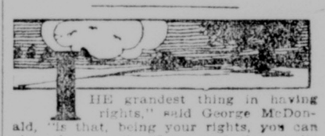
During the golden rod season a very attractive luncheon may be served. Let the rooms and porches be decorated with the feathery yellow blossom, having all the table pieces low and not too large.

For the menu serve a delicate soup like cream of celery, and on top of each place a spoonful of whipped cream, and for the yellow color just a suggestion of egg yolk from a hard-cooked egg put through a ricer or sieve. If one wishes to omit the soup, a fruit course may be substituted, or both may be served. For the fruit course, the rich yellow of musk melons served in balls made with a French potato cutter and dressed with a bit of lemon juice and powdered sugar, is very good. For the main dish, chicken croquettes with white sauce garnished with grated yellow cheese, might prove most appetizing.

With the ice cream, which will be plain vanilla, serve preserved yellow pumpkin. It tastes much better than it sounds and is a beautiful yellow to carry out the color scheme. Cut the pumpkin in dainty cubes and preserve with orange and lemon. It is the custom with many who entertain, when carrying out a color scheme, to tie the rolls with ribbon of the color used in the decoration. Ribbon seems very much out of place on food; it may be used in the table decoration to advantage or to tie up small boxes of candy as favors or in countless pleasing ways, but as an ornament or garnish for food, it seems inappropriate.

Mustard Pickles.

Take two quarts of small cucumbers, the same of small onions and tomatoes, one quart of wax beans, three green peppers chopped fine. Let stand in salt water to cover over night, using half a cupful of salt in enough water to cover the vegetables, put a weight upon them. In the morning scald until tender in clear water, drain and pour over the following mustard preparation: Mix one-half pound of mustard, one-fourth of an ounce of turmeric, three teaspoonfuls of celery seed and three-fourths of a cup of flour. Slowly add four quarts of vinegar and cook until smooth.



HE grandest thing in having rights," said George McDonald, "is that, being your rights, you can give them up." "Love seeketh not its own." It is ready always to yield even that which it might justly claim.

Digestible and Nutritious Foods.

There are those, who even yet, after much has been said and written about foods, their digestibility and value in repairing waste and building tissue, speak of digestible and nutritious as synonymous terms.

Foods may be very easily digested that contain little nutriment, for example, the oyster is easily digested but is not as nutritious as we once supposed it to be. Gelatine is easily digested but is of little value as a food. The tissue-building foods are milk, cheese, eggs, fish, lean meat, poultry, dried beans, peas, nuts and grains.

Those foods that supply muscular energy and if eaten in excess are stored in the body in the form of fat, are underground vegetables, corn, rice, bacon, olive oil, cream, butter, grapes, dates, figs, honey and sugar. A digestible food is one that is assimilated, a nutritious food is one that repairs waste, builds tissue and gives heat and energy.

To Can Tomatoes.

Take one gallon of water, one cupful of salt and when boiling drop in peeled tomatoes and cook until thoroughly scalded, place in cans, using a skimmer to drain off all the brine. The juice of the tomatoes will make enough liquid to cover and the brine may be reheated for other tomatoes. The brine at last may be canned as it will be less salty after using and after straining it may be used for soups.

Corn Relish.

Cut corn from 12 ears of corn, chop a small head of cabbage fine, sprinkle salt all over the cabbage and let it stand three hours. Drain off the water and put corn and cabbage together, add one cupful of sugar, two quarts of vinegar, one-half cupful of ground mustard, four small red peppers chopped fine cook all until tender, seal in bottles or pint cans. If one does not like cabbage, celery may be substituted.

Water Melon Rind Pickles.

Peel the rind and cut in one-inch slices, let stand over night in salt water. Make a syrup of four pounds of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of ground cinnamon, one teaspoonful of cloves and two quarts of vinegar. Tie the spices in a cloth, pour the hot syrup over the drained melon rind, add the spices, let stand 24 hours and reheat the syrup four mornings in succession. Cover for winter use.

Nellie Maxwell

PROTECTION FOR SONG BIRDS OF THE UNITED STATES

KENTUCKY WARBLER.

GRAVE OF GUY M. BRADLEY, ASSOCIATION WARDEN IN FLORIDA, KILLED IN PERFORMANCE OF DUTY

TODAY the songbirds of the United States have thrown about them the strong arm of protection. For a quarter of a century there was hard and systematic work to save creatures who were helpless to save themselves and against whom, as someone has put it, the hand of man and the head of woman constantly were raised. It perhaps is hardly necessary to say that the allusion to the head of woman had to do with the fashion of wearing the plumage of native wild birds for decorations for hats and bonnets.

It was a hard fight to get the masses of the people interested in the bird protection movement. Today very little is known in a general way of the manner in which success was wrought out. It is not at all uncommon even now to hear the bird protectors spoken of as mere sentimentalists, and there are men who have had a part in the fight to save the wild life who have been sneered at as effeminate. The truth is that most of the men who engaged in the work of preserving the feathered species were hard-headed and could prove on occasion that they were hard fisted.

It takes only a casual glance at a woman's hat today to show that the fashion of wearing feathers is still if not supreme, at least a ruler to a considerable degree. It should be known, however, that not once in a hundred times do you see on a woman's head today the plumage of a native American bird. The traffic in the feathers of bluebirds, robins, catbirds and other dooryard pets has been almost entirely stopped. Even those who wish that the plumage-wearing habit should cease altogether are powerless to prevent the sale of the feathers of certain species of foreign birds. The aigrette of which woman is so fond is a part of the plumage of the snowy heron, a bird which lives not only in the United States but in certain foreign countries. If a bird is to be found in America and also abroad the sale of its plumage is generally forbidden in the United States, but there is, and always has been, some difficulty in proving from whence came the supply. Law, generally speaking, has its technicality loopholes and the bird protective law is not exempt.

Out of the bird protective movement grew the biological survey of the department of agriculture of the United States government. The biological survey has been of great service to the farmers of the United States and to all men engaged either directly or indirectly in any form of agricultural pursuits. When the survey was threatened with extinction a few years ago by the apparent intention of congress to refuse it an appropriation, the farmers of the United States with the bird protectors and the real sportsmen, rose in its defense and saved it. The survey probably will be spared to continue its useful work as long as the agricultural department has existence.

The history of bird protection in the United States naturally and of right, is connected with the history of two organizations, the various state Audubon societies for the protection of wild birds, and the American Ornithologists' union. Recently William Dutcher of New York, who is the president of the National Association of Audubon societies and a fellow of the American Ornithologists' union, told the ornithologists of the world assembled in convention in a European city the story of the bird protection movement in North America. Mr. Dutcher and all the other officers of the National Association of Audubon societies are men who have devoted their lives to the study of birds and to their protection.

A celebrated French scientist said not long ago that if the bird life were to be swept out of existence man could survive only a few months. Because of the ravages of the insects now held in check by the birds, the vegetation creatures would be destroyed by the insect enemies. So it would seem that if this French scientist is right, that in making their fight for the birds the defenders have been making their fight for man, a fact which is not appreciated by some of those who would suffer were it not for the constant saving efforts of men whom on occasion they have seen fit to call cranks.

To lead up to the establishment of the Audubon societies, of which nearly every state in the Union has one, it might be said that it was not until the year 1883 that the public in the United States awakened to the fact that too many wild birds were being slaughtered, largely for millinery ornaments and other decorative purposes. In addition, thousands of song and insectivorous birds were killed annually for food. In his story of the movement for bird protection President Dutcher told of the beginnings of the crusade to save the lives of the songsters which year by year were coming back to the farm and the garden in greatly decreased numbers. Mr. Dutcher said, speaking of the condition in 1883:

"The newspapers published items almost daily on the subject, and many strong editorials were written. A quotation from one of these entitled 'The Sacrifices of Song Birds' will show the earnestness of the press in respect to the situation: 'The destruction of American wild birds for millinery purposes has assumed stupendous proportions. The unholy work gives employment to a vast army of men and women and this army wages its campaign of destruction with a diabolical perfection of system.'

"The editorial in question further refers to details of the work published in other columns of the paper, which furnishes evidence of the ghastly character of the business. The logical result of this newspaper agitation was that the American Ornithologists' union at its annual meeting held in New York city September 30, 1884, appointed a committee of its members to investigate the extent of the alleged wild bird destruction and to devise means to stop the slaughter by legal or any other legitimate method.

"This committee found that the claims of the press and of individuals were not in the least exaggerated, but on the other hand did not fully represent the terrible inroads that were being made on the non-game birds. After a lapse of a quarter of a century it is hard for the people of the present day to realize the enormous number of birds that were slaughtered for the millinery trade alone.

"The greatest sufferers were the white plumage sea and swamp birds, such as terns, gulls and heron, but incredible numbers of land birds also were sacrificed, some 60 or 70 species being included in the lists. In one millinery establishment alone 150 skins of the Baltimore orioles were found.

"From the work started by this committee in 1884 the present well-organized and financially endowed corporation known as the National Association of Audubon Societies for the Protection of Wild Birds and Animals has resulted, although in the interim there were many periods when the outlook for bird protection in North America seemed doomed to failure."

It was the result of an appeal made to congress by the council of the Ornithologists' union that led congress to vote an appropriation of $5,000, the money to be administered under the direction of the department of agriculture for the purpose of taking means to save the lives of the native American birds which were useful to man.

As William Dutcher says further in his story of the protective movement:

"In recognition of the action taken by the American Ornithologists' union in securing the appropriation, the secretary of agriculture invited the council of the union to select a superintendent to carry on the work and at a subsequent meeting held in Washington, Dr. Clinton Hart Merriam was selected as the superintendent and Dr. Albert K. Fisher as his assistant. Both of these noted ornithologists were among the founders of the American Ornithologists' union."

It was from this humble beginning that the present biological survey, a division of the United States department of agriculture, has grown. It is perfectly apparent from the letters which agriculturists send to Washington constantly that the work of the biological survey has its value appreciated more and more every year. The survey has published a great mass of valuable statistics of the food habits of birds and their relation to agriculture and forestry.

As has been said, there are Audubon societies for bird protection in nearly every state in the Union. They are affiliated in one great society called the National Association of Audubon societies. The writer of this article from personal knowledge can speak of the beginnings of one of the largest and most active of the state organizations.

Persons who were known to be interested in birds were asked to meet to form a protective organization. A good many persons not particularly interested in bird protection also were invited. Several women came to that first meeting, wearing the plumage of wild birds in their hats. At first the society intended to do its work by persuasive missionary efforts, and along this line to a considerable extent the endeavor has been ever since, but it was soon found that while some people were willing to be guided by pleas of humanity and by stories of the destruction of the growing things because of the rapid increase in insect life, there were others who could not be reached by any except hard handed methods.

So it is that the bird protectors not only have carried on a great work in the education of children and in moral suasion among the elders, but they have taken cases into court and have prosecuted wilful and persistent violators of the law, until today the bird protective laws are as much feared as any other laws on the statute books. There always have been some laws against the wanton killing of useful birds, but until the men and women of the American Ornithologists' union and of the Audubon society went earnestly at their labors the laws were laughed at and violated with impunity and almost always with immunity.

Years ago untold thousands of useful native birds were trapped to be sold as pets in cages. The women of the south complained to the women of the north who were engaged in bird protection work that their mocking birds and red birds (cardinals) were being trapped in multitudes because of the demand by the trade in northern cities for caged songsters. The bird protectors of the north took the matter up and in nearly all places today it is illegal to sell caged wild native American birds.

About fifteen years ago there was a week of zero weather in some of the southern states. The blue bird, which is a northern favorite, does not go far enough south in winter to escape all of the storms of the winter season. The unusual cold of that winter fifteen years ago almost annihilated the tribe of bluebirds. There were only a few left to come back to the northern fields in the spring. The blue bird, however, was protected, and the efficiency of the Audubon society's work was never more clearly shown than in this case. The blue birds today have recruited their ranks under protection and are as numerous as ever they were.

For years the bird protectionists went ahead with their work with the treasury at a low point.

It always had been hoped that some kindly disposed person would realize the strength and beauty of bird protection work and would give of this substance to the cause. The man known as a scientist nor as a bird student. One day, however, Albert Willcox saw a newspaper account of some of the bird protection work done by the national Association of Audubon societies and he wrote a letter asking for more details. He received the information that he wanted and he wrote to say that he was about to make a new will and felt so much pleased with the work of the society that he would give it annually during his lifetime a considerable sum of money to be used in carrying on the work of the association, and that when he died he would give the society a legacy of $100,000 in his will, and, he added, "I may not limit it to this amount."

Albert Willcox died four years ago. He left $100,000 to the Audubon society as he had promised, and in addition he made the society his residuary legatee to the extent of one-half his estate. Today the National Association of Audubon societies, through the generosity of Mr. Willcox, is placed on a sure and lasting foundation. The bird protective work has been going on for a quarter of a century. It had all sorts of trials and tribulations, but today it seems that the friends of the feathered kingdom have triumphed in their cause. The promise is that there will be no cessation of the work which means so much to the bird and more to man.

STRONG DRINK IS RUINOUS

Men Pre-eminent for Intellectual Attainments All On Side of Temperance.

Such brilliant lights as Burns and Poe have been cited to prove that strong drink is an incentive to fire the imagination to lofty heights of fancy impossible to be reached in sober moments.

Both Burns and Poe were victims of the drink habit and both geniuses, but their cases so far from supporting the claim of alcohol to usefulness argues against it.

If Burns and Poe, God-gifted as they were, had kept their faculties clear and their reasons undimmed, what might they not have done? The former might have become the Homer of the Eastern and the latter the Dante of the Western World. As it was, these twin stars of the firmament of literature scintillated fitfully for only a few years. They simply reeled through life until they came to the verge of premature graves and tottered into them ere half their time on earth was spent, writes Madison C. Peters in an exchange.

The age of Johnson may be termed the golden age of English literature. Its sky was studded with brilliancy, but how long did the light last? Men of such transcendant gifts as Goldsmith, Savage and Shenstone did not know the meaning of life. Their brief careers were spent in riotous living.

Charles Lever, prince of Irish novelists, represented the Irish squires and gentlemen as hard-headed, hard-drinking, rollicking fellows, whose chief amusements were fox hunting, love-making, and breaking one another's heads. For the most part this portrayal was true, but there were some notable exceptions to Lever's creations among the gentry of Ireland.

The men who did the most for Ireland, who reflected an undying glory on her cause, were, if not teetotalers, at least temperate. Grattan, Flood, Wolfe, Tone, Fitzgerald and Emmet were temperate. O'Connell seldom drank a glass of wine. The Duke of Wellington was an abstemious man. Parnell in the heyday of his fame could not be induced to touch liquor. His head was always clear in the house, and this was the secret of his political foresight, which enabled him to accomplish so much.

The great leaders of English politics, both in the past and present centuries, have been strictly temperate men. Gladstone only touched light wines on rare occasions. Morley, aBlfour, Spencer, Harcourt, Salisbury, Chamberlain, all early took their places beneath the temperance banner. At royal receptions and ambassadors' balls none of these men could be induced to take liquor in any form.

The well known literary men of England in our time have almost to a man been temperate. Dickens, though he drank a glass of ale betimes, never exceeded discretion. Reade, Besant, Paine, Buchanan, Tennyson and Browning were all on the side of temperance.

The same can be said of the leading statesmen and writers of Germany, France, Italy and other European countries at the present day.

The same is notably true of eminent Americans. Have any of our great inventors been drunkards? They have spent their days and nights in ceaseless activity, perfecting their designs with clear brains and steady hands, only desisting to obey the call of exhausted nature.

Edison, the wizard of electricity, never touches intoxicating liquors. Could the Wrights and Curtiss, Zeppelin and Bleriot have conquered the air with rum-drenched brains and jangling nerves?

Our great scientists and medical men, knowing well the dangers that lurk in the sparkling glass, shun it as they would deadly poison. Kelvin, Crookes, Roentgen and Koch have all been total abstainers.

Drink saps the vital organs and dulls the brain. It has stripped the crown from the brow of manhood and engirdled it with a crimson band of shame; it has plucked the flowers from the garden of success and in their place has strewn the weeds of failure. It has wrenched the sword of victory from the hands of conquerors, turned it into a scourge and driven them from the arena of fame into the darkness of obscurity; from royal brows it has taken imperial crowns and dashed them into fragments on the stone of defeat and ignomy.

The men who made America were, with some notable exceptions, of abstemious habits and austere lives.

Liquor never adds, but always subtracts. So far from being a stimulant, it is an anaesthetic; it deadens instead of quickens. Science has classed it as a sporific or narcotic. Instead of helping man up it drags him down; instead of placing him on the sun-crowned heights of success and honor it places him in the gutter of failure and shame.

A Swedish Temperance Congress.

The summer congress of the Swedish Good Templars was opened at Lesleholm, just recently, by Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, who made an address in which he said that "the nation which frees itself from intemperances and its damaging effects will make the greatest progress."

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

Entered at the Postoffice in Oakland, Md., as Second-class matter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

The Republican is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year.....$1.25
One copy six months.....75
One copy three months.....40

Advertising Rates made known upon Application.

Remittances may be made by Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft and addressed to
THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1910.

DEMOCRATS are as hungry as wolves after a long fast.

IT IS impossible to make football a gentle, ladylike sport.

WOULD the country rather have a suffragist or a socialist in Congress.

THERE was never any call for an investigation of the school system, anyway.

THE indisputable proof that corn is king is the fact that the high prices are bow down to it.

NOVEMBER winds are blowing cold on others besides those who were snowed under on the recent election.

THAT pork is declining in price is by no means to be taken to intimate that fat-frying will be any cheaper than usual.

WHEN Colonel Roosevelt breaks his present silence the country may rest assured it will not be with a dull, sickening thud.

THE more conservative Democrats, wise from experience, fear that proposed conference will be another scrap of Kilkenny cats.

WHEN it comes to the speakership of the House it is to be hoped for the good of the nation that all the Democratic members will not speak at once.

A BIT OF A DITTY ON DEVILS.

Beyond a doubt we are becoming more educated—it has been a long and painful process. An evidence of the changes which have come over us may be found in the statement by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, the authoress, who announces that hell has gone out of fashion.

"The people who believe in hell do not belong to this age," she is quoted as saying. "They don't belong to the time when the people walk on two legs. You get your ideas of a devil from some personal devil you have encountered in your life. Just keep thinking lovely things about your personal devils and things will come out all right. There's a fine power in suggestion."

It is the fashion of some sober-minded editors to hold symposiums at least once a year on the decline of religion and, from the best information we have at hand, they never find the answer. The modern believer is more of a humanitarian than his ancient forbears. He has some idea—and a very strong one, too—of certain good in nature that does not harmonize with the picture of a devil. Mrs. Burnett, with assistance, may succeed in convincing some people that the personal devil is the only devil, and we hope that she spreads the conviction. It's a believable doctrine and it would work for greater kindness in the individual's treatment of his fellow man.

As a matter of fact there are personal devils, and they are to be found on any bright day if the seacher is faithful.

Mr. Laughlin About Well.

Superintendent Hice R. Laughlin, of the B. & O., has about recovered from his recent illness and will be able to return to work again in a few days. He has been off duty for the past 60 days or more, during which time he spent part of his time under medical care in Baltimore, and the rest recuperating at his old home at Deer Park, where he now is. He will likely be able to return to the duties of his office about the latter part of next week. — Grafton Sentinel.

Visits His Former Home.

Mr. Charles A. Miller, of Deer Park, Md., was in town from Saturday to Monday. With the exception of a short visit during Home Coming Week, this is Mr. Miller's first trip to Lonaconing in over eight years. He is a former resident of this place, having left here some twenty years ago. Mr. Miller used to operate a farm on the tract now owned by Mr. Frank Philips. He conducts a large farm at Deer Park and deals in live stock and fodder. His wife was formerly Miss Mary A. Johnson, daughter of the late Thomas E. Johnson. Mrs. Miller being ill, was unable to accompany her husband to Lonaconing.—Lonaconing Advocate.

J. M. DAVIS & SONS.

Church Services.

ST PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 2:15 p. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Epworth League Monday 7:30 p. m.
Prayermeeting Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.
G. R. WILLIAMSON, Pastor.

ST. MARK S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Luther League Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody welcome.
E. MANGES, Pastor.

ST. MATTHEW'S P. E.

Service every Sunday at 11 a. m.
Sunday School at 2:30 p. m.
W. H. SHEARER

MT. LAKE PARK M. E.

Class meeting at 10 a. m.
Preaching at 7.45 p. m.
Sunday school at 2.30 p. m.
Epworth League at 6:45 p. m.
P. Z. MUSGRAVE, Pastor.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Loch Lynn—Preaching at 11 a. m.
Ferndale—Preaching at 3 p. m.
Deer Park—Preaching at 7:30 p. m.
Protracted meeting begins at Ferndale Monday, Nov. 21, at 7.30 p. m.
Everybody invited.
C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

Fattening Turkeys.

Turkeys are being fattened for Thanksgiving, so is the price per pound. Garrett county farmers expect to get seventeen cents per pound in the rough delivered. It is said that there won't be turkeys enough to supply the slot machnies. Over in West Virginia turkeys are selling on the hoof for from seven to ten cents a pound. The farmers say that most of the turkeys are too thin to be marketed for Thanksgiving, but will be heavier by Christmas. So will the price.

Notice of Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between R. T. Miller and W. N. Wilson, doing a general mercantile business at Mountain Lake Park, was mutually dissolved on September 22, 1910, said Wilson by by the terms of the article of dissolution to assume all indebtedness of the firm and to receive all credits due said firm.

R. T. MILLER,
W. N. WILSON.

Subscribe for The Republican.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

We are having splendid winter weather with the ground covered with snow and the thermometer ranging near thirty degrees.

An oyster supper for the benefit of the M. E. charch will be given Thanksgiving eve, in the dining room of the Columbian Hotel. The ladies of the congregation will have charge and make an enjoyable evening for all who attend. Proceeds for a good cause.

Our cottage owners in their winter homes may be at ease with reference to their cottages and contents here, as our policeman, Mr. Adam Long, makes frequent and careful inspection of all vacant cottages.

Mrs. Jas. H. Jarboe, who has spent several months with relatives and friends in Ohio and West Virginia returned to Loch Lynn where she will likely remain during the winter.

Street Supervisor Cuppett has been engaged for some time in completing the sewer system in the northeastern section of the Park.

A large chandelier and a number of handsome lamps used in the M. E. church previous to the introduction of natural gas, will be sold at half price. Inquire of the pastor or Cuppett, Leighton & Co.

Mrs. H. E. Felty and daughter are in their cottage here after an extended visit to Baltimore.

Mrs. H. B. Lewis and children returned to their home in the Columbian Hotel after a long visit to relatives and friends in West Virginia.

Miss Elizabeth Chance, who has been spending several months with relatives in New Jersey, returned to her home here yesterday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Warren Rathbun, of Loch Lynn, a few days ago, a boy. Mother and child doing well and father able to be out.

Preaching in M. E. church Sunday evening at 7.45 o'clock.

BITTINGER.

This section was swept by a severe snow storm last week, which is being followed by another this week and the roads are already badly drifted and all things have the appearance of winter.

Charles Ralston returned his home at Keyser, W. Va., last Sunday after spending a few days among his old friends and acquaintances here.

C. E. Ellithorp and F. M. Bittinger attended the sale of the personal property of the late Columbus Shaw, at Salisbury, Pa., last week.

Elmer Trump, Jennings Bros. woods foreman, moved his family to this place last week.

George Reckner, of North Glade, was a very pleasant caller at this place last week.

G. W. Engle returned to his home in Baltimore last Friday, after spending a few days with his parents at this place.

Ralph Wiley had his leg accidentally broken last Monday while on his way to his home at New Germany. The accident occurred when Mr. Wiley was dismounting from his horse.

Mrs. Joel Orendorf is reported on the sick list this week.

HAUSER.

There is too much sadness for a lengthy dissertation of news. Ears heard of nothing but Democratic crowing. Eyes have scanned several different papers in vain seeking consolation. But also it is history, and all we can say is like the Democrats did in 1904 in regarded to Missouri "You can't do it again."

The voters of Hauser were the stay-at-home variety. Sixteen staying at home and fourteen voting and two not registered.

Miss Myrtle Lathrum visited relatives south of Aurora two days last week.

Mr. Floyd Artis was visiting a friend in Clarksburg, W. Va., last week, or so it has been reported to Ears.

C. E. Sherman, whose right leg was broken just above the ankle, is progressing very nicely at present writing.

The little baby of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Roth has been suffering with a severe attack of tonsilitis.

Miss Merle Fowler, who is teaching the Silver Knobb school visited home folks last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Robert Lathrum went to Dobbin last Monday to work for the lumber company at that please.

Mr. John Stemple, of Stemple Ridge, was buying up all the stray hogs of this neighborhood last week.

Now that election is over and snow has fallen the other correspondents over the county will awake and while away at least a few minutes each day.

EYES AND EARS.

STOYER.

We are having very cold weather. Been snowing for the last three days.

Butchering seems to be the order of the day.

Quite a forest fire was started on last Wednesday near our town from a spark from a passing locomotive. Our deputy forest warden called out a number men to extinguish the fire. It did much damage to young growth and merchantable timber.

We hope the time is near at hand when the railroad company will be made to pay all damages for setting out fire.

The mines here are doing a hustling business, putting out 75 tons of coal a day. They expect to work a hundred men in the near future. The coal being of excellent steam quality finds ready market.

Mr. C. E. Shillingburg made a business call at W. T. Steyer's last Saturday.

Miss Bessie Steyer, who has been visiting relatives in Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, has returned home.

Mr. W. H. H. Hasber is visiting Captain White.

Mr. I. N. Shillingburg's little son, who has been ill with diphtheria, is better.

Mrs. Christopher and daughter were visiting at Thomas last Sunday.

Our school is progressing very nicely under management of Miss Odessa Harvey.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank
Of Allegany County.
Stands First among the State Banks of Maryland

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and open an account with us.

JAMES M. SLOAN, President. DUNCAN R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

Capital - $50,000
DEPOSITS, - $175,000

The First National Bank
Friendsville, Md.

Surplus Fund, . $26,000
Undivided Profits 6,000

OFFICERS:
L. E. FRIEND, President,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Vice-Pres't
R. C. McCANDLISH, Vice-Pres't
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier

DIRECTORS:
L. E. FRIEND, Merchant,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Lumber and Coal
W. W. SAVAGE, Merchant,
D. S. CUSTER, Merchant,
H. M. RUMBAUGH, Farmer,
W. H. H. FRIEND, Pension Agent and Surveyor,
HORACE R. DEWITT, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCANDLISH,
JOHN T. GEARY.

THREE GOOD THINGS TO KEEP: Your Temper, Your Secrets, Your Money

Your money kept with us will earn you 4 Per Cent. Interest compounded semi-annually. Keep it here and after while it will keep you.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank
Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays. 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.
C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. EDW. WINTERS, - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.
C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
W. A. Hitchens, Frank Watts,
W. E. Stanton.

AMERICAN TELEPHONE & TELEGRAPH CO. LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE BELL SYSTEM AND ASSOCIATED COMPANIES

Mr. Merchant:

Telephone trade is specialized by progressive dealers. Keep your "telephone door" open by sufficient equipment. Call the Business Office.

Bell Telephone

D. P. DAVIS,
Agent,
Keyser, West Va.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Garrett National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Commenced business November 14, 1888.

CAPITAL, ...	$ 50,000
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, .	45,000

OFFICERS:

D. E. OFFUTT, President.
G. S. HAMILL, Vice President.
S. T. JONES, Cashier.
G. A. FRALEY, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Daniel E. Offutt — Gilmor S. Hamill
John M. Davis — George W. Legge
John T. Mitchell — William R. Stull
Scott T. Jones

Interest at the rate of 3% per annum paid on Time Certificates of Deposits and Savings Accounts.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent at reasonable rates.

Thanksgiving post cards 10c dozen at Baumgartner's.

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Davis will go to Baltimore tomorrow where they will spend the winter.

Thanksgiving post cards 10c dozen at Baumgartner's.

Mr. Stephen G. Ashby, who has been residing at Bond for a year or more, has rented property in Oakland and will remove his family here from Bond in a few days.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ravenscroft, of Ridgway, Pa., who is in Oakland on a visit to relatives, was called to Frostburg on Tuesday to attend the funeral of her aunt who died there on Sunday.

Thanksgiving post cards 10 dozen at Baumgardner's.

Among those attending the aviation meet at Halethorpe, was Miss Irene Haulenbeek. She has since returned to her home at Deer Park. She will visit in New York in December.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Offutt, adjoining Oakland, was visited by the stork on Friday evening of last week and a bright little son was left as a memento of this most popular bird's visit.

A sure remedy for that cough: Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound. Only 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

Those who failed to attend "The Missouri Girl," which was presented at the opera house in Oakland Tuesday night, missed probably the best show that has been in Oakland in a number of years. While the audience was a good sized one the attendance could have been much greater.

Mr. J. M. Jarboe, Jr., returned to Oakland from Baltimore on Friday last, after an absence of more than a month during which time he was a patient in Johns Hopkins Hospital where he underwent a painful and severe surgical operation. Mr. Jarboe's many friends will be glad to learn of his return to Oakland and of his restoration to health.

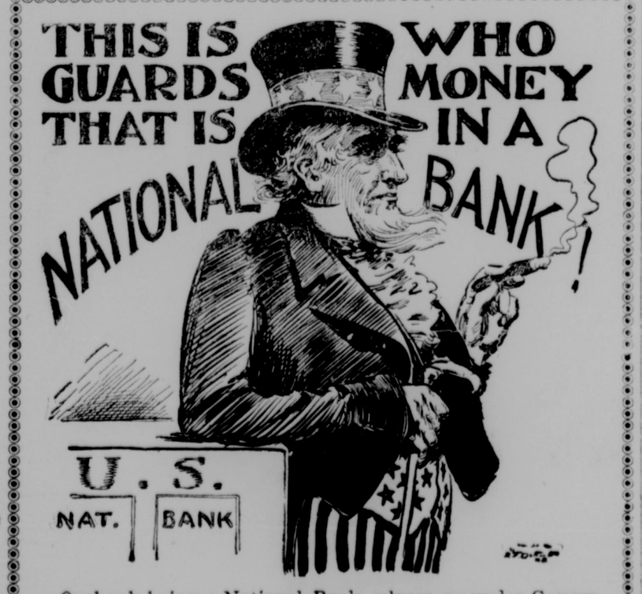
Thanksgiving post cards 10c. dozen at Baumgartner's.

Prof. F. E. Rathbun, superintendent of the Piedmont public schools, who went to Berkeley Springs to attend the Potomac Valley Round Table at that place, was taken ill there last Saturday suffering from as abscess in one of his ears. On Tuesday he was removed to the Allegheny Hospital at Cumberland where he has since been a patient.

Mr. Henry McC. Smouse, who has had charge of the Creutzburg meat market for several months, has rented a room in the Nally building and is having it fitted as a market. He expects to be ready for business at his new location in a few days. Mr. Homer Turney will have charge of the Creutzburg market upon the retirement of Mr. Smouse.

Mr. William Ravenscraft, of Denver, Col., arrived in Oakland yesterday morning and will go from here to Washington, D. C., tonight on business, expecting to return to Oakland on Saturday. On Tuesday morning Mr. Ravenscraft, accompanied by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Ravenscraft, will start for Denver, where the winter will be spent by Dr. and Mrs. Ravenscraft as guests of their son. We trust their journey to the west may be a safe and pleasant one and that they will return to Oakland in the spring in the full enjoyment of health.

What you have been waiting for—For Friday and Saturday your choice of any of our ladies' coats, ranging in price from $5.98 to $28.00 for the small amount of $5.00; no more, no less.
H. C. SINCELL.



Ourbank being a National Bank, places us under Government Supervision, and guarantee safety to every depositor. We refer those who have not dealt with us to those who HAVE.

Make OUR Bank YOUR Bank.

We pay liberal interest consisteet with safety—3 per cent.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OAKLAND, MD.

This is the chief requisite for making Perfect Bake Day Foods

ROYAL Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

The only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar
—Made from Grapes—
No Lime Phosphate No Alum

THE CONVICT'S DAUGHTER.

A Beautifully Costumed Society Comedy Drama

Will be presented at Nally's Empire Theatre, Oakland, Thursday and Friday nights, Nov. 17 and 18, under the auspices and for the benefit of the U. R. K. of P. The entire production will be under the personal stage direction of Mr. Chas. Barton, of New York.

The cast of characters includes Gerald Watson, known as Jerry the Tramp, Chas Barton; Col. Matthew Lee, a Southern Banker, Dr. W. W. Grant; James Blackburn, his nephew, M. Wellington Crane; Jack Worthington, Blackburn's rival, Mark S. White; Mrs. Lee, wife of the Colonel, Miss Sue Littman; Nana, a disputed possession, Miss Lena Birchdorf; Sadie, faithful but free, Miss Edith Ault.

This play has, ever since its first production in 1888, proven one of the most successful dramas ever written. It enjoyed a long run in England, several months of the time in London, and has delighted audiences in New York, Chicago, and in fact all the principal cities in this country. The play is founded on an older piece, "Jocrisse the Juggler," which has been practically obsolete for many years, and it is safe to say that in the whole range of the drama there is no character to be found with such power to compel alternate laughter and tears as is shown by Jerry the Tramp. The dramatic interest is intense, the appeal to the sympathy of the human heart powerful, and the comedy is as refined as it is successful in moving the audience to laughter. The company has been selected for their especial fitness for each particular character. Beautiful costumes, special scenery and electrical effects are both brilliant and appropriate.

Between acts each evening pictures of the beautiful drama of Damon and Pythias will be thrown on the screen.

Prices of admission, reserved seats, 35 and 50 cents; general admission, 25 cents. Tickets on sale at Harned's Drug Store. Doors open at 7.30 Curtain at 8.15—sharp.

Mrs. E. T. Fleming and three children are visiting at Uplands, Deer Park. Mrs. Fleming is the eldest daughter of Mrs. G. W. Haulenbeek. Her husband is now Traffic Manager of Austrian-American Apple Packers Association, with offices at 398 Broadway, New York. Mr. and Mrs. Fleming will reside at Roselie Park, New Jersey.

I have some great bargains in farm and town properties. It will pay you to call and see me before buying. Farms from $600 to $40,000. Town properties from $1,000 to $10,000. One excellent 7 room house, gas and steam heat, desirable location in Oakland; best bargain at $2500.
E. S. WEST,
Real Estate and Insurance.

$20.00, $25.00, $30.00 strictly high grade tailor-made suits from the leading manufacturers, your choice for $15.00; no more, no less. $12.00, $15.00, $18.00, $20.00 tailor-made suits for $10.00. This sale is for Friday and Saturday only and will all be sold during that time. Don't wait and expect to buy them after that time at the price.
H. C. SINCELL.

Total Eclipse of the Moon.

According to the astronomers and those that know all about the movements of heavenly bodies, there was a total eclipse of the moon last night, and the eclipse no doubt occurred, but as far as people in this city were concerned the moon was behind banks of clouds at the time when she was doing the eclipse stunt, and those who had polished up telescopes, opera glasses and spy-glasses had their trouble to no purpose. Gentle Luna didn't keep her engagement here although in some other parts of the country the eclipse was visible, reports of same not being at hand last night.

Yesterday's eclipse was the last eclipse of the moon this year. It was promised that it would be visible throughout the greater part os North America and Canada. If Luna acted up to arrangements, she entered the shadow of the earth promptly at 6 o'clock last evening, the total eclipse beginning an hour later, progressing slowly until about 9 o'clock, at which time the show, for those who saw it, was over.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF
The First Natinal Bank,
AT OAKLAND.

In the State of Maryland, at the close of business, Nov 10, 1910.

RESOURCES.

Loans and Discounts		$205,095 44
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured		420 07
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation		50,000 00
U. S. Bonds to secure U. S. Deposits		1,000 00
Premium on U. S. Bonds		2,500 00
Bonds, Securities, etc		16,124 57
Banking house, Furniture and Fixtures		42,997 19
Other real estate owned		2,500 00
Due from National Banks (not reserve agent)		988 50
Due from State and Private Banks and Bankers		411 86
Due from approved Reserve Agents		31,335 53
Checks and other cash items		237 25
Notes of other National Banks		200 00
Fractional Paper Currency, Nickel and Cents		306 25
Lawful Money Reserve in Bank, viz:
Specie	$17,537 65	17,537 65
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent. of circulation)		2,500 00
Total		$374,164 41

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in	$50,000 00
Surplus fund	25,000 00
Undivided Profits, less expenses and taxes paid	2,595 90
National Bank notes outstanding	49,500 00
Due to other National Banks	3,841 61
Due to State and Private Banks and Bankers	181 38
Dividends unpaid	45 00
Individual deposits subject to check	225,387 84
Time certificates of deposit	16,210 93
Cashier's checks outstanding	401 75
United States deposits	1,000 00
Total	$374,164 41

State of Maryland, County of Garrett.

I, R. E. Sliger, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.
R. E. SLIGER, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of November, 1910.
JAMES P. TREACY, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest: F. A. THAYER,
D. M. DIXON,
E. H. SINCELL,
Directors.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF
The First National Bank
AT FRIENDSVILLE.

In the State of Maryland, at the close of business, Nov. 10, 1910.

RESOURCES.

Loans and Discounts		$138,596 66
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured		479 45
U. S. Bonks to secure circulation		25,000 00
Bonds, Securities, etc		63,997 60
Banking house, Furniture and Fixtures		6,466 01
Due from National Banks (not reserve agents)		6,738 43
Due from State and Private Banks and Bankers		184 65
Due from approved Reserve Agents		19,510 86
Checks and other Cash Items		30 62
Notes of other National Banks		15 00
Fractional Paper Currency, Nickels and Cents		258 89
Lawful Money Reserve in Bank, viz:
Specie	$2,963 50
Legal-tender note	8,130 00	11,093 50
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent of circulation)		1,250 00
Total		$273,621 67

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in	$25,000 00
Surplus fund	26,000 00
Undivided Profits, less expenses and taxes paid	3,791 55
National Bank Notes outstanding	25,000 00
Due to other National Banks	339 19
Individual deposits subject to check	82,619 05
Time certificates of deposits	110,871 88
Total	$273,621 67

State of Maryland, County of Garrett.

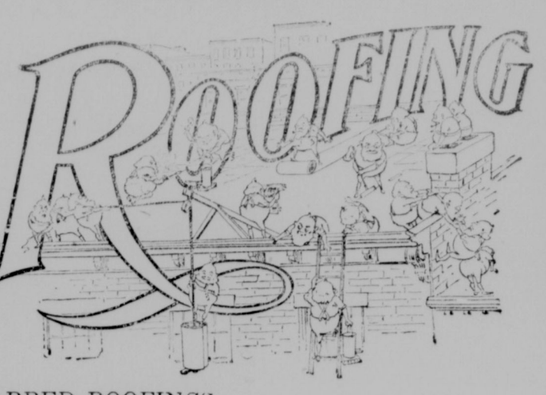
I, Orval A. Welch, Cashier of the above bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of November, 1910.
R. M. HOLMAN, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest: L. E. FRIEND,
WM. H. H. FRIEND,
W. W. SAVAGE,
Directors.

ESTABLISHED 1884.

Will you allow us to talk "ROOFING" to you. We have kinds and at any price.



TARRED ROOFINGS—
1, 2 and 3 ply.

RUBBER ROOFINGS—
2 and 3 ply, double and single rolls.

AMETITE—
The superior of all Gravel Roofings.

CAREY'S ROOFING, (Best of All)—
Contains a heavy flexible body, a strong Calcutta burlap, woolen felt and other durable materials, all united into an indivisible weather and water proof sheet that lasts the life of the building.

SHEETING PAPER, NAILS AND CAPS.

Yours to please,

A. D. NAYLOR & CO.

PRICES RIGHT. BOTH PHONES

H. CREUTZBURG.

SEE MY FALL LINE OF

Dress Goods, Outing Flannels, Etc.

Ladies', Children's, Men's and Boys' Shoes.

Rain Coats for Ladies and Children. Rubber Boots & Shoes.

Full Line of MEN'S AND BOYS CLOTHING.

See my Special Pure Wool $10.00 Black Thibet Suits for Men

Boys Suits $2.50 and up.

Hand-Made Wisconsin Shoes for Men and Boys.

Full Line Groceries.

Meat Market in Connection,

ALL AT THE RIGHT PRICE.

H. CREUTZBURG, Opp. P. O., Oakland, Md.

Pay Market Price for Produce.

Thanksgiving

POULTRY

Chickens, Ducks, Turkeys, the highest market prices paid.

Delivery not later than Tuesday, the 22nd inst.

BOLDEN, BROWN & WEIMER.

THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT 1908 BY DODD, MEAD & CO.

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Innes, spinster and guardian of Gertrude and Halsey, established summer headquarters at Sunnyside. Arnold Armstrong was found shot to death in the hall. Gertrude and her fiance, Jack Bailey, had conversed in the billiard room shortly before the murder. Detective Jamieson accused Miss Innes of holding back evidence. Cashier Bailey of Paul Armstrong's bank, defunct, was arrested for embezzlement. Paul Armstrong's death was announced. Halsey's fiancee, Louise Armstrong, told Halsey that while she still loved him, she was to marry another. It developed that Dr. Walker was the man. Louise was found unconscious at the bottom of the circular staircase. She said something had brushed by her in the dark on the stairway and she fainted. Bailey is suspected of Armstrong's murder. Thomas, the lodgekeeper, was found dead with a note in his pocket bearing the name "Lucien Wallace." A ladder found out of place deepens the mystery. The stables were burned, and in the dark Miss Innes shot an intruder. Halsey mysteriously disappeared. His auto was found wrecked by a freight train. It developed Halsey had an argument in the library with a woman before his disappearance. New cook disappears. Miss Innes learned Halsey was alive. Dr. Walker's face becomes livid at mention of the name of Nina Carrington. Evidence was secured from a tramp that a man, supposedly Halsey, had been bound and gagged and thrown into an empty box car. Gertrude was missing. Hunting for her, Miss Innes ran into a man and fainted. A confederate of Dr. Walker confessed his part in the mystery. He stated that the Carrington woman had been killed, that Walker feared her, and that he believed that Paul Armstrong had been killed by a hand guided by Walker. Halsey was found in a distant hospital. Paul Armstrong was not dead.

"I Heard a Sad and Pitiful Narrative."

CHAPTER XXXI.—Continued.

The slip had said "chimney." It was the only clue, and a house as large as Sunnyside was full of them. There was an open fireplace in my dressing room, but none in the bedroom, and as I lay there, looking around, I thought of something that made me sit up suddenly. The trunkroom, just over my head, had an open fireplace and a brick chimney, and yet there was nothing of the kind in my room. I got out of bed and examined the opposite wall closely. There was apparently no flue, and I knew there was none in the hall just beneath. The house was heated by steam, as I have said before. In the living room was a huge open fireplace, but it was on the other side.

Why did the trunkroom have both a radiator and an open fireplace? Architects were not usually erratic. It was not 15 minutes before I was upstairs, armed with a tape-measure in lieu of a foot-rule, eager to justify Mr. Jamieson's opinion of my intelligence, and firmly resolved not to tell him of my suspicion until I had more than theory to go on. The hole in the trunkroom wall still yawned there, between the chimney and the outer wall. I examined it again, with no new result. The space between the brick wall and the plaster and lath one, however, had a new significance. The hole showed only one side of the chimney, and I determined to investigate what lay in the space on the other side of the mantel.

I had a blister on my palm when at last the hatchet went through and fell with what sounded like the report of a gun to my overstrained nerves. I sat on a trunk, waiting to hear Liddy fly up the stairs, with the household behind her, like the tail of a comet. But nothing happened, and with a growing feeling of uncanniness I set to work enlarging the opening.

The result was absolutely nil. When I could hold a lighted candle in the opening I saw precisely what I had seen on the other side of the chimney—a space between the true wall and the false one, possibly seven feet long and about three feet wide. It was in no sense of the word a secret chamber, and it was evident it had not been disturbed since the house was built. It was a supreme disappointment.

It had been Mr. Jamieson's idea that the hidden room, if there was one, would be found somewhere near the circular staircase. In fact, I knew that he had once investigated the entire length of the clothes chute, hanging to a rope, with this in view. I was reluctantly about to concede that he had been right, when my eyes fell on the mantel and fireplace. The latter had evidently never been used; it was closed with a metal fire front, and only when the front refused to move, and investigation showed that it was not intended to be moved, did my spirits revive.

I hurried into the next room. Yes, sure enough, there was a similar mantel and fireplace there, similarly closed. In both rooms the chimney flue extended well out from the wall. I measured with the tape-line, my hands trembling so that I could scarcely hold it. They extended two feet and a half into each room, which with the three feet of space between the two partitions, made eight feet to be accounted for. Eight feet in one direction and almost seven in the other—what a chimney it was!

But I had only located the hidden room. I was not in it, and no amount of pressing on the carving of the wooden mantels, no search of the floors for loose boards, none of the customary methods availed at all. That there was a means of entrance, and probably a simple one, I could be certain. But what? What would I find if I did get in? Was the detective right, and were the bonds and money from the Traders' bank there? Or was our whole theory wrong? Would not Paul Armstrong have taken his booty with him? If he had not, and if Dr. Walker was in the secret, he would have known how to enter the chimney room. Then—who had dug the other hole in the false partition?

CHAPTER XXXII.

Anne Watson's Story.

Liddy discovered the fresh break in the trunkroom wall while we were at luncheon, and ran shrieking down the stairs. She mantained that, as she entered, unseen hands had been digging at the plaster; that they had stopped when she went in, and she had felt a gust of cold damp air. In support of her story she carried in my wet and muddy boots, that I had unluckily forgotten to hide, and held them out to the detective and myself.

"What did I tell you?" she said dramatically. "Look at 'em. They're yours, Miss Rachel—and covered with mud and soaked to the tops. I tell you, you can scoff all you like; something has been wearing your shoes. As sure as you sit there, there's the smell of the graveyard on them. How do we know they weren't tramping through the Casanova churchyard last night, and sitting on the graves!"

Mr. Jamieson almost choked to death. "I wouldn't be at all surprised if they were doing that very thing, Liddy," he said, when he got his breath. "They certainly look like it."

I think the detective had a plan on which he was working, but which was meant to be a coup. But things went so fast there was no time to carry it into effect. The first thing that occurred was a message from the Charity hospital that Mrs. Watson was dying and had asked for me. I did not care much about going. There is a sort of melancholy pleasure to be had out of a funeral, with its pomp and ceremony, but I shrank from a death-bed. However, Liddy got out the black things and the crepe veil I keep for such occasions, and I went. I left Mr. Jamieson and the day detective going over every inch of the circular staircase, pounding, probing and measuring. I was inwardly elated to think of the surprise I was going to give them that night; as it turned out, I did surprise them—almost into spasms.

I drove from the train to the Charity hospital, and was at once taken to a ward. There, in a gray-walled room in a high iron bed, lay Mrs. Watson. She was very weak, and she only opened her eyes and looked at me when I sat down beside her. I was conscience-stricken. We had been so engrossed that I had left this poor creature to die without even a word of sympathy.

The nurse gave her a stimulant, and in a little while she was able to talk. So broken and half-coherent, however, was her story that I shall tell it in my own way. In an hour from the time I entered the Charity hospital I had heard a sad and pitiful narrative, and had seen a woman slip into the unconsciousness that is only a step from death.

Briefly, then, the housekeeper's story was this:

She was almost 40 years old, and had been the sister-mother of a large family of children. One by one they had died, and been buried beside their parents in a little town in the middle west. There was only one sister left, the baby, Lucy. On her the older girl had lavished all the love of an impulsive and emotional nature. When Anne, the elder, was 32 and Lucy 19, a young man had come to the town. He was going east, after spending the summer at a celebrated ranch in Wyoming—one of those places where wealthy men send worthless and dissipated sons for a season of temperance, fresh air and hunting. The sisters, of course, knew nothing of this, and the young man's ardor rather carried them away. In a word, seven years before, Lucy Haswell had married a young man whose name was given as Aubrey Wallace.

Anne Haswell had married a carpenter in her native town and was a widow. For three months everything went fairly well. Aubrey took his bride to Chicago, where they lived at a hotel. Perhaps the very unsophistication that had charmed him in Valley Mill jarred on him in the city. He had been far from a model husband, even for the three months, and when he disappeared Anne was almost thankful. It was different with the young wife, however. She drooped and fretted, and on the birth of her baby boy she had died. Anne took the child and named him Lucien.

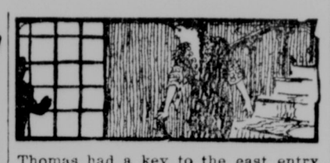
Anne had had no children of her own, and on Lucien she had lavished all her aborted maternal instinct. On one thing she was determined, however: That was that Aubrey Wallace should educate his boy. It was a part of her devotion to the child that she should be ambitious for him; he must have every opportunity. And so she came east. She drifted around, doing plain sewing and keeping a home somewhere always for the boy. Finally, however, she realized that her only training had been domestic, and she put the boy in an Episcopalian home, and secured the position of housekeeper to the Armstrongs. There she found Lucien's father, this time under his own name. It was Arnold Armstrong.

I gathered that there was no particular enmity at that time in Anne's mind. She told him of the boy, and threatened exposure if he did not provide for him. Indeed, for a time, he did so. Then he realized that Lucien was the ruling passion in this lonely woman's life. He found out where the child was hidden, and threatened to take him away. Anne was frantic. The positions became reversed. Where Arnold had given money for Lucien's support, as the years went on he forced money from Anne Watson instead until she was always penniless. The lower Arnold sank in the scale, the heavier his demands became. With the rupture between him and his family things were worse. Anne took the child from the home and hid him in a farmhouse near Casanova, on the Claysburg road. There she went sometimes to see the boy, and there he had taken fever. The people were Germans, and he called the farmer's wife grossmutter. He had grown into a beautiful boy, and he was all Anne had to live for.

The Armstrongs left for California, and Arnold's persecutions began anew. He was furious over the child's disappearance and she was afraid he would do her some hurt. She left the big house and went down to the lodge. When I had rented Sunnyside, however, she had thought the persecutions would stop. She had applied for the position of housekeeper and secured it.

That had been on Saturday. That night Louise arrived unexpectedly. Thomas sent for Mrs. Watson and then went for Arnold Armstrong at the Greenwood club. Anne had been fond of Louise—she reminded her of Lucy. She did not know what the trouble was, but Louise had been in a state of terrible excitement. Mrs. Watson tried to hide from Arnold, but he was ugly. He left the lodge and went up to the house about 2:30, was admitted at the east entrance and came out again very soon. Something had occurred, she didn't know what; but very soon Mr. Innes and another gentleman left, using the car.

Thomas and she had got Louise quiet, and a little before three Mrs. Watson started up to the house.



Thomas had a key to the east entry, and gave it to her.

On the way across the lawn she was confronted by Arnold, who for some reason was determined to get into the house. He had a golf-stick in his hand, that he had picked up somewhere, and on her refusal he had struck her with it. One hand had been badly cut, and it was that, poisoning having set in, which was killing her. She broke away in a frenzy of rage and fear, and got into the house while Gertrude and Jack Bailey were at the front door. She went upstairs, hardly knowing what she was doing. Gertrude's door was open, and Halsey's revolver lay there on the bed. She picked it up and turning ran part way down the circular staircase. She could hear Arnold fumbling at the lock outside. She slipped down quietly and opened the door; he was inside before she had got back to the stairs. It was quite dark, but she could see his white shirt-bosom. From the fourth step she fired. As he fell somebody in the billiard room screamed and ran. When the alarm was raised, she had had no time to get upstairs; she hid in the west wing until every one was down on the lower floor. Then she slipped upstairs and threw the revolver out of an upper window, going down again in time to admit the men from the Greenwood club.

If Thomas had suspected, he had never told. When she found the hand Arnold had injured was growing worse, she gave the address of Lucien at Richfield to the old man and almost $100. The money was for Lucien's board until she recovered. She had sent for me to ask me if I would try to interest the Armstrongs in the child. When she found herself growing worse she had written to Mrs. Armstrong, telling her nothing but that Arnold's legitimate child was at Richfield, and imploring her to recognize him. She was dying; the boy was an Armstrong, and entitled to his father's share of the estate. The papers were in her trunk at Sunnyside, with letters from the dead man that would prove what she said. It was she who had crept down the circular staircase, drawn by a magnet, that night Mr. Jamieson had heard some one there. Pursued, she had fled madly, anywhere—through the first door she came to. She had fallen down the clothes chute, and been saved by the basket beneath. I could have cried with relief; then it had not been Gertrude, after all!

That was the story. Sad and tragic though it was, the very telling of it seemed to relieve the dying woman. She did not know that Thomas was dead, and I did not tell her. I promised to look after little Lucien, and sat with her until the intervals of consciousness grew shorter and finally ceased altogether. She died that night.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Ways to Keep Neat.

"My children were becoming dreadfully careless about leaving their things around," said an original mother, "and the older members of the family weren't any too tidy. So I made up my mind that I wasn't going to be a 'pick-up' drudge for the rest of the household. I set up a big fine box, a box with an oblong hole in the top, into which I put every single thing—hat, coat, toy, pipe, no matter what—that I found lying around in the way. And to get his or her property the owner had to pay a penny—if it was one of the children; ten cents in case of the older ones. As the children have only an allowance of ten cents a week each, they didn't naturally want to pay it out in fines; so they began to be careful. Gradually the whole family mended their ways, and now my fine box is generally empty, and the house is as tidy as you please."

Cheering Her Up.

Islington, which is no longer rural, was once so esteemed by medical men that they sent their patients there after severe illness. Many also went there in the last stages in the forlorn hope that the invigorating air might restore them to health. A story related by Dr. Abernethy turns on the latter class of visitors. One of his patients engaged some rooms in Islington, and casually remarked to the landlady that the banisters on the staircase were very much broken. "Lor' bless you, mam," said the landlady, "it's no use to mend them, for they always get broken when the undertaker's men bring the coffins downstairs."—London Chronicle.

Intelligence in the Kitchen.

The higher the intelligence and the broader the education of the woman in the kitchen, the greater the pleasure and satisfaction in household duties.

The woman who cooks intelligently is commanding great and mysterious forces of nature. She is an alchemist behind an apron. At her command food constituents that are indigestible, unpalatable and even poisonous, are subjected to chemical changes that render them an epicurean delight. The woman of real intelligence and powers of imagination finds in her well ordered kitchen a source of deep and enduring interest and pleasure.

NOT A PENNY TO PAY

MUNYON'S

EMINENT DOCTORS AT YOUR SERVICE FREE

We sweep away all doctor's charges. We put the best medical talent within everybody's reach. We encourage everyone who ails or thinks he ails to find out exactly what his state of health is. You can get our remedies here, at your drug store, or not at all, as you prefer; there is positively no charge for examination. Professor Munyon has prepared specifics for nearly every disease, which are sent prepaid on receipt of price, and sold by all druggists.

Send to-day for a copy of our medical examination blank and Guide to Health, which we will mail you promptly, and if you will answer all the questions, returning blank to us, our doctors will carefully diagnose your case and advise you fully, without a penny charge.

Address Munyon's Doctors, Munyon's Laboratories, 53d & Jefferson Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

His Luck.

"I know a man who is always up against it."

"Who is he?"

"The paper hanger when he has to fix a new wall."

AWFUL BURNING ITCH CURED IN A DAY

"In the middle of the night of March 30th I woke up with a burning itch in my two hands and I felt as if I could pull them apart. In the morning the itching had gone to my chest and during that day it spread all over my body. I was red and raw from the top of my head to the soles of my feet and I was in continual agony from the itching. I could neither lie down nor sit up. I happened to see about Cuticura Remedies, and I thought I would give them a trial. I took a good bath with the Cuticura Soap and used the Cuticura Ointment. I put it on from my head down to my feet and then went to bed. On the first of April I felt like a new man. The itching was almost gone. I continued with the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and during that day the itching completely left me. Frank Gridley, 325 East 43rd Street, New York City, Apr. 27, 1909." Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the world; Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props, Boston, Mass.

The Key to Germany.

Capt. Charles King, the author, praised, at the Milwaukee club, the German element in Milwaukee's population.

"I know a soldier," said Capt. King, "who met the kaiser last year in Berlin.

"'You have a thorough knowledge of our best thought and customs,' said the kaiser. 'Have you ever been to Germany before?'

"'O, yes, sir,' said the soldier.

"'What cities have you visited? Berlin and Hamburg?' asked the kaiser.

"'No, sir,' said the soldier. 'Milwaukee.'"

What About Him?

The talk had gone back and fro, and the youthful socialist had been announcing that no man ought to get his living by cheating, and we all listened to him, and agreed that it was dreadful when men and women did not tell the truth, but tried to make their living by deceiving people. Millionaires, landowners, financiers, we scarified all of them who cheat the public. "No one should make a living by deception," said the young man. Then a quiet voice from a woman came from the corner of the sofa. "What about the conjurer?"—London Chronicle.

Laying the Foundation.

"Why are you always so careful to ask advice about what you are going to do?"

"So that if things go wrong I can say 'I told you so.'"

THE FIRST TASTE

Learned to Drink Coffee When a Baby.

If parents realized the fact that coffee contains a drug—caffeine—which is especially harmful to children, they would doubtless hesitate before giving the babies coffee to drink.

"When I was a child in my mother's arms and first began to nibble things at the table, mother used to give me sips of coffee. As my parents used coffee exclusively at meals I never knew there was anything to drink but coffee and water.

"And so I contracted the coffee habit early. I remember when quite young the continual use of coffee so affected my parents that they tried roasting wheat and barley, then ground it in the coffee-mill, as a substitute for coffee.

"But it did not taste right and they went back to coffee again. That was long before Postum was ever heard of. I continued to use coffee until I was 27, and when I got into office work, I began to have nervous spells. Especially after breakfast I was so nervous I could scarcely attend to my correspondence.

"At night, after having coffee for supper, I could hardly sleep, and on rising in the morning would feel weak and nervous.

"A friend persuaded me to try Postum. My wife and I did not like it at first, but later when boiled good and strong it was fine. Now we would not give up Postum for the best coffee we ever tasted.

"I can now get good sleep, am free from nervousness and headaches. I recommend Postum to all coffee drinkers."

Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

"There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Don't Persecute your Bowels

Cut out cathartics and purgatives. They are harsh—unnecessary. Try

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

Purely vegetable. Act gently on the liver, eliminate bile, and soothe the delicate membrane of the bowel. Cure Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache and Indigestion, as millions know.

Small Pill, Small Dose, Small Price

Genuine must bear Signature

Breathood

2 CRUISES AROUND THE WORLD

TWO GRAND CRUISES of about three and one-half months' duration each. The first to leave New York Nov. 1, 1911, and the second from San Francisco Feb. 17, 1912, by the large transatlantic steamer

"Cleveland" Rates From $650 Up

Including All Expenses

Also Cruises to the WEST INDIES, the ORIENT and SOUTH AMERICA

Write for Illustrated Booklets

HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE, 41-45 Broadway, New York. P. O. Box 1767

LIVE STOCK AND MISCELLANEOUS

Electrotypes

IN GREAT VARIETY FOR SALE AT THE LOWEST PRICES BY

WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION 521-531 W. Adams St., Chicago

Insomnia

"I have been using Cascarets for Insomnia, with which I have been afflicted for twenty years, and I can say that Cascarets have given me more relief than any other remedy I have ever tried. I shall certainly recommend them to my friends as being all that they are represented."

Thos. Gillard, Elgin, Ill.

Pleasant. Palatable. Potent. Taste Good. Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back. 924

ASTHMA CURED TO STAY CURED

No relapse. No return of choking spells or other asthmatic symptoms. Whetzel system of treatment approved by best U. S. medical authorities as the only system known to permanently cure the disease. FREE TEST TREATMENT including medicines, prepared for any one giving a full description of the case and sending names of 2 asthmatic sufferers. Address FRANK WHETZEL, M.D. Dept. Z, American Express Building, Chicago.

SALESMEN WANTED

To take orders for high grade, fully guaranteed nursery stock. Complete outfit free. Apply at once for terms. THE CHASE NURSERIES CO., Geneva, N.Y.

ROOSEVELT'S OWN BOOK

"African Game Trails"

Wanted! by thousands for Christmas and New Years. Needed! A man in every place to take it to the families in his locality. Offered! Monopoly of field and high Commission. Take the great chance and write for prospectus now to CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS, 153 (R. S.) Fifth Avenue, New York.

Good Fellowship

occasionally leads to over-indulgence in the good things of the table. Be good to your stomach. Right it at once with

Beecham's Pills

Sold Everywhere. In boxes 10c. and 25c.

PATENT your ideas. 64-page book and Advice FREE. Established 1869. Fitzgerald & Co. Box B, Washington, D. C.

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

PATENT your invention. Free booklet. Liberal Terms. Consult us. MILO B. STEVENS & CO., Estab. 1864. 855 14th St., Washington; 260 Dearborn St., Chicago.

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 45–1910.

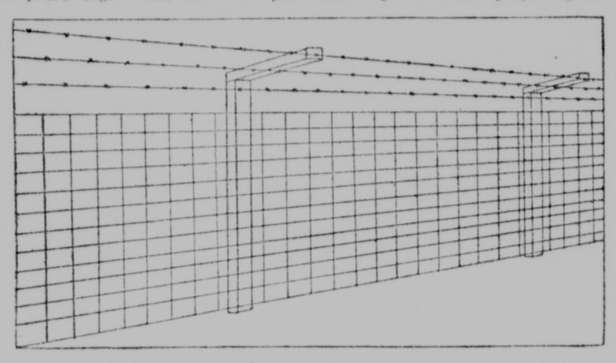
TAKE A DOSE OF PISO'S THE BEST MEDICINE for COUGHS & COLDS

FENCE PREVENTS WOLVES FROM DEVOURING SHEEP

Best Protection Against Destructive Beasts Is Woven Wire Fence With Barb Wire Stretched Across the Top.

In answering a query as to the best method of preventing wolves from destroying a sheep flock, the Wisconsin Agriculturist publishes the following:

Many bells on a flock of sheep will no doubt do good service toward keeping wolves off though they would not be proof against attacks from the bolder animals. A few well trained shepherd dogs would serve the purpose better and would make very serviceable animals in other respects in helping to attend to large flocks. The best protection against wolves for the flocks, however, would be wolf-tight woven wire fence, with barb wires stretched at the top so as to prevent the wolves from getting over and into the sheep pastures. Such a fence must also be built close to the ground to present the wolves from digging their way through underneath. A barb wire stretched tightly along the ground line will be very serviceable in this respect. The woven wire fence should be at least as high as any farm fence ordinarily in use is, and pieces of 2x4's should be nailed or spiked to the tops of all the posts projecting outward from the field enclosed for sheep pasture at an angle of 45 degrees to the upper parts of the posts. The pieces of 2x4's should be 18 to 20 inches long and to them the barb wires should be stapled. The fence thus made will prevent the wolves from getting over as they cannot get over the projecting barb wire arrangement even though they manage to get up the woven wire to its top. The accompanying illustration shows clearly how the fence is built. Such a fence is of service to any sheep farmer who wishes an efficient means of protecting his flock against sheep-killing dogs as well as against wolves.



Wolf and Dog Proof Fence for Sheep.

High Prices for Horses.

We may well doubt the prediction that the automobile will soon put the horse out of business and reports from every section of the west show that well-bred animals are selling at $350 to $500 per pair.

COMFORT FOR FARM STOCK

Should Be Fed at Regular Times and Never Roughly Handled by Being Chased by Dog or Left in Cold.

(By A. D. WILSON, University Farm, St. Paul, Minn.)

One of our good dairy farmers, living in Carlton county, who is also a Farmers' Institute lecturer, Mr. F. B. McLeran, in talking on "Care of Dairy Cattle," always emphasizes the importance of making the stock comfortable. He says that if they are made uncomfortable by being fed at irregular times, so that they spend a great deal of their time expecting to be fed, the discomfort shows in lower production. If they are made uncomfortable by having a poor bed, by being roughly handled, by having a dog set on them, or by being left out in the cold or allowed to go thirsty, these conditions result in decreased production. He emphasizes the fact that one of the great advantages of weighing the milk every day, from each cow, is that it gives one a quick check on any condition that brings about discomfort to his animals. If any cow shows a dropping off of her milk flow, as a rule a little observation will show that she has been made uncomfortable in some of the ways mentioned above; and, knowing these facts, the farmer is able to check these unfavorable conditions quickly.

One of the points that Mr. McLeran especially emphasizes is the importance of not allowing the cows to stay out in the winter when they are uncomfortable. He states that a good way to determine this is to take off your coat and go out in the yard with the cows, stand around and act just as the cows do. When you begin to feel uncomfortable and feel like going into the house, put the cows in the barn.

Autos on the Farm.

Some people have an idea that the farmer will not be able to properly care for his machine, but my experience has been that the farmers who have called for licenses have been fully conversant with the workings of their machines—in fact, many farmers are better informed on mechanics, gasoline engines and the like than the average city man who applies for a license. There is another view held by many city people which is wrong, and that is that the farmer will be content with a small horsepower motor car, says a writer in Baltimore American. As a matter of fact, when a farmer gets a car he wants it so constructed that he can use it for pleasure and for business, and that is the reason that they generally want their cars to have 40 horsepower or better. Time and help are the two things now at a premium on the Ohio farm, and, as an auto saves both, there is an increasing interest in the subject I feel certain that the present fall and spring will be by far the best selling time for farm autos ever seen.

HOW ENGLISH RUN DAIRIES

Cows Are Not Soiled to Any Great Extent but Pasture Is Depended Upon for Entire Summer Feed.

In England cows are not soiled to any great extent but pasture is depended upon for the entire summer feed. They say over there that it takes two acres to keep a cow going as she should.

Early in August the cows are turned on the aftermath of the meadows and later changed back and forth between the pastures and the meadow.

When taken off the pastures in late summer the cows are fed a little cotton seed cake but they do not get much grain at any time.

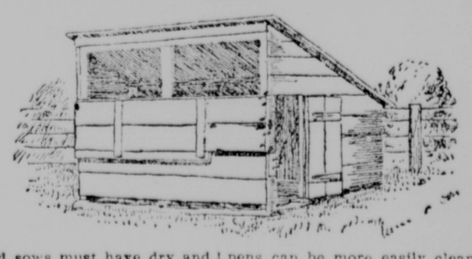
In the winter they are fed roots—40 to 70 pounds per day, about 15 pounds of straw, half as much hay and about eight pounds of meal and oil cake mixed.

The barn yards are paved with cobble stones to keep the cows out of the mud and the manure is saved under sheds. Not a thing is wasted.

There are very few creameries in England and the butter on the market is all farm butter but it is of fine quality, generally a great deal better than our farmers make.

The prices for milk for the year averages about $1.50 per 100 pounds, after the freight is paid.

COMFORTABLE FARROWING PEN



The brood sows must have dry and reasonably warm quarters. The accompanying illustration gives us a fairly good idea of one style of a litter pen. It is roomy and its long panel doors when opened admit of plenty of light and air. This style of a pen is handier for the attendant than are the triangular shaped sheds. These pens can be more easily cleaned and bedded.

Many Goats in Country.

It is estimated that there are over 2,000,000 goats in this country and all are practically free from tuberculosis. Thousands of them are milk goats and are used regularly for this purpose.

BABY'S TENDER SKIN

Chafed, Sore and Bleeding Quickly Cured

Mrs. J. F. Deal, Kansas City, Kans., writes:

"I cannot speak too highly of Resinol. When our baby was four months old she was so fat that she chafed in the creases of her legs and body. She was so sore and inflamed that she bled, and was fretting and crying almost constantly. Resinol Ointment was recommended to us. We had tried everything that could be thought of without success, but Resinol cured her in a very short time. We consider it the best household remedy for irritating skin troubles and would not be without it. We are also greatly pleased with Resinol Soap. It is so delightfully refreshing for the bath."

Resinol Ointment, Resinol Toilet Soap and Resinol Medicated Shaving Stick are high grade standard preparations, and their merit and reliability have won them a place in millions of homes. They are for sale at every drug store on the American Continent and by all leading chemists in other countries.

Write for booklet on Care of the Skin and Complexion. Booklet and sample sent free to anyone mentioning this paper. Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

All About It.

To appreciate fully this scrap of dialogue, quoted from London Punch, one should see the two odd characters engaged in it. Apparently they parted satisfied, one that he had imparted some real information, the other that he had received some. Said one man:

"D'you recollec' old wot's-'is-name?"

"'Im with the collar?"

"Ay-e!"

"Wot ababt 'im?"

"'E'ad to go down"—jerk of the head—"you know—they give 'im wot you call it—didn't arf git it, I don't think!"

"Reely!"

"'Adn't you 'eard, then?"

"I did 'ear somefink, but no details, not afore now."—Youth's Companion.

Not Easy.

Pat was a married man—a very much married man. He had married no fewer than four times, and all his wives were still in the fore. According to Pat's own account before the court where he was tried for bigamy and found guilty, his experiences were not altogether satisfactory. The judge, in passing sentence, expressed his wonder that the prisoner could be such a hardened villain as to delude so many women.

"Yer honor," said Pat, apologetically, "I was only tryin' to get a good one, an' it's not aisy!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Deserved the Shoes.

The weary wayfarer leaned over the fence and watched the housewife doing her chores.

"Ah, lady," he said, tipping his hat, "I used to be a professional humorist. If I tell you a funny story will you give me an old pair of shoes?"

"Well, that depends," responded the busy housewife; "you must remember that brevity is the soul of wit."

"Yes, mum, I remember that, and brevity is the sole of each of my shoes, mum."

NATURE'S SIGNALS.

The first indication of kidney disorder is often backache. Then comes pain in the hips and sides, lameness, soreness and urinary troubles. These are the warnings—nature's signals for help. Doan's Kidney Pills should be used at the first sign.

Ira Clark, North Main St., Savanna, Ill., says: "I was confined to bed with kidney trouble and never expected to be up again. A doctor said I had acute inflammation of the bladder, but he could not help me. How grateful was I for the prompt relief Doan's Kidney Pills gave me! Continued use removed every sign of kidney trouble."

Remember the name—Doan's.

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

An Endless Job.

"I'll bet I could keep a fairy godmother busy."

"As to how?"

"I'd have her look after my touring car."

Getting a Reputation.

There is a desk in the senate particularly convenient as a place from which to make speeches. It is next to the aisle and almost in the center of the chamber, and affords an opportunity for the speaker to make everybody hear.

At least a dozen senators, according to the Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Star, have borrowed this desk when they had special utterances to deliver to the senate. This led, not long ago, to a mild protest from its legitimate occupant.

"I am perfectly willing to give up my desk," said he, "but I am afraid people will think that the same man is talking all the time. I don't want to get the reputation of constantly filling the senate with words."—Youth's Companion.

STATE OF OHIO CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

SEAL

A. W. GLEASON, NOTARY PUBLIC.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Contrary Issues.

"So Binks has had his income cut down?"

"Yes; that is why he is so much cut up."

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail.

Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

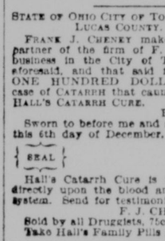
Some people treat the sermon as a table d'hote dinner, picking out the things that will not agree with them.

A good honest remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Sore Throat is Hamlins Wizard Oil. Nothing will so quickly drive out all pain and inflammation.

They who talk much of dying are usually dead already.

AFTER SUFFERING ONE YEAR

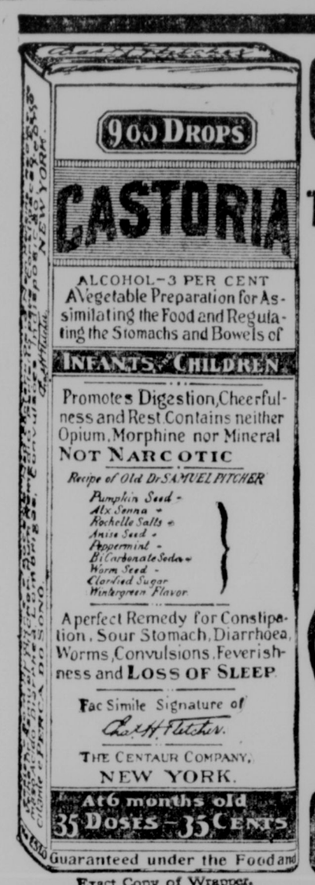
Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



Milwaukee, Wis. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman, and I would like to tell the whole world of it. I suffered from female trouble and fearful pains in my back. I had the best doctors and they all decided that I had a tumor in addition to my female trouble, and advised an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman and I have no more backache. I hope I can help others by telling them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." — MRS. EMMA IMSE, 833 First St., Milwaukee, Wis.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.



Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3 $3.50 & $4 SHOES FOR MEN & WOMEN

BOYS' SHOES, $2.00, $2.50 & $3.00. BEST IN THE WORLD.

W. L. Douglas $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes are positively the best made and most popular shoes for the price in America, and are the most economical shoes for you to buy.

Do you realize that my shoes have been the standard for over 30 years, that I make and sell more $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes than any other manufacturer in the U.S., and that DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR, I GUARANTEE MY SHOES to hold their shape, look and fit better, and wear longer than any other $3.00, $3.50 or $4.00 shoes you can buy? Quality counts. It has made my shoes THE LEADERS OF THE WORLD.

You will be pleased when you buy my shoes because of the fit and appearance, and when it comes time for you to purchase another pair, you will be more than pleased because the last ones wore so well, and gave you so much comfort

W. L. Douglas President

W. L. Douglas Shoe Co.

CAUTION! None genuine without W. L. Douglas name and price stamped on the bottom. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE

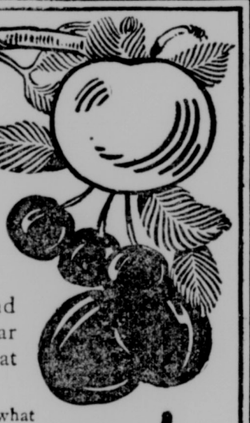
If your dealer cannot supply you with W. L. Douglas Shoes, write for Mail Order Catalog

W. L. DOUGLAS, 145 Spark Street, Brockton, Mass.

Net Income $3,000

From 28 Acres of California Land



The original price per acre was $40. Planted to peaches, plums, grapes and pears it yields $3,000 a year net, and would be cheap at $500 an acre.

This is only one example of what has been done in a climate that draws tourists from all over the world.

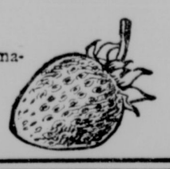
Union Pacific
Southern Pacific

Standard Route of the West

Electric Block Signals

For further facts and accurate information about California call on or address

GERRIT FORT, P. T. M.
U. P. R. R., 871 Farnam St.
OMAHA, NEB.



(456)

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Quincy, Illinois.

A catalogue of vices never led any one into virtue.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.
For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

Anaemia is often temporarily mistaken for virtue.

For DISTEMPER Pink Eye, Epizootic Shipping Fever & Catarrhal Fever

Sure cure and positive preventive, no matter how horses at any stage are infected or "exposed." Liquid given on the tongue acts on the Blood and Glands, expels the poisonous germs from the body. Cures Distemper in Dogs and Sheep and Cholera in Poultry. Largest selling live stock remedy. Cures La Grippe among human beings and is a fine Kidney remedy. 50c and $1 a bottle, $5 and $10 a dozen. Cut this out. Keep it. Show to your druggist who will get it for you. Free Booklet, "Distemper, Causes and Cures." Special agents wanted.

Chemists and Bacteriologists

SPOHN MEDICAL CO., GOSHEN, IND., U. S. A.

GREAT WHITE THRONE AND ITS BLESSINGS

Immense Audience In World's Largest Auditorium.

PASTOR RUSSELL.

London, Eng., Nov. —Pastor Russell of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, New York, preached here today. Royal Albert Hall held a vast audience of deeply interested hearers. The speaker chose his text from Revelation xx, 11:—

"I saw a great White Throne, and him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away, and there was found no place for them." He said:

Sin made moral cowards of our race. From early infancy fear and apprehension, especially in respect to things future, have been impressed upon us. We realize our imperfection, and that our God is perfect, and that perfection is the only standard which he could approve, and that some kind of punishment for sin must be expected. The Adversary, taking advantage of our forefathers, misrepresented the Almighty and has used our fears to alienate us from him and to wrest and distort his message to us in the Bible. St. Paul assures us that this is Satan's general procedure; that he puts light for darkness and darkness for light. Thus it comes that our text, which is really one of the most beautiful and comforting in the whole Bible when rightly understood, has to many become a lash in the hands of their fears.

It is needless to say that our text is one of the symbolisms of a Book filled with symbols. God's people, guided by his holy Spirit, in due time will appreciate these symbols. For many of them the due time is already here. The Throne is Messiah's. It represents his Mediatorial Dominion of earth for a thousand years. Its whiteness symbolizes the purity, the justice, of his Kingdom of righteousness under the whole heavens. The heavens and earth which will flee away from the presence of the great Emmanuel will not be the heavens of God's Throne, nor the earth which he has given to the children of men. The heavens and earth which will flee away, and for which no place will be found, are, of course, the symbolical ones. In Bible symbology the earth represents established civilization: the sea represents the restless, dissatisfied masses of humanity. The mountains symbolize human governments, kingdoms, which constitute the backbone of present spiritual influences — Ecclesiasticism, Churchianity. Thus interpreted our text declares that when Messiah shall assume control of the world; when he shall sit upon his Throne; when he shall exercise rulership amongst men, the result will be that the social system of today, as well as the present day ecclesiasticism, will flee away, will pass out of existence—no place will be found for them.

Satan Now the Prince.

Some man may be inclined to ask, Has not Christ been the great Ruler of the world for these past nineteen centuries? And whatever may be said of the four thousand years before the coming of Christ may it not be claimed that he has been reigning ever since his ascension to the right hand of the Father? We answer that if this be true; if the Redeemer of men has been reigning as the King of earth for these nineteen centuries, there should be something in the Bible to so teach. But we find nothing. On the contrary, we hearken to the Master's own words telling us that Satan is the Prince of this age (John xiv, 30). We hearken to him again telling us, "My Kingdom is not of this world (age)" (John xviii, 36). Again he says, "I will come again and receive you unto myself" (John xiv, 3). Again he tells us that he went into a far country to receive the title to his Kingdom, then to return to take possession of it (Matthew xxi, 33; xxv, 14), and that at his second coming he will be the great King of glory. He tells us the same thing in Matthew xxv, 31, "When the Son of Man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory."

On the other hand, as we scan the pages of history during the past eighteen centuries, we are convinced that Messiah has not been the King of the world. To think of him as such, with the omnipotent power which we accredit to him, would be to charge him with responsibility for bloody and atrocious persecutions and wars and famines and pestilences. Surely no right-minded person, after mature consideration, can rationally accept the theory that the glorious Messiah's reign of righteousness for the blessing of the whole earth, the uplifting of the whole race, the enlightenment of every creature, and the bringing of all possible into accord with God—none of us could think that that reign of the great Mediator between God and men is in the past. We must agree with our text that it is in the future, and that, when established, its effect upon the institutions of the present—political, social, financial, religious—will be such that they will flee away; no place ever more will be found for them. Ah! from this standpoint there is hope; but from no other standpoint. We are living today at the very climax of civilization. Yet today we behold more clearly than ever before that the deeply-ingrained selfishness of humanity is a blight upon all the blessings and conveniences and advantages of our day.

The Curse of Selfishness.

I need not do more than remind you that selfishness is to be found in every one of us, and that a semblance of righteousness is insisted upon by us all and adhered to, and violators of it are styled criminals. Nevertheless it seems impossible to legislate equity, justice. The keen intellects of men find opportunities for circumventing the laws and for committing theft and murder and sin in the face of laws and without danger of being punished.

Let us illustrate this: We have heard of the famines of India and how the British Government has spent millions of "Pounds Sterling" for irrigation purposes to compensate for irregularities in the rain-fall. Undoubtedly the famines are to some extent due to water scarcity. Nevertheless, one of the ablest of our engineers informs the world that there has not been in fifty years such a scarcity as should have created the famines. The famines of India, which have cost the lives of millions, are to be accredited to greed —selfishness which has flourished under the shadow of the law. Wealthy milling concerns purchase the rice from the natives and grind it into flour. By agreement between themselves they do not compete, but press the market price of rice lower and lower until the poor native, unable to make a profit, declines to plant, care for and harvest the crop. As a result there is famine. The poor natives suffer; but the managers of the milling properties pay large dividends of from fifty to one hundred and fifty per cent. on invested capital to the wealthy owning them.

As an illustration of the exorbitant profits I will relate a case: Two young men whose accumulated savings amounted to thirty thousand rupees (about two thousand pounds, or ten thousand dollars) invested it in rice-milling. Their profits for the first year were eighty thousand rupees—about five thousand pounds, or twenty-five thousand dollars. They were not in the combine to depress the price of rice, but they profited by what the combine accomplished. These inequities of our present social order are beyond the reach and correction of the comparatively few men of ability not directly or indirectly interested in them.

The White Throne Judgment.

Neither Jehovah nor his great Representative, Messiah, can in any sense or degree be a party to injustice or inequity. The fact that injustice has been permitted, and that inequity has been the rule for centuries, is to be accounted for by the other fact that during all this period the world has been under the reign of sin and death, and not under the reign of righteousness and life; it has been under the reign of Satan, "the Prince of this world" and of the darkness of selfishness and evil—all of which his name represents—and not under the dominion of Messiah, the Representative of Jehovah, and his righteousness; not under the King of glory, the antitypical David and Solomon, the antitypical Aaron and Melchisedec. The New Dispensation which Messiah's Kingdom will usher in is pictured in our text. It will be the dominion that will be world-wide—pure, holy, righteous, just, truthful, God-like—a great White Throne. No wonder we read that the symbolical heavens and earth, representing the old order of things—social, ecclesiastical—will all vanish away.

But let no one think for a moment that ecclesiastical princes, financial princes and political princes will voluntarily acknowledge that the hour has come for a full surrender to Messiah and to all the principles of his absolute righteousness. On the contrary, these privileged members of our race will more and more be drawn together for mutual protection—for the preservation of the special privileges which have come into their possession. Even now we see the prophecy of the Second Psalm fulfilling. We are in the very time when the Lord, through the Prophet David, calls the great ones of the earth to recognize the true situation of our wonderful day—that it means that the Day of Messiah has arrived, and that he should be recognized and his principles of righteousness obeyed.

The call is recognized. Salute the Son, O ye kings of the earth, while ye are in the way with him, before his anger be kindled and ye perish by the way (Psalms ii, 10-12). But no, the prophecy declares that we are in the day when the people, the masses, will have foolish imaginations—when they will think that by their own strength they can inaugurate a reign of righteousness along the lines of Socialism or by anarchy. The people must learn that their help is in the Lord and not in their own frail arm. The people must see the force of the statement, "Blessed are all they that put their trust in Messiah" (verse 12). The Lord is about to establish the great White Throne of absolute justice in the world.

On the other hand, the money kings and earthly rulers and ecclesiastical princes are taking counsel together today for the preservation of the present inequities of the world, by which they are profiting. The Lord declares that in this they are banding themselves against him and against the newly-appointed King, Messiah. For over a century human liberty has been making progress, in spite of every endeavor to restrain it. The potentates of earth perceive the rising tide of human intelligence and demands for equal rights. They perceive that unless something be done to counteract this general movement, the special privileges of the privileged classes will disappear. They are even now taking counsel together how the restraints, which the people are putting upon them, may be broken and a reign of autocracy—political, financial and religious—be re-inaugurated; a reign such as prevailed centuries ago, but now upon a higher plane, controlled by brighter wits, holding under restraint more intelligent masses.

"Be Instructed, Ye Judges!"

Would that the cultured and influential princes of earth could take the proper view of the situation and realize the fallacy of their counsels, the impossibility of averting the great changes which are upon us by reason of the time having come for Messiah to take unto himself his great power and reign! Hearken to the Lord's words through the Prophet. "Be wise, now, therefore, O ye kings! Be instructed, ye judges of the earth. Serve the Lord with fear and rejoice with trembling. Do homage to the Son" (vs. 10-12). Could the wise of earth realize the situation and fully submit themselves to the Divine requirements of absolute justice and truth, what a blessing it would be to the world! If these princes would turn their attention from the grasping of power and money to the enlightenment and uplifting of the people they would become ministers, servants, of the New Dispensation, which would be ushered in with rejoicing. But the Lord informs us that this will not be the case and that, as a result, Messiah's Kingdom will be ushered in by "a time of trouble such as was not since there was a nation" (Daniel xii, 1). The Psalmist tells us the same—God will have in derision the puny efforts of the worldly-wise and great to re-establish autocracy. He will speak to them in his wrath the lesson which they refuse to hear by loving exhortation. The new King and his Empire will be established in the earth, and the declaration is that amidst such Divine displeasure he shall "break them with a rod of iron and dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel" (Psalm ii, 4-9; Revelation ii, 27).

Small and Great to Be Judged.

God is no respecter of persons. Hence, before his Judgment Throne punishments will be meted out to the little, as well as to the great, when found to be violators of the principles of justice. Would that I could impress this upon many of the lower classes who are crying out against the injustices in high places while practicing similar injustices themselves. Let it be remembered also that the great White Throne speaks blessings, Divine favor and uplifting to all who love righteousness and hate iniquity—the little and the great.

If in the past a certain retributive justice has seemed to proceed along national lines, blessing the nations which take the more righteous course, and frowning upon those which take the more evil course, this will no longer be the case in the not distant future. The testing imposed by Messiah's Kingdom will be along individual lines. He that eats the sour grape of sin will find his teeth on edge, and his alone. "Justice will be laid to the line and righteousness to the plummet," and all the refuges of lies, by which mankind in high places have sought to fool themselves and others, will be swept away. The hidden things of darkness will be brought to light and the glorious things of light will be everywhere recognized. Ultimately "every knee shall bow and every tongue confess" to the enthroned Messiah.

"The Books Will Be Opened."

The Master said, "My Word shall judge you in the last day." Happy has it been for the comparatively few who have heard the Master's Word in this present life, and have judged themselves thereby, and submitted themselves to his righteous precepts! These blessed ones will share with Messiah the glories of his Spiritual Empire, invisible to men. But during the Thousand-Year Judgment Day of the world (II Peter iii, 7, 8) the same words—the "wonderful words of life" to those who will obey, and words of death to those who will refuse obedience—will be the standards of justice for all mankind. The books then to be opened to all will include, not only the words of the Master and of the Apostles of the New Testament, but also the Divine message through the Prophets of old. Then all shall see the oneness and harmony of the Divine message of righteousness. According to those standards each who would have eternal life must conform his living and his thinking. The approved, at the end of Messiah's reign, will be delivered over to the Father perfect as human beings. The disapproved will be destroyed in the Second Death—without hope (II Peter ii, 12; Jude 12; Acts iii, 23).

Another book of life will be opened—another besides the one that is now open, which is styled the Lamb's Book of Life, and in which is written the names of his faithful followers of the present time—"members of his Body," "the Royal Priesthood," "the Bride, the Lamb's Wife." The new book of life will be for those who will be on trial during Messiah's reign. By its close it will include all of Adam's race found worthy of eternal life.

The judgment of the Church in the present time is not according to works, the perfection of which, under present conditions, would be impossible. Hence the Church's judgment is according to faith and the obedience of faith possible. But the world's judgment will be according to works, for the knowledge then will be so great that faith will no longer be at a premium. The great Mediator will accept of imperfect works according to the ability of the people; but, as they rise out of degradation, more and more will be required of them until in the end they will be perfected and absolute perfection of works will be required.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
OF VALUABLE
Real Estate
Near Swanton, in Garrett Co. Md.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from Jacob R. Lee to Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, bearing date the 8th day of January, 1906, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 58, folio 532, etc., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, Maryland, default having occurred under the covenants contained in said Deed of Trust, the said Trustee, at the instance and request of the beneficiaries thereunder, hereby gives notice, that on

SATURDAY,
The 26th Day of November,

1910, at the hour of 11 o'clock A. M., in front of The First National Bank building, in the town of Oakland, Maryland, he will offer at public auction and sell to the highest bidder all of the following real estate, situate near the village of Swanton, in Garrett county, Maryland, and known as

"THE OLD ORCHARD."

1. Military Lot No. 1808, containing 50 acres, more or less.
2. All that part of a tract of land called "SWANTON," adjoining the above mentioned parcel, described as follows: Beginning for the same at a white oak tree, the beginning of Military Lot No. 1808, and running thence, North 67 degrees West, 50½ perches to stake on the North side of Crab Tree creek, North 22½ degrees West, 24 perches to the Oakland and Swanton road, and with said road, North 69 degrees East, 9 perches, North 65½ degrees East, 16 perches, North 71½ degrees East, 28 perches, North 33½ degrees East 20 perches, North 35 degrees East 18 perches, North 54 degrees East, 13 perches, North 79 degrees East, 26 perches, thence leaving said road, South 19 degrees East, 60 perches, South 32½ degrees West, 136 perches, North 11 degrees West, 72 perches, thence by a straight line to the beginning, containing 43 acres, more or less.

A large part of this land has been cleared and is improved by a house, stable and orchard, and is most desirably located.

TERMS OF SALE, as prescribed by the Deed of Trust—Cash on the day of sale, but arrangements can be made whereby a part of the purchase money may be carried on mortgage.

EDWARD H. SINCELL, Trustee.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett Co., Md., deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 17th day of April, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

CLEAVER H POOL,

Given under my hand this 26th day of February, 1910.

GERTRUDE E. POOL,
Administratrix.
Kitzmiller, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County Marplany, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Aministration on the personal estate of

FREAKLIN SUTER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the day 10th of May, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

LUCINDA SUTER,
Administratrix.
Hoyes, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Garrett County, Md., has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

AGNES R. A. M. WHITTINGTON,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 11th day of May, 1910, they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 8th day of November, 1910.

W. H. FREDLOCK,
Administrator.
Piedmont W. Va.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, Maryland, letters of administration on the estate of

ROBERT W. YOUNG,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 25th day of April, 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 26th day of October, 1910.

J. F. BISHOP,
Administrator.
Kitzmiller Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters testamentary on the estate of

HENRY BEITZEL,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of April 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

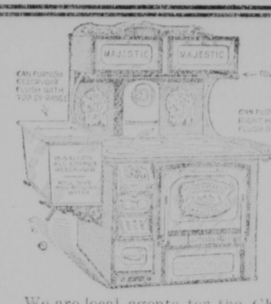
Given under my hand this 26th day of October 1910.

GEO. H. BEITZEL,
Administrator.
Accident, Md., R. D. 1.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.

Prompt attention given all ca day or night.

Garrett County Telephone. 24-1yr.



MAJESTIC RANGES
For Coal or Wood

HONEST GOODS.
HONEST PRICES.

We are local agents for the CELERRATED MAJESTIC RANGES—the Ranges with a national reputation. Nothing better is made in the stove line. Goods which are cheap, but not good, are dear at any price.

Why you should have a Great and Grand Majestic Range in your Kitchen—

It cuts the fuel bill in half because it is riveted air-tight, HOLDS the heat where it belongs, and has the proper arrangement of flues.
It is used by your neighbor, who would have no other.
It browns bread all over just alike without turning.
Has large warming closets with the right kind of doors. The only warming closets that you can clean.
It is made in any size and style desired.
It is made of better and heavier material than any other.
It is the only range in the world made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron.
It costs a little more, but lasts much longer.
It is the only range made that has a ventilated ash pit.

S. LAWTON & SONS, Oakland, Md.

THE GREATEST SALE OF
Gas Stoves, Heaters
AND TINWARE
In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting
A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
OF VALUABLE
Real Estate
In and Near Gorman, Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from William A. Harvey and Benjamin E. Harvey to Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, bearing date the 2nd day of September, 1905, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 55, folio 144, etc., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, Maryland, default having occurred under the covenants contained in said Deed of Trust, the undersigned Trustee hereby gives notice that on

FRIDAY,
the 25th day of November,

1910, at the hour of 11 o'clock a. m. in front of the Station of the Western Maryland R. R. Company in Gorman, Maryland, he will offer at public auction, and sell to the highest bidder, all of the following described real estate, situate and being in Garrett county, Maryland, in and near said town of Gorman, to-wit:

I. All the surface and the timber thereon of all those pieces, parcels, tracts and lots of lands, the same being a part of the tract of land called "Addition to Paradise," and also a tract of land called "Beechwood," lying near Gorman, containing more or less, fully described by courses and distances in said Deed of Trust, saving and excepting, however, from this sale, all that part or strip of the surface thereon, of the above described land, which lies southwestwardly of the following described lines:

181 Acres,

Beginning for the same at a point in the 5th line of the land above described, which point is northwestwardly, 150 feet, at right angles, from the middle of the main track of the Western Maryland Railroad Company, as now located, and running thence with the curves of said Railroad at the equal distance of 150 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, through that portion of the land above described which was included within the lines of the tract called "The Addition to Paradise," to the 6th line of the said tract called "Beechwood," thence reversing said 6th line of "Beechwood," to a point which is northwestwardly, 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, and running thence with the curves of said Railroad, at the equal distance of 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, through the said tract called "Beechwood," and thence continuing through that portion of the said tract called "The Addition to Paradise," which was originally Military Lot No 1313, at the equal distance of 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, to a point in the 2nd line of said Military Lot No. 1313, which said point is northwestwardly, 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located.

2. All that other lot of ground in Gorman, the same being one-half of Lot No. 3, as designated on Lewis Nydegger's Plat of the "First Addition to Elkins," as recorded among the Land Records of Garrett county, Maryland, bounded as follows:

Beginning at a stake West of the County road and corner to Lot No. 2, thence with said Lot, North 65 East, 3 poles to a stake by the road, thence with said road, North 25 West, 54 feet to a stake by the road, thence South 65 West, 3 poles to a stake, thence South 25 East, 54 feet to the beginning, containing

One-Eighth of an Acre,

more or less.

The above described surface is covered with considerable timber, and is excellent grass land, and the town lot will make a desirable building site.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale, but terms may be made whereby a portion of the purchase money may be carried on credit for a reasonable time, upon proper security satisfactory to the undersigned.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
Trustee.

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

Auditor's Notice.

Henry N. Mitchell et al., vs. Fred. Mitchell et. al.
No. 1355 Equity.
In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Pursuant to an order of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in equity, passed in the above entitled cause, referring the papers and proceedings in the above cause to the undersigned Auditor for the purpose of stating an account distributing the funds in the trustee's hands and for other purposes stated in said order, notice is hereby given, that Tuesday, the 6th day of December, 1910, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., at my office in Oakland, Maryland, I will proceed to state said account and perform my duty in the premises.

EDWARD H. SINCELL, Auditor.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., NOV. 17, 1910.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, Dec. 5th, 1910,

for the purpose of transacting all routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Clearance Sale of Valuable Merchandise, Vehicles, Stoves, Etc.

We will offer at Public Auction on Saturday, November 19th, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., a lot of Hats and Caps, dry goods consisting of Flannels, Outings, Waistings, Dress Goods and quite a few remnants of various kinds, Shoes, Gum Goods, Winter Underwear, and considerable line of Boys Clothing. Also one Buggy, one Light Wagon, one Light Sled, one Road Wagon, one Double Heater for coal, one Single Heater, one large Burnside, one lot second hand Lamps. Many goods will be sold regardless of price. Come and get some bargains. Terms cash on day of sale or a four month note approved by the undersigned will be accepted.

Very truly yours,
2t CUPPETT, LEIGHTON & Co.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

DR. J. G ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.

Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 34. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1910. NUMBER 39

M. E. CHURCH DISTRICT MEETING.

A Large Number of Pastors Were In Oakland Tuesday and Yesterday.

Tuesday evening and yesterday from 8.30 o'clock in the morning until after nine at night, the pastors of the various Methodist Episcopal churches of the Oakland District, were in conference in Oakland, the meetings being held in St. Paul's church.

The meeting was the second of its kind under the superintency of Dr. W. D. Reed, District Superintendent, and was held for the purpose of planning work and for the interchange of ideas along church lines.

The first session was held Tuesday evening when devotions were conducted by Rev. M. W. Rider, a former pastor of the church in Oakland, who is now stationed at Tunnelton, followed by a sermon preached by Rev. S. P. Crummett, pastor of the Terra Alta church.

Yesterday morning Rev. J. H. Cuppeet, pastor of Bayard church, conducted the devotional services at 8.30 o'clock, which was followed by a half hour talk on "Personal Evangelism" by Rev. J. E. Wells. Rev. G. W. Kepler, another former minister in charge of St. Paul's, delivered an earnest talk on "The Pastor, His Own Evangelist." In the absence of Rev. A. D. Craig, who was to have delivered the morning sermon, Dr. Carl. G. Doney, president of the West Virginia Wesleyan College at Buckhannon, preached.

In the afternoon a District Stewards meeting was held when addresses were made by Senator Sam. B. Montgomery, of Tunnelton, and Dr. Doney.

The conference closed last night with a sermon delivered by Dr. Doney.

Shifted Cars Rammed Station.

What came near resulting in a fatal accident occurred at Tunnelton, W. Va. last week. In attempting to shift some coal cars from the Baltimore and Ohio tracks into the Merchant's Coal Company's switch the brakeman threw the switch and let the cars into the freight siding. The coals company's switch is on a heavy grade and the train had therefore taken a good start. The heavy cars bumped the ones on the freight siding so hard that they were rammed through the end of the Baltimore and Ohio station, through the ladies' waiting room and into the express room and ticket office. Kenneth Hanst, express agent, was the only person in the building and when he realized what was going on he rushed into the men's waiting room and instead of taking time to open the door, plunged headlong through the window. This quick-thoughtedness on his part probably saved his life, as the cars came right into the room in which he was seated. It was exceedingly fortunate that no persons were in the ladies' waiting room, for they had no avenue of escape. Aside from a slight injury to the knee, Kenneth was unhurt, but his escape was almost miraculous.

The Glades Of Garrett Call.

Oh, Garrett, how you call my heart; oh, Garrett, how you call!
The green dream of the Garrett glades is like a magic trail;
I see the lofty hills again and many a meadow sweet
Rolls down to kiss the murmuring streams that gurgle at its feet.
There is no world like Garrett's world,
For there is beauty's home,
And bending blue upon the hills
Leans heaven's immortal dome!

The buckwheat bloom is faded now, but buckwheat fields I see
Bright with the glory of the sun, loud with the booming bee;
Loud with the buzzing of the bee that home with honey hies
Unto the silent groves of rest beneath loved Garrett skies.
Oh, Garrett, how your green glades glow,
Your lofty hills, how fair;
And in their glory still we go,
In dreaming still are there!

The moonlight of November o'er those wooded slopes reclines,
And there are shadows 'mid the oaks and whispering 'mid the pines;
Far off a distant mine-fire glows and up the hillside way
The miners with their quivering lamps familiar home-paths stray.
Dear Garrett of the golden glades,
It all comes back so sweet,
And I am on thy hills of dream
Where earth and heaven meet!

The fine farms, with their rolling fields, their pastures of the dew,
Ah, Garrett, these are fairy fields the Maker made for you!
The tinkling sheep bells lure me on, the cattle dot the hills,
The silver of the dawn of spring is in thy singing rills.
There is no land like Garrett land,
A highland men still keep
Green for the fattening of the kine,
The pasturing of the sheep!

Oh, Garrett, how you call my heart; oh, Garrett, how you sing,
In winter and in autumn sweet as though with lips of spring!
Dear Garrett, where the stars so near lean down to kiss the night,
You lose them often in the trail of some far miner's light.
Oh, Garrett, how thy loved glades rise,
Thy hillside currents fall,
And, oh, the voices of thy fields
Of buckwheat, now they call!
—Bentztown Bard in the Baltimore Sun.

Work Under Difficulties.

Editor Smith is suffering from phthisic, asthma or bronchial trouble, he don't know which. But at all events he is short winded, as well as short monied and has the time of his life to keep from being smothered to death. But work goes on as usual. He is led to the office early in the morning and led back in the evening, meals being furnished him in the interim from the house. If he remained at home he could not lie down, so he is better at the office where there is always plenty of work. He proposes to keep this up all winter on this line unless knocked out in the fight.—Meyersdale Commercial.

Stop that Cough.

Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound will do it. 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

THE DEATH RECORD.

DONALD CUSTER.

Donald Custer, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Custer, who resides two miles East of town, passed away Saturday night after a brief illness of of 48 hours of pneumonia fever. He was aged 8 years and was a very bright child. The funeral will take place from the home Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with Rev. Jas. W. Engle, pastor of Andrews M. E. church officiating, and the interment will be made in the Bluemont cemetery under the direction of Undertaker John A. McCabe. —Grafton Sentinel.

The deceased child was a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bishoff, of Oakland. The former went to Grafton Monday morning to attend the funeral, returning to Oakland yesterday.

GEORGE WELLINGTON.

The funeral of George Wellington, who died last Thursday from paralysis, was held at his home near Grantsville on Saturday. Interment in Blocher's Farm cemetery. Deceased leaves a wife and seven children. The mother and one child are very ill at present.

MRS. MARGARET RINEHART.

Mrs. Margaret Rinehart died suddenly at the home of her niece, about eight miles south of Keyser, W. Va., where she had gone a few weeks previously to care for her niece's children while their mother was being treated in a hospital at Cumberland. Death was caused by pneumonia after an illness of five days. The remains were brought to Deer Park Tuesday and interment took place yesterday after services conducted by Rev. E. Manges, of Oakland. Deceased was well known in this neighborhood, having conducted boarding houses in Mt. Lake Park for many years, where she was highly respected and loved for her consistent Christian life and amiable disposition. She leaves a brother, Mr. Thomas Hayes, of Oklohoma, who formerly resided in this neighborhood.

ANDREW NULLEN.

Mr. Andrew Mullen, formerly of Bloomington, died at his home in Piedmont Sunday morning at 3:15 o'clock. The deceased who was 87 years of age, was born in Baltimore and in 1849 moved to Bloomington, where he resided until about one year ago, when he moved to Piedment. He is survived by his wife who was formerly Miss Fannie Grannan of Cumberland, and the following children: Mr. W. A. Mullen, of Fredericksburg, Va.; Mr. Chas. Mullen, of Bloomington, and Mrs. Alice Cadden, of Cumberland. The funeral took place Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Peter's Catholic church, Westernport, and was largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. Father T. E. Gallagher. Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery at Westernport.

W. E. BURWELL.

W. E. Burwell, for a good many years the popular and efficient manager of the Deer Park Hotel, died in Baltimore of pneumonia Tuesday morning. He had been sick but a short time. Mr. Burwell was also Superintendent of Hotels of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. On Thursday he called on First Vice President General Geo. F. Randolph and stated that he was making preparations to go west to spend Thanksgiving with his daughter.

MRS. DAVID MILLER.

Very suddenly at her home near Deer Park Sunday evening, of heart failure, Mrs. David Miller, aged about fifty years. The deceased was taken ill and died within a very few minutes thereafter. Besides her husband she leaves a number of children.

TEMPLE STEWART,

At the Home Sanatorium, in Oakland, Tuesday afternoon, following an operation for appendicitis which was performed last Thursday, Temple Stewart, aged seventeen years. The deceased resided with his parents near Shafer, West Va., and was brought to Oakland last Thursday morning and taken to the hospital where an operation was performed by Dr. Hawkins, of Cumberland. The remains of the deceased were taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. W. H. Bowers, on Liberty street. The funeral will occur this afternoon at two o'clock from St. Paul's church in Oakland.

CHARLES KISNER.

The remains of Charles Kisner, of near Hutton, who died Tuesday in Baltimore, were received here yesterday morning and reshipped to Hutton later in the day where they will be interred. The deceased was a son of Jerome Kisner and was aged about 24 years.

MRS. VIOLA LOWENSTEIN-CARNEY.

Mrs. Viola Carney, daughter of the late Archibald and Mrs. Annie Lowenstein, of Oakland, died in Washington, D. C., Sunday night at eleven o'clock after on illness of several years. At intervals for about four years, on account of her health, the deceased resided in Oakland with her mother, only recently going to Washington where she expected to go to housekeeping in a week or two. While inspecting property in that city with a view to renting, she contracted a heavy cold which terminated in her death. He mother, sister and brother. besides her husband, were present when the dissolution occurred. She was thirty years of age and her remains were interred in Washington yesterday morning.

WHY NOT HAVE AN EXHIBIT?

Garrett County Farmers Must Hustle to Win.

Entries in the horticultural exhibits of fruit and grains in the Maryland Horticultural Show to be held in the early days of next month, will soon close and Garrett county should have an exhibit worthy her name and fame as a fruit and grain producing section.

All exhibits intended for the show should be in Oakland not later than Saturday of this week, and should consist of not less than one peck of each of the cereals grown in the county. These exhibits may be left either at this office or at the office of Lieut. E. S. West and they will be forwarded from here Saturday night to Baltimore.

Farmers, get into the swim! The cost is nothing and what benefit you may derive may be of inestimable benefit to you.

Bring your exhibits to Oakland at once.

FRIENDSVILLE.

The cold weather brought on hog killing and our citizens have been busy butchering for the past week or so.

Our town after night has been in darkness since the electric plant has been moved to L. E. Friend's, where he intended running the dynamo by water power. Something is wrong at the head of the race, although there is plenty of water in the dam, and we are not likely to get light until rain comes or the race can be lowered, which is not probable before spring.

C. C. Frederick and wife made a flying visit to our city on Saturday last. Charlie has been promoted to foreman in the machine shops of the railroad at Cumberland.

The Dorcas Society of the Lutheran church will hold a festival in the opera house on Thanksgiving evening.

Friendsville needs rain very badly. Many of the springs and wells are dry, but take it all round did you ever see a much healthier town? Of course we have the children's maladies as measles, whooping cough and so on, but look and see how other towns are having many cases of fever, and other diseases, but about the worse we have here is rheumatism and a bad case of grouch or two.

Quite a number of turkeys and chickens were shipped away on the train today. A special express car was run on the road to take care of them.

The number of sheep shipped away from here in the past two or three weeks is astonishing and one would hardly believe so many were raised in this vicinity.

Harry Laurer, of Confluence, was in our town Monday. He is taking a short vacation.

Urbin Ross has resigned his position as clerk at the hotel.

George and Truman Hilman left for a trip east last week.

About 8 o'clock Tuesday morning Milford Frazee's house caught fire and in a very short time was in ashes. The citizen responded to the call as quickly as they could and the fire engine was brought but would not work as water had been left in it and it had frozen up. Very little furniture could be taken out. The loss is a heavy one on Mr. Frazee and there was only a small insurance. The fire caught in the hall, Mrs. Frazee being out of the house at the time.

James Spears lost a valuable fat hog Monday morning.

New Postmaster at Mt. Lake Park.

Mr. Clarence Joseph Rathbun has been appointed and commissioned postmaster at Mountain Lake Park, vice Rev. L. A. Rudisill, who tendered his resignation to the department several weeks ago and which has been accepted. Mr. Rathbun's appointment as postmaster at the Park will give general satisfaction to the patrons of the office as he is obliging and will be "on the job" personally.

Injured Lady Recovering.

Mrs. Lewis Bush, of Oakland, who broke her ankle two weeks ago by having her foot caught in a hole in the boardwalk, leading down Pennington street from her home, is rapidly improving but will probably be kept in doors a greater portion of the winter as a result of her injury.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hayday, Tuesday night, a boy.

Mrs. J. A. Enlow attended the funeral of Mrs. Maggie Rinehart at Deer Park yesterday afternoon.

The thermometer here registered zero Sunday morning and yesterday morning.

Mr. Eddie Rathbun has sold his livery interest in Fairmont to his partner, Mr. Wm. Seabold.

Union Thanksgiving services will be held at 10.30 today in the U. B. church, Rev C. W. Hudson preaching the sermon.

Mr. C. J. Rathbun has received his commission as postmaster here vice Rev. L. A. Rudisill resigned.

Hon. Philip Willett left last week for England where he expects to remain among relatives and old friends for about three months.

Mr. A. W. Miller is employed at the Weber green house, largely in doing blacksmith work.

Mr. Upton Cuppett has purchased something over one hundred acres of the Perry lands about two miles southeast of here which he will improve and expects in a few years to have one of the best farms in the neighborhood.

Prof. F. E. Rathbun, superintendent of the Piedmont public schools, who recently suffered from an abscess in one of his ears and was treated in the Allegany Hospital, has resumed his school duties.

A six inch snow fell here Monday morning which increased the Thanksgiving trade from the country.

Mr. Annan, of St. Louis, Mo., who was called here about six weeks ago on account of the serious illness of his wife, was last week called back to St. Louis by a telegram announcing the illness of his partner. His son came here last week and will take his mother and sister to their St. Louis home next week, the mother having so far recovered as to be able for the trip.

News of the death of Mrs. Martha Ann Gigger, wife of A. W. Gigger and daughter of the late Johnson and Mattie A. King, came to her many relatives in this county. Among her relatives in this county are two sisters, Mrs. Dona Paton and Mrs. Sallie Meese. Mrs. Gigger was a resident of Oklohoma, where she died Nov. 11th, 1910.

Call for Your Letters.

W. M. Allen, Laura J. Kildow, Erbie Lantz, Paul W. Cox, Mildred Davis, Mrs. J C. Nutter, O. P. Fuller, Isabelle Ray, Nora Stewart, Milton A. Turney.

Mrs. Howard E. Lloyd, Draper Vaughn, Nelson Custer, Mildred Miller, C. A. Groves, Mrs. Lizzie Harding, Mrs. Ernest Shirley, Smithline Bros (2) W. M. Sabel, Edw. Sembower, A. Smith, Miss E. B. Smith.

"EVERY DOG HAS HIS DAY," SAYS T. R.

But the Nights Belong to the Cats, the Colonel Remarked.

Theodore Roosevelt's first visit to Washington since he left the Presidency on March 4, 1909, was made Saturday. When he got in at 4:20 p. m. from New York the 200 station employes and casual passengers gave him a hearty cheer as he greeted his daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Miss Belle Hagner, formerly social secretary at the White House, and two committees gathered at the depot to meet him.

A committee escorted Col. Roosevelt to the National Press Club, where he spent half an hour greeting old friends.

In his speech at the Press Club, Col. Roosevelt said:

"My friends: It is fine to get back here to see you all, and I suppose I am speaking in reasonable confidence. It is not that I am going to say anything that should not be quoted, exceptibg that I do not want to make any comments. I was thinking of one however, that would be sufficiently inclusive. I wish to say that every dog has his day, but the nights belong to the cats.

"I am almost ashamed to say how perfectly contented and happy I am. I have always said that I did not think any President of the United States enjoyed himself as much as I did, and I know no ex-President enjoyed himself as much as I enjoy myself.

"I assure you that that there are no men whose character I esteem more than the men I used to know while I was in Washington as representatives of the press. I never speak of a class universally. As a caveat, I might add that there were individuals among you for whom I was able to successfully dissemble my admiration. So, in that respect they ranked with Senators, Congressmen, autocrats and labor leaders.

"I have always endeavored in life to work seriously and at the same time have as much enjoyment as I could out of life, and I have always found that the men I have met here in Washington in your profession contained an unusually large proportion of those who would do good work and not look too infernally good while they were doing it.

"Now I am going to have a chance to shake hands with every one who does not think that his character will be hurt."

After the speech Col. Roosevelt took an automobile ride and then went to the home of his daughter for dinner.

New Roller Process for Buckwheat.

Mr. T. B. Dowman desires to inform the farmers and others of the neighborhood, that he has installed the latest and best roller process for the manufacture of buckwheat flour. He will give as good a turnout of flour as any mill in the county.

DIXON & KELSO

DRESSED POULTRY

DIXON & KELSO can use

2000 to 3000 lbs.

Full Dressed Chickens

to be brought to our store Saturday, Monday and Tuesday before Thanksgiving, for which we will pay 15 cts.

10000 lbs. Fat Dry Picked TURKEYS, Satutday and Monday. Will pay 20c. lb

Also 20 to 30 Full Dressed Turkeys at 22c.

Can use fresh Eggs at 35c and frech Butter at 30c lb.

Yours to Please. DIXON & KELSO.

TEDDY-TAFTY.

Copyrighted.

TEDDY TAFTY

Teddy-Tafty Sundae

The Latest in Ice Cream.

Healthful

Delightful

Refreshing

Oakland Steam Bakery

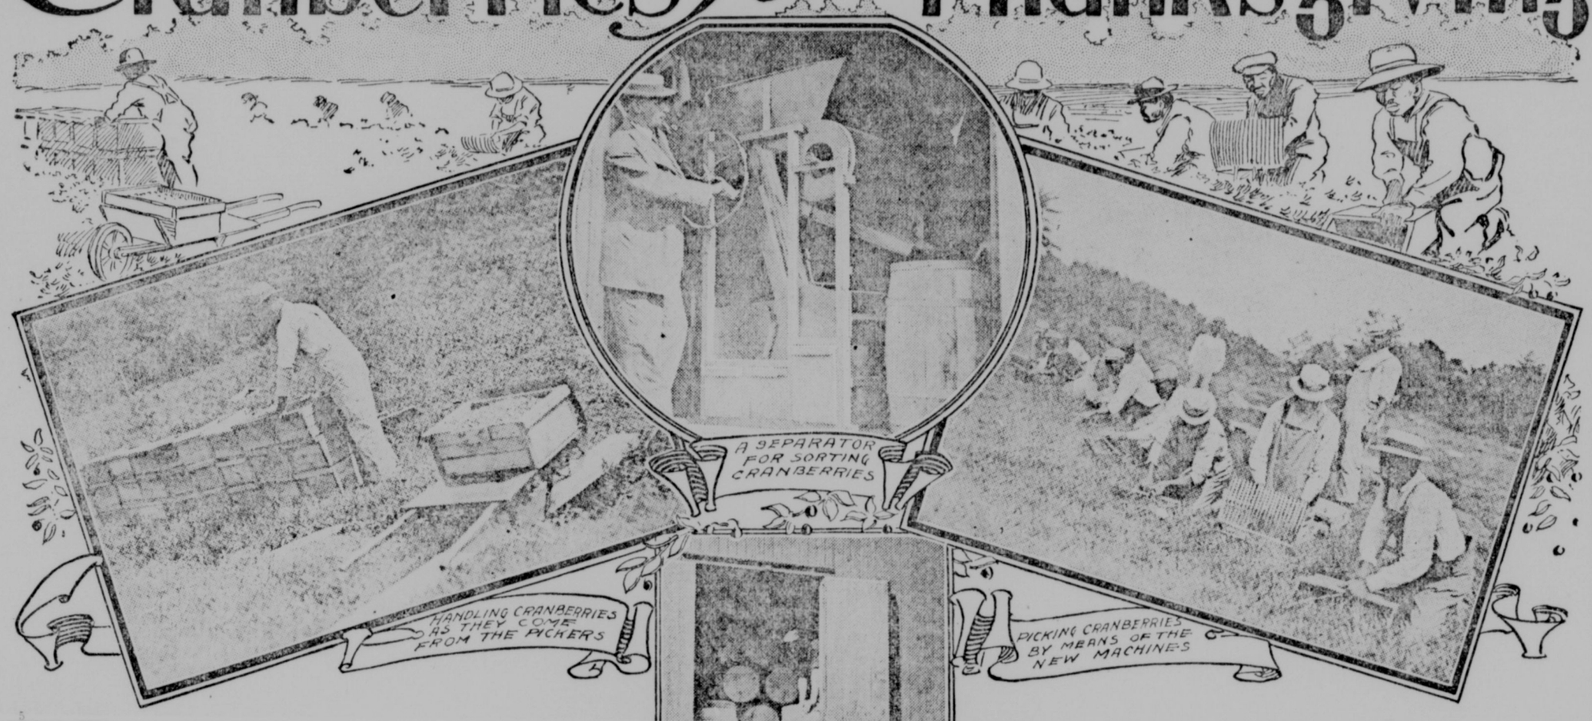
Manufacturers of Ice Cream complying absolutely with the Pure Food Laws of the United States.

We Freeze our Reputation into our Ice Cream.

TEDDY TAFTY

TEDDY-TAFTY.

Cranberries for Thanksgiving



NEXT to a goodly supply of turkeys the most important requisite for a successful Thanksgiving is a plentiful measure of cranberries of just the proper tart flavor. As well have a Thanksgiving dinner without turkey as without the appetizing cranberry sauce. However the people of the United States have scant cause to worry because of this feature of their holiday menu. It has been years since a failure of the cranberry crop was reported and cranberry growers have been so increasing their productive areas that despite the increase in demand, due to the country's increase in population and other influences, there continues to be year by year a pretty lavish supply of the crimson berries, and most seasons find them available at very reasonable prices.

Cranberries, like so many of the other good things of life, are distinctively American delicacies. To be sure, cranberries grow wild in some other quarters of the globe—for instance in Europe, but it is only in the United States that they have been cultivated as an article of food. Even here the growing of cranberries is confined largely to three states—Massachusetts, New Jersey and Wisconsin. How important an industry it is may be surmised, however, from the fact that the Cape Cod district in Massachusetts, the greatest cranberry region on the globe, sends to market as many as one-third of a million barrels of cranberries in a single season.

The average person is wont to term all berry areas "patches," but cranberries do not grow in patches but in bogs and, as may be surmised from the name, most of these tracts are located adjacent to rivers or lakes or ponds, so that they can be flooded in the late autumn and kept under water until spring. The berries grow on a vine which nestles close to the ground in a perfect tangle, and save for keeping out the weeds and battling with the insect pests, which are numerous, the cranberries do not require very much cultivation or attention until harvest time approaches in the autumn. Then the cranberry grower must look forward to a period of anxiety, a careful, serious scrutiny of the weather. He must keep close watch on the weather, for if a frost comes ere the crop is harvested it will work sad havoc unless the grower has been forewarned and flooded his bog or built great bonfires to keep up the temperature.

In years gone by the harvesting of cranberries was done solely by the hand picking method, much as raspberries or strawberries are picked, and most of the cranberry picking was done by women and children. The "Cranberry King" used to hire as many as 1,100 pickers on his great bogs on Cape Cod and the pickers, many of whom journeyed long distances, "camped out" on the bogs during the picking season. The past few years, however, has witnessed a revolution. Now almost all cranberries are picked by the aid of machines, and because it is tiresome work manipulating these machines it has come about that most of the women and children have been forced out of the industry and the task is largely in the hands of men, the more skillful of whom receive from $3 to $5 per day.

The picking machine most extensively used has the appearance of a huge wooden scoop, the bottom of which is made up of a row of metal bars, tipped with sharp prongs and set close together. In operation this scoop is shoved with some considerable force into the tangle of cranberry vines and then is drawn upward and backward with the result that the vines which have been caught slip between the metal bars but leave the berries, which are too large to pass through the openings, as do the vines, and in consequence are stripped from their stems and remain in the scoop, whence they are transferred to the tray which each picker has close at hand. An expert picker with a machine will do the work of from half a dozen to a dozen hand pickers.

The cranberries as picked on the bogs are placed in huge wooden boxes and transferred to a nearby frame building, where they are passed through a machine known as a "separator," which takes out all the leaves, twigs and other foreign matter. Then they are sorted for the elimination of any bad or worm-eaten berries and finally are placed in barrels, which are hauled away to railroad yards to be loaded into cars to the tune of from 220 to 240 barrels to the car, refrigerator cars being used exclusively. Up to the present time cranberries have been sold in bulk, but this year sees an innovation in the appearance of evaporated cranberries, for which are claimed all the advantages of evaporated peaches or apples, and in the introduction of cranberries put up in pasteboard cartons. Bearing cranberry bogs of the most desirable kind cost from $600 to $1,200 per acre, but in a bumper year a grower may get his money back the first year, and during the worst year the industry has known in a decade most of the growers made from 10 to 15 per cent. on their investment, and that, too, in spite of the fact that cranberries were so plentiful that they brought only $2 a barrel, whereas $5 to $7 a barrel is accounted an average price, and there have been years when a famine of cranberries sent the price up to $10 per barrel.

Origin of Thanksgiving Festivities

By SAMUEL WILLIAMS

THE autumn of 1621 waned on a prosperous community. Plymouth, Mass., was both healthy and wealthy. Sickness, though it had destroyed one-half the company of pilgrims, had ceased, and the crops, as a whole, had been good, the peas alone failing. All the houses in the settlement had been put into condition and a goodly stock of furs and prepared lumber had been made ready for export to England by the next ship. The waters swarmed with fish and sea fowl were abundant. The call of the wild turkey was heard in the woods and the patter of the fleeting deer was nothing strange.

The summer was past; the harvest ended. The pilgrims decided upon a period of recreation. The governor sent out four huntsmen, who in one day secured game to last the colony a week. Hospitality was extended to Massasoit, of the neighboring settlement, who brought 90 people with him. The guests remained 30 days. The company engaged in rounds of amusements, in which military drills and religious services formed a part. Thus, heartily and loyally, was inaugurated the great New England festival of Thanksgiving. For two centuries it has continued to be observed, at first mostly in the eastern states, but it has now become national, its annual return finding a welcome from boundary to boundary, both at top and bottom and either extremity of the nation.

Thanksgiving day is peculiarly an American custom, though there are some writers who claim that it is not possible to determine the date of the first observance. John A. Goodwin, in his historical review, "The Pilgrim Republic," is positive, however, that the first celebration occurred in the fall of 1621, this being followed in 1623 by the first Thanksgiving proclamation, by the governor of Massachusetts. In 1630 there arrived at Plymouth 14 vessels, bringing with them 880 colonists, making the number nearly 1,200 instead of a mere 300. On July 8, 1630, another Thanksgiving was held in acknowledgment for this accession to the ranks of the colonists. The Dutch governors of the New Netherlands also appointed different dates for public thanksgiving, from time to time, and in some historical works there is record of a dispute as to which of these colonies deserved the credit for having first inaugurated the day. Most of the best founded historians, however, give the credit to the New England states.

The Dutch governors of New Netherlands appointed occasional days of thanksgiving in 1644, 1645, 1655 and 1664, and the English governors followed their example in 1755 and 1760, and the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States in its prayer book, ratified in 1789, recommends for Thanksgiving day the first Thursday in November, unless some other day be appointed by the civil authorities. There were also occasional recommendations by other religious bodies, but no regular annual recommendation by the governor of New York before 1817.

The struggle of the colonies for independence marks the beginning of general observances of days of thanksgiving in this country. The congress of 1777, the one which prepared the articles of confederation for adoption by the colonies, adopted a resolution setting apart the eighteenth day of December, 1777, to be observed as a day of solemn thanksgiving and praise throughout the United States.

Washington, during his administration, issued two thanksgiving proclamations, one in 1789 and the other in 1795, just after the suppression of the "Whisky rebellion," which had threatened the peace of the country, and President Madison issued one upon the declaration of peace in 1815. However, in the early years of the nation the rule was for the colonial custom to be followed and the proclamation made emanated from the governors. The western states, largely people from New England or New York, early followed the lead of these portions of the country. As we have seen, the annual recommendation by the governors of New York began in 1817. From that time the observance gradually crept southward and westward, and in 1885 Governor Johnson of Virginia adopted it, and though in 1857 Governor Wise of Virginia declined to make the proclamation on the ground that he was unauthorized to interfere in religious matters, in 1858 a Thanksgiving day was proclaimed in eight of the southern states.

The day had thus naturally grown to be a national institution of almost universal observance, when the Civil war brought to sudden ripeness this along with many other tendencies, and President Lincoln put upon it the seal of his official proclamation. President Lincoln's first proclamation was in 1862, on account of the first important victory of the national arms. He issued a similar recommendation in 1863.

Decorative Conceits and Favors For the Thanksgiving Festivities

The pious, hard-driven, worn-out, but thankful Puritans who sat down at their tables one November, a few centuries ago, and made the first Thanksgiving Day, never knew to what lengths they were to drive the ingenuity of their poor descendants. But it wasn't their fault after all, that the preparer of the Thanksgiving feast today has to attend just as much to the turkey's surroundings as to the turkey itself. It was good enough for them to have a well-stocked larder from which could come the turkey, the celery, the pumpkin pie, the cranberries and all the other goodies which history puts down to their credit. Even the comparatively recent New Englanders were content with all these as long as they looked tempting and tasted good. But today, even the important fowl itself is hardly more important than the ribbons, the candies, the favors, the adornments of all kinds, which must appear on the Thanksgiving table.

"Don't bother about having too much to eat," an up-to-date daughter was heard to say to her New England mother the other day. "I want plenty of room for the ribbons and the candy boxes."

It's the same way with other daughters of an esthetic turn of mind, rather than a practical one, and it looks as if their ambitions to "make things look pretty" may be realized this year, for there is a goodly array of Thanksgiving favors and table decorations of all kinds.

Of course the turkey reigns supreme, even if it is in paper, and is seen in all sizes, all kinds, roasted to a beautiful dark brown as the cookbook says, or standing important and majestic with its big fan-shaped feather tail high in the air. In most cases the favor turkey is meant for candy, but certain new china turkeys are mustard cups.

The pumpkin is next in importance and is seen in many of the novelties. There are large paper pumpkins for centerpieces and all sorts of small ones in papier mache or tissue paper which are candy boxes. Fruits and vegetables of all kinds seem to be suggestive of the season of feasting, and many good imitations are found among the candy box collections. Goblinesque little men are made of paper fruits and fixed up to have a very grotesque appearance, and funny little figures are made of peanuts, and mounted on cards. Nuts are tied up in ribbons and are found to be prize-packages for the receiver, for in them are neatly packed little stick-pins, whistles, etc., all carefully concealed within the paper shells.

The place cards allow of a great many new designs, and an especially new feature among these is some small mirrors. The chrysanthemum is the leading flower among the paper bowers, and those in yellow or orange seem to be the most desired shades. Other imitations which are especially "life-like" are the painted piece of the pumpkin pie, the tin of Boston baked beans, the plum pudding and the ear of corn.

LENT INSPIRATION.

"I am gratified," said the first prominent citizen, "to observe the undercurrent of joy in the Thanksgiving proclamation of the governor. Hitherto the proclamations have been along the old cut and dried, stilted forms, but in this instance there is a certain tone of joyousness of thankfulness, of pure gratefulness that is really inspiring."

"Yes," agrees the second prominent citizen, "but it's no wonder the governor felt good when he wrote that proclamation."

"No. He has started on what seems destined to be a good administration, already there is talk of promoting him to some higher office in the gift of the peo——"

"And besides," interrupts the second man, "the governor owns one of the largest turkey farms in the state.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

De Forest, Wis.—"After an operation four years ago I had pains downward in both sides, backache, and a weakness. The doctor wanted me to have another operation. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am entirely cured of my troubles."—Mrs. Auguste Vespermann, De Forest, Wisconsin.

Another Operation Avoided.

New Orleans, La.—"For years I suffered from severe female troubles. Finally I was confined to my bed and the doctor said an operation was necessary. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial first, and was saved from an operation."—Mrs. Lily Peyroux, 1111 Kerlerec St., New Orleans, La.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases. The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a remarkable remedy for those distressing feminine ills from which so many women suffer.

If you want special advice about your case write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S ASTHMA

Remedy for the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask your druggist for it. Write for FREE SAMPLE. NORTHROP & LYMAN CO. Ltd., BUFFALO, N.Y.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

He Was a Boston Boy.

"Your little boy must be very intelligent," said a visitor to a Boston school teacher whose five-year-old son was forming Greek words with building blocks.

"Intelligent!" exclaimed the proud parent. "He is phenomenally gifted. As an example of his early erudition, what do you suppose were the first words he ever spoke?"

"'Papa' and 'mamma?'"

"Stuff and nonsense!" ejaculated the father, in a tone of disgust. "Why, the day he was 12 months old he suddenly laid down his algebra and said to me: 'Father, the longer I live the more indubitable proofs I perceive that there is in Boston as much culture to the square inch as there ever was in the ambient area of ancient Athens!'"

An Awful Moment.

The company always included many delightful women, and I remember the consternation caused among them one day by Burnham, the scout. He explained that he attributed his success as a scout to the acuteness of his sense of smell; it was like a blood-hound's.

"There's no one here today," he affirmed, "who at any time anywhere in the future I could not recognize in the dark. Yes, I could tell you, and you, and you," nodding at an alluring group in modish apparel, "by the way you smell."

For an awful moment the conversation flagged.—McClure's.

STOPPED SHORT
Taking Tonics, and Built Up on Right Food.

The mistake is frequently made of trying to build up a worn-out nervous system on so-called tonics—drugs.

New material from which to rebuild wasted nerve cells is what should be supplied, and this can be obtained only from proper food.

"Two years ago I found myself on the verge of a complete nervous collapse, due to overwork and study, and to illness in the family," writes a Wisconsin young mother.

"My friends became alarmed because I grew pale and thin and could not sleep nights. I took various tonics prescribed by physicians, but their effects wore off shortly after I stopped taking them. My food did not seem to nourish me and I gained no flesh nor blood.

"Reading of Grape-Nuts, I determined to stop the tonics and see what a change of diet would do. I ate Grape-Nuts four times a day, with cream and drank milk also, went to bed early after eating a dish of Grape-Nuts.

"In about two weeks I was sleeping soundly. In a short time gained 20 pounds in weight and felt like a different woman. My little daughter whom I was obliged to keep out of school last spring on account of chronic catarrh has changed from a thin, pale, nervous child to a rosy, healthy girl and has gone back to school this fall.

"Grape-Nuts and fresh air were the only agents used to accomplish the happy results."

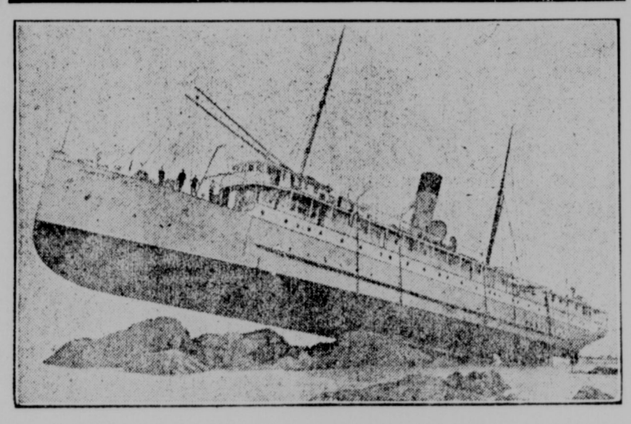
Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

MARVELS of THE EARTH

CURIOUS, ODD AND INTERESTING OBJECTS AND PLACES

Fast on the Alaskan Rocks



When the Canadian Pacific steamer Princess May not long ago came to grief off Alaska, she literally was high and dry, as the accompanying photograph shows. The Princess May was plying between Vancouver and Alaskan ports and went ashore, settling on the rocks of Center Island, and at low tide hung above the surface of the water. She carried eighty passengers and a crew of sixty-eight, but all were taken off in safety.

PRETTY SUNI OF ZANZIBAR

In the gardens of the British Agency of Zanzibar are to be seen several specimens of the Zanzibar suni, an especially pretty little animal that is not often seen in captivity. Indeed, it is seldom seen in its native haunts, which are the wildest parts of the island and are covered with dense scrub. The suni also occurs on the mainland of Africa. The captives in the Agency gardens thrive, and each of the does has produced a young one.

NEW NOSE MADE FOR WOMAN

A woman recently left the London hospital with a new nose made from a flap of skin taken from her own forehead. The operation was rendered necessary on account of an ulcer of years' growth, which had gradually eaten away all the tissues of the nose. A racquet-shaped flap of skin about two inches in length and an inch and a quarter wide was cut, extending upwards, from the bridge of the nose, the beginning of the "handle" of the racquet being the only point of attachment. The skin was very carefully detached from the underlying bone, and, being swung round with its attachment at the base of the nose, was made to cover the previously denuded nose area. The new nose was stitched into place at the sides, openings being left for the woman's nostrils. The denuded space on the forehead was then covered in with skin grafts. The patient, a woman of fifty years, who was only three weeks in the hospital, left well pleased with her artificial features.

NOT INTENDED THAT WAY

In the outskirts of Peekskill, N. Y., is a small chapel with the unique name "Gates of Heaven." A sign bearing the name is on the front of the building.

When the pastor went on his vacation another sign was placed under the first. Here is what the passer-by read:

Gates of Heaven
Closed for the Summer Months.

CHILD BORN WITH ONE ARM

A child has been born at Willesden, Eng., with the left arm missing from a few inches below the shoulder. As having bearing on the occurence it is stated that some months ago the mother was motoring when an accident occurred, the motor coming into collision with another vehicle. The motor-car driver's left arm was so badly crushed in the collision that it had to be amputated almost immediately.

CURIOUS RELIC IS FOUND.

A curious and interesting specimen of the fine work of a famous old American engraver, A. W. Overbaugh, has just come to light in a little Staten island town. The relic is an ancient gold dollar in the center of which, in a circle one-sixth of an inch in diameter, Overbaugh engraved the Lord's Prayer. The inscription cannot be read with the naked eye, but is perfectly distinct with the aid of glasses. At the bottom of the circle Overbaugh added his name. The engraving was done on a wager.

The coin will go to one of the New York museums.

RAISES SIX-INCH GERANIUM.

Richard Dienor, a gardener at Colma, Cal., has perfected a geranium that is six inches in diameter, which is pronounced by experts to be one of the most extraordinary achievements in floral culture. Diener also has produced carnations four or five inches in diameter by crossing them with the "Prosperity" pink. He has secured fifty-seven varieties of dahlias and is now trying to produce a blue dahlia.

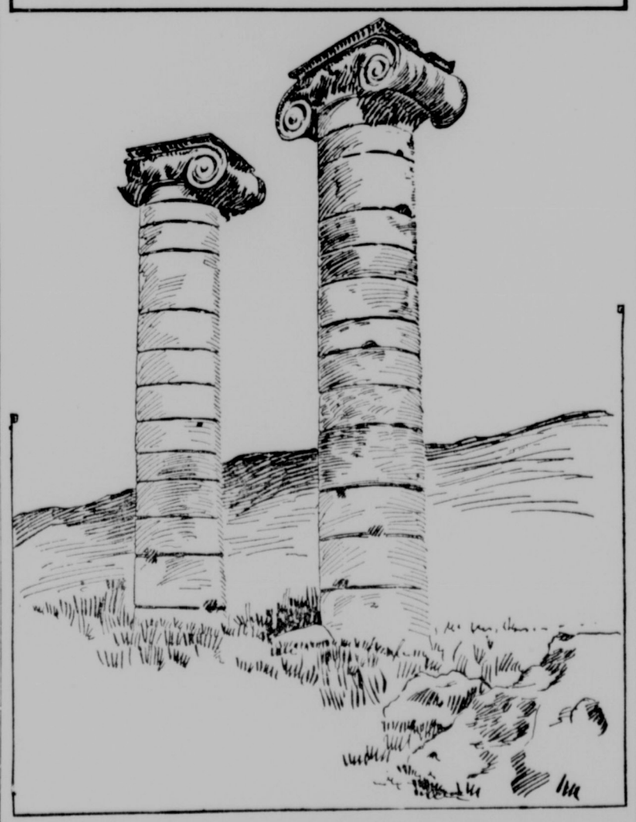
MYSTERY OF A NEEDLE.

A correspondent of the Scotsman sends to that journal in Edinburgh, Scotland, a letter relating an unusual experience. It is a well-known fact, he remarks, that when a sharp body like a needle penetrates the skin it is very difficult to find, and if left long enough it may wander over the body and ultimately appear at a most unexpected place. I never, however, heard of a needle and thread being found where it was found today—viz., in a hen's egg! A servant girl, engaged in cooking, broke an egg into a bowl, and commenced beating it with a fork. She felt something catch the fork, and, on examining it, found to her surprise a needle and thread. Happening to be visiting at the house at the time, I was at once informed of the extraordinary find, and the needle with the thread attached was put into my hand. My first idea was that the needle might have dropped from the girl's dress, but I was assured that this was not the case; and, moreover, the needle, now in my possession, was quite black, this being no doubt due to the action of the sulphur of the yolk upon the steel of the needle. The needle is an inch and a half long, and the thread is six inches.

PLACE FOR A FISH PICNIC

The remarkable natural saucepan pictured herewith is known as the Fish Hot-Pot Spring and is situated in Yellowstone Lake, in the middle of a tiny island on which the angler is standing. The island is really the top of the cone of a submerged geyser of natural hot water. Fish caught from the lake are cooked immediately in this strange hot spring.

Where Rich Croesus Lived



Far away in Asia Minor, under the shadow of a high, sharp hill, two broken columns have stood for centuries, looking toward a little river, alone, rising from a mass of vegetation that covers the fallen tops of two or three of their fellows. They are beautiful Ionic columns, and they mark all that is left of the city of the man whose name still stands today for wealth incalculable—Croesus, king of Lydia, who ruled in Sardis. The columns had not been disturbed for many centuries, probably not since the year 17, when suddenly it came into the mind of an American to go and find their secret. The American was Prof. H. C. Butler of Princeton university, the well-known archaeologist, and he had little difficulty in interesting enough people to start a well-equipped expedition. The expedition pitched its tents at the foot of Mount Tolmus and promptly began to dig. The result has been unexpectedly satisfactory. Sardis was a new field for the explorer, and it was confidently expected that interesting ruins would be unearthed, but nobody thought that in less than a year the expedition would uncover one of the largest Greek temples ever discovered and find the remains of one of the earliest civilizations hid under the sands of Asia Minor. They have, too, statuettes, inscriptions, and so on, which may enable them practically to reconstruct the age of gold-glamored Croesus and the many centuries before and after him.

THOUGHT SHE HAD PRACTICED

Frenchman's Suspicions Really Something of a Compliment to the Men of America.

Claude Grahame White, the English aviator, praised, at a dinner in New York, the good fellowship of Americans.

"The American woman is regarded abroad as an angel," he said. "The man is admittedly a good fellow, but an angel he is far from being.

"You've heard of the Frenchman perhaps, whose sweetheart spent the summer in America? After her return the poor Frenchman seemed quite blue.

"'What's the matter with you?' a friend asked.

"'I am worried,' the other muttered, 'about my fiancee. You see, since her return from America she kisses so much better than she used to.'"

AN INTOLERABLE ITCHING

"Just about two years ago, some form of humor appeared on my scalp. The beginning was a slight itching but it grew steadily worse until, when I combed my hair, the scalp became raw and the ends of the comb-teeth would be wet with blood. Most of the time there was an intolerable itching, in a painful, burning way, very much as a bad, raw burn, if deep, will itch and smart when first beginning to heal. Combing my hair was positive torture. My hair was long and tangled terribly because of the blood and scabs. This continued growing worse and over half my hair fell out. I was in despair, really afraid of becoming totally bald.

"Sometimes the pain was so great that, when partially awake, I would scratch the worst places so that my finger-tips would be bloody. I could not sleep well and, after being asleep a short time, that awful stinging pain—would commence and then I would wake up nearly wild with the torture. A neighbor said it must be salt rheum. Having used Cuticura Soap merely as a toilet soap before, I now decided to order a set of the Cuticura Remedies—Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills. I used them according to directions for perhaps six weeks, then left off, as the disease seemed to be eradicated, but toward spring, eighteen months ago, there was a slight return of the scalp humor. I commenced the Cuticura treatment at once, so had very little trouble. On my scalp I used about one half a cake of Cuticura Soap and half a box of Cuticura Ointment in all. The first time I took six or seven bottles of Cuticura Pills and the last time three bottles—neither an expensive or tedious treatment. Since then I have had no scalp trouble of any kind. Standing up, with my hair unbound, it comes to my knees and had it not been for Cuticura I should doubtless be wholly bald.

"This is a voluntary, unsolicited testimonial and I take pleasure in writing it, hoping my experience may help someone else. Miss Lillian Brown, R. F. D. 1, Liberty, Me., Oct. 29, 1909."

WHAT?

Weeks—Why are you stopping? You didn't run over that man.

Swiftly—I know it. I just want to see what ails the steering gear.

SICK, SOUR, UPSET STOMACH

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia Relieved Five Minutes After Taking a Little Diapepsin.

Here is a harmless preparation which surely will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach within five minutes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Get from your Pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store here in town.

These large 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Gastritis or any other stomach disorder.

For almost everybody, the course of life is fixed by inexorable necessities. Not one in a thousand is free to choose the life he would care for.—Dickinson.

But is doesn't take long to tame a social lion.

When You Feel Played Out

There comes a time when your grip on things weakens. Your nerves are unstrung, the vital forces low, the stomach is weak and the blood impoverished. You feel old age creeping over you. Be careful of yourself. Take at once; there is need to renew the life forces. Weak nerves, wearied brains, sick stomach, feeble blood, torpid liver, sluggish bowels—all feel the quickening effects of Beecham's Pills. Their use makes all the difference. The tonic action of these pills upon the vital organs is immediate, thorough and lasting. They are Nature's own remedy

BEECHAM'S PILLS

For Run-down Conditions

Sold Everywhere in Boxes, 10c. and 25c.

"Two bottles Cured My Rheumatism"

"I have been a sufferer from rheumatism for about two years, and have used many liniments and patent medicines which gave me no relief. A lady friend of mine told me she had used your Liniment and found relief at once. I got two bottles and they cured me. I think it is the best Liniment a person can have in the house. I shall always keep a bottle in my house as long as I can get it."—Mrs. E. R. Wallace, Morrisons, Va.

Another Letter.

Mrs. James McGraw, of 1216 Mandeville St., New Orleans, La., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing to you that I had a pain in my arm for five years, and I used for one week and was completely cured. I recommend your Liniment very highly."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

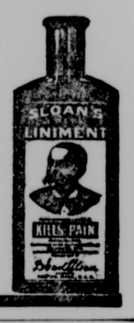
Sloan's Liniment instantly relieves stiffness of the Joints, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Sprains, Neuralgia, Sciatica and Lumbago. Better and cheaper than porous plasters.



At All Druggists. Price 25c., 50c. and $1.00
Sloan's Treatise on the Horse sent Free. Address
DR. EARL S. SLOAN, BOSTON, MASS.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3 $3.50 & $4 SHOES FOR MEN & WOMEN
Boys' Shoes, $2.00, $2.50 & $3.00. Best in the World.

W. L. Douglas $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes are positively the best made and most popular shoes for the price in America, and are the most economical shoes for you to buy.

Do you realize that my shoes have been the standard for over 30 years, that I make and sell more $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes than any other manufacturer in the U.S., and that DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR, I GUARANTEE MY SHOES to hold their shape, look and fit better, and wear longer than any other $3.00, $3.50 or $4.00 shoes you can buy? Quality counts. It has made my shoes THE LEADERS OF THE WORLD.

You will be pleased when you buy my shoes because of the fit and appearance, and when it comes time for you to purchase another pair, you will be more than pleased because the last ones wore so well, and gave you so much comfort.

W. L. Douglas, President

CAUTION! None genuine without W. L. Douglas name and price stamped on the bottom. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE
If your dealer cannot supply you with W. L. Douglas Shoes, write for Mail Order Catalog
W. L. DOUGLAS, 145 Spark Street, Brockton, Mass.

3 Cruises to the WEST INDIES

Three delightful cruises leaving New York January 24, February 25 and March 28, 1911 by the 12,500 ton S.S. Molike to the Spanish Main, West Indies, Panama Canal, Bermuda, etc.

Two cruises of 28 days duration $150 and up. One cruise, 16 days, $85 and up. Also cruises to the Orient, South America and Around the World.

Write for Illustrated Booklet.

HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE
P. O Box 1767 41 and 45 Broadway, N. Y.

MANATEE-FLORIDA

Where fortunes are made on small farms growing Oranges, Grape Fruit and Vegetables. Cheap lands now available. Quick transportation—low freight rates to Eastern and Northern markets via S. A. L. Ry. Two and three crops a year, net $500 to $1500 per acre. Ideal climate year round—no freezes—no extreme heat. Write for illustrated booklet—it's free—address,

J. W. WHITE, Gen'l Industrial Agt.
SEABOARD AIR LINE RY.
NORFOLK, VA. DEPT. 409

ASTHMA CURED TO STAY CURED

No relapse. No return of choking spells or other asthmatic symptoms. Whetzel system of treatment approved by best U. S. medical authorities as the only system known to permanently cure the disease. FREE TEST TREATMENT including medicines, prepared for any one giving a full description of the case and sending names of 2 asthmatic sufferers. Address FRANK WHETZEL, M.D. Dept. Z, American Express Building, Chicago.

Breech Loading GUNS Single, $3.95 Double, $6.75

Sportsmen's Supplies. Cheaper than elsewhere. Katalog for 4c Stamp
POWELL & CLEMENT CO. Cincinnati Ohio

Suicide—

Slow death and awful suffering follows neglect of bowels. Constipation kills more people than consumption. It needs a cure and there is one medicine in all the world that cures it—CASCARETS. 509

Cascarets—10c. box—week's treatment. All druggists. Biggest seller in the world—million boxes a month.

KNOWN SINCE 1836 AS RELIABLE
PLANTEN'S TRADE MARK
C & C OR BLACK CAPSULES
SUPERIOR REMEDY FOR MEN ETC ETC
AT DRUGGISTS, TRIAL BOX BY MAIL 50C
PLANTEN 93 HENRY ST BROOKLYN N.Y.

ROOSEVELT'S GREAT BOOK "AFRICAN GAME TRAILS"
an ideal Christmas gift, must be brought by some one in every locality to his neighbors. The man who applies quickly will have monopoly of field and a high commission. Write for prospectus to
CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS
155 (R.S.) Fifth Av., New York City

Wanted at Once One person in each town to make money at home addressing envelopes for Xmas and New Years trade. Easy work. Permanent if satisfactory. Send a dime for outfit and instructions. The Arco Co., Merrick, Mass.

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

Entered at the Postoffice in Oakland, Md., as Second-class matter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

The Republican is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year.....$1.25
One copy six months ..... .75
One copy three months ..... .40

Advertising Rates made known upon Application.

Remittances may be made by Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft and addressed to

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1910.

TIME and turkeys wait for no man.

MAKE Thanksgiving a happy day for your family and you will be happy yourself.

Now for a Republican administration in Maryland. High taxes, liquor questions, Baltimore city graft, assessment and a dozen other Democratic sins must be atoned for.

PASSING OF THE BUCKWHEAT CAKE

The New York World makes the following pertinent comments on a subject that is just now receiving a good deal of attention throughout the country, under the above caption. Inasmuch as Western Maryland has been a great producer of the trucelent, or succulent diet referred to, we are sure the World's comments will prove interesting to our readers:

"The news that the consumption of buckwheat cakes has seriously fallen off within five years comes from a former stronghold of that breakfast table delicacy, New Jersey. It was from New Jersey that a decreased production of applejack was recently reported. Is the state proving false to its old gastronomic ideals?

"As for the buckwheat cake, its loss of favor is variously attributed to the inrush of patent breakfast foods in the wake of a large commuting population, and to dearer pork, which militates against the inseparable concomitant of the sausage. Whether the presence of wheat middlings in the flour has anything to do with it need not be considered. But the primal moving cause of its decadence is no doubt to be found in a commercialized cuisine and in the deterioration of the art of making buckwheat cakes.

"This is a native art, one not acquired in intelligence offices. Given the old culinary conditions under which it flourished, with buckwheat cakes of the kind that use to appeal to the masculine palate, and there would be no occasion to deplore the passing of this nutritious and appetizing article of diet. The appetite is still there. The trouble is to prepare buckwheat cakes in a way to satisfy it."

TO LIMIT COLD STORAGE

A senatorial committee, of which Senator Heyburn is chairman, has been formulating during the summer recess a report upon the question as to whether the continuous retaining of fresh meats, eggs, butter and other food products in cold storage warehouses causes the quality to deteriorate. The report will be based upon a large amount of testimony taken before the Committee on Manufactures, and in connection with the report a bill will be introduced in the Senate which will provide for the regulation of the cold storage of foods that come under interstate traffic regulations. The report, it is anticipated, will also deal with the question as to whether or not the cold storage process has been used or can be used to unfairly advance the price of food products.

Any national cold storage act to be generally effective must be supplemented by state laws. The big Western butchering concerns now have cold storage plants in every important city in the country, and a national law that would place a time limit on the storage of foods would not touch these concerns. Neither would it affect the plants where eggs and butter are kept under frigid temperatures until the market price can be jacked up to a figure that looks good to the company that is storing these table commodities. The national law, unsupported by state laws, will be a general failure because foods from wherever they may be produced can be shipped to and stored within the limits of the state where they will be consumed. For instance, foods shipped from Chicago or Omaha slaughterhouses to Baltimore and stored there could not be touched by the national law, even though they were withheld from the market for five years, unless they were again to be shipped outside the state. There would be no reason for shipping outside the state, because in every other state there would be plants carrying a cold-storage surplus.

The national law will, however, be valuable as a guide to the states. Some of the states have already undertaken to regulate cold storage by statutory enactment. The investigation by government officials will at least shed much light upon both the question as to what extent cold storage deteriorates foods and the other question as to the use that is made of the cold storage scheme in manipulating prices.

Reason for Thanksgiving.

The delay of the frost will bring 400,000,000 bushels more of corn to the fields than was estimated four weeks ago, and there will be 22,000,000 bushels more of wheat than was expected a few weeks ago. It is now certain that the corn crop for the year will be a little over 3,000,000,000 bushels. That of oats will be 1,000,000,000 bushels. The cotton crop is somewhat short, but will very likely bring as much money as the more bountiful harvest of other years. It is estimated that at the present prices the value of the agricultural production of the country for the year will not be under $9,500,000,000. Of this amount $2,000,000,000 represents the profit to farmers, which is within $350,000,000 of the net value of the production of all the mines during the present year. Within the last 10 years the farmers have cleared off $6,000,000,000 of mortgages from their property. The holdings of the farmers are $3,500,000,000 greater than the capitalization of all the steam and electric railroads and all the manufactories of the country.—Christian Herald.

Two Weeks Course in Fruit Growing.

The State Horticultural Department of the Maryland Agricultural College announces a two weeks course in practical fruit growing, the control of insect pests and plant diseases and spraying. This course is offered free and is open to all persons interested in these subjects in the State. It is an opportunity for the growers to gain an insight into the practical methods of growing trees, packing and storing fruit, and the control of the many pests that are detrimental to successful fruit growing.

This course is announced to commence Januarp 30. The local inspectors that are employed by the State Horticultural Department to conduct inspection of orchards, etc., will be selected from the persons taking this course. It is hoped that each county will have a large number attend the College during these two weeks. The course is given at a convenient time for most persons, and the cost is simply board. Therefore, growers of this county should make use of this opportunity to learn up-to-date methods of successful fruit growing.

BITTINGER.

Benny Long, of Mt. Lake Park, spent two weeks in this village, repairing the foundation of Mrs. K. A. Bittinger's dwelling, and between times assisting Miss Effie at the phone, and on last Monday morning returned to his home at the Park.

B. Harry Wiley, who is in charge of the Beitzell public school this winter, made a business trip to Oakland last Saturday.

An automobile passed through this village last Monday morning, and we fancy the driver felt himself much out of place when he ran his machine into snow drifts three feet deep.

Miss Myrtle Wiley is spending a few days at her home at this place, this week.

Two Italians with a huge performing bear passed through this village last week, occasioning a considerable stir among the small boys.

Clyde Broadwater has purchased a sleigh and his best girl has devoloped a smile to match.

Peter P. Lohr, of Oakland, spent a night at this place last week and the following morning, in spite of the extreme cold he was taken to Swanton by Peter G. Stark and from thence he returned to his home at Oakland.

HAUSER.

Miss Bertha Nicholson visited the Misses Myrtle, Viola and Nina Lathrum last Saturday.

Mr. Rob't Lathrum staid at home over Sunday.

The Porker has just completed his race and is now entering the smoke, causing great joy to his master.

The farmers of this vicinity have been baling hay during the past week

Mr. Daniel Gnegy was an Oakland visitor last Thursday.

We regret the necessary of reporting the sickness of Alpha Hamstead and little Gertie Sisler at the present time. Alpha Hamstead is improving rapidly while the Sisler girl is quite sick.

C. E. Sherman visited with Mr. Lem Reed and family Saturday and Sunday.

Misses Myrtle, Viola and Nina Lathrum visited Miss Nora Mosser last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lathrum visited Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fowler Sunday.

Several turkeys are badly frightened and everything indicates that his strutting is about over. Verily, verily the old adage, "pride goeth before a fall,"

EYES AND EARS.

I have some great bargains in farm and town properties. It will pay you to call and see me before buying. Farms from $600 to $40,000. Town properties from $1,000 to $10,000. One excellent 7 room house, gas and steam heat, desirable location in Oakland; best bargain at $2500. E. S. WEST,

GRANTSVILLE.

Rev. Stover, pastor of the Reformed church of this place and St. Paul, held communion service here Sunday and preached his farewell sermon. The service was largely attended. Rev. Stover has been with us seven years and in this time has greatly endeared himself to the people and also accomplished much good. We are sorry to have him leave us. The best wishes of the people go with him.

The members of the different churches of Grantsville and Little Crossing gave Rev. Morris, Methodist pastor of this place, quite a nice donation on the afternoon of the 16th, which was much appreciated by the family. Rev. Morris has been greatly handicapped since coming here. His wife is quite ill with typhoid fever. They have the sympathy of the people, and we hope for her speedy recovery.

We are glad to know Master Freddie Brenneman, who had quite a siege of fever, can be out again.

Mr. C. M. Livengood has been on the sick list, but is improving.

The Bloughers are moving out of the hotel into their new home, which they purchased of Mr. Augustine.

Mr. Earl Durst, who was visiting relatives here, has returned home.

Miss Ella Gantt has gone to Frostburg to attend the funeral of a friend.

Mr. Michael Nathan, our genial postmaster, who has been in with quite a severe cold, we are glad to say, can be out again.

Miss Ethel Broadwater has gone to Cumberland on business.

We are glad to see Miss Winifred Bonig around again.

Mr. Peter Sower, of Oakland, was visiting relatives here.

Miss Bessie Horchler and brother John are rooming at Ward Beachy's on Quality Hill. Miss Bessie teaches the Aaron Beachy school while her brother attends the high school at this place.

We wish the editor and family a happy Thanksgiving.

NOTICE!

TO THE

PUBLIC.

I have moved my

MEAT MARKET

INTO THE

Nally Building,

where I will conduct an up-to-date meat market.

Beef, Veal, Lamb, Mutton and Pork.

I wish a share of your patronage and thanking you for past favors, I am

Yours respectfully,

H. McC. SMOUSE.

The Up-To-Date Meat Market.

The Maryland Agricultural College

COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND.

Maryland's School of Technology

Fifty-fourth year begins Sept. 15.

Entrance examinations 13, 14.

Eight courses of Instruction leading to professional degree of B. S. Agricultural, Horticural, General, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Biological and Chemical.

The College has a close association with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. College students are permitted to visit the Experiment Farms at Arlington and Beltsville and thus secure an additional equipment for their professional career.

Demand of the age is for men for life's activities. Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all departments. Graduates qualified to enter at once upon life's work. Boarding department supplied with all modern improvements. Bath room, steam heat, electric lights. Location unsurpassed for health.

Tuition, books, heat, light, laundry, board, medical attention, annual deposit, chemical and athletic fees all included in the annual charge of $60.00 per quarter, payable in advance.

Sanitorium for issolation of contagious disease, resident physician and trained nurse in attendance.

Catalog giving full particulars on application. Attention is called to the Two Years Courses in Agriculture and Horticulture. Failure to report promptly means loss of opportunity to student.

Early application necessary for admittance. Write for particulars.

R. W. SYLVESTER, President.

DR. W. W. GRANT,
DENTIST.
Office, McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Bridge and Crown Work a Specialty.
Gold and Silver Fillings. 21-09-iv.

DR. LOUIS J. PREVOST,
VETERINARY SURGEON,
MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.
Office Hours in Oakland from 2 to 5 o'clock p m

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Ravenscroft Building, Second St.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing
Investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title, "Garrett County," sub-title "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

SATURDAY,

the 17th Day of December, 1910,

AT THE HOUR OF 10 O'CLOCK, A.M., at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, towit:

No. 1—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SEVEN, THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-EIGHT AND THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-NINE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, the same being a part of the Caledonia Land of the American Coal Company of Allegany county which are fully described in a deed for the same from Joseph E. Gray, and others, trustees, to Semi-Bituminous George's Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county, which deed bears date the 28th day of December, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 78, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 11 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Semi-Bituminous George's Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county.

No. 2—All that piece or parcel of land containing FIVE AND ONE-EIGHTH ACRES, being a part of Military Lot No. 360, which is fully described in a deed for the same from Isaac Davis and wife to John W. Boyce, bearing date the 24th day of May, 1906, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 350, one of the Land Records of Garrett county. Said land is located in District No. 13 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as charged on the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of John W. Boyce's estate.

No. 3—MILITARY LOT NUMBER FORTY-SIX, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES OF LAND, and being the same lot which was conveyed by Warren C. White and wife to John Boice by deed bearing date the 17th day of January, 1901, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 39, folio 385, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 4 of Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as charged upon the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said John Boice.

No. 4—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS FOUR HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SEVEN AND FOUR HUNDRED AND THIRTY-ONE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, and fully described in a deed for the same from McCulloh Coal Company to Upper Potomac Mining Co. of Garrett county, bearing date the 25th day of November, 1902, and being of record in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 500, one of the Land Records of Garrett county. Said property is located in Election District No. 13 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1908 and also for the taxes due and in arrear upon the capital stock of said Upper Potomac Mining Company of Garrett county for said year 1908 as charged upon the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of said Upper Potomac Mining Company of Garrett county.

No. 5—MILITARY LOT NUMBER TWELVE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-NINE, CONTAINING FIFTY TY ACRES OF LAND, and being the same property which was conveyed to Joseph H. Lewis by Jonathan Lewis and wife by deed bearing date November 7th, 1906, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 126, one of the Land Records of Garrett county. Said land is located in District No. 14 of Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as charged upon the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of Joseph H. Lewis.

No. 6—ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND CONTAINING ONE ACRE, adjacent to the town of Gorman, and fully described in a deed for the same from Mary Lewis and Joseph Lewis to Mary L. Ward and Jennie Wagner, bearing date the 17th day of May, 1894, and duly redorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 24, folio 339, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in names of the said Mary L. Ward and Jennie Wagner.

No. 7—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS SIX HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SIX AND SIX HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SEVEN, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, devised by the will of Daniel Carey of record in Wills Liber B, folio 15, in the Orphans' Court for Garrett county, to Rose A. and Rachael Galvin and Thomas Carey. Said land is located in Election District No. 9 of said Garrett county and will be sold to pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the names of said Rose A. and Rachael Galvin and Thomas Carey.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest there on at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

W. E. HOLLINGER,
Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

All who owe 1909 tax will please make payment on or before December 20th, 1910, or property will be advertised for sale without further notice.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank Of Allegany County.

Stands First among the State Banks of Maryland

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and open an account with us.

JAMES M. SLOAN, President. DUNCAN R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

Capital - $50,000
DEPOSITS, - $175,000

The First National Bank

Friendsville, Md.

Surplus Fund, . $26,000
Undivided Profits 6,000

OFFICERS:

L. E. FRIEND, President,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Vice-Pres't
R. C. McCANDLISH, Vice-Pres't
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier

DIRECTORS:

L. E. FRIEND, Merchant,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Lumber and Coal
W. W. SAVAGE, Merchant,
D. S. CUSTER, Merchant,
H. M. RUMBAUGH, Farmer,
W. H. H. FRIEND, Pension Agent and Surveyor,
HORACE R. DEWITT, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCANDLISH,
JOHN T. GEARY.

THREE GOOD THINGS TO KEEP: Your Temper, Your Secrets, Your Money

Your money kept with us will earn you 4 Per Cent. Interest compounded semi-annually. Keep it here and after while it will keep you.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.

Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. EDW. WINTERS, - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
W. A. Hitchens, Frank Watts,
W. E. Stanton.

A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY

TO GET HAIR GOODS.

THE COLUMBUS HAIR GOODS CO., of Columbus, Ohio, will be represented by Miss Grace Teats at her home in East Oakland with a stock of Hair Goods from NOV. 28th, to DEC. 18th. The public is invited to call and inspect her stock. Special attention given to TOUPEES and TRANSFORMATIONS.

Prices reasonable.

WHY?

NOT BUY THE Best Grade

OF

MEAT

to be had in the city?

YOU CAN GET IT AT

CREUTZBERG'S

Old Reliable Up-to-Date

Meat Market

Cleanliness guaranteed.

I respectfully solicit your trade.

HOMER E. TURNEY,
Proprietor.

P. S. Highest cash market price paid for Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Lambs.

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars

Cameras and Photo Supplies

THE OLD RELIABLE

Garrett National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Commenced business November 14, 1888.

CAPITAL, ...	$ 50,000
SURPLUS AND PROFITS. .	45,000

OFFICERS:

D. E. OFFUTT, President.

G. S. HAMILL, Vice President.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

G. A. FRALEY, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Daniel E. Offutt — Gilmor S. Hamill
John M. Davis — George W. Legge
John T. Mitchell — William R. Stull
Scott T. Jones

Interest at the rate of 3% per annum paid on Time Certificates of Deposits and Savings Accounts.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent at reasonable rates.

Mrs. Harland L. Jones spent yesterday at Terra Alta.

Mr. Samuel Lawton, who was ill several days recently, has recovered.

Mr. Ezra B. Hauger, of Terra Alta, was in Oakland on business last Saturday.

Mr. Jack Grimes, of Deer Park, was in Keyser, W. Va., yesterday on business.

Mr. D. Y. Morris, Kingwood, is in Oakland the guest of the editor and family.

Mr. D. M. Beeghly, of near Bruceton, W. Va., was in Oakland yesterday on business.

Rev. J. E. Wells, pastor of the Hendricks M. E. church, was a business caller at this office yesterday afternoon.

Mr. J. O. Thomas, superintendent of the Tioga Tanning Company at Hutton, was in Oakland yesterday afternoon on business.

Mrs. Henry Lauer left Oakland Tuesday morning for a visit to Washington friends. She expects to be absent several days.

Mr. Bowie Johnson has purchased the residence of Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft on Third street and after making improvements to the property he will move into it.

We regret to note the serious illness of Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, of Oakland, who was taken sick upon his return from Baltimore last Saturday afternoon.

Ex-Senator Brown, who spent a few days in Baltimore with his mother, returned to Oakland yesterday afternoon and went from here to Terra Alta near which place the surveying corps is working on the boundary line.

Subscribe for The Republican.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ravenscraft, of Ridgeway, Pa., who was the guest for two weeks in Oakland of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Ravenscraft, left here Tuesday morning for her home.

Mrs. Annie Lowenstein went to Washington, D. C., last Friday afternoon in response to a telegram appraising here of the serious illness of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Carney.

Mr. Carl Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Brown, arrived in Oakland yesterday morning from Kentucky, where he was engaged until recently playing ball with a semi-professional nine.

There will be preaching in the Presbyterian Church, Sunday, November 27th, morning, at 11 a. m. and evening 7.30 p. m., by Dr. Henry Branch. All cordially invited to attend.

Among those from Oakland who attended the Wellington Humbird nuptials in Cumberland last night were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Offutt, Messrs. Ed. Offutt, Stuart F. Hamill and G. Semmes Hamill.

Chrismas shopping will soon be in full blast, which reminds one that to get the best results the advertising columns of the local newspaper should be used to attract the attention of the purchasing public to the stores of our merchants.

Mr. W. Scott Garner, of near Tunnelton, was in Oakland Tuesday afternoon and yesterday on business. Mr. Garner is a newspaper man of the old school and also the writer of a number of books of an historical nature. He left here yesterday morniug in company with Mr. Lewis Swartzentruber, who will undertake to move a large building at Tunnelton which was purchased a few day ago by Mr. Garner.

THE FOUNDATION OF THANKSGIVING JOY IS A GOOD BANK ACCOUNT=

The foundation of every success, business or professional, is money. Save your money and a good OPPORTUNITY for you to make a profitable business investment will surely come. Begin saving and KEEP ON saving, and you will get ahead. There is no other way to do so.

Make OUR Bank YOUR Bank.

We pay liberal interest consisteet with safety—3 per cent.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OAKLAND, MD.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

The only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

No Alum, No Lime Phosphate

Church Services.

ST PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 2:15 p. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Epworth League Monday 7:30 p. m.
Prayermeeting Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

G. R. WILLIAMSON, Pastor.

ST. MARK S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
Preaching at 10.30 a. m.
Luther League Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Deer Park—Preaching at 7:30 p. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

ST. MATTHEW'S P. E.

Service every Sunday at 11 a. m.
Sunday School at 2:30 p. m.

W. H. SHEARER

MT. LAKE PARK M. E.

Class meeting at 10 a. m.
Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7.30 p. m.
Sunday school at 2.30 p. m.
Epworth League at 6:45 p. m.

P. Z. MUSGRAVE, Pastor.

Mr. George. W. Moon, of near Swanton, was in Oakland yesterday on business and also attending a meeting of the Board of Stewards of the Oakland District M. E. church, which was held in connection with the District Meeting conducted in the Methodist church here yesterday afternoon.

Mr. G. A. Fraley, assistant cashier of the Garrett National Bank, who recently sold his home on Oak street to the Methodist Episcopal church as a residence for the District Superintendent, has purchased two lots on Second street extended and is making preparations to erect a dwelling thereon as soon as weather conditions will permit.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Bittinger and their granddaughter, Miss Cora Bittinger, of near Grantsville, Md., arrived in town on Monday and spent the night with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Resh, of Beachley street, South Side. On Tuesday morning they left for Somerset to spend the remainder of the week with relatives and friends.—Meyersdale Republican.

General Sam B. Lee, of Terra Alta, was in Oakland yesterday on business. He was one of the leaders in the fight for Terra Alta as the county seat of Preston county and told his friends here what brought about the defeat of the forces he marshalled, blaming it upon the quantity as well as the quality of underholt furnished by the beverage dispensers of Oakland to the participants in the fray.

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Ravenscraft left Oakland Tuesday morning in company with their son, Mr. Will Ravenscraft, for Denver, Colorado, their future home. The departure of these two most estimable residents of Oakland is sincerely regretted by their legions of friends and acquaintances. They were residents here for more than twenty five years where they were respected and loved by all who knew them.

Mr. Charles S. Davis is in Pittsburg, Pa., this week attending the meeting of the Retail Hardware Merchants Association of Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The retailers of these three states have formed themselves into an association and will have a central purchasing office in Pittsburg through which all members of the association will purchase their goods direct from the manufacturers, thus cutting off the jobbers' profits.

HOYES.

We are having the real old time winter weather, with fairly good sledding, which some are making good use of.

There was preaching services last Sunday morning at the usual time by Rev. Powers. Our protracted meeting closed about a week ago on account of the roads being drifted.

Earl Fazenbaker, of Westernport, returned to his home last week after spending several days with relatives and friends at Hoyes and Accident.

We still have a few cases of measles in our community, little Lorene Johnson being the last victim.

Troy Glover is moving his household goods this week from this place to the farm near Cove, where he is locating.

Reuben Enlow and family were guests last Sunday of Mrs. Hauser, who recently moved on W. A. Smith's farm.

The annual season is here for butchering and quite a number of our people are done and have their meat stored away for the winter.

Hamill Casteel and family were visiting D. O. Dewitt and family last Sunday.

Mr. Milton White of St. Marys, returned to his home Monday, after spending several days in Hoyes as a guest of William Callis.

Mr. Gene Baumgartner, of Oakland, was calling on our merchant one day last week with a fine line of dry goods, etc.

The members of St. Dominick's church have purchased a very nice wire fence, which they will place around their church and cemetery.

Arthur Custer, wife and sister Bertha all spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Asa Friend.

Charles Johnson has sold his farm to George Seabold, who will move on it in the near future. Mr. Johnson will have a sale of his personal property Wednesday.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF

The First Natinal Bank,

AT OAKLAND,

In the State of Maryland, at the close of business, Nov 10, 1910.

RESOURCES.

Loans and Discounts		$205,095 44
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured		420 07
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation		50,000 00
U. S. Bonds to secure U. S. Deposits		1,000 00
Premium on U. S. Bonds		2,500 00
Bonds, Securities, etc		16,134 57
Banking house, Furniture and Fixtures		42,997 19
Other real estate owned		2,500 00
Due from National Banks (not reserve agent)		988 50
Due from State and Private Banks and Bankers		411 86
Due from approved Reserve Agents		31,335 53
Checks and other cash items		237 25
Notes of other National Banks		200 00
Fractional Paper Currency, Nickel and Cents		306 35
Lawful Money Reserve in Bank, viz:
Specie	$17,537 65	17,537 65
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent. of circulation)		2,500 00
Total		$374,164 41

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in	$50,000 00
Surplus fund	25,000 00
Undivided Profits, less expenses and taxes paid	2,595 90
National Bank notes outstanding	49,500 00
Due to other National Banks	3,841 61
Due to State and Private Banks and Bankers	181 38
Dividends unpaid	45 00
Individual deposits subject to check	225,387 84
Time certificates of deposit	16,219 93
Cashier's checks outstanding	401 75
United States deposits	1,000 00
Total	$374,164 41

State of Maryland, County of Garrett.

I, R. E. Sliger, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

R. E. SLIGER, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of November, 1910.

JAMES P. TREACY, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest: F. A. THAYER,
D. M. DIXON,
E. H. SINCELL,
Directors.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF

The First National Bank

AT FRIENDSVILLE,

In the State of Maryland, at the close of business, Nov. 10, 1910.

RESOURCES.

Loans and Discounts		$138,596 66
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured		479 45
U. S. Bonks to secure circulation		25,000 00
Bonds, Securities, etc		63,997 60
Banking house, Furniture and Fixtures		6,466 01
Due from National Banks (not reserve agents)		6,738 43
Due from State and Private Banks and Bankers		184 65
Due from approved Reserve Agents		19,510 86
Checks and other Cash Items		30 62
Notes of other National Banks		15 00
Fractional Paper Currency, Nickels and Cents		258 89
Lawful Money Reserve in Bank, viz:
Specie	$2,963 50
Legal-tender note	8,130 00	11,093 50
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent of circulation)		1,250 00
Total		$273,621 67

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in	$25,000 00
Surplus fund	26,000 00
Undivided Profits, less expenses and taxes paid	3,791 55
National Bank Notes outstanding	25,000 00
Due to other National Banks	339 19
Individual deposits subject to check	82,619 05
Time certificates of deposits	110,871 88
Total	$273,621 67

State of Maryland, County of Garrett.

I, Orval A. Welch, Cashier of the above bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier.

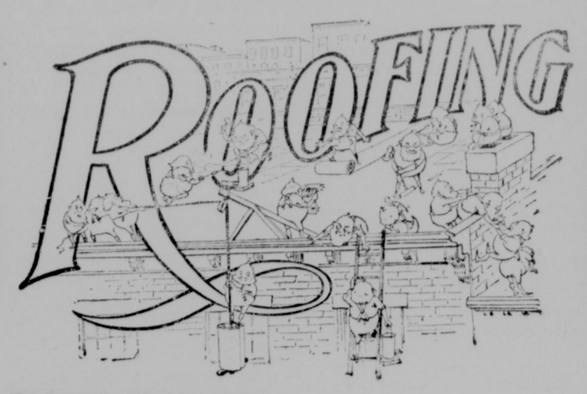
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of November, 1910.

R. M. HOLMAN, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest: L. E. FRIEND,
WM. H. H. FRIEND,
W. W. SAVAGE,
Directors.

ESTABLISHED 1884.

Will you allow us to talk "ROOFING" to you. We have kinds and at any price.



TARRED ROOFINGS—
1, 2 and 3 ply.

RUBBER ROOFINGS—
2 and 3 ply, double and single rolls.

AMETITE—
The superior of all Gravel Roofings.

CAREY'S ROOFING, (Best of All)—
Contains a heavy flexible body, a strong Calcutta burlap, woolen felt and other durable materials, all united into an indivisible weather and water proof sheet that lasts the life of the building.

SHEETING PAPER, NAILS AND CAPS.

Yours to please,

A. D. NAYLOR & CO.

PRICES RIGHT. BOTH PHONES

H. CREUTZBURG.

SEE MY FALL LINE OF

Dress Goods, Outing Flannels, Etc.

Ladies', Children's, Men's and Boys' Shoes.

Rain Coats for Ladies and Children. Rubber Boots & Shoes.

Full Line of MEN'S AND BOYS CLOTHING.

See my Special Pure Wool $10.00 Black Thibet Suits for Men

Boys Suits $2.50 and up.

Hand-Made Wisconsin Shoes for Men and Boys.

Full Line Groceries,

Meat Market in Connection,

ALL AT THE RIGHT PRICE.

H. CREUTZBURG, Opp. P. O., Oakland, Md.

Pay Market Price for Produce.

AUCTION

OF

Furniture

AND OTHER GOODS.

Bed Room Suites, Mattresses, Springs Chairs, Bedsteads, Stands, Tables, Iron Beds, Parlor Suites, Clothing, Suits, Shoes, etc.

We are ready to handle Cross Ties, Mine Props, etc., at the highest market prices.

BOLDEN, BROWN & WEIMER.

The Republican.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Pubr.

OAKLAND, . . . MD.

Let us have only denatured automobile races.

Are the auto races trying to make bull fights appear humane?

Still, at its new price, radium will hardly be a substitute for coal.

The new $5 bills will be smaller. That's appropriate—they act smaller.

Connecticut woman earned $10,000 last year selling eggs—the real thing.

So far none of our aviators has been successful enough to break into vaudeville.

All the pessimist can see in an aeroplan flight is a big crowd and a stiff neck.

A Buffalo man was given five years for stealing a cent. Something of a centence, that.

New York bank thief collapsed when he was arrested. He was a close second to the bank.

Someone has estimated that the earth weighs seven trillion tons. But cheer up! You're not carrying it.

That war in Nicaragua cost 4,000 lives. Men have not yet discarded the blood-letting system in politics.

The doctor who thinks that the Adam's apple is responsible for insanity may be on the eve of a great discovery.

"Venezuela consumes 1,000,000 gallone of kerosene a year." Why doesn't somebody start an electric light plant down there?

Joy riding in the air has this advantage—there are no chickens to be run over. The birds have so far succeeded in dodging.

In South Norwalk, Conn., lives a heroic young woman who played tennis in a hobble skirt. Naturally she broke her leg.

When the aeroplanes dash around the course at the rate of a mile a minute they never kick up any clouds of microbe-laden dust.

If shark meat ever crowds beef in the world's markets a shortage of rain on the great plains will make no difference in the quality.

As a general thing when a girl wears such an extreme hat that a man has to dislocate his neck to look under it her face is not worth the effort.

The greatest authority on love in the world is dead. Calm yourself, ladies--it's an Italian professor. The authoress of "Poems of Passion" still lives.

A woman of sixty years swam five miles in the Mississippi river at St. Louis the other day. It is needless to say that she did not wear a hobble skirt.

Bob Evans tells us that an airship is a plaything and would be of no use in war. But what will Bob do when those bombs begin dropping down the chimney?

Chicago man marries for the first time at the age of ninety-two. He'll have to do some tall hustling to catch up with the average Chicago record from now on.

That Poughkeepsie society woman whose pearl necklace was confiscated by the customs officials might have had it yet if she could only have kept it under her hat.

The waiters now ask to be divided into classes. Excellent idea! Waiters who wait, waiters who make customers wait, waiters who are polite and waiters who are otherwise?

A little while ago the cheering word was passed that lobsters would become more plentiful. Now it is threatened that there will be a shortage of salmon and sardines.

It may be none of our business, but we trust that the sororities will deal gently with the eighty-one-year-old woman who has entered the Ohio state university as a student.

A Kansas City woman, suing for divorce, charged that her husband quarreled with her for going to a funeral. Some men are so mean they hate their wives to have any pleasure at all.

Eighty-two pounds of sugar for every man, woman and child last year! The men may offer thanks that the women and children got theirs.

A Connecticut man fired ten bullets in his head without fatal results. It is hard to tell which was greater—the persisting force of his determination or the resisting quality of his brains.

That incident in Naples where two strangers trying to give candy to children were suspected by the panic-stricken people of spreading the cholera and mobbed with cries of "Death to the poisoners" shows how little progress has been made since the days of the plague, in some places.

SHELTERING MANHOOD

By REV. W. D. BRADFIELD
Pastor Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Dallas, Texas

Text.—Behold a king shall reign in righteousness and princes rule in judgment. And a man shall be a hiding place from the wind, a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place; as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land.—Isaiah 32:1, 2.

The text is Isaiah's dream of a just government. "A king shall reign in righteousness and princes rule in judgment." It is remarkable that Isaiah's loftiest conception of the Messianic reign is a just government. A king his Messiah should be who reigns in righteousness. Isaiah's dream is the dream of the ages. History is little more than a record of a struggle for just government. A government allowing equal opportunities for all, giving every man a square deal, has been the desire of all peoples. Men want justice here and now. More than benevolence or charity men demand simple justice.

It is too late now to seek to compensate men for injustice here by the promise of justice after they are dead. Shelterless people here are no longer comforted by the promise of mansions in the skies. Hungry people are no longer compensated for hunger here by the promise of eating bread in the kingdom of God. Men demand justice here, and the dream of millions of hearts is for the just government which Isaiah foresaw.

The text gives us Isaiah's conception of the fountain force of society: "A man shall be as a hiding place from the wind"—a man. Society is composed of an aggregation of individuals and no scheme for social betterment is worth while which has a goal other than the improvement of the character of individual men. The fountain force of government and society is the individual. "A man shall be as an hiding place from the wind"—a man. The word "masses" was not in the vocabulary of the Christ. He did not seek to reach men en masse. He aimed at the personal character of individual men and women.

His ministry was much to individuals, now to a ruined woman weary of her sin, now to a confused seeker by night. The sum total of his three years' work was the training of a half dozen or more individual men. The fountain force of society is the individual man or woman. Disseminate learning, distribute wealth, do what you will, but you have done nothing permanent for society until you have reached the bettered, the personal character of individual men and women. Exactly this is the fountain force of society as Isaiah saw it. "A man shall be"—a man.

The text is Isaiah's portrait of a sheltering manhood.

"A man shall be as a hiding place from the wind, a cover from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." Isaiah looked east of Palestine and beheld running north and south great cliffs of rock. East of these cliffs he beheld the drifting sands of the Arabian desert. The great cliffs he had seen rise in their majesty and say to the burning, drifting sand: "Thus far and no farther." The drift was arrested and to the leeward of the great rocks he beheld oases blossom as the rose. Here he had seen flocks and herds roam. Then in his vision he said: "The time is coming—the good time is coming—when a man shall repeat the ministry of the rocks. Under his sheltering manhood the weak shall be protected and the fainting inspired. A man shall be as a hiding place from the wind . . . as a shadow of a great rock in a weary land."

It is admitted by all that Isaiah's words are a luminous description of the inspiring and sheltering ministry of Jesus Christ. But they are more than that. They are Isaiah's ideal of what every life may be. "A man"—any man, every man—may repeat the ministry of the sheltering rocks.

Life, it has been said, has aspects very desert-like. It is swept by drifts, now of cruel government, now of social impurity, now of commercial dishonesty. The arresting force has always been a man. The drift of Persian cruelty and social corruption was arrested by Militiades at Marathon. The drift of Mohammedan superstition was arrested by Charles Martel at Tours. The drift of mediaeval ecclesiasticism was arrested by Martin Luther at the Diet of Worms. Great outstanding characters who have repeated the ministry of the rocks which Isaiah saw have made history. The achievements of history are at bottom of the work of these men.

What Jesus Christ did and what the great outstanding characters of history have done you and I are called upon in ous lesser spheres to do. The manhood of each is to be a sheltering manhood. The weak are to be protected, the fainting by the shadow of our lives. Only this spirit can solve our problems. Souls must be given to our great corporations and under the shelter of their benevolence the weak are to be proected.

Unselfish service is to be rendered by every employee and under the shelter of his fidelity corporate interests are to be safeguarded. Remember, it is "a man," any man, every man, who is required to repeat the inspiring and sheltering ministry of the eternal rocks which Isaiah saw.

For Business Girl

TIME was when the business woman took no thought as to wherewith-all she should be clothed—attractively. The tailored shirt waist, the stiff linen collar and the well fitting tailored skirt for the office, with a jacket or coat, and the plainest of hats for the street, made the limits of her choice very circumscribed. Such an outfit, of good material, good tailoring and immaculate as to condition, is hard to improve upon. But a too steady diet of the best of things gets tiresome, especially to women, and along came the business girl, in whom the eternal feminine longing for pretty clothes was not to be repressed.

The business girl, tastefully dressed, is still tailor-made, but with variations. Among her first discoveries was that of the extravagance of the immaculate shirt waist. It had to be fresh as a rose, or its charm was gone. This meant a change every other day, with a longing for a daily clean waist which went intensified in the majority of cases. For laundry bills have to be reckoned with. The business girl took up the dainy lingerie waist, with a little embroidery and a little fine lace for decoration. With three-quarter length sleeves and removable collars, she achieved economy in the matter of laundry bills and prettier dressing at the same time. The daily fresh collar is a joy and an inspiration.

The black silk waists of messaline or other soft satin-finished silks, is a boon to the business girl. They are prettiest made with yoke and collar of white net, lace or batiste. These yokes are easily washed and dried over night, or a set of three will provide for the week. Many of the waists have high collars, with which turnovers are worn. They are not quite as pretty as those with yokes. Black skirts well fitted and tailored, are worn with these waists. The effect is dignified and charming. Other dark colors, such as navy and dark brown, are made up in the same way, but black never grows tiresome. The large retail establishments require their salespeople to wear black, because it is the best choice in colors, but it is much improved by the touch of white near the face in yoke or collar. Yokes of black net are worn by the way of variety.

Now that the one-piece dress is so much in vogue, a black serge, if well tailored and fitted, will give the business girl greater satisfaction. After this, a dark, rich blue is the best choice. The plainest of shapely coats to match, worn with white collar and jabot at the neck, and a smart hat, make the costume all that any one could ask.

It is in the matter of hats that the business girl is most liable to fail in her attempts to get both practical and pretty things. This is probably because she is laboring under some delusions as to what is practical, that is what is durable and becoming.

Very large hats lose their shape with much wear, are difficult to manage on windy days, get in the way in elevators and cars and become much battered and dilapidated before their days are all numbered. Therefore, I beseech you little business girl, buy a small, smart hat, made of good material and in a simple design. Beavers and beaver cloth, felts (in good quality) velvet and (spite of its fragile appearance) good chiffon will stand constant wear. Don't consider ostrich feathers or flowers, but pin your faith to wings, quills or fancy feathers, bows and rosettes of ribbon or silk, waterproof malines or chiffon, in selecting trimmings. Shapes are good this fall. In fact, millinery is the best we have had for many a year.

I advocate the things that make for a dainty, neat, well-set-up appearance, in business or anywhere else. The clean yoke and collar, the well fitting and well fastened dress, the carefully arranged hair, smooth and shining in puff or curl, and the smart and trig street hat make up an ensemble that have frills and furbelows badly beaten, when it comes to real permanent charm. If she only knew it, the clothes appropriately for the business girl are "the best ever."

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

REALLY SMART LITTLE DRESS

Blue Shantung Probably Is Best Material for the Design Given Here.

Natdier blue Shantung is used for this smart little dress; it has a loose and rather long-waisted bodice fastening at the side, both skirt and bodice being attached to the same waistband.

The square cut neck, the edge of right side, and sleeves are finished with a band of tan-colored foulard spotted with dark blue; the band on bodice is continued to edge of skirt; buttons and cord loops form a further trimming. The tucked yoke and under-sleeves of silk muslin.

Materials required: 5 yards Shantung 34 inches wide, ½ yard silk muslin 44 inches wide, ½ yard foulard 24 inches wide, 18 buttons.

DAINTINESS IN SERVING TEA

Small Things That Count For Much in This Most Pleasant Afternoon Function.

As young women are so often asked to pour tea for their friends who are entertaining, they should realize what a difference it makes how the tea is served. If this is done in a careless manner the guests have always the feeling that something may at any moment be upset, and the quiet and repose, which is an essential element in that most peaceful function, is lost.

It is well for the person who pours the tea to rearrange the tray before the arrival of the guests, so that each piece is just where she is accustomed to have it, otherwise she is apt to fumble and move the things about. As far as possible reaching over the table should be avoided and in moving the china care should be taken never to touch the rims of the cups.

Observing these little points makes the difference between an impression of daintiness and the reverse, for which some guests would care more than for the flavor of the tea.

The gown in one piece which fastens up front or back is in excellent style.

The KITCHEN CABINET

WITH weights and measures just and true,
With stoves of even heat,
Well buttered tins and quiet nerves—
Success will be complete.

Cake Making.

A fine cake is the flower of cookery. It requires more care and judgment than many other branches of cookery.

A really good cake is not a common sight, for we need to raise our standards as to perfection along many lines of cookery.

A cake to be in the blue ribbon class should be fine grained, light and feathery white and good flavored. This is speaking for the regular butter cakes which are most common as loaf and layer. Sponge and angel cakes should be fine of texture and tender. A fruit cake, rich without being soggy.

In filling a cake pan it is well to remember that the center of the cake is the part which will usually be the highest, so spread the batter as much to the sides as possible, leaving a depression in the center, then the cake, when baked, will be level.

The making of cake requires skill and care, with practise. Careful measuring is no small part of successful cake making.

The mixing and baking are equally important. Many a well made cake has been spoiled in the baking.

German cooks excel in the making of tortes, the cake par excellence. They are rich in eggs and nuts and crumbs of cake or bread take the place of flour. The following is a delicious one that may be made if the directions are carefully followed:

Walnut Torte.

Beat the whites of six eggs with one cupful of sugar and a fourth of a pound of walnuts, grated, and six grated lady fingers, two tablespoonfuls of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder. Add the juice and rind of half a lemon, cut and fold in the whites of the eggs and bake in layers in a moderate oven.

Filling.

Beat one egg yolk, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar, three-fourths of a cup of milk. Cook until the mixture coats the spoon then add three-fourths of a pound of walnuts grated and a little vanilla. Put between the layers and on top, or the top may be iced.

Keep a pile of pumice stone to remove stains from the hands.

PEOPLE who take pains never to do more than they get paid for never get paid for any more than they do."

A Dozen Divine Points.

Can't tell how an oyster makes his shell? No! Nor I, neither. We have been taught that the oyster is poisonous during the summer months. The old adage, "Eat no oysters in months which have no R," is common to us all. May is the month in which the spawning season opens, and although they are never unwholesome, June, July and August they are poorer in quality and lack flavor—nature's way of protecting her own.

A large proportion of the oysters consumed are eaten raw, so that it is very necessary that they should be perfectly wholesome.

If not absolutely sure of the freshness of the oysters, the liquor should be thrown away and the oysters washed.

Old-Fashioned Stew.

Put the oysters over the heat with their own liquor or an equal amount or water, cook until the edges curl; add seasonings of salt, butter and pepper and turn into the tureen. Scald a quart of milk for a pint of oysters, and pour over the oysters.

Oysters a la Creole.

Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add a slice of onion and cook until pale brown. Add one teaspoonful of flour. When brown add a cupful of tomatoes. Cook until smooth, then add a pint of oysters; when the edges curl add a drop of tabasco, salt and parsley to taste. Serve on toast.

Egg Plant With Mushroom Stuffing.

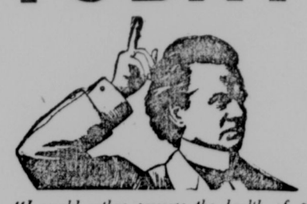
Cut the egg plant in halves lengthwise, and parboil in salted water until the pulp is tender. Scoop the pulp to within half an inch of the skin. Chop the pulp fine, add half its bulk of chopped mushrooms, the same quantity of bread crumbs soaked in stock or moistened with water, half a teaspoonful of minced onion, a tablespoonful of butter and pepper and salt to taste. Fill the shells with the mixture, sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake three-quarters of an hour. Minced ham may be used instead of mushrooms and the onion omitted. This dish is a delicious as an accompaniment to steak or game.

The Old-Fashioned Indian Pudding.

Scald one cupful of cornmeal in a quart of boiling milk, add a cupful of sugar, two-thirds of a cup of suet and the same of raisins, a half cup of flour, cinnamon or nutmeg to taste and two teaspoonfuls of salt. Add another quart of milk and bake slowly three hours.

Nellie Maxwell

CURE THAT COLD TODAY



"I would rather preserve the health of a nation than be its ruler."—MUNYON.

Thousands of people who are suffering with colds are about today. Tomorrow they may be prostrated with pneumonia. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Get a 25 cent bottle of Munyon's Cold Cure at the nearest drug store. This bottle may be conveniently carried in the vest pocket. If you are not satisfied with the effects of the remedy, send us your empty bottle and we will refund your money. Munyon's Cold Cure will speedily break up all forms of colds and prevent grippe and pneumonia. It checks discharges of the nose and eyes, stops sneezing, allays inflammation and fever, and tones up the system.

If you need Medical Advice, write to Munyon's Doctors. They will carefully diagnose your case and advise you by mail, absolutely free. You are under no obligation.

Address Munyon's Doctors, Munyon's Laboratory, 53d and Jefferson streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

Constipation Vanishes Forever

Prompt Relief--Permanent Cure

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS never fail. Purely vegetable—act surely but gently on the liver. Stop after dinner distress—cure indigestion—improve the complexion—brighten the eyes. Small Pill, Small Dose, Small Price.

Genuine must bear Signature

Breath Good

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

A conventional man is one whose action you can predict ahead of time.

Strong Winds and Sand Storms cause granulation of the eyelids. PETTIT'S EYE SALVE soothes and quickly relieves. All druggists or Howard Bros., Buffalo, N.Y.

Hence the Name.

In the service of a Baltimore family is an old negro cook known as Aunt Sally, and not the least of her achievement is the preparation of sea food.

In the kitchen one day Aunt Sally's nephew, a nine-year-old lad from a point where crabs are seldom seen, was watching in breathless interest the old lady's deviling of a dish of such crustaceans.

"Aunty," said he, after much reflection upon this mysterious point, "does debbil crabs come from de debbil?"

"No, chile," promptly responded Aunt Sally; "but dey is de debbil to make."

Lover's Wedding Cake.

Four pounds of our of love, half a pound of buttered youth, half a pound of good looks, half a pound of sweet temper, half a pound of self-forgetfulness, half a pound of powdered wits, half an ounce of dry humor, two tablespoonfuls of sweet argument, half a pint of rippling laughter, half a wineglassful of common sense.

Then put the flour of love, good looks and sweet temper into a well-furnished house. Beat the butter of youth to a cream. Mix together blindness of faults, self-forgetfulness, powdered wits, dry humor into sweet argument, then add them to the above. Pour in gently rippling laughter and common sense. Work it together until all is well mixed, then bake gently forever.

An Attractive Food

Post Toasties

So Crisp
So Flavoury
So Wholesome

So Convenient
So Economical

So why not order a package from Grocer.

"The Memory Lingers"

Postum Cereal Co., Ltd.
Battle Creek, Mich.

THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT 1908 BY BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Innes, spinster and guardian of Gertrude and Halsey, established summer headquarters at Sunnyside. Arnold Armstrong was found shot to death in the hall. Gertrude and her fiance, Jack Bailey, had conversed in the billiard room shortly before the murder. Detective Jamieson accused Miss Innes of holding back evidence. Cashier Bailey of Paul Armstrong's bank, defunct, was arrested for embezzlement. Paul Armstrong's death was announced. Halsey's fiancee, Louise Armstrong, told Halsey that while she still loved him, she was to marry another. It developed that Dr. Walker was the man. Louise was found unconscious at the bottom of the circular staircase. She said something had brushed by her in the dark on the stairway and she fainted. Bailey is suspected of Armstrong's murder. Thomas, the lodgekeeper, was found dead with a note in his pocket bearing the name "Lucien Wallace." A ladder found out of place deepens the mystery. The stables were burned, and in the dark Miss Innes shot an intruder. Halsey mysteriously disappeared. His auto was found wrecked by a freight train. It developed Halsey had an argument in the library with a woman before his disappearance. New cook disappears. Miss Innes learned Halsey was alive. Dr. Walker's face becomes livid at mention of the name of Nina Carrington. Evidence was secured from a tramp that a man, supposedly Halsey, had been bound and gagged and thrown into an empty box car. Gertrude was missing. Hunting for her, Miss Innes ran into a man and fainted. A confederate of Dr. Walker confessed his part in the mystery. He stated that the Carrington woman had been killed, that Walker feared her, and that he believed that Paul Armstrong had been killed by a hand guided by Walker. Halsey was found in a distant hospital. Paul Armstrong was not dead. Miss Innes discovered secret rooms in which the Traders' bank treasure was believed to be. Mrs. Watson, dying, said she killed Arnold Armstrong, who years before had married her sister under the alias of Wallace. Lucien Wallace was born of the marriage.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

At the Foot of the Stairs.

As I drove rapidly up to the house from Casanova station in the hack, I saw the detective Burns loitering across the street from the Walker place. So Jamieson was putting the screws on—lightly now, but ready to give them a twist or two, I felt certain, very soon.

The house was quiet. Two steps of the circular staircase had been pried off without result, and beyond a second message from Gertrude that Halsey insisted on coming home and they would arrive that night there was nothing new. Mr. Jamieson, having failed to locate the secret room, had gone to the village. I learned afterwards that he called at Dr. Walker's, under pretense of an attack of acute indigestion, and before he left had inquired about the evening trains to the city. He said he had wasted a lot of time on the case, and a good bit of the mystery was in my imagination! The doctor was under the impression that the house was guarded day and night. Well, give a place a reputation like that, and you don't need a guard at all—thus Jamieson. And sure enough, late in the afternoon, the two private detectives, accompanied by Mr. Jamieson, walked down the main street of Casanova and took a city-bound train.

That they got off at the next station and walked back again to Sunnyside at dusk was not known at the time. Personally, I knew nothing of either move; I had other things to absorb me at that time.

Liddy brought me some tea while I rested after my trip, and on the tray was a small book from the Casanova library. It was called "The Unseen World" and had a cheerful cover, on which a half-dozen sheeted figures linked hands around a headstone.

At this point in my story, Halsey always says: "Trust a woman to add two and two together, and make six." To which I retort that if two and two plus X makes six, then to discover the unknown quantity is the simplest thing in the world. That a houseful of detectives missed it entirely was because they were busy trying to prove that two and two make four.

The depression due to my visit to the hospital left me at the prospect of seeing Halsey again that night. It was about five o'clock when Liddy left me for a nap before dinner, having put me into a gray silk dressing-gown and a pair of slippers. I listened to her retreating footsteps, and as soon as she was safely below stairs I went up to the trunkroom. The place had not been disturbed, and I proceeded at once to try to discover the entrance to the hidden room. The openings on either side, as I have said, showed nothing but perhaps three feet of brick wall. There was no sign of an entrance—no levers, no hinges, to give a hint. Either the mantel or the roof, I decided, and after a half-hour at the mantel, productive of absolutely no result, I decided to try the roof.

I am not fond of a height. The few occasions on which I have climbed a step-ladder have always left me dizzy and weak in the knees. The top of the Washington monument is as impossible to me as the elevation to the presidential chair. And yet—I climbed out on the Sunnyside roof without a second's hesitation. Like a dog on a scent, like my bear-skin progenitor, with his spear and his wild boar, to me now there was the lust of the chase, the frenzy of pursuit, the dust of battle. I got quite a little of the latter on me as I climbed from the unfinished ballroom out through a window to the roof of the east wing of the building, which was only two stories in height.

Once out there, access to the top of the main building was rendered easy—at least it looked easy—by a small vertical iron ladder, fastened to the wall outside of the ballroom, and perhaps 12 feet high. The 12 feet looked short from below, but they were difficult to climb. I gathered my silk gown around me, and succeeded finally in making the top of the ladder. Once there, however, I was completely out of breath. I sat down, my feet on the top rung, and put my hair-pins in more securely, while the wind bellowed my dressing-gown out like a sail. I had torn a great strip of the silk loose, and now I ruthlessly finished the destruction of my gown by jerking it free and tying it around my head.

Luckily, the roof was flat, and I was able to go over every inch of it. But the result was disappointing; no trap-door revealed itself, no glass window; nothing but a couple of pipes two inches across, and standing perhaps 18 inches high and three feet apart, with a cap to prevent rain from entering and raised to permit the passage of air. I picked up a pebble from the roof and dropped it down, listening with my ear at one of the pipes. I could hear it strike on something with a sharp, metallic sound, but it was impossible for me to tell how far it had gone.

I gave up finally and went down the ladder again, getting in through the ballroom window without being observed. I went back at once to the trunkroom, and, sitting down on a box, gave my mind, as consistently as I could, to the problem before me. If the pipes in the roof were ventilators to the secret room, and there was no trap-door above, the entrance was probably in one of the two rooms between which it lay—unless, indeed, the room had been built, and the opening closed with a brick and mortar wall.

The mantel fascinated me. Made of wood and carved, the more I looked the more I wondered that I had not noticed before the absurdity of such a mantel in such a place. It was covered with scrolls and panels, and finally, by the merest accident, I pushed one of the panels at the side. It moved easily, revealing a small brass knob.

It is not necessary to detail the fluctuations of hope and despair, and not a little fear of what lay beyond, with which I twisted and turned the knob. It moved, but nothing seemed to happen, and then I discovered the trouble. I pushed the knob vigorously to one side, and the whole mantel swung loose from the wall almost a foot, revealing a cavernous space beyond.

I took a long breath, closed the door from the trunkroom into the hall—thank heaven, I did not lock it—and pulling the mantel-door wide open, I stepped into the chimney-room. I had time to get a hazy view of a small portable safe, a common wooden table and a chair—then the mantel door swung to, and clicked behind me. I stood quite still for a moment, in the darkness, unable to comprehend what had happened. Then I turned and beat furiously at the door with my fists. It was closed and locked again, and my fingers in the darkness slid over a smooth wooden surface without a sign of a knob.

I was furiously angry—at myself, at the mantel-door, at everything. I did not fear suffocation; before the thought had come to me I had already seen a gleam of light from the two small ventilating pipes in the roof. They supplied air, but nothing else. The room itself was shrouded in blackness.

I must have dozed off. I am sure I did not faint. I was never more composed in my life. I remember planning, if I were not discovered, who would have my things. I knew Liddy would want my heliotrope poplin, and she's a fright in lavender. Once or twice I heard mice in the partitions, and so I sat on the table, with my feet on the chair. I imagined I could hear the search going on through the house, and once some one came into the trunkroom; I could distinctly hear footsteps.

"In the chimney! In the chimney!" I called with all my might, and was rewarded by a piercing shriek from Liddy and the slam of the trunkroom door.

I felt easier after that, although the room was oppressively hot and enervating. I had no doubt the search for me would now come in the right direction, and after a little, I dropped into a doze. How long I slept I do not know.

It must have been several hours, for I had been tired from a busy day, and I waked stiff from my awkward position. I could not remember where I was for a few minutes, and my head felt heavy and congested. Gradually I roused to my surroundings, and to the fact that in spite of ventilators, the air was bad and growing worse. I was breathing long, gasping respirations, and my face was damp and clammy. I must have been there a long time, and the searchers were probably hunting outside the house, dredging the creek, or beating the woodland. I knew that another hour or two would find me unconscious, and with my inability to cry out would go my only chance of rescue. It was the combination of bad air and heat, probably, for some inadequate ventilation was coming through the pipes. I tried to retain my consciousness by walking the length of the room and back, over and over, but I had not the strength to keep it up, so I sat down on the table again, my back against the wall.

The house was very still. Once my straining ears seemed to catch a footfall beneath me, possibly in my own room. I groped for the chair from the table, and pounded with it frantically on the floor. But nothing happened; I realized bitterly that if the sound was heard at all, no doubt it was classed with the other rappings that had so alarmed us recently.

And then—I heard sounds from below me, in the house. There was a peculiar throbbing, vibrating noise that I felt rather than heard, much like the pulsing beat of fire engines in the city. For one awful moment I thought the house was on fire, and every drop of blood in my body gathered around my heart; then I knew. It was the engine of the automobile, and Halsey had come back. Hope sprang up afresh. Halsey's clear head and Gertrude's intuition might do what Liddy's hysteria and three detectives had failed in.

After a time I thought I had been right. There was certainly something going on down below; doors were slamming, people were hurrying through the halls, and certain high notes of excited voices penetrated to me shrilly. I hoped they were coming closer, but after a time the sounds died away below, and I was left to the silence and heat, to the weight of the darkness, to the oppression of walls that seemed to close in on me and stifle me.

The first warning I had was a stealthy fumbling at the lock of the mantel-door. With my mouth open to scream, I stopped. Perhaps the situation had rendered me acute, perhaps it was instinctive. Whatever it was, I sat without moving, and some one outside, in absolute stillness, ran his fingers over the carving of the mantel and—found the panel.

No Trap-Door Revealed Itself.

Now the sounds below redoubled; from the clatter and jarring I knew that several people were running up the stairs, and as the sounds approached, I could even hear what they said.

"Watch the end staircases!" Jamieson shouted. "Damnation—there's no light here!" And then a second later. "All together now. One — two — three—"

The door into the trunkroom had been locked from the inside. At the second that it gave, opening against the wall with a crash and evidently tumbling somebody into the room, the stealthy fingers beyond the mantel-door gave the knob the proper impetus, and—the door swung open, and closed again. Only—and Liddy always screams and puts her fingers in her ears at this point—only now I was not alone in the chimney room. There was some one else in the darkness, some one who breathed hard, and who was so close I could have touched him with my hand.

I was in a paralysis of terror. Outside there were excited voices and incredulous oaths. The trunks were being jerked around in a frantic search, the windows were thrown open, only to show a sheer drop of 40 feet. And the man in the room with me leaned against the mantel-door and listened. His pursuers were plainly baffled; I heard him draw a long breath, and turn to grope his way through the blackness. Then—he touched my hand, cold, clammy, deathlike.

A hand in an empty room! He drew in his breath, the sharp intaking of horror that fills lungs suddenly collapsed. Beyond jerking his hand away instantly, he made no movement. I think absolute terror had him by the throat. Then he stepped back, without turning, retreating foot by foot from The Dread in the corner, and I do not think he breathed.

Then, with the relief of space between us, I screamed, ear-splittingly, madly, and they heard me outside.

"In the chimney!" I shrieked. "Behind the mantel! The mantel!"

With an oath the figure hurled itself across the room at me, and I screamed again. In his blind fury he had missed me; I heard him strike the wall. That one time I eluded him; I was across the room, and I had got the chair. He stood for a second, listening, then—he made another rush and I struck out with my weapon. I think it stunned him, for I had a second's respite when I could hear him breathing, and some one shouted outside:

"We—can't—get—in. How—does—it open?"

But the man in the room had changed his tactics. I knew he was creeping on me, inch by inch, and I could not tell from where. And then—he caught me. He held his hand over my mouth, and I bit him. I was helpless, strangling—and some one was trying to break in the mantel from outside. It began to yield somewhere, for a thin wedge of yellowish light was reflected on the opposite wall. When he saw that, my assailant dropped me with a curse; then—the opposite wall swung open noiselessly, closed again without a sound, and I was alone. The intruder was gone.

"In the next room!" I called wildly. "The next room!" But the sound of blows on the mantel drowned my voice. By the time I had made them understand, a couple of minutes had elapsed. The pursuit was taken up then, by all except Alex, who was determined to liberate me. When I stepped out into the trunkroom a free woman again I could hear the chase far below.

I must say, for all Alex's anxiety to set me free, he paid little enough attention to my plight. He jumped through the opening into the secret room and picked up the portable safe.

"I am going to put this in Mr. Halsey's room, Miss Innes," he said, "and I shall send one of the detectives to guard it."

I hardly heard him. I wanted to laugh and cry in the same breath—to crawl into bed and have a cup of tea, and scold Liddy, and do any of the thousand natural things that I had never expected to do again. And the air! The touch of the cool night air on my face!

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Worried Over His Trousers.

The humors and tragedies of New York East side life are delineated by Frank Marshall White in an article in Harper's Weekly. Master Jacob Rosenberg, eleven or twelve years of age, was suffering from a broken leg. "His supreme agony came, however, when Dr. M. ripped up one side of the juvenile trousers with a pair of scissors to make room for bandages. 'My new pants! My new pants! He's cutting my new pants!' Jacob shrieked, and almost wriggled himself out of the grasp of the policeman and the driver in his efforts to prevent the mutilation of his raiment. All the way to his home in the ambulance the boy bewailed his mangled trousers more than he did his broken leg.

We think that preachers ought to say more about hell fire and brimstone; people are feeling altogether too easy about themselves.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

ALCOHOL AND RACE SUICIDE

Two Noted Scientists Give Their Views of Strong Drink and Its Effects.

In an address at Philadelphia, Dr. T. A. MacNicholl, surgeon at the Red Cross hospital, New York, presented this striking comparison in the study of two separate groups of families:

"Through a long line of successive generations I have made a study of two separate groups of families. One group, children of drinking parents; one group of children of abstaining parents.

"In ten families of drinking habits there were 55 children. Thirty died in infancy, three of heart disease, four were insane, seven were anaemic, eight were tuberculous, one had diabetes, three had very poor teeth, three had adenoids. Only four of the number were normal. Of the total, two were excellent, six were fair, and seven were deficient in their studies.

"In ten families of abstaining parents there were 70 children. Two died in infancy, two were neurotic and anaemic, one had rheumatism, one was tuberculous, and 64 were normal. In study, 56 were excellent, 10 were fair, only two were deficient.

"Of the children of total abstaining families, 90 per cent were normal; of the total of children of drinking parents, 93 per cent were abnormal.

"Eighty per cent of the children of regular drinkers have convulsions while teething. Of children dying from such diseases as measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever, and other infantile disorders, a large percentage are children of drinking ancestry."

Dr. T. J. Mays, specialist in consumption, Philadelphia, in his address before the semi-annual conference of the American Society for the Study of Alcohol and Other Drug Narcotics, declared that inebriety was very closely associated with consumption. The former destroyed the vitality of the body and permitted disease germs to gather and grow in the lungs. Inebriety and consumption are twin diseases, the one following the other. The disease germs of the latter would not flourish in the lungs if the brain and nervous system were strong enough to throw them off. Alcohol not only frequently causes tuberculosis, but there are many cases where the children of drinkers develop the white plague. A consumptive patient frequently presents himself, in whom the most diligent search fails to reveal the slightest trace of family consumption. The condition is frequently found in the young, especially in girls, who, after careful inquiry, are found to have a father or mother, or sometimes both, who had been tipplers of alcohol.

Children of alcohol parents are from 200 to 260 per cent more liable to consumption, and from 300 to 600 per cent more prone to nervous diseases than are children of abstemious parents.

PASSION FOR GIN DRINKING

Historian Lacky Says Liquor Never Ceased to Be Counteracting Influence on Morals.

In his "England in the 18th Century," Lacky, the historian, says that about 1724 the passion for gin drinking affected the masses and it spread with the rapidity and violence of an epidemic. "Small as is the place which this fact occupies in English history, it was probably, if we consider all the consequences which have flowed from it, the most momentous in the eighteenth century — incomparably more so than any event in the purely political or military annals of the country. The fatal passion for drink was at once and irrevocably planted in the nation. Physicians declared that in excessive gin drinking a new and terrible source of mortality had been opened for the poor. Retailers of gin hung out signs that their customers could be made drunk for a penny and dead drunk for two pence, and that straw was provided free." The latter referred to the custom of having straw in the cellars on which those who had grown too drunk to get home could sleep off their potations. He goes on to say that, "from the early years of the 18th century gin drinking has never ceased to be the main counteracting influence to the moral, intellectual and physical benefits that might be expected from increase commercial prosperity."

Less Scotch Whisky Drunk.

An unprecedented state of affairs prevails in the Scottish distilling industry.

It has just been announced that the North British distillery is to be closed down. This makes the fourth large grain distillery which has ceased operations in Scotland during the past month or two.

At the annual meeting of the Distillers' company, limited, the predominant producing concern, it was reported by the chairman that their stocks had increased by more than $250,000. He foreshadowed the possibility of having to close down one or more distilleries permanently, and stated that such a contingency had already been provided for by writing down their value.

CURED SIX YEARS.

No Fear of Further Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Josiah Clinker, State St., Tama, Iowa, says: "My first symptom of kidney trouble was intense pain in my back. This grew worse until I ached in every part of my body. I rested poorly and was so stiff in the morning I found it hard to dress. I became tired easily, lost flesh and was in a bad way. I was well pleased with the quick relief Doan's Kidney Pills gave me. They drove the pains away and restored my kidneys to a normal condition. I have been free from kidney trouble for six years."

Remember the name—Doan's.

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Alleviating Circumstances.

"Did you say," asked a gentleman who was looking for rooms, "did you say that a music teacher occupied the next apartment? That cannot be very pleasant." Harper's Bazar gives the landlady's reply.

"Oh," she said, eagerly, "that's nothing, sir. The music teacher has 11 children and they make so much noise that you can't hear the piano at all."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, Price, 75c. per bottle.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

An Effort to Oblige.

"Mr. Lowbrow does his best to be agreeable," said the sympathetic young woman. "It's too bad that he has so little tact."

"I understand that Miss Coddleyap refuses to speak to him. He sent her a box of candy and she fed it all to her pet terrier. So he tried to be still more kind and thoughtful and sent her a box of dog biscuit."

It Cured My Baby—Hereafter I Will Always Keep It In the House.

I cannot speak too highly for Resinol Ointment. It cured my baby boy of Eczema. He had a very severe case and numerous other remedies failed to do any good. I would not be without Resinol Salve in the house. It is good to apply in cases of burns, cuts or sores of any kind.

Mrs. F. Cox, Chicago, Ill.

A Sure Sign.

"I understand, Mr. Reuben," said the visitor, "that your son is devoted to the turf."

"Ya-as, I reckon he is," said the old man. "Jabez kin lay down on the grass for hull hours 'thouht makin' no complaint."—Harper's Weekly.

ED GEERS, "The grand old man," he is called for he is so honest handling horses in races. He says: "I have used SPOHN'S DISTEMPER CURE for 12 years, always with best success. It is the only remedy I know to cure all forms of distemper and prevent horses in same stable having the disease." 50c and $1 a bottle. All druggists, or manufacturers, Spohn Medical Co., Chemists, Goshen, Ind.

The Preface to Trade.

"I had a curious experience yesterday," said Farmer Corntossel.

"What was it?"

"A stranger came along and told me a funny story and didn't try to sell me anything."

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over 30 Years.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

The Regular Fare.

"What makes you think that young man will be a success in society?"

"The fact that he has such an extraordinary appetite for tea and salads."

What Murine Eye Remedy Does to the Eyes is to Refresh, Cleanse, Strengthen and Stimulate Healthful Circulation, Promoting Normal Conditions. Try Murine in your Eyes.

Cheap.

Howell—Every man has his price.

Powell—Well, I wouldn't have to borrow money to pay yours.

Sore throat leads to Tonsilitis, Quinsy and Diphtheria. Hamlins Wizard Oil used as a gargle upon the first symptoms of a sore throat will invariably prevent all three of these dread diseases.

The worst deadbeat is he who refuses to pay a debt of gratitude.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

One kind of a curiosity is a woman who can talk but doesn't.

Prominent men everywhere use the Gillette

KNOWN THE WORLD OVER

PISO'S is the name to remember when you need a remedy for COUGHS and COLDS

"WHAT MANNER OF MAN IS THIS?

Even the Winds and the Waves Obey Him."

On the Atlantic, Nov. 13.—Pastor Russell of the Brooklyn Tabernacle is homeward bound. He declares that he greatly enjoyed his visit to Great Britain, where he preached in twelve of the principal cities, including three Sundays in London. He greatly admired the reverential sub-strata of religious thought in Britain. Whether or not the people are really more holy than their brethren in the United States and Canada, they are, he says, as a rule, more reverential in their demeanor—in their attitude toward Divine things.

Pastor Russell considers public thought in Great Britain to be at least twenty years behind that of the States in respect to the Bible as a Divine revelation. This is much in their favor, he says. The Evolution theory and so-called Higher Criticism of the Bible, have, he says, wrought great havoc amongst the clergy and more educated people of America. He finds in Great Britain the same destructive sentiments at work, but they have not yet reached the masses with such force and poisoning power. Faith in God and in the Bible as his Word Pastor Russell has specially sought to inculcate. He feels greatly encouraged and hopes to see his friends and the public of Great Britain soon again, as they request.

His love for our British cousins has not, however, diminished his love and interest in God's people of America. If Americans are less reverential it may also be said that many of them are more independent and more courageous in their convictions respecting the Truth. The British friends should, he thinks, cultivate an independence of thought; while American Christians, losing none of their courage, should cultivate a spirit of reverence for God, for his Word and for all holy things.

Pastor Russell is enjoying his usual good health and continues his literary work on the sea, as on the land. A representative of the American Press Association and a stenographer accompany him. Pastor Russell's address for today was from the following text:

"What manner of man is this? For even the winds and the waves obey him."—Matthew viii, 27.

This text is taken from the Gospel narrative of the storm on the Sea of Galilee, during which Jesus was asleep in the hinder part of the vessel, until the sturdy seamen, appalled by the storm, cried to him, Master, carest thou not that we perish? Then the Savior arose and rebuked the storm and there was a great calm. When the fishermen disciples beheld this they said, What kind of person is this that even the winds and the sea obey him!

The speaker declared that although more than eighteen centuries had passed, the same question is going the rounds of most civilized peoples of the world—"What manner of man is this?" Some of the best thinkers and noblest hearts of all nationalities, Jew and Gentile, agree that Jesus of Nazareth was a most wonderful man. It is still agreed, as in the days of his presence, that "never man spake like this man!" Some, indeed, called him a deceiver. Others said that he was under the control of evil spirits. Others, going to the opposite extreme, declared that this great Jew was Jehovah himself, who, for the time, was masquerading as a man.

"Wonderful Words of Life."

Pastor Russell contends that the greatest of all Jews told the truth about himself, as well as about other matters. When he prayed to the Father with strong cryings and tears in Gethsemane (Hebrews v, 7) he was not shamming. He was not perpetrating a fraud and deceiving his disciples then and since.

We have great sympathy for the fellow-countrymen of Jesus who, failing to understand him, caused his execution, considering him a menace to their institutions. His wonderful works, his wonderful words of life, of which it is recorded that the public declared, "never man spake like this man," and in general his wonderful personality, seemed really incongruous with his general demeanor. Not claiming to be Jehovah, not claiming to be his own Father, as some now teach, but, on the contrary, declaring, "My Father is greater than I," he nevertheless claimed a special relationship to God; and this he demonstrated by such miracles as the one of our lesson. Had he done and said these things as a member of one of the popular sects of his day, he would have been reverenced. Had he joined in with the Pharisees and winked at their interpreting the Law in one way for the people and in another manner for themselves, he would have received much honor from the rich and the poor, the learned and the ignorant. But he antagonized all these by his humility in mingling with the common people, accepting some of them as his special disciples and sending them out as his representatives. This specially branded him as foolish in the eyes of the worldly-wise. This specially discredited him, not only as a man and a teacher, but particularly as one who claimed to be the Messiah, the King of glory who was to set up an Empire. We can well see why worldly-wise people of that day or this day would consider such a person a fraud, a pretender, a deceiver. Appearances were against him.

Jesus declared that the Father sent him and that he delighted to come in obedience to Jehovah's will, to be his agent and servant in the outworking of a great plan for human redemption. Those who deny all of this, and who have awakened so much confusion amongst Christians, and have made the Gospel of Christ impossible to the Jew, should give an account of themselves and explain by what authority they contradicted the Great Teacher—"The Father is greater than I." And when they claim that the death of Jesus was merely a farce, and that he as Jehovah merely stepped out of the body of Jesus and perpetrated a fraud and pretended to be dead and aroused his disciples so to think and so to teach, and pretended later to be raised from the dead—those who thus teach and who thus confuse the minds of all Christendom and Jewry, should explain away, if they can, the plain statement of the Apostle that God raised up Jesus from the dead by his own power on the third day.

"Art Thou a King Then?"

Picture the Great Teacher walking with his twelve Apostles, a nondescript crowd of those who heard him gladly—not many great, not many learned, not many rich, not many noble. Hear him telling them—those who acknowledge themselves to be ignorant and unlearned (Acts iv, 13)—that, if faithful to him, he would "grant them to sit with him in his Throne" "judging the twelve tribes of Israel." The statement surely seemed fraudulent, and he had not the heart to condemn the Jews who so misinterpreted him. St. Peter did not condemn them, but distinctly said, I wot, brethren, that in ignorance ye crucified the Prince of Life, as did also your rulers (Acts iii, 15-17).

Can we wonder that the learned Jews of that day were confused? They did, indeed, hear of his miracles—his recovering of sight to the blind and of strength to the withered hand of the impotent man; and, in the case of Lazarus, at least, they had demonstration of his power over the dead. They perceived that these miracles were having an influence upon the masses—that they detracted from their own esteem amongst the people. They knew that many of Jesus' sayings were wonderfully wise and that his criticisms of their own inconsistencies were remarkably sharp. Yet withal, they said, we know that he is a fraud, because of his peculiar claim to be the Messiah and the Son of God. This claim of his discountenances all of his teachings and mighty works. It cannot be true that he is the Messiah that our nation has waited for these more than sixteen centuries. God would surely send Messiah a sufficiency of demonstration of glory and power to convince the most intelligent of our nation, the Scribes and Pharisees and Priests. What they all dissent from, repudiate and denounce, must be false.

For the Good of the Nation.

The Jewish wise men of eighteen centuries ago concluded that a man who set the masses agog with anticipation of himself as the Messiah-King, yet was without an army and without financial backing for a campaign, would present their nation to the Romans in a ludicrous light. As a result they might have taken from them, at the word of the Emperor, the civil and religious privileges and rights they were enjoying. They took counsel and determined that in the interests of the peace of the nation this golden-tongued miracle-worker should either be exposed as a fraud or be killed. They tried first to expose him by trapping him in his language in the presence of his followers and the multitude. But his intellect was keener than theirs and the thrusts they made at him rebounded to their own discomfort and established his own standing in the estimation of his followers and in the eyes of the people. One of these efforts to show up the hollowness of his claims and their fraudulency and to discourage his followers is worthy of particular notice, as it furnishes us the key to the sentiment of the rulers and also the key to the real facts of the case which those rulers failed to discern.

The Kingdom In Your Midst.

The influential Jews said, Let us question this fraudulent Messiah respecting his pretentions, not with any hope of correcting him, but with a view to opening the eyes of his followers to the weakness and fallacy of his teachings. Then they will see the hollowness of the hopes they are entertaining and their foolishness in leaving their various avocations to become his followers, in the hope of sitting with him in his Throne. They will see that he has no prospect of ever securing a Throne and that they are merely deluded by him in such expectations. They inquired of him, When will your Kingdom appear? How long will it be before you sit upon your throne and have your followers with you in the Throne? How long before this Messianic Kingdom will rule in Palestine and extend from its borders to the ends of the earth? After you have answered us these questions we will ask you others respecting your financial support and resources—your own qualifications, and your subordinate officers; the arms for your soldiers and the supplies necessary for such a world-campaign as you are about to begin, according to your teachings.

The Great Teacher's brief answer entirely silenced every objection. His questions, had these men been "Israelites indeed," would have been so deeply impressed upon them that they would have followed up the matter with an entirely different line of questioning than at first contemplated. But they were insincere. Hence when their questions, intended to entrap the Teacher and Master, were answered and foiled they merely acknowledged their defeat by their silence. The answer was not, as imperfectly translated in our Common Version—The Kingdom of heaven is within you, hypocritical Pharisees, but, My Kingdom, the Kingdom of heaven, of which I am the King, will not appear at all. It will be an invisible Kingdom—it comes not with observation or outward show. Ye shall neither say, Lo, it is here, nor, Lo, it is there; for it will be everywhere in the midst of you, amongst you, invisible but all-powerful (Luke xvii, 20-22).

Truly, what manner of man was this, and what manner of message and Kingdom was his, so different from anything the Jews had ever expected? Can we wonder that only a comparatively small proportion of them were in the heart attitude to receive this message respecting a Spiritual Kingdom? We cannot wonder! Even his most intimate disciples did not grasp the depth of his teaching until, after his death and resurrection, they, at Pentecost, received the special enlightenment foretold for the servants and handmaidens (Joel ii, 29).

Then understood they the true depth of the teachings of him who spake as never man spake. Then they comprehended that he was the only begotten Son of God who, in obedience to the Divine program for Israel and the world, had left the heavenly courts and glory of the spirit nature and been made flesh—"The man Christ Jesus" (I Timothy ii, v). Then they understood, not only that he was a perfect man, but that, through the anointing of the holy Spirit which came upon him at baptism, he was indeed God's Anointed, the antitypical Priest, antitypical Prophet and antitypical King—not that he was these in the flesh, but that the new spirit nature, begotten in him through that anointing, was perfected in the resurrection, and that it is the glorified Christ on the spirit plane who will accomplish all the great things predicted through the prophets, blessing all Israel and all nations, in God's due time. Then they understood the meaning of the Master's words to the Roman Governor, My Kingdom is not of this Age; if it were, then my servants would fight for me and I should not be delivered to death. Then they perceived that his Kingdom will be not the less real and powerful, but the more so, because a heavenly one, a spiritual one, which, in due time, in the Age to come, will operate through the nation of Israel, just as was originally promised and expected.

Israel's Hopes Merely Deferred.

The Apostles discerned that the hopes of their nation were not blasted, not destroyed, but will all have fulfillment, though the time of fulfilling was deferred. They saw that in order to make the Messianic blessing as great as God intended that it should be—world-wide and unto eternal life—it was necessary that a great sacrifice for sins should be made—a sacrifice typed for centuries in Israel's Atonement Day sacrifices—a sacrifice in two parts. These two parts are shown in Israel's Atonement Day—the bullock of the sin-offering and the Lord's goat of the sin-offering. Jesus himself fulfilled the first of these, the merit of which has been applicable to the saintly few of Jews and Gentiles who have, during this Gospel Age, made a full consecration to walk in the Redeemer's footsteps. The secondary part of the sacrifice, the offering of the goat, pictures the sacrificing company of the Lord's faithful disciples throughout this Age. These, under cover of his righteousness, suffer with him sacrificially.

Their reward is to be a share with the Redeemer on the heavenly, spirit plane, participating in his glory, honor and immortality and in his great work of dispensing the Messianic blessing to Israel and through Israel to the world.

Surely, neither Jew nor Gentile can object to the Divine arrangement by which so great blessings are about to come to the whole world. Israel and the world in general have no part in these spiritual blessings. Nor do they generally desire that gift. The blessing that is for them is restitution to human perfection—to all that was lost in Adam. The restitution blessings of Messiah's reign will embrace not only humanity, but also all of their interests, including the earth, which shall become Paradise restored, the glorious home of Israel alone; for be it noted, the Divine arrangement is that all who will ever receive blessings under Messiah's reign must receive it as Israelites, since the New Covenant is to be made with Israel.

How ashamed will all men be when the "times of restitution" mentioned by St. Peter (Acts iii, 19-23) shall be ushered in! How astounded all will be at the goodness of God and his faithfulness in respect to all his promises! How the eyes of all humanity will look back to the days of Jesus in the flesh, when he appeared amongst men to lay a foundation for his glorious Messianic Kingdom by offering himself in sacrifice for the sins of all the people, that thereby he might purge from sin all who ever will come to the Father through him, and will thus have the right to restore the willing and obedient to full perfection and to destroy the rebellious in the Second Death. Ah, then all will know, as never before, the force of the words of our text, What manner of man is this? They will know him as having been when a man, The Sent of God. They will know him as the now Highly Exalted One, far above men and angels, rewarded with the very highest reward which Jehovah could give to his Beloved Son, in whom he was well pleased and by whose stripes Israel and we all shall be healed.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
OF VALUABLE
Real Estate
Near Swanton, in Garrett Co. Md.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from Jacob R. Lee to Edward H. Sincell, Trustee bearing date the 8th day of January, 1906, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 53, folio 502, etc., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, Maryland, default having occurred under the covenants contained in said Deed of Trust, the said Trustee, at the instance and request of the beneficiaries thereunder, hereby gives notice, that on

SATURDAY,
The 26th Day of November,

1910, at the hour of 11 o'clock A. M., in front of The First National Bank building, in the town of Oakland, Maryland, he will offer at public auction and sell to the highest bidder all of the following real estate, situate near the village of Swanton, in Garrett county, Maryland, and known as

"THE OLD ORCHARD."

1. Military Lot No. 1808, containing 50 acres, more or less.
2. All that part of a tract of land called "SWANTON," adjoining the above mentioned parcel, described as follows: Beginning for the same at a white oak tree, the beginning of Military Lot No. 1808, and running thence, North 67 degrees West, 50½ perches to stake on the North side of Crab Tree creek, North 22½ degrees West, 24 perches to the Oakland and Swanton road, and with said road, North 69 degrees East, 9 perches, North 65½ degrees East, 16 perches, North 71½ degrees East, 28 perches, North 33½ degrees East 20 perches, North 35 degrees East 18 perches, North 54 degrees East, 13 perches, North 79 degrees East, 26 perches, thence leaving said road, South 19 degrees East, 60 perches, South 32½ degrees West, 136 perches, North 11 degrees West, 72 perches, thence by a straight line to the beginning, containing 43 acres, more or less.

A large part of this land has been cleared and is improved by a house, stable and orchard, and is most desirably located.

TERMS OF SALE, as prescribed by the Deed of Trust—Cash on the day of sale, but arrangements can be made whereby a part of the purchase money may be carried on mortgage.

EDWARD H. SINCELL, Trustee.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett Co., Md., deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 17th day of April, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

CLEAVER H POOL,

Given under my hand this 8th day of November, 1910.

GERTRUDE E. POOL,
Administratrix,
Kitzmiller, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County Marpiany, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Aministration on the personal estate of

FREAKLIN SUTER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the day 11th of May, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

LUCINDA SUTER,
Administratrix,
Hoyes, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Garrett County, Md., has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

AGNES R. A. M. WHITTINGTON,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 11th day of May, 1911, they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 10th day of November, 1910.

W. H. FREDLOCK,
Administrator.
Piedmont W. Va.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, Maryland, letters of administration on the estate of

ROBERT W. YOUNG,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of April, 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 26th day of October, 1910.

J. F. BISHOP,
Administrator,
Kitzmiller Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters testamentary on the estate of

SARAH MOSSER,

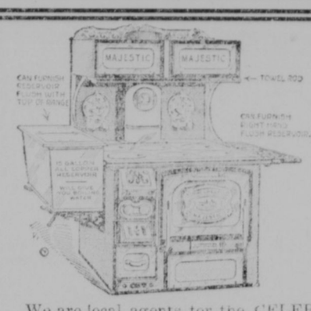
late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 24th day of May, 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 22nd day of November, 1910.

SAMUEL A. MILLER,
Administrator,
Accident, Md.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.

Prompt attention given all ca day or night.
Garrett County Telephone. 24-1yr.



MAJESTIC RANGES
For Coal or Wood

HONEST GOODS.
HONEST PRICES.

We are local agents for the CELERRATED MAJESTIC RANGES—the Ranges with a national reputation. Nothing better is made in the stove line. Goods which are cheap, but not good, are dear at any price.

Why you should have a Great and Grand Majestic Range in your Kitchen—

It cuts the fuel bill in half because it is riveted air-tight, HOLDS the heat where it belongs, and has the proper arrangement of flues.
It is used by your neighbor, who would have no other.
It browns bread all over just alike without turning.
Has large warming closets with the right kind of doors. The only warming closets that you can clean.
It is made in any size and style desired.
It is made of better and heavier material than any other.
It is the only range in the world made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron.
It costs a little more, but lasts much longer.
It is the only range made that has a ventilated ash pit.

S. LAWTON & SONS, Oakland, Md.

THE GREATEST SALE OF
Gas Stoves, Heaters
AND TINWARE
In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting
A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
OF VALUABLE
Real Estate
In and Near Gorman, Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from William A. Harvey and Benjamin E. Harvey to Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, bearing date the 2nd day of September, 1905, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 53, folio 144, etc., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, Maryland, default having occurred under the covenants contained in said Deed of Trust, the undersigned Trustee hereby gives notice that on

FRIDAY,
the 25th day of November,

1910, at the hour of 11 o'clock a.m.in front of the Station of the Western Maryland R. R. Company in Gorman, Maryland, he will offer at public auction and sell to the highest bidder, all of the following described real estate, situate and being in Garrett county, Maryland, in and near said town of Gorman, to-wit:

1. All the surface and the timber thereon of all those pieces, parcels, tracts and lots of lands, the same being a part of the tract of land called "The Addition to Paradise," and also a tract of land called "Beechwood," lying near Gorman, containing more or less, fully described by courses and distances in said Deed of Trust, saving and excepting, however, from this sale, all that part or strip of the surface thereon, of the above described land, which lies southeastwardly of the following described lines:

181 Acres,

Beginning for the same at a point in the 5th line of the land above described, which point is northwestwardly, 150 feet, at right angles, from the middle of the main track of the Western Maryland Railroad Company, as now located, and running thence with the curves of said Railroad at the equal distance of 150 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, through that portion of the land above described which was included within the lines of the tract called "The Addition to Paradise," to the 6th line of the said tract called "Beechwood," thence reversing said 6th line of "Beechwood," to a point which is northwestwardly, 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, and running thence with the curves of said Railroad, at the equal distance of 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, through the said tract called "Beechwood," and thence continuing through that portion of the said tract called "The Addition to Paradise," which was originally Military Lot No 1313, at the equal distance of 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located, to a point in the 2nd line of said Military Lot No. 1313 which said point is northwestwardly, 100 feet, at right angles, from the middle of said Railroad, as now located.

2. All that other lot of ground in Gorman, the same being one-half of Lot No. 3, as designated on Lewis Nydegger's Plat of the "First Addition to Elkins," as recorded among the Land Records of Garrett county, Maryland, bounded as follows:

Beginning at a stake West of the County road and corner to Lot No. 4, thence with said Lot, North 65° East, 3 poles to a stake by the road, thence with said road, North 25° West, 54 feet to a stake by the road, thence South 65° West, 3 poles to a stake, thence South 25° East, 54 feet to the beginning, containing

One-Eighth of an Acre,

more or less.

The above described surface is covered with considerable timber, and is excellent grass land, and the town lot will make a desirable building site.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale, but terms may be made whereby a portion of the purchase money may be carried on credit for a reasonable time, upon proper security satisfactory to the undersigned.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
Trustee.

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building.
Oakland, Maryland.

Auditor's Notice.

Henry N. Mitchell et al., vs. Fred. Mitchell et. al.
No. 1355 Equity.
In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Pursuant to an order of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in equity, passed in the above entitled cause, referring the papers and proceedings in the above cause to the undersigned Auditor for the purpose of stating an account distributing the funds in the trustee's hands and for other purposes stated in said order, notice is hereby given, that Tuesday, the 6th day of December, 1910, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., at my office in Oakland, Maryland, I will proceed to state said account and perform my duty in the premises.

EDWARD H. SINCELL, Auditor.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., NOV. 15, 1910.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, Dec. 5th, 1910,

for the purpose of transacting all routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Clearance Sale of Valuable Merchandise, Vehicles, Stoves, Etc.

We will offer at Public Auction on Saturday, November 19th, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., a lot of Hats and Caps, dry goods consisting of Flannels, Outings, Waistings, Dress Goods and quite a few remnants of various kinds, Shoes, Gum Goods, Winter Underwear, and considerable line of Boys Clothing. Also one Buggy, one Light Wagon, one Light Sled, one Road Wagon, one Double Heater for coal, one Single Heater, one large Burnside, one lot second hand Lamps. Many goods will be sold regardless of price. Come and get some bargains. Terms cash on day of sale or a four month note approved by the undersigned will be accepted.

Very truly yours,
2t CUPPETT, LEIGHTON & Co.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

DR. J. G ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.

Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 34. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1910. NUMBER 40

THREE MEN KILLED IN WRECK SUNDAY NIGHT

Passenger Train No. 7 Crashed Into Helper Engine at Altamont.

In a collision between the engine of B. & O. passenger train No. 7 and helping engine 1790, Sunday at midnight, at Altamont, three trainmen were killed and three injured.

The dead:

L. J. Flanagan, of Grafton, W. Va., engineer of No. 2064, the engine that that took No. 7 out of Cumberland, aged about 42; killed in the wreck.

H. A. Demoss, of Grafton, fireman of engine 2064, aged about 27 years; killed in jumping.

Joseph Weaver, of Piedmont, W. Va., fireman on the helper engine, aged 23; killed under engine tank.

The injured:

William Pierson of Baltimore, expressman.

W. H. Biser, of Cumberland, baggagemaster, face cut and back injured.

Oscar Jeffries, of 1727 Eutaw street, Baltimore, train electrician, cut about the face and bruised.

New York and Chicago express train No. 7 was 20 minutes late arriving at Cumberland and left at 10:13 o'clock in charge of Conductor Albert Shahan, of Cumberland, Engineer L. J. Flanagan, of Grafton, and Fireman H. A. Demoss, of Grafton.

As customary at Piedmont, a helper, engine 1790, in charge of Engineer Pat Small and Fireman Joseph Weaver, coupled on in front, to take the train over the mountain to Altamont, where the helper uncoupled and ran ahead to a switch, to permit the passenger train to run on to Grafton. It is said a westbound extra freight and another helper lay in a switch, and when No. 7's helper ran ahead, Fireman Weaver found the back-in switch frozen up, a heavy sleet prevailing at the time. The helping engine 1760 lay on the main track, and as Fireman Weaver attempted to throw the other switch, the passenger train, running at a terrific speed on the level track, crashad into the standing helping engine 1790. It is presumed that Engineer Flanagan, of train No. 7, saw the other helper in the switch standing back of the extra freight and thinking his helper was in the clear, opened up his engine in order to cut down some of the time he was late.

The passenger train and engine 2064 crashed into the standing helping engine 1790 with fearful impact, throwing the tank of the helper engine 1790 and the engine and tank of engine 2064 over the bank for a distance of fifty yards or more. The baggage and express and smoker cars buckled up in the air and derailed, and to add to the horror, train 96 came on the eastbound track and a part of that train sidewiped the passenger train and was derailed and thrown over the bank.

When the crash came Fireman Demoss leaped off on the right side of passenger engine 2064 directly under the wheels of train 96, and despite his body was mangled and severed into four pieces, he lived for several minutes.

As Fireman Weaver leaned over attempting to turn the switch he slipped on the ice and fell beside the helper engine 1790, and when the crash occurred and the tank was thrown in the air, the iron step struck him in the face at the mouth, severing his head and hurling the body under the trucks of the derailed baggage and smoking cars. Enginneer Flanagan was also buried under the wrecked engine tank and smoking and baggage cars, which were thrown up in a "V" shape. The trucks of the smoking car crashed on his body, throwing him face down, severing the legs and arms. It was necessary to wait until the tool cars came with the powerful cranes to lift up the heavy steel cars before either the bodies of Demoss or Flanagan could by extricated. By this time the occupants of the smoker and day coach had scrambled out to safety, a score suffering with small cuts and bruises. The men under the wrecked cars groaned in their agony and the scene was one of indescribable horror, as those living could do nothing for them, as they lay under the tons of steel. Both tracks were torn and twisted for a considerable distance, and the passenger train lay coiled and bent up, while the derailed freight train was twisted and turned over as if some giant hand had toppled them off the track.

As soon as possible the nearby telegraph office sent in the report, and wrecking cranes and men and officials from Grafton, Piedmont and Cumberland, with physicians, were hurried to the scene.

Promptly on their arrival the wrecking cranes began to lift away the wrecked coaches and freight cars.

Physicians from Oakland, Deer Park and Grafton went among the wrecked cars and attended to the injured passengers and train men.

Electrician Jeffries was thrown out of the baggage car and rolled down the sleety bank. He was picked up and found suffering with bruises and a deep gash in his head. Baggageman Biser was also thrown out and badly bruised and suffered with injuries to the back. Both Jeffries and Biser were sent home Monday morning, the former to his home in Baltimore and Biser to Cumberland, on train No. 4 which was behind the wrecked and reached Cumberland at 9:20 o'clock Monday morning.

A coffin containing a corpse and encased in a rough box in the baggage car was thrown out and slid far down the mountain side.

At the bottom of the bank, broken and in a semi-demolished shape, the engine of train No. 7, 2064, and the tank of helper 1790, lay mute examples of the awful effects of a railroad wreck.

The coaches, smoker, baggage, day and the Pullmans were new and built of steel, and were recently placed in service, and this fact alone saved the occupants from a fearful death by being killed in the wreck or incineration had the train coaches been built of wood and caught fire. The train was electric lighted and the dynamo which furnishes the light was in the baggage car in charge of Electrician Jeffries, and as each coach has a storage battery for case of emergencies, the lights in the train did not go out, and aided in the rescue of the passengers.

The passengers in the Pullmans escaped injury.

The body of Engineer Flanagan, who was single, was sent home to Grafton, where he lived with his sister. The body of Weaver was taken to Piedmont. He is survived by a widow. The body of Demoss was also sent to Grafton. Both Flanagan and Demoss were well known on the West End. Weaver, the dead fireman, had been in the B. & O. service a little over a year.

The Late T. J. Peddicord.

To the Editor of The Republican:

I have participated in a good many celebrations of Decoration Day at Deer Park and elsewhere, but never until the one of this year have I listened to an oration equal to the one delivered in the Deer Park cemetery by the late Mr. Peddicord. It was conceded to be a fitting tribute, and was delivered in his usual masterly manner. Instead of leaving for his home at Oakland after the close of the ceremonies, he remained as the guest of honor, and did not leave until the day had ended. He was always courteous in his demeaner to others.

In the afternoon Mr. Peddicord occupied a seat on the platform at the termination of the tournament exercises. I had been delegated to make appropriate remarks in presenting the prizes, and for the first time in my life I was unable to say a word of any moment. I could think of nothing but the eloquent words of the gentleman who had delivered the morning oration, and my effort was of the feeblest character.

My judgment is now, that Mr. Peddicord would have been an attentive listened to my remarks, crude as they might have been, for he was always polite and considerate. He was a gentleman in every sense.

GEO. W. HAULENBEEK

Deer Park, Nov. 27, 1910.

DECEMBER FORECAST

As Predicted By Peter R. Smith, Our Weather Reporter.

December will come in with a storm wave advancing from the west, which will be central on the 3d. The temperature will grow warmer as the wave advances. Rain, snow and wind will show up in all central parts. North winds will follow the rain and snow, turning cold, which will continue to the 6th.

A storm wave will be on transit on the 6th, 7th and 8th. The temperature will and weather will turn cold and then relax on the 11th.

A wave of disturbances will start in the west on the 11th, growing warmer and be on passage to the 16th. Rain and snow will prevail. After the passage of the wave the weather will turn cold.

From the 16th to the 21st will be a stormy time. Rain, sleet and snow will prevail and in northern sections blizzards will show up, followed by extreme cold.

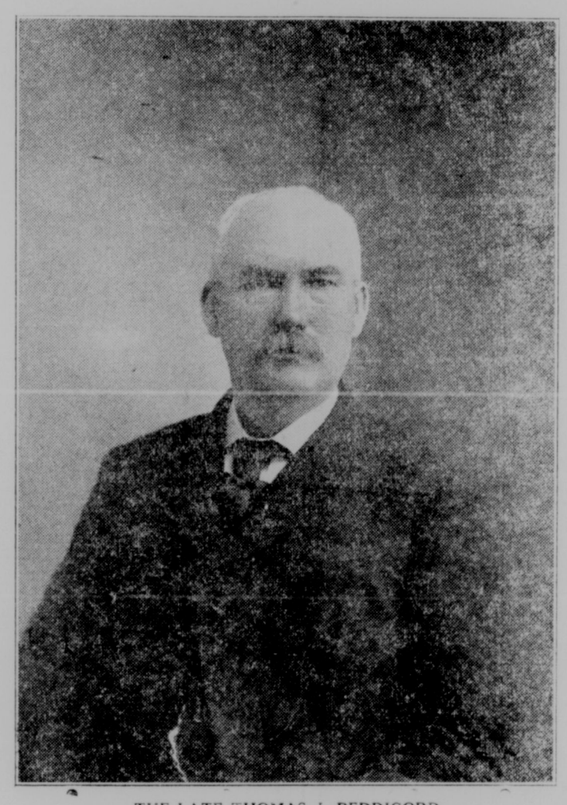
On the 21st to the 27th, or within the period, another wave of intense cold will follow. The month will close with a storm prevailing.

Hotel Changes Management.

Mrs. L. C. B. List, who has conducted a hotel at Loch Lynn Heights, has relinquished the control of the Hotel Manley, Fairmont, W. Va., to J. W. Irwin, one of the principal stockholders. Mrs. List will return to Wheeling.

Death of Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord Occurred in Oakland Friday Night

After a Week's Illness of Pneumonia—Tribute to His Memory by the Bar—The Funeral Services.



THE LATE THOMAS J. PEDDICORD

Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, the oldest member of the Garrett county bar and its recognized leader, died late last Friday night at his home in Oakland after a brief illness from pneumonia. He was stricken a week prior to his death by a bad cold which terminated fatally. Mr. Peddicord came to Garrett county soon after its formation in 1872 and was the third lawyer to establish himself in the county. He was of striking personal appearance and despite advancing years he retained a sturdy frame and looked younger than he really was. He was 71 years old on November 9.

Mr. Peddicord is survived by his second wife, who was Mrs. Harriet Lindley Whipps, of Hamilton, Ohio, and by one son, Mr. Clagett Peddicord, postmaster of Oakland, and three daughters, Mrs. George O. Miller, Oakland; Mrs. Fred A. Thayer, wife of former State's Attorney Thayer, Oakland; and Mrs. T. E. Briggs, Gaithersburg, Md., children of the first marriage. Mr. Peddicord was born near Lisbon, Anne Arrundel county, now Howard county, Md., and was one of nine children of Washington A. Peddicord and Rebecca Crawford Peddicord, his mother having been a daughter of John Crawford of Howard county. Mr. Peddicord lived on the farm up to the time of his majority. He attended the common schools until he was 16 years of age and then for two years he was tutored by William T. Crapster, a graduate of Harvard. He started to study medicine but after a time gave it up. At 21 he married Rebecca Clagett, daughter of James H. Clagett of Gaithersburg, Montgomery county. For five years after his marriage he carried on a farm given him by his father. At the end of the five years he sold his farm and became deputy sheriff under his father-in-law and for two years—1868 and 1869—while acting as sheriff he devoted his spare time to the study of law. He was admitted to the bar, January, 1871, and opened an office at Rockville, where he continued the practice of his profession until 1873 when he removed to Oakland.

While a Republican and a successful man in a county largely Republican, Mr. Peddicord uniformly declined to run for office. Previous to 1879 he was identified with the Democratic party. Mr. Peddicord was once a partner of the late H. Wheeler Combs, who was prominent in law and politics in Oakland in the late seventies. Mr. Peddicord was a Mason and an Odd Fellow.

At one time he was identified with the Maryland National Guard and was a member of the colonel's staff. He was inspector of rifle practice. He was conspicuous in the National Guard during the days of the Garrett Guards and the famous Haymaker rifle team.

Mr. Peddicord was public spirited. He was fond of contributing to the newspapers and he was always boosting Oakland and Garrett county and the natural wealth of the latter. He used the non-de-plume, "T. Jay." Mr. Peddicord was a member of the Presbyterian church.

There was rarely a case of importance tried in Garrett county that he did not appear and his practice extended elsewhere.

Mr. Peddicord's funeral occurred Monday afternoon at two o'clock from the Oakland Presbyterian church, Rev. John A. McClelland, of Grafton, a former pastor of the church, conducting the services, assisted by Rev. G. R. Williamson, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church, of Oakland. Notwithstanding the bad weather prevailing at the hour of the services the church was comfortably filled with sympathetic friends of the family of Mr. Peddicord. The members of the bar attended in a body and as a mark of respect of the deceased every business house in the town was closed during service at the church.

The service at the church was of a simple nature, consisting of the singing a hymn, the reading of a scripture lesson by Rev. McClelland and prayer by Rev. Williamson, followed by a sermon delivered by Mr. McClelland, who said, in part:

In the first chapter of Jeremiah we have a remarkable question put to a young man. The Lord asked this young man what he saw, and the young man replied, "I see the rod of an almond tree," then comes the words of commendation, "Thou hast well seen."

One of the greatest troubles that the human family has is this difficulty of seeing. We see things so differently that sometimes our vision becomes obscured. The spirit that is in us will affect our vision.

It is said that sometime after the battle of Waterloo, Wellington invited Blucher to be his guest in London. Taking the old warrior to a point of vantage he showed him a wonderful panorama of the greatest city in the world. Blucher became engrossed looking upon the picture, and the blood of a heathen ancestry mounting to his cheek, he cried out, "What a city for pillage." His long life of fire and blood-shedding robbed him of anything but the thought of loot.

There are four ways in which we may look at things: through the microscope, the spectroscope, the telescope and the kaleidoscope.

The microscope magnifies, and often we are tempted to examine our troubles through this instrument. Mary at the tomb looking for her Lord used the microscope, and her tears so magnified things that morning she did not recognize the object of her quest. But supposing Him to be the gardner cried out, "Sir, if thou hast borne Him hence tell me where, and I will come and take Him away." Let us be careful with the microscope.

The spectroscope is used to examine the color of flame or fire so that we may determine what is burning. Jacob looked at his trouble through the spectroscope, and when his deceitful sons brought Joseph's coat, which had been dipped in the blood of a beast, poor old Jacob cried out in agony, "This is my son's coat; without a doubt Joseph is rent in pieces." Instead of being destroyed Joseph was getting ready to rule Egypt.

The telescope is used to see in the distance. This is the instrument we so often neglect to use. David shows us how he used it. When the little child in which his heart was wrapped up was taken away, he rose from the earth and looking beyond the little grave, said "He cannot return to me, but I can go to him." Blessed be the telescope.

The kaleidoscope is an instrument in which you put a handful of fragments, but turn this instrument as you please the fragments will always have symmetry. Job teaches us how to use it. Crash after crash came into his life until at last he stood among the fragments of his former greatness but he gathered them all up and putting them into his kaleidoscope and bowing reverently said, "Naked I came into this world, naked shall leave; the Lord hath given and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord."

When the trials of life come upon us let us pick up the fragments that singly seem flotsam and jetsam, but in the kaleidoscepe we will see God's arrangements, which will be altogether a different pattern.

Through this instrument I desire to veiw with you today the life of my departed friend. As I asked the friends to look with me what do I see? This wonderful message, "Weeping may sojourn for a night, joy cometh in the morning."

Rev. McClelland closed his remarks by offering a fervent prayer. Another hymn was sung and the body was then conveyed to the cemetry in Oakland where it was interred with simple ceremonies, there to await the resurrection of the just.

Following the death of Mr. Peddicord a called meeting of the Garrett County Bar Association was held at the office of Mr. E. H. Sincell when the following action was taken by that body:

At a meeting of the members of the Bar of the Circuit Court for Garrett County held on the 28th day of November, 1910, the following preamble and resolution was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Bar of Garrett County has learned with deep and profound sorrow of the death of Thomas J. Peddicord, Esquire, which occurred at his home in Oakland on Friday, the 25th day of November, 1910. His demise is a personal loss to every member of the Bar. For more than thirty-seven years past, at every term of this Court, he was always found at his place at the Bar, actively engaged in the prosecution or defense of the causes committed to his care, and advancing years did not seem to lessen his skill as an advocate or detract from his force as an erudite and able lawyer; he was possessed of an exact memory, great vigor of intellect and wonderful power of logical analysis; he knew the law and knew how to apply it, and could state the law with wonderful force and clearness; in every field of the law he was equally at home, and it is no disparagement of the ability of others to say that he was the greatest ejectment lawyer in the State of Maryland; he was an able criminal lawyer as well as a most competent corporation attorney, and in the field of equity jurisprudence he was well versed and fully qualified to undertake and handle with consummate ability the intricacies of this branch of legal practice; nowhere was his legal skill more clearly demonstrated than in the preparation of complex and intricate pleadings at the trial table, without time or opportunity to examine the authorities and legal principles governing the rightful disposition of the questions at issue. His industry was tireless and his capacity for details was boundless. Possessing all these qualities, so essential to success, Thomas J. Peddicord attained distinction and professional prominence only reached by the few.

His great love for children was a beautiful trait of his character, and his loyalty to his church and work in its Sunday school were subjects of universal comment and approval among his neighbors and friends.

We deeply sympathize with his bereaved widow and family in their sorrow.

Resolved, That this expression of our appreciation of the character and esteem in which we held our departed friend and brother be reported to the Circuit Court for Garrett county at its next sitting; that a copy hereof be inserted in the county press, and that these resolutions be transmitted to his widow.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
JOHN T. MITCHELL,
ASA T. MATTHEWS,
J. C. RENNINGER,
Committee.

THREE YEARS IN HOUSE OF CORRECTION FOR ASSAULT

A Salty Dose Given One Young Man for Pummeling Another Thursday Night.

Three years in the House of Correction for an assault committed by one young man upon another last Thursday night on the highway leading east from the White Church, was the sentence of Justice Teats Friday afternoon when the prisoner, Edgar Shillingburg, was found guilty of the charge preferred against him by Emory Shillingburg, his cousin.

The young men had been to service at the White Churh previous to the assault. Emory going home by himself while Edgar and his older brother Arley were ahead of him on the same road. At a point halt mile east of the church it is alleged that the two brothers assaulted Emory, one from the rear and the other in front. Emory was mauled unmercifully, one of his eyes being closed tight and he also had a bad cut in the back of his head, made evidently by some blunt instrument.

The assault occurred some time between ten and eleven o'clock and an hour afterward the news reached the sheriff's office by telephone. Sheriff Shartzer responded immediately and at two o'clock Friday morning after a drive of upwards of twenty miles both Arley and Edgar were in jail in Oakland, the latter standing trial before the justice and the former deciding to take his case direct to the Court which convenes Monday.

Since the imposition of the sentence of three years in the House of Correction in the case of Edgar he has entered an appeal which will also be determined at Court.

DIXON & KELSO

DIXON & KELSO has an order for

4 Cars Pin Oak and Red Oak Ties, same size as No. 1 B. & O.

Will pay 40c. delivered to our yard.

EAR CORN.

Have 2 Cars Yellow Ear Corn, the best that ever came to Oakland. Will sell at 90c bbl., of 115 lbs.

MINE PROPS.

We can handle 10 foot Mine Props, 4 1-2 inches in diameter at small end, at 10c, delivered at our yard.

Cannot be overstocked with B. & O. Ties. Will pay 65c. for No. 1 and 50c. for No. 2 Oak; 45c for No. 1 and 30c for No. 2 Chestnut, half cash.

Yours to Please. DIXON & KELSO.

KODAK SAFETY FILM

The Republican.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Pubr.

OAKLAND, . . . MD.

Build, do not knock.

Is it really autumn at last?

If a hen is a bird, what is a bird?

Dynamiters are criminals of the lowest type.

There were high fliers even before the days of airships.

In a dirigible balloon there is nowhere to go but away.

Whoever named it the "dirigible" balloon should try again.

Fly paper is not a good antidote for typhoid, but it may be a preventive.

An aviation meet is equal to an opera season for bringing a spell of bad weather.

Those customs inspectors are becoming so expert that they can actually smell jewelry.

Cholera has gone to Siberia—of its own notion. If it would only stay there in perpetual exile!

Now approaches the season when the chauffeurs of balloons will have to take their vacations.

That woman joy rider who stole cabbages seems to have had one concealed in her drum-major hat.

This country has raised 1,096,000,000 bushels of oats during the past season, not including the wild variety.

New York expects to succeed Paris as a center for women's fashions. A terrible responsibility, as fashions now run!

The world need no longer remain out of joint. Surgeons, it seems, can make new joints that rival the original ones.

A common house fly can go 35 feet per second. Why doesn't it maintain this rate of speed when headed the other way?

Doctors are telling how they repair broken bones with tenpenny nails. Woman doctors should do wonders with hairpins.

That chauffeur who is going to drive an automobile to the top of a volcano in Hawaii would better wait until he gets an airship.

In Oregon bear hunts are being made successfully with automobiles. But human victims saw their power of destruction first.

In five of the nine complete months of 1910 American imports have been in excess of exports. We are buying more than we sell.

A Connecticut man heard a joke and hiccoughed for eight days. Possibly, like those Connecticut clocks, it was an eight-day joke.

In Los Angeles a pneumatic barber chair exploded and hurt a man. Thus we see that excessive luxury carries its own punishment.

That a dealer in decayed eggs has been fined $200 is a pleasing and instructive fact. The public gets the pleasure and the dealer the instruction.

It is rumored that Wall street may hereafter be opened with prayer. Prayer may not be what Wall street needs most, but it will undoubtedly help some.

Postal authorities in Madagascar are arranging for the carrying of mails on the island by aeroplane. However, it probably will be some time before the airship will succeed rural free delivery in the United States.

A Pittsburg man is in trouble because he thought it was cheaper to get married than it was to live singly and learned differently too late. A lot of other men have had the same experience.

To a cold and backward season in Europe, with serious results to crops, have been added a number of destructive floods, the latest of which is that in the vicinity of Barcelona, Spain. America has enough weather eccentricities, but the old world has been the worst sufferer this year.

That four-toed horse found in the "bad lands" of Wyoming and reputed to be the ancestor of the present equine race, undoubtedly has great interest as a scientific find. But as a show to attract the multitude he probably will not be in the same class with the "woolly horse" of earlier days.

One of the scientists declares that in 100 years all the people of New York will be living underground. He must think they are going to solve the problem of getting better air underground before the lapse of another century.

The crown prince of Servia is desirous, according to a recent report, of marrying a rich American girl. After one has looked over the supply of Servian girls one wonders why the crown prince insists that the American girl must be rich.

PROMINENT MEN ON WHISKY

Several Opinions of Great Leaders on Injury Being Done to World by Liquor Habit.

The editor of McClure's Magazine publishes the opinions of many noted men on the subject of whisky. A few of these follow:

"Joseph Chamberlain, the great English statesman, says, of whisky:

"'If there is in the whole of this business any single encouraging feature, it is bound to be found in the gathering impatience of the people at the burden which they are about to bear, and their growing indignation and sense of shame and disgrace which this imposes upon them. The fiery serpent of drink is destroying our people, and now they are awaiting with longing eyes the uplifting of the remedy.'

"Sir Andrew Clark, the great London physician:

"'I am speaking solemnly and carefully in the presence of truth, and I tell you that I am considerably within the mark when I say to you that, going the round of my hospital wards today, seven out of every ten owed their ill health to alcohol.'

"The late Edward Everett Hale:

"'If anybody will take charge of all Boston's poverty and crime which results from drunkenness, the South Congregational church, of which I have the honor to be the minister, will alone take charge of all the rest of the poverty which needs relief in the city of Boston.'

"Abraham Lincoln:

"'The liquor traffic is a cancer in society, eating out the vitals and threatening destruction, and all attempts to regulate it will not only prove abortive, but will aggravate the evil. There must be no more attempts to regulate the cancer. It must be eradicated, not a root must be left behind; for, until this is done, all classes must continue in danger of becoming victims of strong drink.'

"Bishop Phillips Brooks:

"'If we should sweep intemperance out of our country, there would be hardly poverty enough left to give healthy exercise to our charitable impulses.'

"Governor J. W. Folk, of Missouri:

"'It is a business the natural tendency of which is toward lawlessness, and the time has come when it will either run the politics of the state or be run out of the politics of the state.'

"Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor:

"'I have looked into a thousand homes of the working people of Europe; I do not know how many in this country. In every case, so far as my observation goes, drunkenness was at the bottom of the misery, and not the industrial system or the industrial surroundings of the men and their families.'"

FEWER DRUNKS IN ENGLAND

Extra Tax and Hard Times Are Proving Great Boost to Temperance in Great Britain.

Temperance advocates are working hard just now in England driving home statistics to show that legislation can prevent drunkenness. A blue book just issued shows that in the last 12 months there were 169,518 convictions from drunkenness, a drop of 18,285 on the year before.

The decrease is credited to the extra tax of 90 cents a gallon placed by Chancellor of Exchequer Lloyd-George on spirits in the budget that began to operate April 30 last year. Liquor men promptly put up the retail prices, and numbers of buyers either took to cheaper and milder lubricants or abstained altogether. Women are much addicted to drink in England, but last year a lower number were convicted of insobriety than before. They evidently found the soaring price of foodstuffs all round left less over for "a litti drop of spirits."

Drunkard a Menace.

Dr. Branthwaite, inspector under the inebriate acts, England, says that every inebriate is either a potential criminal, a burden upon public funds, a danger to himself and others, or a cause of distress, terror, scandal, or nuisance to his family, and those with whom he associates. Every inebriate, moreover, by precept, example, neglect of children and in other ways, is a detriment to national welfare in years to come. Interference with the liberty of the inebriate, he said, so that the persons and liberty of others might be safeguarded, is therefore justified, and to carry this out legislation amply protected against misapplication is needed.

A Judge on Drink and Crime.

In charging the grand jury at the Glamorgan assizes at Swansee, South Wales, recently, Mr. Justice Scrutton, who is a well known criminal judge, said the greater number of crimes were probably due to drink. When popular education and the growth of social feeling had succeeded in making it more of a disgrace than it was at present for a man to be intoxicated, and when legislation had given fewer facilities for obtaining drink half his work as a criminal judge would be gone.

God Will Be God For All That

By REV. F. FINCHER
Pastor Second Presbyterian Church
Houston, Texas

Text.—Thus did God render the wickedness of Abimeleck—and all the evil of men of Sechem did God render upon their heads.—Judges 9:56, 59.

Our text reads, "Thus did God render the wickedness of Abimeleck—and all the evil of the men of Shechem did God render upon their heads."

"The mills of the gods grind slow but they grind exceedingly small," History keeps on repeating this truth. Back of all the mystery of human deeds is the ruling of a mighty hand. Abimeleck learned this to his sorrow. He had gained his throne by murder and ruled with hands dyed in blood. But evil hunts for the wicked to overthrow him. One of his own number conspired for his ruin and the story of his fall by a stone hurled from a woman's hand is graphically told in this chapter. Our text merely gives the reason why: "God will be God for all that," is here sounded forth in words that can not die.

Let us learn first that God rules over all and no wrong shall ever go unpunished. All dealings with men have also their deal with God. There are three parties to every transaction, God, myself and my brother man and none can be left out. In wronging my brother I wrong God and the wrong shall not go unrequited. History repeats this story over and over. "Be sure your sin will find you out." Abimeleck was no exception. The blood of his seventy brethren was crying out for vengeance. His fall was inevitable. This truth needs added emphasis today. Many are amassing wealth by means foul or fair, regardless of law either that of man or God. But there shall surely come a day of reckoning, not only from men, but God Himself shall set right every wrong. Vengeance may be slow, but it is nevertheless sure.

The crime of murder is fast on the increase. Statistics show that a large per cent of the guilty go free. But there is yet a sterner Judge from whose law no guilty one shall escape.

Then again our text shows how men reap what they sow. Abimeleck had gained his throne by murdering all who stood in his way and now he falls by a murderer's hand. "He that sows to the wind shall reap the whirlwind." A life of sin must end in a life of shame. A man's conduct always comes back to him. Jacob deceived his father and in his old age he reaps the sorrow of deceit and falsehood at the hands of his eleven sons. The man who swindles to make his fortune will most surely reap loss and ruin at the swindler's hand.

Note also that God carries on His purpose despite the sin of those entrusted with power. God will still be God after all, and He is the last one with whom we must reckon. We shall not be able to foil His purpose nor thwart His plan. Our resistance shall only become our ruin. Abimelech found it so. Might could not make right and error shall not stand. That man or nation that persists in wrongdoing God shall set aside and it shall fall. We call ours a great nation and it is, but we have some grievous sins laid to our charge. Our civilization is fast leaving God out and has little regard for His eternal law. We often weigh with a false weight and sell with a false measure. Right is often changed to suit the occasion while men in high places set up false standards. Let us be sure that all this graft and greed and wrong shall become our undoing for we are dealing with God as well as with man. If we continue to resist and break His law He shall cause the destroyer to rise up in our midst, and though we fall His purpose shall go evenly on.

Then, again, I think this text clearly teaches that God will most surely care for His own. Those who trust Him shall never be forsaken. In the end our cause shall triumph because it is God's cause. Not so much it is because God is on our side, but rather because we are on the side that God upholds and makes to triumph. He will care for us though all else shall fail. Though, like Elijah, we seem all alone, God's tender care shall be our constant stay. While we trust and obey Him the cruse of oil shall not fail nor shall the bread be exhausted. He shall ever keep us in the hollow of His hand.

Church Attendance.

The best preparation for life any young man can have who, from college or high school, or otherwise, enters the wider arena of the world's life is a church-going habit. Such a habit is a steadying force in the young man's life, and brings him periodically into contact with the uplifting forces and sweeter influences, disseminated through the church, which go to make existence intellectually intelligible and morally worth while. Few young men will go utterly to the bad who keep up the church-going habit.—Congregationalist.

Worlds to Conquer.

Let us not be satisfied with the petty little provinces of pleasure and sin. Let us not spend our time dreaming of better things outside, but let us by faith act on noble principles and live for highest ideals. This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.—Bishop F. S. Spalding, Salt Lake City.

For the Winter

HANDSOME long coat of plush or fur, finished with shawl collar and deep cuffs of fur, leaves nothing to be desired from the point of style or comfort. It is surmounted by a round turban of satin with a velvet coronet, on which a Persian band, embroidered with gold cord and studded with mock jewels, is mounted about the crown and across the brim. When the latter shows an indentation over the left eye a stiff aigrette is placed. These turbans set down over the head and are worn at a dashing and sometimes a little rakish angle, by the more youthful devotees of fashion.

Equally full of style, more adaptable to individual wearers and the perfection of comfort and convenience, is to be found in the soft velvet hats and turbans (which might as properly be called hoods) and can only be accurately named as turban-hoods. They are not made over a frame but are supported by an interlining of some sort, warm and soft. They are lined with silk and worn far down on the head. A little fringe of curls about the forehead and neck is about all the hair that is visible with them.

A soft hat and muff of beaver cloth in mustard color, trimmed with dark brown fox fur, is shown in the second figure. The fur is bordered with old gold lace and the turban finished with two standing plumes in brown and green. This set is from the atelier of the renowned Carlier of Paris. By such clever effects the French rightly earn and keep their prestige.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

FANCY BLOUSE.

Worn with a serge or cloth skirt of the same color this blouse would look very well. It has a yoke of silk and lace ornamented with fancy buttons and loops of cord; the velveteen is arranged in flat pleats that are carried from yoke to waist; the sleeve to below elbow is of velveteen with cuff of silk, the under-sleeves of lace to match the yoke.

Materials required: 2½ yards velveteen 24 inches wide, ¾ yard silk, ¾ yard lace.

Suede and Steel.

A gray suede bag shaped like a fleur-de-lis is most attractive in its unique cut. Its mounting is steel, plain in design, which does not interfere with the outlines of the bag, and the beading differs from that usually seen in that it is done with large instead of small beads.

They measure about an eighth of an inch in diameter and are of fine cut steel. They are used to bring out a pattern on the bag and also to outline its edges, and at the same time to sew the two sides of the bag together.

Life of Underskirts.

When making or buying a petticoat, have it two inches longer than the required length. Put in a one-inch tuck above the hem, which takes up the two inches.

When the bottom ruffle or the hem of the skirt wears, let down the tuck, cut off the ruffle or hem and hem up and you will have a nice clean skirt again, as the bottom always wears first.

BLUE AND BROWN ARE SMART

These Are the Year's Popular Colors, the Latter Especially in Its Darker Shades.

Certain colors never go out of fashion and others are doomed to a short life by the very quality that makes them popular. Navy blue is one of the colors whose popularity never seems to fluctuate from season to season, probably because it is so universally becoming. The browns are more variable, but this year they are considered extremely smart, especially in their darker shades—Kaffir, nutmeg, seal and walnut.

In fact, all the new colors are perceptibly darker. Black is the smartest color of the season, but its effect is far from being sober or somber, because it is always relieved by white or by some vivid color. It has had its effect on other colors; the smart blues are almost black, the new greens are the deep shades of tea-leaf and wintergreen; and prune is the most popular shade of purple. Black used to be kept almost entirely for older women, but dressmakers are beginning to appreciate the fact that it is not becoming unless a woman has youth, health and a good color. Even then it has to be broken with blue, green, gold, etc., to give it the life it needs.—Delineator.

Diet and Beauty.

Diet has much to do with the condition of the pores of the face.

If food is not suited to the individual and is too rich, the system may try to throw it off by an exudation of oil through the pores. It is this which causes oily complexion, and the first step, of course, is to change the diet.

Such foods should be adopted as are nutritious, easily digested, and lacking in grease.

The list includes milk, eggs, fish, rare meats, rich spinach, beans and the like.

Thick soups, pastries and elaborate desserts should be banished, and plenty of fruit eaten.

Fresh air and careful washing of the face are, of course, necessary accompaniments of the treatment.

Carry Few Toilet Articles.

Women frequently carry many more toilet accessories than are needed. It is perfectly fair to assume that the hostess will have a dressing table equipped, or that she will possess enough pieces for the wants of her guests. Every woman wishes to carry her own brush and comb, but a hand mirror is heavy, and it is expected that one will be provided.

The KITCHEN CABINET

ATART temper never mellows with age, and a sharp tongue is the only tool that grows keener with constant use.

—Irving.

Ways of Using Stale Cake.

When the cake is in a loaf it is easy matter to steam it and make a good pudding sauce of eggs and sugar with a little milk and flavoring or a cooked sauce of half a cup of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of flour and the same of butter, half a cup of boiling water and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Cook until smooth and flavor with grated nutmeg.

All bits of cake may be worked over into the steamed brown bread, so that nothing need be wasted.

Sweet Fritters.

Take one and a half cupfuls of stale cake crumbs. Beat together one egg, one tablespoonful of sugar, one cup of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder; add enough milk to make a thin batter and stir in the crumbs. Bake on a hot griddle as pancakes and serve with sirup.

Another nice dessert with cake may be prepared by laying slices of cake in a serving dish, pour over fruit juice of any desired flavor and fill the dish with a custard. Serve cold.

Economical Pudding.

Beat three eggs, add a cup of sugar and three cups of milk and flavoring. Add two cups of cake crumbs and bake in a slow oven one hour. A little breakfast cereal left over or a little cooked rice may be added to this pudding, and a few raisins, though these are not necessary.

A Few Hints.

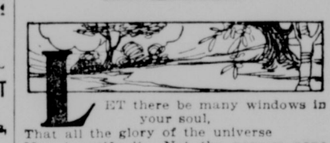
When buying a box of laundry soap, which is a good way to do, take it from the box and pile it in a dry place where the air can circulate through it. Dry soap spends much better than green.

Turn the scrub brush bristles down when drying and the moisture will drain out rather than soak into the wood.

Velvet ribbons may be freshened by steaming over a wet cloth placed over a hot iron.

Hem the dishcloths to save the lint which ragged edges make, and such cloths will be respected and better used.

A nice umbrella should be carefully dried before putting away, and never left rolled in its case for any length of time, as it is apt to crack in the folds.



LET there be many windows in your soul,
That all the glory of the universe
May beautify it. Not the narrow pane
Of one poor creed can catch the radiant rays
That shine from countless sources. Tear away
The blinds of superstition. Let the light
Pour through fair windows, broad as truth itself,
And high as heaven. . . . Tune your ear
To all the wordless music of the stars,
And to the voice of nature; and your heart
Shall turn to truth and goodness as the plant
Turns to the sun. A thousand unseen hands
Reach down to help you to their peace-crowned heights;
And all the forces of the firmament
Shall fortify your strength. Be not afraid
To thrust aside half truths and grasp the whole.

The Chafing Dish.

To the woman with many servants the chafing dish is a pleasant amusement, to the woman who has none it is a pleasant and practical change from the every day serving of things. Sunday night suppers are a delight, prepared from the chafing dish.

To make a success of the meal all the preparations should be carefully made before hand. The butter measured in a tablespoon and made into balls is then ready to use without measuring. The stock or milk may be measured and put into little pitchers. Have the salt, pepper and flour all in a group easy to find. If meat or fish is to be used let it be diced as it is to be served.

See that the lamp is filled and the utensils at hand before inviting out the guests. There are any number of dishes easy to serve from a chafing dish such as creamed eggs, poached, scrambled and omelets. Creamed sweetbreads, creamed mushrooms, oysters in a variety of ways, small birds, fish and chicken.

Good alcohol is expensive, but it does not burn away as fast as the wood alcohol and does not leave the burner covered with the sticky deposit that the wood alcohol does.

A nice way is to serve a cocktail of fruit or a salad while the guests are waiting as you prepare the main dishes. Give each one something to do to help make the time an enjoyable one. Many like to prepare the dishes in the kitchen and simply keep them hot in the chafing dish while serving, but this takes away the pleasure of seeing the dishes made before the eyes, which is enjoyed by everybody.

A chafing dish may be an elaborate and expensive affair or one very simple and and just as useful.

Nellie Maxwell

HOIST BY HIS OWN PETARD

A True Story of the Secret Service

By
COL. H. C. WHITLEY
Former Chief U. S. Secret Service

DURING the sixties and and the early seventies of the last century, counterfeiting blossomed into one of the fine arts, and to such perfection was it brought that, in many instances, it was exceedingly difficult to detect the bogus stuff from the genuine.

As insidious enemies of the people in every walk of life, counterfeiters may well be classed among the most subtle and dangerous persons with whom officers of the law have to cope. Ever wide awake and on the alert for treachery in their own ranks, these crafty rogues can only be captured and convicted by means of carefully baited traps, or by what is generally known as the stool-pigeon system.

Counterfeiters are divided into six distinct classes: First, the capitalist or procurer; second, the engraver; third, the printer; fourth, the wholesale dealer; fifth, the retailer, and sixth, the shover or circulator. The capitalist is the most difficult man to reach as he seldom handles any of the plates or spurious money. Hence the chief offender in this line may walk calmly about, defying the detective, each tacitly understanding the other in his relative position; one suspecting and watching, the other patiently and tirelessly picking up, crumb by crumb, convicting evidence.

The methods pursued by detectives to entrap counterfeiters are rarely better illustrated than in the following account of the capture of William M. Gurney, alias "Big Bill" the Koniacker, one of the foremost wholesale dealers in "queer" of his day. He was born of respectable parentage, reared in the quietude incident to country life, educated and supplied with a sufficient amount of money wherewith to live like a gentleman and, strangely enough, he chose a path that led to his ultimate ruin.

In the excitement of those tumultuous days the city of New York was well stocked with men possessed of a genius for conceiving and concealing crime. Perhaps no other city in the civilized world has ever afforded a better opportunity for fleecing the public. Gurney had been handling counterfeit money for several years but had managed to escape punishment. He was one of the chief distributors for Joshua D. Miner, who was the head and front of a powerful octopus whose tentacles were stretched out in almost every section of the country.

Gurney was by no means unattractive in appearance, and there were few men walking Broadway in his day whose physique could compare favorably with his. He stood six feet two inches in height and was correspondingly well proportioned, while his expansive chest and well-developed limbs gave him the appearance of a man possessing the muscular strength of a giant. His black eyes were sharp and severe, or mild and pleasant, to suit occasions. In conversation he was easy and interesting and, among strangers, would readily have passed for a gentleman of marked ability. To be a leader among the counterfeiting fraternity seemed to have been the crowning glory of his highest ambition.

In the spring of 1869 I was appointed chief of the government secret service and, though I had had experience with General Butler in New Orleans, and later in the internal revenue service, I was unknown among the counterfeiters.

Shortly after my appointment I received information, at my headquarters in Washington, regarding a rather unique affair that had taken place at one of the drinking resorts on Houston street, in New York city. William Gurney, with his characteristic push and daring, had invited a party of "queersmen" to partake of a banquet at this place. There were 24 persons present at this function, three ex-detectives being among the number.

On the following day I was furnished with the particulars of this remarkable assembly, and the ex-detective who reported it also provided a list of the banqueters. Among other things I learned that my appointment as chief of the secret service was discussed at the affair, and pronounced a good joke upon the government. Gurney addressed his guests, boastfully declaring that "the new chief might do for a preacher or an internal revenue clerk, but that he could never cope with shrewd men like the queersmen."

"Now is our opportunity," he said, "to reap a rich harvest." At the same time he advised his friends that he was going to take the new chief into his confidence and keep him well stuffed with fictitious information. "In the meantime," he continued, "I will draw out from him his plans and keep myself posted as to his proposed movements."

This plan pleased the fancy of the scoundrels, and they agreed that Gurney was a great man. They were seated at the tables imbibing wine, and they drank to Gurney's health while the ex-detectives and counterfeiters jostled elbows and bandied jokes good-naturedly as they contemplated the easy times in store for them. When sufficiently filled with wine and enthusiasm, they capped the climax by hurrahing for his satanic majesty. The feast of Belshazzar was a tame affair in comparison with the indulgence of these men. If there were any letters of warning upon the walls, all were too drunk to read them, or they lacked a sober Daniel to interpret them.

Under the circumstances it seemed advisable to allow these merry plotters to pursue their way unmolested until sufficiently off their guard to permit the successful carrying out of a plan to entrap and apprehend the entire party.

Much of my time was now spent at my New York office in Bleeker street where, in due time, Gurney called upon me for the purpose "of paying his respects and tendering some information in regard to counterfeiters." The artless appearing fellow said that when quite young he had been foolish enough to engage in counterfeiting, but had long since abandoned it and was now ready to render the government such assistance as he could. I affected to receive him with open arms, and apparently gulped down as truth everything he had to offer. Gurney was well fitted to deceive with a plausible story, for he seemed candid in manner and well equipped in every way to impose upon the most incredulous.

THE MINISTERIAL-LOOKING MAN WITH A QUICK MOVEMENT, SNAPPED HANDCUFFS ON GURNEY'S WRISTS

THE DETECTIVE STRETCHED OUT SEVERAL OF THE FELLOWS

The officers of the secret service all considered him a dangerous person and none was anxious to encounter a man of such gigantic proportions and apparently desperate character.

My first move against Gurney was to send Mike Bower, a newly-fledged government detective, to form his acquaintance. Bower was selected because his appearance was anything but that of a detective. Bower drifted into Gurney's "boozing-den" on East Bleeker street where, after loitering around drinking and smoking for a week or two, he one day called Gurney aside and told him he was broke and must have a little money. He drew from his inside pocket a gold watch with a short piece of chain hanging from it, giving it the appearance of having been nipped from the pocket of some unfortunate citizen.

Gurney snapped at the bait at once and intimated, with a sly wink, that the watch had been stolen. When Bower finally admitted as much Gurney seemed pleased and bought the watch at about one-third its value, remarking: "You're all right, my boy. When you want anything, come to me."

After a few days Bower again approached Gurney, this time with a diamond stud that had been slipped from its fastenings. "I need some more money," said Bower.

Gurney inspected the gem with an appreciative eye, and finally said: "You are a good one. Did you ever handle any of the 'queer?'"

"I took a little hand in it once," replied Bower cautiously, "but I do not like to take the chances any more."

"Oh, h—l," replied Gurney. "We've got everything our own way now. The government detectives are all green men and there's no danger of getting caught unless a fellow goes and gives himself up." Taking from his wallet a $20 counterfeit note on the National Shoe and Leather bank of New York city, he added: "Here's something good enough to deceive the disciples."

After some parleying Bower accepted $300 of the "queer" for the diamond, and I now instructed Bower to stay away from Gurney for a couple of weeks.

While Bower had been working Gurney, that worthy had been coming to my office every few days to work me. He imagined that I fully believed what he said, and that he was regarded as a valuable ally. I always received him kindly, and assured him that I had no desire to make arrests unless forced to do so, and that I did not believe in using harsh measures unnecessarily. Gurney fairly chuckled at this simplicity and was thrown completely off his guard.

He assumed an air of great mystery and spoke of the possible existence of counterfeit plates that might be reached for a reward. He would not, he declared, accept a dollar for his personal services but, because of his great fancy for me, was ready to assist in every way possible. He was permitted to blarney along and play the game to his own liking, secure in the belief that he was completely deceiving the government officials.

In the meantime the services of an old counterfeiter, fresh from the penitentiary, had been secured. Many of his old confederates were now operating with the Gurney gang and, through him, Bill Butts, a fresh-looking detective from one of the western states, was introduced to several of the men who made their headquarters at a saloon on the Bowery. Butts informed the barkeeper of the saloon that he had just served a term for "shoving the queer."

At first the counterfeiters and thieves hanging around the place appeared to be suspicious of Butts. One day, however, when these villians were drinking beer in the back room of the place, a fight arose. The detective went in with the rest and stretched out several of the fellows, though he was badly beaten up in the end, and in addition was robbed of his pocketbook and watch.

The ethics of the criminal profession are peculiar. When a crowd of crooks fight they frequently rob one another, and if the victim calls in the police to recover his property he loses the confidence of the rogues who took part in the fray. But if he keeps silent it is conclusive evidence in their minds that he cannot stand investigation, and this establishes his character beyond doubt. It is accepted by them as sufficient voucher that he is a member in good standing in the brotherhood of crooks, and he is then admitted into full fellowship.

Shortly after the melee one of the crowd suggested to Butts that he call in the police. He promptly replied: "No police for me," and the detective was thereupon received without hesitation or mental reservation. During the next seven or eight months Butts worked with this gang of counterfeiters as a shover of queer.

"Counterfeit shovers," as they are called, usually travel in pairs. One fellow carries the bogus money and remains outside, while the other takes one bill, enters a place of business, purchases some trifle, tenders the counterfeit note in payment, and receives change in good money. If this precaution were not observed, the possession of other counterfeit money, in case of detection and arrest, would indicate guilt and lead almost inevitably to conviction.

Detective Butts, however, did not pass any counterfeit money but used instead a good bill in the place of the one he received from the carrier. That was kept for evidence, and in this way he deceived the queersmen for months, and secured evidence to convict about twenty of the Gurney party.

While Butts had been busy with the gang of shovers, Bower had been devoting his time to Gurney and the other leaders. On one occasion Bower purchased $500 of counterfeit money from Gurney, and this he handed to me as I was on my way to dinner at the St. Clair house. As I entered the restaurant I met Gurney looking as cheerful and innocent as a Raphael cherub. The rascal appeared with a bland smile and informed me that he had come there especially to see me about counterfeiting transactions out west. I took him by the hand, thanked him, and invited him to dine.

We selected a table where Gurney could talk without being overheard. His information, as usual, was indefinite, hearsay, with no particular point to it. He told me that my policy of being easy with the counterfeiters was working like a charm—that there was no counterfeit money in circulation in the east—in fact, he had not seen a bad dollar in six months. At that very moment my hand was resting on the package of counterfeit money that had just been purchased from him by Bower.

A few days later Gurney told Bower, in a boasting way, of this interview and, in a burst of enthusiasm, declared that everything about the government detective headquarters was known to him before it transpired. He asserted that he was one of my assistants, and was so puffed up over his imaginary success that he really believed he knew what was going on in my office.

The time now seemed ripe for the arrest of the entire party who had discussed my qualifications over their wine at the banquet on Houston street. Bower had completely won Gurney's confidence. Telling him that he was about to take a trip to Texas, he inquired if he could buy $3,000 in counterfeit money at a wholesale figure.

"Of course; any amount of it," answered Gurney.

A deal was arranged for its delivery on the New York side of Fulton Ferry. Bower was to be at a designated spot at a certain time, and Gurney was to pass along, hand over the spurious and receive good money in payment.

At the appointed time there was a large crowd standing around the ferry landing waiting for the boat. Bower was there, and a few paces from him stood a seemingly honest tinsmith with a joint of stove-pipe under his arm and a pair of snippers in his hand. His clothes and the soot upon his hands and face bore unmistakable witness to his calling. Near by, looking in another direction, stood a stoutly-built business man of ample girth. In one hand he carried a hat box, in the other a valise. In the immediate vicinity was a tall, reverential appearing gentleman, with neat side whiskers, whose white tie and the ministerial cut of his coat were in keeping with the sanctimonious expression of his face.

When the ferry boat struck the dock Gurney stepped off, peered cautiously and carefully around, scanning the faces of those who were standing near. Being satisfied that there were no suspicious persons about, he drew a package from under his coat and stepped toward Bower to deliver it.

At this instant the ministerial-looking man raised his hand. The fat man dropped his luggage and the tinsmith his tools. Both seized Gurney by the arms and held him while the tall brother, with a quick movement, snapped handcuffs on his wrists. Everything was done so quickly that Gurney did not have time to catch his breath before he was securely ironed.

The prisoner was taken to the secret service office. I removed my side whiskers and made some change in my clothing, then entered the office and shook hands with the crestfallen criminal.

During that day and evening the government officers were engaged in arresting the shovers of the gang, against whom Butts had secured evidence. Two of the ex-detectives, guests at Gurney's banquet, had already been arrested for passing counterfeit money—one at Pittsburg and the other at Cincinnati. By 11 o'clock that night the officers had arrested 20 of the gang. They were arranged in a circle at the office, and the right hand of one was handcuffed to the left hand of the next. Gurney, appropriately, happened to be the center-piece.

I could not help a feeling of pity for the unfortunates, but they had voluntarily preyed upon society and transgressed the laws of their land, and the common weal required that they be punished. They were all tried and convicted, most of them entering a plea of guilty.

The boastful Gurney now fully realized the trap into which he had fallen. He had been hoisted by his own petard, a circumstance that seemed to humiliate him almost beyond measure. With little or no pressure he weakened and confessed that he had received his counterfeit money from Joshua D. Miner, who was the capitalist that owned the plates upon which the National Shoe and Leather twenties were printed.

Among the secret service officers Miner was known to be a counterfeiter, but on account of his great wealth and political standing, he was considered a difficult man to grapple with. He was a large city contractor at this time, and employed about one hundred men opening up a new road at the end of Ninth avenue.

Gurney was altogether too timid to make a deal with Miner in order to give the officers an opportunity to capture him red handed, but he finally agreed to go with me to see Miner who, he believed, would surrender the $20 counterfeit plates for the purpose of shortening his sentence.

Leaving a carriage on the boulevard, I walked with Gurney a short distance on Sixty-ninth street toward Miner's house. We met Miner on the sidewalk and I was introduced by Gurney, who then explained the trouble he had gotten himself into. Miner said he could do nothing for him and, as a last resort, I requested Miner to step aside with me, where I told him that I was convinced that he was the owner of the counterfeit plates of the National Shoe and Leather bank. This he firmly denied, but I insisted and threatened to arrest him. He finally said that he would make an effort to secure the plates. I knew what this meant and, upon his promise to meet me the following day, I left him.

Miner appeared on time, but was still doubtful in regard to his ability to make the surrender demanded. He was a hard nut to crack but, before we parted, I succeeded in convincing him, by the use of language not less threatening than it was forcible, that it was for his interest to surrender the plates. This he now promised to do and, shortly after another interview at his home, I received a check for a piece of baggage at the Grand Central depot. A detective went to the baggage room at this depot and obtained an old hair trunk in which were found the plates.

According to promise, Gurney, through my intercession and explanation, was given a sentence of seven years instead of the maximum sentence of fifteen.

(Copyright, 1910, by W. G. Chapman.)

MADE HIS APOLOGY AMPLE

Irish Legislator Even Withdrew the Words That He Was About to Utter.

There is in congress a western representative of Celtic origin who has more than once "stirred up the animals" by his propensity to bait the opposition.

On one occasion he rose to denounce the statements made in a speech that had been delivered by a member of the other party. His impetuosity led him to phrase his remarks rather strongly.

"Order, order!" exclaimed the speaker, pounding with his gavel.

Again, in a minute or two, did the son of Erin return to his charge of wilful misstatement. Again was he called to "order."

It was a critical moment. His colleagues, for motives of policy, did not wish him to be put out of the debate, so they hinted so by tugging vigorously at his coat tails.

Now, it's a very dangerous matter to trifle with the tails of an Irishman's coat, save in the cause of friendship. Nevertheless, the indignant yet good-natured member recognized the command of his party and sat down after delivering this Parthian dart:

"I obey the ruling of the House, and I beg to retract what I was about to observe!"

That one touch of Irish oratory took the whole House by storm.—Lippincott's.

BABY WASTED TO SKELETON

"My little son, when about a year and a half old, began to have sores come out on his face. I had a physician treat him, but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come out on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then I called another physician. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad that I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh. He got to be a mere skeleton, and was hardly able to walk.

"My aunt advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I sent to a drug store and got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of the Ointment and followed directions. At the end of two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since. I can sincerely say that only for Cuticura my child would have died. I used only one cake of Cuticura Soap and about three boxes of Ointment.

"I am a nurse and my profession brings me into many different families and it is always a pleasure for me to tell my story and recommend Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, Litchfield, Conn., Oct. 23, 1909."

CHANGED HIS MIND.

Mrs. Ferndale—We haven't any eggs, but I can get some if you want them very bad!

Summerbord—Never mind, I don't care for that kind.

DRINK WATER TO CURE KIDNEYS AND RHEUMATISM

The People Do Not Drink Enough Water to Keep Healthy, Says Well-Known Authority.

"The numerous cases of kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism are mainly due to the fact that the drinking of water, nature's greatest medicine, has been neglected.

Stop loading your system with medicines and cure-alls; but get on the water wagon. If you are really sick, why, of course, take the proper medicines—plain, common vegetable treatment, which will not shatter the nerves or ruin the stomach."

To cure Rheumatism you must make the kidneys do their work; they are the filters of the blood. They must be made to strain out of the blood the waste matter and acids that cause rheumatism; the urine must be neutralized so it will no longer be a source of irritation to the bladder, and, most of all, you must keep these acids from forming in the stomach. This is the cause of stomach trouble and poor digestion. For these conditions you can do no better than take the following prescription: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, but don't forget the water. Drink plenty and often.

This valuable information and simple prescription should be posted up in each household and used at the first sign of an attack of rheumatism, backache or urinary trouble, no matter how slight.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

Entered at the Postoffice in Oakland, Md., as Second-class matter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

The Republican is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year.....$1.25
One copy six months 75
One copy three months 40

Advertising Rates made known upon Application.

Remittances may be made by Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft and addressed to
THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1910.

THE LATE THOMAS J. PEDDICORD.

In the death of Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, which occurred last Friday night at his home in Oakland, as told in our news columns today, Oakland loses one of her foremost citizens, the bar of the county a shining legal light, his associates a true friend and counsellor, his family a loving husband and father, and the newspaper fraternity a ready writer upon almost any subject.

Mr. Peddicord contributed largely to the press under the non-de-plume of "T Jay." His articles were eagerly read by the general public, as they always contained some new thought enunciated in Mr. Peddicord's peculiar style.

As a lawyer he stood at the head of the local bar in practical knowlege of the intricacies of the law and its application to the particular case in which he was engaged. He was recognized as a man of massive intellect and broad views.

He will be missed in the community in which he dwelt for more than a third of a century by his professional brethren as well as by the laity.

THE DEATH RECORD.

GEORGE WELLINGTON, JR.

George Wellington, Jr., son of George Wellington, Sr., who died two weeks ago at his home near Grantsville, passed away at the family home on Sunday morning, November 20th, aged 16 years. The deceased suffered for some weeks with an abscess of the liver which eventually cased his death.

RAY BAUMGARDNER.

The remains of Ray Baumgardner, son of Rev. Nathan L. Baumgardner, were received in Oakland Monday morning from Kansas City, Mo., in which city the young man had been engaged for a year or more as a telegraph operator and where he committed suicide last Thursday by drinking a quantity of poison. The body was met in Oakland by the family of the young man consisting of his father, who resides at the Park, his sister Miss May Baumgardner, of Elkins, and his brother William, of Cincinnati. Aster a short service the remains were interred in the cemetery here. The deceased was aged twenty-two years and is well remembered by many Mountain Lake Park residents where he grew to young manhood. His death came as a distinct shock to his aged father who has the sympathy of the entire community.

JOHN WILT.

Death, yesterday morning, came to the relief of John Wilt, of Mountain Lake Park, who has been a patient sufferer for a number of years as the result of an accident which rendered him a confirmed invalid. Three or four years ago the deceased was caught under a falling tree, which crushed him to the ground and injured his spine so that he was paralyzed from the hips downward. His funeral will occur on Friday and will be in charge of the Red Men with interment at the Thayerville cemetery.

D. J. Lewis Spent $1,053.10

The sworn statemnt of David J. Lewis, Democratic Congressman - elect, which has just been filed with the clerk of the circuit court, as required by law, shows that his successful campaign for Congress cost him just $1,053.10 His principal expenses were as follows: postage, $287.38, advertising, $328.24; car fare, $107.58; contributions to campaign committees of Frederick, Garrett and and Washington counties $200; hotel expenses, $58.91; expenses and compensation of political agent, $112.75; distributing pamphlets, $10; express charges, $6.55; stenographer, $3.35; telephone and telegraph tolls, $1.34.

Drilling for Coal.

Two drills are at work drilling for coal, one on the farm of Wilson Miller, and another on the farm of Samuel Loechel, near Grantsville, Garrett county. A number of test holes in different localities will be drilled, as thousands of acres have been optioned. Both the Western Maryland and B. & O. railroad companies are supposed to be interested.

Call for Your Letters.

R. R. McDonald, Anna Michael, T. B. Doman, Leo Crane, Mary Winters, J. H. Hannil.

NO SQARE DEAL.

State Boundary Line Case Likely to Go to Court Again.

If the preliminary report made to Governor Crothers by former State Senator McCulloh Brown, Garrett county, of the commission which is relocating the boundary line between West Virginia and Maryland, is borne out by his final report, Attorney General Straus will likely appeal to the United States Supreme Court for the settlement of the controversy.

Mr. Brown was in Baltimore Wednesday and informed the Governor that he was being overruled on almost every point by the other members of the commission, which is composed, in addition to the Maryland representative of a surveyor from West Virginia and a member of the national Geological survey. The line in question is the old Deakins boundary line on the border of Garrett county. The line is 37 miles long and is being relocated under orders of the United States Supreme Court.

Mr. Brown claims that he is making an unsuccessful fight to have Maryland deeds followed. In relocating the the line old patents and deeds are presented and carefully considered. It is claimed that a number of deeds from West Virginia show that claims have been made to Maryland land. When the Maryland deeds and patents are presented by Mr. Brown, he says the other members of the commission overrule him.

By the decision of the Supreme Court, which settled a controversy of long standing, the line was ordered located so as not to disturb more than unavoidable the existing jurisdiction of the two States. Mr. Brown claims the order is not being adhered to and that by the survey as it is proceeding, Maryland will lose a large strip of territory and about 15 voters. For this reason he is contemplating making a minority report and upon this the Attorney General will likely appeal to the Supreme Court.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Miss Bessie Wells, who has been in the millinery store of her aunt, Miss Martha Carmichael, in Loch Lynn, has been visiting relatives in Woodsfield, Ohio.

Mrs. E. L. Winchell spent Thanksgiving with friends in West Virginia, returning to her home here Saturday.

Mrs. C. M. Rathbun is visiting her son, Prof. F. E. Rathbun, at Piedmont, W. Va.

The announcement was received here of the birth of a son to Prof. and Mrs. John P. Hillis.

Mr. C. P. Martin, who is traveling for the Rumford Baking Powder Co., after spending a week with his family here, returned to Strawsburg, Va., Tuesday, to resume his work.

Mr. John Wilt, who was crushed by a falling tree about three years ago and has been a great sufferer ever since, died Tuesday night at his home at the Dennett Hotel. He leaves a wife and a number of children.

Miss Maize Prevost returned to her home here Tuesday from Piedmont, W. Va., where she had been the guest of Miss Virginia Richardson for several days.

The firm of Cuppett, Leighton & Co., will be dissolved by mutual consent to take effect Dec. 31, Mr. Cuppett retiring. The business will be continued by Messrs. Leighton and Harvey.

Special services were commenced at Wesley chapel by the pastor, Rev. P. Z. Musgrave, Monday evening, to continue at least three weeks.

Special services will be held in the M. E. church here about January 1st

Mr. Charles Weimer, of Keyser, W. Va., spent Sunday here with his sisters.

Mrs. Busselle and daughter, Miss Finnell, who occupied the Davis cottage on G street, left for their winter home in Parkersburg, W Va., last Saturday.

Mr. P. N. Runion, who has spent several months here with his son, left this morning for his home in Bedford county, Pa.

Rev. Mr. Mann has moved from the Hocking building to the Charles May residence on K street.

Mr. William Bumgardner, of Cincinnati, and Miss May Bumgardner, of Elkins, W. Va., attended the funeral of their brother Ray at Oaklond Monday, whose death had occurred at Kansas City on Thursday last Killed at Terra Alta.

The body of James A. Hutchinson, 30 years old, who was killed by a train at Terra Alta, W. Va., Wednesday was taken to his mother's home 1425 North Fulton avenue, Baltimore, Thursday. Mr. Hutchinson was a civil engineer in the employ of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, following in the footsteps of his father, who was in the railroad service for 25 years. He was at work on the construction of a bridge Wednesday when the accident happened. Besides his mother, Mrs. Ruth A. Hutchinson, the deceased is survived by five sisters —Mrs. Clarence O'Bannon, Mrs. Ida Thoumain, Mrs. Paul Norris, Miss Clara Hutchinson and Mrs. Chester Dennis of Wilmington, Del.

Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound will do it. 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

GARRETT COUNTY WILL HAVE ADDITIONAL DELEGATE

In the Maryland Legislature. Her Population Now Exceeding 13,000

By the announcement made Tuesday by the Bureau of the Census at Washington the official figures of the population of the State of Maryland have been made public.

According to the official count the population of the state is 1,294,450, as compared with 1,188,044 in 1900, and 1,042,390 in 1890. The increase 1900 to 1910, therefore, is 106,406, or 9 per cent.

In 1900 the population of Garrett county, according to the census made by the state after the federal census had been completed, was 17,901, or ninety-nine less than the required 18,000 necessary to give an additional member of the House of Delegates. This year's figures place Garrett's population at 20,105, or an increase of 2,204 in the ten years suceeding the census of 1900 which insures an additional representative in the Legislature from this county, making her membership in the law making body of the State four instead of three as heretofore.

Nine of the twenty-three counties show a decrease in population, these being Anne Arundel, Cecil, Charles, Harford, Howard, Kent, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's and Talbot.

FRIENDSVILLE.

Now we can look forward to real winter.

Thanksgiving passed very quietly here. There were no services held in either of the church—something that never happened before and something we should have had by all means. Are we forgetting what the day is set apart for, or do we think it means just eating and feasting.

Miss Laura Coddington, of Pittsburg, was visiting relatives here over Thanksgiving.

Merell Dye is spending a vacation here at present. He has a situation in West Virginia.

Miss Emma Georinger, teacher in our school, spent her holiday among friends in Cumberland. Miss Margaret Snyder, another of the teachers, spent the day in Confluence. Miss Annie Snyder taught in their stead until their return.

Professor Cathcart, formerly principal here but now of Frostburg, was a visitor during his holiday at the home of Dr. Mason.

We are glad to say that the fire engine is again in working order, and it must be seen to that it is kept in good shape ready at a monent's notice for use, for we cannot tell when we may need it. Could it have been used at the late fire it might have held the flames in check so that some of the furniture could have been saved.

Milford Frazee has again gone to housekeeping having rented from Mrs. Neil the house lately occupied by John Carlson.

The ladies of the M. E. church will hold a festival in the opera house on Saturday evening, December 10, at which time the quilt on which the ladies have been working all the summer will be disposed of.

The band turned out on Thanksgiving in the afternoon and serenaded all the business houses, as well as the hotel. They have improved. It is an honor to themselves and to the citizens of the town, and don't forget good people that it pays to have a band in our midst and when you see the boys doing their part remember is takes money to run it.

The Dorcas Society of the Lutheran church held their festival Thursday evening last, and although the crowd was small on account of the weather being so bad and no electric lights on the streets, yet they did splendidly and put a nice little sum into the treasury.

Miss Effie Fox was a visitor at Confluence over Sunday.

My, but we are glad the electric lights are running again (or we should say shining again), and they are giving good service too. If we could get them to running the dynamo all night a number of our people will have them put in their dwellings, not just to burn all night, but so as to be able to use them in case of necessity, such as sickness, etc.

George R. Long reports his shooting match last week a failure. Only eight dollars was taken in, and he says he had bought one hundred turkeys, two hundred chickens and a number of ducks to be shot for.

G. M. Friend returned home for a visit to his father and mother.

George D. Browning, of Swallow Falls, has been spending a few days among us.

John Shartzer bought the clothing of W. W. Savage and held an auction here on Saturday.

John W. McCullough came home to spend Thanksgiving with his family.

Henry Friend, of Crellin was a visitor at James W. Friend's on Sunday. He drove his automobile over.

C. V. Guard's children are recovering from the measles.

Russell Friend is moving into the Dean dwelling on Morris avenue.

THE CONVICT'S DAUGHTER,

Opening Bill at Empire Theatre a Great Success.

The Convict's Daughter, which was the opening show in Nally's New Empire Theatre, Nov. 17th, was both a dramatic and financial success.

This play was produced by local talent, with Mr. Chas. Barton as instructor, who thoroughly understands every branch of the stage, a fact that was proven by the professional way each of the characters acquitted themselves.

Dr. W. W. Grant thoroughly acted his part as Col. Lee, a Southern banker, and made a good impression on the audience.

Mr. M. Wellington Crane, as James Blackburn, the villain, displayed great talent and force of character.

Mr. Mark S. White, as Jack Worthington, made a gallant lover and a splendid example of Young America.

Miss Sue Littman, as Mrs. Lee, possessed all the charm and motherly kindness for which the Southern women are noted.

Miss Lena Birchdorf, as Nana, a disputed possession, displayed brilliant talent and her conception and acting of this difficult part was perfect.

Miss Edith Ault, as Sadie, in a small but difficult part, kept the audience laughing whenever she was on the stage, and displayed unusual talent.

Mr. Barton, as Jerry the Tramp, brought tears to the eyes of the audience and is entitled to great praise for the manner in which the entire drama was produced.

The piece was the most elaborately staged and costumed ever seen in a home talent play, and in fact there are very few road companies that could equal it. The make-ups were also very artistic and gave the final touch to make the characters all that could be desired.

BLOOMINGTON.

Wm. Mullen, of Fredericksburg, Va., editor of the Fredericksburg Daily Journal, son of the late Andrew Mullen, who was called to Piedmont on account of the illness and death of his father, spent a few days in this place, his native town, visiting his brother, Mr. Charles Mullen, and other close friends before returning home Saturday.

Saturday was pay-day at the Davis mines. A great number of the miners are complaining at the prospects of a short Christmas on account of the poor turn running in the mine during the month of November, due to the shortage in cars furnished by the railroad companies. The Christmas pay is usually a few days before the holidays and when the pay ticket is short on that occasion it necessarily interferes very materially with the festivities planned for the reception of that jolly fellow, Santa Claus.

Messrs. Hugh Tate and "Nannie" Hartley, the former the big ball player, both residents of Kitzmiller, were in town Saturday and Sunday visiting friends.

Mrs. John Raley, who has been in Baltimore city for the past week doing her Christmas shopping, returned home on Tuesday.

Mr. Frederick Poland, of Piedmont, spent Sunday with his aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Poland, of Canesfield.

Revival services have been going on in the M. E. Church during the past ten days, under Pastor Duncan. The Aaron Run church choir has been in attendance several evenings during the week and assisted the minister very greatly in his efforts to improve the spiritual condition of the neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Case, of Franklin, who have been in Baltimore for six weeks, where Mr. Case was called on business connected with the settlement of his father's estate, returned home last week. They were accompanied by Mr. Case's mother, who will make her future home with her son and daughter-in-law at Franklin.

Chicken thieves are again plying their winter vocation in our town and vicinity. The coops of Messrs. Charles Mullen, John Raley and Thomas Morehead, were visited last week and cleaned up of a number of fat pullets, winter layers and cold weather friers.

Mrs. Wright, of Tunnelton, mother of Mrs. Edward Warnick, is in town in attendance on her daughter, who is ill and confined to her bed.

Mr. G. C. Pattison, the Bloomington merchant and coal man, is in Philadelphia this week on business connected with his coal trade.

Miss Pearl Walker, of Blaine, is a guest of her cousin, Miss Clara Tibbet.

Mr. Samuel Hamilton, of Shaw, died at his home in that place from injuries received six weeks ago from a fall of rock while working in the four foot seam of the Big Vein Coal Co. He was taken to the W. M. hospital shortly after the accident where it was found that he had sustained a broken back. An operation was performed by the surgeons in that institution for his relief without success. He is survived by a wife and one child.

Mr. Henry Barnard of Chestnut Grove, district assessor, was in town Tuesday on business.

Mr. Malcolm Macfarland, of Barnum, mining engineer for the Monroe Coal Mining Co., of that place, and the Garrett Mining Co., of Dodson, is in New York City.

BITTINGER.

Rev. Young, of Salisbury, Pa., held services in the Lutheran church in this village on last Saturday evening, followed by communion services on Sunday morning.

Harry Shaw, of Jennings, was a caller in this village last Sunday.

Austin Bittinger spent last week visiting relatives at Mt. Lake Park and Oakland.

Benjamin Long, of Mt. Lake, is the guest of Miss Effie Bittinger this week.

Clarence Brenneman spent last week visiting relatives and friends near Confluence, Pa.

Mrs. Fannie Weitzell and daughter, Mrs. Otho Fike, of Avilton, attended church services at this place last Sunday.

Joel Orendorf made a business trip to Salisbury, Pa., one day last week.

C. E. Ellithorp left here last Monday morning for a week's visit at Oakland and other places.

New Roller Process for Buckwheat.

Mr. T. B. Dowman desires to inform the farmers and others of the neighborhood, that he has installed the latest and best roller process for the manufacture of buckwheat flour. He will give as good a turnout of flour as any mill in the county.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank
Of Allegany County.
Stands First among the State Banks of Maryland

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and open an account with us.

JAMES M. SLOAN, President. DUNCAN R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

Capital - $50,000
DEPOSITS, - $175,000

The First National Bank
Friendsville, Md.

Surplus Fund, . $26,000
Undivided Profits 6,000

OFFICERS:
L. E. FRIEND, President,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Vice-Pres't
R. C. McCANDLISH, Vice-Pres't
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier

DIRECTORS:
L. E. FRIEND, Merchant,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Lumber and Coal
W. W. SAVAGE, Merchant,
D. S. CUSTER, Merchant,
H. M. RUMBAUGH, Farmer,
W. H. H. FRIEND, Pension Agent and surveyor,
HORACE R. DEWITT, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCANDLISH,
JOHN T. GEARY.

THREE GOOD THINGS TO KEEP: Your Temper, Your Secrets, Your Money

Your money kept with us will earn you 4 Per Cent. Interest compounded semi-annually. Keep it here and after a while it will keep you.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank
Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.
C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. EDW. WINTERS, - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.
C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
W. A. Hitchens, Frank Watts,
W. E. Stanton.

A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY
TO GET HAIR GOODS.

THE COLUMBUS HAIR GOODS CO., of Columbus, Ohio, will be represented by Miss Grace Teats at the store of Thomas Little with a stock of Hair Goods from NOV. 28th, to DEC. 18th. The public is invited to call and inspect her stock. Special attention given to TOUPEES and TRANSFORMATIONS.

Prices reasonable. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

WHY?
NOT BUY THE Best Grade
OF MEAT
to be had in the city?
YOU CAN GET IT AT
CREUTZBERG'S
Old Reliable Up-to-Date
Meat Market
Cleanliness guaranteed.
I respectfully solicit your trade.
HOMER E. TURNEY,
Proprietor.
P. S. Highest cash market price paid for Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Lambs.

Oakland Pharmacy
JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor
Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars
Cameras and Photo Supplies

THE OLD RELIABLE

Garrett National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Commenced business November 14, 1888.

CAPITAL, ...	$ 50,000
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, .	45,000

OFFICERS:

D. E. OFFUTT, President.

G. S. HAMILL, Vice President.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

G. A. FRALEY, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Daniel E. Offutt — Gilmor S. Hamill
John M. Davis — George W. Legge
John T. Mitchell — William R. Stull
Scott T. Jones

Interest at the rate of 3% per annum paid on Time Certificates of Deposits and Savings Accounts.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent at reasonable rates.

Just received, a car load of Sleighs, at Naylor's. 40-3

Mr. Scott Harvey, of near the White Church, was in the city last Saturday on business when he called at this office.

The December Term of the Circuit Court will convene in Oakland next Monday. The term will in all probability be very short.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kelly returned to their home in Oakland last Friday from a week's visit to Pittsburg, East Liverpool, Ohio, and other points.

Now is the time to get one of the finest Sleighs ever in Oakland. Naylor has them. 40-3

Miss Beulah Hodges, of Keyser, W. Va. was the guest for a day or two last week of the Missess Lawton at their home in Oakland.

Miss Zella Grimes, of Pittsburg, was in Oakland Friday last, having been to Deer Park, where she visited her brother, Mr. Jack Grimes.

Mrs. M. A. Yost left Oakland last Friday for Washington, D. C., where she will remain for some time as the guest of friends and relatives.

Rev. Dr. Branch, of Baltimore, preached twice on Sunday in the Presbyterian church to splendid audiences, leaving here for his home Monday morning.

Among those who attended the funeral of the late Thomas J. Peddicord held in Oakland Monday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Schroeder, of Grafton, who returned to their home Monday evening.

Mr. Gus A. Bolden, editor of the Charleston Mail, the leading daily of West Virginia, spent last Friday and Saturday in Oakland with relatives and friends, returning to Charleston Saturday night.

Mr. Ralph Thayer, who was called home on account of the illnesss and death of his grandfather, the late T. J. Peddicord, returned to Morgantown University Tuesday afternoon, where he is a student.

Judge Elliott, in the city court Baltimore, handed down the opinion that the state, in its suit to recover $90,000 from several ex-sheriffs, on account of fees received in excess of their salaries, need not file a bill of particulars.

Mrs. Mollie Briggs, of Montgomery county, arrived in Oakland last Thursday night in response to a telegram announcing the illness of her father, the late Thomas J. Peddicord, and will remain here a few days as the guest of relatives.

Mrs. Andrew Mullen, of Piedmont, was in Oakland Tuesday when she filed for record the will of her recently deceased husband. The will provides for the sale of certain real estate owned by the testator at Bloomington and the disposition of moneys.

The officers of the State Horticultural Department desire to inspect all nursery stock shipped into the State this fall and next spring. All persons receiving nursery stock from out-state nurseries are requested to notify the State Entomologist, College Park, Maryland. 3t

The winter schedule for the running of passenger trains on the B. & O. went into effect Sunday morning. There were no changes of consequence in the time of trains at this point. The Sunday accommodation from Fairmont to Oakland and return was eliminated and will not be put back into service until the spring schedule takes effect about June 15th. This train was a great convenience to the public between Fairmont and Oakland.

A BANK ACCOUNT SEEMS to BE a MAGNET; WHEN ONCE STARTED IT DRAWS MORE.

You will help make it grow.

In 1861, a depositor in a bank in Cleveland, Ohio, had $418. Since that time he has drawn out $573, and still has $1,500 to his credit.

How do you figure that out? Why, he let his money STAY IN THE BANK. It grew.

Make OUR Bank YOUR Bank.

We pay liberal interest consisteet with safety—3 per cent.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OAKLAND, MD.

ROYAL Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

Royal is the only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

Highest in Leavening Efficiency

No Alum
No Lime Phosphate

Mr. J. M. Jarboe, Jr., has resumed his position in the Garrett National Bank after an enforced idleness of several weeks on account of his health, which, however, has greatly improved since he underwent an operation in Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

The firm of Cuppett, Leighton & Co. which has been successfully conducting a general mercantile business at Loch Lynn Heights for a number of years, will be dissolved by mutual consent of the partners on December 31st, Mr. H. N. Cuppett retiring from the business.

Mrs. James C. Peddicord was taken to Baltimore Sunday night by Dr. McComas where she will be operated upon in Johns Hopkins Hospital for the removal of a small tumor, as was also Carlton McComas who will also be operaled upon for a throat trouble. They were accompanied by Mrs. Charles S. Davis and Mrs. McComas.

Mrs. Edward E. Sollars is on a visit to relatives and frienes at Romney, from which place she has written her family stating that the weather is excellent and no snow has fallen, which is quite a contrast compared with Oakland's weather conditions for the past ten day or two weeks.

Mr. Charles S. Davis returned to his home in Oakland last Wednesday from Pittsburg where he attended the meeting of the Retail Dealers Association. Mr. Carl White, of Uniontown, Pa., a son of Mr. James W. White, of Oakland, is a director in the new corporation and Mr. Davis is a member of the advisory board.

Mr. C. E. Trembly, of Terra Alta, W. Va., has been made cashier of the Terra Alta Bank to succeed the late Mr. Crane, who died several weeks ago. Mr. Trembly has been connected with the bank for the last ten years, and has been filling the position of assistant cashier. He is a graduate of the West Virginia University at Morgantown.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smouse, of Fairmont, were in Oakland Monday and Tuesday on a visit to friends and relatives. Several weeks ago Mr. Smouse disposed of his property at Fairmont and went to the Pacific Coast to take up his residence but was convinced after visiting all of the important cities of the coast that the opportunities offered there for investment were inferior to those of the east and his return followed. He reports the cost of living almost double that of the east with wages advanced but slightly.

Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Hershberger of Grantsville, Md., started on a Western trip Tuesday evening, with a view to spending several months visiting relatives in Douglas county, Illinois, and Johnson county, Iowa. Mr. Hershberger has a brother, John D. Hershberger, living in Iowa, and Mrs. Hershberger has several sons and other relatives whom she will visit. These worthy people will receive a warm welcome wherever they may go, as they are of the very best that this section of the country has produced. Mr. Hershberger has traveled a great deal in his old age and knows how to get around the country as well as anybody. We had the pleasure of receiving a very pleasant visit from him at Los Angeles, Cal., some years ago.—Meyersdale Republican.

Subscribe for The Republican.

COUNTY TREASURER FRIES

Had His Leg Amputated Last Thursday Afternoon by Drs. Broadwater and Ricketts.

County Treasurer Robert L. Fries, who has been suffering for a number of years with his right leg and foot as the result of an injury he sustained when a ladder upon which he was working broke and precipitated him to the ground, submitted to an operation at the Home Sanatorium in Oakland last Thursday afternoon when the injured member was amputated just below the knee by Drs. Broadwater, of Oakland, and Ricketts, of Accident. The operation was very successful and the patient rallied immediately from the shock. His condition is very satisfactory and in a short time he will be discharged from the institution.

Mr. Fries' determination to have the operation performed was arrived at when it became apparent that he would probably never recover the use of his foot.

Supper and Bazaar.

The ladies of St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church have been engaged for several weeks past making fancy articles, hand painted novelties and other things suitable for Christmas presents which they will offer for sale on next Thursday night, December 8th, when they will hold their annual supper and bazaar in the supper room of the church. Great quantities of fancy articles have been made and the supper will be up to the standard set by the ladies of the church in years gone by. The patronage of the public is invited.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

This is to give notice that the firm of Cuppett, Leighton & Co., doing a general mercantile business in the town of Loch Lynn Heights, Md., will be dissolved by mutual consent December 31, 1910, Mr. H. N. Cuppett retiring from the business. All persons knowing themselves indebted to the firm are hereby notified to call and maked settlement on or before the above date. All accounts not settled by that date will be placed out for collection.

CUPPETT, LEIGHTON & Co.

November 29, 1910.

Mr. Jonas Gnagy, a former resident of Grantsville, now living at Washington, Pa., has been in town the past week visiting the old familiar scenes and renewing acquaintances with the people he used to know in the days of "Auld Lang Syne." Mr. Gnagy is looking hale and hearty, and walked the entire distance from Washington. He has been the guest of his daughters, Mesdames Clarence Loechel and Urban Stanton of Grantsville. — Grantsville Cor. Somerset Star.

NOTICE!

TO THE

PUBLIC.

I have moved my

MEAT MARKET

INTO THE

Nally Building,

where I will conduct an up-to-date meat market.

Beef, Veal, Lamb, Mutton and Pork.

I wish a share of your patronage and thanking you for past favors, I am

Yours respectfully,

H. McC. SMOUSE.

The Up-To-Date Meat Market.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters testamentary on the estate of

SARAH MOSSER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 24th day of May, 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 22nd day of November, 1910.

SAMUEL A. MILLER,
Administrator,
Accident, Md.

ORDER NISI.

Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, vs William A. Harvey and Benjamin E. Harvey.

No. 1705 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Ordered, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting as a court of equity, this 26th day of November, 1910, that the sales made and reported in the above cause by Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 30th day of December, 1910; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 23rd day of December, 1910.

The report states the amount of sales to be $465.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

ESTABLISHED 1884.

Will you allow us to talk "ROOFING" to you. We have all kinds and at any price.

TARRED ROOFINGS—
1, 2 and 3 ply.

RUBBER ROOFINGS—
2 and 3 ply, double and single rolls.

AMETITE—
The superior of all Gravel Roofings.

CAREY'S ROOFING, (Best of All)—
Contains a heavy flexible body, a strong Calcutta burlap, woolen felt and other durable materials, all united into an indivisible weather and water proof sheet that lasts the life of the building.

SHEETING PAPER, NAILS AND CAPS.

Yours to please,

A. D. NAYLOR & CO.

PRICES RIGHT. BOTH PHONES

H. CREUTZBURG.

SEE MY FALL LINE OF

Dress Goods, Outing Flannels, Etc.

Ladies', Children's, Men's and Boys' Shoes.

Rain Coats for Ladies and Children. Rubber Boots & Shoes.

Full Line of MEN'S AND BOYS CLOTHING.

See my Special Pure Wool $10.00 Black Thibet Suits for Men

Boys Suits $2.50 and up.

Hand-Made Wisconsin Shoes for Men and Boys.

Full Line Groceries,

Meat Market in Connection,

ALL AT THE RIGHT PRICE.

H. CREUTZBURG, Opp. P. O., Oakland, Md.

Pay Market Price for Produce.

AUCTION

OF

Furniture

AND OTHER GOODS,

Friday, Dec. 9th,

at 10.30 A. M.

Rockers, Dining Chairs, Bedroom Suites, Tables, Stands, Mattresses, Springs, Cook Stove and Utensils, Roll Top Desk, Office Tables, Dressers, Sideboard, China Closet, Bed Room China, Clock and other articles too numerous to mention, including Clothing and Shoes.

BOLDEN, BROWN & WEIMER.

THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

Co. WORK FROM BY BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Innes, spinster and guardian of Gertrude and Halsey, established summer headquarters at Sunnyside. Arnold Armstrong was found shot to death in the hall. Gertrude and her fiance, Jack Bailey, had conversed in the billiard room shortly before the murder. Detective Jamieson accused Miss Innes of holding back evidence. Cashier Bailey of Paul Armstrong's bank, defunct, was arrested for embezzlement. Paul Armstrong's death was announced. Halsey's fiancee, Louise Armstrong, told Halsey that while she still loved him, she was to marry another. It developed that Dr. Walker was the man. Louise was found unconscious at the bottom of the circular staircase. She said something had brushed by her in the dark on the stairway and she fainted. Bailey is suspected of Armstrong's murder. Thomas, the lodgekeeper, was found dead with a note in his pocket bearing the name "Lucien Wallace." A ladder found out of place deepens the mystery. The stables were burned, and in the dark Miss Innes shot an intruder. Halsey mysteriously disappeared. His auto was found wrecked by a freight train. It developed Halsey had an argument in the library with a woman before his disappearance. New cook disappears. Miss Innes learned Halsey was alive. Dr. Walker's face becomes livid at mention of the name of Nina Carrington. Evidence was secured from a tramp that a man, supposedly Halsey, had been bound and gagged and thrown into an empty box car. Gertrude was missing. Hunting for her, Miss Innes ran into a man and fainted. A confederate of Dr. Walker confessed his part in the mystery. He stated that the Carrington woman had been killed, that Walker feared her, and that he believed that Paul Armstrong had been killed by a hand guided by Walker. Halsey was found in a distant hospital. Paul Armstrong was not dead. Miss Innes discovered secret rooms in which the Traders' bank treasure was believed to be. Mrs. Watson, dying, said she killed Arnold Armstrong, who years before had married her sister under the alias of Wallace. Lucien Wallace was born of the marriage. Miss Innes discovered a secret panel to the mysterious room and unwittingly locked herself within. During the hunt for her the searchers ran across Paul Armstrong. Armstrong pitched forward down the circular staircase, breaking his neck. In the secret room was found the Traders' bank loot, which Armstrong had taken.

CHAPTER XXXIII.—Continued.

As Alex and I reached the second floor, Mr. Jamieson met us. He was grave and quiet, and he nodded comprehendingly when he saw the safe.

"Will you come with me for a moment, Miss Innes?" he asked soberly, and on my assenting, he led the way to the east wing. There were lights moving around below, and some of the maids were standing gaping down. They screamed when they saw me, and drew back to let me pass. There was a sort of hush over the scene; Alex, behind me, muttered something I could not hear, and brushed past me without ceremony. Then I realized that a man was lying doubled up at the foot of the staircase, and that Alex was stooping over him.

As I came slowly down, Winters stepped back, and Alex straightened himself, looking at me across the body with impenetrable eyes. In his hand he held a shaggy gray wig, and before me on the floor lay the man whose headstone stood in Casanova churchyard—Paul Armstrong.

Winters told the story in a dozen words. In his headlong flight down the circular staircase, with Winters just behind, Paul Armstrong had pitched forward violently, struck his head against the door to the east veranda, and probably broken his neck. He had died as Winters reached him.

As the detective finished, I saw Halsey, pale and shaken, in the cardroom doorway, and for the first time that night I lost my self-control. I put my arms around my boy, and for a moment he had to support me. A second later, over Halsey's shoulder, I saw something that turned my emotion into other channels, for behind him, in the shadowy cardroom, were Gertrude and Alex, the gardener, and —there is no use mincing matters—he was kissing her!

I was unable to speak. Twice I opened my mouth; then I turned Halsey around and pointed. They were quite unconscious of us; her head was on his shoulder, his face against her hair. As it happened, it was Mr. Jamieson who broke up the tableau.

He stepped over to Alex and touched him on the arm.

"And now," he said quietly, "how long are you and I to play our little comedy, Mr. Bailey?"

CHAPTER XXXIV.

The Odds and Ends.

Of Dr. Walker's sensational escape that night to South America, of the recovery of over $1,000,000 in cash and securities in the safe from the chimney room—the papers have kept the public well informed. Of my share in discovering the secret chamber they have been singularly silent. The inner history has never been told. Mr. Jamieson got all kinds of credit, and some of it he deserved, but if Jack Bailey, as Alex, had not traced Halsey and insisted on the disinterring of Paul Armstrong's casket, if he had not suspected the truth from the start, where would the detective have been?

When Halsey learned the truth, he insisted on going the next morning, weak as he was, to Louise, and by night she was at Sunnyside, under Gertrude's particular care, while her mother had gone to Barbara Fitzhugh's.

What Halsey said to Mrs. Armstrong I never knew, but that he was considerate and chivalrous I feel confident. It was Halsey's way always with women.

He Was Kissing Her.

He and Louise had no conversation together until that night. Gertrude and Alex—I mean Jack—had gone for a walk, although it was nine o'clock, and anybody but a pair of young geese would have known that dew was falling, and that it is next to impossible to get rid of a summer cold.

At half after nine, growing weary of my own company, I went downstairs to find the young people. At the door of the living room I paused. Gertrude and Jack had returned and were there, sitting together on a divan, with only one lamp lighted. They did not see or hear me, and I beat a hasty retreat to the library. But here again I was driven back. Louise was sitting in a deep chair, looking the happiest I had ever seen her, with Halsey on the arm of the chair, holding her close.

The next day, by degrees, I got the whole story.

Paul Armstrong had a besetting evil—the love of money. Common enough, but he loved money, not for what it would buy, but for its own sake. An examination of the books showed no irregularities in the past year since John had been cashier, but before that, in the time of Anderson, the old cashier, who had died, much strange juggling had been done with the records. The railroad in New Mexico had apparently drained the banker's private fortune, and he determined to retrieve it by one stroke. This was nothing less than the looting of the bank's securities, turning them into money, and making his escape.

But the law has long arms. Paul Armstrong evidently studied the situation carefully. Just as the only good Indian is a dead Indian, so the only safe defaulter is a dead defaulter. He decided to die, to all appearances, and when the hue and cry subsided, he would be able to enjoy his money almost anywhere he wished.

The first necessity was an accomplice. The connivance of Dr. Walker was suggested by his love for Louise. The man was unscrupulous, and with the girl as a bait, Paul Armstrong soon had him fast. The plan was apparently the acme of simplicity: A small town in the west, an attack of heart disease, a body from a medical college dissecting room shipped in a trunk to Dr. Walker by a colleague in San Francisco, and palmed off for the supposed dead banker. What was simpler?

The woman, Nina Carrington, was the cog that slipped. What she only suspected, what she really knew, we never learned. She was a chambermaid in the hotel at C——, and it was evidently her intention to blackmail Dr. Walker. His position at that time was uncomfortable: To pay the woman to keep quiet would be confession. He denied the whole thing, and she went to Halsey.

It was that that had taken Halsey to the doctor the night he disappeared. He accused the doctor of the deception, and, crossing the lawn, had said something cruel to Louise. Then, furious at her apparent connivance, he had started for the station. Dr. Walker and Paul Armstrong—the latter still lame where I had shot him—hurried across to the embankment, certain only of one thing. Halsey must not tell the detective what he suspected until the money had been removed from the chimney room. They stepped into the road in front of the car to stop it, and fate played into their hands. The car struck the train, and they had only to dispose of the unconscious figure in the road. This they did as I have told. For three days Halsey lay in the box car, tied hand and foot, suffering tortures of thirst, delirious at times, and discovered by a tramp at Johnsville only in time to save his life.

To go back to Paul Armstrong. At the last moment his plans had been frustrated. Sunnyside, with its hoard in the chimney room, had been rented without his knowledge! Attempts to dislodge me having failed, he was driven to breaking into his own house. The ladder in the chute, the burning of the stable and the entrance through the cardroom window—all were in the course of a desperate attempt to get into the chimney room.

Louise and her mother had, from the first, been the great stumbling-blocks. The plan had been to send Louise away until it was too late for her to interfere, but she came back to the hotel at C—— just at the wrong time. There was a terrible scene. The girl was told that something of the kind was necessary; that the bank was about to close and her stepfather would either avoid arrest and disgrace in this way, or kill himself. Fanny Armstrong was a weakling, but Louise was more difficult to manage. She had no love for her stepfather, but her devotion to her mother was entire, self-sacrificing. Forced into acquiescence by her mother's appeals, overwhelmed by the situation, the girl consented and fled.

From somewhere in Colorado she sent an anonymous telegram to Jack Bailey at the Traders' bank. Trapped as she was, she did not want to see an innocent man arrested. The telegram, received on Thursday, had sent the cashier to the bank that night in a frenzy.

Louise arrived at Sunnyside and found the house rented. Not knowing what to do, she sent for Arnold at the Greenwood club, and told him a little, not all. She told him that there was something wrong, and that the bank was about to close. That his father was responsible. Of the conspiracy she said nothing. To her surprise, Arnold already knew, through Bailey that night, that things were not right. Moreover, he suspected what Louise did not, that the money was hidden at Sunnyside. He had a scrap of paper that indicated a concealed room somewhere.

His inherited cupidity was aroused. Eager to get Halsey and Jack Bailey out of the house, he went up to the east entry, and in the billiard room gave the cashier what he had refused earlier in the evening—the address of Paul Armstrong in California and a telegram which had been forwarded to the club for Bailey, from Dr. Walker. It was in response to one Bailey had sent, and it said that Paul Armstrong was very ill.

Bailey was almost desperate. He decided to go west and find Paul Armstrong and to force him to disgorge. But the catastrophe at the bank occurred sooner than he had expected. On the moment of starting west, at Andrews station, where Mr. Jamieson had located the car, he read that the bank had closed, and, going back, surrendered himself.

John Bailey had known Paul Armstrong intimately. He did not believe that the money was gone; in fact, it was hardly possible in the interval since the securities had been taken. Where was it? And from some chance remark let fall some months earlier by Arnold Armstrong at a dinner, Bailey felt sure there was a hidden room at Sunnyside. He tried to see the architect of the building, but, like the contractor, if he knew of the room, he refused any information. It was Halsey's idea that John Bailey come to the house as a gardener, and pursue his investigations as he could. His smooth upper lip had been sufficient disguise, with his change of clothes, and a hair-cut by a country barber.

So it was Alex, Jack Bailey, who had been our ghost. Not only had he alarmed Louise—and himself, he admitted—on the circular staircase, but he had dug the hole in the trunkroom wall, and later sent Eliza into hysteria. The note Liddy had found in Gertrude's scrap-basket was from him, and it was he who had startled me into unconsciousness by the clothes chute, and, with Gertrude's help, had carried me to Louise's room. Gertrude, I learned, had watched all night beside me, in an extremity of anxiety about me.

That old Thomas had seen his master, and thought he had seen the Sunnyside ghost, there could be no doubt. Of that story of Thomas, about seeing Jack Bailey in the footpath between the club and Sunnyside, the night Liddy and I heard the noise on the circular staircase—that, too, was right. On the night before Arnold Armstrong was murdered, Jack Bailey had made an attempt to search for the secret room. He secured Arnold's keys from his room at the club and got into the house, armed with a golf-stick for sounding the walls. He ran against the hamper at the head of the stairs, caught his cuff-link in it, and dropped the golf-stick with a crash. He was glad enough to get away without an alarm being raised, and he took the "owl" train to town.

The oddest thing to me was that Mr. Jamieson had known for some time that Alex was Jack Bailey. But the face of the pseudo-gardener was very queer indeed when, that night, in the cardroom, the detective turned to him and said:

"How long are you and I going to play our little comedy, Mr. Bailey?"

Well, it is all over now. Paul Armstrong rests in Casanova churchyard, and this time there is no mistake. I went to the funeral, because I wanted to be sure he was really buried, and I looked at the step of the shaft where I had sat that night, and wondered if it was all real. Sunnyside is for sale—no, I shall not buy it. Little Lucien Armstrong is living with his step-grandmother, who is recovering gradually from troubles that had extended over the entire period of her second marriage. Anne Watson lies not far from the man she killed, and who as surely caused her death. Thomas, the fourth victim of the conspiracy, is buried on the hill. With Nina Carrington, five lives were sacrificed in the course of this grim conspiracy.

There will be two weddings before long, and Liddy has asked for my heliotrope poplin to wear to the church. I knew she would. She has wanted it for three years, and she was quite ugly the time I spilled coffee on it. We are very quiet, just the two of us. Liddy still clings to her ghost theory, and points to my wet and muddy boots in the trunkroom as proof. I am gray, I admit, but I haven't felt as well in a dozen years. Sometimes, when I am bored, I ring for Liddy, and we talk things over. When Warner married Rosie, Liddy sniffed and said what I took for faithfulness in Rosie had been nothing but mawkishness. I have not yet outlived Liddy's contempt because I gave them silver knives and forks as a wedding gift.

So we sit and talk, and sometimes Liddy threatens to leave, and often I discharge her, but we stay together somehow. I am talking of renting a house next year, and Liddy says to be sure there is no ghost. To be perfectly frank, I never really lived until that summer. Time has passed since I began this story. My neighbors are packing up for another summer. Liddy is having the awnings put up, and the window-boxes filled. Liddy or no Liddy, I shall advertise to-morrow for a house in the country, and I don't care if it has a Circular Staircase.

THE END.

Hunters Kill Big Grizzly.

The monster grizzly bear that for years has been making many sleepless nights for the farmers, miners and residents of the northwestern Trinity region has at last been slain.

This monarch of the forest and slayer of small domestic animals was killed by Thomas McDonald, a wealthy mining man who has been camping along the Salmon range in Trinity.

Single-handed McDonald, who is a mountaineer of marked ability, killed the bear after a lively tussle.

The bear weighed 1,000 pounds, and is the finest and biggest specimen ever seen in the Trinity mountain regions. The animal had for years defied all efforts to capture or kill him. —Maryville Correspondence San Francisco Call.

Safe Offer

Jones—Why on earth do you offer such a large reward for the return of that horrid, yapping, snapping cur?

Brown—To please my wife.

Jones—But such a large reward will be sure to bring him back.

Brown—O, no, it won't. He's dead. I drowned him myself.—Stray Stories.

NOT A PENNY TO PAY

FOR FULLEST MEDICAL EXAMINATION

Professor Munyon has engaged a staff of specialists that are renowned leaders in their line.

There is no question about their ability, they are the finest physicians that colleges and hospitals have turned out and receive the highest salaries.

He offers their service to you absolutely free of cost. No matter what your disease, or how many doctors you have tried, write to Professor Munyon's physicians and they will give your case careful and prompt attention and advise you what to do. You are under no obligations to them. It will not cost you a penny, only the postage stamp you put on your letter.

All consultations are held strictly confidential.

Address Munyon's Doctors, Munyon's Laboratories, 53d & Jefferson Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

WANTED SATAN SENT NORTH

Good Example of Scottish Humor in Remark Made by Railroad Porter.

Scottish humor is dry rather than boisterous, and I always think there is exquisite drollery in the story of the Stonehaven railway porter and the Salvation Army "captain." To catch the hang of a little yarn readers must remember that Stonehaven lies to the south of Aberdeen. The London train had drawn up at Stonehaven on account of a slight mishap a mile or two ahead, and Andra, the old porter, had got into conversation with a Salvation Army officer who had popped his head out of the compartment to ask the reason for the delay.

"Aye, aye," mused Andra, after giving the desired information, "ye'll be for Alberdeen, I'm thinkin'?"

"Yes, my man," was the reply; "I'm bound for Aberdeen—a very wicked place, I'm told!"

"What micht ye be goin' to dae there, sir, if it's as bad as a' that?" asked Andra, rather amused at the visitor's words.

"Ah," was the pious answer, "I'm going to drive the devil out of Aberdeen."

Like lightning came from the old porter the pawky retort:—

"See an' drive him north, chiel; haud him well to the north!"—Exchange.

HER LITTLE JOKE.

Mr. Tellitt Wright—Just then a squall came up and our boat sail was torn to ribbons.

Miss Kidder—Ah! I see—a remnant sail.

What's in a Name?

"See here, waiter," said Mr. Grouch, scowling deeply over his plate, "I ordered turtle soup. There is not even a morsel of turtle flavor in this."

"Of course not, sir," returned the waiter. "What do you expect? Shakespeare said there was nothing in a name. If you ordered college pudding would you expect a college in it? In Manchester pudding would you look for a ship canal or a cotton exchange? Any tea, sir?"—Tit-Bits.

You Can't Tell by Faces.

Cheerful Pessimist—Well, how's things these days?

Dolorous Optimist—All right. Lots of work, money coming in hand over fist! Can't complain a bit!

Cheerful Pessimist—Well, that's certainly good news! Now with me things are simply rotten!—Puck.

MORE THAN EVER

Increased Capacity for Mental Labor Since Leaving Off Coffee.

Many former coffee drinkers who have mental work to perform, day after day, have found a better capacity and greater endurance by using Postum instead of ordinary coffee. An Illinois woman writes:

"I had drank coffee for about twenty years, and finally had what the doctor called 'coffee heart.' I was nervous and extremely despondent; had little mental or physical strength left, h..d kidney trouble and constipation.

"The first noticeable benefit derived from the change from coffee to Postum was the natural action of the kidneys and bowels. In two weeks my heart action was greatly improved and my nerves steady.

"Then I became less despondent, and the desire to be active again showed proof of renewed physical and mental strength.

"I am steadily gaining in physical strength and brain power. I formerly did mental work and had to give it up on account of coffee, but since using Postum I am doing hard mental labor with less fatigue than ever before."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville, in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Your Liver is Clogged up

That's Why You're Tired—Out of Sorts—Have No Appetite.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS will put you right in a few days. They do their duty. Cure Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, and Sick Headache.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

44 Bu. to the Acre

Is a heavy yield, but that's what John Kennedy of Edmonton, Alberta, Western Canada, got from 40 acres of Spring Wheat in 1910. Reports from other districts in that province showed other excellent results—such as 4,000 bushels of wheat from 120 acres, or 33 1-3 bu. per acre, 25, 30 and 40 bushel yields were numerous. As high as 102 bushels of oats to the acre were threshed from Alberta fields in 1910.

The Silver Cup

at the recent Spokane Fair was awarded to the Alberta government for its exhibit of grains, grasses and vegetables. Reports of excellent yields for 1910 come also from Saskatchewan and Manitoba in Western Canada.

Free homesteads of 160 acres, and adjoining pre-emptions of 160 acres (at $3 per acre) are to be had in the choicest districts.

Schools convenient, climate excellent, soil the very best, railways close at hand, building lumber cheap, fuel easy to get and reasonable in price, water easily procured, mixed farming a success.

Write us to best place for settlement, settlers' low railway rates, descriptive illustrated "Last Best West" (sent free on application) and other information, to Sup't of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to the Canadian Government Agent. (36)

H. M. WILLIAMS
Law Building Toledo, Ohio
(Use address nearest you.)

Good Health

—is within reach of nearly every man and woman who earnestly desires it. Start right with

Beecham's Pills

Sold Everywhere. In Boxes 10c. and 25c.

A CRUISE TO

South America

A grand cruise leaving New York, January 21, 1911, by the steamship

Bluecher

for the East Coast of South America, through the Straits of Magellan and up the West Coast to Valparaiso, Chile, etc., Across the Andes trip. Rates $350 upward; duration 74 days. Also cruises to the West Indies, the Orient and Around the World. Write for Illustrated Pamphlet.

HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE
P. O. Box 1767 41 and 45 Broadway, N. Y.

Headache

"My father has been a sufferer from sick headache for the last twenty-five years and never found any relief until he began taking your Cascarets. Since he has begun taking Cascarets he has never had the headache. They have entirely cured him. Cascarets do what you recommend them to do. I will give you the privilege of using his name."—E. M. Dickson, 1120 Resiner St., W. Indianapolis, Ind.

Pleasant, Palatable, Potent, Taste Good. Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back. 925

AGENTS

ROOSEVELT'S GREAT BOOK
"African Game Trails"

Needed—a man in every place to sell this famous new book. Bring it to the families in your locality. We give you monopoly of field and high commission. Take this great chance. Write for prospectus.

Charles Scribner's Sons
153 (E. S.) Fifth Ave., New York

"PLAIN TALKS ON FLORIDA"

By I. I. Moody, one of the State's early settlers. From these talks you will learn many important things about Florida and Florida lands—facts for you to remember when you invest. They are free—write for them.

BUNNELL DEVELOPMENT CO., Bunnell, Florida

LIVE STOCK AND MISCELLANEOUS ELECTROTYPES
In great variety for sale at the lowest prices by WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION, 521W. Adams St., Chicago

PISO'S
IS THE NAME OF THE BEST MEDICINE
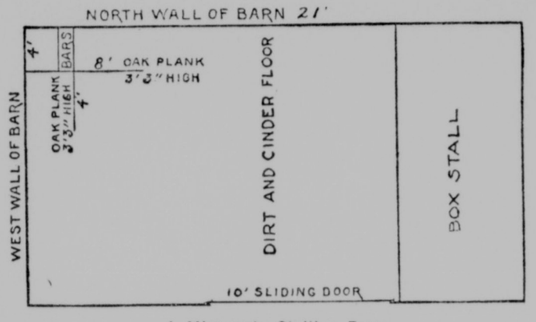
for COUGHS & COLDS

MINNESOTA STALLION BARN FOR BREEDING PURPOSES

Safe Harbor of Refuge Is Provided for Boys and Timid People With Mares—Also Aids in Securing Patronage.

The following description of a Minnesota stallion barn is given by M. T. Grattan in Breeder's Gazette:

The stallion barn fronts to the south and after passing office and carriage space comes the stallion boxes with stout plank doors opening in and double doors opening out. The stallions stand with their heads out at liberty, and as they never bite mares, couple of holes in north side of wall to receive them. The wing affords a safe place for party with mare. The bars make a pen for foal so the mare may keep her head to it. The bars also keep the mare from being shoved ahead and cramped. The top one will be at her breast and the bottom one at her knees. These bars should be strong, say 2 inches, and work easy.



A Minnesota Stallion Barn.

trying is done by leading the mare to the stallion's door. If found in season she is led to the northwest corner of the barn, off from the plank, onto a space 21x16 feet with cinder and earth floor and 14 feet to ceiling. A solid slide door 10x14 feet shuts this space off from the rest of the barn except a big box stall in which mares can be tied. For the breeding pen or chute proper the north wall of barn provides one side and the west wall of barn the end toward which the mare is led. Sink a couple of solid posts so as to have a pen 8 feet long from west wall and 4 feet wide inside. Lay sound 2 inch plank from the ground to a height of 3 feet 3 inches. Have the two posts outside of plank sawed to their height and edges smoothly rounded, as well as edges of planks at ends and on top. Sink another post from middle of pen south 4 feet. Just in front of this wing make a couple of holes to run a pair of 5 feet 6 inch gas pipe bars through and make a

Mares are bred in this pen or stall, those for the trotter always being hopped, but rarely for the draft horse.

The dimensions given may be varied and the part of stall back of wing hinged if desired. However, the hinges are not much of an advantage; the stall is wide enough so a mare's heels, by a sharp turn of her head, may be turned into the wall.

Often boys, or timid people, bring mares and the safe harbor of refuge behind the wing is much appreciated. It will help a stallion's patronage where competition is sharp.

The floor of the entire space should be covered with short stuff and chaff and kept scrupulously clean, wet straw and droppings being wheeled out after each visit. This arrangement is admirable also for handling a bull with safety. Up to this date this year—August 22—74 mares have been bred to the brother, 98 to the draft horse and 62 cows to a Red Poll bull without injury to man or beast.

ORCHARD TREE PEST KILLED

San Jose Scale Controlled by Natural Enemy in Form of Disease of Fungus Growth—Checks Its Spread.

(By C. E. SANBORN, Entomologist, Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station.)

During the last two or three years this department has been experimenting with a natural enemy of the San Jose Scale. This enemy is a disease in the nature of a fungous growth. In southern latitudes it has been used even to a commercial extent for controlling the scale, but on account of the weather conditions of this state it has been supposed that such a disease would either fail to propagate itself during the summer or be entirely too delicate to withstand the low winter temperature. Careful experimentation, however, has proved the disease is very hardy and capable of propagation to a very beneficial extent in our infested orchards.

Oftentimes diseases of a serious nature are introduced and scattered by insects and other agencies in general. This disease, however, is not capable of doing any damage to anything except the San Jose Scale and allied forms. Its use in orchards, groves, and public parks, as shown by our experiments, will be of a very great advantage in checking the local spread of the San Jose Scale.

It is of the same nature as the chinch bug disease but its appearance on infected insects is not nearly as conspicuous as the latter. To an ordinary observer it appears to be no more than the mold which is commonly present on damp bread a few days' old. It will live and propagate on bread and is apparently just as harmless to the higher animal life, but the microscopic examination of an infected San Jose Scale reveals it to be fatal to the latter.

Our experiments have been so conclusive in regard to the practicability of checking the San Jose Scale with this disease that we are now propagating it to an extent sufficient to enable us to supply gratis all interested citizens of this state who may request it.

The conditions under which we shall send it out are that the party requesting it shall first submit specimens of scale to us for identification. If the submitted specimens prove to be the San Jose Scale we will send a small package by mail. No directions for application other than those following will be given unless especially requested.

Directions—The fungus is grown on a jelly-like material which is of amber color in appearance. The color of the fungus or disease is white. This material may become more or less disarranged in transit through the mail, but its vitality will not be lessened. Upon its receipt the applicant should paste small portions of it to his infested trees. The jelly-like substance will adhere nicely. The fungus will gradually scatter from one tree to another of its own accord, but will accomplish better results if artificially well scattered when first applied.

HEREFORD OF APPROVED TYPE

The Hereford shown in the illustration has the true beef form, straight back, good under line, well filled quarters and compact barrel. Cattle of this build are money-makers for their owners.

UNABLE TO MOVE.

Helpless With Kidney Trouble But Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

M. C. Walker, 933 Grand Ave., Connersville, Ind., says: "For ten years I suffered from kidney complaint and was on the verge of Bright's disease. I was often so helpless I could not move and neighbors two blocks away heard me scream with pain. I had no control over the kidney secretions and the pain in my back was almost unbearable. After several physicians had failed to help me, I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and was soon relieved. I have had no return of kidney trouble in five years."

Remember the name—Doan's.

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

THOUGHT ONLY OF THE GAME

Filial Affection Lost Sight Of by the Small but Enthusiastic Lover of Football.

Among the spectators at a match between the Blackburn Rovers and the Olympic was a little lad about nine years of age. Though the boy's knowledge of the game may have been limited, his notion of correct play was extremely robust.

"Go it, 'Lympic," he yelled. "Rush 'em off their pins. Clatter 'em. Jump on their chests. Bowl 'em over. Good for yer. Mow 'em down. Scatter 'em, 'Lympic."

When his parent neatly "grassed" one of the opposing forwards, the youngster expressed approval by bawling, "Good fer yer, owd 'en," adding proudly to the spectators, "Feyther 'ad 'im sweet."

"Yes," said a hearer, "but he'll get killed before the game's finished."

"I don't care a carrot if he does," said the boy.—London Tit-Bits.

ALL THERE.

Visitor—Do you think that mosquitoes carry malaria?

Farmer—I dunno; they never took any away from here.

PUTS STOMACHS IN ORDER.

No Indigestion, Gas, Sourness or Dyspepsia Five Minutes After Taking a Little Diapepsin.

There should not be a case of indigestion, dyspepsia or gastritis here if readers who are subject to Stomach trouble knew the tremendous anti-ferment and digestive virtue contained in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the sourest, acid stomach in five minutes, besides overcoming all foul, nauseous odors from the breath.

If your stomach is sour and full of gas, or your food doesn't digest, and your meal don't seem to fit, why not get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any druggist here in town, and make life worth living. Absolute relief from Stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and besides, one fifty-cent case is sufficient to cure a whole family of such trouble.

Surely, a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Pape's Diapepsin, which will always either at daytime or during night, relieve your sick, sour, gassy, upset stomach and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.

Where He Fell Down.

Mr. Crimsonbeak—I see Budapest has a school where the students are taught the art of eating.

Mrs. Crimsonbeak—You ought to arrange to go there, John."

"What for?"

"And take a course in spaghetti eating."—Yonkers Statesman.

Resinol in Three Weeks Does What Other Remedies Failed to Do in Four Months.

My baby's face was like a raw and bleeding piece of meat. I was at my wits' ends what to do. Medicine from three physicians and ointment recommended seemed to make the Eczema worse. Then another mother spoke of Resinol, which I procured at once—remember I had no more faith in it than in all the rest I had tried—but I thought it would be wasting only 50c more. Never did I spend 50c to better advantage, for the first and second days I noticed a remarkable change, and now at the end of the third week I have my pretty blue eyed, rosy cheeked, cooing baby well again. I am safe in saying he is perfectly cured and the cure was surely something remarkable. Your Soap and Ointment did in three weeks what everything else I tried failed to do in four months. My baby was positively disfigured, now his complexion is all right again.

Mrs. H. F. Clemmer, Sunbury, Pa.

Back to the Wild.

There was a time when all dogs were wild and when what we call wolves were different from other dogs only as a collie now is different from a Newfoundland, for instance. From time to time you will hear of dogs that have returned to the life of their ancestors and have run wild with the wolves of the prairie or of the woods. In the town of Sandy in Oregon a greyhound one night made the acquaintance of a coyote, which is a kind of wolf, and ever since he has lived away from the town, running with the coyotes and approaching human dwelling-places only to steal a hen or two when he has been more than usually hungry.

Little Myra Explains.

Little Myra Lee had been in school but a few days when her mother had occasion to write a note to the teacher, and signed herself Mrs. Kent. Thinking she might have misunderstood the child's name, the teacher asked an explanation.

"Oh," said Myra, with a charmingly confidential air, "you see, my mamma got married again but I didn't."—Lippincott's.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

A Very Good Guess.

Foote Lighte—I understand there were several dozen bad eggs in the possession of persons in the audience last night and not one was thrown.

Miss Sue Brette—Because the author of the piece refused to show himself, I guess.

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

Mass Play Modified.

City Editor—Any radical changes for the better in football this season?

Sporting Writer—Verily. I understand that not more than one ticket speculator will be allowed to tackle a single patron at the same time.—Puck.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over 30 Years.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

In the Grand Stand.

Stella—Do you understand baseball?

Bella—Perfectly; but why does that man run so hard with nobody after him?

Stiff neck! Doesn't amount to much, but mighty disagreeable. You've no idea how quickly a little Hamlins Wizard Oil will lubricate the cords and make you comfortable again.

A girl is worth all it costs to raise her—and it always costs it.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

Many a fellow does all his betting with his mouth.

Have You Tried?

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? We can furnish positive proof that it has made many remarkable cures after all other means had failed.

Women who are suffering with some form of female illness should consider this.

As such evidence read these two unsolicited testimonial letters. We guarantee they are genuine and honest statements of facts.

Cresson, Pa.—"Five years ago I had a bad fall, and hurt myself inwardly. I was under a doctor's care for nine weeks, and when I stopped I grew worse again. I sent for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, took it as directed, and now I am a stout, hearty woman."—Mrs. Ella E. Aikey, Cresson, Pa.

Baird, Wash.—"A year ago I was sick with kidney and bladder troubles and female weakness. The doctors gave me up. All they could do was to just let me go as easily as possible. I was advised by friends to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. I am completely cured of my ills, and I am nearly sixty years old."—Mrs. Sarah Leighton, Baird, Wash.

Evidence like the above is abundant showing that the derangements of the female organism which breed all kinds of miserable feelings and which ordinary practice does not cure, are the very disorders that give way to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are afflicted with similar troubles, after reading two such letters as the above, should be encouraged to try this wonderfully helpful remedy.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3 $3.50 & $4 SHOES FOR MEN & WOMEN

BOYS' SHOES, $2.00, $2.50 & $3.00. BEST IN THE WORLD.

W. L. Douglas $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes are positively the best made and most popular shoes for the price in America, and are the most economical shoes for you to buy.

President W. L. Douglas Shoe Co.

DO you realize that my shoes have been the standard for over 30 years, that I make and sell more $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes than any other manufacturer in the U. S., and that DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR, I GUARANTEE MY SHOES to hold their shape, look and fit better, and wear longer than any other $3.00, $3.50 or $4.00 shoes you can buy? Quality counts. It has made my shoes THE LEADERS OF THE WORLD.

You will be pleased when you buy my shoes because of the fit and appearance, and when it comes time for you to purchase another pair, you will be more than pleased because the last ones wore so well, and gave you so much comfort.

CAUTION! None genuine without W. L. Douglas name and price stamped on the bottom. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE

If your dealer cannot supply you with W. L. Douglas Shoes, write for Mail Order Catalog.

W. L. DOUGLAS, 145 Spark St., Brockton, Mass.

American Seating Company

215 Wabash Ave. CHICAGO, ILL.

New York Pittsburg Boston Philadelphia

MANUFACTURERS PUBLIC SEATING EXCLUSIVELY FOR

Schools, Churches and Theaters

Everything in School Supplies. Ask for this CATALOGUE Z-L.

Save money by buying from the manufacturer.

ARE YOU BUILDING OR RESEATING? If you are write for Catalogue A. M. at once, mentioning class of building.

Dealers should write Thomas M. Boyd, President, McClurg Bldg., Chicago, for our exclusive agency proposition on

SCHOOL FURNITURE AND SUPPLIES.

COLT DISTEMPER

Can be handled very easily. The sick are cured, and all others in same stable, no matter how "exposed," kept from having the disease, by using SPOHN'S LIQUID DISTEMPER CURE. Give on the tongue, or in feed. Acts on the blood and expels germs of all forms of distemper. Best remedy ever known for mares in foal. One bottle guaranteed to cure one case. 50c and $1 a bottle; $5 and $10 dozen of druggists and harness dealers, or sent express paid by manufacturers. Cut shows how to position throat. Our free Booklet gives everything. Local agents wanted. Largest selling horse remedy in existence—twelve years.

SPOHN MEDICAL CO., Chemists and Bacteriologists, Goshen, Ind., U. S. A.

Breech Loading GUNS Single, $3.65 Double, $6.75 Sportsmen's Supplies. Cheaper than elsewhere. Catalog for 4c Stamp. POWELL & CLEMENT CO. Cincinnati Ohio

ASTHMA CURED TO STAY CURED

No relapse. No return of choking spells or other asthmatic symptoms. Whetzel system of treatment approved by best U. S. medical authorities as the only system known to permanently cure the disease. FREE TEST TREATMENT including medicines, prepared for any one giving a full description of the case and sending names of 2 asthmatic sufferers. Address FRANK WHETZEL, M.D. Dept. X, American Express Building, Chicago.

PATENT YOUR IDEAS. They may bring you wealth. 64-page Book Free. Est. 1869. Fitzgerald & Co., Pat. Attys., Box B, Washington, D.C.

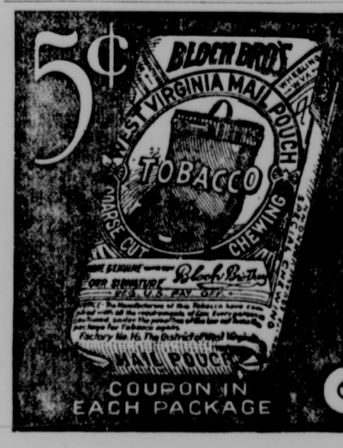
PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

PATENT your invention. Free preliminary search. Booklet free. MILO B. STEVENS & CO., Estab. 1864, 853 14th St., Washington; 366 Dearborn St., Chicago.

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 47-1910.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. MONROE DRUG CO., Quincy, Illinois.



CHEW AND SMOKE

MAIL POUCH TOBACCO

STANDARD FOR OVER 30 YEARS

FLIES IN THE OINTMENT CHANGE THE ODOR THEREOF

Spurious Additions to the Word of God Condemned.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 20.—The Wise Man declared that a fly in the precious ointment would cause it to stink. We apply this suggestion to the Word of God, the precious ointment which God has supplied. Certain flies (falsehoods) crept into it during the Dark Ages, which are now causing a loathing and repudiation on the part of many of the best and wisest people in the world. All will admit that it is sinful to tamper with the Word of God—to either add to or take from it or to wrest or twist or pervert its meaning. Why is it, then, that ministers of the Gospel, who know that certain passages of the Scriptures are not to be found in the older manuscripts, fail to show to the people the truth on this subject? And if these ministers are not fully informed, whose fault is that? Would it not be preferable that they should absent themselves from some of the fairs and festivals and social functions, in order to inform themselves?

On what pretext are the clergy a specially privileged class, except for the purpose of giving their flocks reliable information along religious lines? And what is their commission from the Lord, except that they "should feed the flock of God, which he purchased with the blood of his own dear Son?" If the flock have been feeding upon certain Scriptures supposed to be genuine, and if they have been made sick thereby, and if their shepherds now know that these Scriptures are not a part of the Divinely inspired Word, why should not God's people be informed of the facts and be stopped from eating poisonous elements introduced by the Adversary?

Poison In Our Bibles.

The more others are silent, the more we must speak. We cannot see God's sheep spiritually sick without warning them respecting their spiritual food. Not only have we received many misinterpretations of the parables and symbols of the Bible, but into our Bibles themselves certain false statements have been injected—long centuries ago. All well-informed ministers of the Gospel know that our New Testament was not translated from the writings of the Apostles, but from copies thereof. These, copied over and over again, no matter how carefully were liable to errors. And in addition as we might expect, occasionally, a bold transcriber would add a few words to make the record conform the better to his conception of what it ought to be. This went on for centuries before the art of printing came into use.

The New Testament was translated from the Greek into the Latin language, and was known as the Vulgate. From that Latin translation sprang our various English translations—the Douay or Catholic edition, published in 1609 A. D., and the King James Bible, or Common Version, published in 1611 A. D. The latter was merely a revised translation, to assist in which revision other previous translations were used, and we are assured that the text was diligently compared with the Greek text. But until lately there were no ancient Greek manuscripts with which to compare it. The Greek manuscripts with which it was compared numbered only eight, none of which dated earlier than the Tenth Century. Today, however, we have three very old Greek manuscripts of the New Testament, namely, the Alexandrian MS., the Vatican MS. and the Sinaitic MS. Of these, the Vatican MS. was the first to come to the attention of modern scholarship. It is in the Vatican Library, appearing on its catalogue as far back as 1475 A. D., which manuscript scholarship accredits with having been written in the fourth century. Next came the Alexandrian MS., which is supposed to have been written about the middle of the fifth century. It is now on exhibition in the British Museum. Finally, we have the Sinaitic MS., which is in possession of the Russian Government. It was found by Constantine Tischendorf in a Mt. Sinai Convent, from which it takes its name. It is accredited with a date of about 350 A. D. Of these three oldest MSS. of the New Testament known in the world, the Vatican and Sinaitic are the older.

Assuredly nothing should be considered as part of the original Scriptures that is not found in any of these three oldest MSS. Why should we not tell this to the people? Why should we not inform them that some of the most confusing texts of the Bible are not found in these old manuscripts? Is it not a sin to preach doctrines as from God which have no part in these early MSS.? This is our thought. From time to time it will be our pleasure, as well as our duty, to teach the common people what the clergy already know on this subject. Moreover, the Bible Students Association of Brooklyn has arranged for the importation of copies of the New Testament bound in cloth showing the variations between the readings of these old Greek MSS. and our Common Version. The usual price of these is $1.00; but, importing them in large quantities, they are able to supply them postpaid at 50c. each.

Consider Now Our Text.

"Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized, shall be saved; but he that believeth not, shall be damned."—Mark xvi, 15, 16.

One of the most important of these interpolations or poisonous additions engrafted upon the Word of God is in the sixteenth chapter of Mark, all of which, from the ninth verse to the end of the chapter, is spurious—fraudulent. It is additional to anything that St. Mark wrote, as evidenced by the fact that these verses are not found in any of the three oldest Greek MSS.

Of course some of the items of these verses are found in other Gospels. It would never do to add a lie without a certain amount of covering of Truth to sugarcoat it! But notice our text and what a wrong thought it gives—inconsistent with the remainder of the Scriptures. Its intimation is that the preaching of the Gospel to every creature will result either in his believing it and being baptized, and thus being saved, or in his disbelieving and being damned. And this word damned carries with it, in the light of other misunderstandings, fire and blazings, roasting and torture, shrieking and woes indescribable. This is all wrong—contrary to the authentic Scriptures.

The authentic Scriptures inform us that this Gospel Age is one in which God is gathering from the world a "little flock" of footstep followers, saintly and elect, to constitute the Bride of Christ—his joint-heirs in his coming Kingdom. They show that not all are expected to hear this message at the present time—not many wise, great, learned or rich, but chiefly the poor. They assure us that to have the hearing ear is a special favor, saying, "Blessed are your ears for they hear, and your eyes for they see." St. Paul tells us that the world in general is blind and deaf to the message now sent forth (Romans xi, 7), and the experiences of eighteen centuries corroborate this. St. Peter tells us (Acts xv, 13) that God's work in the present time is not the conversion of the world (which certainly is not being accomplished) but that he is now taking out of the world a people for his name (to bear the name of Christ, as his Bride). The authentic Scriptures everywhere teach us that the poor, blind, deaf world, which has never yet heard fully and clearly of "the only name given under heaven or amongst men whereby we may be saved," is not on this account condemned or damned. They tell us that the whole world was born condemned, because children of Adam and sharers in his condemnation, but that God has provided in the sacrifice of Jesus a redemption for Adam and all his race. They tell us that, as a result, in God's due time, Christ, as the true Light, the Sun of Righteousness, shall enlighten every man that cometh into the world. They explain that God is now calling out a special class while the darkness is upon the earth and the gross darkness upon the heathen, and that the Sun of Righteousness, which is to enlighten the whole world, will not arise until the elect Church shall first have been gathered out. They tell us that, in the New Dispensation yet to dawn, all the families of the earth will be blessed through The Christ—Jesus, the Head, and the Church his Body or Bride. They tell us that then "all the blind eyes shall be opened and all the deaf ears shall be unstopped" (Isaiah xxxv, 5). They tell us that then the Sun of Righteousness shall arise with healing in his beams, flooding the whole earth with the light of the knowledge of the glory of God. They assure us that that will be the period of Messiah's reign, for which we pray, "Thy Kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as in heaven." They tell us that the object of that reign will be that the world in general may have a trial to determine whether, with the light and knowledge and experience then granted, they will choose God and righteousness and the reward of eternal life, or will choose sin and its penalty, the Second Death.

Unbelievers Damned Already.

Our word damned, from misusage and the bad theology of the Dark Ages, has a sulphurous odor, whereas its plain, simple meaning is the same as the word condemn. Adam was damned or condemned 6000 years ago because of his disobedience. And all his children, by heredity, share his weaknesses and thus share his condemnation. But Adam is not condemned or damned to eternal torture nor to Purgatory. The Bible distinctly says in so many words that his sentence, his condemnation, his damnation, is to death. "In the day that thou eatest thereof, dying thou shalt die" (Genesis ii, 17, margin). After his disobedience, God said, "Unfit is the earth for thy sake. Thorns and thistles shall it bring forth unto thee. In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread until thou return unto the ground from which thou wast taken; for dust thou art and unto dust shalt thou return" (Genesis iii, 17-19).

This general sentence has rested upon all of Adam's race from that day until now. As St. Paul declares, By one man's disobedience sin entered into the world and death (not eternal torment nor Purgatory) as a result of sin and thus death (not eternal torment nor Purgatory) passed upon all men, because all are sinners (Romans v, 12). Jesus came to redeem two classes—the Church and the world—the Church class to be his "Bride" and to share his heavenly, spiritual Kingdom with him; the world to be blessed and restored to human perfection and to an earthly Eden, world-wide—God's footstool made glorious. The Church and household of faith, willing to walk in the footsteps of the Master in the dark, have been called during the pa nearly nineteen centuries.

RYANS GLADE

We wonder where our correspondents from this section are spending the winter as we do not hear from them any more and as they have remained silent so long, we thought we might use a little of your space in mentioning a few of the happenings of this vicinity.

We are having grim old winter weather right along.

The series of meetings at this place are still in progress.

Rev. Allkire, of Mount Storm, filled our pastor's appointments here Saturday night and Sunday.

Our school is getting on nicely under the skillful management of the teacher, Harold E. Moon.

Mr. Gilbert Moon of near Swanton, was visiting his brother Harold at this place last Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. N. B. Harvey is still at Blaine nursing her sick son and daughter-in-law.

Mr. S. G. Steyer is making preparations for erecting a new and modern barn in the near future.

Mr. Albert Steyer contemplates the purchase of a new shingle mill, which is something we badly need in this community.

Misses Artie Lish and Bertie Moon, of Kurtz Chapel, were visiting friends in this section Saturday and Sunday.

The Unexpected Lumber Co., is running its mill full time and the Hardscrabble Coal Company is doing a rushing business.

Mr. M. S. Harvey is our champion hunter, having captured three skunks and two foxes in a two days' hunt last week.

Mrs. J. B. Shockey and two children are visiting friends at Stoyer for a few days.

Mr. Harold Moon was calling on Miss Eva Thompson Sunday last.

Now Mr. Editor if this escapes the waste basket and your other correspondents do not show up in the near future we promise to come again.

HAUSER.

Miss Merle Fowler visited home folks over Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Floyd Artis returned home after visiting for several weeks with friends in Clarksburg, Keyser and other West Virginia points.

The people of his vicinity attend Thanksgiving services at Red House. Rev. Wade preaching his first sermon in several months.

Mrs. Will Hauser is quite sick at this writing.

Master Gilbert Roth, who has been sick for a week past, is reported better.

Mr. Meyers, of Terra Alta, visited friends in this vicinity Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Shaffer visited Mr. and Mrs. Dave Gnegy.

Mr. Wm. Devers' mother has moved to his home where she will remain for an indefinite time.

Rev. Wade, of Eglon, took Thanksgiving dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Lem Reed.

Mr. John Martin took a load of turkey to Thomas last week and enjoyed a fine sled ride at the same time.

Mr. Jesse Shaffer has started to do some shredding for his farmer friends near here.

Church Services.

ST PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 2:15 p. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Epworth League Monday 7:30 p. m.
Prayermeeting Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

G. R. WILLIAMSON, Pastor.

ST. MARK S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Luther League Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

ST. MATTHEW'S P. E.

Service every Sunday at 11 a. m.
Sunday School at 2:30 p. m.

W. H. SHEARER

MT. LAKE PARK M. E.

Class meeting at 10 a. m.
Preaching 7.30 p. m.
Sunday school at 2.30 p. m.
Epworth League at 6:45 p. m.

P. Z. MUSGRAVE, Pastor.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Deer Park—Preaching at 11 a. m.
Loch Lynn—Preaching at 7:30 p. m.
Everybody invited.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

Trapped 45-Pound Catamount.

James E. Artice, of Friendsville, Garret county, was surprised Thursday when he found upon visiting some traps he had set for small game that a big catamount had got caught in one of them. The trap was an ordinary steel affair, too light, it was thought, to hold such a formidable animal, but the chain held fast. The catamount, which was dispatched, weighed about 45 pounds. The trap was set three miles from Friendsville.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title, "Garrett County," sub-title "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

SATURDAY,

the 17th Day of December, 1910,

AT THE HOUR OF 10 O'CLOCK, A.M.,

at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, towit:

No. 1—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SEVEN, THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-EIGHT AND THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-NINE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, the same being a part of the Caledonia Land of the American Coal Company of Allegany county which are fully described in a deed for the same from Joseph E. Gray, and others, trustees, to Semi-Bituminous George's Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county, which deed bears date the 28th day of December, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 78, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 11 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Semi-Bituminous George's Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county.

No. 2—All that piece or parcel of land containing FIVE AND ONE-EIGHTH ACRES, being a part of Military Lot No. 360, which is fully described in a deed for the same from Isaac Davis and wife to John W. Boyce, bearing date the 24th day of May, 19 6, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 350, one of the Land Records of Garrett county. Said land is located in District No. 13 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as charged on the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of John W. Boyce's estate.

No. 4—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS FOUR HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SEVEN AND FOUR HUNDRED AND THIRTY-ONE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, and fully described in a deed for the same from McCulloh Coal Company to Upper Potomac Mining Co. of Garrett county, bearing date the 25th day of November, 1902, and being of record in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 509, one of the Land Records of Garrett county. Said property is located in Election District No. 13 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1908 and also for the taxes due and in arrear upon the capital stock of said Upper Potomac Mining Company of Garrett county for said year 1908 as charged upon the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of said Upper Potomac Mining Company of Garrett county.

No. 6—ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND CONTAINING ONE ACRE, adjacent to the town of Gorman, and fully described in a deed for the same from Mary Lewis and Joseph Lewis to Mary L. Ward and Jennie Wagner, bearing date the 17th day of May, 1894, and duly redorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 24, folio 339, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in names of the said Mary L. Ward and Jennie Wagner.

No. 7—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS SIX HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SIX AND SIX HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SEVEN, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, devised by the will of Daniel Carey of record in Wills Liber B, folio 15, in the Orphans' Court for Garrett county, to Rose A. and Rachael Galvin and Thomas Carey. Said land is located in Election District No. 9 of said Garrett county and will be sold to pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the names of said Rose A. and Rachael Galvin and Thomas Carey.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest there on at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

W. E. HOLLINGER,
Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

All who owe 1909 tax will please make payment on or before December 20th, 1910, or property will be advertised for sale without further notice.

MAJESTIC RANGES

For Coal or Wood

HONEST GOODS.
HONEST PRICES.

We are local agents for the CELERRATED MAJESTIC RANGES—the Ranges with a national reputation. Nothing better is made in the stove line. Goods which are cheap, but not good, are dear at any price.

Why you should have a Great and Grand Majestic Range in your Kitchen—

It cuts the fuel bill in half because it is riveted air-tight, HOLDS the heat where it belongs, and has the proper arrangement of flues.
It is used by your neighbor, who would have no other.
It browns bread all over just alike without turning.
Has large warming closets with the right kind of doors. The only warming closets that you can clean.
It is made in any size and style desired.
It is made of better and heavier material than any other.
It is the only range in the world made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron.
It costs a little more, but lasts much longer.
It is the only range made that has a ventilated ash pit.

S. LAWTON & SONS, Oakland, Md.

THE GREATEST SALE OF

Gas Stoves, Heaters

AND TINWARE

In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting

A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett Co., Md., deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 17th day of April, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

CLEAVER H POOL,

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

GERTRUDE E. POOL,
Administratrix,
Kitzmiller, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

FREAKLIN SUTER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the day 11th of May, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

LUCINDA SUTER,
Administratrix.
Hoyes, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Garrett County, Md., has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

AGNES R. A. M. WHITTINGTON,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 11th day of May, 1910, they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 10th day of November, 1910.

W. H. FREDLOCK,
Administrator,
Piedmont W. Va.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, Maryland, letters of administration on the estate of

ROBERT W. YOUNG,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of April, 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 26th day of October, 1910.

J. F. BISHOP,
Administrator,
Kitzmiller Md.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.

Office in Ravenscroft Building, Second St.

Particular attention given to Conveyancing Investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.

Prompt attention given all calls day or night.

Garrett County Telephone. 24-1yr.

The man Who Makes A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

Auditor's Notice.

Henry N. Mitchell et al., vs. Fred. Mitchell et. al.
No. 1355 Equity.
In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Pursuant to an order of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in equity, passed in the above entitled cause, referring the papers and proceedings in the above cause to the undersigned Auditor for the purposes of stating an account distributing the funds in the trustee's hands and for other purposes stated in said order, notice is hereby given, that Tuesday, the 20th day of December, 1910, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., at my office in Oakland, Maryland, I will proceed to state said account and perform my duty in the premises.

EDWARD H. SINCELL, Auditor.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., Nov. 15, 1910.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, Dec. 5th, 1910,

for the purpose of transacting all routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

The Maryland Agricultural College

COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND.

Maryland's School of Technology

Fifty-fourth year begins Sept. 15.

Entrance examinations 13, 14.

Eight courses of Instruction leading to professional degree of B. S.

Agricultural, Horticural, General, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Biological and Chemical.

The College has a close association with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. College students are permitted to visit the Experiment Farms at Arlington and Beltsville and thus secure an additional equipment for their professional career.

The demand of the age is for men for life's activities. Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all departments. Graduates qualified to enter at once upon life's work. Boarding department supplied with all modern improvements. Bath room, steam heat, electric lights. Location unsurpassed for health.

Tuition, books, heat, light, laundry, board, medical attention, annual deposit, chemical and athletic fees all included in the annual charge of $99.00 per quarter, payable in advance.

Sanitorium for isolation of contagious disease, resident physician and trained nurse in attendance.

Catalog giving full particulars on application. Attention is called to the Two Years Courses in Agriculture and Horticulture. Failure to report promptly means loss of opportunity to student.

Early application necessary for admittance. Write for particulars.

R. W. SYLVESTER, President.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 34. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1910. NUMBER 41

A FEW HORTICULTURAL PRIZES COME TO GARRETT

One for Apples, Two for Corn, Three for Oats and a Few Others.

Probably the most successful of all the horticulture exhibits held in Maryland under the auspices of the State Horticultural Society, was that of this year which closed last Friday at the Armory in Baltimore when the awards were announced after the officers for the ensuing year had been elected.

On the official board Garrett county is represented by Mr. Joseph M. Conneway as county vice president who was chosen without opposition.

The awards of prizes were made by a select committee composed of expert horticulturalists from various sections of the country, two of the committee being connected with the Agricultural Department at Washington, and were as follows:

Second prize to Ridder Brothers of near Oakland for Tompkins King apples.

Yellow Corn—Second prize to Thomas E. Bishoff, of Hoyes; third, to William T. Stanton, of Grantsville.

Spring Oats—First prize to William T. Stanton, of Grantsville; second, Thomas E. Bishoff, of Hoyes; third, J. A. Shaffer, of Oakland.

For both beardless and spring barlev Mr. Thomas E. Bishoff was awarded first prizes.

Two prizes for buckwheat came to Garrett county, the first to Mr. J. A. Shaffer, of Oakland, and the second to Mr. Thomas E. Bishoff, of Hoyes.

Had the apple crop in Garrett county been up to the standard local growers would without doubt have carried off all the prizes offered at the show, as they did two years ago.

Obituary.

Mabel Frances Clarv, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Clary passed away Nov. 29, 1910, aged four months and ten days. We deeply sympathize with the bereaved parents because of the death of their first born and pray that God may comfort their sorrowing hearts. He does not afflict in anger, but in love. He saw how they loved their little one so he took it unto himself that it might also be pure and spotless from sin and thus be an endless delight to them when they shall follow to that heavenly land whence it has gone. As we cast a long, lingering look at the face of our little darling which was soon to be hid by the dust of the grave our hearts, though heavy with sorrow, did not break, for we remembered that she was in the hands of our loving Father and that, some where, we would again see that little face so like a flower. Jesus died for the little ones and thev are safe with him. Grieve not, therefore, as those who have no hope, but rather let our faith grow brighter, as one by one our loved ones pass over the river and rest under the shade of the trees.

The funeral services were conducted by the pastor of the Baptist church at Deer Park and her body was laid to rest in the cemetery under a cover of snow to sleep like a flower until the resurrection dav.

BITTINGER.

Snow fell almost every day last week and this week begins with marked indications of last week's conditions.

Christian Brenneman and Jonas Bittinger made a business trip to Grantsville last Monday.

Simon Brenneman, the good natured and skillful carpenter, constructed some much needed conveniences for the interior of our school last week and those who have seen the work pronounce it an excellent job.

Miss Ida Bowser, assistant teacher in our school, has tendered her resignation to take effect Jan. 1st.

Deputy Sheriff Shartzer, of Oakland, while driving in this sectiou last week got fast in a snow drift and was obliged to abandon his buggy and proceed on his way horseback.

Miss Lizzie Orendorf spent last week visiting relatives over in Pennsylvania.

Much sleet, ice and snow is hanging on the timber and it is feared that unless there is a break in the weather soon many fruit trees will be ruined.

Attraction Extraordinary.

At the Empire Theatre Monday night an extraordinary attraction will appear. In addition to the great double bill of moving pictures the Mountain City Band will give a concert, rendering some of the latest and best selections. Ten cents admission will be charged.

WEDS THE CHAUFFEUR

Rich Girl of West Virginia Bride of Al Sanders.

It was learned here last Friday that Miss Blanche Malone, of Fairmont, had become the wife of Al Sanders, of Baltimore, who until recently was Mrs. Lyda Malone's chauffeur. The wedding took place in Baltimore county, Md., October 29. The bride is twentv-one years old and is one of the wealthiest girls in her own right in West Virginia. She is a daughter of the late Lee L. Malone, who at the time of his death was general manager of the Consolidation Coal Company. From him she inherited a large estate.

The bride, who is a beautiful blonde, was a student at Mount Vernon Seminary, Washington, D. C., at the time of her marriage. A short time before the marriage Mr. Sanders left Fairmont, stating to his friends that he was going to represent a large automobile concern of the East. He said that his territory would be in the Far West. Instead of going to the Far West he went to Washington. The next news that reached here was that Sanders and Miss Malone were married.

THE DEATH RECORD.

JOSEPH FLETCHER FRIEND.

Joseph Fletcher Friend, aged 78 years, died Sunday evening, December 4th, at 7.30 o'clock, as the result of a stroke of paralysis, which he suffered the Tuesday preceding and from which he never rallied. Mr. Friend was a soldier in the Federal army during the entire period of the Civil War, serving with honor the flag of his country. He is survived by his aged widow and a number of sons and daughters. His funeral occurred Tuesday arternoon from the M. E. church at Swanton where the services were conducted by Rev. Reid, of Deer Park, with interment in George Cemetery.

MRS. JANET LAW STULL.

Mrs. Janet Law Stull, aged thirty-four years, wife of Mr. William R. Stull, of Oakland, died at her home here last Saturday morning, the ninth anniversary of her marriage, after a prolonged and painful illness. The deceased lady was born at Pittston, Pa., and came to Oakland after her marriage to Mr. Stull, who was then manager of the Preston Lumber and Coal Company, and has resided here almost continuously ever since. In Oakland as well as at her old home Mrs. Stull leaves many friends to whom the announcement of her death, although almost daily expected, came as a distinct shock. At the home in Oakland a service was conducted Monday evening by Rev. L. E. Goodwin, of Baltimore, a former pastor of St. Matthew's P. E. church in Oakland, of which Mrs. Stull was a consistent member, after which the remains were conveyed to the station here and taken to Wilkes-Barre, Pa., where they wese interred, being accompanied by a number of relatives and friencs.

Obituary.

After a long illness of three years, Mr. John H. Wilt died Nov. 30, 1910, aged 38 years, 11 months and 11 days. He was married May 9, 1893, to Miss Barbara E. McRobie. To them were born nine children, of whom one daughter and five sons are still living. To his widow and fatherless children we extend our most sincere sympathy, and pray that God may comfort them and supply their every need. Mr. Wilt had been a great sufferer ever since the terrible accident which made him a helpless invalid for the the last three years. He bore everything which came upon him with christian fortitude. Seldom a word of complaint ever crossed his lips and he greeted all with a cheery smile and a pleasant word. We sometimes wonder why it is that we are called upon to suffer so much. God thus chooses to honor his servants by using them as witnesses of his sustaining grace. Brother Wilt was patient under his afflictions and to see him was to have our own faith strengthened. He had been a christian for some years and was baptized into the membership of the Deep Creek Baptist church by Rev. J. G. McEndoe during his pastorate there.

His funeral was preached at that place by his present pastor who was assisted by Rev. Mr. McEndoe. He was laid to rest in the Thayerville cemetery to await the resurrection day when he will be rewarded for his faithfulness here. C. W. HUDSON.

Oakland Dairy Association.

The stockholders of the Oakland Dairy Association met Saturday last and organized by electing the following officers: President, E. S. West; secretary and treasurer, E. A. Weimer; directors, E. S. West, Henry Lauer, D. M. Dixon, Geo. T. Porter, E. E. Sollars, W. S. Friend, T. W. Casteel.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GARRETT COUNTY COURT

Aside From the Work of the Grand Jury Little Business Transacted.

The December Term of the Circuit Court for Garrett county convened Monday morning at ten o'clock with Associate Judge Robert R. Henderson, of Cumberland, presiding.

Mr. Jonas Yutzy, of near Oakland, was selected as foreman of the grand jury, when the following named persons were drawn as his associates: Wm. A. Jacobs, Thomas J. Broadwater, John F. Browning, William E. Shirer, William Hamill, Walter Coddington, David N. Sanders, Walter Hershman, Wm. W. Savage, J. Arthur Dewitt, Conrad Speicher, C. M. Schrock, John W. Arnold, Wm. H. Fool, John A. Garlitz, Archibald Warnick, C. A. Beachy, Henry W. Baer, Horace R. Sisler, Stephen Rhoades, Floyd C. Diehl, Perry Bowser.

Judge Henderson delivered the charge to the grand jury, outlining in his usual clear manner the duties devolving upon them as reprentatives of the State in matters brought before them.

After the dockets had been called over and the proper entries made the resolutions adopted by the members of the local bar in memory of the late Thomas J. Peddicord, which were published in these columns last week, were presented to the court and read by Mr. E. H. Sincell. Short addresses followby Messrs. G. S. Hamill, W. R. Offutt and G. Semmes Hamill.

Judge Henderson followed the remarks of the local bar with a eulogy on the life of Mr. Peddicord, in which the speaker paid a high tribute to the professional ability of the deceased.

The petit jurors were dismissed until Monday of next week and Court adjourned until Tuesday morning as a mark of respect to Mr. Peddicord.

Tuesday the appeal docket was taken up and two or three cases tried, which, in substance, is all that has been done at the present term, the death of Mr. Peddicord, who was counsel in a large number of cases, making it impossible to proceed with the matters in which he was interested.

The grand jury will adjourn this morning. That body has found a number of indictments against those held in jail. The criminal docket will be taken up on Monday.

HAUSER.

Mrs. Mary Enlow has been visiting her grandson, Master Harry Enlow for a week past.

The hour for Hauser Sunday school was changed so that the people could attend church in the Texas community.

Mrs. George Hauser is reported ill at this writing.

Miss Gertie Sisler is still quite sick. There are all the symptoms of dropsy and a combination of other serious complaints.

Now is the time for the pessimist. He can safely prophecy winter weather and have the pleasure of seeing it come to pass.

Miss Myrtle Lathrum is visiting with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Cottington near Sunnyside.

We have a tame variety of rabbit in this vicinity. They will invade the sacred precincts of the country school boy and tempt the boys by getting under an upturned stump. Alas for the rabbit, the boys caught him.

It is too much snow for many to move around except to replenish the coal bins

Mr. H. C. Fowler was an Oakland visitor Monday of this week.

D. O. Roth and Elmer Shaffer were Oakland visitors last Friday.

An All-Around Move.

C. A. Beeder has sold his residence on Meyers avenue to Dr. W. H. Ryland, and will today remove with his family to Grantville to resume management of his hotel, the old National House, which had been leased by U. G. Blocher. The latter, having accepted an official position in the First National Bank of Grantsville, is obliged to give up the the hotel business. Mr. Bender, on account of having to take back his hotel, gave up his position as traveling salesman for the J. C. Orrick Co., of Cumberland, Md., and has been succeeded with that firm by A. A. Maust, who will remove from Cumberland to Meyersdale. Dr. Ryland will vacate the Ford property on Broadway today and take possession of his new home, thus making an all-around move.—Meyersdale Republican.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

TO ATTACK WILSON LAW

A New Plan of Campaign Is Now Proposed.

While the United States courts are dealing with the legal side of the Wilson Ballot Law, the Republican State Central Committee intends to attack it from another quarter, and preparations are now being made to bring home to the people in sections unaffected the impositions they are tolerating and which may ultimately be employed to prevent them from expressing a choice at the polls.

The plan in to have a competent corps of speakers tour the counties in the State, who will not only discuss the iniquities of the law, but describe its application by producing ballots used in the recent campaigns which disfranchised not only colored, but white Republicans. It is claimed that notwithstanding the frequent exposition of the methods of conscienceless election officials, the masses have no conception of the enormity of the offense, and it is with the view of acquainting them with all of the details, and then exhibiting the ballots the voters in Southern Maryland and the Eastern Shore are asked to mark.

While no definite program has been arranged, the proposition is to have mass meetings to which Democrats as well as Republicans are to be invited. Politics, as such, is not to enter into the discussion which is to be devoted wholly to the same subject which it is claimed is of sufficient importance to interest all citizens regardless of party. Independent Democrats will probably be asked to aid in this campaign of education against a continuance of practices that are making this State a byword for corrupt electiocs.

To make a nonpartisan demonstration it is believed wise to have these meetings before the State campaign is inaugurated, beginning soon after the first of the year and keeping the ball rolling until next fall, by which time sentiment will have so crys'alized as to compel an abandonment of the tricks to disfranchise other than Democratic voters.

Meanwhile the legal campaign is to be pushed in the courts with the hope that the offenders may be furnished an object lesson. There will be no let up in the Charles county case. The district attorney is confident he has sufficient evidence to secure a conviction. At any rate, all of the objectionable features will be ventilated in the courts, and the testimony here adduced will be used on the former by the speakers who are attacking from the other quarter.

The State Committee is determined to put an end to this sort of thing, and are sure that when once it is understood there will be a political revolution in this State.

HOYES.

We are still having winter weather and immense snow drifts, making our roads almost impassable. It has been snowing every day for more than a week.

Mrs. Minerva Custer, of Connellsville, Pa., is visiting relatives in this community. She expects to return to her home this week and will be accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Chase, who will spend several months at Connellsville.

There was preaching services in the M. E. church last Sunday morning by Rev. Powers.

Rev. McIndoe, of Loch Lynn, spent several hours in Hoyes with W. A. Smith last Tuesday.

Miss Bertha Dewitt was visiting her sister, Mrs. Ethel Lowdermilk, last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dewitt are in Oakland this week. Mr. Dewitt is a juror.

Mr. Joe Welch, who has been attending college at Westminster, Md., is at home, the school being closed on account of scarlet fever.

Mr. Charles Johnson and wife, also Mr. Francis McGettigan and wife all spent last Sunday with Mr. Willie Mattingly and family.

Rev. H. E. Friend and Mr. Wm. Callis attended preaching services at Sang Run Sunday afternoon by Rev. Orr.

Mr. Wesley Callis and sister Edna were guests of Misses Lula and Mary Callis Sunday.

Mr. Josephus Ferguson and daughter Martha are keeping house for Mr. J. Arthur Dewitt while he is away.

Mr. D. O. Dewitt and family spent last Sunday at Elder with Mr. R. B. Friend and family.

Senator and Mrs. Speicher, accompanied by several of their friends were out sled riding Sunday afternoon and spent a short time in Hoyes.

Mr. Thomas Bishoff is attending court this week.

WHAT IT MEANS TO OAKLAND TO BE WITHOUT GAS

Oakland People Had Harrowing Experieuce Monday When Fuel Failed.

To be blessed with one of nature's greatest products and then to lose it even for a day creates a longing for the unobtainable but when it is restored it is all the more welcome.

Such was the experience of hundreds in Oakland last Monday morning when the gas main bringing the natural product into Oakland was rent asunder as the result of high pressure on the pipe. That the gas was off was not discoveruntil the town awoke and the busy housewives made preparations to get the morning meal and then the calamity became a reality. Others, more fortunate, were equipped with both coal and gas ranges in their kitchens and in many cases the more fortunate ones cared for their less fortunate sisters in distress and no real hardships were experienced.

The repairs to the main were completed about 6 o'clock in the evening and at 6:30 the gas was again burning in homes that had been both dark and cold.

A Tribute to the Late Thomas J. Peddicord.

To the Editor of The Republican:

After reading last week of the death of Mr. T. J. Peddicord my mind naturally reverted to the time some years ago when I landed in Oakland for the first time. I started out on the first Sunday afternoon, a stranger in a strange place, seeking some diversion. Near the middle of the afternoon I came upon a Y. M. C. S. sign which announced a lecture upstairs at 4 o'clock I believe by T. J. Peddicord. I paused, read, and was about to pass on when a kind voice at my elbow invited me to step inside. I glanced up to meet the eye of a venerable old man whom I did not know. Fascinated, I walked in, listening all the while to a running fire of questions from Mr. Peddicord, for he it proved to be, too confused to answer intelligently. Needless to say the lecture was eloquent and instructive, but I went away thinking far less of the lecture than his kindly manner to me. There will always be a warm spot in my heart for Mr. Peddicord and the other members of the Y. M. C. S. of Oakland.

A YOUNG MAN.

Minister Arrested.

The Rev. J. F. Arnold, a former minister of the M. E. church, who was expelled from the West Virginia conference of that denomination at its annual meeting at Clarksburg last September, was arrested and put in jail at Clarksburg on a warrant charging him with failing to support his wife.

"I AM NOT DEAD AND CAN PROVE IT"

Says Messenger Pearson, Injured in Altamont Wreck.

William Pearson, reported to have been killed it the wreck on the B. & O. at Altamont Sunday night, is alive and well, and is a long way from being dead, according to his own statements.

Pearson is a messenger for the U. S. Express Co., running on No. 7 between Baltimore and Wheeling and returning on No. 8. Despite the fact that dispatches to the effect that he had died in a hospital in Cumberland Monday evening, Pearson took out his regular car on train No. 8 from Cumberland Wednesday, and with the exception of a severely wrenched shoulder, and a number of bruises, is none the worse for his experience in the wreck.

At the time the crash came he (Pearson) says he was sitting on a coffin in the car, checking some bills, and with the impact of the car upon the tender, was thrown out of the open door and down a small hill by the side of the track, alighting out of danger, and with no injuries except the wrenched shoulder and a few bruises. The baggageman, Biser, was in his section of the car at the time of the wreck and was thrown forward by the collision and most of the freight and baggage in the car fell upon him. That he was not killed outright is a wonder, says Pearson.

A peculiar fact in connection with the coffin is that it was thrown to the top of the mass of scrap and wreckage, alighting with no damages. It was later removed to a place of safety and taken to its destination on another train. The coffin contained the remains of an aged Washington woman who, during her life time, had ridden on the train many times.

Honor Roll of Bittinger School.

The following named pupils of the Bittinger school merited 100 per cent. in deportment and averaged 90 per cent. in daily recitations during the month of November:

Fifth Grade—Althea Oester, Lucile Beahm, Ruth Brenneman, Buela Stanton, Verna Detrick, Huldah Stark, Lena Keller, Pearl Crump, Dewey Wiley, Lester Bittinger and Ernest Hetrick.

Sixth Grade—Cora Bowser, Estelle Beahm, Verna Wiley, George Stark, Lester Hetrick, Leroy Emory and Austin Bittinger.

Seventh Grade—Myrtle Emory, Ruth Beahm, Leonora Wiley, Ray Engle and Charles Wiley.

J. C. BEAHM.

Call for Your Letters.

J. C. Stein, C. W. Saucer, Flora Cunningham, John Daugherty, D. C. Devine, A. T. Manliem, Mais Nomi, R. W. Wilson, (2), Wm. Wilson, E. E. Ferrel, Ella C. Gibson, S. T. Gabach, W. K. Gaither, Wilson J. Hinebaugh, Zena Hudson, W. H. Jones, (2), Dora Sinclair, J. H. Sines, Mayme Strobly, (2), Frances Laffall, Jennie Lee.

DIXON & KELSO

DIXON & KELSO have large orders for FAT DRY-PICKED

TURKEYS,

to be delivered

Dec. 18, 19, 20 and 21.

Will pay 20c, one-half cash.

Can also handle large quantities FULL DRESSED

Chickens and Ducks, for delivery Dec. 20 to 24.

Will pay 15c.

Fresh Butter ready sale at 30c. lb. and Eggs 35c. dozen.

We are putting in an unusually large stock of

XMAS GOODS,

and will be in a position to serve our customers better than ever in that line.

Yours to Please. DIXON & KELSO.

The MAN in LOWER TEN

by MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

AUTHOR of THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT by BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

"Guard This with Your Life."

CHAPTER I.

I Go to Pittsburg.

McKnight is gradually taking over the criminal end of the business. I never liked it, and since the strange case of the man in lower ten, I have been a bit squeamish. Given a case like that, where you can build up a network of clews that absolutely incriminate three entirely different people, only one of whom can be guilty, and your faith in circumstantial evidense dies of overcrowding. I never see a shivering, white-faced wretch in the prisoners' dock that I do not hark back with shuddering horror to the strange events on the Pullman car Ontario, between Washington and Pittsburg, on the night of September 9, last.

McKnight could tell the story a great deal better than I, although he cannot spell three consecutive words correctly. But, while he has imagination and humor, he is lazy.

"It didn't happen to me, anyhow," he protested, when I put it up to him. "And nobody cares for second-hand thrills. Besides, you want the unvarnished and ungarnished truth, and I'm no hand for that. I'm a lawyer."

So am I, although there have been times when my assumption in that particular has been disputed. I am unmarried, and just old enough to dance with the grown-up little sisters of the girls I used to know. I am fond of outdoors, prefer horses to the aforesaid grown-up little sisters, and without sentiment ("am" crossed out and "was" substituted.—Ed.) and completely ruled and frequently routed by my housekeeper, an elderly widow.

In fact, of all the men of my acquaintance, I was probably the most prosaic, the least adventurous, the one man in a hundred who would be likely to go without a deviation from the normal through the orderly procession of the seasons, summer suits to winter flannels, golf to bridge.

So it was a queer freak of the demons of chance to perch on my unsusceptible 30-year-old chest, tie me up with a crime, ticket me with a love affair, and start me on that sensational and not always respectable journey that ended so surprisingly less than three weeks later in the firm's private office. It had been the most remarkable period of my life. I would neither give it up nor live it again under any inducement, and yet all that I lost was some 20 yards off my drive!

It was really McKnight's turn to make the next journey. I had a tournament at Chevy Chase for Saturday, and a short yacht cruise planned for Sunday, and when a man has been grinding at statute law for a week, he needs relaxation. But McKnight begged off. It was not the first time he had shirked that summer in order to run down to Richmond, and I was surly about it. But this time he had a new excuse.

"I wouldn't be able to look after the business if I did go," he said. He has a sort of wide-eyed frankness that makes one ashamed to doubt him. "I'm always car sick crossing the mountains. It's a fact, Lollie. See-sawing over the peaks does it. Why, crossing the Alleghany mountains has the gulf stream to Bermuda beaten to a frazzle."

So I gave him up finally and went home to pack. He came later in the evening with his machine, the Cannonball, to take me to the station, and he brought the forged notes in the Bronson case.

"Guard them with your life," he warned me. "They are more precious than honor. Sew them in your chest protector, or wherever people keep valuables. I never keep any. I'll not be happy until I see Gentleman Andy doing the lockstep."

He sat down on my clean collars, found my cigarettes and struck a match on the mahogany bed post with one movement.

"Where's the Pirate?" he demanded. The Pirate is my housekeeper, Mrs. Klopton, a very worthy woman, so labeled—and libeled—because of a ferocious pair of eyes and what McKnight called a bucaneering nose. I quietly closed the door into the hall.

"Keep your voice down, Richey," I said. "She is looking for the evening paper to see if it is going to rain. She has my raincoat and an umbrella waiting in the hall."

The collars being damaged beyond repair, he left them and went to the window. He stood there for some time, staring at the blackness that represented the wall of the house next door.

"It's raining now," he said over his shoulder, and closed the window and the shutters. Something in his voice made me glance up, but he was watching me, his hands idly in his pockets.

"Who lives next door?" he inquired in a perfunctory tone, after a pause. I was packing my razor.

"House is empty," I returned absently. "If the landlord would put it in some sort of shape—"

"Did you put those notes in your pocket?" he broke in.

"Yes." I was impatient. "Along with my certificates of registration, baptism and vaccination. Whoever wants them will have to steal my coat to get them."

"Well, I would move them, if I were you. Somebody in the next house was confoundedly anxious to see where you put them. Somebody right at that window opposite."

I scoffed at the idea, but nevertheless I moved the papers, putting them in my traveling bag, well down at the bottom. McKnight watched me uneasily.

"I have a hunch that you are going to have trouble," he said, as I locked the alligator bag. "Darned if I like starting anything important on Friday."

"You have a congenital dislike to start anything on any old day," I retorted, still sore from my lost Saturday. "And if you knew the owner of that house as I do you would know that if there was any one at that window he is paying rent for the privilege."

Mrs. Klopton rapped at the door and spoke discreetly from the hall.

"Did Mr. McKnight bring the evening paper?" she inquired.

"Sorry, but I didn't, Mr. Klopton," McKnight called. "The subs won, three to nothing." He listened, grinning, as she moved away with little irritated rustles of her black silk gown.

I finished my packing, changed my collar and was ready to go. Then very cautiously we put out the light and opened the shutters. The window across was merely a deeper black in the darkness. It was closed and dirty. And yet, probably owing to Richey's suggestion, I had an uneasy sensation of eyes staring across at me. The next moment we were at the door, poised for flight.

"We'll have to run for it," I said in a whisper. "She's down there with a package of some sort, sandwiches probably. And she's threatened me with overshoes for a month. Ready now!"

I had a kaleidoscopic view of Mrs. Klopton in the lower hall, holding out an armful of such traveling impedimenta as she deemed essential, while beside her, Euphemia, the colored housemaid, grinned over a white-wrapped box.

"Awfully sorry—no time—back Sunday," I panted over my shoulder. Then the door closed and the car was moving away.

McKnight bent forward and stared at the facade of the empty house next door as we passed. It was black, staring, mysterious, as empty buildings are apt to be.

"I'd like to hold a post-mortem on that corpse of a house," he said thoughfully. "By George, I've a notion to get out and take a look."

"Somebody after the brass pipes," I scoffed. "House has been empty for a year."

With one hand on the steering wheel McKnight held out the other for my cigarette case. "Perhaps," he said; "but I don't see what she would want with brass pipe."

"A woman!" I laughed outright. "You have been looking too hard at the picture in the back of your watch, that's all. There's an experiment like that. If you stare long enough—"

But McKnight was growing sulky; he sat looking rigidly ahead, and he did not speak again until he brought the Cannonball to a stop at the station. Even then it was only a perfunctory remark. He went through the gate with me, and with five minutes to spare, we lounged and smoked in the train shed. My mind had slid away from my surroundings and had wandered to a polo pony that I couldn't afford and intended to buy anyhow. Then McKnight shook off his taciturnity.

"For heaven's sake, don't look so martyred," he burst out; "I know you've done all the traveling this summer. I know you're missing a game to-morrow. But don't be a patient mother; confound it, I have to go to Richmond on Sunday. I—I want to see a girl."

"Oh, don't mind me," I observed politely. "Personally, I wouldn't change places with you. What's her name—North? South?"

"West," he snapped. "Don't try to be funny. And all I have to say, Blakeley, is that if you ever fall in love I hope you make an egregious ass of yourself."

In view of what followed, this came rather close to prophecy.

The trip west was without incident. I played bridge with a furniture dealer from Grand Rapids, a sales agent for a Pittsburg iron firm and a young professor from an eastern college. I won three rubbers out of four, finished what cigarettes McKnight had left me and went to bed about one o'clock. It was growing cooler, and the rain had ceased. Once, toward morning, I wakened with a start, for no apparent reason, and sat bolt upright. I had an uneasy feeling that some one had been looking at me, the same sensation I had experienced earlier in the evening at the window. But I could feel the bag with the notes, between me and the window, and with my arm thrown over it for security, I lapsed again into slumber. Later, when I tried to piece together the fragments of that journey, I remembered that my coat, which had been folded and placed beyond my restless tossing, had been rescued in the morning from a heterogeneous jumble of blankets, evening papers and cravat, had been shaken out with profanity and donned with wrath. At the time, nothing occurred to me but the necessity of writing to the Pullman Company and asking them if they ever traveled in their own cars. I even formulated some of the letter.

I was more cheerful after I had had a cup of coffee in the Union station. It was too early to attend to business, and I lounged in the restaurant and hid behind the morning papers. As I had expected, they had got hold of my visit and its object. On the first page was a staring announcement that the forged papers in the Bronson case had been brought to Pittsburg. Underneath, a telegram from Washington stated that Lawrence Blakeley of Blakeley & McKnight had left for Pittsburg the night before, and that, owing to the approaching trial of the Bronson case and the illness of John Gilmore, the Pittsburg millionaire, who was the chief witness for the prosecution, it was supposed that the visit was intimately concerned with the trial.

I looked around apprehensively. There were no reporters yet in sight, and thankful to have escaped notice I paid for my breakfast and left. At the cabstand I chose the least dilapidated hansom I could find, and giving the driver the address of the Gilmore residence, in the East end, I got in.

I was just in time. As the cab turned and rolled off, a slim young man in a straw hat separated himself from a little group of men and hurried toward us.

"Hey! Wait a minute there!" he called, breaking into a trot.

But the cabby did not hear, or perhaps did not care to. We jogged comfortably along, to my relief, leaving the young man far behind. I avoid reporters on principle, having learned long ago that I am an easy mark for a clever interviewer.

It was perhaps nine o'clock when I left the station. Our way was along the boulevard which hugged the side of one of the city's great hills. Far below, to the left, lay the railroad tracks and the seventy times seven looming stacks of the mills. The white mist of the river, the grays and blacks of the smoke blended into a half-revealing haze, dotted here and there with fire. It was unlovely, tremendous. Whistler might have painted it with its pathos, its majesty, but he would have missed what made it infinitely suggestive—the rattle and roar of iron on iron, the rumble of wheels, the throbbing beat, against the ears, of fire and heat and brawn welding prosperity.

Something of this I voiced to the grim old millionaire who was responsible for at least part of it. He was propped up in bed in his East end home, listening to the market reports read by a nurse, and he smiled a little at my enthusiasm.

"I can't see much beauty in it myself," he said. "But it's our badge of prosperity. The full dinner pail here means a nose that looks like a flue. Pittsburg without smoke wouldn't be Pittsburg, any more than New York prohibition would be New York. Sit down for a few minutes, Mr. Blakeley. Now, Miss Gardner, Westinghouse Electric."

The nurse resumed her reading in a monotonous voice. She read literally and without understanding, using initial and abbreviations as they came. But the shrewd old man followed her easily.

As the nurse droned along, I found myself looking curiously at a photograph in a silver frame on the bedside table. It was the picture of a girl in white, with her hands clasped loosely before her. Against the dark background her figure stood out slim and young. Perhaps it was the rather grim environment, possibly it was my mood, but although as a general thing photographs of young girls make no appeal to me, this one did. I found my eyes straying back to it. By a little finesse I even made out the name written across the corner, "Allson."

Mr. Gilmore lay back among his pillows and listened to the nurse's listless voice. But he was watching me from under his heavy eyebrows, for when the reading was over, and we were alone, he indicated the picture with a gesture.

"I keep it there to remind myself that I am an old man," he said. "That is my granddaughter, Alison West."

I expressed the customary polite surprise, at which, finding me responsive, he told me his age with a chuckle of pride. More surprise, this time genuine. From that we went to what he ate for breakfast and did not eat for luncheon, and then to his reserve power, which at 65 became a matter for thought. And so, in a wide circle, back to where we started, the picture.

"Father was a rascal," John Gilmore said, picking up the frame. "The happiest day of my life was when I knew he was safely dead in bed and not hanged. If the child had looked like him, I—well, she doesn't. She's a Gilmore, every inch. Supposed to look like me."

"Very noticeably," I agreed soberly.

I had produced the notes by that time, and replacing the picture Mr. Gilmore gathered his spectacles from beside it. He went over the four notes methodically, examining each carefully and putting it down before he picked up the next. Then he leaned back and took off his glasses.

"They're not so bad," he said thoughtfully. "Not so bad. But I never saw them before. That's my unofficial signature. I am inclined to think"—he was speaking partly to himself—"to think that he has got hold of a letter of mine, probably to Alison. Bronson was a friend of her rapscallion of a father."

I took Mr. Gilmore's deposition and put it into my traveling bag with the forged notes. When I saw them again, almost three weeks later, they were unrecognizable, a mass of charred paper on a copper ash tray. In the interval other and bigger things had happened: The Bronson forgery case had shrunk beside the greater and more imminent mystery of the man in lower ten. And Alison West had come into the story and into my life.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

The Call to Preach

By REV. HENRY A. ALKIRE

Pastor of First Methodist Church Whitehall, Ill.

TEXT—How shall they hear without a preacher?—Romans X, 14.

Ecclesiastes is the first user of the term preacher. God always spoke of his "Messenger." But Paul, our author, repeatedly uses the word "preacher." Preaching is not a profession unless we make it that. It is purely and simply a calling. If a calling, there must be a caller. Who is the caller, and what constitutes the call?

Some say the chruch calls men to preach. But men have founded churches. And men have been excommunicated from churches because they answered their call to preach. So John Wesley, Martin Luther. And S. H. Hadley had hard work to get a church to ordain him. Some Great Power seemed to set apart these men before the church had taken any notice of them. In evangelistical Protestantism we call that power divine.

How can we determine God has called a man to preach? "By their fruits ye shall know them." God's Word will not return unto him void.

How can a man know that God has called him? In theological lore we say the man has a conviction. What produces the conviction? I did not know of anything that will send this conviction deeper into a saved soul than to look around upon the fields white unto the harvest and behold the fewness of the reapers. Seeing the need is feeling the burden. Once in sympathy with God's cause, we will want to make others see their need of God, and that will lead us to go forth to remove the obstacles in the sinner's way. And I am sure that it is only God that opens our eyes to all this.

Going out to spend our lives breaking down barriers in other people's lives implies consecration. So the preacher is surrendered to the one work.

The church declares that the minister is called to let other things alone. Her messengers must practically bring themselves to three great things: One book—the Bible; prayer; service means the field—the world.

For a century we Methodists insisted that a man could jump from plow to pulpit if God called him. And we insisted that our preachers should go where they were sent and be sent into new fields every year. And $50 for the preacher with $25 for the wife was considered ample remuneration for fording swollen streams, fighting wild beasts and frontier ruffians and riding a circuit covering scores of miles, with a dozen sermons a week thrown in.

What a metamorphosis! And what produced it? First, the pew became educated. That demanded an educated pulpit.

Then the country became thickly settled and the people demanded a settled ministry. The pillar to post idea had little permanency. The people themselves have created the present conditions. The common schools wonderfully developed, and the doctor and the lawyer smelled of the college. The church demanded that its ministers should be equipped for leadership. So today the preacher must not only smell of the college, but the divinity schools and post-graduate degrees.

All this equipment costs money, and the church has had to open her coffers generously to hold the young man who has had more ambition than consecration.

Formerly, the pulpit had no competition but Satan. Today it must compete with the press, lecture and Chautauqua platform, and political stump. This is the age of the specialist, but the preacher must be a generalist. True, he must know about everything in religion, but something about nearly everything else.

If the preacher is "a citizen uninterested, he is a sentinel asleep." He must hold his hand on the helm of reform.

He must keep his finger on the pulse of industrial conditions. He must be a patriot and keep his heart throbbing warm for his own land. He must keep his ear close to the political rail, and be ready to back the heroes of a growing government. He must make his pulpit a throne for advanced education and culture. He must be the center of the moral and social life of his field.

Well, you say, what has that to do with the call to preach? I answer, in the greatest day of the world's growth, everything. The preacher that fails in any of these points is doomed to sooner or later fall utterly.

What, then, is his real and specific duty?

He must keep his heart young that he may warn the young not to loiter along the path to strong manhood and womanhood. He must know how to cheer the aged who are so near the other world that they have lost all interest in this. He must know how to keep close to the man of affairs who has such tremendodus temptations, or heavy responsibilities.

In short, the present day preacher must be a friend to poverty, a foe to wrong, a champion of truth, a defender of human rights, a declarer of "thus saith God," and a guide to heaven.

It is better to inherit a fortune than to marry one.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.
For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

Good luck likes to visit people who are not expecting it.

What Murine Eye Remedy Does to the Eyes is to Refresh, Cleanse, Strengthen and Stimulate Healthful Circulation, Promoting Normal Conditions. Try Murine in your Eyes.

It isn't every ball player who can make a hit on the stage.

Pneumonia and Consumption are always preceded by an ordinary cold. Hamlins Wizard Oil rubbed into the chest draws out the inflammation, breaks up the cold and prevents all serious trouble.

Home Vaudeville.

"So you used to be on the stage?"

"Yes'm; and I done a side-splitting sketch."

"Well, let's see what you can do in the way of a wood-splitting sketch."

You Can Rely on Resinol to Do Its Work Quickly and Perfectly.

Have been troubled with dry Eczema for several months, and have tried many different remedies, but I have gotten more relief and better results with two applications of Ungt. Resinol than all other remedies. Will gladly recommend it whenever and wherever I can.

A. E. Hatch, D.D.S., Cleveland, Ohio.

Only on Great Occasions.

"How are you, Mr. Tyte-Physt? I hope there is nothing wrong with that set of teeth I made for you a few weeks ago."

"No, they're all right; but, great Scott, Doc, I paid you $30 for them teeth. You don't s'pose I'm going to wear 'em for everyday use, do you?"

UNSIGHTLY COMPLEXIONS

The constant use of Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for toilet, bath and nursery purposes not only preserves, purifies, and beautifies the skin, scalp, hair and hands, and prevents inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, redness and roughness, yellow, oily, mothy and other unwholesome conditions of the complexion and skin. All who delight in a clear skin, soft, white hands, a clean, wholesome scalp and live, glossy hair, will find Cuticura Soap most successful in realizing every expectation.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are admirably adapted to preserve the health of the skin and scalp of infants and children, and to prevent minor blemishes or inherited skin humors becoming chronic, and may be used from the hour of birth. Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the civilized world. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole proprietors, Boston for their free Cuticura book, 32 page of invaluable advice on care and treatment of the skin, scalp and hair.

ANOTHER BUMP FOR GENIUS.

The Amateur Poet—Whatever I do I do with my whole soul.

His Wife (sadly)—I know you do dear, but it would be such a help if you'd give it up and do things with your hands.

STOMACH MISERY VANISHES

Indigestion, Gas, Sourness and Dyspepsia Go and Your Stomach Feels Fine in Five Minutes.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn or a sick, sour, upset or gassy stomach, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and besides, there will be no undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store here in town.

These large 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Gastritis or any other stomach disturbance.

How would you like an unbossed and lobbyless legislature for a change?

PISO'S
THE BEST MEDICINE
for COUGHS & COLDS

Timely Millinery

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

JUST the most beautiful of all millinery is shown in the exquisite hat of black velvet mounted over a wired cap of gold tissue with two gold roses at the side. Lewis of Paris won the first prize at the fashion exhibition with a big hat mounted over a lace cap. He must have lost it if this exquisite New York model had been a competitor. But the idea was new then and seized upon by the Paris designers as one would seize upon gold coins lying about the streets. In fact, a good new idea is the same thing—it can readily be coined into substantial money.

This charming hat is very large and apparently very simple. But let no one be deceived as to its simplicity. The trimming is a dull metallic wing-like ornament in gold and silver. The shape is perfection, forming a background against which the face, neck and shoulder become a picture.

Another extremely large hat, covered with Duchess lace, is shown in Fig 2. The brim droops without an upwards flare, and is not quite so graceful as in the first hat, but is found more becoming to certain types of faces. The trimming of ostrich is a fancy mounting and combination of rich Persian coloring, is the note of climax in the model, which has been much admired.

Either of these demonstrate how wide a brim may be, and still leave no doubt as to its beauty.

IN CLOUD GRAY CASHMERE

Simple Girlish Dress That Will Set Off the Charms of the Young Lady.

A simple girlish dress this, in cloud gray cashmere; the skirt measures not more than two and one-half yards round, and is trimmed with two stitched straps with rounded ends in which buttons with cord loops are sewn.

The bodice and sleeves are cut together, the fronts crossed at waist, and forming a "V" shaped opening over a white lawn chemisette with turn-over collar and jabot of embroidery; the sleeves are finished with tiny turned-up cuffs.

Hat of straw to match dress, lined with darker crepe-de-Chine, and trimmed with wide ribbons.

Materials required for the dress: x yards 46 inches wide.

Sewing Lace.

Always sew lace with fine thread and never with silk, for the silk stitches are very noticeable. This is true, no matter how coarse the lace, silk will not sink into a fabric as thread will. This is a sewing hint given me recently by a prominent dressmaker, who expressed herself as "tired to death" of seeing quite plainly where her friends had sewed their lace chemisettes and hatbrim trimmings.

CALLS FOR COMMON SENSE

Some Simple Rules for Girl Who Finds It Necessary to Diet—Beware of Excess.

Here are a few rules that the girl who is determined to diet does well to observe. There is too much trifling with our digestion these days, and got the least harm is done by the notion for undereating.

Never diet on the advice of a friend. Her plan may have done wonders for her and will put you to bed or make you a sorry-looking wreck.

Don't diet to excess at any time. Girls, make sure your doctor knows dietetics. Many physicians, good in other things, have little knowledge of the effect of food upon the system.

If you must diet from a cause, as from diabetes or kidney trouble, do it religiously; almost better not begin than to do it spasmodically, letting up whenever food tempts you.

If you only diet for the sake of figure or complexion, count the cost before starting. Cutting out the foods of ordinary family meals is hard. Ask yourself: "Which means most to me, the loss of a few pounds or being a nuisance at mealtime?"

Don't keep on dieting if you feel that it disagrees with you. This holds good even when your food list is carefully censored by a physician. The best of them will make mistakes. Find out in time what is wrong.

Don't diet to excess at any time. Women often go to the point of weakening the entire system by injudiciously following a doctor's advice.

Common sense and moderation are good things to hold to in the matter of food.

Veils of the Season.

Stylish and becoming are veils of white ring dot net with the rings in black and a fine black lace border to match.

The winter's veils show large, octagonal meshes, sometimes plain, again with big woven dots.

Care should be exercised in wearing the veils or the nose sticking through the meshes gives a grotesque appearance.

The most becoming veil is a fine mixture of black and white, tiny black dots on white net being better than white on black. These have become known as the beauty veil because so many women wear them, regardless of style.

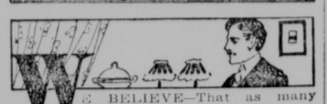
The Belt Buckle.

With the return of the belt to favor again, belt buckles in infinite variety have appeared. The simple enamel buckles in empire green, ruby, and dark blue are well liked for every day wear. With dressy gowns oblong or oval gilt designs in Louis XIV effects, scintillating with brilliants, add a smart touch to the toilet.

Newest Letter Paper.

Some of the prettiest note paper has a very narrow border of blue, pink, gray, lavender or red and one initial at the top set in a ring of color the exact shade as the border. Correspondence cards also are thus bordered and are very pretty.

The KITCHEN CABINET



WE BELIEVE—That as many lives are cut short by unhealthful food and diet as through strong drink.

Chowders.

These are wholesome dishes that may be served in any season and are always well liked. They may be made from fish or vegetables, and may be served as a dinner, luncheon or supper dish.

When nothing else is forthcoming, a very tasty chowder may be made of fried salt pork, potatoes, onions and milk.

Corn Chowder.—Cut a one and a half inch cube of salt pork into very small pieces and fry until brown. Add one sliced onion and cook it five minutes in the fat, stirring often that it may not burn. Parboil six potatoes, cut in slices, drain and add to the fat with two cups of boiling water. Cook until the potatoes are soft, then add a can of corn and a quart of scalded milk. Season with salt and pepper, add six milk crackers, three tablespoonfuls of butter, if the pork has not made it rich enough in fat. Serve hot.

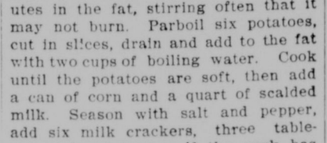
To prepare clam chowder, add the clams to the above recipe after cooking them in butter. Add the clam water just at the last, as it has a tendency to separate the milk.

Salt codfish makes a fine chowder. It may be cooked in water until soft, and then add to the chowder just before serving.

German Chowder.—Chop one and a half cups of haddock or any fresh fish, add eight common crackers, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, onion juice, salt, pepper and a beaten egg. Shape into balls. Prepare the chowder, adding two slices of carrot, a bit of bay leaf, a sprig of parsley to the above chowder recipe, cook all together, balls, potatoes and seasonings. Serve with crackers, split and soaked in the hot milk.

Lobster Chowder.—Remove the meat from a two-pound lobster shell and cut in dice. Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter, and the liver of the lobster, and two milk crackers pounded fine. Scald a quart of milk with a slice of onion, remove the onion, add milk to mixture. Cook the bones ten minutes in cold water to cover; strain, and add with the lobster to the mixture. Season with salt and paprika and serve.

Chowders are nutritive enough to serve as the main dish at a meal. For a hot dish on a cold night they are especially good. Oysters may be added to a chowder and are similar to a clam chowder.



JUST as of old the world rolls on and on;
The day dies into night—night into dawn—
Dawn into dusk—through centuries untold—
Just as of old. —Riley.

Thanksgiving Dishes.

At Thanksgiving time the old family recipes which have made those days red letter days, are looked up and prepared. The crisp, nutty celery, the crimson cranberry, the apples, bears and nuts all contribute to the great feast. The following is a recipe for the old-fashioned pumpkin pie. Half the recipe will make a pie of the size ordinarily used today:

Pumpkin Pie.—Mix one and a half cups of stewed pumpkin with two-thirds of a cup of brown sugar, a teaspoonful of cinnamon, a half teaspoonful of ginger, the same of salt, two well-beaten eggs, one and a half cups of milk and half a cup of cream, and a half teaspoonful of lemon extract. Bake in one crust.

A very nice little tea cake may be made by using the crust left from ordinary pastry or the puff paste, which makes a daintier cake.

Roll the paste to one-fourth inch in thickness and cut in strips six inches long by three-fourths inch wide, brush over with beaten egg, and sprinkle with shredded cocoanut. Chill, and bake in a hot oven.

Thanksgiving Pudding.—Put a third of a cup of suet with three cups of bread crumbs through the meat chopper, add half a pound of chopped figs, three-fourths of a cup of milk, a cup of brown sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of cinnamon, half a teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, half a cupful of walnut meats, half a cup of raisins cut in pieces, four eggs well beaten and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Sprinkle carefully over the mixture. Beat thoroughly, turn into a buttered mold and steam three hours. Serve with an egg sauce.

Foamy Sauce.—Beat two eggs until light, add a cup of powdered sugar and a cup of hot milk; flavor with vanilla or grated orange peel.

Nellie Maxwell.

Misunderstood.

Actyn Barnes, tragedian, solemnly strutted into the bar of the night stand hotel. "Put a pint of wine on the ice, my friend," he said to the man behind the counter. "Not if I'm in my right mind I won't!" chuckled the other, who happened to be the proprietor; "cash down is the rule in the here tavern, 'gosh!"

CHEERFUL WORDS FOR SUFFERING WOMEN.

No woman can be healthy with sick kidneys. They are often the true cause of bearing-down pains, headaches, dizziness, nervousness etc. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Doan's Kidney Pills make strong, healthy kidneys.

Mrs. John A. Link, 122 East Perry St., Bucyrus, O., says: "I was so terribly afflicted with kidney complaint, I could not stir out of bed. I was attended by several doctors but they all failed to help me. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief after I had given up all hope and soon cured me. I have had no kidney trouble in three years."

Remember the name—Doan's.

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Had Been Done. Got Out of the Habit.

"I see you have got a young man stenographer?"

"Yes."

"Don't you think a pretty girl stenographer adds a great deal to the attractiveness of an office?"

"I suppose she does, but I can't dictate to a woman somehow. I s'pose it's because I have been married so long."

ARE YOU THE MAN?

We want an honest, ambitious worker in your vicinity as District Agent for Health-Accident proposition, monthly premium plan. Most popular offering on market. Our officers are experience, practical insurance men. Liberal agency contracts, fair treatment and prompt claim settlements. Write for sample policy, stating experience and territory desired. Address Federal Casualty Company, Detroit, Mich.

Youthful Wisdom.

Father—Why did my little boy send his papa a letter with only a capital T written on the page while he was away?

Little Son—Because I thought you'd go around among your friends with it and say: "My boy is only four years old, and just see the capital letter he writes!"—Judge.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Curing Conceit.

"He used to have a good opinion of himself."

"Hasn't he now?"

"No; he ran for office recently, and wasn't even close when the votes were counted."—Detroit Free Press.

DISTEMPER

In all its forms among all ages of horses, as well as dogs, cured and others in same stable prevented from having the disease with SPOHN'S DISTEMPER CURE. Every bottle guaranteed. Over 600,000 bottles sold last year. $.50 and $1.00. Any good druggist, or send to manufacturers. Agents wanted. Spohn Medical Co., Spec. Contagious Diseases, Goshen, Ind.

Not a Harmless Sport.

Friend—You fought bareheaded?

French Duelist—Yes, and got a fine sunstroke.—Journal Amusant.

Pettit's Eye Salve for 25c.

Relieves tired, congested, inflamed and sore eyes, quickly stops eye aches. All druggists or Howard Bros., Buffalo, N. Y.

Somehow the average mother doesn't think she is doing her duty unless she spoils her children.

AN EFFECTIVE HOME MADE KIDNEY AND BACKACHE CURE

Easily Prepared Medicine Which Is Said to Regulate the Kidneys and End Backache.

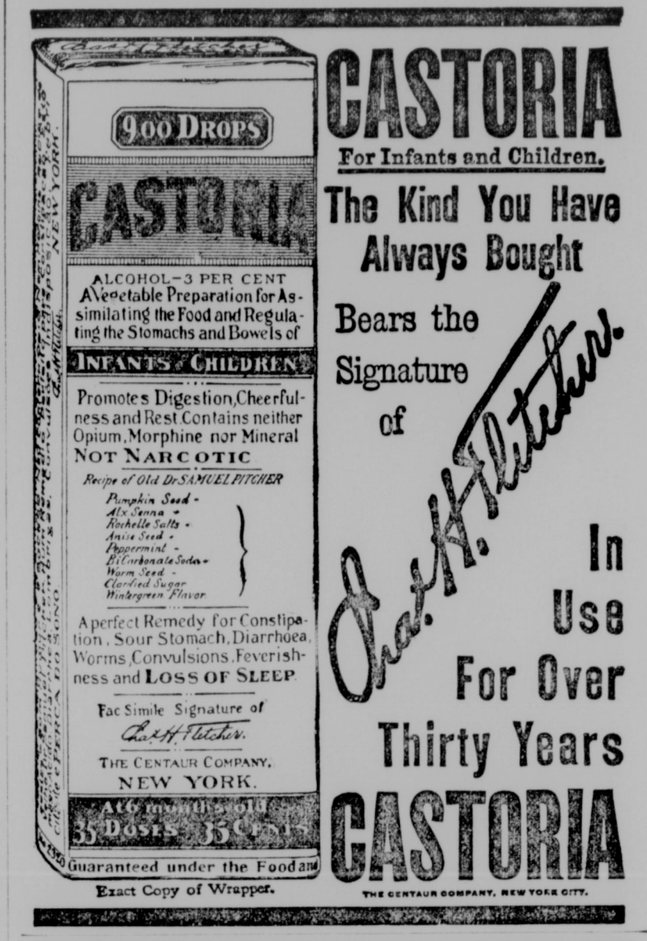
To make up enough of the "Dandelion Mixture" which is claimed to be a prompt cure for Backache and Kidney and Bladder trouble, get from any good Prescription Pharmacist one-half ounce fluid extract Dandelion; one ounce Kargon Compound and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Those who have tried it say it acts gently but thoroughly on the Kidneys and entire urinary system, relieving the most severe Backache at once.

A well-known medical authority recommends the prescription to be taken the moment you suspect any Kidney, Bladder or Urinary disorder or feel a constant dull Backache, or if the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding sensation; or for too frequent urination during the night.

This is a real harmless vegetable mixture which could not cause injury to anyone and the relief which is said to immediately follow its use is a revelation to men and women who suffer from Backache, Kidney trouble or any form of Urinary disorder.

This is surely worth trying, as it is easily mixed at home or any druggist will do it for you, and doesn't cost much.



Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

When—

The Stomach is Sick
The Liver Sluggish
The Bowels Clogged
The Blood Impure
The Skin Sallow

Then—It's Time to Take

That grand, old, time-tested remedy—

BEECHAM'S PILLS

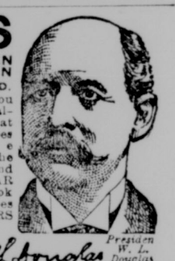
In boxes with full directions, 10c. and 25c.

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3 $3.50 & $4 SHOES FOR MEN & WOMEN

BOYS' SHOES, $2.00, $2.50 & $3.00. BEST IN THE WORLD.

W. L. Douglas $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes are positively the best made and most popular shoes for the price in America, and are the most economical shoes for you to buy.



Do you realize that my shoes have been the standard for over 30 years, that I make and sell more $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes than any other manufacturer in the U.S., and that DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR, I GUARANTEE MY SHOES to hold their shape, look and fit better, and wear longer than any other $3.00, $3.50 or $4.00 shoes you can buy? Quality counts. It has made my shoes THE LEADERS OF THE WORLD.

You will be pleased when you buy my shoes because of the fit and appearance, and when it comes time for you to purchase another pair, you will be more than pleased because the last ones wore so well, and gave you so much comfort.

W. L. Douglas, President

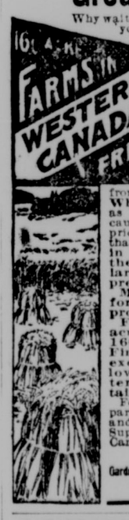
CAUTION! Name and price stamped on the bottom. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE

If your dealer cannot supply you with W. L. Douglas Shoes, write for Mail Order Catalog.

W. L. DOUGLAS, 145 Spark St., Brockton, Mass.

The Farmer's Son's Great Opportunity

Why wait for the old farm to become your inheritance? Begin now to prepare for your future prosperity and independence. A great opportunity awaits you in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, where you can secure a Free Homestead or buy land at reasonable prices.



Now's the Time

—not a year from now, when land will be higher. The profits secured from the abundant crops of Wheat, Oats and Barley, as well as cattle raising, are causing a steady advance in price. Government returns show that the number of settlers in Western Canada from the U. S. was 60 per cent larger in 1910 than the previous year.

Many farmers have paid for their land out of the proceeds of one crop.

Free Homesteads of 160 acres and pre-emptions of 160 acres at $3.00 an acre. Fine climate, good schools, excellent railway facilities, low freight rates; wood, water and lumber easily obtained.

For pamphlet "Last Best West," particulars as to suitable location and low settlers' rate, apply to Supt of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to Canadian Gov't Agent.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT AGENT
Gardner Building Toledo, Ohio

Use address nearest you. 87

ASTHMA CURED TO STAY CURED

No relapse. No return of choking spells or other asthmatic symptoms. Whitrel system of treatment approved by best U. S. medical authorities as the only system known to permanently cure the disease, including medicines, prepared for any one giving a full description of the case and sending name of 2 asthmatic sufferers. Address FRANK WHITREL, M.D. Dept. Z, American Express Building, Chicago.

AGENTS

ROOSEVELT'S GREAT BOOK "African Game Trails"

Needed—a man in every place to sell this famous new book. Bring it to the families in your locality. We give you monopoly of field and high commission. Take this great chance. Write for prospectus.

Charles Scribner's Sons
153 (R. S.) Fifth Ave., New York

Its simplicity is a strong feature of the

CHASE

KNOWN THE WORLD OVER

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

GREET YOUR FRIENDS at CHRISTMAS

by sending them a

PRIVATE CHRISTMAS BOOKLET

Steel Die Embossed Cover and printed especially for you with your own name and address.

$1 For 12 Booklets

Samples free. Orders filled same day received.

The Educational Supply Co., Painesville, Ohio

Constipation—

Nearly Every One Gets It

The bowels show first sign of things going wrong. A Cascaret taken every night as needed keeps the bowels working naturally without grip, gripe and that upset sick feeling. 900

Ten cent box, week's treatment. All drug stores. Biggest seller in the world—million boxes a month.

A Cruise to the ORIENT

An Oriental Cruise leaving New York January 28, 1911, by the

S. S. Cleveland

for Madeira, Spain, Italy, Greece, Turkey, Egypt, Holy Land, etc. Duration of 86 days. Rates from $325 up, including landing and embarking expenses. Also cruises to the West Indies, South America and Around the World.

Send for Illustrated Book.

HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE
P. O. Box 1767 41 and 45 Broadway, N. Y.

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S ASTHMA

Remedy for the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask your druggist for it. Write for FREE SAMPLE. NORTHROP & LYMAN CO. Ltd., BUFFALO, N.Y.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

Entered at the Postoffice in Oakland, Md., as Second-class matter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

The Republican is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year.....$1.25
One copy six months..... .75
One copy three months ..... .40

Advertising Rates made known upon Application.

Remittances may be made by Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft and addressed to

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1910.

TRICK BALLOTS ON TRIAL.

Without animus to individuals, and for the purpose of determining the position of the courts upon the subject of trick ballots, the cases of Charles county supervisors, whose names have been sent to the Federal Grand Jury, will be pushed with earnestness by the citizens intent upon ascertaining once and for all whether the devices resorted to in the Wilson counties may be used with impunity. This is a case of law and not of sentiment. It is of first importance to have the question brought to a conclusion, and the action of Commissioner Bond in sending the names of the accused to the Grand Jury for its action will be regarded as distinctly in the direction of public interest.

The practice of mixing names on the official ballots and of identfiying Democratic candidates to ignorant voters by the use of heavy lines and peculiar methods of folding the ballots has been carried to such lengths as to invalidate the will of the voters. The honest candidate has not the opportunity to get a real test of his voting strength and is deprived of his right to secure the support of all those persons who, through personal favor for him or through their political predilections, desire to have him receive their votes.

No question rises to greater importance in the politics of this State than this of an honest ballot. All other questions relating to trick ballots are subsidiary to that of importance of sustaining the honor and integrity of Maryland elections.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

We are having winter in earnest. Snow has been constantly falling for more than a week and is now over a foot deep well packed by a heavy fall from the east Monday and Tuesday. When the roads are well broken the sleighing should be excellent.

Misses Blanche and Josie Cale of Mt. Lake Park, have been visiting their sisters, Mrs. C. W. Cuppett and Mrs. E. F. Jenkins, the past week.—Terra Alta Republican.

The special services being conducted at Wesley Chapel by Rev. P. Z. Musgrave are growing in interest. The attendance Saturday night and Sunday night was quite large.

Christmas services will be held here on Christmas Eve. Practice is now on and a good program will be rendered.

The Christmas services will be held in the Loch Lynn churches as follows: In the Baptist church on Friday evening and in the United Brethren church on Christmas (Sunday) night.

The monthly social and business meeting of the Epworth League Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs A. T. White, was a most enjoyable affair. The old time "deestrict schule" was exemplyfied with Mr. A. T. White wielding the birch. The scholars were mostly dressed for the the occasion.

Miss Evelyn Pritchard, who has been visiting relatives in West Virginia and Maryland for the past three months, is now at her home here.

Miss Jennie Lee is at her mome after a long visit among friends.

Ex-Postmaster Rudisill, of Mountain Lake Park, is holding a position in the Journal office as a compositor for an indefinite period.

The supply of natural gas failed here Monday on account of a break in the pipe line on the mountain about six miles from here. It went off early in the morning and the break was not repaired and the gas again turned on until six in the evening. The consumers have a greater appreciation of the benefits and comforts of natural gas than they had before the break occurred.

Superintendent Davis is here attending court early this week.

Schools were closed here Monday on account of the failure of natural gas.

Mrs. Annan and her son and daughter left their summer home here Friday night for their home in St. Louis, Mo. They expect to come to the Park earlier than usual next season.

Mr. James Lochrey and daughter, of Loch Lynn, visited relatives in the northern part of this county recently, being absent about a week. Mr. Lochrey's mother, who resides in Selbysport, will be ninety-nine years old should she live until next August.

One day last week while Messrs. T. P. Lipscomb and Marvin Harmison were out hunting on Backbone Mountain Mr. Harmison's gun was accidentally discharged, a 22 ball passing through the fleshy part of Mr. Lipscomb's leg below the knee. Dr. Broadwater dressed the wound and the injured man was about the streets of Loch Lynn Tuesday.

In last week's Journal a Mountain Lake Park correspondent gave the number of families now residing in the Park as sixty-five. Your correspondent made a careful enumeration and find seventy-six families now residing within the bounds of the Park.

FRIENDSVILLE.

"Oh, the snow, the beautiful snow," some people quote, but for our part we prefer the good old summer time.

In some parts in this vicinity the snow drifts are impassable, and still snowing.

The sympathy of the people is with Frank Humbereon and family. Mr. Humberson, who had spent the day on Saturday last helping some of his neighbors to butcher, came home in the evening and found his daughter dead. She was sitting in a chair and must have died suddenly. His wife was in bed, having been taken ill the day previous. The funeral was held Sunday.

A good many of our town people were bound to Oakland Sunday and Monday. W. W. Savage and Frederick Kamp being on the jury for this term of Court, but the petit jury was dismissed on Monday. John Hogan, L. M. Reckner, Clinton Ringer and George M. Friend also went to the county seat.

Mrs. Wallace Shaffer arrived Saturday on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ami Frankhouser, also her many other relatives and friends.

The B. & O. Railroad Co. have been giving very poor service lately. Last week on Thursday the train that should leave left here shortly after 1 p. m., did not depart until four-twenty, and a good many traveling men were unable to make connects on the main line on account of it.

The new road proposed to go up Bear Creek which will join the main state road near Accident, is an assured fact. Enough money has been raised to fill all the requirements and a meeting should be called to fix all the arrangments so that there need be no hurry and everything be ready by March.

A fire occurred at Kendall Friday night. The engine house that protected the locomotives was burned down together with an oil house. Two locomotives were entirely ruined, one being fit for nothing but the scrap pile, the bell being melted entirely. The cause of the fire is not known.

There are several cases of smallpox on the West Virginia line. We trust it will not get into our little town.

The new pastor, Rev. Browell, preached to his congregation in the Christian church Sunday evening.

We are sorry to have to report that the dam on the river that held the water for the light plant partly gave away last week, and again the town is in darkness and it is likely to remain so until the latter part of next summer, when the river will get low enough for it to be rebuilt. If an engine could be used for the time being it would greatly help things.

The Town Council met in regular session Monday evening, all being present except H. J. Black, the treasurer. It was moved and carried to instruct the Mayor to hire someone to take care of the fire engine. The Mayor explained that on account of bad health and weather, the crossings had not been attended to. The light bills ordered paid.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church will hold a festival Saturday night in the Opera House, when the quilt that has taken such pains to make will be sold. Everybody come.

While waiting for the G. O. P. R. R. train Thursday afternoon W. D. Claycomb, the genial representative of the Love Candy Co., gave an exhibition of fancy clog dancing to a number of friends. We surely think the stage missed a star performer.

The stores of our town have put on their holiday attire and many pretty things are exposed for sale. If our pocketbooks can stand the strain it will be alright. C. V. Guard has purchased a number of small colored lamps for decorating, but on account of there been no electricity he cannot use them.

The Band intends giving a concert about the holidays. Don't forget to patronize it. Bills will shortly be out.

There has been less hunting done this season by our town people than for several years.

Our rural delivery man, Geo. Dunham, let his deputy attend the mail matter on Monday, he butchering two as fine hogs as has been butchered this season.

Jasper Guard claims having butchered the champion heaviest hog this season. He butchered one for Capt. Friend that that weighed 567 pounds.

New Roller Process for Buckwheat.

Mr. T. B. Dowman desires to inform the farmers and others of the neighborhood, that he has installed the latest and best roller process for the manufacture of buckwheat flour. He will give as good a turnout of flour as any mill in the county.

SWANTON.

Swanton has more than a typical Thanksgiving feast and observance, her dinner was choice and her gratitude beyond measure; but the occurrence being annual makes the time long and dreary between meals. Notwithstanding the biting air and dark night a large assemblage was in the brightly lighted and well warmed M. E. church waiting announcements suitable to the day. Cheerful music, several recitations and two addresses followed the customary devotions impressively conducted.

The B. & O. contractors erecting additional railway facilities between Swanton and Piedmont, have finished the chief part of the original design and have removed all their forces, except small crews constructing concrete walls required in places too narrow to allow requisite space for widening the road bed. This costly improvement does not mean a continuous third track from Swanton to Piedmont, but sidings at intervals along that route over an enormous grade convenient to switch off slow trains for the right of way of faster and more important trains.

Mr. Charles J. Golden, who has been on a protracted visit to eastern states and cities, is back at his home.

Mr. C. Lansdale West of Baltimore, who has been sojourning in Swanton for a recuperation of health, has returned to Baltimore.

Miss Bessie A. Miller, of Providence, Rhode Island, this week ended a visit to her ancestral home in Swanton to resume her duties in a position in Providence.

Since the formation of Garrett never has game been so scarce nor so difficult to find as in the hunting term of the fall just ended. Very few hunters were induced to go out at all, and it is questionable if the number of pheasants killed will exceed a dozen in this entire community noted in previous years for its abundance of that superior game.

And, Mr. Editor, readers of your columns, and citizens of every class and shade of opinion greatly deplore the demise of the widely known attorney, Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, of Oakland, and, it may be safe to say, that in the history of Garrett no similar sorrow has reached so many hearts and homes. The passing of Attorney Peddicord from the conspicuous place held by him in the walks of men leaves a vacancy which no one to day in sight can fill. Time and prominence have so impressed his individuality upon our county seat and its legal proceedings that it will be saddening in the future to view them without him. From the time Garrett first declared her place among the counties of Maryland Mr. Peddicord has been known and admired in every class of intellectual discussion no less from the public rostrum than before the bench of this State. It is said he was in the first case of our first court and in the last case held before a judge prior to his death, and, with but a few exceptions, appeared on one of the two sides of every case of the Garrett docket. His professional pursuits were a wide range and lead him in most every ramification reached in a lawyer's practice. And in all, through the deepest and dimest archways of the law, he bore the flame of a safe explorer. His memory seemed superior to every strain imposed upon it, and in trials with clouds of witnesses and confusing testimony his memory, unsupported by a note, would never fail him. Facts and declarations were fixed on his retentive mind ready for the slighest deviations of the witness. Such are some of the attributes of this splendidly gifted lawyer as seen through eyes of one who has known itimately through the long span of that lawyer's career in Garrett. After his work was done, and the close of rich achievements in the profession adorned by his magnificent abilities, surely neither the time nor the place for the final departure could have been better chosen. In the mellow season when the dropping autumn leaves teach the mutability of all earthly things; soothed by love and ministered to by skill, at peace with men and looking to the light of the believer's trust over the paths of the valley, he crossed the one divide between the shadow of this world and the glory of the changeless Kingdom.

Miss Beatrice Heyward, of Bond, is forming a music class at Swanton, giving instructions upon organ, violin and piano. RELLIM.

Was Shot in the Leg.

Mr. P. T. Lipscomb, of Loch Lynn Heights, was in the woods last Saturday in company with Marvin Harson, a youth residing at Mountain Lake Park, when the rifle, a small twenty-two, carried by the boy was exploded, the ball entering Mr. Lipscomb's leg just below his knee. The bullet was deflected and came out three inches from the point of entrance. At the time Mr. Lipscomb though he had been struck on the leg by a stick and did not know that he had been wounded until an examination of his clothing revealed the evidences of blood. The wound was dressed by a physician and there is little if any danger of serious consequences.

Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound will do it. 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

STOP PLAYING CARDS.

Judge Keedy Rules That All Playing for Stakes is Gambling.

Levi Smith, of Hancock, will have no more social card playing in his house, as Judge Keedy just imposed a fine of $25 and costs upon him for having a social game of five-cent ante at his home in Hancock. The Judge said in summing up the case: "Anywhere games are played for stakes, no matter what they are, it is gambling, whether it is casino, old maid, poker or seven-up. If there is a stake, money, drinks or prizes, it is against the law." Under this ruling progressive euchre is gambling, and of course a game of "drink and smell" at your own private home is gambling. It is about time we were sending sensible men to the Legislature to make our laws in stead of fanatics. The Judge did not say anything about "dinch," but we guess that it comes under the ban, too. — Williamsport Leader.

STOYER.

Not seeing any items from this place for some time will pen you a few of the happening of our town.

The mines are running steadily and are daily increasing in the output of coal.

Mr. W. T. Steyer was in town on business one day last week.

Mrs. J. B. Shockey and children, who have been visiting relatives at this place, returned home Sunday.

Miss Eva Thompson and Mr. Harold Moon were calling at Mr. J. T. Steyer's Sunday.

Miss Maggie Smith, of Kitzmiller, has been visiting her sister Mrs. George Ferris.

Mr. Byron Somerville, of Gorman, was visiting friends here Monday.

Miss Grace Riley and Charles Kidd were calling on relatives near Oakland last Sunday.

Misses Ruby and Grace Manley, of Oakmont, W. Va., spent a few days last week with their cousin, Miss Sylvia Christopher.

A number of young people from Ryans Glade visited relatives in town Sunday.

Rev. R. A. McCauley, of Elaine, was calling on Miss Emma Steyer Monday.

Quite a number of our young people attended Epworth League services at the White Church Sunday night.

Mrs. J. W. White was visiting her daughter at Three Fork Run last week.

Miss Bessie Steyer spent Saturday in Gorman.

Miss Myrtle Wilson was the guest of Miss Georgia Tice last Saturday.

Mr. Frank Christopher and Mr. W. Steyer attended the show at Gorman last Monday night.

Miss Odessa Harvey spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Harvey.

Mr. W. Harper made a business trip to Gorman one day last week.

Mr. N. B. Harvey and son Mr. C. G. Harvey were seen in town Sunday.

Mr. I. N. Shillinburg, son and daughter were seen on our streets one day last week.

These fine winter days afford the young people of this place much sport, coasting and skating.

Success to The Republican.

Church Services.

ST PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 2:15 p. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Epworth League Monday 7:30 p. m.
Prayermeeting Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

G. R. WILLIAMSON, Pastor.

ST. MARK S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
Preaching at 7:30 p. m.
Luther League Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Deer Park—Preaching at 11 a. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

ST. MATTHEW'S P. E.

Service every Sunday at 11 a. m.
Sunday School at 2:30 p. m.

W. H. SHEARER

MT. LAKE PARK M. E.

Class meeting at 10 a. m.
Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7.30 p. m.
Sunday school at 2.30 p. m.
Epworth League at 6:45 p. m.

P. Z. MUSGRAVE, Pastor.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Loch Lynn—Preaching at 11 a. m.
Sunday school at 2:30 p. m.
Ferndale—Preaching at 7:30 p. m.
Everybody invited.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

Attendance Roll.

The following high school pupils were neither late nor absent during the month of November:

Ruth Arnold, Hosmer Cropp, Edward Chance, Presson DeBerry, Walter Dawson, Mary Flanigan, Stella Gibson, Nora Gauer, Bernadette Hart, Harold Harned, Frank Kildow, Rae Lee, Vernon Lyon, Paul Musgrave, Agatha Martini, Patrick Murphy, Hellice Rathbun, Frank Ross, Morris Sincell, Percy Thayer, Milton Turney, Edna Trickett, Harry Turney, Harry Weimer, Robert White, La Marck Ward.

U. G. PALMER, Prin.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany County.

Stands First among the State Banks of Maryland

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and open an account with us.

JAMES M. SLOAN, President. DUNCAN R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

Capital - $50,000
DEPOSITS, - $175,000

The First National Bank

Friendsville, Md.

Surplus Fund, . $26,000
Undivided Profits 6,000

OFFICERS:

L. E. FRIEND, President,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Vice-Pres't
R. C. McCANDLISH, Vice-Pres't
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier

DIRECTORS:

L. E. FRIEND, Merchant,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Lumber and Coal
W. W. SAVAGE, Merchant,
D. S. CUSTER, Merchant,
H. M. RUMBAUGH, Farmer,
W. H. H. FRIEND, Pension Agent and Surveyor,
HORACE R. DEWITT, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCANDLISH,
JOHN T. GEARY.

THREE GOOD THINGS TO KEEP: Your Temper, Your Secrets, Your Money

Your money kept with us will earn you 4 Per Cent. Interest compounded semi-annually. Keep it here and after while it will keep you.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. EDW. WINTERS, - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
W. A. Hitchens, S.
W. E. Stanton.

A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY

TO GET HAIR GOODS.

THE COLUMBUS HAIR GOODS CO., of Columbus, Ohio, will be represented by Miss Grace Teats at the store of Thomas Little with a stock of Hair Goods from NOV. 28th, to DEC. 18th. The public is invited to call and inspect her stock. Special attention given to TOUPEES and TRANSFORMATIONS.

Prices reasonable. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Good News from the Youth's Companion.

We have had to make The Youth's Companion larger to get in all the good things that Companion readers ought to have. The added amount would make four hundred pages of standard magazine size and print; but we have kept the price the same—$1.75 for the fifty-two weeks of 1911, and all the issues for the rest of this year free from the time you send in your subscription.

We would like to tell you what is in store for Companion readers next year. We cannot do it here, though; there is not room. But send us your address on a postal card, and we will send you the beautiful Prospectus of The Companion for 1911, announcing many new features, together with sample copies of the paper.

We think you will agree, when you have read them, that there is no other paper that gives quite so much a high quality as The Companion.

The new subscriber receives a gift of The Companion's Art Calendar for 1911, reproducing in twelve colors and gold a beautiful water-color garden scene.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION,
144 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass.

New Subscriptions Received at this Office.

Report of Loch Lynn School for November.

Number enrolled, 17 boys, 15 girls; total 32; average attendance, 15 boys, 13 girls; total 28.

Those present every day were Carlton King, Lee Gibson, Adna Sterling, Earle Sterling, Robert Ford, Larna Callis, Edison Kesner, Lester McIndoe, Gladys Crane, Vera Smouse, Ione Smith, Ethel Smith. G. W. STERLING, Teacher.

WHY?

NOT BUY THE Best Grade OF MEAT to be had in the city?

YOU CAN GET IT AT

CREUTZBERG'S

Old Reliable Up-to-Date

Meat Market

Cleanliness guaranteed.

I respectfully solicit your trade.

HOMER E. TURNEY, Proprietor.

P. S. Highest cash market price paid for Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Lambs.

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars Cameras and Photo Supplies

THE OLD RELIABLE

Garrett National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Commenced business November 14, 1888.

CAPITAL, ...	$ 50,000
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, .	45,000

OFFICERS:

D. E. OFFUTT, President.

G. S. HAMILL, Vice President.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

G. A. FRALEY, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Daniel E. Offutt — Gilmor S. Hamill
John M. Davis — George W. Legge
John T. Mitchell — William R. Stull
Scott T. Jones

Interest at the rate of 3% per annum paid on Time Certificates of Deposits and Savings Accounts.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent at reasonable rates.

Just received, a car load of Sleighs, at Naylor's. 40-3

Mr. Charles M. Miller, of Swanton, was in the city yesterday on business.

Mr. Noah Pysell, of near Accident, was in Oakland on business yesterday.

Postmaster Jacob Stump, of Bloomington, was in the city Monday on business.

Take your family to the Lutheran church this afternoon or evening for their suppers.

Mr. N. U. Bond returned to Oakland from a brief visit to his old home at Brockwayville, Pa.

Mrs. J. H. Rafter, of Kitzmiller, was in Oakland Tuesday on business before the Orphans' Court.

Mrs. Henry Lauer, who spent some time with friends in Washington, D. C., has returned to Oakland.

For Xmas goods, toys, candies, nuts, fruits and novelties, visit me. Xmas cards 10c dozen. Baumgartner.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Browning, of Cumberland, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Browning on Second street.

Mr. Fred. Kamp, of Friendsville, accompanied by his son Milton, called at this office Monday afternoon on business.

Constables Silas Teats, of District No. 5, and Joseph Glass, of District No. 1, were callers at this office Monday evening.

Fancy goods, suitable for Christmas presents, will be on sale at the bazaar to be conducted this evening at the Lutheran church.

Attend the supper and bazaar to be held this evening in the supper room of St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church. Supper will be served beginning at 5 o'clock for 35 cents.

Rev. W. D. Reed, district superintendent, returned to Oakland yesterday afternoon from a trip through portions of Preston county.

Mrs. Herbert White and little child, of Terra Alta, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Jones a day or two this week at their home in Oakland.

The very best Xmas present is a subscription to a good magazine. U. G. Palmer, Jr. takes subscription to all of them. Club rates the lowest.

Dr. W. W. Davis, superintendent of the Mountain Lake Park Association, was in Oakland a few days this week attending court as a witness.

Mr. D. E. Bolden accompanied the remains of the late Mrs. W. R. Stull to Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Monday evening, returning to Oakland this morning.

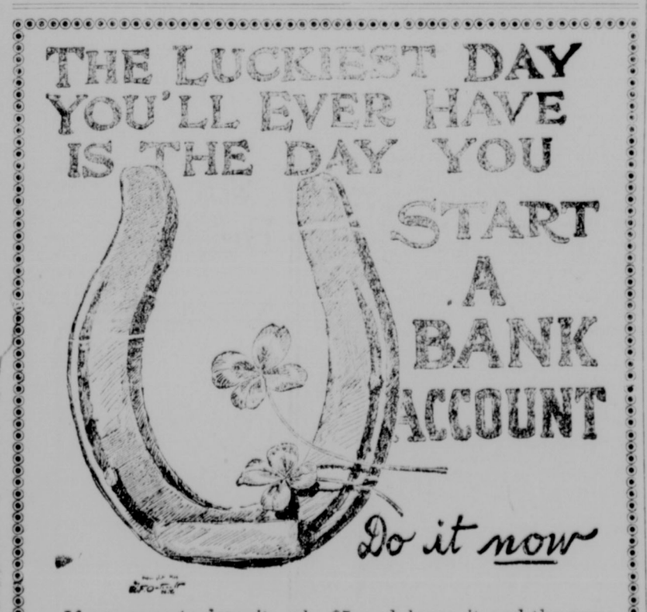
Miss Grace Smoot, of Newburg, West Va., accompanied by her little nephew, Master Edgar Smoot, are here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hammond.

For Xmas goods, toys, candies, nuts, fruits and novelties, visit me. Xmas cards 10c dozen. Baumgartner.

Prof. R. G. Richardson, of Piedmont, spent Monday and Tuesday in Oakland as a witness before the court in a case appealed by the Park Association from the decision of one of the Oakland justices.

Senator H. J. Speicher left Oakland Tuesday evening for New York City where he expects to receive today a number of horses imported from France and Belgium for his stock farm at Accident.

Mr. T. J. E. Yocum, of Carlisle, Pa., a practicing attorney of the bar of Cumberland county, Pa. was in Oakland Tuesday and yesterday where he represented a client in the Orphans' Court for this county.



If you were to deposit only $5 and leave it and the compound interest on it in our bank for five hundred years, and you were to live that long, you could buy the earth. Money placed in our bank and LEFT ALONE will grow TREMENDOUSLY fast.

Make OUR Bank YOUR Bank.

We pay liberal interest consistent with safety—3 per cent.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OAKLAND, MD.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

The only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

No Alum, No Lime Phosphate

Hon. S. A. Kendall returned last week from a trip to Oregon and other points on the Pacific coast and left Monday morning for Garrett county, Md., to look after the interests of the firm at that place.—Meyersdale Commercial.

Mr. F. G. Trout, of Blaine, West Va., was in Oakland Monday attending to some business matters connected with the settlement of the estate of the late Samuel B. Sandoe, who was killed in the mines at Blaine a few months ago.

Now is the time to get one of the finest Sleighs ever in Oakland. Naylor has them. 40-3

Mr. D. O. Kimmell, of Shinnston, W. Va., son of Mr. Chauncey Kimmell, of Mountain Lake Park, visited his father a day or two last week, returning to Shinnston Monday afternoon. The elder Mr. Kimmell has been and still is quite ill with an attack of dropsy.

For Xmas goods, toys, candies, nuts, fruits and novelties, visit me. Xmas cards 10c dozen. Baumgartner.

Mr. Horace R. Sisler, of White Rock, one of the grand jurors at the present term of Court, and Mr. Charles Reichenbecher, of Keyser Ridge, who was also summoned as a juror, but whose age disqualified him from serving as such, called at this office Monday evening.

Mr. Vic Fairall was in Oakland yesterday and is preparing to move here from Swanton where he has been stationed for two or three years as agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Upon coming to Oakland he will assume the position of assistant agent in the station here.

Mr. W. O. Davis, who has been night ticket agent at Cumberland for two months or more, returned to his home in Oakland Tuesday morning and unless he receives orders to the contrary he will resume his duties as assistant agent at the B. & O. station in Oakland in a few ays.

Mr. Frank W. Chase, of the Mountain View Stock Farm, was in Oakland Monday and Tuesday afternoon driving a fine team of Garrett county bred colts which were raised on the farm managed by Mr. Chase. The animals are excellent draft horses and will be kept for breeding purposes.

An outbreak of smallpox has occurred in the vicinity of Bruceton, Preston county, W. Va., which according to the latest reports has gained a foothold which will be hard to break, the number of patients in the affected district being upwards of twenty-five, all of them suffering with well developed cases of the disease.

For Xmas goods, toys, candies, nuts, fruits, and novelties, visit me. Xmas cards 10c dozen. Baumgartner.

Mr. Edward Leary returned to his home in Oakland last Thursday from Western Maryland College where he is a student, owing to an outbreak of scarlet fever which occurred among the students of the school a day or two previous to his return here. As soon as the attention of the health department was called to the existing conditions at the school it was ordered closed and the scholars who had not been exposed were sent to their homes.

The machinery for the Oakland creamery has been received from the factory and has been hauled to the site of the site of the proposed buildings on Third street. As soon as the structures are completed the machinery will be placed in position. The equipment consists of the finest machinery and is modern in every respect. The power for operating the plant will be derived from an engine driven by steam. A cold storage room will be constructed within the main building with sufficient capacity for all present needs.

Mr. Brainard H. Warner, Jr., of Kensington, Montgomery county, recently the Republican candidate for Congress from this Congressional District, was in Oakland Monday afternoon attending the funeral services of Mrs. W. R. Stull, which was held at her late home in Oakland by Rev. L. E. Goodwin, former rector in charge of St. Matthew's Parish. Mr. Warner accompanied the funeral party from Oakland Monday night to Wilkes-Barre, Pa., where the interment of Mrs. Stull's remains were made.

Subscribe for The Republican.

"Deafs" and "Wormys" Wont Go.

Merchants who prepare their stock of Christmas nuts by mixing all their old, dried-out and wormy goods with just enough new, fresh nuts to give a hint of the real things, are going to run the risk of losing their ill-earned profits on the conglomeration by paying a fine of $60, so says James Foust, dairy and food commissioner, in an ultimatum issued last week. He cautions merchants to cut out the sale of old, wormy and kernelless nuts and threatens if they persist in selling them to make it an expensive experience.—McConnellsburg, (Pa.) Republican.

Married.

SMITH — MCINDOE — Mr. Arlie L. Smith, of Berwind, McDowell county, W. Va., and Miss Gertrude McIndoe, of Loch Lyun Heights, this county, were quietly married at the parsonage in the latter place Monday evening, December 5, by Rev. C. W. Hudson, the pastor of the Baptist church. The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. G. McIndoe and the groom is a young business man of Berwind. The happy couple have the best wishes of their many friends.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

This is to give notice that the firm of Cuppett, Leighton & Co., doing a general mercantile business in the town of Loch Lynn Heights, Md., will be dissolved by mutual consent December 31, 1910, Mr. H. N. Cuppett retiring from the business. All persons knowing themselves indebted to the firm are hereby notified to call and maked settlement on or before the above date. All accounts not settled by that date will be placed out for collection.

CUPPETT, LEIGHTON & CO.

November 29, 1910.

The officers of the State Horticultural Department desire to inspect all nursery stock shipped into the State this fall and next spring. All persons receiving nursery stock from out-state nurseries are requested to notify the State Entomologist, College Park, Maryland. 3t

NOTICE!

TO THE

PUBLIC.

I have moved my

MEAT MARKET

INTO THE

Nally Building,

where I will conduct an up-to-date meat market.

Beef, Veal, Lamb, Mutton and Pork.

I wish a share of your patronage and thanking you for past favors, I am

Yours respectfully,

H. McC. SMOUSE.

The Up-To-Date Meat Market.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Kitzmillerville, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

from 1 to 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of electing a board of Directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may be brought before them.

E. J. HAMILL, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

Pursuant to the required legal notice a meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Friendsville, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

at 10 o'clock A. M. for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business that may lawfully be done.

NORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular meeting of the stockholders of the Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may come before them.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

from 1 to 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may be brought before them.

R. E. SLIGER, Cashier.

The Republican for Job Printing.

ESTABLISHED 1884.

Will you allow us to talk "ROOFING" to you. We have all kinds and at any price.

TARRED ROOFINGS—
1, 2 and 3 ply.

RUBBER ROOFINGS—
2 and 3 ply, double and single rolls.

AMETITE—
The superior of all Gravel Roofings.

CAREY'S ROOFING, (Best of All)—
Contains a heavy flexible body, a strong Calcutta burlap, woolen felt and other durable materials, all united into an indivisible weather and water proof sheet that lasts the life of the building.

SHEETING PAPER, NAILS AND CAPS.

Yours to please,

A. D. NAYLOR & CO.

PRICES RIGHT. BOTH PHONES

H. CREUTZBURG.

SEE MY FALL LINE OF

Dress Goods, Outing Flannels, Etc.

Ladies', Children's, Men's and Boys' Shoes.

Rain Coats for Ladies and Children. Rubber Boots & Shoes.

Full Line of MEN'S AND BOYS CLOTHING.

See my Special Pure Wool $10.00 Black Thibet Suits for Men

Boys Suits $2.50 and up.

Hand-Made Wisconsin Shoes for Men and Boys.

Full Line Groceries,

Meat Market in Connection,

ALL AT THE RIGHT PRICE.

H. CREUTZBURG, Opp. P. O., Oakland, Md.

Pay Market Price for Produce.

AUCTION

OF

Furniture

AND OTHER GOODS,

Friday, Dec. 9th,

at 10.30 A. M.

Rockers, Dining Chairs, Bedroom Suites, Tables, Stands, Mattresses, Springs, Cook Stove and Utensils, Roll Top Desk, Office Tables, Dressers, Sideboard, China Closet, Bed Room China, Clock and other articles too numerous to mention, including Clothing and Shoes.

We will pay for full dressed Turkeys 20 cts per pound, one-half cash; for full dressed Ducks, 8 cts.; for full dressed Chickens, 15 cts.: for Butter, 30 cts.; for Eggs, 35cts.

For Oak Mine Ties, f. o. b. cars, 9 cts.; for Props, 10 feet long, f. o. b. cars, 11 cts.; delivered in our yard, 10 cts.

For red oak, pin oak, jack oak and yellow oak Ties, delivered in our yard, 40 cts. each, one-half cash.

For B. & O. oak ties No. 1, 65 cts.; No. 2, 50 cts.; No. 3, 35 cts. No. 1 Chestnut, 45 cts. No. 2, 30 cts.

BOLDEN, BROWN & WEIMER.

The Republican.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Publisher

OAKLAND, - - MARYLAND

The sky man is the man of the century.

Aviation is, after all, less dangerous than football.

The freak hat is doomed, we are told. Ah, but which freak hat?

Don't keep your mouth open when looking at airships. It is a bad habit.

Ballooning is somewhat like tobogganing, but the walk back is more fatiguing.

It is just as fatal to be killed in a football game as in an aeroplane catastrophe.

Perhaps the hobble skirt is the cause for the new fashion of large pedal extremities.

The man-bird should not attempt at this stage of the game too many shines in the air.

When a man lives in a boarding house he lets somebody else worry about the price of coal.

Aerial wonders top one another until the general public is beginning to be surprised by nothing.

According to reports, the government will soon have to set aside reservations to prevent the Yankees from becoming extinct.

The Chinese may adopt a compromise. When they stop pinching the feet of their girls they may put on them hobble skirts.

A German banker spent eight months in America and did not marry. He is rich, so there must be some other reason.

Dunning by postal card has been forbidden by the post office department. Hereafter the dunners must use two-cent stamps.

A Russian military balloon went up over 20,000 feet the other day. That is enough to get out of range of any ordinary Japanese fleet.

We have grown as a people this year 5,275,000,000 bushels of corn, oats, wheat, barley and potatoes, and no one should go hungry.

One woman of the "400" paid $11,000 in duties on her gowns recently. The "400" has ceased to practise smuggling except at odd times.

Everything seems to indicate that it will be several years yet before the science of aviating can be considered entirely out of its infancy.

One of Yale's professors is afraid America is soon to become a monarchy. He probably has nothing else at this time to be afraid of.

A trick horse that had been stolen shook hands with the rightful owner, to the undoing of the thief. We defy a trick automobile to do that.

The prune supply at a New York hospital was short and boarding house guests will be surprised to hear there is quite a fuss about it.

The police have discovered a man leaning against a corner building who had been dead three hours. "All things come to him who waits."

As to the consequences, there does not seem to be much to choose between a woman automobilist turning thief and her machine turning turtle.

People hooted at a woman in Columbus, Ga., because she wore a hobble skirt in the streets. Can it be possible that the age of southern chivalry is past?

Six billion cigarettes were consumed in the United States last year; yet there are in this country a good many young men whose fingers are not stained.

In Cranford, N. J., a thief stole a $100 gold watch from the pocket of a police sergeant while that official dozed in the police station. What that policeman needs is a chaperon.

The life of the city boy is indeed hard. No more Fourth of July, no more hallowe'en and an increase in the number of vacation schools is only matched by a condemnation of moving picture shows.

Aviation is becoming extremely profitable—if not for the country, certainly for the aviators. But the cash inducements to risk life and limb cause the science of airship building to get a move on.

Wireless lighting is now announced by a Danish inventor. Nature's lighting has always been wireless, and here mere man only imitates.

In St. Louis there is a robber who is known as "the candy kid." He probably got the name owing to his possession of sticky fingers.

A western scientist claims to have discovered a chemical which is death and destruction to germs. Is this century approaching the climax of a diseaseless world?

The World's Wonders

STRANGE THINGS FOUND IN VARIOUS PORTIONS OF THE EARTH

Finding Diamond in Elephant

Examining the interior of an elephant with the aid of the X-ray in order to locate a valuable jewel was the novel operation recently performed. The animal, taking sugar from the hand of an admirer, accidentally took also a diamond ring worth $450 and swallowed it. The great beast's hide was marked off into sections and the X-ray photographic plates used were numbered to correspond. The ring was located and recovered.

POINTS ON TEMPERATURE.

Miles City, Mont., holds the record for variation in temperature. The highest temperature recorded there is 111 degrees, which is within 8 degrees of the highest recorded in the United States. Miles City's lowest mark has been 67 degrees below zero, which is truly arctic. The range between these two extremes is 178 degrees, which is a record. Phoenix, Ariz., holds the record for the hottest weather, 119 degrees. Yuma saw the mercury touch 118 degrees. The southern tip of Florida is the only spot in the United States which has never been known to freeze. The most equable climate in that country is found in Tatoosh Island, in the Strait of Juan de Fuca, between Washington and Vancouver island, where the temperature never has been above 80 degrees, and rarely falls below 50 degrees.—London Globe.

PORTABLE FOLDING BOAT

Some genius in Europe has devised a novel boat that already is gaining great favor. It is so constructed that it can be folded to resemble a large valise, the package containing paddle, floats and other necessaries, and the whole contrivance is so light that it can be carried easily by a man. The box in which the loose parts are packed forms the body of the boat, which is kept afloat by means of cigar-shaped "balloons" into which air is pumped.

"LIVE" SKULL IS FOUND

An extraordinary incident occurred recently in a churchyard in the neighborhood of Winchester, Eng. The sexton, while digging, came upon a skull, which was in such perfect condition that he placed it in the church porch for the inspection of the rector of the parish. The skull was left in the church porch until the next day, and on returning to his work in the morning the sexton was astonished to find the lower jaw working up and down, as if the gruesome thing were alive. He looked closely, but could not find the cause of the movement. On lifting the skull, however, he discovered that a large toad had wedged itself in the jaw, which was therefore set in motion by the rythmic movements of the creature's body.

FEW SINNERS IN ICELAND

Iceland is altogether a law-abiding place. There is only one jail, and that rarely ever has more than two persons in it. This is to be largely accounted for by the fact that there is not a distillery nor a brewery in all Iceland. Some liquors are imported from Scotland, Norway and Denmark, but there will be an end to this in the year 1912, when the prohibitory law passed by parliament on July 30, 1909, will go into effect. An acute legal gentleman of Scotland who has examined it says that "it is hard and fast at every point"—a well made law. The Good Templars have taken a very active part in securing this law, and they are preparing the way for its enforcement.—Christian Herald.

FIFTEEN TOWNS TO FORM A METROPOLIS

If the plans of certain ambitious spirits in the Rhenish-Westphalian industrial districts are carried out, Berlin will shortly lose its position as the largest city in Germany. They have mapped out a scheme for amalgamating fifteen towns, which will create a metropolis with an imposing population of more than 2,500,000 persons. Berlin numbers only 2,150,000 or thereabouts. The towns which plan this raid on Berlin's metropolitan preeminence are Essen, Dusseldorf, Hague, Elberfeld, Barmen, Witten, Dortmund, Bochum, Gelsenkirchen, Wattenscheid, Herne, Hattingen, Mulheim, Duisberg and Oberhausen.

Much water will flow beneath the bridges of Berlin's placid Spree before the Rhenish-Westphalian scheme fructifies; but they are determined men, those giants who live in the proximity of the Krupp works, and the imperial capital may have to look for its laurels after all.

THORNLESS ROSES

This is the day in which old adages are being relegated to the scrap heap, and the one about every rose having its thorn will now have to give way before the advance of science. It seems that a woman, Mrs. W. J. Beggs of Seattle, has succeeded in producing this prickless variety. For years she was neighbor of Luther Burbank, the California wizard; each tried to produce the thornless rose, but without success. Then Mrs. Beggs concluded that the trouble lay in the climate, and she moved to Seattle, where she succeeded in producing a flower of great beauty and of a fragrance which is second to that of none of the roses which grow. The stem is smooth like that of a lily.—Pathfinder.

IS THE NUMBER 13 UNLUCKY?

What is known as the "hoodoo" of number 13 would seem to have been dispelled in the recent marriage at St. Louis of Miss Ethel Watson and Thomas Finnegan. According to the presumably veracious record of the event the couple met August 13, 1908, were engaged March 13, 1910, bought their home August 13. Lest these were not enough thirteens, Tuesday, September 13, is also the bride's birthday, and thirteen guests were present at the wedding breakfast.

DREAM REUNITES SISTERS

After a separation of almost half a century two sisters have been reunited in their old age by means of a dream. Dreaming that her sister, Mrs. Louisa Corletto, whom she had not seen for some fifty years, was living in Gloucester, N. J., Mrs. Laura J. Collver of Newark, N. J., sent a letter to the postmaster at Gloucester asking for information. The return mail brought the tidings that Mrs. Corletto lived there, and soon the sisters met. There was an affecting scene when Mrs. Colver arrived at Gloucester. The sisters had been separated since the death of their father in Baltimore, and each believed that the other was dead. Mrs. Collver said that she had the dream a month previous to the happy reunion. It impressed her so much that she wrote to the postmaster at Gloucester. After handing her letter over to Mrs. Corletto, the postmaster sent a note to Mrs. Collver. By the next post Mrs. Corletto sent a letter asking her sister to come at once. Both sisters are more than sixty-five years old. They declared when they met that it was the happiest day of their lives.

PASSING OF ELTHAM PALACE

The people of England who have an appreciative reverence for the historical buildings of their country are regretting the rapid decay of the royal palace of Eltham, which for three centuries was the home of English kings and has been the scene of a long procession of splendor and pageantry. The great banqueting hall, which was built by Edward IV., is the sole remaining portion of the vast pile of buildings that once formed the palace. Its beautiful roof of chestnut wood is still in fair condition, but unless extensive repairs are made and kept up, the old hall will not stand much longer. The neglect of Eltham began under Elizabeth, and later the parliament forces seized and dismantled the palace.

TRAVELS OF A LEG

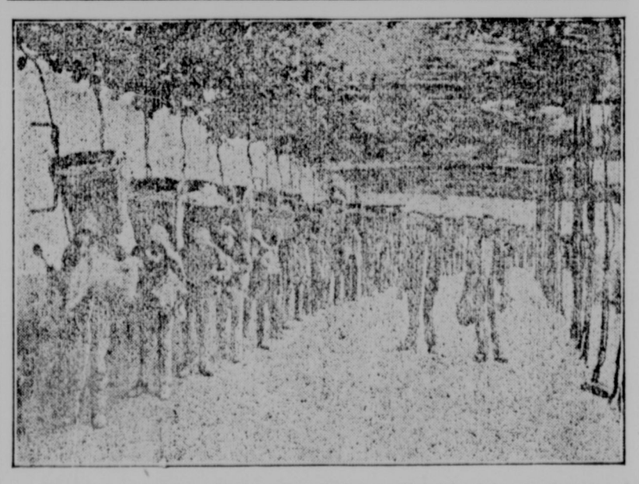
"I know a wooden leg that I'd give a hundred dollars for," said the hospital doctor. "I don't want to wear it because I have two good flesh and blood legs of my own, but I'd like that leg as a curiosity. It belongs to a man who is laid up in the fever ward.

"He has traveled all over the world. From the knee to the toe the leg is covered with the names of places and dates. Singapore, September, 1900; Cape Town, Constantinople, as far north as Archangel, and so on around the globe."

REMOVING THE STOMACH

The operation of removing the entire stomach was first successfully performed by Schlater of Zurich, in 1897. Mr. Vassallo, a surgeon of Argentina, now reports having performed other operations, and considers their gravity more apparent than real. Four months after the complete removal of this organ the patient was in excellent health, with no inconvenience except the necessity of eating often and but little at a time.

Sicily's Gay Wine Harvest



The wine harvest in Sicily, when that beautiful island is not devastated by earthquake and storm, is a time of much gayety. The celebration of the gathering of the grapes sometimes takes the form of processions of men bearing fruit-laden baskets and headed by some of their number playing drums, accordions and triangles.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

LIQUORS WILL EXCITE RIOT

Unique Advertisement of Tombstone, Arizona, Saloon Keeper—Is Extremely Frank.

The Medical Journal prints the following and credits it to an unidentified "lay exchange:"

"Tombstone, Ariz., claims to have the frankest saloon keeper in the United States. He keeps the Temple Bar saloon and advertises his business in a remarkable manner. He has had cards printed bearing the following words:

"Friends and Neighbors: I am grateful for past favors and having supplied my store with a fine line of choice liquors, allow me to inform you that I shall continue to make drunkards, paupers and beggars for the sober, industrious, respectable part of the community to support. My liquors will excite riot, robbery and bloodshed.

"They will diminish your comforts, increase your expenses and shorten life. I shall confidently recommend them as sure to multiply fatal accidents and incurable diseases.

"They will deprive some of life, others of reason, many of character and all of peace. They will make fathers fiends, wives widows, children orphans and all poor. I will train your sons in infidelity, dissipation, ignorance, lewdness and every other vice. I will corrupt the ministers of religion, obstruct the gospel, defile the church and cause as much temporal and eternal death as I can. I will thus 'accommodate the public'—it may be at the loss of my never-dying soul. But I have a family to support, the business pays and the public encourages it.

"I have paid my license and the traffic is lawful, and if I don't sell it somebody will. I know the Bible says: 'Thou shalt not kill; no drunkard shall enter the kingdom of heaven,' and I do not expect the drunkard maker to fare any better, but I want an easy living and I have resolved to gather the wages of iniquity and fatten on the ruin of my species.

"I shall, therefore, carry on my business with energy and do my best to diminish the wealth of the nation and endanger the safety of the state. As my business flourishes in proportion to your sensibility and ignorance, I will do my best to prevent moral purity and intellectual growth.

"Should you doubt my ability, I refer you to the pawnshops, the poorhouse, the police court, the hospital, the penitentiary and the gallows, where you will find many of my best customers have gone. A sight of them will convince you that I do what I say.

"Allow me to inform you that you are fools, and that I am an honest saloonkeeper."

ABSTINENCE AIDS LONG LIFE

In Practice and as Principle Is Benediction in Its Effect Upon Life and Character.

We can point with pride to the lifework of many men as proof that total abstinence, in practice and as a principle, is a benediction direct and indirect in its effects upon life and character. Thousands of men who began life under favorable auspices have fallen in the prime of their manhood, without having accomplished their allotted work. Total abstinence would have saved them. Moderate drinking led them to an untimely end, says an exchange.

A noted statistician of England, after long and careful investigations, comparisons and observations, has established the following facts:

Between the ages of fifteen and twenty where ten total abstainers die, eighteen moderate drinkers die. Between the ages of twenty and thirty, ten of the former and thirty-one of the latter. Between thirty and forty years, forty moderate drinkers to ten abstainers die.

That is: A total abstainer twenty years old has a fair chance of living forty-four years longer; a moderate drinker has a chance of living only fifteen and one-half years longer.

At thirty years a total abstainer has a chance of living thirty-six and one-half years longer; a moderate drinker at the same age only thirteen and one-half years longer.

At forty a total abstainer has a chance of living twenty-eight years more, and a moderate drinker only eleven and two-thirds.

We may talk and write as eloquently as we will about the "fifteen hundred millions" annually spent in our own nation for intoxicating liquors, but half the truth is not told unless we add the actual money value of the wasted mental and physical resources of thousands of otherwise noble and useful citizens, destroyed by moderate drinking.

A Great Peril.

The peril is great to the man of force who has made money. It is much greater for the son of that man who inherits high power without self control and the capacity to endure hardness.—Rev. William Horace Day Congregationalist, Los Angeles, Cal.

OWES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was troubled with falling and inflammation, and the doctors said I could not get well unless I had an operation. I knew I could not stand the strain of one, so I wrote to you sometime ago about my health and you told me what to do. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I am to-day a well woman."—Mrs. William Ahrens, 988 W. 21st St., Chicago, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any similar medicine in the country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every such suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

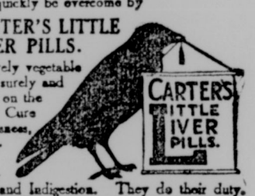
If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

The Wretchedness of Constipation

Can quickly be overcome by

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

Purely vegetable—act surely and gently on the liver. Cure Biliousness, Headache, Dizziness, and Indigestion.



They do their duty.

Small Pill, Small Dose, Small Price.

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

Kidding Worse Than Cutting.

Talk about making good with your friends, a New Orleans man told everybody he knew that he was going to Philadelphia for the dual purpose of seeing the world's baseball series and having a slight surgical operation performed. Reaching this city, he consulted a specialist, and was told that an operation was not necessary.

"But, doctor," the New Orleans party urgently interposed, "it must be done."

"Why must it?" wonderingly queried the surgeon.

"Because," was the startling rejoinder of the Southern man, "I told all the boys at home that I was going to have an operation performed, and if I don't make good they will kid the life out of me."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Mixing His Dates.

There is a story of a man who was so transported with joy as he stood up at the altar rail to be married, that his thoughts reverted to a day when he stood up at the prisoner's bar in a court of justice to plead "guilty" or "not guilty" to a criminal charge. So powerfully did that, the most painful event of his life, obtrude itself upon his mind, that when the clergyman put the question, "Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?" and so on, the poor distracted bridegroom answered with startling distinctness, "Not guilty, so help me God!"—From Tuckerman's "Personal Recollections."

"Don't Argufy"

A single dish of

Post Toasties

with sugar and cream tells the whole story—

"The Memory Lingers"

Postum Cereal Company, Ltd.
Battle Creek, Mich.

COUNTING NOSES in the UNITED STATES

OLD DR. U. S. CENSUS, who has just completed the thirteenth diagnosis of the condition of Uncle Sam and his family, began it in 1790 and has been repeating it every ten years since. Uncle Sam has footed the bills, to date amounting to about $47,000,000. Our venerable dad has calculated that the thirteenth investigation will cost about $13,000,000; $60,000,000 has been spent for this purpose since 1790.

The twelfth census cost about $13,000,000, and as Uncle Sam's landed possessions have increased since then and his family gained about 15,000,000 more members than belonged to it in 1900, it would be considered no more than fair if the present diagnosis were to call for the spending of about $19,000,000, which would be the sum if the rate of increase of expense at each census up to the twelfth were to be maintained for the thirteenth.

A census expert has estimated that of the thirteen millions, the headquarters office force will earn $4,000,000, the enumerators $4,600,000, the supervisors $910,000, and the special agents $700,000. The administrative cost will be $300,000, the stationery $200,000, rent $125,000, tabulating machines $250,000, cards for tabulation processes, $100,000, printing $800,000, Alaska $85,000, Porto Rico $160,000. Total, $12,950,000. If that is all the expense, it is cheap. The late Gen. Francis A. Walker, who was a census authority greater than any other, living or dead, once wrote that "the people of the United States can well afford to pay for the very best census they can get." He penned this remark in connection with a frank confession of his own shortsightedness in underestimating the cost of the tenth census.

It's the old story: When you are ill get the best doctor you can afford.

The comparative cheapness with which the thirteenth census has been taken was largely due to Director E. Dana Durand's economical methods, to the introduction of semi-automatic electrical card-punching, tabulating and sorting machines, and to the inheritance of wisdom from the experience gained by the permanent census bureau. During the term of the latter the methods of inquiry, tabulation and compilation have been greatly improved, both in accuracy and in economy. Millions will be saved.

Mr. Durand is responsible for many of the new methods to increase statistical accuracy at every step of the census taking and to decrease the per capita cost of the enumeration. The card-punching, tabulating, and sorting machinery is the invention of a census mechanical expert and the patent rights belong to Uncle Sam. The machines are novel in plan and design, are of greater speed and efficiency than those they superseded, and can be built and operated at a large saving of money as compared with previous expenditures for this purpose.

Other money-saving features are the elimination of the vitalstatistics inquiry from the work of the decennial census, as it belongs to the permanent branch of the United States census; the reduction in the number of schedules, the piece-price method of paying for machine work, the omission of the hand, household and neighborhood industries from the manufactures branch of the census, and the reduction of the size and number of copies of the final report.

Congress limited the thirteenth census to four general subjects—population, agriculture, manufactures, and mines and quarries. The director is authorized to determine the form and subdivision of inquiries. The inquiry as to population relates to the date April 15, 1910; that as to agriculture concerns the farm operations during 1909 and calls for an inventory of farm equipment April 15, 1910; that relative to manufactures and quarries is for 1909.

The enumeration carried only the population and agriculture schedules April 15, 1910. Special agents were sent out with the schedules for the manufactures, mines and quarries data. There were fully 65,000 enumerators, of whom about 45,000 carried both the population and agriculture schedules, as it is estimated that there are now fully 7,000,000 separate farms in America, with farmers numbering well up into a score of millions. In 1910 there were many more billions of dollars of fixed capital invested in agriculture than there were in manufactures, strange as it may seem. And the farmer is getting better off all the time; his mortgage indebtedness is decreasing fast; his taxation is small as compared with the urbanite's burden, and he has taken to automobile riding on a large scale.

Census taking every ten years is a tremendous task. It is the greatest single operation undertaken by Uncle Sam, with the exception of the Panama canal work and the assembling of an army in time of war. The American census is the largest, costliest and most accurate of any taken by the civilized nations. Its methods are the most modern and its equipment the most complete. The census bureau force comprises, first, Director E. Dana Durand of Michigan, who, although only thirty-eight years old, is older than most of the generals commanding the forces in the Civil war, and who is, too, a statistically scarred hero, a veteran in government service, and likely to prove the most practical and efficient director connected with any of the past censuses. Then there is the assistant director, William H. Willoughby, of Washington, D. C., former secretary of state of Porto Rico. Next in rank are the five chief statisticians: William C. Hunt, in charge of the population division; Le Grand Powers, heading the agricultural division; William M. Stuart, overseeing the manufacturing division; Dr. Cressy L. Wilbur, the vital statistics work, and Dr. Joseph Adna Hill, the division of revision and results. Charles S. Sloane is the geographer; Albertus H. Baldwin is the chief clerk; Voler V. is chief of the publication division; Hugh M. Brown is private secretary to the director; Robert M. Pindell, is the appointment Clerk; George Johnnes is the disbursing officer, and C. W. Spicer is the mechanical expert. In addition to these are the chiefs of the divisions under the chief statistician.

There are about 750 permanent clerks and 3,000 temporary clerks, etc. The supervisors numbered 330 and they employed and directed the 65,000 enumerators. About 1,000 chief special agents and assistant special agents. The supervisors also employed 1,000 clerks, 500 special agents and 4,000 interpreters to assist them in the direction of the enumerators.

The data relating to population is transferred to manila cards, by the punching of holes in them to correspond with the different items in the schedules. An electrical machine controlled by a clerk can punch holes in 3,000 cards a day. Three hundred of these were used and 90,000,000 cards were ordered.

After the punching the cards are hand-fed into an electric tabulating machine with a "pin-box" attachment which permits the required pins to pass through the variously placed holes in the cards, in this establishing an electric circuit resulting in the tabulation of the items on counters which register their results in printing on spooled paper somewhat like a stock "ticker." There are 100 of these machines. After certain comparisons to prove accuracy, the schedules are permanently preserved in a great iron safe in the census bureau. As the card does not contain the name of the persons for whom it stands, all personal identity is eliminated from the cards. All danger of misuse of such information disappears. Severe penalties are provided in case any employee discloses census information to outsiders. The next step is the making of the maps and tables to accompany the analyses, and then, finally, the issue of the printed bulletins and reports. Before July 1, 1912, the work must be over and the thirteenth census gone to join its scientific ancestors.

Masterpiece of Glass Work

In the British museum, in London, on exhibition, is the Portland vase, the masterpiece of ancient glasswork. A chance discovery led to the rescue of this magnificent urn from the grave, where it had lain for hundreds of years, hidden and unknown. The vase was found early in the seventeenth century by some laborers, who, digging on a hillock in the neighborhood of Rome, broke into a small vault.

On further examination it revealed a suite of three sepulchral chambers. In the largest room they found a finely sculptured sarcophagus, which contained the beautiful vase. It was full of ashes, but it bore no inscription as to the remains it held, nor has the mystery ever been solved which shrouds its origin.

The vase was deposited in the Barberini palace, where it remained until 1770, when the representative of the Barberini family, a Roman princess, was forced to part with it to pay her gambling debts. The vase changed hands twice, then it was disposed of to the duchess of Portland, but with such secrecy that her own family was not aware of the transaction until after her death.

At the sale of the duchess of Portland's collection it was purchased by her son, the third duke of Portland, for the sum of $5,145, and it was deposited in the museum by his successor. The vase was wantonly smashed in pieces by a drunken visitor, but the fragments were, however, joined together, but the bottom, with its mysterious figure in Phrygian cap, was not replaced.

The material of this vase was long almost as great a puzzle as the story it illustrates. Breval refers to it as "the famous vase of chaledony;" Misson calls it an agate; Bartoll a sardonyx; while Caylus and others correctly decided that it was made of glass. The blue body was first formed, and while still red hot, coated over as far as the bas reliefs were intended to reach with semiopaque white glass, the delicate figure being afterwards cut down to the blue ground in the same manner as with real cameos.

"No Openings Nowheres"

She is fortunate in having girl chums who draw roses from their friends now and then. The other afternoon one of her rosy friends pinned a bright red one on her and she sallied forth into the street to make other women envious. She had not gone far when she felt a tug at the shoulder and turned to see a strange woman.

"Where'd you git that rose?" asked the stranger covetously.

"A friend of mine gave it to me," was the answer, produced with some chill.

"A friend of yours? In a store?"

"No, not in a store."

"Well, hain't there no openings nowheres?"

"Not that I know of."

"Humph! Just my luck. I'm just crazy for a rose, and when I saw you I just knowed there was a fall opening somewhere."

Romance of Old Portugal

The recent deposition of King Manuel of Portugal and the events in the young king's life that led up to it will no doubt bring back to the minds of some of the older residents of the city the story of Elise Hensler, the Springfield girl who married a king and became the Countess Edla.

The king she married was Don Ferdinand II. of Portugal, a great grandfather of King Manuel. Elise lived in Springfield about 60 years ago, probably for about four years.

The Henslers were humble people and lived simply. The daughters, Elise and Louise, were well received here and were given a good musical education, especially Elise, who had quite a remarkable voice. Signor Guidi, an Italian, at the time a well known teacher of the voice, took an interest in Elise and it was when Signor Guidi went to Boston that the Henslers went there, largely through his influence. He believed that Elise had a future as a singer and wished her to be where he could continue teaching her.

Elise Hensler after her removal with her family to Boston continued her studies. She was perseverant in her work and progressed so well that she not only appeared in concerts in the large cities in this country, but also in Europe, where she sang before royalty. It was while singing in Lisbon several years after the death of Queen Maria that King Ferdinand heard her voice and felt the attraction that led him to marry her.

Ferdinand was the titular king of Portugal, having been the second husband of Queen Maria II. of Portugal. Ferdinand married Maria in 1836, when he was 20. The queen died in 1853, and he was regent during the minority of his son, Pedro V., who was the father of the assassinated King Carlos, the grandfather of the deposed King Manuel. The regency ended in 1855, and on June 10, 1869, he married Miss Hensler.

When the European powers decided the time had come to restore Spain to a monarchy, following the overthrow of the short republic, which existed from 1873 to 1875, considerable pressure was brought to bear upon Ferdinand to induce him to accept the vacant throne. But his wife could never be queen of Spain, and it is possible that this fact alone induced him to refuse.

This absolute refusal on his part to accept the throne of Spain, with all the pomp and splendor of royalty in exchange for the romantic life that he was living with his morganatic wife, had far-reaching consequences. The complications and jealousies resultant on the attempt to find a king acceptable to all the powers helped to bring on the Franco-Prussian war, and Alsace and Lorraine went back to Germany, whence they had been wrested by Napoleon Bonaparte.

In consequence of these peculiar historical facts, which geographically practically changed all western Europe, Elise Hensler, Countess Edla, became famous throughout the world as "the woman who changed the map of Europe." During the life of the king they lived in the beautiful castle of Cintra. It is certain that their life was above reproach. In 1885 the king died, and after that the countess lived in retirement in a cottage near the castle.

"Lame Leg Well"

"I wish to say that I have used Sloan's Liniment on a lame leg that has given me much trouble for six months. It was so bad that I couldn't walk sometimes for a week. I tried doctors' medicine and had a rubber bandage for my leg, and bought everything that I heard of, but they all did me no good, until at last I was persuaded to try Sloan's Liniment. The first application helped it, and in two weeks my leg was well."—A. L. HUNTER, of Hunter, Ala.

Good for Athletes.

Mr. K. GILMAN, instructor of athletics, 417 Warren St., Roxbury, Mass., says:—"I have used with great success in cases of extreme fatigue after physical exertion, when an ordinary rub-down would not make any impression."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

Sloan's Liniment has no equal as a remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia or any pain or stiffness in the muscles or joints.

Prices, 25c., 50c. & $1.00

Sloan's book on horses, cattle, sheep and poultry sent free. Address

Dr. Earl S. Sloan,
Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

LAND OF MANATEE

West Coast of Florida—America's Market Garden.

Oranges, Grapefruit and Vegetables net $500 to $1500 per acre—two to three crops per year—no droughts—no freeze, no extreme heat.

Quick transportation, low freight rates to Eastern and Northern markets via S. A. L. Ry.

Illustrative booklet free now. Address

J. W. WHITE,
GENERAL INDUSTRIAL AGENT,
SEABOARD AIR LINE RY.
DEPT. 403 NORFOLK, VA.

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

At the One Horse.

Jere L. Sullivan, the head of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' International alliance, said in Cincinnati, apropos of Labor day:

"Our American hotels are better than they used to be, and for this betterment my organization deserves no little credit.

"We have today no such hotels as the One Horse of Tin Can, where, if you asked for a bath, they used to give you a shovel and tell you to go down to the hollow and dam the creek.

"An English earl once visited the One Horse hotel. The landlord without ceremony led him outside, pointed to a window on the fifth floor, and said:

"'Thar's yer room.'"

Schurz Was Sure of Him.

Carl Schurz was dining one night with a man who had written a book of poems, so called, and who was pleased with himself.

The poet was discoursing on the time-worn topic of politics of the men who take office.

"I consider politics and politicians beneath my notice," he said. "I do not care for office. I wouldn't be a senator or cabinet officer, and I doubt if I could be tempted by the offer of the presidency. For the matter of that, I would rather be known as a third-rate poet than a first-rate statesman."

"Well, aren't you?" Schurz shouted at him.

HEALTH AND INCOME
Both Kept Up on Scientific Food.

Good sturdy health helps one a lot to make money.

With the loss of health one's income is liable to shrink, if not entirely dwindle away.

When a young lady has to make her own living, good health is her best asset.

"I am alone in the world," writes a Chicago girl, "dependent on my own efforts for my living. I am a clerk, and about two years ago through close application to work and a boarding-house diet, I became a nervous invalid, and got so bad off it was almost impossible for me to stay in the office a half day at a time.

"A friend suggested to me the idea of trying Grape-Nuts food which I did, making it a large part of at least two meals a day.

"Today, I am free from brain-tire, dyspepsia, and all the ills of an overworked and improperly nourished brain and body. To Grape-Nuts I owe the recovery of my health, and the ability to retain my position and income.

Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

DID WE GIVE THANKS? TO WHOM DID WE DO SO?

The Celebrated Brooklyn Pastor Back From Britain.

Oklahoma City, Nov. 27.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle addressed large audiences here twice today in our principal Auditorium. We report one of his addresses from the following text: "O, give thanks unto the Lord, for he is good; for his mercy endureth forever"—Psalm cvii, 1.

Thanksgiving Day appeals to all of us, and we are glad that the Pilgrim Fathers long years ago started the custom. They placed it at the end of the harvest and in recognition of the same. The keeping of such a day appeals to all civilized mankind in a considerable degree, because our Great Creator so organized us that the quality of reverence, of worship, lies prominently on the top of our heads. The man or woman, rich or poor, educated or ignorant, bond or free, who has not this organ of veneration developed in considerable measure cannot be appreciative and deferential toward his Creator, and hence would not enjoy Thanksgiving day. We are glad that these are comparatively few. We are glad to suppose that the majority of this great nation of civilization looked up to God with grateful hearts and rendered him thanks for blessings manifested.

Hindrances to True Reverence.

Nevertheless, the numbers increase yearly of those who are losing their reverence for the God of the Bible and vaguely turning towards a God of Nature, of whom they profess to know comparatively little. These irreverent and unthankful fellow-creatures are not generally the most ignorant of our race, nor the least favored in temporal mercies and blessings. Among them are many learned, wealthy, influential. Their condition is well represented by that of a young woman who called at my study recently. In substance she said, "I have lost my God. I am unhappy. I am hoping that you will be able to assist me in finding him again." Thank God, we were able to assist her, and now she is able to give thanks to God in all sincerity.

I am not speaking to the irreverent in this audience, nor to those of this class in my larger audience of millions all over the world, to whom I speak through the public press. I am speaking to others who, while not yet fully in the faith, are still disposed to give thanks. I speak to these because I realize that each day is bringing to the world greater intelligence, more independent thoughtfulness, in a wider use of reason. I speak because my experience teaches that unless these be fully armed with the Truth and awakened to independent thought, they are almost certain to fall into unbelief—Evolution, Higher Criticism, and a mere form of godliness, which denies the real power thereof.

The Truth Shall Make You Free.

The Great Teacher prayed for his followers, "Sanctify them through thy Truth; thy Word is Truth (John xvii, 17). To be forearmed with the Truth is to be safeguarded against the error. To be ignorant of the Truth is to fall a prey to the error—especially in this "evil day," when "a thousand shall fall at thy side and ten thousand at thy right hand" (Psalm xci, 7). The difficulty with us has been that many have supposed that the conversion of the world and its sanctification can be better accomplished by misrepresentation of Divine Character and Justice. Unconsciously we have learned to twist and interpret our Bibles to fit the erroneous creeds which were handed to us by our well-meaning forefathers. The Day of Judgment upon these false creeds is upon us. Unless we learn that they do not properly interpret the Bible, we will reject the Bible when we reject the creeds—and that must be very soon for all thinking people. "To the Law and to the testimony; if they speak not according to this Word, it is because there is no light in them" (Isaiah viii, 20).

Causes For Ingratitude.

"Come, let us reason together, saith the Lord!" If our creeds tell us truly that we were all born damned, either to Purgatory or to eternal torment, should we give thanks on this account? If our creeds tell truly that an elect handful of saints will escape the torture, how do we know whether or not we belong to that elect handful? Have we sufficient information on this subject to give thanks therefor? If our creeds tell truly that nearly all the members of our families, nearly all of our neighbors and friends, being unsaintly, not "sanctified in Christ Jesus," not followers in the footsteps of Jesus, not of those "who walk not after the flesh, but after the spirit"—these all, except a mere handful, are doomed to more horrible torture than the worst earthly sufferings we could possibly imagine for them, and are doomed to these for centuries in Purgatory, according to the Catholic; or for all eternity, according to our Protestant theories, can we honestly thank God for any of these conditions, if we believe them to be true? Can we "worship in spirit and in truth" a Creator who would make such an atrocious plan? And could we respect his honesty if he labelled it "good tidings of great joy to all people"? Assuredly we could not!

If the foregoing things which have come down to us from the "Dark Ages" be true, of what consequence, in comparison, would be the material harvests of earth, which would merely encourage and stimulate the bringing into being of larger numbers of our race to experience those tortures? If these things be true, rather should we give thanks for famine and pestilence, which would obliterate our race entirely and thus save future thousands of millions from the horrors of eternal torture. These thoughts will come to all intelligent beings sooner or later. We bring them forward now, in order that we may offset them with the Truth—that we may show the fallacy of these "doctrines of devils," as St. Paul designates them (I Timothy iv, 1). We bring them to your attention so that we may not only demolish them, but give you instead the true, satisfactory portion, the Truth, the Bread that came down from heaven to give life eternal, not merely to the saintly few of the Church, but to mankind in general. Those who get the proper view of our Creator and of his glorious Plan for human salvation will be forever protected from such fears and doubts respecting Divine goodness. Getting the proper view of the Heavenly Father's character, through the discernment of his Plan of the Ages for spiritual Israel, natural Israel and the world in general, they will hereafter be able to celebrate every Thanksgiving Day much more abundantly, much more intelligently, much more happily than any in the past. More than this, to these every day will be a happy day if, rightly exercised by the goodness of God, they shall give him their hearts. Then truly they may say,

"O happy day that fixed my choice
On thee, my Savior and my God!
Well may this glowing heart rejoice,
And tell its raptures all abroad."

God's Mercy Endureth Forever.

In the Psalm from which our text is taken the Prophet David repeats this sentiment of Thanksgiving to God because of the ever-continuance of his mercy, twenty-six times. Our English translation does not give us the exact thought, however. Properly translated it would read, "O give thanks, for his mercy endureth ever." The word ever-more nearly represents the thought of the Hebrew, which signifies not for ever, but to a completion. As long as there is any use for mercy, God's mercy will continue. When the great Divine Program shall have been accomplished, when "every creature in heaven, and in earth, and under the earth, shall be heard saying, Praise and glory and honor, dominion and might be unto him that sitteth upon the Throne and unto the Lamb forever" (Revelation v, 13), then there will no longer be need for mercy; mercy will have accomplished its work.

Mercy signifies the setting aside of justice in some manner, for some reason. Justice is the foundation of God's throne—the foundation of the Divine Government. Justice had control of Father Adam and offered him eternal life in an Eden home, as a reward for obedience; or death, extinction, as the penalty for disobedience. As Divine Wisdom had foreknown, man disobeyed and the penalty of Justice, "Dying thou shalt die," was executed. Through heredity all of Adam's race became involved—all inherited sinful tendencies and dying constitutions.

For more than two thousand years death reigned under the edict of Justice, and our race as a whole were subject to it. A little later the Law Covenant was made with Israel—one nation out of many. It seemed to offer mercy, but did not. They were placed under the Law and were merely offered eternal life if they could keep the Law—which they could not keep, because of inherited blemishes, moral and physical.

It was over four thousand years from the time Justice struck the fatal blow, until Divine mercy stepped forward with the healing balm. God's mercy is his love in active operation for the relief of the condemned. Although God is Love, and hence must always have been loving and kind and merciful of disposition, yet this quality of his character was held in restraint as respects condemned men for more than forty centuries. So the Apostle explains, saying, "Herein was manifested the love of God, in that he sent his only-begotten Son into the world" "that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (I John iv, 9; John iii, 16).

But meantime the darkness of sin and the misrepresentations of Divine character by the Adversary had so operated upon the fallen race that—eyes had they, but they saw not; ears had they, but they understood not; hearts had they, but they comprehended not, the message of Divine mercy. They fulfilled the Scriptures in slaying the One sent for their relief. And they have misunderstood, slandered, maligned, "killed" his followers—the few blessed with the hearing ears and the understanding hearts and the eyes of faith. These few constitute what the Scriptures designate the true Church of God, including the Apostles and all the faithful throughout this Age—the household of faith, "the Church of the First-Borns, whose names are written in heaven" (Hebrews xii, 23). These constitute the Little Flock, to whom it is the Father's good pleasure to give the Kingdom, which shortly (Messiah's Kingdom) is to bless and uplift the world, operating through natural Israel.

Mercy Rejoiceth Over Justice.

Man's necessity became God's opportunity for the display of his glorious character—perfect in Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power. While love could not clear the guilty, it could provide a Redeemer to suffer, "the Just for the unjust." But Divine Justice could not allow this, unless with the consent of the sufferer. Hence we read that God set before his only-begotten Son a glorious Plan and invited his co-operation therein. The Son assented, left the heavenly glory, was made flesh and "offered himself" an acceptable sacrifice, "the Just for the unjust"—for the redemption of Adam and his race. The Father honored him by raising him from the dead to a still higher glory and honor than he had before, to immortality—the divine nature. Now, from his glorious station he is empowered to be the Mediator between God and men—between Divine Justice and fallen humanity. He is empowered to give the earthly rights which he sacrificially laid down for Adam and his race—to so many of them as will accept the perfection of human nature and its rights and privileges upon terms in harmony with the Divine Law—the remainder he will destroy, annihilate "as brute beasts" (II Peter ii, 12; Acts iii, 23).

As though all this were not sufficiently wonderful; as though with all this the Heavenly Father's Wisdom Justice, Love and Power would not be sufficiently illustrated, exemplified, God added another feature. Before beginning to deal with the world as a whole, to give back to the willing and obedient of the race human perfection and an earthly Eden Paradise and eternal life; before commencing this work of restitution (Acts iii, 19), the Father made known to the Son another feature of his Plan. He would give to the Son a Bride, a class selected from amongst the fallen race—called, chosen, faithful overcomers. These as the Joint-Heirs of the Second Adam, will share with him in the uplifting of those of Adam's race who will become the children of Christ through obedience and adoption.

The trials and testings of all those who will become the Bride of Christ must be similar to those of the Redeemer. They must suffer with him if they would reign with him. As he sacrificed his earthly life and rights and interests, so must they. He exhorted them, "Present your bodies living sacrifices, holy and acceptable to God, a reasonable service" (Romans xii, 1). True, there is a difference between these followers of Jesus and the Captain of their salvation. He was brought into the world holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners; hence his sacrifice is a perfect one. Those accepted as his members, as his Bride, belong to the race of sinners. They were "children of wrath even as others" (Ephesians ii, 3). Their acceptance as sacrifices, therefore, was not possible except as the great Captain of their Salvation imputed to those sacrifices a sufficiency of the merit of his sacrifice to compensate for their defects and to make their sacrifices acceptable to the Father with his and as a part of his—they being counted in with him as "members of his Body."

My dear friends, those of us who have the eye of faith and the hearing of faith to appreciate this, the Message of God's Word, may surely be thankful to the last degree. What more could our Heavenly Father do for us than he has done—redeeming us, inviting us to a new nature, giving us the aids by the way, and making us sharers in the Kingdom glory of his Son? More than this, he has been blessing our friends, our children, our parents, our neighbors, the heathen—all of mankind, of one family.

Thanks Because God Is Good.

"O, give thanks unto the Lord, for he is good; for his mercy endureth forever!" During this Gospel Age his mercy has been manifest to all those who take up their cross and follow Jesus. By and by these will be glorified by the "First Resurrection." Then his mercy will return to natural Israel, under the New Covenant (Jeremiah xxxi, 31), of which Christ and the Church are "Able Ministers," Servants, Priests and Kings. Could all the world discern, through the trials and tears and sorrows and imperfections and dying of their present experience, the glorious outcome which God is providing the whole world, they would be filled with praise to him who loved us and bought us back from the penalty of death and who ultimately will complete his glorious work through Messiah's Kingdom.

Have we not, as followers of the Lord, as Christians, misrepresented the facts of the case and endeavored to have people give thanks to God for unkindness, injustice, lovelessness—to a God whose mercy never reached us and would never reach any but a small proportion of our race through the knowledge of Christ; to a God whose mercy, even to the one-tenth of those who had ever heard of him, he said, would endure only for the present life and even among these bring a blessing only to a mere handful of the elect!

Let us go back to the Word of God and free our minds of the prejudices of superstition and misinterpretation handed down from the Dark Ages. Let us see the glory of our God, as revealed in the Bible. Let Christians give thanks that, by the grace of God, their eyes and ears of understanding are opening to a better knowledge of him. Let them give thanks, not only for redemption from the death sentence, but also for their call to sainthip and its consequent suffering in this present time and its promise of reward of glory on the spirit plane by and by!

Let the world give thanks in proportion as it is able to discern God's goodness and mercy for Adam's race—that eventually through the channel of the glorified Church the Divine blessing will be extended to every member of Adam's race, giving opportunity to all to attain life everlasting with full human perfection and an everlasting Eden upon this now sin-cursed earth.

TAX SALES
OF VALUABLE
Real Estate
IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1896, title, "Garrett County," sub-title "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

SATURDAY,
the 17th Day of December, 1910,
AT THE HOUR OF 10 O'CLOCK, A. M.,

at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, towit:

No. 1—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SEVEN, THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-EIGHT AND THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-NINE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, the same being a part of the Caledonia Land of the American Coal Company of Allegany county which are fully described in a deed for the same from Joseph E. Gray, and others, trustees, to Semi-Bituminous George's Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county, which deed bears date the 28th day of December, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 78, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 11 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Semi-Bituminous George's Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany counny.

No. 2—All that piece or parcel of land containing FIVE AND ONE-EIGHTH ACRES, being a part of Military Lot No. 360, which is fully described in a deed for the same from Isaac Davis and wife to John W. Bovce, bearing date the 24th day of May, 19 6, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 350, one of the Land Records of Garrett county. Said land is located in District No. 13 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as charged on the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of John W. Boyce's estate.

No. 4—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS FOUR HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SEVEN AND FOUR HUNDRED AND THIRTY-ONE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, and fully described in a deed for the same from McCulloh Coal Company to Upper Potomac Mining Co. of Garrett county, bearing date the 25th day of November, 1902, and being of record in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 500, one of the Land Records of Garrett county. Said property is located in Election District No. 13 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1908 and also for the taxes due and in arrear upon the capital stock of said Upper Potomac Mining Company of Garrett county for said year 1908 as charged upon the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of said Upper Potomac Mining Company of Garrett county.

No. 6—ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND CONTAINING ONE ACRE, adjacent to the town of Gorman, and fully described in a deed for the same from Mary Lewis and Joseph Lewis to Mary L. Ward and Jennie Wagner, bearing date the 17th day of May, 1894, and duly redorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 24, folio 339, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in names of the said Mary L. Ward and Jennie Wagner.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest there on at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

W. E. HOLLINGER,
Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

All who owe 1909 tax will please make payment on or before December 20th, 1910, or property will be advertised for sale without further notice.

ORDER NISI.

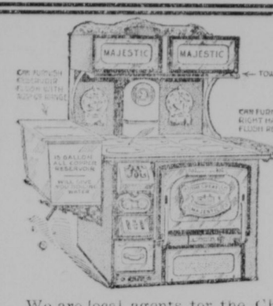
Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, vs William A. Harvey and Benjamin E. Harvey.
No. 1705 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Ordered, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting as a court of equity, this 26th day of November, 1910, that the sales made and reported in the above cause by Edward H Sincell, Trustee, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 30th day of December, 1910; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 23rd day of December, 1910.

The report states the amount of sales to be $865.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.



MAJESTIC RANGES
For Coal or Wood

HONEST GOODS.
HONEST PRICES.

We are local agents for the CELERRATED MAJESTIC RANGES—the Ranges with a national reputation. Nothing better is made in the stove line. Goods which are cheap, but not good, are dear at any price.

Why you should have a Great and Grand Majestic Range in your Kitchen—

It cuts the fuel bill in half because it is riveted air-tight, HOLDS the heat where it belongs, and has the proper arrangement of flues.
It is used by your neighbor, who would have no other.
It browns bread all over just alike without turning.
Has large warming closets with the right kind of doors. The only warming closets that you can clean.
It is made in any size and style desired.
It is made of better and heavier material than any other.
It is the only range in the world made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron.
It costs a little more, but lasts much longer.
It is the only range made that has a ventilated ash pit.

S. LAWTON & SONS, Oakland, Md.

THE GREATEST SALE OF
Gas Stoves, Heaters
AND TINWARE
In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting
A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett Co., Md., deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 17th day of April, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

CLEAVER H POOL,

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

GERTRUDE E. POOL,
Administratrix,
Kitzmiller, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County Marylany, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

FREAKLIN SUTER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the day 11th of May, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

LUCINDA SUTER,
Administratrix,
Hoyes Md.

Notice to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Garrett County, Md., has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

AGNES R. A. M. WHITTINGTON,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 11th day of May, 1910, they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 10th day of November, 1910.

W. H. FREDLOCK,
Administrator,
Piedmont W. Va.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters testamentary on the estate of

SARAH MOSSER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 24th day of May, 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 22nd day of November, 1910.

SAMUEL A. MILLER,
Administrator,
Accident, Md.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.

Office in Ravenscroft Building, Second St. Particular attention given to Conveyancing Investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.

Prompt attention given all calls day or night.

Garrett County Telephone. 24-1yr.

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

Auditor's Notice.

Henry N. Mitchell et al., vs. Fred. Mitchell et al.
No. 155 Equity.
In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Pursuant to an order of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in equity, passed in the above entitled cause, referring the papers and proceedings in the above cause to the undersigned Auditor for the purpose of stating an account distributing the funds in the trustee's hands and for other purposes stated in said order, notice is hereby given, that Tuesday, the 27th day of December, 1910, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., at my office in Oakland, Maryland, I will proceed to state said account and perform my duty in the premises.

EDWARD H. SINCELL, Auditor.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., NOV. 17, 1910.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, Dec. 5th, 1910,

for the purpose of transacting all routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

The Maryland Agricultural College
COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND.

Maryland's School of Technology
Fifty-fourth year begins Sept. 15.
Entrance examinations 13, 14.

Eight courses of Instruction leading to professional degree of B. S. Agricultural, Horticural, General, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Biological and Chemical.

The College has a close association with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. College students are permitted to visit the Experiment Farms at Arlington and Beltsville and thus secure an additional equipment for their professional career.

The demand of the age is for men for life's activities. Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all departments. Graduates qualified to enter at once upon life's work. Boarding department supplied with all modern improvements. Bath room, steam heat, electric lights. Location unsurpassed for health.

Tuition, books, heat, light, laundry, board, medical attention, annual deposit, chemical and athletic fees all included in the annual charge of $60.00 per quarter, payable in advance.

Sanitorium for isolation of contagious disease, resident physician and trained nurse in attendance.

Catalog giving full particulars on application. Attention is called to the Two Years Courses in Agriculture and Horticulture. Failure to report promptly means loss of opportunity to student.

Early application necessary for admittance. Write for particulars.

R. W. SYLVESTER President.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 34. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1910. NUMBER 42

THE GRAND JURY WAS DISCHARGED LAST THURSDAY

Body Was Held An Additional Day to Investigate Jacobs Fire.

The grand jury for the December Term of the Circuit Court adjourned last Thursday at noon after a session lasting from the Monday previous. It was the intention of the body to adjourn Wednesday afternoon but it was held over until Thursday in order to investigate the cause of the fire which occurred some months ago when the home of Mr. W. H. Jacobs, of near Lonaconing, was burned and in which the life of a little granddaughter of Mr. Jacobs' lost her life. In this case the grand jury found no evidence that would implicate anyone in the burning of the building and adjournment of the body followed, upon submitting its report, printed below, to the Court:

To the Honorable, the Judges of the Circuit Court for Garrett county:

The Grand Jury for the December Term, 1910, of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, beg leave to report that we have now concluded our labors and have, to the best of our ability, performed the several duties devolving upon us as members of this body, and we now desire to report our proceedings and receive our discharge.

We have had before us and have examined 77 witnesses and found 25 presentments and 25 indictments.

Presentments have been found in all those cases in which we believed the evidence justified and we have ignored trivial case and those cases wherein the evidence did not appear to warrant or justify presentments.

Agreeable the provision of law and in accordance with your Honor's instructions we have visited the several county buildings and take pleasure in reporting that we have found them in excellent condition and have no recommendation to make except that the plastering on the ceiling of the court room should be repaired and the gutter over the door facing Alder street should be repaired, as the same leaks.

We find the jail in a clean and sanitary codnition, and the locking devices in good working order.

We desire to express our sincere appreciation for the able assistance of the State's Attorney, Mr. J. C. Renninger, in our labors. He has been untiring in his efforts and endeavors to aid us in our work. We also desire to acknowledge the courtesy extended to us by his Honor, Judge Henderson, and likewise to the several officers of the county in courtesy shown us.

We commend the several officers having the records of the county in their charge for the neat and excellent manner in which they are kept.

We desire specially to express our appreciation of the countesy shown us by Clerk E. Z Tower and to commend him for the excellent and splendid manner in which he has kept the records of the county.

Respectfully submitted
JONAS YUTZY.

J. ARTHUR DEWITT, Clerks.
WM. HAMILL, Clerks.

Mason and Dixon's Line.

The King of England was indebted to Admiral Penn to the sum of £80,000, and William Penn on the death of his father inherited the claim, a tract of 40,000 square miles in America. In the petition to the king, dated June, 1680, Penn asked for the territory west of the Delaware river and from the northern boundary of Maryland to the north "as far as plantable." It was the largest grant ever made to one man in America.

The boundary of the colony, as given in the charter, became the subject of the most serious dispute and was not finally settled for a hundred years.

The first survey to establish the boundary and settle the dispute was made by Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, two English surveyors, who were brought to this country by the heirs of both parties for that purpose. They arrived in America on November 15, 1763, and began that year the survey, completing it in 1767.

In 1732, the heirs of Penn and Baltimore signed an agreement that the line between Pennsylvania and Marvland be run due west from the tangent of the western boundary of the Delaware, with the arc twelve miles from New Castle. Mason and Dixon surveyed it forth for 244 miles, at the intervals of a mile small cut stones were set in the ground; each stone had a large P cut on the north side and a B on the south side. Every five miles was placed a large stone bearing the coat of arms on one side and that of Lord Baltimore on the other. These stones were cut in England and afterwards brought to the colonies.

A few of these stones still stand, but time has crumbled many of them; others have been carried away piecemeal by relic hunters, and a few are doing service as steps before the doors of farm houses along the route. The first revision of the survey was made in 1849 when it was found to be substantially correct, and within a few years the route has been gone over and many of the former historic monuments were recovered and put up in their proper places.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

JOHN BERGMAN GIVEN 3 YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

Other Sentences Imposed by the Court Tuesday Prior to Adjournment.

The shortest criminal docket in recent years in the Garrett county Circuit Court was that of the December Term which adjourned Tuesday at noon.

The Court took a recess from last Thursday afternoon until Monday, all civil cases having been disposed of by trial or continued. On Monday the criminal docket was taken up and disposed of as follows:

The criminal appeals numbered three, the first tried being that of the State vs. Joseph A. Shillingburg, convicted before Justice Teats of having committed an assault upon his cousin, Emery Shillingburg, near the White church, a week or two ago, and sentenced to serve three years in the Maryland House of Correction. The Court sitting as a jury, found the traverser guilty and sentenced him to serve thirty days in the County Jail.

No. 2 criminal appeals, the State vs. Thomas E. Shillingburg, who prayed a jury trial when he had his preliminary hearing, is a brother of Joseph A., and was implicated in the assault upon Emery Shillingburg. The verdict and sentenced of the court was the same as in the above case.

Charles Barton, upon an appeal from Justice West, was tried on the charge of maliciously destroying the moving picture machine in the Empire theatre. He was found guilty and given thirty days in the County Jail.

The criminal trial docket was taken up Monday afternoon and disposed of as follows:

State vs. Edward A. Sanders, assault and battery; dismissed upon payment of cost by the traverser.

State vs. Frank Carradad, indicted in three cases for having forged the name of the late Col. J. M. Burns to checks and receiving money and goods upon the same from merchants and others in Oakland and Mountain Lake Park, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to serve two years in the Maryland Penitentiary.

John Bergman, the gay Lothario, who was caught at Fairmont several weeks ago as he was making his way to Reno, Nev., charged with stealing property owned by his customers when he was a tailor in Oakland, and also receiving money on work promised a certain colored man named Henderson, was found guilty as charged and sentenced to serve three years in the Maryland Penitentiary. Bergman has borne a very bad reputation here for several years past. He has a wife and child living in Baltimore and when caught at Fairmont by the Garrett county officials he was on his way West where he had arranged to meet a woman of Oakland whom he was to marry as soon as he obtained a divorce from his present wife.

State vs. McKinley Male; larceny; trial before the court, verdict guilty, paroled.

State vs. George Smith; larceny; trial before the Court, verdict guilty, 7 months in House of Correction.

State vs. Frank Carridad; forgery, stet.

State vs. Earl Russel, plea of guilty confessed as to larceny; paroled.

State vs. Stephen A. Nally; sale of beer on Sunday; trial before the Court; not guilty.

Ask More Time to Fix Boundary.

The commissiomers appointed by the United States Supreme Court to run the line of boundary between Maryland and West Virginia set down by a decision of the court have just made a preliminary report of their work stating that a majority of the line has been laid, but as the court decision that the work had to be completed by January 1, 1911, they requested that the time be extended until October 1, 1911, as it was almost impossible to do the work during the winter, and they desired the summer months in which to complete the work.

The Supreme Court received the preliminary report and took the request for an extension of time under consideration and will decide if it will grant the request.

Both Feet Frozen.

George Hohing, who resides in Garrett county, a few miles from Lonaconing, had both his feet frozen one night last week. It is feared that one foot and a part of the other must be amputated. Mr. Hoing is in the hospital at Cumberland. He had been employed in a saw mill just over the county line. He is the son of the late Conrad Hohing and has lived in Garrett county several years.

CAUGHT UNDER FALLING EARTH

Several Men Injured In the Quarry Operated by Mr. C. F. Hammond.

Last Thursday afternoon a number of men at work in the quarry near Thayerville which is being operated by Mr. C. F. Hammond, were caught under a mass of earth and loose rock, three of the men being more or less seriously injured. One, an Italian, had his collarbone and one rib broken. An American, whose name could not be learned, was painfully bruised about the head and shoulder and another Italian suffered a like injury.

FRIENDSVILLE.

We do not see as many Republicans in town (we mean newspapers) as there should be. Readers, pass your paper to your friends and let them see what a treat they are missing by not being subscribers. Next to having a paper in our town, this comes nearest to it. Here you see all the local gossip as well as correct county news. Moral: SUBSCRIBE.

The weather has been extremely cold lately, crawling down on Saturday morning to 2 below zero.

J. C. Kendall was a visitor for a day or so to our town last week.

Our population increased last week one more, there being a new arrival in the lower part of our city.

Mrs. Amster Friend, wife of our genial assistant agent at the B. & O. depot, has been very ill and confined to the house with sore throat, but is better at this time.

Word was received here last week of the sudden death of Singleton Chrise, who was employed by the B. & O. R. R. Co., and lived at Connelsville. While shifting cars he in some way fell and was dreadfully mangled. His body was brought to Friendsville on Thursday and remained at L. M. Reckner's and then removed to their last resting place at Markleysburg on Friday. Mr. Chrise was well known here, as he had been a resident of our town and was butcher here for some time. He leaves a wife to mourn his loss. He was twenty-eight years of age.

The festival held by the Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church on Saturday evening was enjoyed by all that attended. More, no doubt, would have but for the weather. The quilt that was the main feature of the occasion was sold for eleven dollars.

Urbin Ross has been very ill at his home on the West Side.

George D. Browning was a visitor in town for a few days recently.

The river has been frozen over giving our young people an opportunity to cut figure eights.

The proposed new road to join the state road will be one of the best undertakings the citizens of this part of the county ever attempted and must be of thousands of dollars advantage to them. At this time when the roads are so bad it ought to wake everybody up to a sense of pushing the new road through. Go it must, and when March comes it will be an assured fact, but it will take arranging for, and all persons interested should get together and talk it over. Call a meeting, Mr. President, and you will see the people flocking there, for we all are anxious to travel on a good road that is not perpendicular, and a good water grade when one horse will be able to pull more than two can on the old roads and in about half the time and without much wear and tear (especially tear) to the conveyance.

Marriage Licenses.

The following marriage licenses have been issued by Clerk E. Z. Tower since December 1st.

Edward Butcher and Emma Buckhammer, both of Weston, W. Va.

W. T. Hershman and Cora Kelly, both of Meriden, W Va.

James Thomas, of Rowlesburg, W. Va., and Marguerite Geldbach, of Newburg, W. Va.

A. L. Smith, of Laneville, W. Va., and Gertrude McIndoe, of Mountain Lake Park.

Thurman Clark, of Lonaconing and Cora Clark, of Ronco, Pa.

Geo. F. Skidmore, of Sutton, W. Va. and Ocie Harris, of Canfield, W. Va.

Elmer Pixler and Lillie Dunn, both of Morgantown, W. Va.

F. B. Shaler, of Clayesville, Pa., and Ova Yerkey, of Morgansville, W. Va.

Randolph Helms, of William, W. Va., and Lusetta Sines, of Sines, this county.

Zack McClain and Ethel McIntyre, both of Morgansville, W. Va.

Arthur Jarrett, of Watson, W. Va. and Edna Bush, of Fairmont.

H. O. Garrison and Metta Cottrill, both of Clarksburg, W. Va.

Three with request not to publish.

Subscribe for The Republican.

THE DEATH RECORD.

JOHN NELSON ERVIN.

Died, at his home four miles north of Oakland, on Tuesday, of old age, John Nelson Ervin, aged 81 years. The decease had been a resident of this part of Garrett county for half a century. He was a member of the Third Maryland Regiment during the Civil War. His funeral will occur Friday morning from the Dodge church, with interment in the Brant cemetery.

DEATH OF AN INFANT.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Pendergast died at Hutton Tuesday and was buried in Oakland yesterday.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

There has been about six weeks of ice weather but the great depth of snow makes it almost impossible to cut and store the ice, which is about eight inches thick and about one-half of that mixed with snow. Dr. Davis will determine in a few days as to the filling of the large ice house at the lake for home consumption.

Mrs. John T. Taylor and children left for their home in Fairmont, W. Va., yesterday, after a visit of three weeks with Mrs. Taylor's mother, Mrs. Benjamin Friend, and other relatives in Loch Lynn and Oakland.

The special services at Wesley chapel and Pleasant Valley church are being conducted jointly by the pastors of the U. B. and M. E. churches. These services have been continued for three weeks and will probably close with this week.

The special services at the Mt. Lake Park M. E. and Loch Lynn U. B. churches, commencing the first Sunday in January at the M. E. church, will also be conducted jointly by the two pastors.

Rev. Joseph Lee left yesterday morning for Beverly, W. Va., in the interest of his special work.

His many friends in this community were sorry to hear of Mr. Clarence G. Hammond's misfortune in the loss of part of his right hand last week at a saw mill a few miles northwest of Oakland.

Mr. Upton finished the unloading of a car of lime here yesterday, which he hauled to his farm one mile southeast of the Loch Lynn hotel.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Barnard a few days ago, a girl.

Also to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Crane yesterday evening, a girl.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stone, aged 85 years, died at her home in Wheeling, W. Va., yesterday. "Mother Stone," as she was familiarly called here has been a summer resident of the Park since the first opening in 1882, and always seemed to greatly enjoy the various exercises and especially the camp meeting. She will be greatly missed.

BITTINGER.

If a neighbor should call up Silas C. Beachy within the next ten days and ask him to quote prices on lambs or good beef cattle, he would probably hear the good natured reply: "I am not bothering about the stock market now. Don't you know we have twins at our house? They came last Sunday—a boy and a girl—and I'm obliged to drop the sheep business until after Christmas."

Clark Snyder, who has been employed near Frostburg for some weeks past, is back among his friends and will probably spend the remainder of the winter at school.

F. C. Ries, of Accident, was in this neighborhood last week buying turkeys for his holiday trade.

Jacob Swartzentruber and wife, of Nebraska, were visiting old friends and acquaintances here last week.

Messrs. Perry, James, Joseph and George Bowser went up to Oakland last Sunday to be on hand for court on Monday morning.

Deputy Sheriff Shartzer, of Oakland, was in this section a day or two last week on official business.

Oliver C. Beachy smiles like a man with a splinter new automobile, but its only another boy presented by the stork on last Friday afternoon.

The Lutheran Sunday school are preparing a special Christmas service which will be rendered on Saturday evening, Dec. 24th.

The Stores Open at Night.

Beginning to-night all stores that heen closing every other evening will be open for Christmas shopping until December 26th.

Call for Your Letters.

Russell Atkinson, James B. Hovernall.

FORMER GARRETT COUNTIAN ENDED LIFE IN WEST VIRGINIA

George M. Friend, Formerly of Friendsville, Shot Himself at Mabie, W. Va

George M. Friend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Friend, of Friendsville, who was employed as a clerk in the office of the Curry-Bittner Lumber Company at Mabie, W. Va., committed suicide Monday afternoon at Mabie by shooting himself through the head. The act was committed in front of the lumber company's store at Mabie. No cause has been assigned by the relatives and friends of the deceased for the young man taking his own life.

The body will arrive at Friendsville today at noon and tomorrow morning the funeral will occur.

Mr. Friend was aged 27 years and has been employed by the Curry-Bittner Company for some months. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Friend, and the following brothers and sisters, Messrs. Leslie E., J. Bunnell, and Amster Friend, and Mrs. Wm. H. H. Friend, Jr., and Mrs. Harry J. Black, all of Friendsville.

The Pearre Idea of Public Office.

It is difficult to speak patiently of such a proposal as that made by Representative Pearre in the House of Representatives yesterday regarding the United States Judge for the District of Maryland. Whatever the phraseology of Mr. Pearre's amendment, its purpose is plain; it was intended as a blow to Judge Rose, of this city. And as such it was utterly indefensible.

One of the greatest difficulties in our public life at this time is to find capable men who will accept high office. This is particularly true of our judges. The lawyer really fit to be judge can make in his legal practice many times as much money as a judgeship pays. It take a very real kind of patriotism to induce a man to accept a position that is greatly to his pecuniary disadvantage. Yet that is what Judge Rose has done.

If the Pearre idea prevails we shall soon be able to get for high public positions none but professional office-seekers. It is pleasant to note that the amendment was promptly rejected.—Baltimore Evening Sun, Dec. 10.

Ladies to Conduct Exchange.

On Friday afternoon beginning at one o'clock the ladies of the Lutheran church of Oakland, will conduct an exchange in the dining room attached to the restaurant of Mr. W. G. Hinebaugh on Second street, where they will have for sale newly baked rolls, bread, etc., fancy articles, dressed dolls and many other things suitable for Christmas. The public is invited to patronized the exchange.

AN INCREASE OF SIXTEEN MILLION

Complete Returns of Census of the United States.

The complete census shows continental increase 15,977,691 or 21 per cent, including territorial dependencies the increase is 16,145,521 or 20.9 per cent. State of Washington has 1,141,990, an increase of 623,839, or 120.4 per cent., gaining three more congressmen. Wisconsin 2,333,860, an increase of 264,818 or 11.7 per cent., a gain of one more congressman. New York State, corrected, 9,113,614, an increase of 1,844,720 or 25.4 per cent; gain nine new congressmen. Florida corrected, 752,619; increase, 224,077 or 42.6 per cent., gains one new congressman. Alaska, 64,356, increase, 764 or 1.2 per cent. "Military and Naval population United States, 55,008, Hawaii, 191,909; increase, 37,908 or 24.6 per cent.

The ranking order of States is: New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Texas, Massachusetts, Missouri, Michigan, Indiana, Georgia, New Jersey, California, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Iowa, North Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Minnesota, Virginia, Mississippi, Kansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas, South Carolina, Maryland, West Virginia, Nebraska, Washington, Porto Rico, Conneticut, Colorado, Florida, Maine, Oregon, South Dakota, North Dakota, Rhode Island, New Hamshire, Montana, Utah, Vermont, District Columbia, New Mexico, Idaho, Arizona, Delaware, Hawaii, Wyoming, Nevada, Alaska.

A TOAST TO GARRETT COUNTY.

By E. S. WEST.

Western Maryland, crest of the Alleghenies,
With forest-clad hills and fertile valleys,
Enthralled before your high mountains
I graciously bow at their feet,
To quaff from health-giving fountains
Of water, so pure and so sweet.

In the Spring-time: O! what happy hours
Are spent among your fragrant flowers!
Violets of every hue; trailing arbutus
Whose perfume permeates the atmosphere—
A veritable flower garden about us;
Song-birds and flowers everywhere.

Your Summer and Autumn seasons of blessing
To those seeking health or recreation
From the cities torrid heat or climes unhealthy—
A land where abundant crops are grown,
And industrious farmers grow wealthy,
For crop failures there are unknown.

Go where you may and search where you will
On every plain and every rugged hill,
For this I know, when your search is o'er
You will bless the happy choice you made—
If you turn down the West or the Eastern Shore
And spend your days in Garrett's glade.

Wreck on the Grade.

A wreck of considerable proportions occurred on the Seventeen Mile Grade between Swanton and Frankville Sunday morning, when a rear-end collision between two freight trains took place. One engine was badly damaged and five or six cars broken up. Traffic on both tracks was impeded for more than three hours.

DIXON & KELSO

DIXON & KELSO have put in stock
AN IMMENSE LINE OF XMAS GOODS,
and can serve their customers better than ever.

The following are a few of the many things we have to offer:

Daisy Mixed Candy per lb.,	7c
Fancy Broken Mixed Candy, per lb.,	9c
Good Chocolate Candy, 15c and 2 lbs for	25c
Good Mint and Wintergreen Lozenges, 2 lbs for	25c
Have Loweny's Candies, boxes, 10, 25,	50c
Mew Mixed Nuts, per lb	14c
New English Walnuts,	18c
Big Ripe Florida Oranges, per doz.	25c
Big Sour Lemons, "	25c
Big Fat Raisins, per lb,	8c
Walter Baker's and Hersey's Chocolate, per cake,	20c
Swan Down Cake Flour, per box,	25c

Our line of goods suitable for Presents is so big and varied that we will not attempt to describe it but invite every one to come in and have a look. Will have enough extra help to take care of the crowd no matter how large.

Yours to Please. DIXON & KELSO.

The Republican.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Publisher

OAKLAND, - - MARYLAND

Don't abuse the weather man.

Farewell, a long farewell to the iceman.

Fine weather brings out fine birds on fine hats.

Some men make good money, but mighty little of it.

A throne upheld by bayonets is sure to fall sooner or later.

Aviators are pulling down some rich prizes from the upper air.

From women down to census returns we are against padding.

However, the undertakers have not yet begun subsidizing football.

As a juggernaut the aeroplane is running the automobile a mighty close race.

A western farmer extinguished a blaze in his kitchen with milk. Enough said.

We've come to the conclusion that autumn has spring beaten forty ways from the jack.

In an aeroplane race there seems to be no such possibility as betting on a sure thing.

Here is where the foolhardy man begins a dangerous intimacy with the pneumonia germ.

The age of aviation calls for a race of spectators with eyes on the tops of their heads.

Japan exported nearly 1,000,000 pounds of human hair last year. Do you buy your wife her share?

With forty bankers in the Leavenworth prison that institution is becoming too aristocratic for plain folks.

If you chew your food with sufficient care you will live a long time—in fact, you will have to live a long time.

Cheer up! Soon the big chrysanthemums will be competing for the world's championship at the flower show.

Strictly fresh eggs are said to be few, but that does not discourage the cheerful sign painter at the corner grocery.

So many automobile accidents at railroad grade crossings teach the necessity of care on the part of drivers.

There are lovely bits of coloring to be observed about sunrise these crisp mornings, not including that on the early pedestrian's nose.

Chicago university professors have quit making sensational statements. One of 'em tells us as bit of news that "Woman has ruled man for centuries.'

A Virginia father with 56 children is a convict, but under the circumstances he deserves some sympathy. Think of supporting such a family on the average salary!

There is a man in New Zealand who lays claim to $167,000,000 worth of property in New York city. He would have a better chance if the New Yorkers had not seen it first.

In one respect the colleges are not up to date. They issue no life and accident insurance policies to the young men who go out on the football field to battle for alma mater.

When a man rents a flat all he can do about the place is to sit around and look out of the window. But when he occupies a humble cottage he has many things to keep his mind off his other troubles.

The Connecticut tobacco crop and the New Jersey cranberry crop are bigger this year than they have been for a long, long time. Unfortunately few of us can live on cranberries and Connecticut tobacco.

A man whose automobile broke down the other day offered $1,000 for a new and vigorous profane oath. A man who wants to swear and doesn't know how may not be good, but simply lacking in imagination.

American returning tourists will now not only have to pay the duty on what is in their trunks, but also on the trunks themselves. And about the only way of smuggling left now is to bring trunk and contents over in an airship.

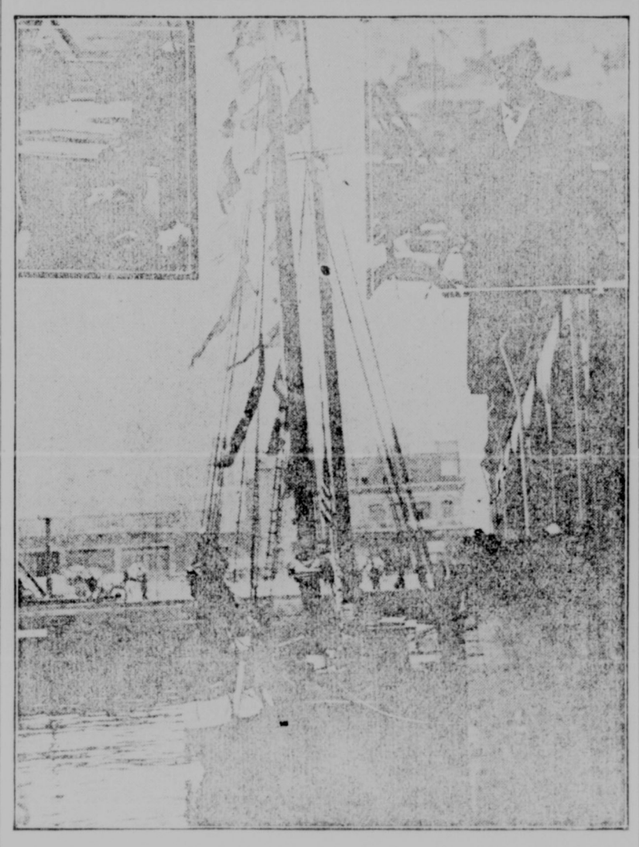
It has been pointed out that that New York judge who decided that a man is not obliged to support his mother-in-law is a bachelor. "Where ignorance is bliss" and the rest of it.

The "back to the farm" movement gets another boost in the tuberculosis statistics supplied by the ceusus bureau. From these figures it appears that the occupation most favorable to health and to freedom from consumption is farming. In other words, out door life and activity near to nature's heart conduce to longevity.

The World's Wonders

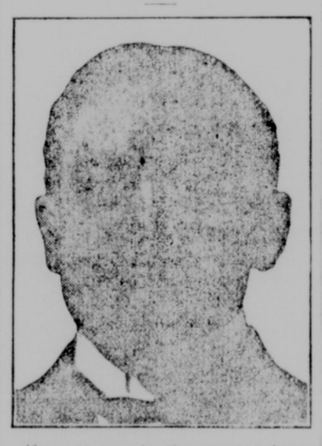
STRANGE THINGS FOUND IN VARIOUS PORTIONS OF THE EARTH

Privateer of the War of 1812



Recently an interesting ceremony took place at the foot of West Fiftieth street, New York city. This was the placing of a bronze tablet on board the little schooner Polly, commemorating her victories in the war of 1812. The illustration shows Rev. John A. Wade delivering the invocation and Capt. J. H. Weldon at the wheel. The Polly is really a remarkable boat. Built in 1805, she was a privateer during the war of 1812 and captured 11 prizes, taking part in many actions. She has been in use ever since and has made many extended voyages, but still is a staunch vessel, seemingly good for many years of service.

KNOWS NEARLY ALL TONGUES



If every one in the country knew all the languages that John D. Prince, professor of languages at Columbia university, New York, knows there would be no call for a universal tongue. Instead, we could go right ahead talking to every stranger we happened to meet in whatever language the latter chose to talk to us.

When he isn't busy teaching the young men at Columbia Professor Prince finds time to take an active interest in politics in Paterson, N. J., where he lives and for some years he has been state senator in the New Jersey legislature from his district. Professor Prince admits that his marvelous knowledge of languages has more than once won him the vote of some newly made citizen who hadn't as yet acquired English. As the crowning performance of his use of languages, he recently made a political speech in which he employed 17 different languages.

If one asks Professor Prince how many languages he knows he modestly disclaims complete knowledge of any, even the English. A little closer questioning, however, discloses the fact that he can make himself understood in practically every distinct language that is used on the face of the globe, and a few minutes' study of any of the hundreds of dialects that are spoken in various corners of the earth will enable him to decipher much of what is written in it.

"I doubt very much," said Professor Prince, "whether any one man actually knows even the English language. For example, I doubt if I understand the English language as it is now used in the science of aeronautics. Just so others who may be thoroughly familiar with the English language, as they suppose, do not know one-half the terms employed in the automobile industry, for each bolt and nut in a motor car has a distinct name.

"There really is, so far as I know, only one language that is absolutely impossible for a white man to master, and that is the original language of the North American Indian. Those who think they are talking Indian languages are, as a matter of fact, talking Chinook or something similar."

FREE PASS FOR CORPSE

Asserting that her dead husband was as much entitled to travel on a free pass as when he was alive, Mrs. John Chadwick of Seattle, staggered the purser of the steamship State of Washington, by refusing to pay freight on his corpse which she had brought to the vessel for shipment. "My husband had a free pass on the State of Washington when he was alive," she said to the official, "and no one is going to prevent him traveling on it when he is dead, poor fellow." The purser objected, but wired to headquarters for instructions. When he read the reply telegram: "Let the corpse travel free and collect pass," the widow heaved a sigh of satisfaction and said she knew she would win.

LETTER TOURS THE WORLD

A letter mailed seven months ago to Los Angeles, Cal., after wandering all over the world, has come back to its sender in Philadelphia, covered with the postmarks of the offices where it had been received. On April 11 F. S. Johnson mailed the letter from Ellingham, Ill. He then went to Philadelphia. The letter was not delivered by the Los Angeles postal authorities, because the man to whom it was addressed had moved. He had gone to Seoul, Korea, but before being sent there the letter was returned to Illinois and then forwarded through San Francisco to the Orient. Not finding its owner in Seoul, the letter continued on through French Cochin China, and then it was sent on to the dead letter office in Washington by way of England, as being undelivered. The sender had his address on the letter, and it was returned to him in the mail. The letter bears nearly twenty postmarks of different countries, together with several stamps in foreign languages, one of which reads, "Inconnu," the French for "unknown." The letter took just seven months and six days to complete its peregrinations around the world before landing in the dead letter office. Mr. Johnson highly treasures the much-traveled missive as a souvenir.

ROMANCE OF A MONASTERY

A woman of great beauty, Countess Kluzinska, has been arrested after passing 18 years as a man in the Russian monastery of Solowestk.

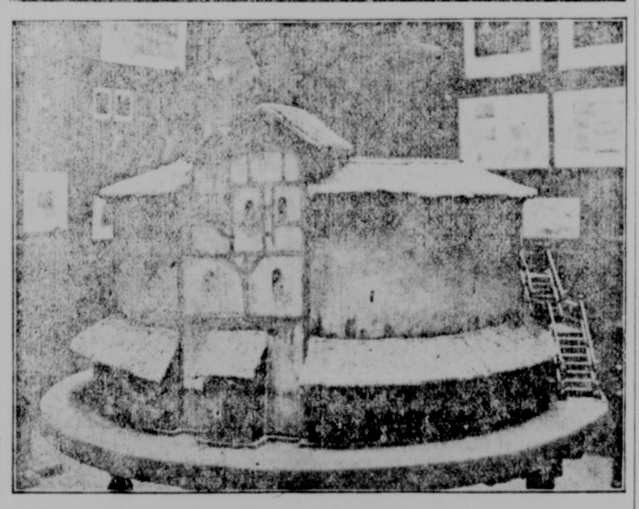
The countess, who is now about forty years of age, was the heroine of a much discussed love affair. A duel fought between her lover and her husband ended fatally for the latter, and the lover, conscience-stricken, retired to the monastery Solowestk.

The countess, unable to bear the separation, adopted the strategy mentioned above in order to be near her lover. She gained access to the convent, and for 18 years lived there unsuspected.

ODD OLD CHURCH CEREMONY

Every September a certain Sunday is set apart in two or three villages of England for the ceremony known as "Clipping the Church." This word clipping means surrounding or embracing, and is performed by the children and congregation forming a circle with joined hands all round the church, singing special hymns for the occasion. The most famous place where this strange Sunday ceremony is still extant, as it has been for many hundred years, is the pleasant Gloucestershire village of Painswick near Stroud. The parishioners after their procession and ring round Painswick church gather at the chancel door, from which as customary a sermon is preached.

Globe Theater of Shakespeare



The original Globe theater was built in 1599 and burned in 1613, through sparks from a cannon used during a production of "King Henry VIII." A new theater of the same name took its place. The playhouse was open to the weather, and, as may be noted, there was a considerable amount of thatching about it. In 1614, and until his death, Shakespeare owned one-fourteenth of the Globe, and one-seventh of the Blackfriars. Entrance to it was a penny; this was for standing in the pit. The galleries cost twopence; a comfortable seat, threepence. A flag was flown during performances. Our illustration shows a remarkable model at a theatrical exhibition at the Whitechapel Art Gallery in London.

WILL OF GOD IN OUR LIVES

By REV. J. W. LOVING
Pastor of Taum Ave. Baptist Church
Houston, Texas

TEXT—For that, ye ought to say, "If the Lord will, we shall live, and do this or that."—James IV, 15.

The central thought of this chapter is that the root of all worldliness is pride, arrogance of heart towards God, and that the only remedy is to submit one's self to God, to humble one's self in the sight of God. The spirit of worldliness here takes the specific form of presumptuous confidence in the feature, calculating on time to come without reference to the providence of God, as if the future were in our hands.

The writer tells us that we ought to say that if it be God's will we shall do so and so. He is pleading that God's will shall have the right of way even in our planning. One can not but recall the subject of one of Horace Bushnell's great sermons on "Every man's life a plan of God." It has not been my privilege to read that particular sermon, nor do I know just the text of it. There are three great sayings coming from three several men that will furnish our divisions for this morning's discourse.

1. Prince Albert, consort of the late Queen Victoria, used to say: "Find out the plan of God in your generation, and then beware lest you cross that plan or fail to find your own place in it." All true life has a divine plan. "It is not in man that walketh to direct his steps."

For a moment let your thoughts run back over your life. Many of us will go back to the quiet country place, far from the maddening crowd. It seemed at the time very uneventful and commonplace. Often you caught visions and grew a bit restless for a larger life. At length the time came when you started forth. Now it may not be that you have seriously longed to go back and bury yourself, as you used to say, in that retired sphere again. But have not the disappointments, disenchantments, revelations of life caused you to appreciate more highly the care-free exemptions of that earlier life?

Oh, thrice happy you were when you had others to decide for you, when it was yours just to obey them that had authority over you. Do you think it a mere accident, or even incident, that your lot was thus cast? Nay, was it not rather God's good providence, His great plan in your life? His own hand has guided you, His power kept you. He has been your shield and buckler, your defense on the right hand and on the left your reward and your all conquering leader.

Don't you believe that had you earlier recognized the good hand of your God upon you and submitted your life and all to Him your life had not only been more fruitful of good, but incomparably happier, too? Let us catch up the words of Prince Albert and try to find out the plan of God in our generation. True there is no variableness in God. He is ever the same. And yet we know that the work of this generation is not just that of the Apostolic age; not just that of Luther's day. We are living in an age of unrest, of new adjustments and alignments. Men are straining to "adopt" things. More than one man even in this land of ours are trying to evolve a new religion.

Some of the features of these new religions call on us to find God's plan, for He, His plan, all miraculous power, all authority, all restraint is eliminated. So we need to ask for the old paths, and to raise the warning voice to try to lead others into the plain, which is yet the narrow, but living way, the only way. More and more is there a call to stand for God and to illustrate in individual lives what God does in, through and with the life surrendered to Him. In the face of the widespread feeling of unrest and uncertainty, let us exhibit that rest which Jesus gives and which we find in obedience to Him by taking His yoke and learning from Him.

2. Pastor Monod used to say, "Our work is but a segment in the great sphere of God's eternal work, and if we have eyes to see we may read in that portion of his work which belongs to us our name and the date of the present year." This is another way of saying that the work of the Christian is to do God's work, and that each worker as an individual is known to God and has a particular place in God's plan. Doesn't this give great dignity and value to our work? It must partake of the priceless value, the high quality of God himself, for it is a part of his own work which he assigned to us as individuals to do.

3. Constantine when marking out the bounds of Constantinople, being told that the city would never fill out so vast an area, replied: "I am following him who is leading me." We may not here pause to discuss the Christianity of the great emperor, save only to say that he was astute and sagacious enough to adopt it as a plank in his political platform. But the point before us is submission to God's leading. Again and again does the call of the master bid us follow him. Only God-led lives tell most for humanity. Too often with us it is not a question of knowing, so much as one of doing, the Lord's will. With many of us the trouble is that we have not felt the cost of following Jesus enough to give us the highest appreciation of him.

COLDS
Cured in One Day

"I regard my cold cure as being better than a Life Insurance Policy."—MUNYON.

A few doses of Munyon's Cold Cure will break up any cold and prevent pneumonia. It relieves the head, throat and lungs almost instantly. These little sugar pellets can be conveniently carried in the vest pocket for use at any time or anywhere. Price 25 cents at any druggists.

If you need Medical Advice write to Munyon's Doctors. They will carefully diagnose your case and give you advice by mail, absolutely free. They put you under no obligations.

Address Munyon's Doctors, Munyon's Laboratory, 53d and Jefferson streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

AS REPRESENTED.

Patient—Look here, doctor; you said if I took a bottle of your tonic I would have a remarkable appetite. Why, I only eat one soda cracker each week.

Doctor—Well, don't you call that a remarkable appetite?

BABY'S SCALP CRUSTED

"Our little daughter, when three months old, began to break out on the head and we had the best doctors to treat her, but they did not do her any good. They said she had eczema. Her scalp was a solid scale all over. The burning and itching was so severe that she could not rest, day or night. We had about given up all hopes when we read of the Cuticura Remedies. We at once got a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, and followed directions carefully. After the first dose of the Cuticura Resolvent, we used the Cuticura Soap freely and applied the Cuticura Ointment. Then she began to improve rapidly and in two weeks the scale came off her head and new hair began to grow. In a very short time she was well. She is now sixteen years of age and a picture of health. We used the Cuticura Remedies about five weeks, regularly, and then we could not tell she had been affected by the disease. We used no other treatment after we found out what the Cuticura Remedies would do for her. J. Fish and Ella M. Fish, Mt. Vernon, Ky., Oct. 12, 1909."

Some One Must Do It.

J. Pierpont Morgan, at one of the sumptuous dinners that he gave in Cincinnati during the recent church congress, praised the power of advertising.

Mr. Morgan's eulogy concluded with an epigram quite good and quite true enough to be pasted in every businessman's hat.

"If a dealer," he said, "does not advertise his wares, it is ten to one that the sheriff will do it for him."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

He Never Shaved Again.

Marmaduke—What do you suppose that wretched barber said when he shaved me?

Bertie—I don't know.

Marmaduke—He said it reminded him of a game he used to play when a boy called "Hunt the Hare."

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over 30 Years.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

The Simple Life.

Mrs. Knicker—You will have to get up to light the fire.

Knicker—Unnecessary, my dear; I never smoke before breakfast.

Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Sore Throat will not live under the same roof with Hamlins Wizard Oil, the best of all remedies for the relief of all pain.

It's awful hard for a little woman to impress people with her dignity.

Alexander's Remedy for Asthma
Will cure you. Why suffer distress and torture longer? Send for sample bottle. G. F. Alexander Company, 44 Exchange Street, Portland, Maine.

Curiosity is all the appetite needed for a mysterious dish.

A Shattered Romance

A True Story of the Secret Service

By COL. H. C. WHITLEY, Former Chief U. S. Secret Service

THE professional criminal's brain is a constantly working laboratory of the most ingenious plots for over-reaching the officers of the law. Ever awake, ever thoughful and ever active—at glaring noontide as well as at black midinight—in the brown-stone front and lowly tenement—everywhere and at every hour is this insidious enemy of social order wideawake and on the alert.

It takes an acute mind and level head to contend against and bring the ingenious criminal to the bar of justice. During our civil war counterfeiting blossomed into a fine art. It became almost omnipresent in every channel of trade and the government detectives were impotent to totally eradicate the evil, expose the plots and defeat the operations of these criminals, until some time after peace had been restored.

To meet and destroy these vampires of society it was often necessary to resort to measures of seeming wrong, that good results might be obtained. One of the most ingenious criminals that fell into the hands of the secret service division during my official career was one Thomas Brownie, the son of a man of wealth, occupying a fine residence on an aristocratic street in New York City.

Young Brownie was possessed of a handsome, refined face, slight figure, polished address and the self poise of a man thoroughly trained in the best circles. Reared under the tuition of a good and tender mother and supplied with every luxury by a kind and indulgent father, it seems quite unaccountable that he should choose to enter the society of criminals. On account of his expertness in dodging the officers of the law he gained the confidence of many of the leading counterfeiters and forgers of the country. When I first learned of him he was leading the life of a man of inexhaustible means. His extravagance in dress and living was in keeping with the man of millions. Through various sources of information it was discovered that he was handling counterfeit money in a wholesale way and that he was connected with what was then known as the Miner gang of "Coniackers."

He had for some time been cute enough to deal in the bogus stuff in a manner to baffle the skill of the government officers. On more than one occasion when the officers thought him to be almost in their grasp, he would manage to elude them and disappear from their sight. The time came when neither the subtle ingenuity of his plans nor the wealth and respectability of his family served to shield him from the hands of the officers. He was a difficult man to capture, but notwithstanding his remarkable skill and adroitness he met his match at last.

It was while at the height of his criminal glory and while he was daily strutting Broadway with the air of a man of unimpeachable character and inexhaustible wealth that evidence sufficient for his conviction had been gathered and brought to my office. I at once directed his arrest and plans were laid for his capture.

At about the same time he suddenly disappeared from his usual haunts and the officers were unable to discover his hiding place.

Whenever the officers sought him in a place where his presence had been reported they were always just a little too late. The man they were seeking had changed his location.

When next heard of he would be in some other part of the city. In the course of time he was spoken of among the detectives as a will-o'-the-wisp, as he was forever flitting about.

Two secret service officers were detailed to keep a careful watch upon his father's aristocratic mansion. For weeks, night and day, this was kept up without success. The man we were in quest of never put in an appearance there. The only persons seen to go out and in were an elderly gentleman and a young woman of fine appearance, presumably his daughter. There were also two servants, neither bearing the slightest resemblance to young Brownie.

One of the detectives employed in watching the house was a prepossessing young Italian. I will name him Louis Merito. He was well educated and of fine address. Watchful and of a nervous, sanguine temperament, he was nearly always sure of being the lucky one when sent with others to make a capture.

Late one pleasant afternoon several days after the young Italian had taken a position near the Brownie mansion, an elegantly attired young lady was seen coming down the front steps of the house, carrying a traveling bag. She entered a carriage in waiting and it rolled away at a moderate pace. Merito followed on foot and was able to keep the carriage in view. When the young lady crossed the gang plank of the steamer "Providence," then plying between New York and Fall River, Merito was close at her heels. She stepped up into the grand salon and after moving about for a few moments, beckoned to a nut-brown chambermaid. When the servant came near the young lady opened a pearl inlaid portemonnaie, and taking from it a ten dollar bill, requested her to procure a stateroom and passage ticket to the city of Boston.

A few minutes afterwards the chambermaid returned and informed the young lady that the staterooms on the boat were all engaged.

The young lady seemed greatly disappointed and said it was a sorry predicament for her to be placed in; and if the deep drawn sigh she uttered was an index of her feelings at that moment, she was not only greatly disappointed, but at a loss to know what to do.

Merito, who was near at hand, was as kind hearted as he was enterprising, and upon the impulse of the moment he pushed himself to the front and with the politest of French bows, said: "Please excuse me, young lady, I am very much pained to witness your distress, and I should be glad to assist you. If you will allow me I think I can procure you a stateroom."

In modest tones she thanked him for his kindness and confidingly offered him the ten dollar bill that had been returned to her by the chambermaid.

"Never mind the money until I know what I can do for you."

He thereupon went below. The sister, he thought, is not responsible for the sins of her brother; besides, the making of her acquaintance might give him a better opportunity for discovering the whereabouts of the man he was seeking. In his imagination he was sure that she was going to meet him.

This was his opportunity, thought he. He would ingratiate himself into the good graces of this young woman and if possible learn the whereabouts of her brother.

The oily-tongued detective had no great difficulty in securing the coveted prize. Steamboat clerks are always wise enough to reserve an extra ticket or two for special purposes.

When Merito returned to the grand salon and handed the young lady her tickets she was profuse in her thanks and expressed her deep obligation. As she held the tickets between her jeweled fingers she beamed a smile and displayed a set of pearly white teeth, encircled by a pair of ruby lips, and oh, such eyes! More sparkling even than the diamond solitaires that adorned her ears.

The detective's heart was throbbing wildly. He could scarcely contain himself. It was a case of love at first sight. The hot blood of the Italian was surging to his head. He was quite bewildered.

Collecting his scattered senses he was soon able to convince the young woman that he was a man of consequence, and that while their meeting was but casual, he was greatly delighted because of the opportunity offered to make her acquaintance.

It was late in the evening when they bade each other good night with a promise to meet again on the arrival of the steamer at Fall River in the early morning.

Merito had not only discovered that Miss Brownie was lovely and fascinating, but that she was frank, confiding and truthful. She had nothing to conceal. He had learned everything. She was a young and sensitive maiden who had courageously ventured from her father's home with the purpose of meeting a much loved but wayward brother. How, then, could he help sympathizing with her? Even though his representations in regard to himself were falsely made for the purpose of obtaining her confidence, he believed he was sufficiently shrewd to square himself with her at the proper time.

As deception is ofttimes a part of the detective's stock in trade, he thought there could be no great harm in it after all was understood. It seems that he told her the secret of his being the son of an Italian nobleman of great wealth and that he was traveling incog to gratify his curiosity.

While the story he told was wholly false, he was quite good looking enough and sufficiently genteel in appearance to bear out the statement. From what occurred it was apparent that the young woman herself was somewhat impressed and quite uncertain as to the true status of the detective.

Her story as told to Merito appeared straightforward and truthful. Her mother was dead. Her father, although in the enjoyment of a large income, the result of frugality and well-applied business transactions, was bowed down with grief and very much broken in health because of the wayward course of her darling brother. He had been led astray by evil associates and was being pursued by the government officers, who charged him with dealing in counterfeit money. To evade arrest he had forsaken his home and fled to Canada, where she was expecting to meet him.

Learning this, the detective was deeply interested, not only in the brother, but in the sister as well. Indeed, she was the most attractive person he had ever before met. To his mind she was everything that a woman should be. Wealthy, educated and affectionate, she was brave and romantic enough to venture out alone and battle the cold world for the purpose of redeeming her wayward brother. So gentle and unassuming did she appear that he was sure she had a heart overflowing with love.

As these thoughts came meandering through his brain he saw in his eagerness the opportunity of his life. He would somehow be instrumental in saving the brother and thus win the fair girl's gratitude—perhaps her love. He felt sure that he could trust to her generous heart to forgive him for deceiving her by palming himself off as the son of a nobleman.

When the couple arrived in Boston they went at once to the United States hotel, where they took breakfast together. The detective now thought Miss Brownie more fascinating than ever and at the first opportunity he threw discretion to the winds and began wooing in the most approved Italian style. Pressing his suit with an ardor more impetuous than conventional, he begged her to become his wife.

It appears that her deep sorrow, her soft words, and above all, her tears, had quite bewildered him. Real beauty in distress was too much for the warm-blooded Latin, and he surrendered unconditionally. In impassioned terms he declared his love and offered her his heart and hand.

The young woman, although seemingly overcome, was altogether too modest to accept. Somewhat taken back by this premature declaration, she was sufficiently self-poised to assure him that he was pleasing to her and that she deeply appreciated his attention. But she could not take any decisive step in so important a matter without first consulting her father. She felt that it was her first duty to save her brother. To accomplish this she was ready to sacrifice life itself.

Merito, never at a loss for a subterfuge, proposed to interest himself and secure a condonement of her brother's offense through the assistance of the Italian consul at New York. This ray of light was presented in fine Italian style and must have sounded hopeful to the ears of Miss Brownie. Her face now fairly beamed with joy as she assured him she would willingly give all she possessed in the world to effect such a result. She promised to marry him should he succeed in saving her brother from prosecution for his past offenses.

The day following this I received at my New York office a letter marked "personal," which read as follows:

"United States Hotel, Boston, Mass.
"My Dear Chief:

"I write to inform you that I arrived here this morning in company with the sister of Brownie. Through cunning I made her acquaintance and learned everything. She is on the way to meet her brother Thomas. She tells me that he intends to remain outside of the United States unless a compromise can be affected. She says he has offered to furnish information and will assist to break up the Miner gang of counterfeiters. If you will send me special authority and a guarantee that he will not be arrested I will go with his sister and coax him to come to New York. Please forward the papers to me here at once.

"Yours respectfully,
"LOUIS MERITO."

The case was an important one and required my personal attention. If a compromise could be made that would result in the conviction of such men as Miner, I was anxious to make it. I chose to superintend it myself, and the next train that left for Boston took me with it. When I arrived there on the following morning I went directly to the United States hotel, where I met a thoroughly astonished Italian. He was much surprised at my unexpected appearance.

I soon learned enough to place me in possession of the facts in the case so far as the detective was concerned. I then demanded a personal interview with Miss Brownie, which was soon arranged. After introducing me to the lady, Merito retired from the room, as had been previously agreed upon. I found myself in the presence of a tall and stately young woman, tastefully and fashionably dressed. She held in her hand a large fan which she wielded with consummate grace. I found her fully posted on the nature of my business. Inviting me to be seated, she began the conversation and explained to me her proposed trip to Montreal, where she hoped to meet her brother, Thomas Brownie. She had learned through a friend that her brother was anxious to quit counterfeiting and that he could, if given an opportunity, put the government officers in a position to arrest a number of leading counterfeiters. She did not know the particulars, but was sure that her brother would, if permitted to return to New York, render the government important service. She said that her father had nearly lost his mind on account of the action of his son and that he was ready to undergo almost any sacrifice and pay any reasonable sum of money for the purpose of saving his boy.

What she said was quite reasonable, and after questioning her for some time I had about come to the conclusion that her offer, if carried out as promised, would be a good thing for the government.

There were a number of counterfeits then on the market and I was exceedingly anxious to break up the gang by arresting its leaders and securing the plates. The Miner gang had first and last cost the government a considerable sum of money. While talking over the details of the proposed surrender I stepped to a window and raised the shade, upon which the sun suddenly shone forth, lighting up the room and casting its bright rays fully upon the face of the lady before me. Drawing my chair a little nearer and more in front of her I was enabled to look her straight in the face. My eyes resting on hers seemed to disconcert her. She blinked and turned her head. I straightened up a little and stared at her. She started to rise.

"Keep your seat," I commanded, in an authoritative tone.

At this moment I saw defiance mingled with terror in her eyes. At first I had noticed nothing in her appearance or actions to create suspicion. As was quite natural, she now seemed excited. This might have been attributed to a disturbed condition of her mind on account of the actions of her brother—a natural sequence under the circumstances. She again turned towards me and the sun shone upon her face. I at once detected the work of an artist skilled in the use of shades of paint. I noticed, too, that her hair had not the glossy appearance of natural growth. I was quite sure she was in disguise.

"Before this business goes any further," I said, "I want you to remove your false hair and wipe the paint and powder from your face."

As I arose in front of her she started up with an indignant glare and attempted to push me away. In a flash I reached for her chignon. Giving it a quick jerk, its fastenings gave way and it rolled on the carpet. There was no longer any use for concealment. Thomas Brownie stood before me. The game was up. There was no more room for dodging. He began peeling off layer after layer of his feminine apparel. When he had fully disengaged himself from his dressmaker's outfit he opened his traveling bag and proceeded to clothe himself in masculine attire.

Merito, who had during this interview remained in the hall, was now requested to come into the room. I handed him a pair of handcuffs and Brownie immediately put up his hands to receive them. He was completely done for and offered no further resistance.

In taking the trip on the steamer "Providence" and playing the part of a fascinating woman, it was not surprising that Brownie was able to dupe the detective. As a gifted impersonator he could reproduce to a nicety the tones and modulations of the detective's voice. His description and imitation of the impassioned love scene that took place between himself and Merito was very entertaining. Brownie was too crafty and gifted a criminal to run at large. He was put on trial, convicted and sentenced to the Albany penitentiary for a term of fifteen years.

Merito was so chagrined and overcome on account of his escapade with Brownie that he lost his assurance and was unable to face his fellow officers. The last I heard of him he was on the Pacific coast.

SUFFERED 30 YEARS.

But Chronic Kidney Trouble Was Finally Cured.

Charles Von Soehnen, 201 A St., Colfax, Wash., says: "For 30 years I suffered from kidney trouble and was laid up for days at a time. There was a dull ache through the small of my back and I had rheumatic pains in every joint. The kidney secretions passed too freely and I was annoyed by having to arise at night. I could not work without intense suffering. Through the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, I was practically given a new pair of kidneys. I cannot exaggerate their virtues."

Remember the name—Doan's.

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

UNKIND JOLT FROM ADAM

As If Eve Hadn't Sorrow Enough, Her Partner Had to Add to the Affliction.

Adam had just received his notice of ejectment.

He stared at it a long time in silence, while Eve, crouched in a dusky corner, softly whimpered.

Presently the father of mankind looked around.

As Eve caught his angry eye her whimper changed to a gulping sob.

"Well," he sternly said, "you've certainly put us in a fine mess with your silly curiosity! And yet when I refused to have anything to do with your apple scheme you called me a poor fool. Do you remember that you called me a poor fool?"

"Ye-es," sobbed Eve.

"Well, there's but one question I want to ask you?" said Adam.

"What is it?" gasped the first mother.

"Who's looney now?" he harshly demanded.

Then he turned away abruptly and started to pick up the family gourds and the tent poles.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Couldn't Be Thankful.

Bishop Charles W. Smith at a harvest dinner in Portland said of the harvest spirit:

"The harvest spirit is one of thankfulness, but there are some crabbed old farmers who couldn't be thankful if they tried.

"I said to such an old fellow as he conducted me over his farm on a golden autumn afternoon and showed me a record harvest:

"'Well, sir, this year, at least, you've got nothing, nothing whatever to complain of.'

"'I don't know about that, bishop,' he answered, with a shake of the head. 'I'm afraid there'll be no spoilt hay for the young calves.'"

BUSINESS IS BUSINESS.

Mr. Kicker—Your bill actually makes my blood boil.

Doctor Slick—Then, sir, I must charge you $20 more for sterilizing your system.

NEWSPAPERS TAKING IT UP

Metropolitan Dailies Giving Advice How to Check Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble.

This is a simple home recipe now being made known in all the larger cities through the newspapers. It is intended to check the many cases of Rheumatism and dread kidney trouble which have made so many cripples, invalids and weaklings of some of our brightest and strongest people.

The druggists everywhere, even in the smallest communities, have been notified to supply themselves with the ingredients, and the sufferer will have no trouble to obtain them. The prescription is as follows: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce, and Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Recent experiments in hospital cases prove this simple mixture effective in Rheumatism. Because of its positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, it compels these most vital organs to filter from the blood and system the waste impurities and uric acid which are the cause of rheumatism. It cleanses the kidneys, strengthens them and removes quickly such symptoms as backache, blood disorders, bladder weakness, frequent urination, painful scalding and discolored urine. It acts as a gentle, thorough regulator to the entire kidney structure.

Those who suffer and are accustomed to purchase a bottle of medicine should not let a little inconvenience interfere with making this up, or have your druggist do it for you.

A Shattered Romance

A True Story of the Secret Service

By COL. H. C. WHITLEY, Former Chief U. S. Secret Service

THE professional criminal's brain is a constantly working laboratory of the most ingenious plots for over-reaching the officers of the law. Ever awake, ever thoughful and ever active—at glaring noontide as well as at black midinight—in the brown-stone front and lowly tenement—everywhere and at every hour is this insidious enemy of social order wideawake and on the alert.

It takes an acute mind and level head to contend against and bring the ingenious criminal to the bar of justice. During our civil war counterfeiting blossomed into a fine art. It became almost omnipresent in every channel of trade and the government detectives were impotent to totally eradicate the evil, expose the plots and defeat the operations of these criminals, until some time after peace had been restored.

To meet and destroy these vampires of society it was often necessary to resort to measures of seeming wrong, that good results might be obtained. One of the most ingenious criminals that fell into the hands of the secret service division during my official career was one Thomas Brownie, the son of a man of wealth, occupying a fine residence on an aristocratic street in New York City.

Young Brownie was possessed of a handsome, refined face, slight figure, polished address and the self poise of a man thoroughly trained in the best circles. Reared under the tuition of a good and tender mother and supplied with every luxury by a kind and indulgent father, it seems quite unaccountable that he should choose to enter the society of criminals. On account of his expertness in dodging the officers of the law he gained the confidence of many of the leading counterfeiters and forgers of the country. When I first learned of him he was leading the life of a man of inexhaustible means. His extravagance in dress and living was in keeping with the man of millions. Through various sources of information it was discovered that he was handling counterfeit money in a wholesale way and that he was connected with what was then known as the Miner gang of "Coniackers."

He had for some time been cute enough to deal in the bogus stuff in a manner to baffle the skill of the government officers. On more than one occasion when the officers thought him to be almost in their grasp, he would manage to elude them and disappear from their sight. The time came when neither the subtle ingenuity of his plans nor the wealth and respectability of his family served to shield him from the hands of the officers. He was a difficult man to capture, but notwithstanding his remarkable skill and adroitness he met his match at last.

It was while at the height of his criminal glory and while he was daily strutting Broadway with the air of a man of unimpeachable character and inexhaustible wealth that evidence sufficient for his conviction had been gathered and brought to my office. I at once directed his arrest and plans were laid for his capture.

At about the same time he suddenly disappeared from his usual haunts and the officers were unable to discover his hiding place.

Whenever the officers sought him in a place where his presence had been reported they were always just a little too late. The man they were seeking had changed his location.

When next heard of he would be in some other part of the city. In the course of time he was spoken of among the detectives as a will-o'-the-wisp, as he was forever flitting about.

Two secret service officers were detailed to keep a careful watch upon his father's aristocratic mansion. For weeks, night and day, this was kept up without success. The man we were in quest of never put in an appearance there. The only persons seen to go out and in were an elderly gentleman and a young woman of fine appearance, presumably his daughter. There were also two servants, neither bearing the slightest resemblance to young Brownie.

One of the detectives employed in watching the house was a prepossessing young Italian. I will name him Louis Merito. He was well educated and of fine address. Watchful and of a nervous, sanguine temperament, he was nearly always sure of being the lucky one when sent with others to make a capture.

Late one pleasant afternoon several days after the young Italian had taken a position near the Brownie mansion, an elegantly attired young lady was seen coming down the front steps of the house, carrying a traveling bag. She entered a carriage in waiting and it rolled away at a moderate pace. Merito followed on foot and was able to keep the carriage in view. When the young lady crossed the gang plank of the steamer "Providence," then plying between New York and Fall River, Merito was close at her heels. She stepped up into the grand salon and after moving about for a few moments, beckoned to a nut-brown chambermaid. When the servant came near the young lady opened a pearl inlaid portemonnaie, and taking from it a ten dollar bill, requested her to procure a stateroom and passage ticket to the city of Boston.

A few minutes afterwards the chambermaid returned and informed the young lady that the staterooms on the boat were all engaged.

The young lady seemed greatly disappointed and said it was a sorry predicament for her to be placed in; and if the deep drawn sigh she uttered was an index of her feelings at that moment, she was not only greatly disappointed, but at a loss to know what to do.

Merito, who was near at hand, was as kind hearted as he was enterprising, and upon the impulse of the moment he pushed himself to the front and with the politest of French bows, said: "Please excuse me, young lady, I am very much pained to witness your distress, and I should be glad to assist you. If you will allow me I think I can procure you a stateroom."

In modest tones she thanked him for his kindness and confidingly offered him the ten dollar bill that had been returned to her by the chambermaid.

"Never mind the money until I know what I can do for you."

He thereupon went below. The sister, he thought, is not responsible for the sins of her brother; besides, the making of her acquaintance might give him a better opportunity for discovering the whereabouts of the man he was seeking. In his imagination he was sure that she was going to meet him.

This was his opportunity, thought he. He would ingratiate himself into the good graces of this young woman and if possible learn the whereabouts of her brother.

The oily-tongued detective had no great difficulty in securing the coveted prize. Steamboat clerks are always wise enough to reserve an extra ticket or two for special purposes.

When Merito returned to the grand salon and handed the young lady her tickets she was profuse in her thanks and expressed her deep obligation. As she held the tickets between her jeweled fingers she beamed a smile and displayed a set of pearly white teeth, encircled by a pair of ruby lips, and oh, such eyes! More sparkling even than the diamond solitaires that adorned her ears.

The detective's heart was throbbing wildly. He could scarcely contain himself. It was a case of love at first sight. The hot blood of the Italian was surging to his head. He was quite bewildered.

Collecting his scattered senses he was soon able to convince the young woman that he was a man of consequence, and that while their meeting was but casual, he was greatly delighted because of the opportunity offered to make her acquaintance.

It was late in the evening when they bade each other good night with a promise to meet again on the arrival of the steamer at Fall River in the early morning.

Merito had not only discovered that Miss Brownie was lovely and fascinating, but that she was frank, confiding and truthful. She had nothing to conceal. He had learned everything. She was a young and sensitive maiden who had courageously ventured from her father's home with the purpose of meeting a much loved but wayward brother. How, then, could he help sympathizing with her? Even though his representations in regard to himself were falsely made for the purpose of obtaining her confidence, he believed he was sufficiently shrewd to square himself with her at the proper time.

As deception is ofttimes a part of the detective's stock in trade, he thought there could be no great harm in it after all was understood. It seems that he told her the secret of his being the son of an Italian nobleman of great wealth and that he was traveling incog to gratify his curiosity.

While the story he told was wholly false, he was quite good looking enough and sufficiently genteel in appearance to bear out the statement. From what occurred it was apparent that the young woman herself was somewhat impressed and quite uncertain as to the true status of the detective.

Her story as told to Merito appeared straightforward and truthful. Her mother was dead. Her father, although in the enjoyment of a large income, the result of frugality and well-applied business transactions, was bowed down with grief and very much broken in health because of the wayward course of her darling brother. He had been led astray by evil associates and was being pursued by the government officers, who charged him with dealing in counterfeit money. To evade arrest he had forsaken his home and fled to Canada, where she was expecting to meet him.

Learning this, the detective was deeply interested, not only in the brother, but in the sister as well. Indeed, she was the most attractive person he had ever before met. To his mind she was everything that a woman should be. Wealthy, educated and affectionate, she was brave and romantic enough to venture out alone and battle the cold world for the purpose of redeeming her wayward brother. So gentle and unassuming did she appear that he was sure she had a heart overflowing with love.

As these thoughts came meandering through his brain he saw in his eagerness the opportunity of his life. He would somehow be instrumental in saving the brother and thus win the fair girl's gratitude—perhaps her love. He felt sure that he could trust to her generous heart to forgive him for deceiving her by palming himself off as the son of a nobleman.

When the couple arrived in Boston they went at once to the United States hotel, where they took breakfast together. The detective now thought Miss Brownie more fascinating than ever and at the first opportunity he threw discretion to the winds and began wooing in the most approved Italian style. Pressing his suit with an ardor more impetuous than conventional, he begged her to become his wife.

It appears that her deep sorrow, her soft words, and above all, her tears, had quite bewildered him. Real beauty in distress was too much for the warm-blooded Latin, and he surrendered unconditionally. In impassioned terms he declared his love and offered her his heart and hand.

The young woman, although seemingly overcome, was altogether too modest to accept. Somewhat taken back by this premature declaration, she was sufficiently self-poised to assure him that he was pleasing to her and that she deeply appreciated his attention. But she could not take any decisive step in so important a matter without first consulting her father. She felt that it was her first duty to save her brother. To accomplish this she was ready to sacrifice life itself.

Merito, never at a loss for a subterfuge, proposed to interest himself and secure a condonement of her brother's offense through the assistance of the Italian consul at New York. This ray of light was presented in fine Italian style and must have sounded hopeful to the ears of Miss Brownie. Her face now fairly beamed with joy as she assured him she would willingly give all she possessed in the world to effect such a result. She promised to marry him should he succeed in saving her brother from prosecution for his past offenses.

The day following this I received at my New York office a letter marked "personal," which read as follows:

"United States Hotel, Boston, Mass.

"My Dear Chief:

"I write to inform you that I arrived here this morning in company with the sister of Brownie. Through cunning I made her acquaintance and learned everything. She is on the way to meet her brother Thomas. She tells me that he intends to remain outside of the United States unless a compromise can be affected. She says he has offered to furnish information and will assist to break up the Miner gang of counterfeiters. If you will send me special authority and a guarantee that he will not be arrested I will go with his sister and coax him to come to New York. Please forward the papers to me here at once.

"Yours respectfully,

"LOUIS MERITO."

The case was an important one and required my personal attention. If a compromise could be made that would result in the conviction of such men as Miner, I was anxious to make it. I chose to superintend it myself, and the next train that left for Boston took me with it. When I arrived there on the following morning I went directly to the United States hotel, where I met a thoroughly astonished Italian. He was much surprised at my unexpected appearance.

I soon learned enough to place me in possession of the facts in the case so far as the detective was concerned. I then demanded a personal interview with Miss Brownie, which was soon arranged. After introducing me to the lady, Merito retired from the room, as had been previously agreed upon. I found myself in the presence of a tall and stately young woman, tastefully and fashionably dressed. She held in her hand a large fan which she wielded with consummate grace. I found her fully posted on the nature of my business. Inviting me to be seated, she began the conversation and explained to me her proposed trip to Montreal, where she hoped to meet her brother, Thomas Brownie. She had learned through a friend that her brother was anxious to quit counterfeiting and that he could, if given an opportunity, put the government officers in a position to arrest a number of leading counterfeiters. She did not know the particulars, but was sure that her brother would, if permitted to return to New York, render the government important service. She said that her father had nearly lost his mind on account of the action of his son and that he was ready to undergo almost any sacrifice and pay any reasonable sum of money for the purpose of saving his boy.

What she said was quite reasonable, and after questioning her for some time I had about come to the conclusion that her offer, if carried out as promised, would be a good thing for the government.

There were a number of counterfeits then on the market and I was exceedingly anxious to break up the gang by arresting its leaders and securing the plates. The Miner gang had first and last cost the government a considerable sum of money. While talking over the details of the proposed surrender I stepped to a window and raised the shade, upon which the sun suddenly shone forth, lighting up the room and casting its bright rays fully upon the face of the lady before me. Drawing my chair a little nearer and more in front of her I was enabled to look her straight in the face. My eyes resting on hers seemed to disconcert her. She blinked and turned her head. I straightened up a little and stared at her. She started to rise.

"Keep your seat," I commanded, in an authoritative tone.

At this moment I saw defiance mingled with terror in her eyes. At first I had noticed nothing in her appearance or actions to create suspicion. As was quite natural, she now seemed excited. This might have been attributed to a disturbed condition of her mind on account of the actions of her brother—a natural sequence under the circumstances. She again turned towards me and the sun shone upon her face. I at once detected the work of an artist skilled in the use of shades of paint. I noticed, too, that her hair had not the glossy appearance of natural growth. I was quite sure she was in disguise.

"Before this business goes any further," I said, "I want you to remove your false hair and wipe the paint and powder from your face."

As I arose in front of her she started up with an indignant glare and attempted to push me away. In a flash I reached for her chignon. Giving it a quick jerk, its fastenings gave way and it rolled on the carpet. There was no longer any use for concealment. Thomas Brownie stood before me. The game was up. There was no more room for dodging. He began peeling off layer after layer of his feminine apparel. When he had fully disengaged himself from his dressmaker's outfit he opened his traveling bag and proceeded to clothe himself in masculine attire.

Merito, who had during this interview remained in the hall, was now requested to come into the room. I handed him a pair of handcuffs and Brownie immediately put up his hands to receive them. He was completely done for and offered no further resistance.

In taking the trip on the steamer "Providence" and playing the part of a fascinating woman, it was not surprising that Brownie was able to dupe the detective. As a gifted impersonator he could reproduce to a nicety the tones and modulations of the detective's voice. His description and imitation of the impassioned love scene that took place between himself and Merito was very entertaining. Brownie was too crafty and gifted a criminal to run at large. He was put on trial, convicted and sentenced to the Albany penitentiary for a term of fifteen years.

Merito was so chagrined and overcome on account of his escapade with Brownie that he lost his assurance and was unable to face his fellow officers. The last I heard of him he was on the Pacific coast.

SUFFERED 30 YEARS.

But Chronic Kidney Trouble Was Finally Cured.

Charles Von Soehnen, 201 A St., Colfax, Wash., says: "For 30 years I suffered from kidney trouble and was laid up for days at a time. There was a dull ache through the small of my back and I had rheumatic pains in every joint. The kidney secretions passed too freely and I was annoyed by having to arise at night. I could not work without intense suffering. Through the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, I was practically given a new pair of kidneys. I cannot exaggerate their virtues."

Remember the name—Doan's.

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

UNKIND JOLT FROM ADAM

As If Eve Hadn't Sorrow Enough, Her Partner Had to Add to the Affliction.

Adam had just received his notice of ejectment.

He stared at it a long time in silence, while Eve, crouched in a dusky corner, softly whimpered.

Presently the father of mankind looked around.

As Eve caught his angry eye her whimper changed to a gulping sob.

"Well," he sternly said, "you've certainly put us in a fine mess with your silly curiosity! And yet when I refused to have anything to do with your apple scheme you called me a poor fool. Do you remember that you called me a poor fool?"

"Ye-es," sobbed Eve.

"Well, there's but one question I want to ask you?" said Adam.

"What is it?" gasped the first mother.

"Who's looney now?" he harshly demanded.

Then he turned away abruptly and started to pick up the family gourds and the tent poles.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Couldn't Be Thankful.

Bishop Charles W. Smith at a harvest dinner in Portland said of the harvest spirit:

"The harvest spirit is one of thankfulness, but there are some crabbed old farmers who couldn't be thankful if they tried.

"I said to such an old fellow as he conducted me over his farm on a golden autumn afternoon and showed me a record harvest:

"'Well, sir, this year, at least, you've got nothing, nothing whatever to complain of.'

"'I don't know about that, bishop,' he answered, with a shake of the head. 'I'm afraid there'll be no spoilt hay for the young calves.'"

BUSINESS IS BUSINESS.

Mr. Kicker—Your bill actually makes my blood boil.

Doctor Slick—Then, sir, I must charge you $20 more for sterilizing your system.

NEWSPAPERS TAKING IT UP

Metropolitan Dailies Giving Advice How to Check Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble.

This is a simple home recipe now being made known in all the larger cities through the newspapers. It is intended to check the many cases of Rheumatism and dread kidney trouble which have made so many cripples, invalids and weaklings of some of our brightest and strongest people.

The druggists everywhere, even in the smallest communities, have been notified to supply themselves with the ingredients, and the sufferer will have no trouble to obtain them. The prescription is as follows: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce, and Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Recent experiments in hospital cases prove this simple mixture effective in Rheumatism. Because of its positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, it compels these most vital organs to filter from the blood and system the waste impurities and uric acid which are the cause of rheumatism. It cleanses the kidneys, strengthens them and removes quickly such symptoms as backache, blood disorders, bladder weakness, frequent urination, painful scalding and discolored urine. It acts as a gentle, thorough regulator to the entire kidney structure.

Those who suffer and are accustomed to purchase a bottle of medicine should not let a little inconvenience interfere with making this up, or have your druggist do it for you.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

Entered at the Postoffice in Oakland, Md., as Second-class matter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

The Republican is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year.....$1.25
One copy six months..... .75
One copy three months..... .40

Advertising Rates made known upon Application.

Remittances may be made by Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft and addressed to

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1910.

CHRISTMAS AND THE CHILD.

Does the calendar man bring on Christmas? Not a bit of it. It is an easy guess that Santa Claus does it, but here again comes an error. Christmas brings Santa Claus, and Santa Claus, therefore, cannot bring Christmas. The twenty-fifth of December of itself means nothing. It means nothing to the Esquimaux and the Terra del Fuegans. Santa Claus does not bring Christmas, for in some lands that are not visited by him, Christmas is a joyous festival. It is no use puzzling about who brings on Christmas, when the curly headed little mischief with a twinkle in his eye, and the dimpled-cheeked little miss with wonder in her wide opened orbs, are at hand to answer the question. Who could possibly bring on Christmas but the happy-hearted and eagerly-anxious little children of the home. Christmas came with the birth of a Child, and the children deem it their festival. They are right because if there could be a vote taken in the kingdom of childhood, and it should be adverse to the celebration, nothing would be left of the festival save some church candles and seasonable prayers.

So it is that the calendar man does not make Christmas. The little hands of the little children, grasping eagerly at the mantle of Father Time, and reminding him of the beautiful holiday, bring on Christmas. Otherwise Time would forget it, and the mists of neglect would settle upon it, and the Christmas date would become only one of the monotonous days of the year. Christmas as a happy celebration abides in the heart of the ceild.

Of course, Christmas comes where there are no children, because, if in some home no prattling little ones are heard, there is yet scarcely a life that is so desolate as not to feel the warmth of the lovelight of the child at Christmastide. So the spirit of the child is everywhere, and the prattle of the voices, whether on the street, or in the shops, is the musical score of jubilation chorus of the crowning day of the year.

Only a matter of days is the time intervening now. So the Christmas date is close, and the eager beat of the child's heart sounds through the entire range of sounds that signalize the coming of the inspiring day of the days of the year. Everywhere the streets and the lanes and the roads are touched with Christmas. A cedar in the field is no longer such, it is now a Christmas tree, waiting the ax; the gobble of the turkey, the crow of the rooster, the strident notes of the guinea fowl, the cackle of geese in the barnyard, all are a part of the Christmas symphony. Hence the spirit of the holiday—not brooding, but merry and hilarious—seems to engage every sound and to enter into every landscape. Christmas coming presses its service heralds uniformed in the gray end mauve of the season, and the multi-colors of the holiday times. Christmas exaults the child and under the mandate of the little will the big people are glad to confess themselves children again.

A SANE CONCLUSION.

The editor of the Hampshire Review of West Virginia who has been mentioned as a candidate for United States Senator, make some remarks that apply to officeholders and parties everywhere, in outlining the qnalifications necessary for an acceptable and efficient Senator, in these words.

"We long since came to the conclusion, which grows stronger year by year, that the man serves his party best who serves the people best; that the best way for a party to retain power is to elect men to office, great and small, who will, by their public careers, leave a record for honesty and faithful service that the opposite party can not attack successfully. Any other course is wrong and wrong can triumph but temporarily, even in matters political."

SAYS SQUARE DEAL PAYS.

Cardinal Gibbons, in an interview on the noticeable tendency of men in charge of some big business organizations to deal in absolute fairness and honesty with the public, declared that the country would benefit greatly if the proper Christian spirit were manifested in the management of all business enterprises, great and small. He believes in publicity of the affairs of corporations.

"The confidence of the people," he said, "is necessary for the real success of any business, and the surest way to gain this confidence is to deal honestly, tell the absolute truth, hide nothing, and convince the people that they are getting a square deal.

"There is today apparent in commercial life a distressing condition, the desire to avoid payment of honest debts by various business subterfuges. Some apply for receiverships, some transfer their property to their wives, and others adopt various means to avoid payment of their debts.

"Business men should not be Christians only when they say their prayers, but all the time. Business conditions here differ greatly from those in countries where Christianity is not obscured by commercialism. Look at Oberammergau, and the people of the Tyrol Mountains, for instance. There the Christian spirit pervades all business, and all business is honest. Each man trusts his neighbor, and is trusted, and nowhere is there a happier and better people."

THE POSTAL SERVICE

No service rendered by the government directly and appreciably affects so large a proportion of the population as that of the Postoffice department and the report of its activities for the past year contains several features of unusual interest. Foremost, of course, is the splendid record for economy as shown by a reduction of $11,500,000 in the deficit, an achievement which has already been commented upon, but which deserves to be emphasized at this time. This is genuine economy, for the saving was effected not by reducing postal facilities, but by extending and improving the service. Over 1500 new postoffices were established, hundreds of new rural delivery routes benefitted dwellers remote from the centers of population and large additions were made to the army of employes. The compensation of carriers and clerks was substantially increased, a wise move in the direction of greater efficiency.

The two principal sources of loss to the government are the handling of second class mail and the rural delivery. To offset the first Postmaster General Hitchcock suggests that a distinction be made between the advertising and the reading matter in magazines, a matter that was touched upon in President Taft's recent message to Congress. In his opinion, the magazines should pay the government what it costs to transport their advertising pages, the rate of postage for the regular reading matter to remain at the present figure. If this were done, Mr. Hithcock believes one-cent letter postage will soon be feasible, owing to the added revenues from second class matter. As to the deficit caused by the rural mail service the problem is more difficult. The conditions under which it is operated preclude its becoming self-supporting, but the loss may be made up by other branches of the service. The recommendation in the report for the establishing of a parcels post will elicit approval from some quarters. This suggestion also was contained in the President's message. There is a demand in this country for some such system of cheap transportation of moderate sized packages as obtains in most other countries. The lack of such a service was emphasized recently in New York by the strike of an express company's employes.

It is evident that the Postoffice department is being conducted on sound business principles, with due regard for the adminstration's watchword of economy and a policy of progressiveness that should further extend its sphere of usefulness.

A Christmas Present That Means Something.

There is one especially good thing about a Christmas present of The Youth's Companion. It shows that the giver thought enough of you to give you something worth while.

It is easy to choose something costing a great deal more which is absolutely useless, but to choose a present costing only $1.75 that will provide a long year's entertainment, and the uplifting companionship of the wise and great, however, which does just that—The Youth's Companion.

If you want to know whether it is appropriate or welcome, just visit the home of some Companion subscriber on Companion day.

Do not choose any Christmas present until you have examined The Companion. We will send you free sample copies and the beautiful Prospectus for 1911, telling something of how The Companion has recently been enlarged and improved.

The one to whom you give the subscription will receive free all the numbers of 1910 issued after the money is received, also The Companion's Art Calendar for 1911, lithographed in twelve colors and gold. These will be sent to reach the subscriber Christmas morning, if desired.

You, too, as giver of the subscription, will receive a copy of the Calendar.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION,
144 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass.

New Subscriptions Received at this Office.

Dates for Orphans' Court.

The Orphans' Court for this county will be in session on next Tuesday, the 20th, instead of the following Tuesday. The first session of the Court in the the new year will be held on Tuesday, January 17th. This change of holding the court is made so that a session will not occur during the holiday week. All persons having business before the court are requested to observe the above dates

KEARNEY.

We are having lots of fine winter for so early. Some of our old farmers say it is to be an old time winter. Wonder if they know.

Our pastor, Rev. E. P. Idelman, preached a very interesting sermon at this place Sunday.

Mr. C. S. Thompsom spent Saturday in Davis on busitess.

Quite a lively sleighing party were at Mr. Neville's Friday night.

Emory Shillinburg spent Monday in Oakland.

Miss Nellie Harring, who has spent some time with Mrs. E. W. Kelso, returned to her home Sunday.

Paul Neville was a business caller at S. G. Steyer's one day last week.

Two of our town girls were out sleighing recently and had the misfortune of being thrown into a snowdrift. Girls do like I do, take a beau to hold the sleigh down.

Meritt Harvey claims to be the champion hunter of the season.

Xmas will bring joy to all and will also bring our boys and girls from college.

Miss Opal Shillinburg was calling on Mrs. J. B. Shockey recently.

Several of our people are helping with the Xmas program at Oak Grove.

We wish the editor and all the readers a Merry Christmas and a bright New Year. BLUE EYED TWINS

Church Services.

ST PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 2:15 p. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Epworth League Monday 7:30 p. m.
Prayermeeting Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

G. R. WILLIAMSON, Pastor.

ST. MARK S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Luther League Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

ST. MATTHEW'S P. E.

Service every Sunday at 11 a. m.
Sunday School at 2:30 p. m.

W. H. SHEARER

MT. LAKE PARK M. E.

Class meeting at 10 a. m.
Preaching 7.30 p. m.
Sunday school at 2.30 p. m.
Epworth League at 6:45 p. m.

P. Z. MUSGRAVE, Pastor.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Loch Lynn—Preaching at 11 a. m. bp Rev. Hugh L. Brooks of India.
Deer Park—Preaching at 7:30 p. m.
Everybody invited.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

First Quarterly Meeting for Deer Park M. E. Church.

Our First Quarterly meeting will be held at Deer Park Christmas, Dec. 25, by Rev. W. D. Reed, D. S. Quarterly conference will be held Monday, Dec. 26, at 10.30 a. m.

It is important for every steward, S. S. superintendent and class leader to be present with their reports as the Discipline requires.

Let all the appointments report the first quarter in full on district superintendent's and pastor's salary and report what each church is willing to do for the whole year. It is very important for all official members to be present as business of importance will demand our attention.

Come and bring your wives and families to the reception at the parsonage.

D. L. REID, Pastor.

Quail in Need of Protection.

"With the present deep snow and the hard coating of ice on top, it is very hard on the quail," said a well known farmer Saturday morning, "and everyone living in the country should help protect the birds by feeding them corn or grain at this time when their ordinary sources of sustenance are covered with snow. There are more quail this year than for many years and they should be protected. They can stand extreme cold weather all right if they have food. They are probably suffering already and farmers should scatter grain where the birds can get it."—Morgantown New Dominion.

Fifteen Train Crews Transferred.

Fifteen of the B. & O. crews were transferred Monday from the Wheeling division to the third division to assist in handling the heavy shipments of coal on that division. Not in years has the Consolidation Coal Company's eastern trade from the Fairmont field been as heavy as it is at present. There were six hundred cars of coal lying in the yards at Fairmont Monday awaiting shipment to the Atlantic seaboard. The increase of traffic on the third division is fortunate for the Wheeling railroad men, as traffic on the Wheeling division is rather dull at present.

New Roller Process for Buckwheat.

Mr. T. B. Dowman desires to inform the farmers and others of the neighborhood, that he has installed the latest and best roller process for the manufacture of buckwheat flour. He will give as good a turnout of flour as any mill in the county.

Two New Moons.

In addition to being the month of the shortest day, and the month of the greatest holiday, December this year has the distinction of having two new moons—one on the first day, Thursday, and one on the last day, Saturday, the thirty-first. The new moon of Thursday showed its thin cresent shortly after one o'clock in the morning.

Two new moons in a month are said to mean great good fortune, peace, prosperity, success and happiness to the people of the earth.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

This is to give notice that the firm of Cuppett, Leighton & Co., doing a general mercantile business in the town of Loch Lynn Heights, Md., will be dissolved by mutual consent December 31, 1910, Mr. H. N. Cuppett retiring from the business. All persons knowing themselves indebted to the firm are hereby notified to call and maked settlement on or before the above date. All accounts not settled by that date will be placed out for collection.

CUPPETT, LEIGHTON & CO.
November 29, 1910.

Gas Tractors on the Farm.

The coming into use of the gasoline engine as a source of power for a good many different uses has brought into vogue a convenient name. A good many people who use them call them "gas tractors." That the gas engine is being adopted to varied farm uses is disclosed in a narrative by Forrest Crissy, recently published in the Saturday Evening Post. The story concerns the operations on a big farm carried on through the pull obtained from two gas engines. Each of these engines was harnessed to a six-furrow engine plow, and one plow was run on a night plow being guided by acetylene light. In sixty days, through this keep-at-it system, 2,000 acres had been broken and harrowed. And following the plows another tractor was rigged with a gang of rollers, which was closely followed by a gang of wheat drills. The seeding was completed with in a week of the finish of the plowing. This 2,000 acres was later harvested by ten eight-foot harvesters, working in gangs of five, each gang being pulled by a gas tractor.

It may be said that this sort of farming is not practicable on the smaller farms of the East where a wheat acreage rarely exceeds 150 acres. But why not? One gas tractor would plow, harrow, roll and drill 150 acres within a period of two weeks. At the reaping time it would pull two harvesters and save the crop within a week. Then it would work the thresher and finally it would haul the crop quickly to market. And in the miscellaneous farming of the East, the tractor could be utilized in connection with every crop handled. On the farm referred to it is estimated that each engine does the work of at least ten horses. Would any Maryland farmer attempt to seed 2,000 acres with 20 horses? The experience on Maryland farms is that it taxes nine good horses to prepare and seed 150 acres to wheat.

About the Late Andrew Mullen.

Andrew Mullen, former county commissioner of Garrett county, who died last week at Piedmont, W. Va., where he moved some time ago, had an unusual history. He was born in Baltimore 85 years ago, four years after the arrival of his parents from Ireland. He witnessed the corner stone laying of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Mount Clare and remembered well the parade of the different trades associations, also remembered the grading of the road and laying track which was wooden sleepers on top of which was flat iron. He recalled seeing the first cars, drawn by horses, between Baltimore and Ellicott City. When seven years old he went on a farm with an uncle in Adams county, Pa., where he remained ten years. He was apprenticed to a blacksmith. He worked at his trade for five years in Baltimore, part of the time (1844 or 1845) for Ross Winans and helped to build the first six locomotives called spur wheel engines. One was known as the Elephants and another the Baldwin. He worked at the old Watchman factory and machine shop on Federal Hill, Baltimore, where they built steamboats and did marine work. Here one summer morning the the boiler exploded, killing the engineer and wrecking the building. He then went to the Relay foundry and machine shops, where also steamboat building and marine work was carried on. On May 10, 1849, Mr. Mullen left Baltimore for Bloomington, Md., going by rail to Cumberland and walking the balance of the distance of thirty miles. He opened a blacksmith shop and did work for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, which commenced to extend the line from Cumberland west. He did work on the engineering corps which surveyed the line west of Cumberland. Then Grafton had only one house. In 1853, Mr. Mullen went to Iowa with the intention of settling. The trip was beset with many hardships. From Pittsburg to St. Louis the journey was by steamboat, lasting three weeks and the fare and board was $7. He did not like the west and returned to Bloomington where in July, 1855, he opened a general store and continue in business in the same building until 1908, or 53 years. He was thrice married.

The Republican for Job Printing.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank Of Allegany County.

Stands First among the State Banks of Maryland

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entities the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and open an account with us.

JAMES M. SLOAN, President. DUNCAN R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

Capital - $50,000
DEPOSITS, - $175,000

The First National Bank
Friendsville, Md.

Surplus Fund, . $26,000
Undivided Profits 6,000

OFFICERS:

L. E. FRIEND, President,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Vice-Pres't
R. C. McCANDLISH, Vice-Pres't
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier

DIRECTORS:

L. E. FRIEND, Merchant,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Lumber and Coal
W. W. SAVAGE, Merchant,
D. S. CUSTER, Merchant,
H. M. RUMBAUGH, Farmer,
W. H. H. FRIEND, Pension Agent and Surveyor,
HORACE R. DEWITT, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCANDLISH,
JOHN T. GEARY.

THREE GOOD THINGS TO KEEP: Your Temper, Your Secrets, Your Money

Your money kept with us will earn you 4 Per Cent. Interest compounded semi-annually. Keep it here and after, while it will keep you.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank
Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays. 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. EDW. WINTERS, - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings,
W. A. Hitchens,
W. E. Stanton.

Shop by Telephone

Monday
Tuesday
Wednesday
Thursday
Friday
Saturday

Use the Bell

CHESAPEAKE & POTOMAC TELEPHONE COMPANY

D. P. DAVIS, Agent, Keyser, W. Va

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Prop'r

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars Cameras and Photo Supplies

DR. W. W. GRANT,
DENTIST.
Office, McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Bridge and Crown Work a Specialty.
Gold and Silver Fillings. 21-09-iv.

GEORGE W. LEGGE, JR.,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Practice in the Courts of Garrett and adjoining counties, and in the Maryland Court of Appeals. Associated with Thomas, J. Peddicord, First National Bank Building.

DR. LOUIS I. PREVOST,
VETERINARY SURGEON,
MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.
Office Hours in Oakland from 2 to 5 o'clock p. m

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building

DR. J. G ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice inthe Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Garrett National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Commenced business November 14, 1888.

CAPITAL, ...	$ 50,000
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, .	45,000

OFFICERS:

D. E. OFFUTT, President.

G. S. HAMILL, Vice President.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

G. A. FRALEY, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Daniel E. Offutt	Gilmor S. Hamill
John M. Davis	George W. Legge
John T. Mitchell	William R. Stull

Scott T. Jones

Interest at the rate of 3% per annum paid on Time Certificates of Deposits and Savings Accounts.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent at reasonable rates.

Only ten more days till Christmas.

Gonder's for toys and Christmas goods of every description.

Just received, a car load of Sleighs, at Naylor's. 40-3

Miss Teckla Johnson spent last Satday in Cumberland with friends.

Mr. Austin Brown went to Pittsburg Monday morning on business, returning to Oakland yesterday.

For Xmas goods, toys, candies, nuts, fruits and novelties, visit me. Xmas cards 10c dozen. Baumgartner.

Miss May McRobie, of the Garrett County Telephone exchange, spent Sunday in Keyser with friends.

Mr. D. Y. Morris, of Kingwood, arrived in Oakland Tuesday morning and will remain some time visiting relatives.

Mr. Michael Boyle returned home Tuesday from a visit of a few days to various points in West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Messrs. A. Wilson and Aquilla Sharpless, both of near Swanton, were in Oakland yesterday on business when they called at this office.

The very best Xmas present is a subscription to a good magazine. U. G. Palmer, Jr. takes subscription to all of them. Club rates the lowest.

If you want holiday goods see Gonder. Make your selection from the advertisement printed in this paper today. His stock is complete in every particular.

Mr. Fred. Townshend, who has been in Baltimore for several weeks engaged as a shipping clerk, is home for the holidays, having arrived last Friday evening.

For Xmas goods, toys, candies, nuts, fruits and novelties, visit me. Xmas cards 10c dozen. Baum [illegible]

Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound will do it. 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

Mr. D. H. Shank arrived home from lower West Virginia last Friday evening and will remain here with his family until some time during the first week of the new year.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry W. McComas accompanied by their son Carlton, who spent two weeks in Baltimore visiting relatives and friends, returned home Saturday morning.

Messrs. George A. and Benj. H. DeWitt, who have been partners for a year or two, have dissolved, the former now being sole owner of the farm located south of Oakland.

Miss Tecla Fundenburg spent last Friday in Oakland on business, returning to Cumberland where she and her mother, Mrs. E. Fundenburg, are guests of Mr. Robert Shriver.

For Xmas goods, toys, candies, nuts, fruits, and novelties, visit me. Xmas cards 10c dozen. Baumgartner.

Mr. Scott T. Jones went to Kingwood this morning whence he was summoned to give testimony concerning the value of certain land sought to be condemned by the Baltimore and Ohio Railway Company for track purposes.

Mr. G. A. Fraley went to Baltimore Monday afternoon where he is attending the meeting of the Maryland Presbytery as the representative of the local Presbyterian church. He expects to return to Oakland this morning.

It is said the present freakish styles in feminine fashion, including the hobble skirt, are to go. This is glad news for the artistic tastes which have been so cruelly tortured this season. Yet it is to be said for the Baltimore girls that they look pretty even in the skimpy gowns and the extinguisher hats, so what better tribute could be paid their beauty which even the present fashions cannot hide?

CREATE OR CRUMBLE. Every man should create a foundadion for success for old age crumbles his earning powers. A small savings account started today, NOW, will start you on the road to independence. The further you travel on this road the less you will wish to turn aside.

Make OUR Bank YOUR Bank.

We pay liberal interest consistent with safety—3 per cent.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OAKLAND, MD.

ROYAL Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

Royal is the only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

High·st in Leavening Efficiency

No Alum
No Lime Phosphate

The ladies of St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church desire in this manner to express their thanks and appreciation of the patronage accorded them at their supper and bazaar held last Thursday evening at which quite a handsome sum was realized to be applied for church purposes.

For Xmas goods, toys, candies, nuts, fruits and novelties, visit me. Xmas cards 10c dozen. Baumgartner.

The bazaar and supper held last Thursday evening by the ladies of St. Mark's church was successful far above the anticipations of those having the affair in hand. Suppers were served to hundreds representing every church in the town while fancy articles of every description were disposed of at splendid prices. The net proceeds will total a sum slightly less than $120.

Mr. C. W. Burk, of near Swanton, was in Oakland on business last Friday when he called at this office. Mr. Burk is now a full fledged resident of this county, having recently moved with his family from Cumberland to a farm he purchased from the heirs of the late J. B. Friend, which is located north of Swanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shaffer, of Pittsburg, arrived in Oakland last night and will be guests of relatives and friends for some days. Mr. Shaffer was employed as an auditor on the B. & O. until the recent order went into effect which abolished the position when he along with fifty or more others were left without positions.

A decision of the Supreme Court of the State of West Virginia, rendered one day last week, in the case of William C. and Ninian U. Bond vs. Taylor, was favorable to Messrs. Bond and gives them title to a large body of timber land located near Durbin, West Va., the value of which is estimated at more that fiue hundred thousand dollars.

The officers of the State Horticultural Department desire to inspect all nursery stock shipped into the State this fall and next spring. All persons receiving nursery stock from out-state nurseries are requested to notify the State Entomologist, College Park, Maryland. 3t

The late Democratic victories are having a subtle and insidious effect. Thus in Maine a farmer has just lost his prize hen and circumstances seem to establish a connection with the elections. She had in the course of her life laid 4,000 eggs, but after the Democratic victory she laid one egg and began to pine away, death eventually ending her triumphant career. In view of this the country should be on its guard.

Announcement comes from the headquarters of the American National Red Cross that Christmas Seals are being printed at the rate of a million a day and that already over 60,000,000 have been given out to agents in all parts of the United States. The demand for these holiday seals is greater this year than ever before. At the same time the Red Cross issues a warning calling attention of all users of Christmas Seals to the ruling of the Postoffice Department that these stickers must be placed on the backs of letters and packages. To avoid the possibility of the misuse of holiday seals, warning cards are being posted in every booth where Red Cross Seals are sold, telling that the stickers are not good for postage and and must be used only as seals.

Appointments for Deer Park Charge M. E. Church.

Following are the dates, names of churches and hours of services:

Dec. 18—Bond, 11 a. m.; Swanton, revival meeting, 7 p. m.

Dec. 25—Deer Park, 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; Armstead, 3 p. m.

Jan. 1, 1911—North Glade, 11 a. m.; Thayersville, 3 p. m.; Dodge, 7 p. m.

Jan. 8—Swanton, 11 a. m.; Wilson, 3 p. m.; Deer Park, 7 p. m.

Jan. 15—Bond, 11 a. m.; Harrison, 3 p. m.; Bond, 7 p. m.

Jan. 22—Armstead, 11 a. m.; Dodge, 3 p. m.; Deer Park, 7 p. m.

Jan. 29—North Glade, 11 a. m.; Thayerville, 3 p. m.; Deer Park, 7 p. m.

Feb. 4—Wilson, 3 p. m.

Feb. 5—Swanton, 11 a. m.; Bond, revival meeting, 7:30 p. m.

Feb. 12—Bond, 11 a. m.; Harrison, 3 p. m.; Bond, 7:30 p. m.

Feb. 19—Armstead, 11 a. m.; Dodge, 3 p. m.; Deer Park, 7:30 p. m.

Feb. 26—North Glade, 11 a. m.; Thayerville, 3. p. m.; North Glade, 7:30 p. m.

The members and friends of the church will please clip this list of appointments from the paper for reference. If any change becomes necessary at any time from the published, list it will be published the week before.

D. L. REID, Pastor.

To the Members and Friends of the M. E. Church on Deer Park Circuit

You are all cordially invited to a Christmas dinner and reception at the home of your Pastor in Deer Park, Monday, Dec. 26, from noon until 5 p. m. This notice is to take the place of an indidividual invitation and is for you. Come and get acquainted with your pastor's family and let us have a pleasant Christmas together.

The pastor and his family also desire in this way to express their thankfulness and best wishes to all the members of the church and friends who have remembered them with donations and expressions of good will and pray our Father's richest blessings on them all.

Very sincerely,
D. L. REID, Pastor.

Where

is the best place to buy

MEATS

AT

CREUTZBERG'S

Old Reliable Up-to-Date

Meat Market

WITHOUT A DOUBT.

HOMER E. TURNEY,
Proprietor.

P. S. I pay the highest CASH market price for beef, pork, veal, mutton and lamb.

NOTICE!

TO THE

PUBLIC.

I have moved my

MEAT MARKET

INTO THE

Nally Building,

where I will conduct an up-to-date meat market.

Beef, Veal, Lamb, Mutton and Pork.

I wish a share of your patronage and thanking you for past favors, I am

Yours respectfully,

H. McC. SMOUSE.

The Up-To-Date Meat Market.

Stockholders' Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Garrett County Telephone Co., will be held at Hoyes, Md., on the

2nd Day of January, 1911,

at the hour of 10.30 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year and any other business that may come up at that time.

C. V. GUARD, Secretary.

ESTABLISHED 1884.

Need not be connected to waterworks, the same water can be used over and over again to operate

HOT WATER AND STEAM SYSTEMS.

Only a few gallons need to be added during a season

Automatically operated, safe and very durable.

A. D. NAYLOR & CO.

PRICES RIGHT. BOTH PHONES.

H. CREUTZBURG.

SEE MY FALL LINE OF

Dress Goods, Outing Flannels, Etc.

Ladies', Children's, Men's and Boys' Shoes.

Rain Coats for Ladies and Children. Rubber Boots & Shoes.

Full Line of MEN'S AND BOYS CLOTHING.

See my Special Pure Wool $10.00 Black Thibet Suits for Men

Boys Suits $2.50 and up.

Hand-Made Wisconsin Shoes for Men and Boys.

Full Line Groceries,

Meat Market in Connection,

ALL AT THE RIGHT PRICE.

H. CREUTZBURG, Opp. P. O., Oakland, Md.

Pay Market Price for Produce.

Christmas Gifts.

Why not a pair of Shoes or a suit of Clothing for the boy a Christmas Gift? If they don't fit you can exchange after Christmas. We have several thousand pairs of Shoes and stacks of Clothing and Overcoats here waiting for you and we are giving 30% discount on Overcoats.

We can handle a lot of nice dressed TURKEYS at 21 cents, one-half cash, 22 cents trade, and the highest market prices for other poultry. Must be delivered on Tuesday or Wednesday.

BOLDEN, BROWN & WEIMER.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular meeting of the stockholders of the Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may come before them.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

from 1 to 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may be brought before them.

R. E. SLIGER, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Kitzmillerville, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

from 1 to 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of electing a board of Directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may be brought before them.

E. J. HAMILL, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

Pursuant to the required legal notice a meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Friendsville, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

at 10 o'clock A. M. for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business that may lawfully be done.

NORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier.

The MAN in LOWER TEN

by MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

AUTHOR of THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT by BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

Lawrence Blakeley, lawyer, goes to Pittsburg with the forged notes in the Bronson case to take the deposition of the chief witness for the prosecution, John Gilmore, a millionaire. In the latter's house the lawyer is attracted by the picture of a girl, whom Gilmore explains is his granddaughter, Alison Weat. He says her father is a rascal and a friend of the forger.

CHAPTER II.

A Torn Telegram.

I lunched alone at the Gilmore house, and went back to the city at once. The sun had lifted the mists, and a fresh summer wind had cleared away the smoke pall. The boulevard was full of cars flying countryward for the Saturday half-holiday, toward golf and tennis, green fields and babbling girls. I gritted my teeth and thought of McKnight at Richmond. And then, for the first time, I associated John Gilmore's granddaughter with the "West" that McKnight had irritably flung at me.

I still carried my traveling bag, for McKnight's vision at the window of the empty house had not been without effect. I did not transfer the notes to my pocket, and, if I had, it would not have altered the situation later. Only the other day McKnight put this very thing up to me.

"I warned you," he reminded me. "I told you there were queer things coming, and to be on your guard. You ought to have taken your revolver."

"It would have been of exactly as much use as a bucket of snow in—Africa," I retorted. "If I had never closed my eyes, or if I had kept my finger on the trigger of a six-shooter (which is novelesque for revolver), the result would have been the same. And the next time you want a little excitement with every variety of thrill thrown in, I can put you by way of it. You begin by getting the wrong berth in a Pullman car, and end—"

"Oh, I know how it ends," he finished shortly. "Don't you suppose the whole thing's written on my spinal marrow?"

But I am wandering again. That is the difficulty with the unprofessional story-teller: He yaws back and forth and can't keep in the wind; he drops his characters overboard when he hasn't any further use for them and drowns them; he forgets the coffee pot and the frying pan and all the other small essentials, and, if he carries a love affair, he mutters a fervent "Allah be praised" when he lands them, drenched with adventures, at the matrimonial dock at the end of the final chapter.

I put in a thoroughly unsatisfactory afternoon. Time dragged eternally. I dropped into a summer vaudeville, and bought some ties at a haberdasher's. I was bored but unexpectant; I had no premonition of what was to come. Nothing unusual had ever happened to me; friends of mine had sometimes sailed the high seas of adventure or skirted the coasts of chance, but all of the shipwrecks had occurred after a woman passenger had been taken on. "Ergo," I had always said "no women!" I repeated it to myself that evening almost savagely, when I found my thoughts straying back to the picture of John Gilmore's granddaughter. I even argued as I ate my solitary dinner at a downtown restaurant.

"Haven't you troubles enough," I reflected, "without looking for more? Hasn't Bad News gone lame, with a matinee race booked for next week? Otherwise aren't you comfortable? Isn't your house in order? Do you want to sell a pony in order to have the library done over in mission or the drawing room in gold? Do you want somebody to count the empty cigarette boxes lying around every morning?"

Lay it to the long idle afternoon, to the new environment, to anything you like, but I began to think that perhaps I did. I was confoundedly lonely. For the first time in my life its even course began to waver. The needle registered warning marks on the matrimonial seismograph, lines vague enough, but lines.

My alligator bag lay at my feet, still locked. While I waited for my coffee I leaned back and surveyed the people incuriously. There were the usual couples intent on each other; my new state of mind made me regard them with tolerance. But at the next table, where a man and woman dined together, a different atmosphere prevailed. My attention was first caught by the woman's face. She had been speaking earnestly across the table, her profile turned to me. I had noticed casually her earnest manner, her somber clothes, and the great mass of odd, bronze-colored hair on her neck. But suddenly she glanced toward me and the utter hopelessness—almost tragedy—of her expression struck me with a shock. She half closed her eyes and drew a long breath, then she turned again to the man across the table.

Neither one was eating. He sat low in his chair, his chin on his chest, ugly folds of thick flesh protruding over his collar. He was probably 50, bald grotesque, sullen, and yet not without a suggestion of power. But he had been drinking; as I looked, he raised an unsteady hand and summoned a waiter with a wine list.

The young woman bent across the table and spoke again quickly. She had unconsciously raised her voice. Not beautiful, in her earnestness and stress she rather interested me. I had an idle inclination to advise the waiter to remove the bottled temptation from the table. I wonder what would have happened if I had? Suppose Harrington had not been intoxicated when he entered the Pullman car Ontario that night!

For they were about to make a journey, I gathered, and the young woman wished to go alone. I drank three cups of coffee, which accounted for my wakefulness later, and shamelessly watched the tableau before me. The woman's protest evidently went for nothing; across the table the man grunted monosyllabic replies and grew more and more lowering and sullen. Once, during a brief unexpected pianissimo in the music, her voice came to me sharply:

"If I could only see him in time!" she was saying. "Oh, it's terrible!"

In spite of my interest I would have forgotten the whole incident at once, erased it from my mind as one does the inessentials and clutterings of memory, had I not met them again, later that evening, in the Pennsylvania station. The situation between them had not visibly altered: The same dogged determination showed in the man's face, but the young woman—daughter or wife? I wondered—had drawn down her veil and I could only suspect what white misery lay beneath.

I bought my berth after waiting in "Which Will You Have, Lower Ten or Eleven?"

a line of some eight or ten people. When, step by step, I had almost reached the window, a tall woman whom I had not noticed before spoke to me from my elbow. She had a ticket and money in her hand.

"Will you try to get me a lower when you buy yours?" she asked. "I have traveled for three nights in uppers."

I consented, of course; beyond that I hardly noticed the woman. I had a vague impression of height and a certain amount of stateliness, but the crowd was pushing behind me, and some one was standing on my foot. I got two lowers easily, and, turning with the change and berths, held out the tickets.

"Which will you have?" I asked. "Lower 11 or lower 10?"

"It makes no difference," she said. "Thank you very much indeed."

At random I gave her lower 11, and called a porter to help her with her luggage. I followed them leisurely to the train shed, and ten minutes more saw us under way.

I looked into my car, but it presented the peculiarly unattractive appearance common to sleepers. The berths were made up; the center aisle was a path between walls of dingy, breeze-repelling curtains, while the two seats at each end of the car were piled high with suit cases and umbrellas. The perspiring porter was trying to be in six places at once; somebody has said that Pullman porters are black so they won't show the dirt, but they certainly show the heat.

Nine-fifteen was an outrageous hour to go to bed, especially since I sleep little or not at all on the train, so I made my way to the smoker and passed the time until nearly 11 with cigarettes and a magazine.

The car was very close. It was a warm night, and before turning in I stood a short time in the vestibule. The train had been stopping at frequent intervals, and, finding the brakeman there, I asked the trouble.

It seemed that there was a hot-box on the next car, and that not only were we late, but we were delaying the second section, just behind. I was beginning to feel pleasantly drowsy, and the air was growing cooler as we got into the mountains. I said good-night to the brakeman and went back to my berth. To my surprise, lower ten was already occupied—a suit case projected from beneath, a pair of shoes stood on the floor, and from behind the curtains came the heavy, unmistakable breathing of deep sleep. I hunted out the porter and together we investigated.

"Are you asleep, sir?" asked the porter, leaning over deferentially. No answer forthcoming, he opened the curtains and looked in. Yes, the intruder was asleep—very much asleep—and an overwhelming odor of whisky proclaimed that he would probably remain asleep until morning. I was irritated. The car was full, and I was not disposed to take an upper in order to allow this drunken interloper to sleep comfortably in my berth.

"You'll have to get out of this," I said, shaking him angrily. But he merely grunted and turned over. As he did so, I saw his features for the first time. It was the quarrelsome man of the restaurant.

I was less disposed than ever to relinquish my claim, but the porter, after a little quiet investigation, offered a solution of the difficulty. "There's no one in lower nine," he suggested, pulling open the curtains just across. "It's likely nine's his berth, and he's made a mistake, owing to his condition. You'd better take nine, sir."

I did, with a firm resolution that if nine's rightful owner turned up later I should be just as unwakable as the man opposite. I undressed leisurely, making sure of the safety of the forged notes, and placing my grip as before between myself and the window.

Being a man of systematic habits, I arranged my clothes carefully, puting my shoes out for the porter to polish, and stowing my collar and scarf in the little hammock swung for the purpose.

At last, with my pillows so arranged that I could see out comfortably, and with the unhygienic-looking blanket turned back—I have always a distrust of those much-used affairs—I prepared to wait gradually for sleep.

But sleep did not visit me. The train came to frequent, grating stops, and I surmised the hot box again. I am not a nervous man, but there was something chilling in the thought of the second section pounding along behind us. Once, as I was dozing, our locomotive whistled a shrill warning "You keep back where you belong," it screamed to my drowsy ears, and from somewhere behind came a chastened "All-right-I-will."

I grew more and more wide-awake. At Cresson I got up on my elbow and blinked out at the station lights. Some passengers boarded the train there and I heard a woman's low tones, a southern voice, rich and full. Then quiet again. Every nerve was tense. Time passed, perhaps ten minutes, possibly half an hour. Then, without the slightest warning, as the train rounded a curve, a heavy body was thrown into my berth. The incident, trivial as it seemed, was startling in its suddenness, for although my ears were painfully strained and awake, I had heard no step outside. The next instant the curtain hung limp again; still without a sound, my disturber had slipped away into the gloom and darkness. In a frenzy of wakefulness I sat up, drew on a pair of slippers and fumbled for my bath robe.

From a berth across, probably lower ten, came that particularly aggravating snore which begins lightly, delicately, faintly soprano, goes down the scale a note with every breath, and after keeping the listener tense with expectation, ends with an explosion that tears the very air. I was more and more irritable: I sat on the edge of the berth and hoped the snorer would choke to death.

He had considerable vitality, however; he withstood one shock after another and survived to start again with new vigor. In desperation I found some cigarettes and one match, piled my blankets over my grip, and drawing the curtains together as though the berth were still occupied, I made my way to the vestibule of the car.

I was not clad for dress parade. Is it because the male is so restricted to gloom in his every-day attire that he blossoms into gaudy colors in his pajamas and dressing gowns? It would take a Turk to feel at home before an audience in my red and yellow bath robe, a Christmas remembrance from Mrs. Klopton, with slippers to match.

So, naturally, when I saw a feminine figure on the platform, my first instinct was to dodge. The woman, however, was quicker than I; she gave me a startled glance, wheeled and disappeared, with a flash of two bronze colored braids, into the next car.

Cigarette box in one hand, matches in the other, I leaned against the uncertain frame of the door and gazed after her vanished figure. The mountain air flapped my bath robe around my bare ankles, my one match burned to the end and went out, and still I stared. For I had seen on her expressive face a haunting look that was horror, nothing less. Heaven knows I am not psychological. Emotions have to be written large before I can read them. But a woman in trouble always appeals to me, and this woman was more than that. She was in deadly fear.

If I had not been afraid of being ridiculous, I would have followed her. But I fancied that the apparition of a man in a red and yellow bath robe, with an unkempt thatch of hair, walking up to her and assuring her that he would protect her would probably put her into hysterics. I had done that once before, when burglars had tried to break into the house, and had startled the parlor maid into bed for a week. So I tried to assure myself that I had imagined the lady's distress—or caused it, perhaps—and to dismiss her from my mind. Perhaps she was merely anxious about the unpleasant gentleman of the restaurant. I thought smugly that I could have told her all about him: That he was sleeping the sleep of the just and the intoxicated in a berth that ought, by all that was fair and right, to have been mine, and that if I were tied to a man who snored like that I should have him anaesthetized and soft pal ate put where it would never again flap like a loose sail in the wind.

We passed Harrisburg as I stood there. It was starlight, and the great crests of the Alleghanies had given way to low hills. At intervals we passed smudges of gray white, no doubt in daytime comfortable farms, which McKnight says is a good way of putting it, the farms being a lot more comfortable than the people on them.

I was growing drowsy; the woman with the bronze hair and the horrified face was fading in retrospect. It was colder, too, and I turned with a shiver to go in.

As I did so, a bit of paper fluttered into the air and settled on my sleeve, like a butterfly on a gorgeous red and yellow blossom. I picked it up curiously and glanced at it. It was part of a telegram that had been torn into bits.

There were only parts of four words on the scrap, but it left me puzzled and thoughtful. It read: "—ower ten car seve—" "Lower ten, car seven," was my berth—the one I had bought and found pre-empted.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Farmer Boy Presidents.

Prof. W. J. Spillman declares that the farms have furnished this country with 92 per cent. of its presidents, 91 per cent. of its governors, 83 per cent. of its cabinet officers, 70 per cent. of its senators, 64 per cent. of its congressmen and 55 per cent. of its railroad presidents.

The Chinese Day.

The Chinese divide the day in 12 parts. Each part is distinct in itself and is of two hours' duration.

SANITATION IN SCHOOLS

Physical Health and Strength Are Essential to a Vigorous Mind.

Keeping the skin in good condition is so important to the general health that it should receive especial attention at school. The school lavatory as well as the home bathroom, should be furnished with Resinol Soap, because it removes the germ-laden dust of the playground and street atmosphere better than anything else. It prevents the advent of contagious skin troubles and keeps the complexion fresh, rosy and smooth as that of youth should be. No child should be hampered or disfigured with skin eruptions when a few applications of Resinol Ointment will cure them. Eczema, Acne, Rashes, Sores, Pimples and blotches are quickly cured with this easily applied remedy, and it should be kept in every home so that it can be used at the first appearance of skin troubles.

Students who shave will find the Resinol Medicated Shaving Stick the best. It is highly recommended by physicians and skin specialists to keep the face free from pimples and eruptions. Its soothing, healing lather counteracts any irritation or tenderness from shaving too close. Resinol Soap and Ointment can be obtained wherever the best toilet articles are sold.

Booklet on "Care of the Skin and Complexion" sent free. Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

SIMPLY A WASTE OF MONEY

Old Sexton Had His Time Mapped Out, and There Was No Need of a Clock.

There had been some talk of placing a clock in the tower of the village church. But John, the old sexton, who lived in the little cottage opposite the church, declared himself "dead agin it," and expressed the opinion that it would mean "an awful waste o' brass" were the scheme carried out.

"We want no clocks," he said the other day. "We've done without clocks up to now, an' we shall manage. Why, lyin' i' my bed of a mornin' I can see the time by the sundial over the porch."

"Yes," replied one who approved of the scheme, "that's all right so far as it goes. But the sun doesn't shine every morning. What do you do then?"

"Why," answered John, surprisedly "I knows then as it ain't fit weather to be out o' bed, an' I just stops where I is."—Tit-Bits.

TOUGH LUCK, INDEED.

Nurse—Hivins! The baby swallowed a bottle of ink an' not a bit of blotting paper in th' house!

END STOMACH TROUBLE NOW

Dyspepsia, Gas, Sourness or Indigestion Go Five Minutes After Taking a Little Diapepsin.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating, and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure indigestion.

A large case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents at any drug store here in town, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at your drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort, all of any kind of food you eat.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure any chronic case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Gastritis or any other Stomach trouble.

Should you at this moment be suffering from Indigestion, Gas, Sourness or any stomach disorder, you can surely get relief within five minutes.

Somebody's Darling.

"Don't speak so harshly to that little printer's devil."

"Why not?"

"He is somebody's angel child."

Getting a Supply.

"Whut did you do 'bout dat man who was standin' on de curbstone callin' you names?" asked Mrs. Miami Brown.

"I th'owed a lump o' coal at 'im," replied Mr. Erastus Pinkley.

"What did he do?"

"He stayed right dar, hopin' I'd make it a bucketful."

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

Some men marry for money and some women for alimony.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

A true friend is a link of gold in the chain of life.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman.

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MOLDAN, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

Why Rent a Farm and be compelled to pay to your landlord most of your hard-earned profits? Own your own farm. Secure a Free Homestead in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, or purchase land in one of these districts and bank a profit of $10.00 or $12.00 an acre every year.

Land purchased 3 years ago at $10.00 an acre has recently changed hands at $25.00 an acre. The crops grown on these lands warrant the advance. You can by cattle raising, dairying, mixed farming and grain growing in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Become Rich

Free homestead and pre-emption areas, as well as land held by railway and land companies, will provide homes for millions.

Adaptable soil, healthful climate, splendid schools and churches, good railways.

For settlers' rates, descriptive literature "Last Best West," how to reach the country and other particulars, write to Supt of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to the Canadian Government Agent.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT AGENT
Gardner Building Toledo, Ohio
(Use address nearest you.) 28

For Headaches

Caused by sick stomach, ill-regulated bile, sluggish bowels, nervous strain or overwork, the safest and surest remedy is

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Sold Everywhere. In boxes 10c. and 25c.

ASTHMA CURED TO STAY CURED

No relapse. No return of choking spells or other asthmatic symptoms. Whetzel system of treatment approved by best U. S. medical authorities as the only system known to permanently cure the disease. FREE TEST TREATMENT including medicines, prepared for any one giving a full description of the case and sending names of 2 asthmatic sufferers. Address FRANK WHETZEL, M.D. Dept. Z, American Express Building, Chicago.

PATENT your invention. Free preliminary search. Booklet free. MILO B. STEVENS & CO., Estab 1864, 815 14th St., Washington; 300 Dearborn St., Chicago.

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books Free. Highest references. Best results.

AGENTS WANTED FOR AN ARTICLE which sells at sight. No talking, customers waiting for it. American Specialty Co., Polk, Pa.

REMEMBER PISO'S for COUGHS & COLDS

Smart Turbans

BY JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

THE influence of Oriental ideas is more evident in our millinery styles than for many a year. The dressier turbans for evening wear appear to be pieces of rich fabric draped about the head and fastened with gorgeous looking ornaments of mock jewels. Gold and silver tissue and jeweled bands are used in these.

For day wear turbans made on larger frames show crowns in handsome fabrics, such as heavy brocades, tapestries and gold or silver tissues. Tinsel nets are draped over silk nets or lace. Nothing is more popular for the brims or "coronets" than bands of fur. This is, in fact, the furriest of seasons. Fur bands appear about the bottoms of handsome gowns for street or visiting and on the flimiest of fabrics for evening wear. Lace hats with collars of rich fur and hats of all descriptions share with the gowns the smart touch of fur.

For less expensive millinery the turban of velvet is the most effective that can be chosen. In order to get best results, a good quality of plain velvet is selected or one of the "panne" velvets in good colorings. The latter are a little less expensive than good quality in plain velvets.

Fancy feathers and wings are chosen for their decoration.

It takes about a yard and a half of velvet to make a turban. Rows of parallel shirrings confine the velvet to the frame, which may be either of wire or of buckram. A soft crown should be supported by a lining of crinoline.

Fabric hats are much in evidence. Silks, satins, velvets, brocades, tapestries, figured ribbons and colors of various descriptions, all are cast in the play for winter millinery, but velvet holds sway in the star part.

BARGAINS IN CHEAP STUFF

Few Deft Touches Will Frequently Give Garment an Entirely Different Appearance.

Often you will see real bargains in frocks and blouses on the ready-made counter. Do not give one look at the cheap lace or trimming, or at the way the seams are finished, and throw it back. Buy your bargain, take it home and redeem and regenerate it.

Cheap lace can be replaced by good; dainty tulle or net frills can take the place of cheap ruffles; seams can be restitched and coarse embroidery worked over by hand. If the material and the cut justify your buying the garment at all, you can give it an individual touch that will raise the value of your bargain 75 per cent.

And even where there is nothing noticeably cheap or common about the garment, try to give those little extra touches; then you will be in no danger of meeting your new gown on another woman at the next street corner.

USEFUL DRESSING JACKET.

Of cream flannel, finished at the edges with blanket stitch in old rose silk, and threaded with satin ribbon in same shade. This is a very easy pattern for the home dressmaker.

Improving a Blouse.

The most economical and satisfactory way of obtaining a hand-embroidered shirtwaist is to purchase a ready-made waist with machine embroidered design and work over the embroidery by hand, thus saving stamping, padding and making the waist. A blouse embroidered in this way will deceive the most expert needlewoman.

TWO PRETTY HOLIDAY GIFTS

Slipper Case or Sewing Bag Both a Welcome and Serviceable Present.

A slipper case and a sewing bag are delightful holiday gifts, which are easily made and very useful to the receiver. They may be made from any stray pieces of bright-colored silk, linen, chintz, satin, denim or, in fact, any material of that kind; or, if desired, the slipper case may be developed in pink-flowered cretonne bound with dark-green braid.

The loosely gathered sewing bag has an outside flap, which contains the needle book, and a pretty fancy is to embroider the owner's initials on the outside of the flap. Fancy brass rings are sewed to the upper edge, through which is run the ribbon which regulates the fullness about the top, and is used to hang it up by.

The slipper case, which is divided into compartments and stiffened by means of cardboard interlining, requires seven-eighths yard of material 22 inches wide or five-eighths yard 36 inches wide; either with 2¾ yards of tape to bind and two hangers. The sewing bag needs 1½ yards 22 or more inches wide, with 2½ yards of braid and seven rings.

Chenille Caps.

Parisian women have taken with enthusiasm to the new knitted caps of chenille, mostly in red and other bright colors, very flat, and untrimmed. These are warm, light and pretty, and will be much worn this winter for skating, etc., and as traveling caps. The idea originated with a little girl who sold dolls' caps of this sort at the Paris races.

Men Like Simplicity of Fare.

How many well-meaning housewives make the mistake in their over-zealous hospitality to furnish men guests with elaborate dishes, when simple, well-prepared foods would please the men so much more! Any hostess who will bear this fact in mind will not only save trouble, expense and time, but will also please her masculine guests to a greater extent.

Sash for Slender Figure.

The slender woman who cannot wear the too narrow girdle should try the sash with the "pump" or obi bow, worn in front, its folds arranged in perfectly flat loops and the whole of stiff, wide ribbon. The effect is most becoming and very easy to wear, besides extremely fashionable.

To Save Trouble.

From garments that have been laid aside, cut the strip containing the buttonholes, leaving enough material to turn under. Use this strip as a "fly" to new garments, thereby saving both time and labor.

The KITCHEN CABINET

WE BELIEVE that economy does not mean spending a small amount, but in getting the largest returns for the money expended.

The Winter Berry.

The rosy winter berry is now in abundance in our markets. There are many attractive ways of serving them. For the plain stewed cranberry, wash them and cut once in half, adding a pint of water to a quart of berries. When about half cooked add two cupfuls of sugar and finish cooking.

Spiced cranberries are nice served with game, and are prepared as any fruit for spicing. Wash a quart of the berries and a half cup of water. In a small bag tie a dozen cloves, 12 allspice, two sticks of cinnamon and several blades of mace. Put the bag into the cranberries and water and stew all together until the fruit is well broken. Remove the spice bag, run the berries through a colander, add two cups of sugar (brown), stir until dissolved and set away to get cold.

Cranberry Pudding.—Pour boiling water on one pint of bread crumbs; melt one tablespoonful of butter and add to the crumbs. Add two well-beaten eggs, one pint of stewed cranberries and sweeten to taste. Bake in a buttered dish until firm. Serve with an egg sauce, which is made by beating one egg until light. Add a half cup of sugar and a cup of hot milk; flavor with lemon or vanilla.

Cranberry and Apple Pie.—Peel, core and slice five large cooking apples, put a layer in the bottom of the pie plate, sprinkle with sugar and put in a layer of cranberries, then more apples and berries until the dish is full. Moisten with water, cover with a rich crust, brush over with the beaten white of an egg. Bake the pie for an hour in a moderate oven.

Cranberry Dumplings.—Bake a paste of half a pound of chopped suet rubbed into a pound of flour; add a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a teaspoonful of sugar and sufficient water to make paste to roll out. Line a buttered baking dish with it, fill with uncooked cranberries well sweetened, cover wit ha crust, cover with buttered paper and steam gently for two hours.

Cranberry Tart.—To one quart of berries add a pint of sugar and a pint of water; simmer gently until soft. Put through a colander and turn out to become cold. Line a pie plate with puff paste, fill with the cranberries and lay strips of paste across the top. Bake in a hot oven.

WHAT ever the weather may be, says he—
What ever the weather may be,
It's the songs ye sing, and the smiles ye wear,
That's a makin' the sun shine everywhere.

Ways of Serving Game.

A prairie chicken is especially good roasted with a dusting of sage besides the salt and pepper.

Ducks are sometimes stuffed with apples pared and cored and cut in quarters. Others like three small onions used for stuffing. Neither of these are to be served with the ducks, but are removed before serving. Another favorite stuffing is a bunch of celery. Bake 20 minutes in a very hot oven, basting every five minutes with the fat in the pan. Remove the string and skewers before taking to the table. Serve with orange or olive sauce. Currant jelly should accompany a duck course.

Tough ducks are steamed an hour and then braised. To braise, try out two slices of fat salt pork, remove the scraps and add to the fat five slices of carrot cut in cubes, one-half of a sliced onion, two sprigs of parsley, one bay leaf, then cook ten minutes; add two tablespoonfuls of butter, and fry the duck, turning often until the surface is well browned. Place on a trivet in a pan, pour over the fat and add two cups of boiling water or soup or stock. Cover and bake in slow oven until tender, basting often and adding more water if needed.

To broil a quail, allow ten minutes for cooking. Serve on slices of lemon. Currant jelly should accompany this course.

Larded Grouse.—Clean and, if tough, remove the skin covering the breast. Lard the breast with slices of salt pork and insert two lardoons in each leg. Lay on a trivet in a shallow pan, rub with salt and melted butter, dredge with flour and surround with the trimmings of the fat. Bake twenty to thirty minutes in a hot oven, basting three times. Arrange on a platter and pour around bread sauce, sprinkle the bird and sauce with coarse bread crumbs. Garnish with parsley.

Bread Sauce.—Cook two cups of milk with half a cup of fine bread crumbs and an onion stuck with six cloves, 30 minutes. Remove the onion, add a half teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of cayenne and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Use a tablespoonful of butter on the crumbs that have been browned and are sprinkled over the grouse.

Roast quail are baked the same as larded grouse. Plover is broiled or roasted the same as quail.

Nellie Maxwell.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

DRINK BILL OF BIG CITIES

Over $41,000,000 Paid for License Fees in United States—Wide Extent of Traffic.

A report recently issued from Washington shows an enormous drink bill for the great cities of the United States, where the liquor traffic maintains its firmest hold. Over forty-one million dollars is paid in the large cities of the United States for license fees. The extent to which the drinking men help to pay the expense of government in these cities is indicated by a census report covering the finances of the country for the year 1908 in the cities having a population of 30,000 or more. There were, at that time, 158 of such cities, but the complete figures were available for only 151 of them, and these figures showed that in those cities the licensed drinking places paid an aggregate of $41,950,188. This was an increase of almost $3,000,000 over the preceding year and of about $11,000,000 over the year 1905. The increase was due to the large fees exacted by most of the cities. While licenses decreased, the license fees were increased to more than cover the difference.

Of the drinking places sanctioned by law there are no fewer than 67,131, and this is a decrease within three years of about 4,000. The falling off was due largely to the fact that a number of cities went "dry." Of the 158 places, 24 had become "no license" cities when the canvass was made. The change was most marked in the South Atlantic states, and least in the Rocky mountain region.

The states claiming the largest number of saloons to the population were Texas, Wisconsin and New York, while Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Nebraska claimed the smallest number in proportion to the people to be supplied. Galveston had one licensed bar to every 138 of her people, Milwaukee one to every 141 and Hoboken one to every 175. In Philadelphia, the freest of large cities, there was only one drinking place to every 758 persons. Lincoln, Neb., had one to every 2,038.

Liquor licenses and taxes formed more than 13 per cent. of the general revenue in the cities of Ohio and more than ten per cent. in the cities of California. New York city received $7,927,200, Chicago $7,252,687 and Philadelphia 1,969,590 from this source. The only other cities deriving more than $1,000,000 from liquor licenses were St. Louis, Boston, Cleveland, San Francisco and Cincinnati.

BAN ON ALCOHOL IN TURKEY

Importation of Wines and Beers Containing More Than Certain Amount is Barred.

The Turkish government has prohibited the importation of wines and beers containing more than a certain proportion of alcohol, and the importation, manufacture and consumption of all beverages containing alcohol not made from grape or grape products. Only at two or three special ports on the Mediterranen is the importation of alcohol for scientific purposes permitted and special plants for the operation of de-naturing it are there located and are under strict official regulation.

The total abstinence from alcoholic drink enjoined upon Mohammedans is rocked in the principles of religion. Mahomet is said to have been led to put the prohibition of intoxicants in the Koran by an incident which occurred to himself. Passing through a village one day, he was delighted at the merriment of a crowd of persons enjoying themselves with drinking at a wedding party; but being obliged to return by the same way the next morning, he was shocked to see the ground drenched with blood. Asking the cause, he was told that the company, having drunk to excess, fell to quarrelling, and slaughtered one another. From that time his mind was made up; the mandate went forth from Allah that no child of the faithful should touch wine on pain of being shut out from the joys of Paradise. The simple truth was, of course, that Mahomet foresaw there would be no stability to the religion and empire he was building up if the use of ardent spirits was permitted to his followers.

Temperance Teaching.

As a result of communicating with several education authorities, the British Women's Temperance association find, from over a hundred replies, that temperance is more or less taught in the elementary schools of England and Wales. In about 50 cases the temperance syllabus of the board of education has either been adopted or rflecommended, and in about 30 others temperance is being taught in conection with hygiene. Seven of the big centers have sent replies—London, Leeds, Birmingham, Bristol, Liverpool, Manchester and Newcastle. It is not, however, considered that the answers are typical of the country as a whole. More than 200 local authorities have not replied. It is not improbable that the association will approach teachers on the subject.

The Army of Constipation

Is Growing Smaller Every Day.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are responsible—they not only give relief—they permanently cure Constipation. Millions use them for Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Sallow Skin.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

Important News
FUR DEALERS and TRAPPERS

SEND FURS and SKINS direct to MEN who KNOW their value. We save you money, because we KNOW the Fur Market, and pay highest prices on liberal assortments. Price list especially arranged for your Territory. It is YOURS for the asking. Convince YOURSELF by making us a trial shipment.

We pay all expressage, charge no commissions, and remit promptly.

LEOPOLD GASSNER FUR CO.
34 East 12th St., New York City
Capitalized at $250,000.00

$3 PER 1000 UPWARD PAID DISTRIBUTING Booklets, Samples, etc. No canvassing, send 6c stamps, secure price list paid and territory. ADVETRISERS GUIDE, Lebanon, N. H.

PATENT your ideas. 64-page book and advice FREE. Established 1865. Fitzgerald & Co. Box B, Washington, D.C.

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 49-1910.

2 CRUISES AROUND THE WORLD

TWO GRAND CRUISES of about three and one-half months' duration each. The first to leave New York Nov. 1, 1911, and the second from San Francisco Feb. 17, 1912, by the large transatlantic steamer

"Cleveland" Rates From $650 Up

Including All Expenses
Also Cruises to the WEST INDIES, the ORIENT and SOUTH AMERICA
Write for Illustrated Booklets
HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE, 41-45 Broadway, New York. P. O. Box 1767

SOUR STOMACH

"I used Cascarets and feel like a new man. I have been a sufferer from dyspepsia and sour stomach for the last two years. I have been taking medicine and other drugs, but could find no relief only for a short time. I will recommend Cascarets to my friends as the only thing for indigestion and sour stomach and to keep the bowels in good condition. They are very nice to eat."

Harry Stuckley, Mauch Chunk, Pa.

Pleasant, Palatable, Potent, Taste Good, Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back. 926

KNOWN SINCE 1835 AS RELIABLE
PLANTEN'S TRADE MARK
C & C OR BLACK CAPSULES
SUPERIOR REMEDY FOR MEN ETC ETC
AT DRUGGISTS 25 TRIAL BOX BY MAIL 50c
P. PLANTEN 95 HENRY ST. BROOKLYN N.Y.

Farms Wanted for sale or rent; also town lots and homes. Clients prepared to buy. Send particulars and lowest prices. Ferguson National Realty Co. 505 Fifth Ave., New York.

For DISTEMPER Pink Eye, Epizootic Shipping Fever & Catarrhal Fever

Sure cure and positive preventive, no matter how horses at any stage are infected or exposed. Liquid, given on the tongue, acts on the Blood and Glands, expels the poisonous germs from the body. Cures Distemper in Dogs and Sheep and Cholera in Poultry. Largest selling live stock remedy. Cures La Grippe among human beings and is a fine Kidney remedy. 50c and $1 a bottle, $5 and $10 a dozen. Cut this out. Keep it. Show to your druggist, who will get it for you. Free Booklet, "Distemper, Causes and Cures." Special Agents wanted.

SPOHN'S DISTEMPER CURE

SPOHN MEDICAL CO., Chemists and Bacteriologists GOSHEN, IND., U. S. A.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3 $3.50 & $4 SHOES FOR MEN & WOMEN
BOYS' SHOES, $2.00, $2.50 & $3.00. BEST IN THE WORLD.

The benefits of free hides, which apply principally to sole leather, and the reduced tariff on sole leathers, now enables me to give the wearer more value for his money, better and longer wearing $3, $3.50 and $4 shoes than I could give previous to the tariff revision.

DO you realize that my shoes have been the standard for over 30 years, that I make and sell more $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes than any other manufacturer in the U.S., and that Dollar for Dollar, I Guarantee My Shoes to hold their shape, look and fit better, and wear longer than any other $3.00, $3.50 or $4.00 shoes you can buy? Quality has made my shoes The Leaders of the World.

You will be pleased when you buy my shoes because of the fit and appearance, and when it comes time for you to purchase another pair, you will be more than pleased because the last ones wore so well, and gave you so much comfort.

W. L. Douglas President W. L. Douglas Shoe Co.

CAUTION! None genuine without W. L. Douglas name and price stamped on the bottom. If your dealer cannot supply you with W. L. Douglas Shoes, write for Mail Order Catalog.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE

W. L. DOUGLAS, 145 Spark St., Brockton, Mass.

Auction Sale, by the U. S. Government, of Indian Lands in Oklahoma

Beginning November 21, 1910, and Continuing Until March 1, 1911, There Will Be Offered for Sale at Public Auction by the Government

About 2,000,000 Acres

of Indian Lands in Oklahoma. Much of this is high-grade farming land and is especially adapted to the growing of wheat, corn, cotton, vegetables and fruits. The climate is ideal, with an abundance of rain, insuring a crop each year. Why suffer from cold six months a year when you can enjoy outdoor life the year around in Oklahoma, and on a small investment speedily become independent?

Homeseekers' tickets at special rates on sale 1st and 3rd Tuesdays of each month from all principal points. For full particulars regarding the sales and how to get there cheaply and comfortably, write to

A. HILTON, General Passenger Agent
FRISCO LINES
1537 Frisco Building ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI

Net Income $3,000
From 28 Acres of California Land

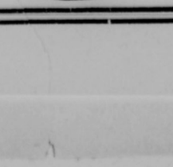
The original price per acre was $40. Planted to peaches, plums, grapes and pears it yields $3,000 a year net, and would be cheap at $500 an acre.

This is only one example of what has been done in a climate that draws tourists from all over the world.

Union Pacific
Southern Pacific
Standard Route of the West

Electric Block Signals

For further facts and accurate information about California call on or address



GERRIT FORT, P. T. M.
U. P. R. R., 871 Farnam St.
OMAHA, NEB.

(458)

W. A. GONDER'S
SANTA CLAUS ANNEX

Not having sufficient floor space in the Ravenscroft Building for the purpose of exhibiting my Holiday Goods, I have secured a room in

The Nalley Building, opp. the Postoffice, Oakland,

AND STOCKED IT WITH THE LARGEST LINE OF

CHRISTMAS GOODS

IN WESTERN MARYLAND.

LOOK AT THIS ARRAY OF GOODS:

Dolls.
Dressed 10c to $10.00
China 1c to 25c
Bisque 10c to $1.00
Esquimo 10c to $1.00
Washable 25c to $2.00
Kid 25c to $2.00
Unbreakable 10c to $2.50
Rubber 10c to $1.00
Rag 5c to 50c

Doll Carriages.
English Go-Carts 75c to $5.00.
Wood Go-Carts, 25c to $2.00.

Doll Beds.
Cradles, Swings, Furniture, 25c to $3.00.

Imported Wood Horses
And Carts 10c to $2.00

Air Rifles and Pop Guns
25c and $2.00.

Humpty-Dumpty,
The Famous Shoenhut Boy's Toy 50c to $2.00

Wright's Model Air Ship,
The new mechanical toy, will afford great amusement, 25c to $1.50.

Toy Doll Trunks.
Every little girl will want one, 25c to $2.00.

Toy Doll Houses,
50c to $2.00.

Teddy Bears,
Domestic and imported, 25c to $5.00.

Toy Pianos.
A most enjoyable present 25c to $10.00.

Tea Sets,
China, Tin and Pewter, 10c to $3.00.

Printing Press and Outfit,
25c to $4.00.

Drums,
Of all sizes, 25c to $2.00.

Iron Toys.
Horses, Wagons, Engines Cars, Boats, Automobiles, Fire Department, 5c to $2.00.

Baby Rattles,
Gum, Wood, Celluloid and Cloth Bound Tin, 5c to 50c.

Paint Boxes,
Water Color, 10c to $2.00.

Work Boxes
and Sewing Cabinet sets, 10c to $2.00

Toy Sewing Machines.
Will delight the children, $1.00 to $3.00.

Toy Irons.
Tin Stoves and Ranges, 15c to $2.00.

Friction Toys.
Practicable, Unbreakable Automobiles, Police Patrol Street Cars, Fire Department, Locomotives, Boats and War Ships, 25 to $1.50

Steam Engines,
American Make, 25c to $4.00.

Electric Motors.
Will Please the Boys, $1.00 to $2.00.

Alphabet Blocks,
Embossed, 5c to 50c.

Picture Blocks,
Nested, 5c to 75c.

Cube Blocks,
Imported, 10c to 75c.

Building Blocks,
Invisible Wagon, 25c to $2.00.

Stone Blocks,
Richter Famous Cement, 25c to $2.00.

Toy Banks.
Give your boy a Bank and teach him to save his money; all kinds, 5c to $1.50.

Mechanical Steam Trains
and Track, 75c to $10.00.

Mechanical Toys,
Imported and Domestic, too numerous to mention at prices ranging from 50c to $5.00.

Toy China Sets.
Bound to please the little ones; an endless variety 25c to 75c.

Toy Furniture.
Tables, Writing Desks, Blackboards, 10c to $.100.

Toy Sets.
Pastry and Laundry Sets and Sad Irons; just what your daughter wants, 10c to $1.00.

Plush Animals.
Cats, Dogs, Rabbits, Sheep for indoor amusement, 5c to 75c.

False Faces,
Funny Surprise Boxes, 10c to 50c.

Musical Instruments.
Horns, Clarionets, German Flutes, Trumpets, Auto Horns, Fog Horns, Cornets and Whistles, 5c to $1.00.

Moving Picture Machines.
Magic Lanterns and Protoscope Reflectors, 50c to $6.00.

Sleds for Girls and Boys.
Clipper, Fast Flyer, High Grade Steel Yankee Jumper, High Sleds for Girls, 25c to $3.00.
Plush Upholstered Push Sleds, $1.25 to $4.00.

Popular Flexible Flyer,
The Sled for the older Boys and Girls, Kriss Kringle's best selection, $1.50 to $4.00.

Velocipedes.
All Kinds, $1.50 to $4.00.

Balls.
Rubber, Cloth, Celluloid, and Return Balls, 5c to 75c.

Decorations & Ornaments
Xmas Tree Ornaments and Decorations, an immense variety, 1c to 25c

Christmas Cards
and Booklets, 1c to 25c.

Wagons,
Wheelbarrows and Carts of every description, 10c to $5.00.

Tool Chests and Small Carpenter's Sets
10c to $3.00
Will make any boy happy.

Rocking Horses.
Swinging gallop horses, and Shoo Fly.
50c to $6.00.
Give the Little Tot one.

Games.
Checkers, Dominoes, Flinch, Authors, Five Hundred, Lotto, Old Maid, Base Ball, Parchesi, Home from the Jungle, North Pole and a number of others.
5c to $3.00.
You will make no mistake in looking over this stock.

There are, of course, a great many things which you may want to buy for gifts which are not mentioned on this page. Come and see what we have. You will be delighted. We have tried to give a representative list, but this store fairly teems with hundreds of articles, any of which would make an enjoyable present.

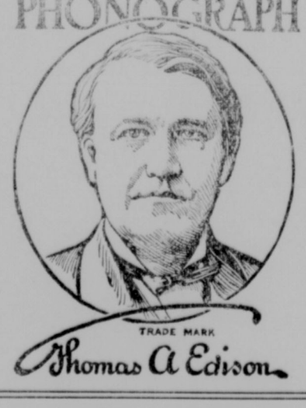
PIPES. PIPES.
Always appreciated by father, son or brother, or a friend. Merschaum Amber and Briar.
5c to $15. Special prices on Cigars, Stogies, Cigarettes by the box. 57 varities Smoking Tobacco.

Fancy Box Candies.
Whitmans, Huylers, Lowneys, Appolio and Headley's. 25c to $5 a box.
Loose Candies and Nuts, of all kinds. Specially selected by Santa Claus for this season.

Books $500 Stock Books.
Padded Leather Poems and Classics, Holly gift books, red letter Bibles and Testaments, Family Bibles, Teachers' Bibles, Sunday School Scholar's Bibles, Reference Bibles, Henty, Alger, and Optie Books for Boys, Little Purdy, Carey, and Mead series for girls. High Art Gift Books by Gibson and others, Latest Popular Copyright Novel, Histories, A B C books, Children's Fairy Tales, Books of every description. 5c to $5.00.

Fancy Toilet, Manicure and Military Sets
Silver, Gold and Ebony. Leather Collar and Cuff Boxes, Shaving Sets, Jewel and Trinklet Boxes, Fancy Hankerchief and Glove Boxes, Photograph Albums, Post Card Albums, Fancy Box Paper, and a number of other articles suitable for presents.
25c to $2.00.

THE EDISON PHONOGRAPH



No Home Complete
Without a Phonograph

Edison, Victor, Columbia,

$10.00 to $250.00.

Machines Sold on Easy Payments.

Entire List Of Edison Records Always in Stock

No matter which you choose, and each instrument has its own merits, you're not taking any risk when you buy it here.

GONDER'S
SANTA CLAUS ANNEX
NALLEY BUILDING

TAX SALES
OF VALUABLE
Real Estate
IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title, "Garrett County," sub-title "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

SATURDAY,

the 17th Day of December, 1910,

AT THE HOUR OF 10 O'CLOCK, A.M.,

at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, towit:

No. 1—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SEVEN, THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-EIGHT AND THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-NINE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, the same being a part of the Caledonia Land of the American Coal Company of Allegany county which are fully described in a deed for the same from Joseph E. Gray, and others, trustees, to Semi-Bituminous George's Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county, which deed bears date the 28th day of December, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 78, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 11 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Semi-Bituminous George's Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany counny.

No. 2—All that piece or parcel of land containing FIVE AND ONE-EIGHTH ACRES, being a part of Military Lot No. 360, which is fully described in a deed for the same from Isaac Davis and wife to John W. Boyce, bearing date the 24th day of May, 19 6, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 350, one of the Land Records of Garrett county. Said land is located in District No. 13 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as charged on the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of John W. Boyce's estate.

No. 4—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS FOUR HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SEVEN AND FOUR HUNDRED AND THIRTY-ONE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, and fully described in a deed for the same from McCulloh Coal Company to Upper Potomac Mining Co. of Garrett county, bearing date the 25th day of November, 1902, and being of record in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 500, one of the Land Records of Garrett county. Said property is located in Election District No. 13 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1908 and also for the taxes due and in arrear upon the capital stock of said Upper Potomac Mining Company of Garrett county for said year 1908 as charged upon the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of said Upper Potomac Mining Company of Garrett county.

No. 6—ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND CONTAINING ONE ACRE, adjacent to the town of Gorman, and fully described in a deed for the same from Mary Lewis and Joseph Lewis to Mary L. Ward and Jennie Wagner, bearing date the 17th day of May, 1894, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 24, folio 339, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1908 and 1909 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in names of the said Mary L. Ward and Jennie Wagner.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest there on at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

W. E. HOLLINGER,
Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

All who owe 1909 tax will please make payment on or before December 20th, 1910, or property will be advertised for sale without further notice.

ORDER NISI.

Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, vs William A. Harvey and Benjamin E. Harvey.

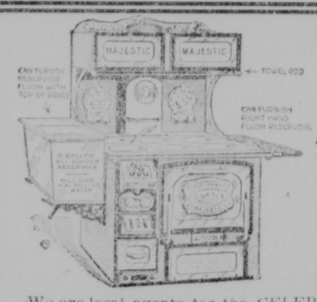
No. 1705 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Ordered, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting as a court of equity, this 26th day of November, 1910, that the sales made and reported in the above cause by Edward H Sincell, Trustee, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 30th day of December, 1910; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 23rd day of December, 1910.

The report states the amount of sales to be $85.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.



MAJESTIC RANGES
For Coal or Wood

HONEST GOODS.
HONEST PRICES.

We are local agents for the CELERRATED MAJESTIC RANGES—the Ranges with a national reputation. Nothing better is made in the stove line. Goods which are cheap, but not good, are dear at any price.

Why you should have a Great and Grand Majestic Range in your Kitchen—

It cuts the fuel bill in half because it is riveted air-tight, HOLDS the heat where it belongs, and has the proper arrangement of flues.
It is used by your neighbor, who would have no other.
It browns bread all over just alike without turning.
Has large warming closets with the right kind of doors. The only warming closets that you can clean.
It is made in any size and style desired.
It is made of better and heavier material than any other.
It is the only range in the world made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron.
It costs a little more, but lasts much longer.
It is the only range made that has a ventilated ash pit.

S. LAWTON & SONS, Oakland, Md.

THE GREATEST SALE OF
Gas Stoves, Heaters
AND TINWARE
In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting
A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett Co., Md., deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 11th day of April, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

CLEAVER H POOL

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

GERTRUDE E. POOL,
Administratrix,
Kitzmiller, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County Marylany, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

FREAKLIN SUTER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the day 11th of May, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

LUCINDA SUTER,
Administratrix,
Hoyes Md.

Notice to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Garrett County, Md., has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

AGNES R. A. M. WHITTINGTON,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 11th day of May, 1910, they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 10th day of November, 1910.

W. H. FREDLOCK,
Administrator,
Piedmont W. Va.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters testamentary on the estate of

SARAH MOSSER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 24th day of May, 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 22nd day of November, 1910.

SAMUEL A. MILLER,
Administrator,
Accident, Md.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Ravenscroft Building, Second St.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, Investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.
Prompt attention given all calls day or night.
Garrett County Telephone. 24-1yr.

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

Auditor's Notice.

Henry N. Mitchell et al., vs. Fred. Mitchell et. al.
No. 1555 Equity.
In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Pursuant to an order of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in equity, passed in the above entitled cause, referring the papers and proceedings in the above cause to the undersigned Auditor for the purpose of stating an account distributing the funds in the trustee's hands and for other purposes stated in said order, notice is hereby given, that Tuesday, the 27th day of December, 1910, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., at office in Oakland, Maryland, I will proceed to state said account and perform my duty in the premises.

EDWARD H. SINCELL, Auditor.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., Dec. 15, 1910.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, Jan. 2nd, 1910,

to appoint Road Supervisors and Constables and transact general routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

The Maryland Agricultural College
COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND.
Maryland's School of Technology
Fifty-fourth year begins Sept. 15.
Entrance examinations 13, 14.

Eight courses of Instruction leading to professional degree of B. S.
Agricultural, Horticultural, General, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Biological and Chemical.

The College has a close association with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. College students are permitted to visit the Experiment Farms at Arlington and Beltsville and thus secure an additional equipment for their professional career.

The demand of the age is for men for life's activities. Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all departments. Graduates qualified to enter at once upon life's work. Boarding department supplied with all modern improvements. Bath room, steam heat, electric lights. Location unsurpassed for health.

Tuition, books, heat, light, laundry, board, medical attention, annual deposit, chemical and athletic fees all included in the annual charge of $60.00 per quarter, payable in advance.

Sanitorium for issolation of contagious disease, resident physician and trained nurse in attendance.

Catalog giving full particulars on application. Attention is called to the Two Years Courses in Agriculture and Horticulture. Failure to report promptly means loss of opportunity to student.

Early application necessary for admittance. Write for particulars.

R. W. SYLVESTER, President.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 34. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1910. NUMBER 43

TRYING TO READ GOVERNOR'S MIND

Democrats Want to Know Whether He Has Designs on a Second Term.

Many Democrats are occupied these days in an effort to read Governor Crothers' mind, to ascertain how far he has laid plans for the future and what those plans are. Men who know the Governor best know that his is not an idle mind, that he generally has a basketful of ideas on his arm, either going to or coming from market. It is not assumed, therefore, that the Governor is loitering on the eve of an important campaign in the city and state.

One thing may be said in behalf of the Governor. He is not wholly selfish in his aims. He is more often actuated by a desire to keep his party than he is to keep himself, knowing full well that party success is essential to his individual success. Nor is he constantly plotting to overthrow the organization of his party. He may do some things which the organization leaders may not like, but he never strikes at the vitals of his party, and when he does something, as, for instance, the appointment of Mr. Roger W. Cull as a temporary police commissioner, he has a purpose in view, and that purpose, according to his understanding, is to strengthen the organization. Others may not see his object. Like the boy and the girl kissing behind the door, he and the other fellow may know what they are doing, but nobody else does. His appointments viewed as a whole demonstrate that he has hewn his chips pretty close within the organization.

There is a lurking suspicion in the minds of many Democrats that the Governor is nursing a future political ambition, possibly a renominations for governor next year. His plans in this direction may be better fathomed after his completion of the trial of the Police Commissioners. He may think that he can lay bare such a situation here in the city that certain elements in the population may demand his renomination and will not be content to accept the candidacy of any other Democrat.

There is one thing certain. The Governor has placed his party in an unenviable plight by poking his big stick at the Police Department in this city. If he goes ahead with the trial, and that is believed to be his plan, and if he convicts the commissioners he will make thousands of Democrats fighting mad. If he should suddenly change his mind and abandon the charge against the commissioners he will be a disappointment to those Democrats upon whom party ties rest lightly. If the trial takes place as arranged and if the Governor, who will be prosecutor and judge, should acquit the commissioners on charges, but administer a repriman and a threat, he would, perhaps, satisfy more elements in the community than if he pursued any other course. In considering the charges formulated against the commissioners the fact must not be overlooked that the Governor has heard only one side of the case, that the commissioners were denied an opportunity to present testimony in rebuttal. Their chance will come with their trial. Of course, there is the constant possibility of interposition by the courts. In fact, there is the possibility that months may elapse before the courts finally dispose of the affair and indicate to the Goverjust what his powers are in the premises. It is possible, so lawyers say, for the commissioners, if they so desire, to resort to injunction preceedings, when summoned to trial, on the grounds of insufficiency and invalidity of the charges.

Still an interested public, and especially an interested Democratic public, would like to know how the Governor proposes to handle the trial and to what extent, if any, he will employ it for political purposes.

The Governor is on record as declaring that he will not again be a candidate for a political office. This declaration, however, is not an injunction which shuts him out from pursuing an ambition to succeed himself or to be a candidate for any office. Such declarations of officeholders are not seriously taken and do not generally mean the burning of bridges. While their sponsors were sincere when they uttered them, there may arise, and frequently there do arise, conditions which make them obsolete.

On March 9 of last year the Governor gave utterance to the following declaration:

When I complete my term as governor I will step down and out of public office and will never hold another. My mind is irrevocably made up as to this. I am not "in the hands of my friends," and there is no string attached to my decision. I simply have made up my mind that no matter what the situation may be when my term ends, I will not be a candidate for renomination, nor will I accept it. It may be that I would not have the chance, but in any event I would not accept it.

So far as the reason is concerned, it is simply that I do not want another term. The one term as governor will give me all the honor and all the public office I want it will satisfy me for the rest of my life. I will never hold another office.

It is not that the office of governor is not a high and honorable one, in creditably filling which any man is justified in taking pride, but the fact is that I do not want it again, and even if the situation, when my term expires, is such that I could be renominated and reelected, I have made up my mind, beyond any possibility of a change, that I will not again be a candidate.

Having determined this for myself sometime ago, it leaves me free to go ahead being Governor for this term without any thought of political consequences to myself. It, therefore, makes little difference to me whether some people think that I am playing politics or not in the lines of policy for the state administration upon which I have been proceeding, if the things for which this administration stands can be permanently established, it is a matter of indifference to me what motive is ascribed to me.

Governor, he was asked, will it be possiule for your friends to change your determination at the end of your term?

It will not, was the reply. I have said that in this matter I am not "in the hands of my friends." I have decided it for myself; so far as I am concerned, there is an end of it. There would be nothing for me in having the governorship a second time. I would get no more honor out of two terms than I get out of one, and no man can be governor of this state and do his whole duty without feeling the strain. There are so many things to be done that some of them must be neglected, and the strain of keeping up with them all is a severe one.

How about the United States senatorship? he was asked. Would not that tempt you?

It would not, said the Governor, emphatically. I have no idea of ever being a candidate for the United States Senate. It is a high and dignified office, but I have no aspirations in that direction, and when I say I have made up my mind that this is the last public office I will hold, I mean it.—Baltimore American.

FRIENDSVILLE.

Last week's weather was the most severe often met with. On Thursday the wind was blowing a hurricane, and Saturday morning the thermometer registered six below zero at C. V. Guard's.

Harold McCollough and wife are visiting relatives here a present.

Earl Dean, of McKeesport, Pa., is visiting here.

Miss Maria McCollough returned from college on Saturday and will spend the Christmas holidays with her parents.

The parents and relatives of the late G. M. Friend take this means of thanking all for their kindness during their bereavement and time of sorrow.

Harvey Speicher again had had some fine horses shipped from New York and brought to Friendsville on Thursday last. There were five beauties in all.

The stork came to the home of Orval Jenkins and wife last week and left a fine little baby.

Ray McCollough and wife, of Damascus, are visiting here.

Jesse Frazee has taken a position as teamster for C. V. Guard.

Several of our citizen have taken advantage of the ice and are filling their ice houses.

August Neil is discharging the duties of assistant at the railroad depot while Amster Friend is sick.

Harry Rumbaugh, the county assessor, is home for a visit.

Thursday last the body of George M. Friend was brought home and the funeral was held on Friday, at his parents' home at 2 o'clock p. m., the Reverends D. A. Friend and Powers officiating. A male quartette, of which the deceased had been a member, rendering several appropriate hymns. The flowers were many and beautiful, presented by friends and a wreath by the local lodge Knight of Pythias. Numbers of people came to the services, but were unable to enter the house, which was crowded. After the services at the house the casket was taken outside and everybody had an opportunity to bid farewell to one that all had liked so well when living. The Knights of Pythias then took charge and the procession started for the cemetery as follows: First the Master of Arms and Master of Work, followed by the officiating brothers and local lodge and members of the Uniform Rank, then six flower girls, carrying the flowers, and six pall bearers, who were officers and members of the Uniform Ranks, followed by the hearse, and the family and relatives. At the grave the beautiful ceremony of the order was rendered in a touching manner and a hymn by the quartette concluding the services. George M. Friend was thirty-two years of age, and was a young man that had always a host of friends for to know kim was to love him. He was a member of the local lodge K. of P. and an officer in the Uniform Rank up to time of his death. He was a member of the Methodist church of Friendsville and when home was always in the choir. He leaves a father and mother, two sisters and three brothers to mourn his loss.

TWO AUSTRIANS KILLED; THREE SERIOUSLY INJURED

Tuesday Nfght By Being Run Down By Freight Train on Grade.

The great number of fatalities attending the building of the third track up the Seventeen-Mile Grade from West Virginia Junction to Swanton, which has been under way for several months past, was added to Tuesday evening when two Austrians were instantly killed and three of their countrymen were so seriously injured that slight hopes are entertained for their recovery.

The men had stopped work a few minutes prior to the accident and were on their way to their bunkhouse located near Thirty-Eight water station, between Swanton and Frankville, when an eastbound freight train passed them on the south track and another train westbound was passing upon the north track. The men were walking upon the middle track and did not know that a second train from the east was approaching until it was upon them. Two of the men were hurled beneath the wheels of the eastbound train and instantly killed, while three others were knocked clear of all three tracks, but so badly injured that they can hardly recover.

Two of the injured men and also the bodies of their dead countrymen were brought to Oakland, the injured ones being taken to the office of Dr. McComas, the Company's physician, who upon examining their injuries discovered that the back of one was broken and the skull of the other fractured. Later they were taken to the Keyser hospital, to which place the third one had previously been sent by the railway officials. The bodies of the dead men were taken to the undertaking establishment of Messrs. Bolden, Brown & Weimer, where they were prepared for burial, which occurred this morning with interment in the Catholic cemetery.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mr. Earl Enlow is at home for the holidays.

Quarterly meeting Sunday morning when Superintendent Reed will preach and administer communion.

The Mr. Upton, spoken of in our letter last week as having unloaded a car of lime, should have been Mr. Upton Cuppett.

Christmas services will be held in the Baptist church Friday evening, in the M. E. church Saturday evening and in the U. B. church Sunday evening.

Prof. Frank E. Rathbun arrived at his home in Loch Lynn Heights yesterday afternoon from Piedmont, W. Va., where he has been quite ill for upwards of two months suffering with a mastoid tumor.

Miss Cora Weimer is assisting Bolden, Brown & Weimer during the holiday trade.

Our ice harvest is still delayed on account of the heavy covering of snow on the ice.

The holiday trade at our stores has been unusually large.

Mr. H. N. Cuppett, who will retire from the firm of Cuppett, Leighton & Co., Jan. 1st, 1911, will conduct his farm about one mile south of Loch Lynn, for one year at least.

Erysipelas developed in the wounded limb of P. T. Lipscomb a few days ago, but no serious results are feared.

Messrs. P. T. Garthright and Cuppett, Leighton & Co., are filling their cold storages with ice from the lake.

Three of the past seven mornings the thermometer registered here below zero, one morning going down to 17 degrees below.

The Blessings of Toys.

God bless the man who invented toys. They give fourfold pleasure. First to the workers who make them, for can they not see the eager eyes of Christmas morn even while they work? Next, the parents who buy them, for what is jollier than to go through the gorgeous aisles in one's capacity as the home Santa Claus and choose the very things that will raise whoops of delight on Christmas? Then, on Christmas morn, the delight of the children in the things themselves and the delight of the parents in the children's delight. Not to mention the fairy days of looking into windows, studying the Yule-tide in children's faces, and recalling one's own exaltation as the long ago Christmases came into view. Yes, God bless the man who invented toys!

Subscribe for The Republican.

AN "OLD TIME" WINTER.

The "Oldest Inhabitant" Does not Remember Such a "Spell of Weather."

In conversation with several "oldest inhabitants" recently they were unamiously of the opinion that the present winter is of the "old time" variety—that is when winter started it hung on with bulldog tenacity until spring came with its warm sunshine and made it "loosen up."

The present "spell of weather" started in on Nov. 10, two days after the great Democratic victory, ordered presumably, by the weather man to celebrate the event, and it is still celebrating, but, thanks to the weather bureau the Democrats have to suffer as well as the Prohibitionists, Socialists, various varieties of political adherents—and Republicans. One grain of comfort is held out, however, that being that the "spell" can't last always. It may through the winter, but when the gladsome spring comes the ice, icicles, icy hearts and other forms of congealization will have melted and the earth and all its people will take on that pleasant look and feeling.

But to get back to first principles: Snow fell on November 10; also on November 11; likewise on the 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th. It was with us on the 16th, flying fine and beautifully. In fact it has been flying every day since November 10th, not excepting Sundays and legal holidays, but with it all it has been a pleasant "spell," if one doesn't mind zero weather occasionally, such as last Friday morning when thermometers registered degress of chilliness varying from two below to 14 below according to the location of said thermometers and the word of their owners, no affidavits having been filed as to the accuracy of the machines or the truthfulness of the various possessors. Suffice to say, however, it was c-o-l-d; sizzling c-o-l-d; c-o-l-d enough for the "oldest inhabitant" when he reviewed the winters of half a century or more ago.

This morning the snow measures on the level eleven and 1-16th inches, in drifts from three feet to fifteen or eighteen, and the thermometer at seven o'clock registered 4 degrees below.

HAUSER.

Miss Dora Hauser has been quite ill for several days, but is reported better.

Mrs. Rob't Lathum has been reported on the sick list, but is able to be about at present.

Miss Bertha Nicholson visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Roth, last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Lem Reed has undertaken to help Mr. Floyd Shaffer cut timber preparatory to moving a saw mill on to his place.

Messrs. Floyd Artis, Harry Fowler and DeCoursey Roth shoveled snow last Friday so we could read our letters. Mr. Bowers does not appreciate the snow as much as he anticipated. He recently tried to get symphathy by upsetting himself into the snow, but he was seen performing, and it is not thought he will attempt upsetting himself again. Nevertheless his regularity during the last two weeks has made him more popular than ever.

The Eyes and Ears desire to acknowledge to THE REPUBLICAN and its very regular correspondents that we had observed the weather very closely every day, but we refrain from writing knews that everyone no doubt already knows.

Mrs. Mary Enlow, after visiting for some time in this vicinity, returned home last week.

Mr. John Martin and son Elmer were Thomas visitors last Thursday.

The Preston Railway Co. has been having considerable difficulty in keeping the track open for traffic.

Mr. D. O. Roth recently filled the coal house at the school house with sufficient fuel to last some time.

Rev. Ernest Hauser will preach at the Gnegy church next Sunday, Dec. 25. Every one invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey A. Roth spent last Sunday with Mr. Roth's brother, Mr. Alfred Roth, at Dobbin, W. Va.

Christmas is almost here, a time of the year we all watch for. It is a good time for you to send THE REPUBLICAN to your relatives who are away from home. A more appropriate present could not be thought of, and it would be highly prized.

A meeting was held at Eglon last Tuesday, Dec. 13, to make plans for a new mill at that place. We understand a stock company will be organized and a new mill will be built in the near future. It is a good enterprise and doubtless all citizens will materially aid in promoting the enterprise.

Mrs. Will Hahn, of Breedlove, is visiting her mother and sister, who are sick, near Crellin, at this writing.

Miss Gertie Sisler is reported much better at this writing.

Mr. Wm. Devers visited Oakland Monday of this week.

Master Harry Enlow is reported ill at the present time.

Rev. Wade, of Eglon, preached his second sermon at the Red House last Sunday. Sunday school here was postponed until Sunday afternoon. This community turned out a goodly number and were repaid by the excellent sermon.

Mrs. Seymore Hampstead is reported ill at the present writing.

THE DEATH RECORD.

PHILIP HANSEL.

Mr. Philip Hansel, a prominent and well known farmer of Garrett county, near Lonaconing, died suddenly on Wednesday afternoon, shortly after five o'clock, from a stroke of paralysis. He was ill only a few hours.

Mr. Hansel, who had reached the age of 73 years, had lived in Garrett county all his life and was widely known and highly respected all through that section. He is survived by his second wife, who was a sister to his first wife, and by several children as follows: Mr. David Hansel, Mrs. Fred Otto, Mrs. Hugh Weir, Mrs. James Weir and Mrs. John Meese, all residents of Garrett county.

The funeral was held last Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in the Hansel cemetery, on the home property.

DAVID C. SHAFFER.

David C. Shaffer, aged sixty-five years, died at his home near Pleasant Valley church, Garrett county, Monday night, December 12th, of a complication of diseases with which he suffered several weeks. The deceased gentleman recently purchased and moved upon the Albert Smouse farm from his former home near Terra Alta. He was a member of the M. E. church and died in the faith of that denomination. He leaves surviving him his widow and three daughters and one son, namely, Mrs. Lesta Hixson, who resides on the farm; Mrs. Lona Kalbaugh, and Mrs. Verna Staley, of Terra Alta, and Dr. E. W. Shaffer, of Mount Storm, W. Va. The funeral of Mr. Shaffer occurred from the Pleasant Valley U. B. church last Wednesday and was conducted by Rev. Bauman of that denomination, with interment in the Pleasant Valley cemetery. The relatives of Mr. Shaffer have the deepest sympathy of all who know them.

Card of Thanks.

We hereby sincerely extend our heartfelt thanks to all the people of the surrounding community for their kindness and help during the sickness and death of our dear husband and father.

MRS. DAVID SHAFFER and FAMILY.

The Republican for Job Printing.

COAL MINING IN MARYLAND IN 1910

Statistics Given by the U. S. Geological Survey Show Loss in Production.

According to statistics compiled by the United States Geological Survey and the Bureau of Census, in co-operation, Maryland's production of coal, which fell from 5,533,628 short tons in 1907 to 4,377,093 short tons in 1908, a loss of 1,125,235 tons, showed a further decresae to 4,022,181 tons in 1909. The loss in 1908 was 20.9 per cent., in 1909 it was 8 per cent. The decrease in value each year has been larger in proportion than the decrease in production. In 1907 the value was $6,623,697, decreasing in 1908 22.8 per cent., to $5,116,753, and in 1909 12.6 per cent., to $4,470,565. The average price per ton has declined from $1.20 in 1907 to $1.17 in 1908 and $1.11 in 1909, the average for 1909 being the lowest since 1905.

The decreased production of coal in Maryland during the last two years appears to have been due to the approaching exhaustion of the "Maryland big vein," the portion of the Pittsburg bed that has furnished the larger part of the Maryland output, which is popularly known as George's Creek coal. In a few years the thinner and deeper beds will be furnishing the markets formerly supplied by the "big vein" coal, but these beds will be mined at a greater cost and their product must be sold at a higher price or at less profit. In the aggregate, however, the quantity of coal that may be won from these thinner beds far exceeds the original contents of the celebrated "big vein." Increased competition with West Virginia coal, particularly that coming from the fields opened up by the new Virginian Railway, is regarded as the chief cause of the decline in the price of Maryland coal in 1908 and 1909.

The statistics of coal production for 1909 have been collected by the United States Geological Survey in co-operation with the Bureau of Census, and the compilation of replies to the numerous and detailed inquiries—contained in the general census schedule has delayed the publication of the statistics far beyond the time at which the Geological Survey usually presents them to the public. The thorough nature of the work done, however, has made the statistical results exceptionally complete and very trustworthy.

Body Found in Wreck Debris.

An engine drawing an eastbound freight train on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was derailed at Bond, early Monday morning resulting in the piling up of a number of freight cars. The tracks were completely blocked. In clearing away the wreckage the badly mangled body of an unknown man was found under the wreckage and was removed to Piedmont. It is not known whether the man was riding the train or walking on the track. The riggers' crew was startled when it came on his body as no fatality had been suspected.

DIXON & KELSO

DIXON & KELSO have put in stock

AN IMMENSE LINE OF

XMAS GOODS,

and can serve their customers better than ever.

The following are a few of the many things we have to offer:

Daisy Mixed Candy per lb.,	7c
Fancy Broken Mixed Candy, per lb.,	9c
Good Chocolate Candy, 15c and 2 lbs for	25c
Good Mint and Wintergreen Lozenges, 2 lbs for	25c
Have Loweny's Candies, boxes, 10, 25,	50c
Mew Mixed Nuts, per lb	14c
New English Walnuts,	18c
Big Ripe Florida Oranges, per doz.	25c
Big Sour Lemons, "	25c
Big Fat Raisins, per lb,	8c
Walter Baker's and Hersey's Chocolate, per cake,	20c
Swan Down Cake Flour, per box,	25c

Our line of goods suitable for Presents is so big and varied that we will not attempt to describe it but invite every one to come in and have a look. Will have enough extra help to take care of the crowd no matter how large.

Yours to Please. DIXON & KELSO.

The MAN in LOWER TEN

by MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

AUTHOR of THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT by BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

Lawrence Blakeley, lawyer, goes to Pittsburg with the forged notes in the Bronson case to take the deposition of the chief witness for the prosecution, John Gilmore, a millionaire. In the latter's house the lawyer is attracted by the picture of a girl whom Gilmore explains is his granddaughter, Alison West. He says her father is a rascal and a friend of the forger. Standing in line to buy a Pullman ticket Blakeley is requested by a lady to buy her one. He gives her lower eleven and retains lower ten. He finds a man in a drunken stupor in lower ten and retires in lower nine.

CHAPTER III.

Across the Aisle.

No solution offering itself, I went back to my berth. The snorer across had apparently strangled, or turned over, and so after a time I dropped asleep, to be awakened by the morning sunlight across my face.

I felt for my watch, yawning prodigiously. I reached under the pillow and failed to find it, but something scratched the back of my hand. I sat up irritably and nursed the wound, which was bleeding a little. Still drowsy, I felt more cautiously for what I supposed had been my scarf pin, but there was nothing there. Wide awake now, I reached for my traveling bag, on the chance that I had put my watch in there. I had drawn the satchel to me and had my hand on the lock before I realized that it was not my own!

Mine was of alligator hide. I had killed the beast in Florida, after the expenditure of enough money to have bought a house and enough energy to have built one. The bag I held in my hand was a black one, sealskin, I think. The staggering thought of what the loss of my bag meant to me put my finger on the bell and kept it there until the porter came.

"Did you ring, sir?" he asked, poking his head through the curtains obsequiously. McKnight objects that nobody can poke his head through a curtain and be obsequious. But Pullman porters can and do.

"No," I snapped. "It rang itself. What in thunder do you mean by exchanging my valise for this one? You'll have to find it if you waken the entire car to do it. There are important papers in that grip."

"Porter," called a feminine voice from an upper berth near by. "Porter, am I to dangle here all day?"

"Let her dangle," I said savagely. "You find that bag of mine."

The porter frowned. Then he looked at me with injured dignity. "I brought in your overcoat, sir. You carried your own valise."

The fellow was right! In an excess of caution I had refused to relinquish my alligator bag, and had turned over my other traps to the porter. It was clear enough then. I was simply a victim of the usual sleeping car robbery. I was in a lather of perspiration by that time: The lady down the car was still dangling and talking about it; still nearer a feminine voice was giving quick orders in French, presumably to a maid. The porter was on his knees, looking under the berth.

"Not there, sir," he said, dusting his knees. He was visibly more cheerful, having been absolved of responsibility. "Reckon it was taken while you was wanderin' around the car last night."

"I'll give you $50 if you find it," I said. "A hundred. Reach up my shoes and I'll—"

I stopped abruptly. My eyes were fixed in stupefied amazement on a coat that hung from a hook at the foot of my berth. From the coat they traveled, dazed, to the soft-bosomed shirt beside it, and from there to the collar and cravat in the net hammock across the windows.

"A hundred!" the porter repeated, showing his teeth. But I caught him by the arm and pointed to the foot of the berth.

"What—what color's that coat?" I asked unsteadily.

"Gray, sir." His tone was one of gentle reproof.

"And—the trousers?"

He reached over and held up one creased leg. "Gray, too," he grinned.

"Gray!" I could not believe even his corroboration of my own eyes. "But my clothes were blue!" The porter was amused; he dived under the curtains and brought up a pair of shoes. "Your shoes, sir," he said with a flourish. "Reckon you've been dreaming, sir."

Now, there are two things I always avoid in my dress—possibly an idiosyncracy of my bachelor existence. These tabooed articles are red neckties and tan shoes. And not only were the shoes the porter lifted from the floor of a gorgeous shade of yellow, but the scarf which was run through the turned over collar was a gaudy red. It took a full minute for the real import of things to penetrate my dazed intelligence. Then I gave a vindictive kick at the offending ensemble.

"They're not mine, any of them," I snarled. "They are some other fellow's. I'll sit here until I take root before I put them on."

"They're nice lookin' clothes," the porter put in, eying the red tie with appreciation. "Ain't everybody would have left you anything."

"Call the conductor," I said shortly. Then a possible explanation occurred to me. "Oh, porter—what's the number of this berth?"

"Seven, sir. If you cain't wear those shoes—"

"Seven!" In my relief I almost shouted it. "Why, then, it's simple enough. I'm in the wrong berth, that's all. My berth is nine. Only—where the deuce is the man who belongs here?"

"Likely in nine, sir." The darky was enjoying himself. "You and the other gentleman just got mixed in the night. That's all, sir." It was clear that he thought I had been drinking.

I drew a long breath. Of course, that was the explanation. This was number seven's berth, that was his soft hat, this his umbrella, his coat, his bag. My rage turned to irritation at myself.

The porter went to the next berth and I could hear his softly insinuating voice. "Time to get up, sir. Are you awake? Time to get up."

There was no response from number nine. I guessed that he had opened the curtains and was looking in. Then he came back.

"Number nine's empty," he said.

"Empty! Do you mean my clothes aren't there?" I demanded. "My valise? Why don't you answer me?"

"You doan' give me time," he retorted. "There ain't nothin' there. But it's been slept in."

The disappointment was the greater for my few moments of hope. I sat up in a white fury and put on the clothes that had been left me. Then, still raging, I sat on the edge of the berth and put on the obnoxious tan shoes. The porter, called to his duties, made little excursions back to me, to offer assistance and to chuckle at my discomfiture. He stood by, outwardly decorous, but with little irritating grins of amusement around his mouth, when I finally emerged with the red tie in my hand.

"Bet the owner of those clothes did not become them any more than you do," he said, as he plied the ubiquitous whisk broom.

"When I get the owner of these clothes," I retorted grimly, "he will need a shroud. Where's the conductor?"

The conductor was coming, he assured me; also that there was no bag answering the description of mine on the car. I slammed my way to the dressing room, washed, choked my fifteen and a half neck into a fifteen collar, and was back again in less than five minutes. The car, as well as its occupants, was gradually taking on a daylight appearance. I hobbled in, for one of the shoes was abominably tight, and found myself facing a young woman in blue with an unforgetable face. ("Three women already," McKnight says: "That's going some, even if you don't count the Gilmore nurse.") She stood, half-turned toward me, one hand idly drooping, the other steadying her as she gazed out at the flying landscape. I had an instant impression that I had met her somewhere, under different circumstances, more cheerful ones, I thought, for the girl's dejection now was evident. Beside her, sitting down, a small dark woman, considerably older, was talking in a rapid undertone. The girl nodded indifferently now and then.

"The Man's Been Murdered!"

I fancied, although I was not sure, that my appearance brought a startled look into the young woman's face. I sat down, and, hands thrust deep into the other man's pockets, stared ruefully at the other man's shoes.

The stage was set. In a moment the curtain was going up on the first act of the play. And for a while we would all say our little speeches and sing our little songs, and I, the villain, would hold center stage while the gallery hissed.

The porter was standing beside lower ten. He had reached in and was knocking valiantly. But his efforts met with no response. He winked at me over his shoulder; then he unfastened the curtains and bent forward. Behind him, I saw him stiffen, heard his muttered exclamation, saw the bluish pallor that spread over his face and neck. As he retreated a step the interior of lower ten lay open to the day.

The man in it was on his back, the early morning sun striking full on his upturned face. But the light did not disturb him. A small stain of red dyed the front of his night clothes and trailed across the sheet: his half-open eyes were fixed, without seeing, on the shining wood above.

I grasped the porter's shaking shoulders and stared down to where the train imparted to the body a grisly suggestion of motion. "Good Lord," I gasped, "the man's been murdered!"

CHAPTER IV.

Numbers Seven and Nine.

Afterward, when I tried to recall our discovery of the body in lower ten, I found that my most vivid impression was not that made by the revelation of the opened curtain. I had an instantaneous picture of a slender blue-gowned girl who seemed to sense my words rather than hear them, of two small hands that clutched desperately at the seat beside them. The girl in the aisle stood, bent toward us, perplexity and alarm fighting in her face.

With twitching hands the porter attempted to draw the curtains together. Then in a paralysis of shock, he collapsed on the edge of my berth and sat there swaying. In my excitement I shook him.

"For heaven's sake, keep your nerve, man," I said bruskly. "You'll have every woman in the car in hysterics. And if you do, you'll wish you could change places with the man in there." He rolled his eyes.

A man near, who had been reading last night's paper, dropped it quickly and tiptoed toward us. He peered between the partly open curtains, closed them quietly and went back, ostentatiously solemn, to his seat. The very crackle with which he opened his paper added to the bursting curosity of the car. For the passengers knew that something was amiss: I was conscious of a sudden tension.

With the curtains closed the porter was more himself; he wiped his lips with a handkerchief and stood erect.

"It's my last trip in this car," he remarked heavily. "There's something wrong with that berth. Last trip the woman in it took an overdose of some sleeping stuff, and we found her, jes' like that, dead! And it ain't more'n three months now since there was twins born in that very spot. No sir, it ain't natural."

At that moment a thin man with prominent eyes and a spare grayish goatee creaked up the aisle and paused beside me.

"Porter sick?" he inquired, taking in with a professional eye the porter's horror-struck face, my own excitement and the slightly gaping curtains of lower ten. He reached for the darky's pulse and pulled out an old-fashioned gold watch.

"Hm! Only fifty! What's the matter? Had a shock?" he asked shrewdly.

"Yes," I answered for the porter. "We've both had one. If you are a doctor, I wish you would look at the man in the berth across, lower ten. I'm afraid it's too late, but I'm not experienced in such matters."

Together we opened the curtains, and the doctor, bending down, gave a comprehensive glance that took in the rolling head, the relaxed jaw, the ugly stain on the sheet. The examination needed only a moment. Death was written in the clear white of the nostrils, the colorless lips, the smoothing away of the sinister lines of the night before. With its new dignity the face was not unhandsome; the gray hair was still plentiful, the features strong and well cut.

The doctor straightened himself and turned to me. "Dead for some time," he said, running a professional finger over the stains. "These are dry and darkened, you see, and rigor mortis is well established. A friend of yours?"

"I don't know him at all," I replied. "Never saw him but once before."

"Then you don't know if he is traveling alone?"

"No, he was not—that is, I don't know anything about him," I corrected myself. It was my first blunder; the doctor glanced up at me quickly and then turned his attention again to the body. Like a flash there had come to me the vision of the woman with the bronze hair and the tragic face, whom I had surprised in the vestibule between the cars, somewhere in the small hours of the morning. I had acted on my first impulse—the masculine one of shielding a woman.

The doctor had unfastened the coat of the striped pajamas and exposed the dead man's chest. On the left side was a small punctured wound of insignificant size.

"Very neatly done," the doctor said with appreciation. "Couldn't have done it better myself. Right through the intercostal space; no time even to grunt."

"Isn't the heart around there somewhere?" I asked. The medical man turned toward me and smiled austerely.

"That's where it belongs, just under that puncture, when it isn't gadding around in a man's throat or his boots."

I had a new respect for the doctor, for any one indeed who could crack even a feeble joke under such circumstances, or who could run an impersonal finger over that wound and those stains. Odd how a healthy, normal man holds the medical profession in half contemptuous regard until he gets sick, or an emergency like this arises, and then turns meekly to the man who knows the ins and outs of his mortal tenement, takes his pills or his patronage, ties to him like a rudderless ship in a gale.

"Suicide, is it, doctor?" I asked.

He stood erect, after drawing the bed-clothing over the face, and, taking off his glasses, he wiped them slowly.

"No, it is not suicide," he announced decisively. "It is murder."

Of course, I had expected that, but the word itself brought a shiver. I was just a bit dizzy. Curious faces through the car were turned toward us, and I could hear the porter behind me breathing audibly. A stout woman in negligee came down the aisle and querulously confronted the porter. She wore a pink dressing-jacket and carried portions of her clothing.

"Porter," she began, in the voice of the lady who had "dangled," "is there a rule of this company that will allow a woman to occupy the dressing room for one hour and curl her hair with an alcohol lamp while respectable people haven't a place where they can hook their—"

She stopped suddenly and stared into lower ten. Her shining pink cheeks grew pasty, her jaw fell. I remember trying to think of something to say, and of saying nothing at all. Then—she had buried her eyes in the nondescript garments that hung from her arm and tottered back the way she had come. Slowly a little knot of men gathered around us, silent for the most part. The doctor was making a search of the berth when the conductor elbowed his way through, followed by the inquisitive man, who had evidently summoned him. I had lost sight, for a time, of the girl in blue.

"Do it himself?" the conductor queried after a business-like glance at the body.

"No, he didn't," the doctor asserted. "There's no weapon here, and the window is closed. He couldn't have thrown it out, and he didn't swallow it. What on earth are you looking for, man?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A Jar of Resinol Ointment Is a Handy Remedy to Have In the House All the Time.

In twenty years' experience as a nurse I have never found as good a remedy for Skin Troubles, Eczema, etc., as Resinol Ointment. Its cooling, healing effect on sore nipples is truly wonderful.

Mrs. T. B. Henderson, Albany, N. Y.

May Be Wooden-Headed.

Caller—I didn't know your son was at college. Is this his freshman year?

Mrs. Bunderby—Oh, no, indeed, he's a sycamore.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by all Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

None In Stock.

A well-dressed woman paused in front of the chestnut vender's stand.

"Are they wormy?" she asked.

"No, ma'am," he answered blandly. "Did you want them with worms?"

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over 30 Years.
The Kind You Have Always Bought.

Severe Punishment.

Belle—And did you make her eat her own words?

Beulah—Eat 'em? I made her Fletcherize 'em.

SPOHN'S DISTEMPER CURE will cure any possible case of DISTEMPER, PINK EYE, and the like among horses of all ages, and prevents all others in the same stable from having the disease. Also cures chicken cholera, and dog distemper. Any good druggist can supply you, or send to mfrs. 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle. Agents wanted. Free book. Spohn Medical Co., Spec. Contagious Diseases, Goshen, Ind.

Through.

"You are an optimist?"

"I am," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "I not only hope for the best, but I make practical arrangements to get it."

16 YEARS OF SKIN DISEASE

"For sixteen long years I have been suffering with a bad case of skin disease. While a child there broke out a red sore on the legs just in back of my knees. It waxed from bad to worse, and at last I saw I had a bad skin disease. I tried many widely known doctors in different cities but to no satisfactory result. The plague bothered me more in warm weather than in winter and being on my leg joints it made it impossible for me to walk, and I was forced to stay indoors in the warmest weather. My hopes of recovery were by this time spent. Sleepless nights and restless days made life an unbearable burden. At last I was advised to try the Cuticura remedies [Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills] and I did not need more than a trial to convince me that I was on the road of success this time. I bought two sets of the Cuticura Remedies and after these were gone I was a different man entirely. I am now the happiest man that there is at least one true care for skin diseases. Leonard A. Hawtof, 11 Nostrand Ave., Brooklyn, N .Y., July 30 and Aug. 8, '09."

Some Consolation.

Mrs. Gramercy—My husband is anxious to get rid of me.

Mrs. Park—Don't cry, dear. In that case he won't haggle over the allmony.—Smart Set.

MIX THIS FOR RHEUMATISM

Easily Prepared and Inexpensive and Really Does the Work, Says Noted Authority.

Thousands of men and women who have felt the sting and torture of that dread disease, Rheumatism, which is no respecter of age, persons, sex, color or rank, will be interested to know that it is one of the easiest afflictions of the human body to conquer. Medical science has proven it not a distinct disease in itself, but a symptom caused by inactive kidneys. Rheumatism is uric acid in the blood and other waste products of the system which should be filtered and strained out in the form of urine. The function of the kidneys is to sift these poisons and acids out and keep the blood clean and pure. The kidneys however, are of sponge-like substance, the holes or pores of which will sometimes, either from overwork, cold or exposure become clogged, and failing in their function of eliminating these poisons from the blood, they remain in the veins, decompose and settling about the joints and muscles, cause the untold suffering and pain of rheumatism and backache, often producing complications of bladder and urinary disease, and general weakness.

The following simple prescription is said to relieve the worst cases of rheumatism because of its direct action upon the blood and kidneys, relieving, too, the most severe forms of bladder and urinary troubles: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. The ingredients can be had from any prescription pharmacy, and are absolutely harmless and safe to use at any time.

Splendid Crops

In Saskatchewan (Western Canada)

800 Bushels from 20 acres of wheat was the thresher's return from a Lloydminster farm in the season of 1909. Many fields in that and other districts yielded from 25 to 35 bushels of wheat to the acre. Other grains in proportion.

LARGE PROFITS are thus derived from the FREE HOMESTEAD LANDS of Western Canada.

This excellent showing causes prices to advance. Land values should double in two years' time. Grain growing, mixed farming, cattle raising and dairying are all profitable. Free Homesteads of 160 acres are to be had in the very best districts. 160 acre pre-emptions at $3.00 per acre within certain areas. Schools and churches in every settlement, climate unexcelled, soil the richest; wood, water and building material plentiful.

For particulars as to location, low settlers' railway rates and descriptive illustrated pamphlet, "Last Best West," and other information, write to Sup't of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to Canadian Government Agent.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT AGENT
Gardner Building Toledo, Ohio
(Use address nearest you.) 59

Your Liver's Your Life

A dead liver means awful sickness—don't let it come—when it can be prevented. Cascarets keep the liver lively and bowels regular and ward off serious, fatal illness. 901

CASCARETS—10c box—week's treatment. All druggists. Biggest seller in the world. Million boxes a month.

The coldblooded are hotheaded when you hit their pride.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.
For Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

There can be no bending in worship without stooping in service.

When You Buy for Christmas

Remember that a good fountain pen is always acceptable and useful. Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pen is the best made. Examine the trade mark. Made in regular, safety and self-filling styles for men, women and children. Sold by all responsible dealers.

Putting in the Time.

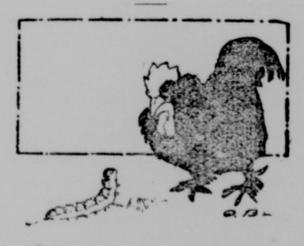
A gentleman was engaging a general man and telling him what he wanted him to do. "You will have to clean the windows and the boots and the knives, and go messages, chop wood, cut short grass, mind the horse and pony, look after the garden and keep the house supplied with vegetables and do any odd job that is required and if suitable you will get ten shillings a week."

"Is there any clay in the garden?" asked the man.

"What makes you ask that?" asked the gentleman.

"I was thinking I could make bricks in my spare time," said the man.

THE POLITE CHICKEN.



SAID THE ROOSTER AT 6:22
"YOU ARE RUDELESS AWARE THAT I CREW"
THOUGH AMAZEMENT YOU SHOW
I AM CERTAIN YOU KNOW
WHAT IT IS THAT WE EARLY BIRDS DO ——."

THEY GROW

Good Humor and Cheerfulness From Right Food and Drink.

Anything that interferes with good health is apt to keep cheerfulness and good humor in the background. A Washington lady found that letting coffee alone made things bright for her. She writes:

"Four years ago I was practically given up by my doctor and was not expected to live long. My nervous system was in a bad condition.

"But I was young and did not want to die so I began to look about for the cause of my chronic trouble. I used to have nervous spells which would exhaust me and after each spell it would take me days before I could sit up in a chair.

"I became convinced my trouble was caused by coffee. I decided to stop it and bought some Postum.

"The first cup, which I made according to directions, had a soothing effect on my nerves and I liked the taste. For a time I nearly lived on Postum and ate little food besides. I am today a healthy woman.

"My family and relatives wonder if I am the same person I was four years ago, when I could do no work on account of nervousness. Now I am doing my own housework, take care of two babies—one twenty the other two months old. I am so busy that I hardly get time to write a letter, yet I do it all with the cheerfulness and good humor that comes from enjoying good health.

"I tell my friends it is to Postum I owe my life today."

Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Winter Turbans

THIS is decidedly a season of draped hats with velvets the leading fabric for draperies. Entire hats are made of it and numbers of others are combinations of velvet and silk, velvet and tapestry, velvet and fur, or beaver cloth or any of the millinery fabrics.

These draped hats are, naturally, made on turban shapes, whose inspiration in most cases, is plainly drawn from the oriental headdress. Many of them set closely to the head, and some of them so close that they might be classed as caps. They are becoming and full of "style;" that elusive quality which is worth so much to the milliner in money and to the wearer in "distinction."

Large turbans bordered with shaggy furs, have crowns of velvet draped and cleverly arranged into trimming.

Other shapes show crowns of velvet with brims of tapestry and velvet or of silk folded and tacked about the brim. A big bow of the fabric finishes a simple model of this sort, as shown in the illustration. But any other trimming that is fancied may be used as a finish.

A lovely model as a soft crown (what is called this season the "flexible" crown) and a wide brim or coronet of marten fur. It is finished at the side with a handsome shaded willow plume, showing three colorings.

Turbans, in fact, include most elaborate designs as well as those pretty simple models in which velvet is employed alone, and in which the designer relies upon clever draping effects to achieve style.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

CREAM BEAVER HAT.

To Wash Bed Clothes.

To wash heavy bed clothes make a warm suds with good soap and let the comfortables or blankets soak in it for awhile. Then take a new, clean hoe for a pounder. Pound well, and pound again in another suds. Rinse thoroughly and hang on the line without wringing. If a hose is handy spray plenty of water over them when on the line. The cotton comfortables will not mat when washed in this way.

Embroidery Jabot.

For something new and dressy to wear with a linen shirtwaist, the embroidered jabot at once suggests itself, since it is less perishable than dainty but short-lived laces.

One jabot of fine swiss embroidery in the vandyke pattern was laid in cascades from the neck to the waist line, gradually decreasing to a point. The material was gathered tightly, of course, and arranged in zigzag style down the narrow strip of lawn which served as its foundation.

A Sewing Tip.

You will find when sewing fine silk that quite often the seams are inclined to pucker when silk thread is used. The sewing is made much smoother if cotton thread of the same color and size be used in the bobbin, with silk thread above.

Do not dampen such seams when pressing them, for often water marks silk so that the stain cannot be removed.

HATS ON THE FREAK ORDER

Millinery of the Moment May Be Described as Fearful and Wonderful.

The millinery of the moment can only be described as freakish, for surely never before was the head of woman covered with such incongruities.

Not content with simulating the appearance of mushrooms, sugar loaves and variegated birds' nests, the latest hat is the aeroplane, with large outstanding wings adorning the back of the hat and set at the jauntiest angle imaginable.

The reign of the winged hat, soberly and decorously adorned with wings covering the crown and part of the brim, is apparently over, for the wings must be made freakish to look smart, so following on the aeroplane hat we have the hat which can only be described as a winged Mercury, with two seductive looking wings planted at the back of the crown of a large black hat, shaped exactly like the wings which adorn the ankles of the famous Mercury statue.

There is no accounting for taste, for even if a woman knows she does not look well in a hat pulled down over her eyes until half her face is hidden, that hat she will wear because it is the fashion.

One of the most startling millinery freaks seen was a blue velvet toque which can best be described as a bedizened sugar loaf.

The cone part of this sugar loaf toque was of Wedgwood blue velvet, while a deep band of steel embroidered lace formed the lower part, and hanging from this was a tiny fringe of steel beads which would adorn the forehead Salomewise. The toque, it should be added, completely covered all signs of hair and hid the wearer's left eye entirely.

Other toques of the moment have crowns ascending skywards. So high and so full are these velvet crowns rising from a band of bizarre embroidery that they give a top-heavy appearance to the unfortunate wearer.

Cucumber Cream.

Cucumber cream is made from two ounces of almond oil, one-half ounce each of white wax and spermaceti and one ounce of cucumber juice. The latter is obtained either by grating the vegetable, skin and all, or by cutting and simmering it until pulpy. In either case it must be strained.

Mixing proceed as with other creams.

The Church—Its Danger and Security

By REV. W. G. CURRY

TEXT—Awake, awake, put on thy strength; O Zion.—Isaiah LII. 1.

Jehovah spoke this when Judaism had fallen into great weakness. Enemies beset on every side. The church has often had its times of moral weakness. Deliverance always came. The slumbering giant not only awoke but exerted himself. A deep slumber prevailed when Christ came. Great systems of idolatry prevailed. The true God was nigh forgotten. The Saviour gathered a little band around him and sent them forth. With matchless strength they attacked the the powers and Satan's kingdom was shaken. Another crisis came—papal corruption. Pure Christianity slept beneath gaudy trappings of Catholicism, movements for freedom were watched, and dungeons were filled with those who dared look up. "Awake awake!" was sounded. Martin Luther arose to restore spirituality. Since then the truth has been gaining power. When we consider the facilities we have, the outlook is now hopeful.

There is another side.

I. The church is threatened with danger.

1. Danger from peculiar activity and excitability of the times in which we live—entirely an earnest age. New discoveries, new forces appearing. Law of change is everywhere. Wonderful schemes claim public attention. Science, art are ever presenting new questions. Our minds and hands are full; never was there more activity. It is not an unfortunate condition. We would not lock the wheels of progress, and remand the age back to the darkness of the past. In the midst of the excitement we are in danger of infection, unless there be a corresponding earnestness in Christian character. Our danger is inability to control these forces. We are too much controlled by them. We are being permeated by the spirit of the world, instead of permeating it with our spirit. We must show a religion full of life and energy—not a cold, sleepy religion.

2. The tendency to innovation. We believe all essentials are clearly revealed in the Scriptures. Yet we think more light and improved methods may be employed. But from Germany comes a spirit that would say our foundations. It has found its way into our theological schools, and is poisoning the minds of the rising ministry. They tell us that reason and not faith must be the guide. They have discovered the Bible is an antiquated book, and the gospel too cold. They would take away the Bible as a perfect rule of faith and practise. The danger lies in having our minds alienated from the simplicity of the gospel, and a desire to seek the novelties. We need now more than ever before to cry for the old paths.

3. In danger from the increasing boldness and energy of the enemies of Christianity. We are no longer attacked by a few, but the ranks are strong and the infidelity declares its truths to be the only truths. It has never displayed so much determination. It is widespread and is with men in daily walks; is in politics, taints legislation, and has taken hold upon the public press. The world is flooded with its literature. Vast multitudes listen to infidelity's modern apostle.

In the light of all these facts have we not cause for alarm? Are we in a condition to successfully contend with these forces? The church is not putting forth her strength. She has had smooth sailing a long time, and sleeps.

II. What are the elements of strength.

1. Sound doctrine. In these days of laxness and insidiousness we need to contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints. The doctrines of depravity, atonement and salvation by grace must be emphasized. Let this be done, and infidelity will not affect the religion of personal experience.

2. Spiritual life. We need a higher-toned spirituality, a religion that enters into all our social and business relations, giving color and shape to the daily life.

How shall this strength, which God calls on us to exert, be put on? It is not physical, but spiritual strength that we need. It must be put on upon our knees.

His Saving Power.

Jesus said: "All power is given unto Me in heaven and in earth; go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen."

He displayed His wonderful power while here upon earth. His miracles were a definite attestation to His mission. He claims and exercises that saving, helping power—a power not now limited by physical conditions, as might have been charged in His earthly life, but a power which flows with authority from the mediatorial throne on which He reigns.

$3.50 RECIPE CURES WEAK KIDNEYS, FREE

RELIEVES URINARY AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, BACKACHE, STRAINING, SWELLING, ETC.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a QUICK RECOVERY, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K-252 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

The man who thinks more of his pigs than he does of his wife and babies is the devil's idea of what a husband and father should be.

Thousands of country people know that in time of sudden mishap or accident Hamlins Wizard Oil is the best substitute for the family doctor. That is why it is so often found upon the shelf.

THEIR FATE.

Mrs. Crow—William, have you ever stopped to think what will become of us when we are old?

Mr. Crow—Oh! I suppose wee'll wind up as quail on toast at some table d'hote restaurant.

YOUR STOMACH FEELS FINE.

Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sourness, Gas and All Stomach Misery Ended In Five Minutes.

This harmless preparation will promptly digest anything you eat and overcome a sick, sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach within five minutes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Get from any drug store here in town a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain regulator for out-of-order stomachs, and besides it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disorder.

Remember, if your stomach feels out of order and uncomfortable now, you can get relief in five minutes by taking a little Diapepsin.

Anyway Eve never had occasion to marry Adam by asking two or three times a day if she was the only woman he ever loved.

MAKE MORE MONEY

Than you ever dreamed possible decorating china, burnt-wood, metal, pillow-tops, etc., in colors from photographs. Men successful as women. Learned at once; no talent required. Takes like wildfire everywhere. Send stamp quick for praticulars.
C. M. VALLANCE COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

THE IMPORTANCE OF HEALTHY KIDNEYS.

Weak kidneys fail to remove poisons from the blood, and they are the cause of backache, headaches, urinary troubles and dizzy spells. To insure good health, keep the kidneys well. Doan's Kidney Pills remove all kidney ills.

Mrs. E. E. Dewey, Neligh, Neb., says: "In 1909 I had a dreadful attack of dropsy, my face being so puffed I could hardly see and my feet and hands were terribly swollen. Doan's Kidney Pills were advised and I began taking them. It required only short use to restore my kidneys to a normal condition."

Remember the name—Doan's.

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Time to Think Over Suicide.

He took paris green to commit suicide. Too big a dose to kill him. Eminent specialist happened to be called in, and started to fix him up. "No use," said paris green performer, "I'll do it anyhow after you have done with me." Doctor got mad. "If that's the way you feel about it, you fool," he said, "I'll not waste my time on you." Paris green performer much astonished and grieved. "Well," he said, "give me 24 hours to think it over." Doctor gave him 24 hours and went away. At the end of the time paris green performer telephoned: "I've thought it over and want to get well; come and see me some more."

A Meritorious Act.

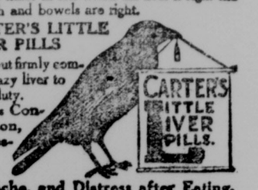
Mr. Cynic—Tell me one thing you ever did for your fellow men?

Mr. Optim—This morning I kicked a banana peel off a sidewalk.—Judge.

Make the Liver Do its Duty

Nine times in ten when the liver is right the stomach and bowels are right.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS gently but firmly compel a lazy liver to do its duty.



Cures Constipation, Indigestion, Sick Headache, and Distress after Eating.

Small Pill, Small Dose, Small Price

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

3 Cruises to the WEST INDIES

Three delightful cruises leaving New York January 24, February 25 and March 28, 1911

BY THE 12,500 TON S.S. Moltke TO THE Spanish Main, West Indies, Panama Canal, Bermuda, etc.

Two cruises of 28 days duration $150 and up. One cruise, 16 days, $85 and up. Also cruises to the Orient, South America and Around the World.

Write for Illustrated Booklet.

HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE
P. O Box 1767 41 and 45 Broadway, N. Y.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

FREE GOLD PLATED BRACELET
Self adjusting. For selling 12 packages Elegant Xmas Post Cards. When sold send $1.20 and we'll send bracelet prepaid.
O. P. C. CO., Lock Box 392, Orleans, Vt.

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 50–1910.

MUNYON'S

Eminent Doctors at Your Service Free

NOT A PENNY TO PAY

FOR FULLEST MEDICAL EXAMINATION BY MAIL

If you are in doubt as to the cause of your disease, or feel the need of medical advice, address a letter to Munyon's staff of eminent specialists, and they will send you an examination blank, which you will fill out and return to them. They will then diagnose your case and tell you what to do, absolutely free of charge. You do not put yourself under any obligation to them, and they will not feel hurt if you do not follow their advice. If they prescribe Munyon's Remedies and you decide to take the treatment, it goes with a guarantee of satisfaction or money refunded.

Address Munyon's Doctors, Munyon's Laboratories, 53d & Jefferson Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

Auction Sale of Indian Lands by the U. S. Government---Buy an Oklahoma Farm Cheap

Beginning November 21, 1910, and Continuing Until March 1, 1911, There Will Be Offered for Sale at Public Auction by the Government

About 2,000,000 Acres

of Indian Lands in Oklahoma. Much of this is high-grade farming land and is especially adapted to the growing of wheat, corn, cotton, vegetables and fruits. The climate is ideal, with an abundance of rain, insuring a crop each year. Why suffer from cold six months a year when you can enjoy outdoor life the year around in Oklahoma, and on a small investment speedily become independent? Homeseekers' tickets at special rates on sale 1st and 3rd Tuesdays of each month from all principal points. For full particulars regarding the sales and how to get there cheaply and comfortably, write to

A. HILTON, General Passenger Agent
FRISCO LINES
1537 Frisco Building ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI

BUY GEORGIA FARM LANDS NOW; $10 to $30 an acre, according to location. Two crops a year; 50 to 100 bushels of corn or oats to acre. Fine fruit country. Mild winters; pleasant summers. Best and cheapest lands in U. S. To locate in section with brightest future, write Frank Weldon, Atlanta, Ga.

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D. C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

DEFIANCE STARCH never sticks to the iron.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

MANATEE-FLORIDA
America's Fruit and Garden Market offers you an opportunity to become independent in a short time growing
ORANGES, GRAPEFRUIT AND VEGETABLES.
Two and three crops a year net $500 to $1500 per acre. Quick transportation, low freight rates on S. A. L. Ry. to Northern and Eastern markets. Uniform climate year round. Instructive booklet free.
J. W. WHITE, Gen'l Ind. Agt.
Seaboard Air Line Ry.
Dept. 402 Norfolk, Va.

AGENTS wanted in every town. An opportunity to earn big money. Exclusive territory. No experience necessary. Retailer Mfg. Co., 745-47E. 20th St., Chicago

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Quincy, Illinois.

CHEW AND SMOKE
MAIL POUCH
TOBACCO
"TREAT YOURSELF to the BEST"

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

Entered at the Postoffice in Oakland, Md., as Second-class matter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

The Republican is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year.....$1.25
One copy six months..... .75
One copy three months..... .40

Advertising Rates made known upon Application.

Remittances may be made by Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft and addressed to

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1910.

TO OUR readers and friends we extend the compliments of the season and wish them a joyous Christmas and happy New Year. May the present season be their best and may they live to enjoy many recurring ones!

CHILDREN'S SAINT.

No proof is needed that the patron saint of Christmas is a very real embodiment in the mind of the average child. St. Nick lives forever in the juvenile mind, along with Peter Pan and the hobgoblins that infest the dark. And that adult who, overzealous in the cause of truth, would shatter this faith in the realities of the make-believe, should be frowned into silence by the greater number who, at the cost of some slight juggling of white lies, perpetuate the spirit of romance in the race. There is a Santa Claus—let it be heralded throughout the Land of Childhood. How many households in the post-Christmas season know little and great privations, lovingly endured, which would not have been had the good old man with the snowy beard not visited that house? But who among those devoted parents would purchase the forsworn luxuries—perhaps the gone-without necessities—by taking from the toddlers those hobby-horses and dolls, those lead soldiers and cradles, which were found on Christmas morning just where childhood's unswerving faith had known they would be found?

And how much of the imagination of the race, upon which is founded its literature, its art, and the higher phases of its life, would have been lost if there had never been a Santa Claus, a Peter Pan, or a fairy princess in a beleagued castle, to give direction to fancy in the most impressionable age of the mind? All fiction, all true art, is born of the same faculty to which the belief in Santa Claus owes its perennial persistence. Remove the child's interest in the patron of its happiest day if you will—but at the same time discard the reading of Shakespeare's immortal fancies and all imaginative literature. One is as worthy of the child as the other is of the grown-up. Both are but varying phases of the racial craving for the make-believe. And life in childhood would be as gray without the the coloring of the make-believe as life in manhood without literature.

Two Weeks Course in Fruit Growing.

The State Horticultural Department of the Maryland Agricultural College announces a two weeks course in Practical Fruit Growing, [the Control of Insect Pests and Plant diseases, and Spraying. This course is offered free and is open to all persons interested in these subjects in the state. It is an opportunity for the growers to gain an insight into the practical methods of growing trees, packing and storing fruit, and the control of many pests that are detrimental to successful fruit growing.

This course is announced to commence January 30. The local inspectors that are employed by the State Horticultural Department to conduct the inspection of orchards, etc., will be selected from the persons taking this course. It is hoped that each county will have a large number take this course during these two weeks. The course is given at a convenient time for most persons and the cost is simply board at $5 per week. Therefore, growers of this county should make use of this opporiunity to learn up to date methods of successful fruit growing. Persons interested should commnnicate with the Maryland Agricultural College, College Park, Marvland.

Historic Bridge Removed.

The old bridge over the Cheat river at Rowelesburg, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, 22 miles west of Oakland, was rolled from its piers at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning and the new bridge, waiting to sink into position, was rolled onto the vacant place. The work was done by hydraulic machinery and occupied less than 20 minutes. Traffic on the main line of the road was not interrupted.

Cheat river has been spanned by twin bridges, each carrying one track. The new bridge replaces the twin bridges and carries two tracks. It consists of two spans, one end of each span resting on a central pier, and is said to be the heaviest structure of the kind in the state.

BITTINGER.

A slight break in the weather occurred on last Sunday, when there was a decided thaw, followed by rain in the evening.

Benjamin Long, of Mt. Lake, is a guest at Mrs. K. A. Bittinger's this week.

Messrs. Milton and Noah Miller, of Grantsville, spent last Sunday in this village, as guests at The Central.

George Reckner, of North Glade, was hunting in this section last week and succeeded in capturing a red fox.

Mrs. Silas Platter and children spent last week with Mrs. Flatter's parents near Swanton.

Elias Orendorf and his grandson, Master Austin Bittinger, made a business trip to Frostburg last week.

A number of the students from the Bittinger school visited the Casselman school last Monday afternoon, and their leader, Clyde Broadwater, delivered a very instructive address to the pupils of that school.

The Lutheran Sunday school will hold their Chistmas service here on Christmas eve.

A Merry Christmrs to THE REPUBLICAN, its editor and readers.

Grand Fair and Festival.

Commencing Monday Dec. 26, 1910, the Mountain City Band will hold a monster fair and festival in Nally's Empire Theatre. The fair will be continued until Wednesday night, Dec. 28. A fancy table will be one of the features and there will also be dancing every evening for which a splendid orchestra has been organized to furnish music. Many special amusement features have been provided by the management and all who attend will be able to avail themselves of a jolly good time. Among the various articles which will be disposed of are a diamond ring valued at $50; a gold watch valued at $25 and a gold bracelet valued at $8. The refreshment table will be stocked with all the good things in season and the kitchen will be in charge of competent hands. There will also be a band concert each evening during the fair. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged at the door to help defray the cost of the rent of the theatre. Turn out everyone, large and small and help along a worthy cause. A good time guaranteed everybody.

Banks to Close.

The two Oakland banks will be closed Monday which day will be observed as Christmas by the banking institutions of Maryland and the postoffices throughout the country.

Marriage Licenses.

The following marriage licenses have been issued by Clerk E. Z. Tower since our last report:

Warden Dent Jaco and Zena Virginia Dofflemyer, both of Grafton, W. Va.

George Washington Crites and Mary Jane Kesling, both of Clarksburg.

Albert Harris and Elizabeth Jane Jolliffe, both of Murray, W. Va.

Charles Clyde Jolliffe and Floy Pearl Malone, both of Catawba, W. Va.

Joseph William Glotfelty and Barbara Eleanora Yutzy, both of Garrett county.

Lloyd Frank Nine, of Keyser, W. Va., and Clarice Buckalew, of Amblersburg, W. Va.

Harry R. Batt, of Capon Springs, W. Va., and Delsie Newcome, of Winchester, Va.

Clay Fullen and Mary Leeson, both of Monongah, W. Va.

Harter Aaron Davis, of Bloomington, Md., and Hallie Belle Evans, of Cross Hill, W. Va.

Larry Mazza, of West End, W. Va., and Dessie Sanders, of Rowlesburg, W. Va.

Ira Herman Davis, of Rowlesburg, and Mrs. Fannie Aronhalt, of Dill, W. Va.

Charles F. Schlossnagle, of near Accident, and Mary Myrtle Teats, of Friendsville.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

This is to give notice that the firm of Cuppett, Leighton & Co., doing a general mercantile business in the town of Loch Lynn Heights, Md., will be dissolved by mutual consent December 31, 1910, Mr. H. N. Cuppett retiring from the business. All persons knowing themselves indebted to the firm are hereby notified to call and maked settlement on or before the above date. All accounts not settled by that date will be placed out for collection.

CUPPETT, LEIGHTON & CO.

November 29, 1910.

A meeting of the directors of the Mountain Lake Park Association, which was attended by Rev. Dr. Baldwin, president; Judge Thomas Ireland Elliott, of Baltimore; Mr. John W. Young, of Cumberland, Messrs. Chas. S. Davis and D. E. Offutt, of Oakland, and Dr. W. W. Davis, superintendent, was held in Oakland Tuesday and yesterday at which time the year's business was closed up and plans made for next year, which promises to excel this year, which was the best in the history of the Park Already dates have been fixed for a number of conferences and meetings which will bring hundreds of people from all parts of the United States to the Park during the days of next Summer. Drs. Baldwin and Davis and Judge Elliott returned to Baltimore last night.

Growth of Methodism.

The entire membership of the Methodist Episcopal church increased 63,047 last year, according to a statement made recently to the Chicago Methodist Ministerial Association by the Rev. David G. Downey, corresponding secretary of the Board of Sunday Schools. The secretary further surprised his hearers by saying:

"We have ceased to expect accessions from the regular church and Sunday school meetings. We find that we can increase our membership only by occasional spectacular and sporadic meetings.

"We will have to have more spiritual character building work in our Sunday schools. We find we are getting nowhere by grading our classes and following the methods of public schools."

Church Services.

ST PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 2:15 p. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Epworth League Monday 7:30 p. m.
Prayermeeting Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

G. R. WILLIAMSON, Pastor.

ST. MARK S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
Preaching at 10.30 a. m.
Luther League Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Deer Park—Preaching at 7:30 p. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

ST. MATTHEW'S P. E.

Service every Sunday at 11 a. m.
Sunday School at 2:30 p. m.

W. H. SHEARER

MT. LAKE PARK M. E.

Class meeting at 10 a. m.
Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7.30 p. m.
Sunday school at 2.30 p. m.
Epworth League at 6:45 p. m.

P. Z. MUSGRAVE, Pastor.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Loch Lynn—Preaching at 11 a. m.
Ferndale—Preaching at 7:30 p. m.
Protracted meeting begins at Elder Hill Sunday, Dec. 26, at 7 p. m.
Everybody invited.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

The Greater Youth's Companion.

Since its enlargement by the addition of an amount of reading in the year equal to four hundred ordinary magazine pages, The Youth's Companion can offer even a wider range of wholesome entertainment than ever before, but the character of the paper's contents remains the same, and the subscription price, $1.75, is unchanged.

Every boy will eagerly look for the articles on skill in sports and pastimes and how to develop it.

The girls will find many novel and practical suggestions which will be helpful in their daily life.

For the family in general, hints for the profitable occupation of winter evenings, for increasing the happiness and comfort of the household.

This reading all is in addition to the ordinary treasury of stories, articles by celebrated men and women, the unequaled miscellany, the invaluable doctor's article, the terse notes on what is going on in oll fields of human activity.

It will cost you nothing to send for the beautiful Announcement of The Companion for 1911, and we will send with it sample copies of the paper.

Do not forget that the early subscriber for 1911 receives free all the remaining issues of 1910, including those containing the opening chapters of Grace Richmond's serial story, "Five Miles out."

The new subscriber receives also The Companion's Art Calendar for 1911, lithographed in twelve colors and gold.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION,
144 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass.

New Subscriptions Received at this Office.

Call for Your Letters.

Stanton Benjamin, Paul W. Cox, Mrs. F. B. Cahem, W. D. Slocomb, Wm. M. Fulton, Edward Green, Lotius Vincenzo, Oksenti Kotar.

New Roller Process for Buckwheat.

Mr. T. B. Dowman desires to inform the farmers and others of the neighborhood, that he has installed the latest and best roller process for the manufacture of buckwheat flour. He will give as good a turnout of flour as any mill in the county.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters testamentary on the estate of

BRISON WELCH,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 22nd day of June, 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 22nd day of December, 1910.

SUSAN E. WELCH,
Executrix.
43-3t-pd Mt. Lake Park, Md.

ORDER NISI.

Wm. E. Hollinger, Late Treasurer of Garrett County, vs. Mary L. Ward and Jennie Wagner.

No. 193, Miscellaneous Docket. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

It is ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, this twentieth day of December, 1910, that the tax sale made and reported in the above entitled cause, by William E. Hollinger, late Treasurer in and for Garrett County, Md., be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary be shown on or before the 27th day of January, 1911; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper printed in Garrett county once a week for three successive weeks before the 20th day of January, 1911.

The report states the amount of sale to be $30.50.

ROBERT R. HENDERSON.
True Copy—test: E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Notice To Delinquent Tax-Payers.

Notice is hereby given to all delinquent tax-payers that if taxes now due and in arrears are not paid before

JANUARY 1ST, 1911,

I will proceed by law to collect. I refer to Section 50 of Chapter 566 of Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, which provides as follows:

SECTION 50. The said Treasurer shall during the first week in December in each and every year, give notice to all delinquent tax-payers of said county, by advertisement inserted in two newspapers published in said county, and in hand-bills posted in five of the most public places in each election district of said county, and at the court house door, warning them that the payment of all taxes then due and in arrear will be enforced by advertisement and sale unless the same be paid before the 1st day of January next following.

Please pay promptly and save costs.

R. L. FRIES,
Treasurer or Garrett County.

Notice to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Garrett County, Md., has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

AGNES R. A. M. WHITTINGTON,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 11th day of May, 1910, they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 10th day of November, 1910.

W. H. FREDLOCK,
Administrator.
Piedmont W. Va.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett Co., Md., deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 17th day of April, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

CLEAVER H POOL,

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

GERTRUDE E. POOL,
Administratrix.
Kitzmiller, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County Marplans, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

FREAKLIN SUTER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the day 11th of May, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

LUCINDA SUTER,
Administratrix.
Hoyes Md.

ORDER NISI.

Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, vs William A. Harvey and Benjamin E. Harvey.

No. 1366 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Ordered, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting as a court of equity, this 26th day of November, 1910, that the sales made and reported in the above cause by Edward H Sincell, Trustee, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 30th day of December, 1910; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 23rd day of December, 1910.

The report states the amount of sales to be $865.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

The man Who Makes A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

The Maryland Agricultural College

COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND.

Maryland's School of Technology

Fifty-fourth year begins Sept. 15.

Entrance examinations 13, 14.

Eight courses of Instruction leading to professional degree of B. S.

Agricultural, Horticural, General, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Biological and Chemical.

The College has a close association with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. College students are permitted to visit the Experiment Farms at Arlington and Beltsville and thus secure an additional equipment for their professional career.

The demand of the age is for men for life's activities. Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all departments. Graduates qualified to enter at once upon life's work. Boarding department supplied with all modern improvements. Bath room, steam heat, electric lights. Location unsurpassed for health.

Tuition, books, heat, light, laundry, board, medical attention, annual deposit, chemical and athletic fees all included in the annual charge of $60.00 per quarter, payable in advance.

Sanitorium for issolation of contagious disease, resident physician and trained nurse in attendance.

Catalog giving full particulars on application. Attention is called to the Two Years Courses in Agriculture and Horticulture. Failure to report promptly means loss of opportunity to student.

Early application necessary for admittance. Write for particulars

R. W. SYLVESTER President.

Subscribe for The Republican, Oldest and Best Paper in Garrett county.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany County.

Stands First among the State Banks of Maryland

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and open an account with us.

JAMES M. SLOAN, President. DUNCAN R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

The First National Bank

Friendsville, Md.

Capital - $50,000
DEPOSITS, - $175,000

Surplus Fund, . $26,000
Undivided Profits 6,000

OFFICERS:

L. E. FRIEND, President,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Vice-Pres't
R. C. McCANDLISH, Vice-Pres't
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier

DIRECTORS:

L. E. FRIEND, Merchant,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Lumber and Coal
W. W. SAVAGE, Merchant,
D. S. CUSTER, Merchant,
H. M. RUMBAUGH, Farmer,
W. H. H. FRIEND, Pension Agent and Surveyor,
HORACE R. DEWITT, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCANDLISH,
JOHN T. GEARY.

THREE GOOD THINGS TO KEEP: Your Temper, Your Secrets, Your Money

Your money kept with us will earn you 4 Per Cent. Interest compounded semi-annually. Keep it here and after while it will keep you.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department

takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.

Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. EDW. WINTERS, - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
W. A. Hitchens, Frank Watts,
W. E. Stanton, W. T. Stanton.

THE GREATEST SALE OF

Gas Stoves, Heaters AND TINWARE

In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting

A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., Dec. 15, 1910.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, Jan. 2nd, 1910,

to appoint Road Supervisors and Constables and transact general routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building

DR. J. G ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegeny counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

DR. LOUIS I. PREVOST,
VETERINARY SURGEON,
MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.
Office Hours in Oakland from 2 to 5 o'clock p m

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Ravenscroft Building, Second St.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.
Prompt attention given all calls day or night.
Garrett County Telephone. 24-1yr.

DR. W. W. GRANT,
DENTIST.
Office, McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Bridge and Crown Work a Specialty.
Gold and Silver Fillings. 21-09-1y.

GEORGE W. LEGGE, JR.,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Practice in the Courts of Garrett and adjoining counties, and in the Maryland Court of Appeals. Associated with Thomas, J. Peddicord, First National Bank Building.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Garrett National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Commenced business November 14, 1888.

CAPITAL.	$ 50,000
SURPLUS AND PROFITS. .	45,000

OFFICERS:

D. E. OFFUTT, President.

G. S. HAMILL, Vice President.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

G. A. FRALEY, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Daniel E. Offutt — Gilmor S. Hamill
John M. Davis — George W. Legge
John T. Mitchell — William R. Stull
Scott T. Jones

Interest at the rate of 3% per annum paid on Time Certificates of Deposits and Savings Accounts.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent at reasonable rates.

Gonder's for toys and Christmas goods of every description.

Miss Helen Townshend spent Monday in Cumberland.

Mr. W. R. Stull returned to Oakland last Thursday evening for a brief stay.

Mr. John Kirkpatrick, of Hoyes, is in the city where he will spend the holidays.

Dwight Townshend has returned home from Baltimore to spend the holidays with his parents.

Mr. Howard Brenneman, of McHenry, was in Oakland on business Tuesday when he called at this office.

For Xmas goods, toys, candies, nuts, fruits, and novelties, visit me. Xmas cards 10c dozen. Baumgartner.

Mr. John Bond returned to Oakland last Saturday from a three week's visit to his old home at Brockwayville, Pa.

Mr. Merritt Wilson, of Wildell, West Va., spent Friday and Saturday in Oakland as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sincell.

Messrs. N. U. Bond and S. G. Ashby left Oakland for Frederick, Md., Sunday afternoon where they were called to attend court.

Mr. Owen Treacy is in a Cumberland hospital for treatment, having been taken ill while on a visit to that city several days ago.

Miss Katherine Shirer, who has been in Stanardsville, Va., for several months past, returned to her home in Oakland Sunday afternoon.

Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound will do it. 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

Miss Willa Robinson returned to her home in Baltimore Tuesday night, having resigned from her position in the Home Sanatorium as nurse.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Wilson and their little son Tom and Miss Simmons, all of near Wilson, were in the city Monday doing their Christmas shopping.

If you want holiday goods see Gonder. Make your selection from the advertisement printed in this paper today. His stock is complete in every particular.

Ami Teats, an old and respected resident of the county, was sent to Baltimore Monday afternoon to receieve treatment in one of the hospitals in that city.

Mrs. William R. Offutt and children have gone to Cumberland where they will spend the holiday season with Mrs. Offutt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson Humbird.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowie Johnson and little daughter will leave for Washington, D. C., tomorrow morning, where they will spend the holidays with Mrs. Virginia Johnson.

Mrs. James C. Peddicord returned from Baltimore last Saturday afternoon and is rapidly recovering from the effects of the surgical operation she underwent in one of the hospitals of that city.

The very best Xmas present is a subscription to a good magazine. U. G. Palmer, Jr. takes subscription to all of them. Club rates the lowest.

Mrs. E. H. Sincell slipped and fell on an icy pavement Monday night and besides suffering a deep scalp wound on the back of her head she was more or less severely bruised about her arms and shoulders.

Among the young men of Oakland who have returned to their homes from various colleges to spend the holidays with their parents we note Messrs. Joe McComas, Ralph Thayer, Stanley Mitchell and Milton and Edward Sincell.

PHILIP D. ARMOUR, the great multi-millionare Meat King first saved one hundred dollars from his earnings on the farm. He went from New York to California, there he got $5.00 a day for digging ditches. He still SAVED—saved a few thousand dollars. The first saving was the seed from which his vast fortune grew.

Make OUR Bank YOUR Bank.

We pay liberal interest consistent with safety—3 per cent.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OAKLAND, MD.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

The only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

No Alum, No Lime Phosphate

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Garrett County Telephone Company will be held at Hoyes on Monday, January 2nd, when officers and directors will be elected for the ensuing year and general business transacted.

For Xmas goods, toys, candies, nuts, fruits and novelties, visit me. Xmas cards 10c dozen. Baumgartner.

The wedding of Miss Marie Helbig and Mr. Philip T. Peddicord will occur on Tuesday morning next at ten o'clock at St. Peter's Catholic church in Oakland. The prospective bride and groom are two of Oakland's best known young people.

Miss Carrie Thrasher, of Deer Park, has gone to Baltimore to visit Mrs. Elmer Haulenbeck, and her sister-in-law, Miss Irene Haulenbeck. Miss Thrasher will visit Washington City before returning to her home in Garrett county.

Mr. Frank L. Wheeler, formerly of Deer Park, who has been located in Pittsburg for a number of years as an employe of the Western Union Telegraph company, has been promoted from the position of operator to that of supervisor of traffic with headquarters in Pittsburg.

For Xmas goods, toys, candies, nuts, fruits and novelties, visit me. Xmas cards 10c dozen. Baumgartner.

Mrs. Clarence G. Hammond, who resides near Terra Alta, having recently removed there from Mountain Lake Park, was in Oakland yesterday. The injuries received some days ago by her husband, when he lost several fingers of his right hand by having them cut off by a saw on the mill he was operating, were very painful, but he is recovering slowly.

Some local reporter for the Baltimore News sent a telegram to that paper from Oakland under date of Tuesday stating that twenty-four inches of snow covered the ground in the vicinity of Oakland. The snow may be that deep in the reporter's back yard where it has drifted but on the level the depth is not more than twelve inches, which, by the way, is sufficient for all purposes.

Mr. Louis H. Deifenbach, of near Grantsville, was in Oakland Tuesday on business connected with his agency for the sale of the Ford automobile. This car is one of the few low priced good machines now on the market, the demand for which is increasing every day. Mr. Deifenbach has one or two prospective customers in Oakland for machines which will likely to be delivered early in the spring.

For Xmas goods, toys, candies, nuts, fruits and novelties, visit me. Xmas cards 10c dozen. Baumgartner.

County Treasurer Robert L. Fries, whose foot was amputated at the Home Sanatorium in Oakland two or three weeks ago, has been discharged from the institution and expects to go to his home on White Rock today where he will visit his family until after the holidays. Mr. Fries' rapid recovery from the operation is a source of gratification not alone to himself and his physicians but also to his many friends.

Major General Sam B. Lee, of Terra Alta, spent Tuesday in Oakland on business, having come down to the Maryland town to purchase a quantity of Christmas goods and a goodly sized bottle of turpentine to be use in case of snake bite when the fishing season begins. The General is still a vigorous exponent of the rights of Terra Alta to to have the court house of Preston county and like the good soldier he is he never knows when he is licked.

The various Sunday schools of Oakland will observe Christmas as usual this year. Special musical and literary programs will be rendered, preparations for which have been going on for some time. The service at the Lutheran church will occur on Saturday night at which the boys' choir, under the direction of Dr. Robinson, will sing two selections. Other literary and musical numbers of the program will be rendered by members of the Sabbath school. The services in the Methodist church will occur Monday evening where the boys' choir will also sing. The Presbyterian school will observe the day Sunday evening.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

HIS TOES WERE FROZEN.

Prince Albert Shrout Will Lose Parts of Both Feet.

Prince Albert Shrout, who lives with his grandmother on Water Street, will be minus a number of toes and possibly a portion of one of his feet as a result of an experience he encountered two weeks ago at a point near Shafer, on the lumber road of the Kendall Company, a number of miles south of Crellin.

He had been at Shafer, working for the lumbering concern and had started for his home in Oakland Saturday afternoon when he was overtaken by darkness. With his feet wringing wet and the thermometer registering away below the freezing point, Shrout climbed into an empty box car located on a siding and there spent the night. Sunday morning he walked into Oakland when the frozen condition of his feet was discovered and a physician was summoned who attended him and has made him as comfortable as possible since. The frozen toes will be amputated in a day or two.

A sled belonging to the Chase farm, south of Oakland, to which was attached a pair of horses, while returning home from Oakland Tuesday afternoon, skidded while crossing the Third street bridge in Oakland and carried the guard rail of the bridge away, precipitating the sled to the ground below, a distance of something more than ten feet. As the sled went over the edge of the bridge the horses broke away from it, but were caught at the end of the bridge. Two ladies, the driver and a little child, besides a barrel of flour and other goods were in the sled when it took its flight, none of whom were injured in the slightest notwithstanding the fact that the sled overturned and buried the occupants in the deep snow beneath it.

The officers of the State Horticultural Department desire to inspect all nursery stock shipped into the State this fall and next spring. All persons receiving nursery stock from out-state nurseries are requested to notify the State Entomologist, College Park, Maryland. 3t

Where

is the best place to buy

MEATS

AT

CREUTZBERG'S

Old Reliable Up-to-Date

Meat Market

WITHOUT A DOUBT.

HOMER E. TURNEY,
Proprietor.

P. S. I pay the highest CASH market price for beef, pork, veal, mutton and lamb.

NOTICE!

TO THE

PUBLIC.

I have moved my

MEAT MARKET

INTO THE

Nally Building,

where I will conduct an up-to-date meat market.

Beef, Veal, Lamb, Mutton and Pork.

I wish a share of your patronage and thanking you for past favors, I am

Yours respectfully,

H. McC. SMOUSE.

The Up-To-Date Meat Market.

Stockholders' Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Garrett County Telephone Co., will be held at Hoyes, Md., on the

2nd Day of January, 1911,

at the hour of 10.30 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year and any other business that may come up at that time.

C. V. GUARD, Secretary.

ESTABLISHED 1884.

Need not be connected to waterworks, the same water can be used over and over again to operate

HOT WATER AND STEAM SYSTEMS.

Only a few gallons need to be added during a season

Automatically operated, safe and very durable.

A. D. NAYLOR & CO.

PRICES RIGHT. BOTH PHONES.

H. CREUTZBURG.

SEE MY FALL LINE OF

Dress Goods, Outing Flannels, Etc.

Ladies', Children's, Men's and Boys' Shoes.

Rain Coats for Ladies and Children. Rubber Boots & Shoes.

Full Line of MEN'S AND BOYS CLOTHING.

See my Special Pure Wool $10.00 Black Thibet Suits for Men

Boys Suits $2.50 and up.

Hand-Made Wisconsin Shoes for Men and Boys.

Full Line Groceries,

Meat Market in Connection,

ALL AT THE RIGHT PRICE.

H. CREUTZBURG, Opp P. O., Oakland, Md.

Pay Market Price for Produce.

Christmas Gifts.

Why not a pair of Shoes or a suit of Clothing for the boy a Christmas Gift? If they don't fit you can exchange after Christmas. We have several thousand pairs of Shoes and stacks of Clothing and Overcoats here waiting for you and we are giving 20% discount on Overcoats.

We can handle a lot of nice dressed TURKEYS at 21 cents, one-half cash, 22 cents trade, and the highest market prices for other poultry. Must be delivered on Tuesday or Wednesday.

BOLDEN, BROWN & WEIMER.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular meeting of the stockholders of the Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may come before them.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

from 1 to 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may be brought before them.

R. E. SLIGER, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Kitzmillerville, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

from 1 to 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of electing a board of Directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may be brought before them.

E. J. HAMILL, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

Pursuant to the required legal notice a meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Friendsville, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

at 10 o'clock A. M. for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business that may lawfully be done.

NORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier.

The Republican.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Publisher

OAKLAND, - - MARYLAND

Above all, do not forget your overshoes.

Codfish is scarce and high, and a fishball trust is suspected.

In some respects this has already been an old-fashioned winter.

And so far no one has invented a soft spot for aviators to fall on.

The English courts have small use for hypothetical questions or brainstorms.

One thing is certain, there is plenty of room for aviators to make high-flying records in.

The ideas of the weather clerk are excellent, but the stubborn climate will not adopt them.

The nervous wrecks in Newport are the grocers who cannot collect bills due from the 400.

In football, as in politics you cannot always tell. The same is true of love and the stock markets, however.

There are 51 active volcanoes in Japan, notwithstanding the fact that no political campaign is going on in Japan.

Pockets in women's skirts are coming back, says an exchange, if ever they can find the place where they used to be.

Dirigible balloons are dirigible only when they move with the wind. They cannot buck the wind as a real man-bird does.

The statement is made by a Swiss doctor that drunkards live longer than total abstainers. But even if they do, what's the use?

The population of the Philippines has decreased 25 per cent. since we took them over. Does race suicide also follow the flag?

That fringe of puppy dogs at a New York wedding has become almost as famous as the monkeys that dine with "the 400" at Newport.

Canada levied no duty on the balloons that started from St. Louis and went northward across the border. It did not know how to do it.

A New York judge has decided that Nevada divorces are no good. Just like a New Yorker discarding things because they're inexpensive!

Aeroplaning to Europe is the latest upon the aviator's schedule. It would be well to put off the attempt till after winter—say about flytime.

Every little while somebody wins the world's championship at typewriting, but for some reason champion typewriters never get splendid offers to go on the stage.

The man who never sees a $100 bill has no reason to worry because of that very dangerous counterfeit which the Washington authorities say is in circulation.

According to statistics there are 10,000,000 telephone stations in the world, and yet somehow or other you can't always get the one you want when you want it.

Thirty-four aviators have met with fatal accidents during the past year. Still, some of them might have stepped on rusty nails if they had remained on the ground.

Somebody says that the way to solve the transatlantic aviation problem is to manufacture hydrogen gas en route. If he had only said hot air, now, it would be simple.

Another aviator has broken the high-flight record for aeroplanes. It happens even more frequently than the launching of the largest ship or the death of the oldest Mason.

Horace Fletcher says that if one is to get his money's worth out of a glass of milk he should chew it. It might be asked what kind of milk Horace is in the habit of eating.

Somehow, we find it almost impossible to get rid of the feeling that the man who married the lady who was attended by three dogs as bridesmaids ought to be sympathized with even if he did go into it with his eyes open.

A Harvard professor declares that the late and loveless marriages are responsible for the disappearance of real Yankee blood. Most persons have thought this was due to the wholesale importation of other blood.

A Los Angeles woman used a stick of dynamite on her washboard, supposing it to be soap. The fact that there was no explosion indicates that the wretched makers of dynamite are adulterating it. Can't we have anything pure any more?

A Chicago professor has discovered that women gossip because gossiping gives a pleasing shock to their vasomotor systems. Having discovered so much, it ought to be possible to discover a substitute and thus save many innocent reputations.

NEW ERA IN FINANCE

ACCURACY AND PUBLICITY PROVES TO BE A POPULAR MOTTO.

Prompt Response to Bold Move of President Vail.—"Accuracy" Reduced Western Union's Surplus $13,000,000.—"Publicity" Restored Confidence and Its Stock Went Up.

Are the great financiers of the country beginning to see a new light? Time was, until recently in fact, when the men at the head of the big corporations "kept their business to themselves," as far as the law would allow. Capable men at the head of the big concerns, long realized the weakness of their position, but what was needed obviously, as in all great reforms, was an unmistakable occasion and a courageous man. The occasion arose in the purchase of the Western Union Telegraph company by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and the man appeared in Theodore N. Vail, President of the purchasing corporation.

It was last December when public announcement was made that the Gould holdings of Western Union had been taken over by the Telephone company.

On account of the high esteem in which the management of the telephone company is so generally held, great things were predicted as a result of the absorption of Western Union. By the press of the country the "deal" was most favorably commented on, it being widely pointed out that under the direction of such men as Theodore N. Vail and his associates, the telegraph company was bound soon to work itself into a position where it could offer the public far more efficient service than it had ever before been able to offer.

But a very few months had elapsed when it became apparent to the new management that a modern and up-to-date appraisal of the company's assets would make possible a far greater degree of efficiency of operation. "Here," they said to themselves, "we've bought control of this property and we know it's immensely valuable, but we don't know just how valuable. These appraisals of real estate and securities owned were made a long time ago. If we have a complete inventory made of every thing we've got we can announce the facts to the public, start a new set of books, and begin our responsibility to stockholders right there."

How Inventory Was Taken.

The most expert accountants and appraisers to be had were put at the task. Their labors lasted over eight months. Their report and its publication by the company marks an epoch in finance.

It began by recommending an adjustment of the difference between the appraised and book values by a charge of $5,595,089 against surplus. Book values of securities held were reduced to market values, bad and doubtful accounts were "charged off," an allowance of $2,000,000 was made for "depreciation," another of $500,000 for "reserve," and so on, until the old surplus of $18,867,000 came down to $5,136,000.

It required courage, the publication of this statement to stockholders, saying in effect: "The property of your company has been revalued: the surplus isn't nineteen millions, as you have been led to believe, but five millions," but it was the truth, and President Vail did not flinch. "Accuracy and publicity," he declared, was essential. "The stockholder has a right to know. The shares of this company are scattered from one end of the Union to the other. This is more than a private corporation. It is a great national enterprise. The public is entitled to the facts."

The report was ordered published forthwith. Financiers of the old school and speculators generally were aghast. What would happen? Would the bottom drop out of Western Union when the shareholders realized that their propetry was worth $13,000,000 less than they had supposed? But the amazing thing happened. The stock went up and stayed up. The public had responded to this remarkable display of frankness and confidence; to the new motto, "Accuracy and Publicity."

The full significance of the action of the new board is stated concisely by Harper's Weekly in these words:

"Is this policy of publicity and of open-handed dealing with shareholders and public the forerunner of a similar movement on the part of other big corporations? Certainly it is to be hoped that it is. In the case of these big companies, dependent upon public patronage and doing business under public franchise, can there be any question of the right of the people to know?

"That right is being recognized. It is recognized now in this epochal act on the part of the telephone and telegraph interests. It is the dawn of a new era in corporation finance."

Timeliness.

All measures of reformation are effective in exact proportion to their timeliness; partial decay may be cut away and cleansed; incipient error corrected; but there is a point at which corruption can no more be stayed, nor wandering recalled. It has been the manner of modern philanthropy to remain passive until that precise period, and to leave the sick to perish, and the foolish to stray, while it spent itself in frantic exertions to raise the dead, and reform the dust.—Ruskin.

The World's Wonders

STRANGE THINGS FOUND IN VARIOUS PORTIONS OF THE EARTH

Plucked in Service of Woman

More like a plucked turkey on stilts than the big feathery bird we all know is the ostrich after he has been robbed of his plumes for the use of the women of fashion. However, though distressingly nude, the ostrich does not seem to mind his temporary condition but is apparently quite happy.

GREATEST MOTHER IN WORLD

The greatest mother in the world, perhaps, is Mrs. Jane Morris, residing in Jackson county, near the foothills of the Cumberland mountains in Kentucky. Mrs. Morris was born and reared in the mountains, has little education and until a few years ago had never been outside of her immediate vicinity, there being to this time no railroad in Jackson county.

Her claim to greatness lies in the fact that she can boast of a total of 518 descendants, nearly all of whom are living and none of whom ever has been accused of crime.

"My life's motto has been," said the venerable old mother the other day, "the Golden Rule. The duty of a wife is to her home and her country, to bear the burden of motherhood in strict accordance to the laws of nature, and my obedience to the same is why, at the age of eighty-six, I can glory in the fact that out of the great number of my children not one in an inmate of any school of reform, jail, penitentiary or asylum of any kind."

Aunt Jane, as she is called, is eighty-six years old, and says she expects to live to be a hundred and to see descendants of the fifth generation. Her husband died 20 years ago, six years after they had celebrated their golden wedding. She never married again, and, remarkable as it may seem, the entire number of descendants are from this one union.

Her most productive child is Hannah Lakes, who had 16 children and has more than eighty descendants, but Mrs. Sallie Sparks follows closely with 15 children, 29 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Of Mrs. Morris' children Lewis had only one child and Bettie died without marrying, while Fannie and Lydia are still living, but never married.

A summary of Mrs. Morris' descendants follows:

Her children.	Grand-children	Great-Grand-children	Great-Grand-children
John Morris	10	50	2
Sallie Sparks	15	29	13
Job Morris	14	34	18
William Morris	13	44	5
Hannah Lakes	16	76	8
L. V. Morris	11	34	1
Leah Marcum	12	29	1
Canada Morris	7	18	1
Mary J. Isaacs	6	1	..
Margaret Johnson	13	11	..
Cynthia M. Pervitt	10	..	..
Lewis Morris	1	..	..
Bettie Morris	..	..	..
Fannie Morris	..	..	..
Lydia Morris	..	..	..
Total—15 children	128	326	49
Grand total—518.

Mrs. Morris is said by all who know her to live well up to the Golden Rule she has taken as her life's motto.

ABSOLVED WHILE DROWNING

A dramatic story was told at the inquest at Dalkey (County Dublin) on Father English, of Dublin, who was drowned one day lately while swimming with Father Walsh at Dalkey. The latter described how, when Father English became exhausted, he seized and dragged him near the shore, but three times the heavy wash swept them out. Becoming exhausted himself, Father Walsh lost his hold, and, seeing it was only a matter of moments with his fellow-priest, raised his hand and gave him absolution. A moment later Father English disappeared, his body being recovered later.

SAILOR SAVED BY HIS CAT

Writing in a London (Eng.) paper, an officer relates a most curious instance of a cat unintentionally saving the life of a man. Some time ago, he says, he was in a collision catastrophe in which a steamer sunk a sailing ship in the Atlantic. The steamer's boats were promptly lowered, and, notwithstanding the darkness (it was night) saved a number of the crew of the sailing ships. Those in charge of the boats, thinking that they had saved all, were about to return to their steamer, when they heard the piteous mewing of a cat. Rowing up to the sound, they lifted a cat out of the water, and as she was raised the head of a man rose from under her. He was the last of the men of the sailing ship, and the cat had taken refuge on his head. He was unconscious, but was resuscitated, so all the men were saved.

CURSE WAS ON GREAT HOTEL

A curious tradition lingers around the Savoy Hotel, London, where some wonderful alterations have just been carried out. When this great establishment was first opened it had a singular run of ill-luck. One of the directors, seeking to learn the cause of it, was told an odd story. The land on which the hotel was built had formerly belonged to a monastic order which was expelled at the Reformation, the property being confiscated. On leaving, the abbot had cursed the ground, declaring that any enterprise connected with it should not prosper. On hearing this tale the director sought out a monastery of the expelled order which still exists in Devonshire, and by much tact and diplomacy induced the abbot there to go through the form of removing the curse. No one who is aware of the position the Savoy holds in London today can doubt that the removal was effective.

WAT TYLER'S ENORMOUS BOOT

No man living in England has a more remarkable collection of relics than Lord Llangattock at the Hendre, Monmouth. Amongst them is an ancient and clumsy boot, which belonged to the celebrated Wat Tyler. Invited to a parley at Smithfield with Richard II., in 1380, Tyler addressed the king in a menacing manner, now and again lifting up his sword. On this, the Mayor Walworth stunned Tyler with his mace, and one of the king's knights dispatched him. The sole and heel of this boot are enormous, and on the side of the leg is the mark of a sword-cut.

Neptune's Court on the Line

There is no more picturesque celebration at sea than the ancient ceremony of crossing the equator. For centuries no ship, big or little, has "crossed the line" without paying honor to Neptune, however crudely. Of late years these ceremonies are often elaborately staged. The sensation of crossing the equator is unfamiliar even to the most experienced travelers. Passenger traffic moves around the world along parallel lines, and while 10,000 voyagers cross the Atlantic ocean, few sail from the north to south Atlantic, thus carrying them across the equator.

Only last year the first large party of tourists "crossed the line" incidental to a trip from the United States to South America. The party consisted of 350 Americans and the celebration of the crossing, the first participated in by so many pleasure seekers in the history of passenger traffic, surpassed all precedent. Before sailing from New York, the Bluecher was equipped with all the material required for stage-setting the celebration. The initiation of the entire ship's company followed. When the ceremonies were at an end, each was presented with an elaborate document stating that the owner had paid his respects to Neptune in proper form, and that hereafter, according to the proverbial custom of the seas, he would be permitted to cross the line without further initiation.

On the morning the Bluecher neared the equator, Neptune and his court, elaborately costumed, took their places on an improvised throne on the upper deck. One by one the luckless tourists were ceremoniously taken before the king who judged the case and announced the penalty. The prisoner was sentenced to receive either a hair cut, a bath or a shave, or all three. Escape was impossible. Those who attempted to dodge the judge by hiding were sought out by four brawny "policemen." Even the women were initiated but more mildly.

For Women's Needs

Every woman should fortify herself against those weaknesses and derangements which are usually present at times when Nature makes extra demands upon the system.

For women's special ailments there is no known remedy so safe and reliable as

Beecham's Pills

These pills possess corrective and tonic properties which have a marked effect upon the general health and promptly relieve nervousness, sick headache, depression, backache, weakness and other unpleasant symptoms. Beecham's Pills establish healthy conditions and furnish

Help at the Right Time

Sold Everywhere. In boxes 10c. and 25c.

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S

ASTHMA

Remedy for the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask your druggist for it. Write for FREE SAMPLE. NORTHROP & LYMAN CO. Ltd., BUFFALO, N.Y.

For men whose time is valuable

Gillette

KNOWN THE WORLD OVER

ASTHMA CURED TO STAY CURED

No relapse. No return of choking spells or other asthmatic symptoms. Whetzel system of treatment approved by best U. S. medical authorities as the only system known to permanently cure the disease. FREE TEST TREATMENT including medicines, prepared for anyone giving a full description of the case and sending names of 2 asthma sufferers. Address FRANK WHETZEL, M.D. Dept. Z, American Express Building, Chicago.

TAKE A DOSE OF

PISO'S

THE BEST MEDICINE for COUGHS & COLDS

True men and women are all physicians to make us well.—C. A. Bartol.

One Thing That Will Live Forever, PETTIT'S EYE SALVE, first box sold in 1807, 100 years ago, sales increase yearly. All druggists or Howard Bros., Buffalo, N.Y.

INNOCENT ON ONE COUNT.

Mrs. Farmer—Say, did you say you wasn't goin' to do no work for dat dinner?

Boston Billings—Ah! ma'am, I assure you the double negative is a solecism I've never been guilty of.

Was All Right.

Howard—Did you telephone Mrs. Howard that I would be detained at the office until midnight?

Office Boy—Yes, sir.

"And what did she say?"

"Said she didn't blame you—she had made an engagement to go to the theater tonight herself."—Smart Set.

A man ought to know a great deal to acquire a knowledge of the immensity of his ignorance.—Lord Palmerston.

Post Toasties

With Cream

or

With Milk

or

With Fruit.

Savoury

Wholesome

Economical

"The Memory Lingers"

Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

Rosemary-that's for Remembrance

A Christmas Story by S. R. Crockett

CLARA WAS LOOKING SIDEWAYS AT THE PATTERN OF THE CARPET

A GIRL STANDING ON THE STEPS, PUTTING UP HOLLY AND GREEN STUFF

THE Morris-Moores had just had their first—no, not quarrel—tiff. Harry was now in his study pulling down books he did not want and piling them up on his table. He selected a row of notebooks bearing title, "The Grisons and the Italian Valleys." He got out extensive white-blotched Swiss survey maps, and files of the little "Ladin" paper printed at Samaaden. He had got all this up thoroughly on his last journey, and now was the time to dip deep into the pile of printed and annotated "stuff." It would help him to forget anything so absolutely silly as a little wife upstairs in her room, the tears of temper still wet on her cheeks, and employing her small white teeth in reducing to tattered "waste" a soaked lace pocket handkerchief.

Henry Morris-Moore felt himself very superior. He was calm, cold, judicial, and above what he called "infantile tempers."

Upstairs Clara wept and fretted.

To think, only to think—scarcely ten months married, and it had come to this! Ah, if only she had known! Were all men so cruel, so bitter? Did nobody care for her? She would go to her mother—No (Clara's reflection came refreshingly cool, like a splash of cold water), no-o-o—well, not quite that! For one thing, she knew her mother; and Mrs. Murray-Linklater would "pack her back to her husband." Clara heard her mother speak these very words.

But—it was over. So much was fixed. Never, never would it be "glad, confident morning again." Henry had settled that when he spoke those words—those cruel dividing words. He had said—had said—well, Clara could not quite remember what. But, at any rate, it was over. She could never forgive him—for saying that—yes, about dear Aunt Laetitia. Oh, yes, she remembered, "that he could never get her a single night to himself without some stalking old she-patriarch with a reticule coming in to spoil everything."

Clara would not have her family spoken against—not by a score of Henry Moores. She had been educated carefully in the Murray-Linklater cult, and no Vere de Vere could be prouder of her name.

Clara, in her bolted bedroom, was getting out her blotting book and pad to write to her poor wronged aunt. She was going to ask a refuge for the few remaining days of a blasted life. Yes, that was the adjective she was using, and (strange coincidence!) the villain below stairs was also using it, though perhaps in a more colloquial sense. He had just knocked over a whole pile of the neat notebooks in which he stored away his literary material, and was passing off his own clumsiness in invective against inanimate things. This was his man's way of biting his handkerchief.

But the strong arm of coincidence reached yet further.

Stumbling and grumbling, Harry gathered up the fruit of his travel experiences and began re-storing them in the little three-cornered shelves where he kept such things for reference. Work would not "go" to-night, somehow. One remained in his hand—a small pocket notebook with rounded corners, which served to carry about him for the shortest personal jottings. Usually it lay among his keys on the dressing table, and when he shaved he was in the habit of putting down a word or two—oh, as brief and bald as possible.

But this particular stubby volume happened to be his diary of two years ago, and he stood there with one hand mechanically pushing the notebooks into their places, while his eyes, entangled by what he read, transported him to the ragged carpet, the peremptorily furnished lodgings, the solitary walks, hands deep in pockets, overcoat collar up, cap pulled low—of the days when first— But stay, what was Clara doing?

She had got out her blotting book from under "The Songs of the North." The new maid—very hard on the temper of young wives are new maids, as a class—had jammed it into the rack, bending the corners shamefully. And so, when at last Clara had released the folio, lo! a cascade of solidly built volumes in red basil clattered to the ground. She had just time to spring back; for the volumes had solid brass locks, all opened with the same little gold key. She wore it about her neck, and no one in the world, not even Harry, had ever been allowed to peep within. Indeed, since she was married she had not often done so herself. But now—now that the happiness of her life had foundered beneath her, she would go back—it might be all the pleasure (sob) that was left her—thus to live over a happy past. (A time.)

Watkins, the Moores' new maid, experienced some surprise (and not unnaturally) when, in the exercise of her vocation, she was carrying a copper jug of hot water to Mrs. Moore's dressing room before sounding the first gong, she observed her master and mistress approach each other from opposite ends of the corridor, both intently reading, like people on a stage—he in a small black book, she in one large, fat and red.

A still poorer opinion had Sarah Watkins of her new place when she saw the readers look up simultaneously, suddenly and guiltily close their books, turn on their several heels, and so exeunt.

"And them sez as what they has only been married ten months!" she meditated. "Well—we'll see what's to come of this!"

The family dinner that night was distinguished by extreme correctitude of demeanor, and an etiquette almost Spanish in its statelliness. They were nothing if not polite—that is, when Watkins was in the room. But Watkins knew, and stayed a moment on the mat, listening to the silence that dropped like a pall. She entered, smiling to herself, knowing (oh, experienced Watkins) that she would find Clara looking sideways at the pattern of the carpet as though she had never seen it before, while at his end of the table Harry was molding bread pellets as if for a wager. These things do not vary.

But even Watkins the wise did not know everything. Penny fiction does not inform its readers what real people do. So as soon as Clara had escaped out of the dining room, before he had time to open the door for her, Harry sulkily sat down and felt for his cigarette case. He was sure he had left it in the drawing room. Yet he would not go for it. He could hear Clara playing a noisy jig, the wriggle and stamp of which he particularly loathed.

"The little wretch," he said, laughing in spite of himself, "she knows quite well."

"Good evening, Mr. Moore," said his wife, and he rose and went. "Your cigarette case is in the smoking room."

But this time Harry had it all his own way. Six feet of blonde colossus made short work of mere pinpricks of the tongue. Clara found herself swept off the piano stool and installed where, on the rounded arm of a big easy chair, she had little more liberty of movement than that of swinging her feet naughtily and rebelliously, while her husband questioned her.

"What book were you reading so intently this afternoon when I came upon you in the corridor? Let me see it?"

"Shan't!" (A time). "Oh, you coward! Because you are strong! I shall go to—to—"

"Where? To whom?" said Harry, easily.

"To my—to Aunt Laetitia."

"She wouldn't have you, child," laughed her husband, "and besides, she would charge you board—which I should have to pay!"

"Well, I would pay it out of my own money—there!"

"What own money?"

"My house money!"

"You forget, Mrs. Morris-Moore," said her husband, gravely, "if you run away you wouldn't have any house money!"

Then in a burst, as he shook her, "Oh' you great baby," he cried, "make up. Bring the book! It was a volume of your diary. I knew by the lock. I'll show you mine. Fair exchange! Off with you!"

"Well, come with me, then," said Clara, holding out her hand, "but don't you think I'm giving in. It's only yielding to brute force. My spirit is unconquered."

"Never mind your spirit," said her lord, "fetch the book!"

And in these books, the greater and the lesser, they read late into the night.

And this was what they found.

"'Christmas eve'"— said Clara, "begin there!"

And she paused, waiting, with her finger in its place.

"Oh," said her husband, "I don't think there is much!"

"And you call yourself a writer!"

"Well, shall I begin?" Clara was all on pins and needles now. She could hardly keep still. The quarrel was forgotten.

"'Christmas eve' (she read). 'A dull day—Paid calls in the lane—Went to Margaret's. Baby is adorable and Tom begins to love me and calls me Aunty dee-ar. Came home by Grant's and brought back fruit for dinner. There is a man coming, a friend of father's. It is a horrid nuisance.'"

Here Clara Moore broke off suddenly.

"Oh, I wrote everything fresh, you see. I wanted to remember. You've no idea how bad my memory used to be in those days. Being married helps. One has to remember one's husband's iniquities."

"'Set in a notebook, learned and conned by rote,' murmured Harry.

His wife stopped and looked severely at him.

"Well," she said, "I did write a lot, I know, and yours is no fair exchange. I did it partly as an exercise, you see, for I was considered very good at composition at school, whatever you may think. Besides, I don't believe you have anything in that book at all."

"Oh, yes—I have!" and he flourished a closely written page of memoranda before her eyes.

"Well," she said, with a sigh (and her eyes were dim and distant), "I will read—though I never thought to let anyone see—not even you. But since you have been so horrid to me, I will."

It seemed an odd reason, but Harry wisely nodded. Clara fluttered some leaves thoughtfully. "Where shall I go on?" she asked, knitting her brows.

"You did begin from the beginning," he smiled as he spoke, "why not continue?"

She glanced up with sudden shyness, almost as he spoke, "why not continue?"

She glanced up with sudden shyness, almost like a surprised Eve.

"You were saying that it was a horrid nuisance, having me come to dinner," said Harry Moore, "did you change your mind?"

"Here it is," said his wife, running her eye down the columns of close-knit writing. "'11:00 p. m. He is gone. It was not so horrid after all. But I think he likes Edith best. He is big and badly dressed. Why can't writers and artistic people dress humanly? He had on the funniest tie I ever saw, and a beard, and he came in a big gray cloak like one of Millet's shepherds. But he talked—yes, it was worth while hearing him talk. Not much to me, though, but he looked at me a lot, and somehow seemed to be conscious of everything I was doing. Dr. Stonor came in after, and wanted me to look out music for him. We went into the corner together and got out the folios, and though he was talking to father, I knew very well he was watching us.' That's all," Clara concluded. She had been reading very rapidly, as if anxious to get to the end. "Now for yours!"

Mine! oh, mine's no great thing," said Harry, opening his little black pocketbook, "jottings merely."

"Go on, please," cried Clara, stamping her foot, "and mind, don't alter a word or put in more. I shall know!"

"'Christmas eve'" (began Harry) "'worked at Guardian article, took it round, saw proof of yesterday's. Chief wants me to go to Armenia about the atrocities. Shan't!- To club in afternoon—Clifton, McCosh, Moxon and several of the fellows there, who wanted me to stop. Told them I couldn't. Had to go out to old Linklater's to dinner—girls, music, bore—but I should look in later.'"

"Oh!" interjected Clara, with her head suddenly haughty, "a bore—was it?"

"You said a horrid nuisance!" remarked her husband, and continued his reading without troubling to defend himself further.

"'I got there early—long way out of town—several false trails. At last found the place—a big house under trees. From the doorway I could see in the hall a girl standing on steps, putting up holly and green stuff. Presently old Linklater came and introduced me. "This is Clara!" I became conscious of two great, dark, steady, grayish-hazel eyes. The dinner went all right after that. Pretty—well, I don't know: a fascinating and glamorous person certainly. There was also a sister.'"

"Nonsense!" said Clara. "You are making up as you go along. I know you."

Her husband silently handed her the book. Decidedly it was so written.

Clara did not apologize for her unbelief. She only remarked, "Oh, but you are a dear."

And, rubbing her cheek against his coat sleeve, she purred.

"Go on!" she said.

"'Dinner quite informal,' Harry continued. "'Talked too much, but got led on somehow. Everything went well. Doctor fellow there, who put on a lot of friend-of-the-family side—sat in a corner and talked to the girl with the eyes.'"

"Ah, ha! You see—you were jealous already!" cried Clara, clapping her hands joyously.

"Nonsense!" said Harry Moore. "Of little Stonor? I think I see myself!"

"Read the next day—go on—go on! No, the day you came to Elton again!"

"'Went to make my "digestion" call. Took some flowers up to Elton, and talked to the old lady. Think I made a conquest. But the Lady of the Eyes did not show up. Waited an hour and a half, but don't think I wasted my time entirely. Dear old lady!'"

"Harry, you are a cold-blooded wretch!"

"Very much the contrary, Mrs. Moore!"

"Now shall I read?" And without giving him time to answer, Clara opened the solid basil boards and continued, "'Dec. 28th: Went out all the afternoon with Miss Grierson. Down the lane—soup kitchen, girls' club, and went home with her to tea. When I got home I saw mother had a secret. You always knew by the satisfied way she has of looking mysterious. She would be disappointed if you didn't ask her at once. So I teased her to tell.

"'Do you know whom I've been entertaining all afternoon?' she said, her shoulders shaking with repressed laughter. I understood well enough.

"'Oh, the curate,' I said, as carelessly as I could. 'I saw him going down the lane like a pair of compasses let loose.'

"'Do you think the curate would bring me those?' said mother, triumphantly. And she showed me a lovely bunch of roses, a wagon-load nearly, which she had set well back in the dusk of the piano, so that I should not see them before mother had her little triumph. My! they must have cost heaps of money this time of year. 'They are all mine,' said mother, 'but if you are good you can have just one bud for yourself. You see what one gets by staying quietly at home!'

"'She was teasing me, of course, this dear old sweet-hearted mother.

"'You see what one gets for doing works of charity and mercy!' I said. 'He would have given them to me if I'd been here. I'll never do a good action again!'"

"Now turn on to 'Four Seas Cottage,' and read about that," cried Clara. Her eyes were not gray now, nor yet hazel. The dark pupils had swallowed up all the rest, overflowing everything with the soft blackness of a misty night of few stars.

"Let's see. Easter, wasn't it?" said her husband. "But why skip? Much water had flowed under bridges during these months of spring."

"Oh, I want to get to the end—the end!" Clara whispered, excitedly. "Quick, quick—I can't wait!"

"Well, here it is: 'April 8th. We went a walk along the beach, she and I. We talked. I told her that unless something was going to come of this, I must go away.

"'What,' she said, 'for altogether?' And I said 'Yes.' Then she walked a good while silent, and when I looked, I could see'—"

"No, you didn't" said Clara. "I could never have been so silly!"

"'Tear after big tear rolling slowly down her cheek,'" Harry continued, imperturbably. "'I needed no more than that—who would?

"'You don't want me to go?' I cried.

"'She shook her head, still weeping, and not caring now whether I saw or not.

"'So I stayed.'"

They sat long silent that night in their own home, near each other, and happy Harry's heart was softened. He was in the mood for concessions.

"Dear," he said, "if you would like Aunt Laetitia to come and stay with us a month—"

"Oh, bother Aunt Laetitia!" exclaimed Mrs. Henry Moore, "I only want you!"

And thus did Clara Murray-Linklater deny her father's house and cleave to her husband.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

HARM IN OCCASIONAL GLASS

Prof. Amaldi, Noted Italian Alienist, Tells of Many Dangers in Moderate Drinking.

The gifted Italian alienist, Prof. Paolo Amaldi, who is a physician and scientist of international note, delivered recently a public address on alcoholism and moderate drinking which is attracting wide attention and which illustrates in a striking way the fact that the great scientist leaders of the European movement against alcohol almost without exception make straight for the logical conclusion of abstinence.

"It is," said Professor Amaldi, "no spirit of dogmatism which makes me judge anti-alcohol propaganda of the moderate type to be contradictory, useless and harmful. Rather the plainest logic. Alcohol is a poison, the prototype of narcotics, charged with passing seductions and permanent disasters. In the true and precise sense of the word no dose is harmless. In fact, a 'harmless glass' is a myth without scientific justification. From no point of view is it a food. The most minute quantity diminishes the system's power of resistance, as Laitenen's beautiful experiments have proved.

"Now, the logical conclusion from these facts is abstinence—a conclusion corroborated by personal experience. For thirty years I was a moderate drinker of wine. For fourteen I have lived abstinent, and the result is I commend abstinence to all who are dear to me. As a physician, too, and not merely in my work as an alienist, my most important successes are due to indicated prohibition of alcoholics, including wine.

"I must explain how and why I consider a temperance agitation in the moderate sense as an evil thing. First, it must be remembered that moderation has been fruitlessly preached for centuries by moralists and philanthropists. Further, in Italy, it is not the alcoholism of the few who land in prisons and madhouses which is the danger, but the widespread moderate alcoholism, which, affecting all strata of society, soils and discolors the whole nation; which under the disguise of 'the harmless glass,' weakens the whole national organism's power of resistance, increases disease of all kinds, makes the bed for all forms of tuberculosis, prepares the moral and physical decline of coming generations and filches a fourth—perhaps a third—of our people's wages spent in 'moderate drinking.' The alcoholism of the insane, the criminal, the drunkard, is but the visible and irremediable exponent of the fundamental, the true pathological phenomenon—the social alcoholism, against which we must and can struggle.

"In this sense the maxim that moderate drinkers are the real cause of alcoholism is true. It is a pity that we, in Italy, cannot take advantage of the experiences of other people in this fight. For if we should advance now to the radical position we could blot out the twenty to forty years which separates us from other nations."

EVILS OF THE LIQUOR HABIT

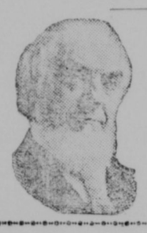
Little Band of Indian Shakers Are Doing Much to Stamp Out Injurious Traffic in West.

Working quietly but steadily, a little band of Indian Shakers, adherents of a new Indian religion, are doing more to stamp out intemperance in the northwest than any other factor, says Collier's. Asking no help from the whites or from the Indians themselves, but believing that they are directed by the spirit of their departed leader and founder of the sect, John Slocum, the priests of the belief are found in nearly all the Indian villages of Washington and Oregon. They teach one doctrine—temperance—cry continually against the evils of the liquor habit, and expound crudely the teachings of the Bible. John Slocum, the Moses of the Shakers, though dead, is their prophet. Through him the "Great Spirit is directing the work of saving the red men from their greatest curse—whisky."

Since the Shaker priests have started their crusade, the authorities are finding that it is much easier to stop the illegal traffic of liquor among the Indians. When an Indian, a member of the faith, backslides and falls by the wayside, the priests or priestesses find out who sold the liquor and report the seller to the authorities. Convictions are assured, as the Indians will testify against the prisoner, something that has never been true in the northwest before.

A few months ago the Shakers dedicated a handsome new church at Mud Bay, near Olympia, the capital of Washington, the home and the birthplace of the new faith. The church is a substantial structure constructed entirely by the Indians. Peter Kalama, a highly educated, wealthy priest of the faith, donated the money to buy the materials, and with the other Mud Bay Indians, did the manual labor upon the building. Mud Bay Sam donated to the church an acre of ground, upon which the building stands.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT...



Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL, Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

Immortal Worms and Unquenchable Fire

"Where their worm dieth not and their fire is not quenched" (Mark ix, 44).

These words from the lips of our Master, the Great Teacher, have been grievously misunderstood. The teaching of our Protestant childhood was to the effect that only the saintly elect would go to heaven and that others would not only lose heaven, but gain an eternal life in torment. Thus our text was understood to portray what practically the whole world of mankind would be compelled to endure. This hell was pictured to our childhood minds from outside the Bible as heated to a white heat. If we expressed wonder or surprise that any human creature could endure such conditions so long the answer was that God would exercise his omnipotent power to make us fire-proof and pain-sensitive. Some theologians of the Thomas a Kempis school of thought went so far as to picture the poor creatures in their sufferings and to show that the heat would form a kind of an asbestos covering which would shield them from a measure of its intensity. But those deluded theologians proceeded to explain that these outer coverings would crack and shell off every little while, leaving the poor victim freshly tender that his suffering might be the more intense.

Of course, these theologians of the past had their difficulty in dealing with the worms. They could imagine devils who would oversee the torture as being made immune to pain by the chief torturer, the Almighty God. But just how to imagine the worm getting along in so great a heat and how they would in any wise increase the torture of the poor sufferers was to many a perplexity. But patient thoughtfulness along these cruel and devilish lines enabled some to formulate the theory that the worms would be fiery ones, living in fire, delighting in fire—worms that would bore through the incrustations and add still further to the horrible sufferings of the world of mankind.

Was This What Jesus Meant?

Did the Great Teacher intend that such conclusions should be drawn from his language? And did he stop short of the description from reasons of sympathy or modesty or shame? Is this the general teaching of God's Word or has a great and terrible mistake been made? And have we mistaken a figure of speech and treated it as literal? We erred. We misunderstood. The Great Teacher who rebuked his disciples, James and John, when they desired to call fire from heaven upon the City of Samaria, because the people thereof refused to sell them food for the Master—the sympathetic One who said to them, "Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of; the Son of man came not to destroy men's lives, but to save them"—could that Son of man in any wise intend to tell us that our great Heavenly Father had less of the spirit of love and righteousness than the two impetuous disciples? Did he mean to intimate that while the disciples impetuously might have been willing to destroy the earthly life of the Samaritans, the Heavenly Father, of still more demoniacal disposition, would treat practically all mankind ten million times worse than that and use Divine Power to all eternity to perpetuate the sufferings of his earthly creatures which his own Word declares were born in sin, shapen in iniquity, in sin did their mothers conceive them?—earthly creatures, too, whose environment was unfavorable and whose Adversary, the devil, God neither destroyed nor bound?

Such an interpretation, my dear hearers, is not supposable. We must look for some explanation of the Master's words more consistent with his own character and with the Heavenly Father's character, and more consistent with our conception of what a Just, Loving, Wise and Powerful Creator would do. It does not answer the purpose to say, as so many do, "Bosh, do not discuss such a matter. Nobody now believes such things!" This one Scripture repudiated would shake our confidence in the whole Bible. But rightly explained and understood it would settle and increase our faith in the Scriptures as a Divine message. This, then, must be our object—not merely to cast from us the devilish interpretation of the dark ages, but to ascertain the true interpretation—to get the true lesson from the words of the Great Teacher. Thousands are drifting off into more or less open infidelity simply because of the irrational interpretation given to this text and two or three others. And these errors have become so fastened in our minds from childhood days that they have become part and parcel of our very lives, so that many of us would have been inclined at one time to dispute the very existence of a God as much as to dispute such slanderous misrepresentations of his glorious character.

Entering Into Life.

Let us go back to Jesus' day and in mind place ourselves with those who heard him utter the words of our text and context. The Teacher had just said, "If thy hand offend thee, cut it off—it is better for thee to enter into life maimed, than, having two hands, to go into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched, where their worm dieth not and their fire is not quenched." He said the same in the following verses respecting the foot and the eye. Was he speaking literally or figuratively? Does any sane person suppose today that Jesus advised a literal cutting off of a hand or a foot or the plucking out of an eye? Assuredly not. And the person who would follow his counsel in that way would be considered unbalanced in mind. We all recognize what he did mean, namely, that if any who desired to have eternal life found that they had hindrances of appetite or pleasure or what not, as dear to them as an eye, foot, hand, these precious, but disqualifying sins or wrong-doings, should be put away—no matter how precious they were—no matter how highly esteemed. By way of contrast, the Master suggested that if the retaining of these things would hinder them from entering into life they could not afford to retain them—that even if they were to carry the figure further and suppose that in the future life they would be deprived to the extent of being maimed to all eternity it still would be preferable to them to practice the self-denial now and to enter into life.

Be it noted that the reward here indicated is in the entering into life, and the intimation is that those who fail will not have life at all—that they will fail to attain life; that they will have no eternal life, either in pain or in pleasure. Let us examine our text further and see this.

Gehenna Typed the Second Death.

The word hell in our text is from the Greek word gehenna, which, in turn, was a corruption of the Hebrew word geh-hinnon, which signifies valley of death. There are two other words in the New Testament Greek translated hell in our common version. One of these, tartarus, has no reference to humanity whatever, but merely signifies our earth's atmosphere—the place where Satan and the fallen angels are restrained in chains of darkness (II Peter ii, 4). The other Greek word rendered hell in the New Testament is hades, which corresponds exactly to the word rendered hell in the Old Testament, namely sheol. And all scholars know that both of these words signify the same thing. They are used interchangeably in the Scriptures to designate the state or condition of death—the tomb. No person, of even slight education, would for a moment attempt to claim that eternal torment is taught by sheol, hades or tartarus. The great stress of all who teach eternal torment falls, therefore, upon the word hell found in our text—in the original Greek, gehenna.

What we have to say respecting it will undoubtedly be news to but few of this congregation. But since this sermon will be reported in more than seven hundred newspapers of the land, our explanation will probably eventually reach ten million people, to whom the Truth on the subject will be new. What we have to say is not new to educated ministers, however, and why, as pastors, they have kept the sheep of their flock in the dark on the subject is for them to explain. They certainly cannot plead ignorance. At very most they can apologize that they hoped that the misunderstanding would do more good than the truth. They seem to forget entirely that this terrible misunderstanding is not only wrecking the faith of thousands, but dishonoring our Creator—blaspheming his holy name, his holy character, by misrepresenting it and the Divine Plan.

A Valley Outside Jerusalem.

I wish that those of you who have modern Bibles with maps at the back would turn to the map of the City of Jerusalem and there notice on the Southwest side of the City, just outside the wall, the Valley of Hinnom. That is the Valley that in brief was called Geh-hinnon, the Greek of which is gehenna. All of our Lord's uses of the word gehenna stand related to that Valley. For the sake of my larger congregation it will be worth while for us to take a glance backward at the history of that Valley during many centuries before Jesus' day.

The first mention of this Valley in the Bible is found in Joshua (xv, 8), where it is given as one of the boundaries of the tribe of Judah, according to the lot cast by Joshua in the division of the land that had come into possession of the Israelites. It is again mentioned similarly in Joshua xviii, 16. The next reference to this Valley is found in II Kings xxiii, 10. There we read of how Josiah, the good King of Judah, instituted a great reform in the nation and abolished idolatry, one of the most heinous forms of the idolatry having been practised in this Valley of Hinnom, which had gotten a new name, namely Topheth. History tells us that the Israelites built in this Topheth, the Valley of Hinnom, a great brass image to the heathen god Moloch. In various places they had groves in which a licentious form of worship was enacted and then they resorted to this Valley of Hinnom to offer sacrifice of a most revolting kind to the heathen deity. Sometimes it was a boy and some times it was a girl that was placed naked in the arms of the great image after it had been fired to a red heat with fuel piled underneath the image and passing through it as a flue. The cries of these infants so horribly sacrificed were drowned by the cheers of the worshippers and various musical instruments.

All of this, indeed everything akin to suffering, was strictly forbidden by the Divine Law given to Israel. And they had been specially warned against this very form of idolatry (Leviticus xviii, 21; Deuteronomy xviii, 10). It is a gross mistake and slander of the Divine character and Law to suppose that it ever sanctioned torture. And it is a still worse slander upon God to suppose that he would himself do, and that for all eternity, what he condemned in his fallen creatures.

The Lord declares all this through the Prophet Jeremiah (vii, 31-34). Here God particularly forewarned the Israelites that their wrong course would eventuate in the terrible time of trouble which came upon Jerusalem in the year A. D. 70, when it was estimated that over a million died at the siege of Jerusalem. In fulfillment of this prophecy the Jews cast the dead bodies over the wall of Jerusalem into this very Valley. Thus we read, "Behold, the day is come, saith the Lord, that it shall no more be called Topheth, nor, The Valley of the son of Hinnom, but, The Valley of Slaughter; for they shall bury in Topheth till there be no place. And the carcasses of this people shall be meat for the fowls of the heaven, and for the beasts of the earth."

After the reformation made by King Josiah the Valley of Hinnom was desecrated to the intent that it might never afterward be considered fit for any kind of religious worship, sacrifice or ceremony. It became the valley of defilement. It was used at certain times for the burning of the offal and rubbish of the city. It became the dumping place of dead cats and dogs, etc. If any of these fell upon the ledges of the rock, no one thought worth while to interfere, and the maggots and worms destroyed them. Fires also were lighted occasionally to burn the combustible rubbish, and brimstone was added so that the fumes might destroy any malarial tendency, in the interest of the health of the city.

The Lesson Jesus Taught.

We have before our minds now the gehenna fire which no one ever attempted to quench, but which was designed to consume utterly everything cast into it. We have in mind also the worms of which he spake—worms which were permitted to feed on the carcasses undisturbed until the carcasses were consumed and the worms themselves died. Another item here should be noticed, namely, that a saying amongst the Jews was, Whosoever commits such a misdemeanor will be in danger of going from bad to worse until he will be brought before the tribunal of the Sanhedrin, a culprit. Jesus took the same line of proverbs and declared that anyone violating the Golden Rule to the extent of calling his brother a fool would be in danger eventually of such digression from righteousness as to bring him under sentence of the greater tribunal of Messiah's Kingdom, and, "Whosoever shall say unto his brother, Thou art a fool, shall be in danger of gehenna fire" (Matthew v, 22).

What the Great Teacher meant was that the earthly Jerusalem was a picture or type of the heavenly Jerusalem, which represents the Divine Government or Kingdom—the New Jerusalem which, by and by, will come down to earth—when God's will shall be done on earth as it is done in heaven.

As gehenna lay outside of the wall of Jerusalem, so our Lord intimated there would be an antitypical gehenna outside the New Jerusalem. As the trash and offal of the typical city were consumed in the Valley of Hinnom, so the offal and trash of humanity who will refuse all of God's favors, mercies, blessings and opportunities, will be treated as disgraceful wretches and be consumed, destroyed, in the antitypical gehenna—which is the Second Death. Concerning this antitypical gehenna, the Second Death, we are definitely informed of the characters which will there be destroyed utterly, as Peter says, "as natural brute beasts."

We have a description of this symbolical New Jerusalem or Divine Kingdom (Revelation xxi), composed primarily of the Church, and secondarily of all from the world who, during Messiah's reign, will enter in through its gates and enjoy the blessings of Divine favor and life eternal. And then we read, verse 8, "But the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone, which is the Second Death." Note that this lake of fire and brimstone into which all the offscouring of humanity will be cast is a symbol, and the meaning of the symbol is plainly stated in the words, "Which is the Second Death." The first death passed upon all mankind on account of father Adam's disobedience. Our Lord Jesus was appointed the Savior of Adam and his race and gave his life a ransom for all, to rescue all from death, to give to each and every member of Adam's race one full, fair opportunity for a test of loyalty to God and righteousness and to secure life eternal in the New Jerusalem. Contrariwise all who will reject that full opportunity will die the Second Death, from which there will be no redemption, no resurrection, no recovery of any kind.

W. A. GONDER'S SANTA CLAUS ANNEX

Not having sufficient floor space in the Ravenscroft Building for the purpose of exhibiting my Holiday Goods, I have secured a room in

The Nalley Building, opp. the Postoffice, Oakland,

AND STOCKED IT WITH THE LARGEST LINE OF

CHRISTMAS GOODS

IN WESTERN MARYLAND.

LOOK AT THIS ARRAY OF GOODS:

Dolls.
Dressed 10c to $10.00
China 1c to 25c
Bisque 10c to $1.00
Esquimo 10c to $1.00
Washable 25c to $2.00
Kid 25c to $2.00
Unbreakable 10c to $2.50
Rubber 10c to $1.00
Rag 5c to 50c

Doll Carriages.
English Go-Carts 75c to $5.00.
Wood Go-Carts, 25c to $2.00.

D d s.
Cradles, Swings, Furniture, 25c to $3.00.

Imported Wood Horses
And Carts 10c to $2.00

Air Rifles and Pop Guns
25c and $2.00.

Humpty-Dumpty,
The Famous Shoenhut Boy's Toy 50c to $2.00

Wright's Model Air Ship,
The new mechanical toy, will afford great amusement, 25c to $1.50.

Toy Doll Trunks.
Every little girl will want one, 25c to $2.00.

Toy Doll Houses,
50c to $2.00.

Teddy Bears,
Domestic and imported, 25c to $5.00.

Toy Pianos.
A most enjoyable present 25c to $10.00.

Tea Sets,
China, Tin and Pewter, 10c to $3.00.

Printing Press and Outfit,
25c to $4.00.

Drums,
Of all sizes, 25c to $2.00.

Iron Toys.
Horses, Wagons, Engines Cars, Boats, Automobiles, Fire Department, 5c to $2.00.

Baby Rattles,
Gum, Wood, Celluloid and Cloth Bound Tin, 5c to 50c.

Paint Boxes,
Water Color, 10c to $2.00.

Work Boxes
and Sewing Cabinet sets, 10c to $2.00.

Toy Sewing Machines.
Will delight the children, $1.00 to $3.00.

Toy Irons.
Tin Stoves and Ranges, 15c to $2.00.

Friction Toys.
Practicable, Unbreakable Automobiles, Police Patrol Street Cars, Fire Department, Locomotives, Boats and War Ships, 25 to $1.50

Steam Engines,
American Make, 25c to $4.00.

Electric Motors.
Will Please the Boys, $1.00 to $2.00.

Alphabet Blocks,
Embossed, 5c to 50c.

Picture Blocks,
Nested, 5c to 75c.

Cube Blocks,
Imported, 10c to 75c.

Building Blocks,
Invisible Wagon, 25c to $2.00.

Stone Blocks,
Richter Famous Cement, 25c to $2.00.

Toy Banks.
Give your boy a Bank and teach him to save his money; all kinds, 5c to $1.50.

Mechanical Steam Trains
and Track, 75c to $10.00.

Mechanical Toys,
Imported and Domestic, too numerous to mention at prices ranging from 50c to $5.00.

Toy China Sets.
Bound to please the little ones; an endless variety 25c to 75c.

Toy Furniture.
Tables, Writing Desks, Blackboards, 10c to $.100.

Toy Sets.
Pastry and Laundry Sets and Sad Irons; just what your daughter wants, 10c to $1.00.

Plush Animals.
Cats, Dogs, Rabbits, Sheep for indoor amusement, 5c to 75c.

False Faces,
Funny Surprise Boxes, 10c to 50c.

Musical Instruments.
Horns, Clarionets, German Flutes, Trumpets, Auto Horns, Fog Horns, Cornets and Whistles, 5c to $1.00.

Moving Picture Machines.
Magic Lanterns and Protoscope Reflectors, 50c to $6.00.

Sleds for Girls and Boys.
Clipper, Fast Flyer, High Grade Steel Yankee Jumper, High Sleds for Girls, 25c to $3.00.
Plush Upholstered Push Sleds, $1.25 to $4.00.

Popular Flexible Flyer,
The Sled for the older Boys and Girls, Kriss Kringle's best selection, $1.50 to $4.00.

Velocipedes.
All Kinds, $1.50 to $4.00.

Balls.
Rubber, Cloth, Celluloid, and Return Balls, 5c to 75c.

Decorations & Ornaments
Xmas Tree Ornaments and Decorations, an immense variety, 1c to 25c

Christmas Cards
and Booklets, 1c to 25c.

Wagons,
Wheelbarrows and Carts of every description, 10c to $5.00.

Tool Chests and Small Carpenter's Sets
10c to $3.00
Will make any boy happy.

Rocking Horses.
Swinging gallop horses, and Shoo Fly.
50c to $6.00.
Give the Little Tot one.

Games.
Checkers. Dominoes, Flinch, Authors, Five Hundred, Lotto, Old Maid, Base Ball, Parchesi, Home from the Jungle, North Pole and a number of others.
5c to $3.00.
You will make no mistake in looking over this stock.

There are, of course, a great many things which you may want to buy for gifts which are not mentioned on this page. Come and see what we have. You will be delighted. We have tried to give a representative list, but this store fairly teems with hundreds of articles, any of which would make an enjoyable present.

PIPES, PIPES.
Always appreciated by father, son or brother, or a friend. Merschaum Amber and Briar.
5c to $15. Special prices on Cigars, Stogies, Cigarettes by the box. 57 varities Smoking Tobacco.

Fancy Box Candies.
Whitmans, Huylers, Lowneys, Appollo and Headley's. 25c to $5 a box.
Loose Candies and Nuts. of all kinds. Specially selected by Santa Claus for this season.

Books $500 Stock Books.
Padded Leather Poems and Classics, Holly gift books, red letter Bibles and Testaments, Family Bibles, Teachers' Bibles, Sunday School Scholar's Bibles, Reference Bibles, Henty, Alger, and Optie Books for Boys, Little Purdy, Carey, and Mead series for girls. High Art Gift Books by Gibson and others, Latest Popular Copyright Novel, Histories, A B C books, Children's Fairy Tales, Books of every description. 5c to $5.00.

Fancy Toilet, Manicure and Military Sets
Silver, Gold and Ebony. Leather Collar and Cuff Boxes, Shaving Sets, Jewel and Trinklet Boxes, Fancy Hankerchief and Glove Boxes, Photgraph Albums, Post Card Albums, Fancy Box Paper, and a number of other articles suitable for presents.
25c to $2.00.

THE EDISON PHONOGRAPH

No Home Complete Without a Phonograph

Edison, Victor, Columbia,

$10.00 to $250.00.

Machines Sold on Easy Payments.

Entire List Of Edison Records Always in Stock

No matter which you choose, and each instrument has its own merits, you're not taking any risk when you buy it here.

GONDER'S SANTA CLAUS ANNEX

NALLEY BUILDING

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 34. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1910. NUMBER 44

BROUGHT BACK AND IN JAIL.

Lester Warnick, Convicted of Manslaughter and Paroled, In the Toils.

Lester Warnick, who was convicted about two years ago on the charge of manslaughter, having taken the life of Amos Broadwater in a fight which occurred at Bond Junction, and paroled by Judge Robert R. Henderson upon condition that he pay the widow Broadwater $20 each month for the term of three years and also that he report to the Court at each succeeding term, is in the Garrett county jail, having violated the terms of his parole.

When Warnick was paroled he promised the Court that he would comply with every provision of his parole. His father, who is a cripple, became his bondsman and it was at his instance that the young man was placed under arrest, the son having paid the stipulated sum but two months since his conviction.

The prisoner was located in Fayette county, W. Va., where he was working in a lumber camp. He was placed under arrest by the authorities there on Friday afternoon and Deputy Sheriff Shartzer arrived here with the man who will be held in jail until he receives his sentence by the Court.

Grantsville Notes.

Herman Robinson, who has taken the place of Clarence C. Miller at J. J. Bender's store, has moved his family and household goods from Avilton to this place and is living in the rooms recently vacated by the Misses Gantt. While we all regret seeing Mr. Miller, who is a man of sterling qualities, leave the store, yet it is felt that his successor will also be very popular and prove a valuable acquisition to the firm.

The following core drillers are registered at the Hotel Victoria: Messrs. J. W. Crist, L. J. Jones, Richard Wilson, George Eyleott, of Chicago; and Raymond Dawson of Cumberland. Mr. Crist is accompanied by his wife who expects to spend her Christmas holidays in the quietude of Grantsville. Test holes are being drilled near the farm of Grant Wiley where it is believed a good vein of coal is hidden.

Mrs. Gilead Broadwater, one of the most popular ladies of this community, was the recipient of a postal card shower on her birthday, December 19. She has been an invalid for many years and the kind remembrances of her many friends were greatly appreciated by her.—Grantsville Cor. Meyersdale Rep.

To Survivors of Indian Wars.

To the Editor of The Republican:

We desire to obtain the addresses of all those who served on the frontier against hostile Indians in the United States and volunteer service from the close of the Civil War until 1883, in order that their names may be placed on the books of the National Indian War Veterans' Association, so that they may benefit by the act pending before Congress as soon as it becomes a law. Will send copy on application. The National Indian War Veterans, organized for the purpose of procuring pensions for its members, have sent two of its order—the National commander, Henry Hegwer, and the national secretary, C. R. Hauser, to Washington, D. C., there to inaugurate a vigorous campaign for the purpose of accomplishing this object.

Those brave and noble soldiers who so valiantly defended and protected the Western frontier in the early days, making it possible for this generation to develop its unlinited resources and to live in peace and prosperity are surely entitled to the same recognition that this government so justly accords the survivors of other wars.

HENRY HEGWER.
National Commander, I. W. V.
P. O. Box 484, Washington D. C.
C. R. HAUSER,
National Secretary I. W. V.

Peddicord Helbig Wedding.

At ten o'clock Tuesday morning in St. Peter's Catholic church, Miss Annie Maria Helbig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Helbig, became the bride of Mr. Philip T. Peddicord, son of Postmaster and Mrs. James C. Peddicord, of Oakland, the wedding ceremony being performed by Rev. James E. Connell, assisted by Revs. Thomas J. Stanton and P. A. Byrnes, at a high nuptial mass. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents at which fifty or more friends and relatives of the couple were present. The bride is a handsome and accomplished young lady, highly esteemed and quite a favorite. The groom has been employed in the office of Clerk E. Z. Tower for several months as an assistant and is also held in high esteem. The couple left Oakland on train No. 14 Tuesday afternoon for a tour of the east and will return here shortly to reside. This paper extends its congratulations and best wishes.

Subscribe for The Republican.

JANUARY FORECAST

As Predicted By Peter R. Smith, the "Old Reliable."

January will open cold and fair in western and central parts. However, in eastern sections the winter storms will be dispersing. This wave of disturbance will be in progress from the 2d or 3d to the 6th, embracing all sections.

On the 2d or 3d a change to warmer will prevail. Feathery white clouds will show up in the west and southwest, on or touching the 4th. A wave of disturbance will start in the soutnwest. While on its passage the temperature will be quite warm, attended with rain and snow in central parts. The showers will be attended with winter thunder. The rain will be general. Colder will follow the heels of the storm.

Changes to warmer will show up on the 10th, 11th, and 12th. Then rain and snow-flurries will be on passage eastward. On or touching the 12th changes to colder will prevail in central and northern parts. On or touching the 14th the weather will change to warmer.

From the 14th to the 19th a storm wave will be on transit in the different sections of the country till its force is exhausted in the east, reaching the Atlantic. This storm-wave denotes a paroxysm of storms following each other during the period. Rain and snow will prevail in the different sections according to the temperature. A much intensified cold wave will follow the storm.

On the 22d, 23d, and 24th the weather will advance to warmer, resulting in cloudiness, then to rain and snow. This disturbed spell will lead up to a prolonged period of xery disagreeable weather reaching to the end of the month.

A storm-wave of much rigor will formulate in the southwest about the 24th or 25th of the month and be on transit to the 30th. This wave denotes the most intense storms of any of the month or the most destructive of the winter. Rain, snow and sleet, driven by a fierce wind from the northwest equal to a blizzard, will prevail. Telegraph and telephone wires and poles in many places will suffer much from this storm, and also timber and shrubbery will be covered with ice in many places.

The cold wave following the storm on or touching the 1st of February will reach far into the south.

THE DEATH RECORD.

JACOB NAYLOR.

Jacob Naylor, aged nearly eighty years, died at his home at Hedgesville, W. Va., last Sunday morning. The deceased gentleman was the father of Messrs. A. D. and E. G. Naylor, of Oakland, both of whom left here Sunday afternoon to attend the funeral which occurred yesterday. Mr. Naylor was a man highly respected in the community in which he lived and died.

VAN LEAR SPRIGG.

Van Lear Sprigg, aged nearly seventy years, died at the residence of his niece, Mrs. Charles A. Tower, in Oakland, last Friday night, after an illness of dropsy and complications extending over a period of about two years. The deceased was a brother of Gen. Joseph Sprigg, of Cumberland, and was never married. After a brief funeral service held at the residence of his niece on Monday morning the remains were shipped so Cumberland and there interred.

Has Entered Suit for Divorce.

Prof. Edward A. Browning, by his attorneys, has entered suit for divorce against his wife, Bruce Lacey Browning, the bill having been filed in the Circuit Court for Garrett county some weeks ago. The bill alleges that the parties to the suit were married July 15, 1905, in the city of Baltimore and that they resided in Garrett county until about September 15th, 1907, when Mrs. Browning abandoned and deserted the plaintiff; that one child was born as a result of the union and that the separation is deliberate and final with no reasonable expectation of reconciliation. The plaintiff, Mr. Browning, in his bill asks for the guardianship of the child and for general relief.

Hunting Missing Tenant.

John Felty, of Oakland, would like to find a man who calls himself Michael, who came over to West Virginia from Pennsylvania some time ago and moved on Felty's farm on Stemple Ridge. Things went on finely until a few weeks ago it is alleged that Michael disappeared and that at the same time the farm stock, wagon and about everything else that was movable disappeared also. Mr. Felty got out a circular and offered a reward and Detective T. A. Cale, of Terra Alta, took the trail. It is said he has the missing man staked out over in Pennsylvania.—Terra Alta Republican.

HOW TO ELECT THE GOVERNOR.

Concentration On Head of Ticket By Republicans.

Although the coming municipal election demands the immediate attention of Republican leaders throughout the state, all of whom are interested in the success of the ticket here because of the influence on the election to follow, they are also considering plans for the state campaign upon the result of which depends the future of the party in Maryland.

It is proposed at the next meeting of the state central committee in April to again urge the organization in the Wilson law counties not to lumber up their tickets with names, the arrangement of which is always designed to puzzle the voters. The Democrats being always favored experience little difficulty in marking properly, but the Republicans and independents in trying to vote the entire ticket are liable to make a mistake which invalidates the ballot. It is possible that the action against the Charles county supervisors may deter others from going to extremes, but the law is pliable enough to permit manipulations to which no exceptions may be taken by those descriminated against, and it is to protect their votes that plans are now being formulated.

At the meeting of the state committee two years ago the proposition was made to instruct the Republicans in the counties affected to make no nominations for local offices and to concentrate every effort on the state candidates. Objection was raised to this by some of the leaders, who claimed that a refusal to recognize the claims of ambitious Republicans would result in their losing interest and deprive the party of the assistance of workers who might benefit by the success of these candidates. The argument was also advanced that it would be almost impossible to prevent men from going on the ticket and force the organization to recognize them. Other reasons were given by the dissentants that the committee concluded to let these counties work out their own salvation.

The overwhelming defeat of the Republicans in all these counties because of the complicated ballot and the multiplicity of names has served to convince the politicians that they cannot hope to elect any local candidates until they can get a fair deal from the supervisors. This can be obtained only through the medium of a Republican governor. To secure the election of a Republican executive it is necessary to concentrate every vote on the head of the ticket. It is, therefore, proposed to prevail upon the Republicans in the Wilson law counties to forego making any nominations except state senator, and even this one not to be insisted upon.

All of the leaders in these counties are now in favor of curtailing the ticket, and when the matter is brought before the state committee its adoption is reasonably certain. The fact that the new primary law permits any aspirant to become a regular party candidate will not interfere with the plan as outlined. The name of such a person may go on the ticket, but the organization could advise voters to ignore the names of all those appearing upon the ballot except that for Governor, and the instructors will confine themselves to his name, so that a candidacy would not avail, defeat being certain.

With a Republican governor at Annapolis the supervisors of election would have to abide by the law and follow it in spirit as well as in letter. The Democrats were afraid of some such happening and at the last session of the legislature some of the more radical advocated the passage of a law depriving the executive of the power of removing election officials. The party managers were afraid, however, to go to that extreme and the proposition was turned down.

Immediately after the holidays the municipal election will receive some attention. The local management expects to institute a vigorous campaign, and the city committee will start on the preliminary work. No attention is to be given the candidacies of those aspiring to the various positions until the entries have been completed. Then the organization will select the men who in the judgment of the leaders would be strongest and most likely to win. They will get behind these men and work for them in the primaries. Should some others than those the organization supports be nominated the successful candidates may depend upon the party management to render every assistance.

It is understood that some opponents of the organization are endeavoring to induce certain prominent Republicans to permit the use of their name in connection with the mayoralty. When this is done in the interest of the party and and with the view of bringing about the nomination of a strong candidate, their course is to be commended; but if it is done simply to create dissention and lead to a bitter factional fight it should be condemned. Time will determine the object of the gentlemen who are making known their preferences through the medium of the Democratic organ. Up to this time the various gentlemen proposed have not signified a willingness to enter the field. They are all Republicans who would fill the mayoralty chair with credit and their names would receive, as they should the consideration of the organization.

A contest like that being made by Mr. Charles H. Torsch would not hurt, but help, the party, regardless of who may be nominated. His is a clean fight and above board and his sincerity is not questioned. It is to be hoped that other public-spirited citizens will come to the front and submit their names to the electorate.—Baltimore American.

SWANTON.

Too bad! that Swanton in her liberally circulated invitations for the Christmas holidays, should have inadvertently dropped Oakland from memory. But don't you cry, Mr. Editor, cling to hope. Swanton's memory may be better "next holiday" and Oakland may be the proud recipient of an invitation. Well, all of us stood like nice little fellows on gladsome side of the sweet season of Peace and Good Will.

Taking time rather by the forelock in the race with Kriss Kringle, the pupils of the Anderson Chapel Sunday school, with bright faces and neat dresses, gathered Friday afternoon, Dec. 23rd, at the residence of their superintendent and each received a package of such things as seldom fail to build a Christmas in the youthful heart. With the package those who had won a faultless record during the year were honored by evidences of their fidelity.

On the following evening, Saturday the 24th inst., members and friends of the United Brethren denomination, had the interior of their church profusely trimmed with evergreens woven in ropes and loops of graceful curvings over the spacious room; the walls prettily festooned and adorned with many handsome constructed designs. Those directing the management merit full measure of praise for the scope and success of their accomplishments. The Rev. Mr. Johnson, pastor of the flock, was on hand as a steady balance through the many varying proceedings. Their programme was well conceived and so judiciously directed as to escape the dull sameness so difficult to avoid in a long list of recitals. Every part from start to finish was clearly devoted to children. It was their evening and every feature was but a factor in an embodiment of their will and wish. The Christmas tree was a shapely one with its stately crest towering high above the chancel rail. After candies, plums, nuts and, in the language of the auctioneer, other things too numerous to mention, had been generously distributed to members of the school, as if to concisely demonstrate what is actual between the sweet and the sour, your correspondent was poked forward for a few remarks. Following rather an aimless ramble and rattle before the candy eaters, he reached his final with, you may understand, extraordinary elation over the honor of addressing an audience so busy with possessions and so contented in remaining, and, in backing to his seat, he turned to a sedate old pillar of the faith, and blandly asked, "did I speak too long?" to which the honest answer sprang from the heart, "it was right long; the people were getting restless." If restless even while feasting on such good things, without that strong inducement to tolerance, my fate might have rivaled even that of Oakland in the hour of her disappointment.

And, also, Swanton in this suspension of her busy days, has been having more than ordinary attractions in her "Town Hall." Moving pictures of thrilling amazement and strange intricacies are delighting our people. It is said that these beautiful presentations of the wonderous happenings of the Orient are vividly bringing before the community the same facts today heard in the sermons and prayers of Chrisendom.

Now sir, if you will spruce in evening attire and come down to Swanton for tonight's entertainment, as a kind of a soothing poultice upon your woundod side, I will see to it that the most commanding private box you may select shall be assigned as yours to view the production of those events of which angels sang and apostles wrote. All of these mention from word and picture point descriptively to the central festival in the whole calendar of the religious world with a foundation so broadly established and a historic support so universally accepted as to embrace more largely a concurrent acquiescence than that of any other festival of any faith or creed.

"Give," may be the keynote of this generally taught festival. The giving taking its origin from the one Great Gift that has no fellow in the world's benefactions—the gift of the Son as the Light to all. The same "Old Story" comes to us with each recurring season in brightened form and richer embelishments. If these commemorative gifts bringing to man one lesson superior to another it may be found in absolving to him from human selfishness and the nurturing of the better impulses in giving—

"Every act, however simple, sets the soul that does it free, Every deed of love and mercy done to man is done to Me."

In this wide, wide world, populated as we find it there is much of meanness from which even the sinner may shrink; but there is a bright side in the sunlight of which in the Christmas season we catch glimpses of no little of all that is best in our humanity. If we could but rise so high and see so far as to behold all the gifts of the cheerful giver on their way at this festal season to the comfortless hovel and the fireless heartstone, we might recognize the image of the Great Gift in the benevolence of His believing people.

The storm now skipping over us with all the freshness of youth, is really remarkable for its age. It came here the 11th of November last, and it seems so well pleased with its visit as to go into winter quarter.

You often speak of the "Oldest Inhabitant" with his doleful sayings and depressing predictions. Who is he? He must be very old, for we have been reading in the newspapers about him as far back as we can remember, and that is painfully distant. But what is his name and where is his home, you should choose to tell. Now out with it; we want to know. If you do not know your readers suggest that you will begin the New Year tracing his whereabouts. Never stop until you discover him unmasked to your readers. Remember, they will be satisfied with no North Pole fake—one in a century of that kind will more than suffice.

RELLIM.

TIME IS EXTENDED.

Maryland-West Virginia Boundary Commissioners Get Respite

A Washington dispatch says: The Supreme Court of the United States has extended the period within which the commissioners on the part of Maryland and West Virginia, who are fixing the boundary line between the States, must complete their work by October 1. On Monday the commissioners joined in a petition to the court for an extension of the period, which, under the original decree, expired on January 1, claiming as the reason for the delay that they were experiencing great difficulty in ascertaining the old boundary line and that they had been much hindered in their work by the inclement weather.

HALF MILLION WAS INVOLVED

Bond Bros. Win Big Timber Land Suit in West Virginia.

An important decision handed down by the West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals at Charleston, last week was the case of Wm. C. Bond and N. U. Bond against W. S. Taylor and the Harper's Ferry Timber Co., for about 8,500 acres of timber near Durbin, Pocahontas county, West Virginia, which affirmed the finding of the lower court.

The suit involved the title to a property worth a half million dollars, and was one of the most bitterly contested cases ever fought out in the courts of West Virginia, but was a series of victories for these invincible plaintiffs over a period of six years. The record of the case filled more than a thousand printed pages. It nearly reached nine hundred pages before it came up to the Supreme Court.

The case began with an injunction from Judge Reynolds, of Keyser; later another from the local court at Marlinton; then a decision of the U. S. circuit court at Charleston whereby the plaintiffs not having notice, a wrong decision was rendered by that court. Judge Keller, the presiding judge, who, after a rehearing having been misled by the defendants, changed his decisions. Then the case went back to the lower court namely, the circuit court of West Virginia. It was there Hon. Wm. R. Bennett, of Fayette county, made the decree in favor of Wm. C. and N. U. Bond on June 4th, 1909. This decree was appealed to the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia. On account of more than a hundred cases ahead of it the case could not be reached until now. Since "all is well that ends well," the plaintiffs could afford to wait.

The syllabus or opinion was written by Judge Miller and concurred in by all five of the supreme judges, who made it one of the most positive and absolute decrees that could be made, affirming every point of the lower court except to cancel the word "land," which was a mistake or a slip of the pen by the lower court. In fact the Supreme Court's opinion is expressed in much stronger terms favorable to the plaintiffs than was the district circuit court's decree, pointing out or referring in plainer terms to the fraud attempted by the defendants in the case against Bond Bros., the plaintiffs.

Bond Bros. are operating a mill at Bond Siding, near Thomas, W. Va. Wm. C. Bond lives at Thomas. The big lumber plant at Bond, Md., was formerly owned and operated by Bond Bros. It is their intention now that all obstacles have been removed, to put in a hundred thousand capacity mill at Durbin probably next spring. The tract is a virgin forest of first class timber and is estimated at more than a hundred million feet.

The Republican for Job Printing.

DIXON & KELSO

DIXON & KELSO have a lot

Men's and Boys'

OVERCOATS,

Ladies' and Misses' Coats

AND MEN'S

Winter Suits,

which we will close out at one-half price.

Can be seen on the center counter in store room.

Yours to Please. DIXON & KELSO.

The MAN in LOWER TEN

by MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

AUTHOR of THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT by BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

"Did Anyone Suspect You of Having Valuable Papers?"

SYNOPSIS.

Lawrence Blakeley, lawyer, goes to Pittsburg with the forged notes in the Bronson case to take the deposition of the chief witness for the prosecution, John Gilmore, a millionaire. In the latter's house the lawyer is attracted by the picture of a girl whom Gilmore explains is his granddaughter, Allson West. He says her father is a rascal and a friend of the forger. Standing in line to buy a Pullman ticket Blakeley is requested by a lady to buy her one. He gives her lower eleven and retains lower ten. He finds a man in a drunken stupor in lower ten and retires in lower nine. He awakens in lower seven and finds his bag and clothing missing. The man in lower ten is found murdered.

CHAPTER IV—Continued.

Some one was on the floor at our feet, face down, head peering under the berth. Now he got up without apology, revealing the man who had summoned the conductor. He was dusty, alert, cheerful, and he dragged up with him the dead man's suit-case. The sight of it brought back to me at once my own predicament.

"I don't know whether there's any connection or not, conductor," I said, "but I am a victim, too, in less degree; I've been robbed of everything I possess, except a red and yellow bath-robe. I happened to be wearing the bath-robe, which was probably the reason the thief overlooked it."

There was a fresh murmur in the crowd. Somebody laughed nervously. The conductor was irritated.

"I can't bother with that now," he snarled. "The railroad company is responsible for transportation, not for clothes, jewelry and morals. If people want to be stabbed and robbed in the company's cars, it's their affair. Why didn't you sleep in your clothes? I do."

I took an angry step forward. Then somebody touched my arm, and I unclenched my fist. I could understand the conductor's position, and beside, in the law, I had been guilty myself of contributory negligence.

"I'm not trying to make you responsible," I protested, as amiably as I could, "and I believe the clothes the thief left are as good as my own. They are certainly newer. But my valise contained valuable papers, and it is to your interest as well as mine to find the man who stole it."

"Why, of course," the doctor said shrewdly. "Find the man who skipped out with this gentleman's clothes, and you've probably got the murderer."

"I went to bed in lower nine," I said, my mind full again of my lost papers, "and I wakened in number seven. I was up in the night prowling around, as I was unable to sleep, and I must have gone back to the wrong berth. Anyhow, until the porter wakened me this morning I knew nothing of my mistake. In the interval the thief—murderer, too, perhaps—must have come back, discovered my error, and taken advantage of it to further his escape."

The inquisitive man looked at me from between narrowed eyelids, ferret-like.

"Did anyone on the train suspect you of having valuable papers?" he inquired. The crowd was listening intently.

"No one," I answered promptly and positively.

The doctor was investigating the murdered man's effects. The pockets of his trousers contained the usual miscellany of keys and small change, while in his hip pocket was found a small pearl-handled revolver of the type women usually keep around. A gold watch with a Masonic charm had slid down between the mattress and the window, while a showy diamond stud was still fastened in the bosom of his shirt. Taken as a whole, the personal belongings were those of a man of some means, but without any particular degree of breeding. The doctor heaped them together.

"Either robbery was not the motive," he reflected, "or the thief overlooked these things in his hurry."

The latter hypothesis seemed the more tenable, when, after a thorough search, we found no pocketbook and less than a dollar in small change.

The suit-case gave no clew. It contained one empty leather-covered flask and a pint bottle, also empty, a change of linen and some collars with the laundry mark, S. H. In the leather tag on the handle was a card with the name Simon Harrington, Pittsburg.

The conductor sat down on my unmade berth, across, and made an entry of the name and address. Then, on an old envelope, he wrote a few words and gave it to the porter, who disappeared.

"I guess that's all I can do," he said. "I've had enough trouble this trip to last for a year. They don't need a conductor on these trains any more; what they ought to have is a sheriff and a posse."

The porter from the next car came in and whispered to him. The conductor rose unhappily.

"Next car's caught the disease," he grumbled. "Doctor, a woman back there has got mumps or bubonic plague, or something. Will you come back?"

The strange porter stood aside.

"Lady about the middle of the car," he said, "in black, sir, with queer-looking hair—sort of copper color, I think, sir."

CHAPTER V.

The Woman in the Next Car.

With the departure of the conductor and the doctor, the group around lower ten broke up, to re-form in smaller knots through the car. The porter remained on guard. With something of relief I sank into a seat. I wanted to think, to try to remember the details of the previous night. But my inquisitive acquaintance had other intentions. He came up and sat down beside me. Like the conductor, he had taken notes of the dead man's belongings, his name, address, clothing and the general circumstances of the crime. Now with his little notebook open before him, he prepared to enjoy the minor sensation of the robbery.

"And now for the second victim," he began cheerfully. "What is your name and address, please?"

I eyed him with suspicion.

"I have lost everything but my name and address," I parried. "What do you want them for? Publication?"

"Oh, no; dear, no!" he said, shocked at my misapprehension. "Merely for my own enlightenment. I like to gather data of this kind and draw my own conclusions. Most interesting and engrossing. Once or twice I have forestalled the results of police investigation—but entirely for my own amusement."

I nodded tolerantly. Most of us have hobbies; I knew a man once who carried his handkerchief up his sleeve and had a mania for old colored prints cut out of Godey's Lady Book.

"I use that inductive method originated by Poe and followed since with such success by Conan Doyle. Have you ever read Gaboriau? Ah, you have missed a treat, indeed. And now, to get down to business, what is the name of our escaped thief and probable murderer?"

"How on earth do I know?" I demanded impatiently. "He didn't write it in blood anywhere, did he?"

The little man looked hurt and disappointed.

"Do you mean to say," he asked, "that the pockets of those clothes are entirely empty?"

The pockets! In the excitement I had forgotten entirely the sealskin grip which the porter now sat at my feet, and I had not investigated the pockets at all. With the inquisitive man's pencil taking note of everything that I found, I emptied them on the opposite seat.

Upper left-hand waist-coat, two lead pencils and a fountain pen; lower right waist-coat, matchbox and a small stamp book; right-hand pocket coat, pair of gray suede gloves, new, size seven and a half; left-hand pocket, gun-metal cigarette case studded with pearls, half-full of Egyptian cigarettes. The trousers pockets contained a gold penknife, a small amount of money in bills and change, and a handkerchief with the initial "S" on it.

Further search through the coat discovered a card-case with cards bearing the name Henry Pinckney Sullivan, and a leather flask with gold mountings, filled with what seemed to be very fair whisky, and monogrammed H. P. S.

"His name evidently is Henry Pinckney Sullivan," said the cheerful follower of Poe, as he wrote it down. "Address as yet unknown. Blonde, probably. Have you noticed that it is almost always the blonde men who affect a very light gray, with a touch of red in the scarf? Fact, I assure you. I kept a record once of the summer attire of men, and 90 per cent. followed my rule. Dark men like you affect navy blue, or brown.

In spite of myself I was amused at the man's shrewdness.

"Yes; the suit he took was dark—a blue," I said.

He rubbed his hands and smiled at me delightedly.

"Then you wore black shoes, not tan," he said, with a glance at the aggressive yellow ones I wore.

"Right again," I acknowledged. "Black low shoes and black embroidered hose. If you keep on you'll have a motive for the crime, and the murderer's present place of hiding. And if you come back to the smoker with me, I'll give you an opportunity to judge if he knew good whisky from bad."

I put the articles from the pockets back again and got up. "I wonder if there is a diner on?" I said. "I need something sustaining after all this."

I was conscious then of some one at my elbow. I turned to see the young woman whose face was so vaguely familiar. In the very act of speaking she drew back suddenly and colored.

"Oh—I beg your pardon," she said hurriedly, "I—thought you were—some one else." She was looking in a puzzled fashion at my coat. I felt all the cringing guilt of a man who has accidentally picked up the wrong umbrella; my borrowed caller sat tight on my neck.

"I'm sorry," I said idiotically. "I'm sorry, but—I'm not." I have learned since that she has bright brown hair, with a loose wave in it that drops over her ears, and dark blue eyes with black lashes and—but what does it matter? One enjoys a picture as a whole; not as the sum of its parts.

She saw the flask then, and her errand came back to her. "One of the ladies at the end of the car has fainted," she explained. "I thought perhaps a stimulant—"

I picked up the flask at once and followed my guide down the aisle. Two or three women were working over the woman who had fainted. They had opened her collar and taken out her hair pins, whatever good that might do. The stout woman was vigorously rubbing her wrists, with the idea, no doubt, of working up her pulse! The unconscious woman was the one for whom I had secured lower 11 at the station.

I poured a little liquor in a bungling masculine fashion between her lips as she leaned back, with closed eyes. She chocked, coughed and rallied somewhat.

"Poor thing," said the stout lady. "As she lies back that way I almost think it was my mother; she used to faint so much."

"It would make anybody faint," chimed in another. "Murder and robbery in one night and on one car. I'm thankful I always wear my rings in a bag around my neck—even if they do get under me and keep me awake."

The girl in blue was looking at us with wide, startled eyes. I saw her pale a little, saw the quick, apprehensive glance which she threw at her traveling companion, the small woman

I had noticed before. There was an exchange—almost a clash—of glances. The small woman frowned. That was all. I turned my attention again to my patient.

She had revived somewhat, and now she asked to have the window opened. The train had stopped again and the car was oppressively hot. People around were looking at their watches and grumbling over the delay. The doctor bustled in with a remark about its being his busy day. The amateur detective and the porter together mounted guard over lower ten. Outside the heat rose in shimmering waves from the tracks; the very wood of the car was hot to touch. A Camberwell Beauty darted through the open door and made its way, in erratic plunges, great wings waving, down the sunny aisle. All around lay the peace of harvested fields, the quiet of the country.

CHAPTER VI.

The Girl in Blue.

I was growing more and more irritable. The thought of what the loss of the notes meant was fast crowding the murder to the back of my mind. The forced inaction was intolerable. The porter had reported no bag answering the description of mine on the train, but I was disposed to make my own investigation. I made a tour of the cars, scrutinizing every variety of hand luggage, ranging from luxurious English bags with gold mountings to the wicker nondescript of the day coach at the rear. I was not alone in my quest, for the girl in blue was just ahead of me. Car by car she preceded me through the train, unconscious that I was behind her, looking at each passenger as she passed. I fancied the proceeding was distasteful, but that she had determined on a course and was carrying it through. We reached the end of the train almost together—empty-handed, both of us.

The girl went out to the platform. When she saw me she moved aside, and I stepped out beside her. Behind us the track curved sharply; the early sunshine threw the train, in long black shadow, over the hot earth. Forward somewhere they were hammering. The girl said nothing, but her profile was strained and anxious.

"I—if you have lost anything," I began, "I wish you would let me try to help. Not that my own success is anything to boast of."

She hardly glanced at me. It was not flattering.

"I have not been robbed, if that is what you mean," she replied quietly. "I am—perplexed. That is all."

There was nothing to say to that. I lifted my hat—the other fellow's hat—and turned to go back to my car. Two or three members of the train crew, including the conductor, were standing in the shadow talking. And at that moment, from a farmhouse near came the swift clang of the breakfast bell, calling in the hands from barn and pasture. I turned back to the girl.

"We may be here for an hour," I said, "and there is no buffet car on. If I remember my youth, that bell means ham and eggs and country butter and coffee. If you care to run the risk—"

"I am not hungry," she said, "but perhaps a cup of coffee—dear me, I believe I am hungry," she finished. "Only—" She glanced back of her.

"I can bring your companion," I suggested, without enthusiasm. But the young woman shook her head.

"She is not hungry," she objected, "and she is very—well, I know she wouldn't come. Do you suppose we could make it if we run?"

"I haven't any idea," I said cheerfully. "Any old train would be better than this one, if it does leave us behind."

"Yes. Any train would be better than this one," she repeated gravely. I found myself watching her changing expression. I had spoken two dozen words to her and already I felt that I knew the lights and shades in her voice—I, who had always known how a woman rode to hounds, and who never could have told the color of her hair.

I stepped down on the ties and turned to assist her, and together we walked back to where the conductor and the porter from our car were in close conversation. Instinctively my hand went to my cigarette pocket and came out empty. She saw the gesture.

"If you want to smoke, you may," she said. "I have a big cousin who smokes all the time. He says I am 'kippered.'"

I drew out the gun-metal cigarette case and opened it. But this most commonplace action had an extraordinary result: The girl beside me stopped dead still and stood staring at it with fascinated eyes.

"Is—where did you get that?" she demanded, with a catch in her voice; her gaze still fixed on the cigarette case.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

"Uneasy lies the head that wears an ice bag!"

THRESHING RETURNS FROM WESTERN CANADA.

They Reveal Larger Averages of Wheat and Oats Than Anticipated.

The returns from the grain fields of Western Canada as revealed by the work of the Threshers, show much larger yields than were expected as the crop was ripening. It is a little early yet to give an estimate of the crop as a whole, but individual yields selected from various points throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta show that the farmers there as a rule have had reason to be thankful over the results. Excellent yields are reported from many portions of Manitoba and a large district of Saskatchewan has turned out well, while the central portion of Alberta is splendid. There will be shown at the land exposition at St. Louis a sample of the Marque's wheat—a new variety and one that appears to be well adapted to the soil and climate of Western Canada—that yielded 53 bushels to the acre. The exhibit and statement will be supported by affidavits from the growers. This wheat weighs well, and being a hard variety will find a ready market at the highest prices obtainable for a first-class article. It is interesting to point out that a field of one hundred acres of this wheat would give its producers 5,300 bushels. Sold at 85 cents a bushel would give him $45 an acre. Counting all the cost of interest on land at $20 an acre, getting the land ready for crop, Seed sowing, harvesting and marketing, the entire cost of production would not exceed $8 an acre, leaving the handsome net profit of $37 an acre. Is there any crop that would yield a better return than this, with the same labor and initial expense? Cotton fields will not do it, apple orchards with their great expense of cultivation and the risk to run from the various enemies of the fruit cannot begin to do it. While what is considered an exceptional case just now is presented, there is no doubt that this man's experience may be duplicated by others who care to follow his example. As has been said the growing of this wheat is but in its infancy, and wheat growing is still largely confined to other older varieties that do not yield as abundantly. Even with these we have records before us of farmers who have grown 40 bushels to the acre., others 35, some 30, and others again 25 bushels. Taking even 20 bushels, and some farmers report that amount, it is found that the returns from such a yield would be $17 an acre. This wheat will cost to get to market, including all expenses, about $8 an acre, and the farmers will still have a net profit of about $9 an acre. Certainly the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba are progressing, settlement is increasing and there is a general contentment all over the country. The social conditions are splendid, the climate is excellent, and there is every condition to make the settler satisfied. At the farming congress, held at Spokane in October, wheat shown by the Alberta Government, took the silver cup, awarded by the Governor of the State. It completely outclassed all other specimens on exhibition, and it was but an ordinary selection, hundreds of fields in Alberta and Saskatchewan being able to duplicate it. There are still available thousands of homesteads, as well as large areas of first-class land—that is being offered for sale at low prices. The agent of the Canadian Government from whom the above facts have been learned expects that the rush to Canada will next year largely exceed the numbers who have gone this year.

Progress in Railroading.

"Yes," says the lady whose dress case is covered with strange foreign labels, "the way railroads are run nowadays is a great improvement over what they were 50 years ago."

"But surely you had no experience as a traveler 50 years ago," says her friend.

"I don't mean that. But nowadays, don't you notice, when there is a wreck it is always had at some point convenient to a cluster of farm houses where the victims can go for coffee and to get warm?"

What Resinol Accomplishes Is Truly Wonderful.

I frequently have patients who are troubled with skin eruptions, and have taken occasion to recommend Resinol, and in some cases the cures have seemed miraculous, and had I not seen them both before and after, would scarcely have believed them true. One lady told me that she had spent over $100 in various remedies, and was cured with one 50c jar of Resinol. It is truly a wonderful cure for eczema and other itching troubles.

F. M. Stevens, D. D. S., Dover, N. H.

Asking Too Much.

"The count has promised that he will never beat or kick me if I will marry him," said the beautiful heiress.

"But has he promised to work for you?" her father asked.

"Oh, papa, don't be unreasonable."

No matter how long your neck may be or how sore your throat, Hamlins Wizard Oil will cure it surely and quickly. It drives out all soreness and inflammation.

It's a pity that more sermons are not as deep as they are long.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

People avoid him because they are afraid of his tongue.

44 Bu. to the Acre

is a heavy yield, but that's what John Kennedy of Edmonton, Alberta, Western Canada, got from 40 acres of Spring Wheat in 1910. Reports from other districts in that province showed other excellent results—such as 4,000 bushels of wheat from 150 acres, or 33 1-3 bu. per acre, 2,500 and 40 bushel yields were numerous. As high as 102 bushels of oats to the acre were threshed from Alberta fields in 1910.

The Silver Cup

at the recent Spokane Fair was awarded to the Alberta Government for its exhibit of grains, grasses and vegetables. Reports of excellent yields for 1910 come also from Saskatchewan and Manitoba in Western Canada.

Free homesteads of 160 acres, and adjoining pre-emptions of 160 acres (at $3 per acre) are to be had in the choicest districts.

Schools convenient, climate excellent, soil the very best, railways close at hand, building lumber cheap, fuel easy to get and reasonable in price, water easily procured, mixed farming a success.

Write us to best place for settlement, settlers' low railway rates, descriptive illustrated "Last Best West" (sent free on application) and other information, to Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to the Canadian Government Agent. (80)

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT AGENT
Gardner Building Toledo, Ohio
(Use address nearest you.)

Poor Appetite

indicates weakness of the stomach nerves which control the desire for food. It is a sure sign that the digestive organs need the help of

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Sold Everywhere. In boxes 10c. and 25c.

MORE EGGS

I have discovered a great secret—how to make 100 hens lay 80 eggs a day in winter; failure impossible; I prove it by sending my successful method on FREE TRIAL; you don't have to pay till your hens lay. Send for it TODAY to Mrs. L. Alley, Box 10, New Madrid, Mo.

ASTHMA

CURED TO STAY CURED

No relapse. No return of choking spells or other asthmatic symptoms. Whetzel system of treatment approved by best U. S. medical authorities as the only system known to permanently cure the disease. FREE TEST TREATMENT including medicines, prepared for any one giving a full description of the case and sending names of 2 asthmatic sufferers. Address FRANK WHETZEL, M.D. Dept. Z, American Express Building, Chicago

PATENT your invention. Free preliminary search. Booklet free. MILO B. STEVENS & CO., Estab. 1864, 805 14th St., Washington; 366 Dearborn St., Chicago

GIVE HER ANOTHER.

Fondpar—You say baby swallowed a spoon? Did it hurt her?

Mrs. Fondpar—I'm afraid so; she hasn't been able to stir since!

Couldn't Stand the Nuisance.

"He complains that he was unable to get along with his wife's relatives."

"What was the matter? Did they all want to live at his expense?"

"No. His father-in-law wanted him to earn the salary he was getting from the old gentleman."

Fulfillment.

"Two great desires of my life have been gratified. One was to go up in an airship."

"And the other?"

"To get safely back to earth."

Gives Breakfast Zest and Relish

Post Toasties

A sweet, crisp, wholesome food made of Indian Corn, ready to serve right from the box with cream and sugar.

Flavoury
Delicious
Economical

"The Memory Lingers"

Postum Cereal Company, Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

Fluffy Neck Pieces

NEXT to beautiful hats, most women delight in rich furs, graceful scarfs, bordered with down, and ostrich boas for the neck. And close to these prime favorites, the satin or velvet scarf, lined and finished with tasseled ends, has captivated the fancy of the feminine world.

Good furs are an excellent investment, for fur-bearing animals appear not to keep pace with the increasing demand for their skins.

A steady advance in price from season to season indicates that furs are growing beyond the reach of many people. They are so beautiful and durable, in addition to being comfortable, that she who possesses any should care for them jealously. They will do service for many a year and need not be often remodeled, since the styles in which valuable skins are made up do not vary rapidly and radically. Like a diamond in an old-style setting, fashion does not influence value to any great extent. Long straight neck pieces or scarfs are always in style, and the beautiful rug and large pillow muffs have a distinction that may defy the vagaries of the fickle goddess of Fashion.

Wide soft scarfs of crepe de chine, or other silk, or of satin, bordered with fur or feathers, are likewise always fashionable with us, and every season ostrich borders appear in novelties for the neck.

The initial expense of good furs is a considerable amount, but, in the long run, a good fur garment is about the least expensive of all our apparel.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

PRETTY COAT OF VELVETEEN

Trimmed with fur (for a child of two to four years).

The Bathroom Rug.

Some sort of pretty rug is necessary to put beside the bath tub to step out upon, and it is essential that it should be of some material in which the colors are well set. There are on sale cork mats and others which resemble turkish toweling, except they are of heavy weight, but the rug to be made at home is frequently in demand.

One is made of coarse basket canvas, with a plushlike center, the embroidery being worked with thick ingrain or colored cotton, and each stitch crossing over one thread of the material. The pattern may be worked all over or merely as a border with a plain center, but when covered all over the mat will not be so likely to show discolorations of water.

Odd lengths of brussels carpet may be turned to good account for mats, with a finish on the ends of worsted fringe or a binding of heavy upholstery braid.

HAT FACING IS DIFFICULT

Few Words on Subject That Causes Amateur Milliner Much Anxiety.

Nothing is more difficult to the amateur milliner than the facing of a hat—and nowadays every hat is faced, usually with silk or satin. A few words on the subject will not, therefore, come amiss.

Cut from tissue paper a pattern that is rather larger than your required size, and fold and crease it until it exactly fits the hat brim. Then cut out your velvet or satin form and baste in place. Always plenty of basting—remember that.

Then turn in the outer edge, baste it down and blind stitch it. Use tiny stitches and leave absolutely no gaps. The silk facing may be plaited into shape, instead, and fastened down by a cord or braid or a velvet binding. The lace facings should be shirred around the crown, very full, to allow for the difference of circumference with the outer edge.

Even hat facings are veiled nowadays—tulle and chiffon over silk are frequently seen. Use extreme care, however, and even this delicate work will go off well.

Barbaric Dress of Today.

Perhaps the barbaric splendor with which we dress today asserts itself most in the belt, where large cameos and coral are introduced. Indeed, coral is very much to the fore just now in the way of ornaments. It is a color, too, which goes well with black.

Iridescent materials have found their way even to tailor-made gowns, and the multi-colored embroideries which savor of the moyen age are very frequently introduced, so that they accord in tint and in style with the ornaments worn. These barbaric belts are rivals to the bavarian, sometimes called venetian, belts, formed of panne velvet, with deep points in front and plenty of boning.

Chenille Scarfs.

New scarfs that should make their wearers indifferent to any degree of cold less severe than that of the Arctic are of chenille. They come in navy blue, old blue, amethyst and other fashionable shades, have chenille fringes and are further adorned with Persian borders. They sell at from $14.75 to $19.50.

NECESSITY FOR PROVIDING PIGS COMFORTABLE QUARTERS

Many Things of Vital Importance in Making Hog Business Entirely Profitable—Must Have Proper Shelter With Exercise.

Poland-China Sow and Litter of Pigs.

(By W. H. UNDERWOOD.)

In raising pigs there are several things, very essential, which are difficult to secure in the right degree in the winter time, and which sometimes make the winter litter rather costly.

Hogs are great lovers of warmth and they must have it for their economical growth. This has been fully demonstrated by the experiment stations in the different fattening trials. The cost of the grain in several instances was almost double with outside feeding as compared with a warm shelter, all other things being as nearly equal as was possible.

Warmth is even more of a necessity to the suckling pig, and to obtain that warmth and give the little fellow sufficient amount of exercise is where the difficulty comes in.

It is an easy matter to make the bed warm enough, but as soon as the pig leaves the nest for exercise out in the open, it becomes chilly and soon returns to the warm bed. Not taking exercise sufficient to keep it from becoming too fat, thumps follow and death ensues. An abundance of exercise is necessary to avoid the thumps in young pigs when they are getting all the milk and other foods they can eat.

In raising winter pigs there are six really very important things to be taken into consideration: Warmth, exercise, good feed, ventilated quarters, sunshine and good blood.

In order to have these a warm and quite roomy building, which will make ventilation easier and allow the pigs to play without going out in the open is necessary. When the weather is sufficiently warm they should be out of doors as much as possible, especially when the sun shines. Plenty of sunshine is the greatest disinfectant and invigorator known.

Some years ago I had a couple of litters come early in the winter. The weather was very cold and for want of a better place to keep them than the one in which they were farrowed, I penned up a little corner of the cow stable in which were kept at night 30 head of cattle. The building was 35 by 50 feet, and when closed at night with the cattle in it was quite comfortable. This proved to be almost an ideal place for the pigs.

They were given fresh bedding every night and a fresh supply of bedding put in every day. Those pigs grew exceedingly fast.

Under ordinary farm conditions it is a doubtful proposition to attempt to raise many winter pigs with good results, but under special conditions a few litters may be made profitable. The greatest obstacle is to provide enough warm space for the pigs to run about freely without becoming chilled for lack of sufficient sunshine.

Scours and thumps often cause very serious losses among young pigs. The former is caused usually by over-feeding, by providing badly spoiled feed, by an abrupt change of ration or by a change in feed that affects the milk of the dam. The latter is generally brought about by over-feeding and lack of exercise.

An illustration is shown herewith of a Poland-China sow, with her litter of pigs. This breed put on fat rapidly, are docile and easily handled.

RAISING FUEL FOR HOUSEHOLD

Systematic Planting and Cultivation of Forest Trees Is Branch of Agriculture Yet in Infancy.

(By R. B. BUCKHAM, Salem, Mass.)

A very small acreage of woodland, if properly handled, can be made to yield the necessary fuel for the household, from year to year, and yet maintain an average growth, or even increase in value.

The tree growth of the woodlot should be encouraged in every possible way. All dead wood should be conscientiously removed and added to the woodpile. It will serve well as excellent kindling, at least, and does away with one of the chief sources of disease among growing wood. It has been proven that a very large percentage of all the ailments of forest trees arises from the decaying deadwood lying about them.

Thinning correctly is a second requisite to making the woodlot most profitable. Where the standing growth is too close, all are compelled to suffer for the lack of air and light. Hence some can well be removed, to the benefit of the remainder.

Where an area of any dimensions has been laid bare, it should be reseeded immediately, if the second growth does not start satisfactorily. It is as poor economy to allow parts of the woodlot to lie idle, as any other portion of the farm.

The increase of the more valuable trees should be encouraged, such as the oak, pine, hickory and ash. Some trees are of no value, save as stove wood, and are poor, even at that. Yet, strange enough, at the start they are the most vigorous, and always succeed at making the most rapid growth at the start; thus holding their own at the expense of their competitors. There are weeds among trees, as well as among plants.

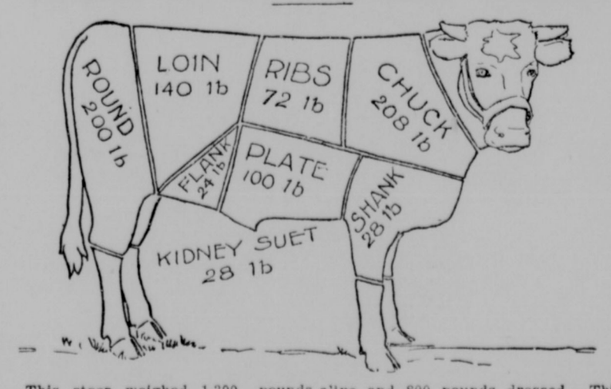
Forest tracts are indispensable to the welfare and best interests of the community. We cannot well do without them, because of their salubrious influence upon the climate, their conservation of the supply of moisture, and their value for purifying the atmosphere, to say nothing of their commercial value.

We must look to the farmer for the presence of the necessary amount of forest trees. Upon them will fall the burden of bearing this responsibility.

But that they will profit largely therefrom is well illustrated by the fact that the artificial timber tracts which already exist in what was formerly the great, bare, wind-swept western plains, are already of incalculable value.

Systematic planting and cultivation of forest trees is a branch of agriculture yet in its infancy, but one which will prove exceedingly important before the history of this country shall have been written.

STEER OF PROFITABLE FORM



This steer weighed 1,300 pounds alive and 800 pounds dressed. This makes his dressing percentage 62. He is an example of the most profitable steer to feed, says Farm and Home. Note the broad head, straight, level back and deep flank.

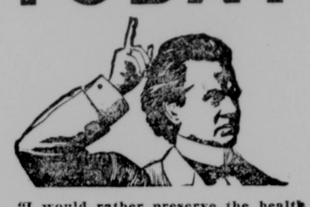
TWO WORLD FAMED GRANNIES

One of These Talented Women Is Sarah Bernhardt and the Other Ellen Terry.

Two famous grandmothers are distinguished visitors of this country. Referring to these talented ladies The Rochester Post Express says: "One of the grandmothers is Mme. Sarah Bernhardt; the other is Ellen Terry. Both actresses have reached an age when it is permissible to retire from active life; but the French actress is said to be as energetic as a woman half her age, while Ellen Terry is declared to be as young as ever she was in the palmy days when she and Henry Irving ruled the theatrical world of England. Miss Terry has retired from the stage so far as acting is concerned, and has taken to lecturing on Shakespeare's heroines. And who could do better than she who has played so many of the womanly women of the great dramatist? Readers of her breezy biography know what she thinks of Portia, Beatrice, Volla, Rosalind and other famous women of the tragedies and comedies, but no printed page could charm as does the wonderfully expressive features and the velvet voice of the greatest living English-speaking actress."

We cannot teach truth to another, we can only help him to find it.—Gallea.

CURE THAT COLD TODAY



"I would rather preserve the health of a nation than be its ruler."—MUNYON.

Thousands of people who are suffering with colds are about today. Tomorrow they may be prostrated with penumonia. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Get a 25 cent bottle of Munyon's Cold Cure at the nearest drug store. This bottle may be conveniently carried in the vest pocket. If you are not satisfied with the effects of the remedy, send us your empty bottle and we will refund your money. Munyon's Cold Cure will speedily break up all forms of colds and prevent grippe and pneumonia. It checks discharges of the nose and eyes, stops sneezing, allays inflammation and fever, and tones up the system.

If you need Medical Advice, write to Munyon's Doctors. They will carefully diagnose your case and advise you by mail, absolutely free.

Prof. Munyon, 53d and Jefferson streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 51-1910.

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3.00 $3.50 & $4.00 SHOES FOR MEN & WOMEN

BOYS' SHOES, $2.00, $2.50 AND $3.00. BEST IN THE WORLD.

The benefits of free hides, which apply principally to sole leather, and the reduced tariff on sole leather, now enables me to give the wearer more value for his money, better and longer wearing $3, $3.50 and $4 shoes than I could give him previous to the tariff revision.

If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W. L. Douglas shoes are made, the superior workmanship and the high grade leathers used, you would then understand why Dollar for Dollar I Guarantee My Shoes to hold their shape, look and fit better and wear longer than any other $3.00, $3.50 or $4.00 shoes you can buy.

Do you realize that my shoes have been the standard for over 30 years; that I make and sell more $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes than any other manufacturer in the United States? Quality counts. It has made W. L. Douglas shoes a household word everywhere.

W. L. Douglas President W. L. Douglas Shoe Co.

CAUTION! Some genuine without W. L. Douglas name and price stamped on the bottom. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE

If your dealer cannot supply you with W. L. Douglas Shoes, write for Mail Order Catalog.

W. L. DOUGLAS, 145 Spark St., Brockton, Mass.

COLT DISTEMPER

Can be handled very easily. The sick are cured, and all others in same stable, no matter how "exposed," kept from having the disease, by using SPOHN'S LIQUID DISTEMPER CURE. Give on the tongue, or in feed. Acts on the blood and expels germs of all forms of distemper. Best remedy ever known for mares in foal. One bottle guaranteed to cure one case. 50c and $1 a bottle; $5 and $10 dozen of druggists and horse dealers, or sent express paid by manufacturers. Our shows how to poultice throats. (Our free Booklet gives everything. Local agents wanted. Largest selling horse remedy in existence—twelve years.

SPOHN MEDICAL CO., Chemists and Bacteriologists, Goshen, Ind., U. S. A.

Don't Persecute your Bowels

Cut out cathartics and purgatives. They are brutal—harsh—unnecessary. Try

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

Purely vegetable. Act gently on the liver, eliminate bile, and soothe the delicate membrane of the bowel. Cure Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache and Indigestion, as millions know.

Small Pill, Small Dose, Small Price

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

MAKE MORE MONEY

Than you ever dreamed possible decorating china, burnt-wood, metal, pillow-tops, etc., in colors from photographs. Men successful as women. Learned at once; no talent required. Takes like wildfire everywhere. Send stamp quick for praticulars.

C. M. VALLANCE COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

BOYS AND GIRLS for a few hours spare time. Write EWING SPECIALTY CO., "B," Fremont, Ohio.

PISO'S is the name to remember when you need a remedy for COUGHS and COLDS

Rich and Costly Furs

COSTLY FURS come from YOUR part of the COUNTRY. Ship them to the BEST FUR MARKET and RIGHT FUR HOUSE. By shipping DIRECT to us you receive far better PRICES than you have obtained elsewhere, because we sell direct to manufacturers of HIGH GRADE FURS.

A trial shipment will CONVINCE you. A specially arranged price list for your Territory will be mailed upon request. We pay all expressage, charge no commissions, and remit promptly.

LEOPOLD GASSNER FUR CO.

34 East 12th St. Capital New York City fied at $250,000.00

Bad BLOOD

"Before I began using Cascarets I had a bad complexion, pimples on my face, and my food was not digested as it should have been. Now I am entirely well, and the pimples have all disappeared from my face. I can truthfully say that Cascarets are just as advertised; I have taken only two boxes of them."

Clarence R. Griffin, Sheridan, Ind.

Pleasant, Palatable, Potent, Taste Good. Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back. 927

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

PATENT YOUR IDEAS. They may bring you wealth. 64-page Book Free. Est. 1869. Fitzgerald & Co., Pat. Attys., Box B, Washington, D.C.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

Entered at the Postoffice in Oakland, Md., as Second-class matter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

The Republican is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year.....$1.25
One copy six months..... .75
One copy three months..... .40

Advertising Rates made known upon Application.

Remittances may be made by Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft and addressed to

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1910.

DO WE in big, free America, with forty or fifty million work people, want to repeat the business depression of the low Tariff period, just to enrich the importers and foreign competition? If so, let us have a taste of low Tariff promised us before election by the political disturbers.—Fibre and Fabric.

OUR GREAT HOME MARKET.

No one properly appreciative of commercial opportunities will deny the importance and desirability of foreign trade—or fail to regret that we do not have American ships with which to promote such traffic. But, on the other hand, no thoughtful person will question the enormous advantage of such a home market as the United States possesses. The truth about the matter is readily ascertainable. The annual value in round numbers of the manufactures of the United States is $15,000,000,000. The total product of the farms is put at $9,000,000,000. Here is an aggregate production of $24,000,000,000. Where does it go? Our exports, large as they are, have never exceeded $1,880,000,000 in a single year. It needs but a simple example in arithmetic to show where the vast bulk of American products is consumed.

The United States has the biggest and best home market of any country in the world, and sneers those engaged in efforts to preserve it merely discredit the sneerers.—Troy Times.

GOTHAM'S MR. CROTHERS.

Austin Lane Crothers, Governor of Maryland, was a prominent figure at the feast last Saturday night of the National Democratic Club, in New York, more prominent, perhaps, by the elimination of four expected governors-elect than he otherwise would have been. So, because some of the anticipated oratorical fireworks had not been shipped from New Jersey, Connecticut, Ohio and Indiana, Mr. Crothers was called upon, and he made what the dispatches characterize as a "rousing speech." Certainly it was a surprising one.

In New York the Governor said: "Let us stand side by side with the people. What they want let us give them, standing on the principle that they are the rulers of the government." Can this be the Governor Crothers who for more than a year has been "too busy" to entertain charges against election supervisors in the Wilson Law counties who actually prevented voters of this state from registering what they wanted by their ballots?

Again—in New York, of course—the Governor said: "I believe in a bold party. You should say to the people exactly what you stand for." Is this, we ask again, our Governor Crothers? Can this be the man who can't make up his mind, after all the bravado of a few short weeks ago, whether or not to place the Police Board on trial?

The Governor's speech in far-away Gotham was a fiery plea for popular government. How much of the effectiveness of his speech would have been lost had his hearers known how in Maryland he has by his failure to hear charges against those who set the principle of popular government at naught, winked at violations of the law designed to insure it, is a matter for speculation—if that is worth while.

But one thing is certain: the Governor Crothers who spoke in New York is not Governor Crothers we know in Maryland. If he brings back with him the same set of convictions he avowed there and starts to put them into effect, the people of the state will be gratified.

An Advocate of Garrett County.

Mr. Howard Thrasher is a native of Deer Park in Garrett county, Maryland. He now resides in Gassaway, West Virginia, and is at present visiting in the East. On Christmas he was making some call in Baltimore city, where his sister, Miss Carrie Thrasher, is being enteratined. While examining the time table of one of the trunk line preparatory to continuing his journey to places of interest, he remarked to his hostess in Baltimore, that after all none of the places on the time table before him looked so good as Deer Park.

Schools Closed.

The public schools of the county closed for the holidays last Friday afternoon and will reopen Tuesday morning of next week.

REASSESSMENT WORK DRAGS IN COUNTIES

Tardiness of the Assessors Brings Complaint from all Over State.

Complaints are piling in from all sections of Maryland regarding the reassessment of property values for purposes of taxation. In almost every instance the work drags. It is being charged that the assessors are nursing their jobs out of consideration for the per diem. In one county the assessors are alleged to be using the reassessment as the opportunity to play politics. This is in Frederick. The assessors are Democrats. They are charged with valuing property for much less than its worth, forcing the County Commissioners, who are Republicans, to put it somewhere near the proper figures. They are assuming that the Republican Commissioners in doing this will incur the ill-will of the people and the Republicans will suffer as a result of it.

Frederick's Commissioners called upon Governor Crothers recently to complain of the State's employees. Governor Crothers is said to have offered them no consolation other than pointing out to them the necessity of placing the value of property at what it ought to be when they came to review the work of the assessors employed to do that very thing. This, of course, is what the assessors intended the County Commissioners should do, so there was little satisfaction in the suggestion made by the Governor.

As the situation now stands, the taxable basis of Frederick, if allowed to stand at the figures of the State's assessors, may be less than it was under the old assessment. Frederick city is one of the richest of its size in the United States, and Frederick county is right up at the top of the list. Hence a depreciation in values is regarded as ridiculous to say the least. It is being claimed, however, that land worth from $50 to $150 an acre is being put down at much less than its real worth, with similar undervaluations all along the line.

Adjoining Frederick is Washington county, one of the few in which the reassessment has progressed at a satisfactory rate. There the taxable basis will be increased, it is said, from $24,000,000 to $40,000,000. Frederick, it is claimed, should make a similar showing.

Not only is the rate for county taxes estimated from the taxable basis, but the levy for state purposes is estimated in the same way. Hence Baltimore city and every county in the state are interested in knowing that the rate for every other city and county is fair. Any other scheme of valuation is an unjust one. Baltimore city is especially interested, for the great bulk of the taxes for Maryland are paid there. The demand for reassessment came largely from the city, because the people there felt that the reassessment of property values there as as a continual operation kept them right up to the mark, while the counties were permitted to escape their just share of the burdens because of the long periods that elapsed between assessments, the last having been made in the counties in 1900. Where the revaluation has been honestly made the justice of Baltimore's claims has been substantiated.

County officials are interested in a fair valuation of property, for they are generally pressed for the necessary money for governmental expenses. Either the basis or the rate must be high. It is easier to get the money when the basis is high. Moreover a high tax rate creates a bad impression on the outside. Hence, the County Commissioners of Frederick will, it is believed, see to it that property values are near the proper mark.

There is no general court for the review of values. Hence the basis stands county by county, as it is finally established by local authority. If an injustice is done it must be tolerated.

While the trouble over values applies only to Frederick, the complaint of delays applies to almost every county. Under the law providing for the appointment of assessors 90 days was fixed as the time for the completion of the work, but the Governor was given authority to extend the period if it was found that it was not sufficient. Assessors were named about August 1 as a rule. Hence the time for the work has elapsed in every instance without the task being completed.

In some cases the assessors are believed to be working hard at their task. In others, it is claimed that they are nursing their job all they can. In one county the assessors are alleged to have met and decided that the thing for them was a gentleman's day, and they construed this to mean five hours a day. They did not wish to work on Saturday, so they decided to extent the time to six hours for five days in the week. On this basis they went on with the work. Needless to say, the assessment in this county is not very well advanced.

In some of the counties the Commissioners meet in May to fix the rate for the succeeding year. These officials are already beginning to feel a little restive. They are afraid the assessors will not have the new valuations completed by that time. In almost all, if not all the counties, July 1 is the limit for making up the accounts for the following fiscal year, which opens on October 1.

FELL AND BROKE LEG

Cyrus Stark Met With Painful Accident By Slipping on Icy Pavement.

Cyrus Stark, a well known farmer and horse dealer, residing near Hoyes, slipped and fell on the icy pavement on Second street in Oakland and sustained a compound fracture of his right leg above his ankle.

Several men were nearby when the the accident occurred and they assisted the injured man to the Giessman hotel where he was attended by Dr. McComas. In a short time Mr. Stark will be removed from the hotel and taken to his home.

Married.

PIFER—RHOAGES—Mr. Frank Pifer and Miss Belle Rhoages, of Oakland, surprised their friends by eloping to Cumberland on Wednesday, Dec. 14th, 1910, and getting married. Mr. Pifer is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pifer, of Oakland, and is employed as a brakeman on the B. & O. R. R. between Cumberland and Grafton. They will reside in Cumberland.

Will Save His Feet.

George Hohing, of near Merrill, whose feet were frozen about two weeks ago, is undergoing treatment at the Western Maryland Hospital. It was feared at first that it would be necessary to amputate both feet, but fortunately the physicians are able to save the feet, with the cutting off of the first joint of three toes.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

This is to give notice that the firm of Cuppett, Leighton & Co., doing a general mercantile business in the town of Loch Lynn Heights, Md., will be dissolved by mutual consent December 31, 1910, Mr. H. N. Cuppett retiring from the business. All persons knowing themselves indebted to the firm are hereby notified to call and maked settlement on or before the above date. All accounts not settled by that date will be placed out for collection.

CUPPETT, LEIGHTON & CO.

November 29, 1910.

Church Services.

ST PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 2:15 p. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Epworth League Monday 7:30 p. m.
Prayermeeting Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

G. R. WILLIAMSON, Pastor.

ST. MARK S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Luther League Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

ST. MATTHEW'S P. E.

Service every Sunday at 11 a. m.
Sunday School at 2:30 p. m.

W. H. SHEARER

MT. LAKE PARK M. E.

Class meeting at 10 a. m.
Preaching 7.30 p. m.
Sunday school at 2.30 p. m.
Epworth League at 6:45 p. m.

P. Z. MUSGRAVE, Pastor.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Loch Lynn—Preaching at 11 a. m.
Protracted meeting will continue at ElderHill S during the next week.
Everybody invited.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

Stork Visitations.

During the holiday season Mr. Stork has been kept quite busy in and about Oakland.

Last Friday morning a visit of this bird was made to the residence of Lieut. and Mrs. E. S. West, leaving a little son.

Christmas eve he winged his flight to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Stemple and left a son.

Tuesday evening a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Beckwith.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters testamentary on the estate of

BRISON WELCH,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 22nd day of June, 1911; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 22nd day of December, 1910.

SUSAN E. WELCH,
Executrix,
43-3t-pd Mt. Lake Park Md.

ORDER NISI.

Wm. E. Hollinger, Late Treasurer of Garrett County, vs. Mary L. Ward and Jennie Wagner.

No. 193, Miscellaneous Docket. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

It is ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, this twentieth day of December, 1910, that the tax sale made and reported in the above entitled cause, by William E. Hollinger, late Treasurer in and for Garrett County, Md., be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary be shown on or before the 27th day of January, 1911; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper printed in Garrett county once a week for three successive weeks before the 20th day of January, 1911.

The report states the amount of sale to be $30.50.

ROBERT R. HENDERSON.

True Copy—test: E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Notice To Delinquent Tax-Payers.

Notice is hereby given to all delinquent tax-payers that if taxes now due and in arrears are not paid oefore

JANUARY 1ST, 1911,

I will proceed by law to collect. I refer to Section 50 of Chapter 566 of Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, which provides as follows:

SECTION 50. The said Treasurer shall during the first week in December in each and every year, give notice to all delinquent tax-payers of said county, by advertisement inserted in two newspapers published in said county, and in hand-bills posted in five of the most public places in each election district of said county, and at the court house door, warning them that the payment of all taxes then due and in arrear will be enforced by advertisement and sale unless the same be paid before the 1st day of January next following.

Please pay promptly and save costs.

R. L. FRIES,
Treasurer or Garrett County.

Notice to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Garrett County, Md., has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

AGNES R. A. M. WHITTINGTON,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 11th day of May, 1910, they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 10th day of November, 1910.

W. H. FREDLOCK,
Administrator,
Piedmont W. Va.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett Co., Md., deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 17th day of April, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

CLEAVER H POOL,

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

GERTRUDE E. POOL,
Administratrix,
Kitzmiller, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County Marplany, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

FREAKLIN SUTER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the day 11th of May, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

LUCINDA SUTER,
Administratrix,
Hoyes Md.

ORDER NISI.

Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, vs William A. Harvey and Benjamin E. Harvey.

No. 1705 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Ordered, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting as a court of equity, this 26th day of November, 1910, that the sales made and reported in the above cause by Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 9th day of December, 1910; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 23rd day of December, 1910.

The report states the amount of sales to be $85.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

The Maryland Agricultural College
COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND.

Maryland's School of Technology
Fifty-fourth year begins Sept. 15.
Entrance examinations 13, 14.

Eight courses of Instruction leading to professional degree of B. S. Agricultural, Horticural, General, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Biological and Chemical.

The College has a close association with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. College students are permitted to visit the Experiment Farms at Arlington and Beltsville and thus secure an additional equipment for their professional career.

The demand of the age is for men for life's activities. Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all departments. Graduates qualified to enter at once upon life's work. Boarding department supplied with all modern improvements. Bath room, steam heat, electric lights. Location unsurpassed for health.

Tuition, books, heat, light, laundry, board, medical attention, annual deposit, chemical and athletic fees all included in the annual charge of $60.00 per quarter, payable in advance.

Sanitorium for issolation of contagious disease, resident physician and trained nurse in attendance.

Catalog giving full particulars on application. Attention is called to the Two Years Courses in Agriculture and Horticulture. Failure to report promptly means loss of opportunity to student.

Early application necessary for admittance. Write for particulars.

R. W. SYLVESTER President.

Subscribe for The Republican, Oldest and Best Paper in Garrett county.

22222 The Lonaconing Savings Bank Of Allegany County. 22222

Stands First among the State Banks of Maryland

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and open an account with us.

JAMES M. SLOAN, President. DUNCAN R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

Capital - $50,000
DEPOSITS, - $175,000

The First National Bank
Friendsville, Md.

Surplus Fund, . $26,000
Undivided Profits, 26,000

OFFICERS:

L. E. FRIEND, President,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Vice-Pres't
R. C. McCANDLISH, Vice-Pres't
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier

DIRECTORS:

L. E. FRIEND, Merchant,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Lumber and Coal
W. W. SAVAGE, Merchant,
D. S. CUSTER, Merchant,
H. M. RUMBAUGH, Farmer,
W. H. H. FRIEND, Pension Agent and Surveyor,
HORACE R. DEWITT, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCANDLISH,
JOHN T. GEARY.

THREE GOOD THINGS TO KEEP: Your Temper, Your Secrets, Your Money

Your money kept with us will earn you 4 Per Cent. Interest compounded semi-annually. Keep it here and after, while it will keep you.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank
Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department Takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays. 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. EDW. WINTERS, - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
W. A. Hitchens, Frank Watts,
W. E Stanton, W. T. Stanton.

THE GREATEST SALE OF

Gas Stoves, Heaters

AND TINWARE

In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting

A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., Dec. 15, 1910.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, Jan. 2nd, 1910,

to appoint Road Supervisors and Constables and transact general routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building

DR. J. G ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice inthe Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

DR. LOUIS I. PREVOST,
VETERINARY SURGEON,
MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.
Office Hours in Oakland from 2 to 5 o'clock p. m

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Ravenscroft Building, Second St.
Particular attention given to Conveyar .ag Investigation of land titles and collection o claims. Loans negotiated.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.
Prompt attention given all ca day or night.
Garrett County Telephone. 24-1yr.

DR. W. W. GRANT,
DENTIST.
Office, McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Bridge and Crown Work a Specialty.
Gold and Silver Fillings. 21-09-1y.

GEORGE W. LEGGE, JR.,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Practice in the Courts of Garrett and adjoining counties, and in the Maryland Court of Appeals. Associated with Thomas, J, Peddicord, First National Bank Building.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Garrett National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Commenced business November 14, 1888.

CAPITAL, ...	$ 50,000
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, .	45,000

OFFICERS:

D. E. OFFUTT, President.

G. S. HAMILL, Vice President.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

G. A. FRALEY, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Daniel E. Offutt — Gilmor S. Hamill
John M. Davis — George W. Legge
John T. Mitchell — William R. Stull
Scott T. Jones

Interest at the rate of 3% per annum paid on Time Certificates of Deposits and Savings Accounts.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent at reasonable rates.

Merchant E. A. Weimer spent yesterday in Keyser, W. Va., on business.

Mr. Otho J. Paugh, of near Swanton, was in the city yesterday on business.

Dr. J.W. Ricketts, of Accident, spent Tuesday and yesterday in Oakland with friends.

Dr. R. A Ravenscroft, of Baltimore, spent a day or two in Oakland last week on business.

Mr. Stanhope O. Crane, of Kingwood, is a guest at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Scott T. Jones.

Mr. Charles E. M. Hilleary and daughter, Miss Lucile, spent Tuesday in Oakland shopping.

Messrs. Hugh Weir and David P. Hansel, of District No. 11, were visitors to Oakland last Friday.

Mr. Mark S. White left here Sunday afternoon for Punxatawney, Pa., to spent the holidays with a friend.

Mr. Carl B. White, of Uniontown, spent a few days in Oakland this week visiting his father and other relatives.

Mr. D. Y. Morris, of Kingwood, returned to his home this morning after spending a week with Oakland relatives.

Miss Sarah Porter, of Perkasee, Pa., is in Oakland visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Porter, on Alder street.

Mrs. John F. White has returned to Oakland after an extended visit to her daughter Mrs. Browning, in Pittsburg, Pa.

Mrs. J. B. Workman, of Wheeling, arrived in Oakland Tuesday afternoon to visit her daughter, Mrs. G. C. Stemple.

Rev. Thomas J. Stanton, rector of Mt. DeSales Academy, Catonsville, near Baltimore, was a visitor to Oakland Monday.

Mr. Charles F. Hammond was in Meyersdale, Pa., Tuesday and yesterday on business, returning to Oakland last night.

Mr. Horace Coddington, who is employed on construction work along the line of the B. & O., is in Oakland for the holidays.

Mr. Wilbur Davis is on a visit to friends in Southern Virginia, having left Oakland for his objective point Monday night.

Mr. Howard Thrasher, of Gassaway, W. Va, is now visiting his old home at Deer Park, recently visited Baltimore and Philadelphia.

State Senator H. J. Spicher and Messrs. Henry Speicher and William Miller, of Accident, were in Oakland last Friday on business.

Mr. N. U. Bond, who spent Christmas with his brother, Mr. W. C. Bond and family at Thomas, returned to Oakland Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Daniel Shaffer left Oakland Monday night for Baltimore where he will probably secure a position with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad cumpany.

Mr. Roy Haymond is spending the holiday vacation with his parents in Oakland, having arrived from the University of Virginia last Friday night.

In Cumberland on Monday a marriage license was issued to Oliver Raymond Case, of Rowlesburg, W. Va., and Bertha Elizabeth Browning, of Deer Park.

Messrs. John Martin, John Hart, Michael, James and William Boyle and Miss Mamie Boyle, students at various educational institutions, are home for the holidays.

Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound will do it. 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

PHILIP D. ARMOUR, the great multi-millionare Meat King first saved one hundred dollars from his earnings on the farm. He went from New York to California, there he got $5.00 a day for digging ditches. He still SAVED—saved a few thousand dollars. The first saving was the seed from which his vast fortune grew.

Make OUR Bank YOUR Bank.

We pay liberal interest consistent with safety—3 per cent.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OAKLAND, MD.

Important properties of the Grape are transmitted by

ROYAL Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure to the food. The food is thereby made more tasty and digestible

Mrs. G. A. Fraley was accompanied to Baltimore Monday night by her son, Mr. Neil Fraley, where Mrs. Fraley has again become a patient in Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Mr. Juluis C. Renninger was called to Pittsburg last Friday night by a message announcing the extreme illness of his father, who is suffering with an attack of pheumsnia.

Miss Lucinda Beeghly, formerly of Accident, now a resident of Markleysburg, Pa., was the guest for several days last week of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hostetler, near Oakland.

Rev. Edmund Manges, Jr., and his sister Miss Catherine Manges, arrived in Oakland last week and are spending the holidays with their parents, Rev. and Mrs. Edmund Manges.

Messrs. Frank Stephen and Raymond Broadwater, of Crellin, were in Oakland yesterday on their return from a visit to their respective homes in the New Germany section of the county.

Miss Sue Shirer, a student at the Baltimore Business College, Baltimore, arrived in Oakland last Friday night and is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Shirer, on Alder street.

The Board of County Commissioners will meet Tuesday for the purpose of appointing road supervisors and constable and constables and transacting any other routine business that may properly come before the board.

Rev. D. L. Reid, pastor of the Deer Park M. E. circuit, spent yesterday in Oakland as a business visitor. At the recent quarterly conference held in Deer Park the official board of the church increased Rev. Reid's salary a substantial sum.

Messrs. Ferdinand Warnick, of Elk Garden, and Allen Abernathy, of Kitzmiller, have purchased a store at Howesville, Preston county, and both have gone there to operate in the mercantile business. Mr. Warnick will not move his family until spring.

The Oakland merchants generally have expressed themselves as being well satisfied with the holiday trade accorded them. All with whom we have conversed on the subject assert that the volume of business this year far exceeds that of any previous season.

Fire in the newspaper office of the Cumberland Evening Times Monday morning damaged the composing rooms, machinery and building to the extent of $10,000, which, however was covered by insurance. Notwithstanding the handi cap the paper was issued Tuesday afternoon.

The officers of the State Horticultural Department desire to inspect all nursery stock shipped into the State this fall and next spring. All persons receiving nursery stock from out-state nurseries are requested to notify the State Entomologist, College Park, Maryland. 3t

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

W. H. Mayer, boss fireman at Jennings' mill, and Frank Shaw, timber inspector, drove to Lonaconing Wednesday night from Jennings, and had an exciting trip, being upset in drifts numerous times and driving on one occasion off a small bridge into a little stream, so covered by snow that it was unnoticed.

Mrs. Leah F. Sincell, Mr. and Mrs. Olin F. Durst and two children, of Lonaconing, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Sincell, of Keyser, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Matheny, of Cumberland, were in Oakland a few days this week attending a family reunion of the Sincell clan, at which twenty-seven of the family were present.

Mrs. Annie Nelson has announced the marriage of her daughter Miss Mary Ellen Blaine, to Mr. J. Ralph Robbins, which occurred at the Church of the Transfiguration in New York City on Christmas. After February 1st the the couple will be at home, 286 Plummer avenue, Hammond, Indiana. Mrs. Nelson and her famiiy have been residing during the summer and fall in the White mountains, having recently moved to New York City.

Last Tuesday evening a fire broke out in the post office building, owned by Miss McAndrews. It appears that Mr. McAndrews was connecting a gas meter at the back of the store occupied by Mr. Karman Christopher, when from some cause the gas exploded, breaking the large plate glass window in the store and doing in all about $500 damage to the building and about $75 to Mr. Christopher's property. The Tri-Towns Fire Co. quickly responded to the call and soon extinguished the fire. After which Mr. H. Clay Shaw invited the fire laddies to his store, where they were served with hot chocolates, etc., which must have been very acceptable on such a cold night.—Piedmont Herald.

New Roller Process for Buckwheat.

Mr. T. B. Dowman desires to inform the farmers and others of the neighborhood, that he has installed the latest and best roller process for the manufacture of buckwheat flour. He will give as good a turnout of flour as any mill in the county.

Where is the best place to buy

MEATS

AT

CREUTZBERG'S

Old Reliable Up-to-Date

Meat Market

WITHOUT A DOUBT.

HOMER E. TURNEY, Proprietor.

P. S. I pay the highest CASH market price for beef, pork, veal, mutton and lamb.

NOTICE! TO THE PUBLIC.

I have moved my

MEAT MARKET

INTO THE

Nally Building,

where I will conduct an up-to-date meat market.

Beef, Veal, Lamb, Mutton and Pork.

I wish a share of your patronage and thanking you for past favors, I am

Yours respectfully,

H. McC. SMOUSE.

The Up-To-Date Meat Market.

Stockholders' Meeting.

The aunual meeting of the stockholders of the Garrett County Telophone Co., will be held at Hoyes, Md., on the

2nd Day of January, 1911,

at the hour of 10.30 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year and any other business that may come up at that time.

C. V. GUARD, Secretary.

ESTABLISHED 1884.

Need not be connected to waterworks, the same water can be used over and over again to operate

HOT WATER AND STEAM SYSTEMS.

Only a few gallons need to be added during a season

Automatically operated, safe and very durable.

A. D. NAYLOR & CO.

PRICES RIGHT. BOTH PHONES.

H. CREUTZBURG.

SEE MY FALL LINE OF

Dress Goods, Outing Flannels, Etc.

Ladies', Children's, Men's and Boys' Shoes.

Rain Coats for Ladies and Children. Rubber Boots & Shoes.

Full Line of MEN'S AND BOYS CLOTHING.

See my Special Pure Wool $10.00 Black Thibet Suits for Men

Boys Suits $2.50 and up.

Hand-Made Wisconsin Shoes for Men and Boys.

Full Line Groceries,

Meat Market in Connection,

ALL AT THE RIGHT PRICE.

H. CREUTZBURG, Opp. P. O., Oakland, Md.

Pay Market Price for Produce.

Christmas Gifts.

Why not a pair of Shoes or a suit of Clothing for the boy a Christmas Gift? If they don't fit you can exchange after Christmas. We have several thousand pairs of Shoes and stacks of Clothing and Overcoats here waiting for you and we are giving 20% discount on Overcoats.

We can handle a lot of nice dressed TURKEYS at 21 cents, one-half cash, 22 cents trade, and the highest market prices for other poultry. Must be delivered on Tuesday or Wednesday.

BOLDEN, BROWN & WEIMER.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular meeting of the stockholders of the Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may come before them.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

from 1 to 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may be brought before them.

R. E. SLIGER, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Kitzmillerville, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

from 1 to 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of electing a board of Directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may be brought before them.

E. J. HAMILL, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

Pursuant to the required legal notice a meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Friendsville, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

at 10 o'clock A. M. for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business that may lawfully be done.

NORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier.

KODAK SAFETY FILM

THE OLD RELIABLE

Garrett National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Commenced business November 14, 1888.

CAPITAL, ...	$ 50,000
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, .	45,000

OFFICERS:

D. E. OFFUTT, President.
G. S. HAMILL, Vice President.
S. T. JONES, Cashier.
G. A. FRALEY, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Daniel E. Offutt — Gilmor S. Hamill
John M. Davis — George W. Legge
John T. Mitchell — William R. Stull
Scott T. Jones

Interest at the rate of 3% per annum paid on Time Certificates of Deposits and Savings Accounts.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent at reasonable rates.

Merchant E. A. Weimer spent yesterday in Keyser, W. Va., on business.

Mr. Otho J. Paugh, of near Swanton, was in the city yesterday on business.

Dr. J.W. Ricketts, of Accident, spent Tuesday and yesterday in Oakland with friends.

Dr. R. A Ravenscroft, of Baltimore, spent a day or two in Oakland last week on business.

Mr. Stanhope O. Crane, of Kingwood, is a guest at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Scott T. Jones.

Mr. Charles E. M. Hilleary and daughter, Miss Lucile, spent Tuesday in Oakland shopping.

Messrs. Hugh Weir and David P. Hansel, of District No. 11, were visitors to Oakland last Friday.

Mr. Mark S. White left here Sunday afternoon for Punxatawney, Pa., to spent the holidays with a friend.

Mr. Carl B. White, of Uniontown, spent a few days in Oakland this week visiting his father and other relatives.

Mr. D. Y. Morris, of Kingwood, returned to his home this morning after spending a week with Oakland relatives.

Miss Sarah Porter, of Perkasee, Pa., is in Oakland visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Porter, on Alder street.

Mrs. John F. White has returned to Oakland after an extended visit to her daughter Mrs. Browning, in Pittsburg, Pa.

Mrs. J. B. Workman, of Wheeling, arrived in Oakland Tuesday afternoon to visit her daughter, Mrs. G. C. Stemple.

Rev. Thomas J. Stanton, rector of Mt. DeSales Academy, Catonsville, near Baltimore, was a visitor to Oakland Monday.

Mr. Charles F. Hammond was in Meyersdale, Pa., Tuesday and yesterday on business, returning to Oakland last night.

Mr. Horace Coddington, who is employed on construction work along the line of the B. & O., is in Oakland for the holidays.

Mr. Wilbur Davis is on a visit to friends in Southern Virginia, having left Oakland for his objective point Monday night.

Mr. Howard Thrasher, of Gassaway, W. Va, is now visiting his old home at Deer Park, recently visited Baltimore and Philadelphia.

State Senator H. J. Spicher and Messrs. Henry Speicher and William Miller, of Accident, were in Oakland last Friday on business.

Mr. N. U. Bond, who spent Christmas with his brother, Mr. W. C. Bond and family at Thomas, returned to Oakland Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Daniel Shaffer left Oakland Monday night for Baltimore where he will probably secure a position with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad cumpany.

Mr. Roy Haymond is spending the holiday vacation with his parents in Oakland, having arrived from the University of Virginia last Friday night.

In Cumberland on Monday a marriage license was issued to Oliver Raymond Case, of Rowlesburg, W. Va., and Bertha Elizabeth Browning, of Deer Park.

Messrs. John Martin, John Hart, Michael, James and William Boyle and Miss Mamie Boyle, students at various educational institutions, are home for the holidays.

Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound will do it. 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

PHILIP D. ARMOUR, the great multi-millionare Meat King first saved one hundred dollars from his earnings on the farm. He went from New York to California, there he got $5.00 a day for digging ditches. He still SAVED—saved a few thousand dollars. The first saving was the seed from which his vast fortune grew.

Make OUR Bank YOUR Bank.

We pay liberal interest consistent with safety—3 per cent.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OAKLAND, MD.

Important properties of the Grape are transmitted by

ROYAL Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

to the food.

The food is thereby made more tasty and digestible

Mrs. G. A. Fraley was accompanied to Baltimore Monday night by her son, Mr. Neil Fraley, where Mrs. Fraley has again become a patient in Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Mr. Juluis C. Renninger was called to Pittsburg last Friday night by a message announcing the extreme illness of his father, who is suffering with an attack of pheumsnia.

Miss Lucinda Beeghly, formerly of Accident, now a resident of Markleysburg, Pa., was the guest for several days last week of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hostetler, near Oakland.

Rev. Edmund Manges, Jr., and his sister Miss Catherine Manges, arrived in Oakland last week and are spending the holidays with their parents, Rev. and Mrs. Edmund Manges.

Messrs. Frank Stephen and Raymond Broadwater, of Crellin, were in Oakland yesterday on their return from a visit to their respective homes in the New Germany section of the county.

Miss Sue Shirer, a student at the Baltimore Business College, Baltimore, arrived in Oakland last Friday night and is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Shirer, on Alder street.

The Board of County Commissioners will meet Tuesday for the purpose of appointing road supervisors and constable and constables and transacting any other routine business that may properly come before the board.

Rev. D. L. Reid, pastor of the Deer Park M. E. circuit, spent yesterday in Oakland as a business visitor. At the recent quarterly conference held in Deer Park the official board of the church increased Rev. Reid's salary a substantial sum.

Messrs. Ferdinand Warnick, of Elk Garden, and Allen Abernathy, of Kitzmiller, have purchased a store at Howesville, Preston county, and both have gone there to operate in the mercantile business. Mr. Warnick will not move his family until spring.

The Oakland merchants generally have expressed themselves as being well satisfied with the holiday trade accorded them. All with whom we have conversed on the subject assert that the volume of business this year far exceeds that of any previous season.

Fire in the newspaper office of the Cumberland Evening Times Monday morning damaged the composing rooms, machinery and building to the extent of $10,000, which, however was covered by insurance. Notwithstanding the handi cap the paper was issued Tuesday afternoon.

The officers of the State Horticultural Department desire to inspect all nursery stock shipped into the State this fall and next spring. All persons receiving nursery stock from out-state nurseries are requested to notify the State Entomologist, College Park, Maryland. 3t

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

W. H. Mayer, boss fireman at Jennings' mill, and Frank Shaw, timber inspector, drove to Lonaconing Wednesday night from Jennings, and had an exciting trip, being upset in drifts numerous times and driving on one occasion off a small bridge into a little stream, so covered by snow that it was unnoticed.

Mrs. Leah F. Sincell, Mr. and Mrs. Olin F. Durst and two children, of Lonaconing, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Sincell, of Keyser, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Matheny, of Cumberland, were in Oakland a few days this week attending a family reunion of the Sincell clan, at which twenty-seven of the family were presant.

Mrs. Annie Nelson has announced the marriage of her daughter Miss Mary Ellen Blaine, to Mr. J. Ralph Robbins, which occurred at the Church of the Transfiguration in New York City on Christmas. After February 1st the the couple will be at home, 286 Plummer avenue, Hammond, Indiana. Mrs. Nelson and her famiiy have been residing during the summer and fall in the White mountains, having recently moved to New York City.

Last Tuesday evening a fire broke out in the post office building, owned by Miss McAndrews. It appears that Mr. McAndrews was connecting a gas meter at the back of the store occupied by Mr. Karman Christopher, when from some cause the gas exploded, breaking the large plate glass window in the store and doing in all about $500 damage to the building and about $75 to Mr. Christopher's property. The Tri-Towns Fire Co. quickly responded to the call and soon extinguished the fire. After which Mr. H. Clay Shaw invited the fire laddies to his store, where they were served with hot chocolates, etc., which must have been very acceptable on such a cold night.—Piedmont Herald.

New Roller Process for Buckwheat.

Mr. T. B. Dowman desires to inform the farmers and others of the neighborhood, that he has installed the latest and best roller process for the manufacture of buckwheat flour. He will give as good a turnout of flour as any mill in the county.

Where

is the best place to buy

MEATS

AT

CREUTZBERG'S

Old Reliable Up-to-Date

Meat Market

WITHOUT A DOUBT.

HOMER E. TURNEY,
Proprietor.

P. S. I pay the highest CASH market price for beef, pork, veal, mutton and lamb.

NOTICE!

TO THE

PUBLIC.

I have moved my

MEAT MARKET

INTO THE

Nally Building,

where I will conduct an up-to-date meat market.

Beef, Veal, Lamb, Mutton and Pork.

I wish a share of your patronage and thanking you for past favors, I am

Yours respectfully,

H. McC. SMOUSE.

The Up-To-Date Meat Market.

Stockholders' Meeting.

The aunual meeting of the stockholders of the Garrett County Telephone Co., will be held at Hoyes, Md., on the

2nd Day of January, 1911,

at the hour of 10.30 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year and any other business that may come up at that time.

C. V. GUARD, Secretary.

ESTABLISHED 1884.

Need not be connected to waterworks, the same water can be used over and over again to operate

HOT WATER AND STEAM SYSTEMS.

Only a few gallons need to be added during a season

Automatically operated, safe and very durable.

A. D. NAYLOR & CO.

PRICES RIGHT. BOTH PHONES.

H. CREUTZBURG.

SEE MY FALL LINE OF

Dress Goods, Outing Flannels, Etc.

Ladies', Children's, Men's and Boys' Shoes.

Rain Coats for Ladies and Children. Rubber Boots & Shoes.

Full Line of MEN'S AND BOYS CLOTHING.

See my Special Pure Wool $10.00 Black Thibet Suits for Men

Boys Suits $2.50 and up.

Hand-Made Wisconsin Shoes for Men and Boys.

Full Line Groceries,

Meat Market in Connection,

ALL AT THE RIGHT PRICE.

H. CREUTZBURG, Opp. P. O., Oakland, Md.

Pay Market Price for Produce.

Christmas Gifts.

Why not a pair of Shoes or a suit of Clothing for the boy a Christmas Gift? If they don't fit you can exchange after Christmas. We have several thousand pairs of Shoes and stacks of Clothing and Overcoats here waiting for you and we are giving 20% discount on Overcoats.

We can handle a lot of nice dressed TURKEYS at 21 cents, one-half cash, 22 cents trade, and the highest market prices for other poultry. Must be delivered on Tuesday or Wednesday.

BOLDEN, BROWN & WEIMER.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular meeting of the stockholders of the Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may come before them.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

from 1 to 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may be brought before them.

R. E. SLIGER, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Kitzmillerville, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

from 1 to 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of electing a board of Directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may be brought before them.

E. J. HAMILL, Cashier.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

Pursuant to the required legal notice a meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Friendsville, Maryland, will be held at its banking house on

Tuesday, January 10, 1911,

at 10 o'clock A. M. for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business that may lawfully be done.

NORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier.

The Republican.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Publisher

OAKLAND, - - MARYLAND

Precipitation is aviation's worst enemy.

Airships have not yet filed freight tariffs.

Winter is looking over the fence at us.

Nicaragua gives signs of refusing to stay put.

"The hobble skirt is passing," says a fashion note. But slowly, of course.

One of the requisites of an aeroplane flight is a check for a good-sized amount.

One of the shocking new plays brought out in New York is named "Electricity."

The thumping of the steam pipes in the early morning means more noise but not more heat.

Chinese officials must give up their jobs or their queues. The latter will naturally have to go.

A London scientist has invented a sure cure for a cold. So has everybody else in the world.

A Hoosier dentist has planned a tooth insurance policy. He may bite off more than he can chew.

In future, when aviation meets are to be stopped by the police, they will have to have more "fly cops."

There are 80,000 rooms in New York without light. And yet they boast of the Great White Way.

With aeroplane makers organized the pickets could have lots of fun making faces at non-union craft.

King Chulalongkorn is dead. Compositors will be glad to learn that his successor's name is Chowfa Maha Vajiravauch.

A lecturer declared lately that the perfect woman of the future will not be a mother. Then she will not be a perfect woman.

The woman who has a pet boa constrictor 11 feet long shouldn't kick if her husband brings home a load of snake bite cure.

Man is a useless creature, asserts a Chicago woman lecturer. What? Who'd stay home and tend the baby if it wasn't for men?

Still, there are some young men who are more interested in the price of American beauty roses than in the cost of beefsteak.

About the time a man begins to grow brush heaps in his ears he loses interest in the changing vagaries of fashions in socks.

The Massachusetts girl who can throw a baseball like Ellam is a factory girl. No college or society girl can compete with her.

Shakespeare may have had the manbirds in mind when he mentioned the condition of being "horsed on the sightless corners of the air."

It is alleged that dressed Peruvian monkeys are being sold as rabbits in the London market. What a waste there must be in monkey tails.

A Toronto girl who thought she was marrying a young capitalist soon discovered that her husband was a burglar. Is not marriage a lottery?

The Swiss are going to construct another tunnel through the Alps. Evidently they do not take much stock in the aerial route taken by Chavez.

Three of the last load of deer brought into Bangor, Me., says an exchange, were shot by women. Who says a woman can't hit anything she aims at?

They are going to put up another huge building in New York, this time one of 46 stories. Daylight will yet be at a premium on the Manhattan street level.

A preacher says that young women prefer marriage to missionary work. If they tackle the former, however, they'll find that they're in for a bit of the latter.

Only scientific institutions or learned chemists will be permitted to buy radium. As it is $36,000,000 a pound, one can readily see what hardship this arbitrary regulation is going to work among the general public, seeking radium bargains.

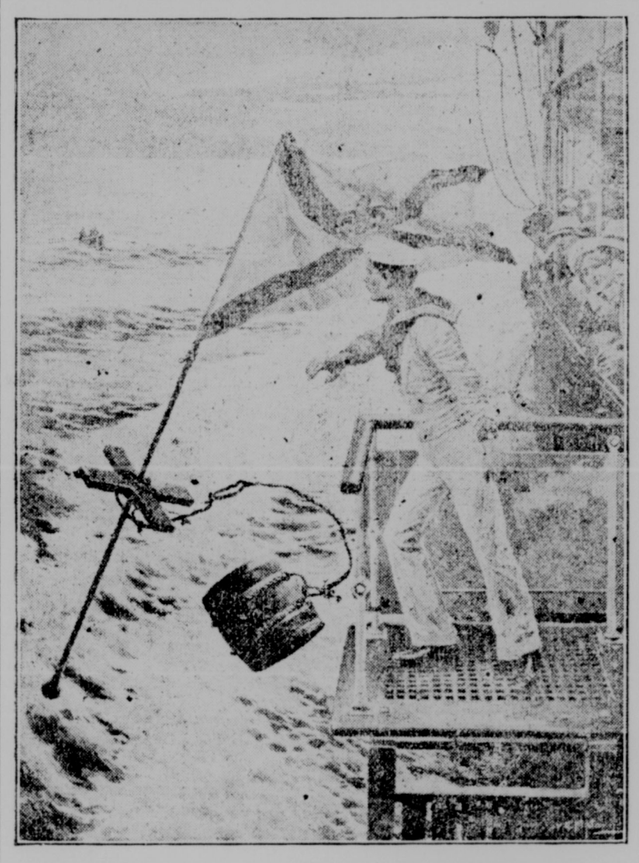
In Detroit a man was arrested because he shot off firecrackers on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his wedding. A man who wants to celebrate because he has been married twenty-five years ought to have some privileges.

An Oregon detective has been decorated by China for guarding the Chinese prince on the latter's recent visit to this country. But a detective sporting a yellow jacket and a peacock feather would be rather hampered in his business of secret identity.

MARVELS of THE EARTH

CURIOUS, ODD AND INTERESTING OBJECTS AND PLACES

Mail for Fernando Noronha



There are few places on the globe so curiously situated as the little island of Fernando Noronha in the South Atlantic ocean, named after the Count of Noronha, commander of the ships which first sighted it in 1503. The illustration shows the dropping of the mail from the R. M. S. V. Amazon for its inhabitants. When a vessel does not call at the island the letters are enclosed in a cask to which a flag is attached; this is flung into the sea in the manner depicted above and left floating until a boat dispatched from the solitary island picks it up, thus obviating any stoppage of the vessel. The island of Fernando Noronha lies 125 miles from the eastern extremity of Brazil, to which it belongs, and is about eight miles in length. It lies in the wayside of the commerce of the world, and is sighted by more ships and visited by fewer than perhaps any other spot on earth. The island is a convict station of the Brazilian government, about three-fourths out of a population of 3,000 being convicts. Females are prohibited from landing there. It is a broken, picturesque volcanic rock in mid-ocean, covered with verdure, including trees of some size, and the top of the main island is covered with small farms.

PERSIAN TOWER OF SILENCE

The Parsis, regarding earth, water and fire as sacred, have to dispose of their dead by other methods than burial or cremation. The corpses, being considered unclean, are carried up to these towers of silence and placed on tiers. Vultures eat the flesh off the bones, which are then placed in the center of the tower, where they remain until they crumble away.

RATS FORM TOBACCO HABIT

Rats have been accused of many things since the days of the Pied Piper of Hamelin, but it remained for a Big Stone (S. D.) resident to accuse the rodents of chewing tobacco.

A Big Stone woman keeps a grocery store. The building had a wooden floor, and rats gained entrance, carrying off large quantities of groceries. Recently to remedy the annoyance Miss Schnacke, the grocer, had the floor torn up and a cement floor installed. When the boards were removed and the haunts of the rats uncovered, remains of quantities of groceries were found, and in the assortment were parts of several plugs of tobacco, partly eaten, indicating that the rats had formed a liking for the weed.

BONDS KICKED ON STREET

The police of an uptown station in New York City have in their possession a parcel of bonds worth about $55,000, which was picked up by a patrolman, after it had been kicked two or three blocks by a squad of school boys.

One boy gave the parcel a final kick which sent it under the stairs leading to a subway station. There the policeman found it. The bundle was addressed in pencil on the manila wrapper: "Don A. Dodge, Yonkers, N. Y."

The Yonkers police were notified, but were unable to find the owner. A man of the name given they said lived in Yonkers a year or two ago, but had moved away, leaving his present whereabouts unknown.

RAT TRAP SAVES TWO LIVES

Awakened by the snap of a rat-trap and the squeals of a big rodent, Andrew Sullivan of New Jersey awoke at 1 o'clock in the morning to find his home in flames. Jumping from a window, clad only in their night clothes, he and his wife barely escaped.

The house, on a farm owned by Mrs. M. Comegys, on the Oxmead road, was burned to the ground, the Sullivans losing everything, including $40 which Sullivan had in a bureau.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, but it is believed that the rat, the capture of which awakened Sullivan, gnawed matches, starting the blaze.

WHALE STRANGLED ITSELF

The crew of a cable-repairing ship working in the Pacific recently brought back a remarkable story of a whale.

The vessel in question had been sent north along the coast of Alaska to repair the cable, because during the last winter difficulty had been experienced in sending and receiving messages. The ship picked up the cable connecting Valdez and Sitka, in Cass Inlet, not far from Sitka. The crew never had such a time hauling a cable on board as they did that day on the the Alaska coast. Finally the cause of the great weight was made known.

Some time during the winter a whale feeding on the bottom of the ocean, with wide-open mouth, collided with the wire rope. Unable to shape the big wire from the mass of whalebone in its jaws, the big mammal "turned turtle," rolled over once, turned round, rolled again and dived.

In these few movements the fish proved himself his own hangman, for the cable was twisted tighter about the head of the whale than any man could have twisted it with the most powerful machinery. The whale drowned, and the carcass was devoured on the bottom of the ocean by fish. The crew of the cable ship hauled up an immense load of whalebone, and found a great twist in the government cable that had been the cause of the unusual difficulty in sending messages to and from either end of the rope.

FREAK IN KITTEN TRIPLETS

Tigress, a large cat owned by James Albone of Middleport, N. Y., gave birth a few days ago to three kittens, which were all fastened along the length of their sides to one another. Their heads are all faced one way and almost in a line, and they are perfect in head, body and legs, all three being able to stand at the same time and walk.

They are very active and bright and were it not for the fact that they are attached to each other by a thick strip of flesh about an inch and a half in length along their sides, they would not seem different from ordinary kittens. Owing to their peculiar color, being reddish calico, white and maltese, they have been named Red, White and Blue.

Two other kittens complete the litter. The white kitten is the center of one of the trio and seems to be the largest and the strongest.

UNDERMINED BY THE INDUS

The once beautiful city of Dera Ghazi Khan in the Punjab has sustained incalculable damage by the overflowing of the river Indus, no fewer than 5,000 out of 6,000 dwelling houses, besides many mosques, temples and markets, having been destroyed. Some 3,000 people have been rendered homeless and 12,000 more are crowded in a destitute state in temporary huts awaiting the completion of a new city which is being laid out for them nine miles west of the river.

Rebuilt After an Earthquake

The reconstruction of Kingston, Jamaica, on the reinforced concrete system has been completed with great rapidity since it was devastated by the terrible earthquake of January 14, 1907. This was the second earthquake in the history of Jamaica which completely destroyed its capital. The damage done in Kingston alone was estimated at $10,000,000, and nearly 2,000 lives were lost.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

DRINKING HABIT IN EUROPE

Munich Royal Brewery Is Powerful Temperance Sermon—Many Men and Women Squander Lives.

On the authority of a labor union report some time ago it was stated that one reason American skilled labor is superior to European, both in quality and quantity, is because Americans drink less. The following from a letter in the Emporia Gazette, by W. A. White, is along this line. The portion of the letter quoted below has reference to Munich and Bavaria:

The Munich royal brewery is really a great sight. It was a powerful temperance sermon. Imagine a great dark building nearly as large as the main building of the Kansas State Normal School; imagine it erected in the medieval style of architecture, with few windows, massive walls, low ceilings, great wide rooms, and stone floors. Put long rows of uncovered rough tables in the dark rooms. Put men and women at the tables. Bloat their faces. Puff out their bellies. Blur their eyes, let the animal look out of their countenances and put them to eating and drinking and gabbling in the dusk of the great room by the hundreds at 10 o'clock in the morning when they should be at work. Here and there in the throng put some old soak—man or woman—whose face has become besotted and whose soul has withered under the fire of years of over-eating and over-drinking, and then put around him scores who are gradually edging up to his estate. Then to know that this scene in the royal brewery is being duplicated in Munich in hundreds of similar places where men and women are squandering God's good, strong, clean bodies and souls, and fretting away useful lives, and one realizes the great loss that those miles and miles of hop vines in Bavaria bring to the Bavarian people. Everywhere, on the sidewalks, in the cafes, in the parks and gardens, in the restaurants, in the beer halls, all day and most of the night, men and women are at it—eating, drinking, loafing, wasting themselves for nothing in God's world but an artificial sputter of pleasure in the brain. It is hell—or if hell is worse, it is crueler than it should be."

RULES IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Important Changes In Liquor Traffic Regulations Have Been Made—Measure Is Strict.

Important changes have been made in the law regarding the liquor traffic in British Columbia, bringing that province more into conformity with the eastern provinces in the restriction applied to the liquor traffic. The measure is a much stricter one than any heretofore passed in the province. The changes are in the direction of more effective safeguards to the order, peace and good morals of the far-scattered settlements and camps, which are yearly coming into closer association with each other and with the larger centers of population. Under this act a hotel must be a genuine place of entertainment, with sleeping and table accommodation, and not a mere drinking place. The number of licenses in small communities is greatly reduced. Regulations are made as to the character and record and race of the licenseholder. There is local option to the extent that two-thirds of the residents must petition for the license, all adults, men and women alike, having a voice in this matter. The fees are increased in some cases by 50 per cent., in others still more. Large powers are given to the superintendent of police, and to inspectors in the withholding, superintending, or canceling of licenses. There are also wholesale and even drastic limitations on purchasers, and the use of the interdict is greatly enlarged. Sunday sale of liquor to excursionists is suppressed, and the general effect of the legislation is towards an orderly observance of the day. Enforcement of the law is assisted by placing the burden of proof on persons found with liquor on the premises. Thus not only in respect to the unorganized districts, but throughout the provinces, the changes are in the direction of greater restriction and stricter regulation.

Drunkenness Not Tolerated.

The United Mine Workers, at their recent international convention, adopted a resolution that "if any international, district, sub-district or local union officer be seen in a state of public intoxication while on duty, he shall, upon conviction, be removed from said office at once by the officers or union having proper jurisdiction over the officer or officers." This discipline was extended to any organizer, agent, or appointee in the employ or working for any branch of the organiaztion.

Materialism.

Materialism as a philosophy of life is dead, but materialism as a habit of life was never more dangerous. Rich and poor alike both need to know the sources of spiritual wealth. —Rev. Caleb S. S. Dutton, Unitarian, Brooklyn.

THE JOCULAR CLERK.

Customer (in grocery store)—Are those eggs on that counter fresh?

Clerk—Yes, ma'am.

Customer—How long have they been laid?

Clerk—I laid them there myself, ma'am, 20 minutes ago.

SAVED OLD LADY'S HAIR

"My mother used to have a very bad humor on her head which the doctors called an eczema, and for it I had two different doctors. Her head was very sore and her hair nearly all fell out in spite of what they both did. One day her niece came in and they were speaking of how her hair was falling out and the doctors did it no good. She says, 'Aunt, why don't you try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment?' Mother did and they helped her. In six months' time the itching, burning and scalding of her head was over and her hair began growing. Today she feels much in debt to Cuticura Soap and Ointment for the fine head of hair she has for an old lady of seventy-four.

"My own case was an eczema in my feet. As soon as the cold weather came my feet would itch and burn and then they would crack open and bleed. Then I thought I would flee to my mother's friends, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I did for four or five winters, and now my feet are as smooth as any one's. Ellsworth Dunham, Hiram, Me., Sept. 30, 1909."

Why Do They.

Why women like the baldheaded man it is somewhat difficult to define. It may be because he appears to be:

Thoughtful and kind.

Trustworthy and confiding. Whimsical. Past the follies and frivolities of youth.

Usually successful.

A man of property

Opinions why women like the baldheaded man obtained by the Daily Mirror are as follows:

He is not silly like young men.

He accepts refusals of marriage so nicely that one is sorry one did not accept him.

The bald patch looks so clean and nice. One would like to kiss it.

A doctor welcomes baldness when it comes to him, as it is a sign of sedateness and dignified learning, which invariably increases his practise.

What World Lost?

"It was the worst calamity that ever happened to me," sighed the pale, intellectual high-browed young woman. "I had written a modern society novel, complete to the last chapter, and a careless servant girl gathered the sheets of the manuscript from the floor, where the wind had blown them, and used them to start a fire in the grate."

"What a burning shame that was!" commented Miss Tartan.

Literary Accuracy.

"You write of your hero as stealing home in the darkness," said the editor.

"Yes," replied the author.

"Well, you ought to know better than that. He couldn't steal home in the dark. If it was dark enough to be worth noticing the game would have been called."

EAGER TO WORK.

Health Regained by Right Food.

The average healthy man or woman is usually eager to be busy at some useful task or employment.

But let dyspepsia or indigestion get hold of one, and all endeavor becomes a burden.

"A year ago, after recovering from an operation," writes a Michigan lady, "my stomach and nerves began to give me much trouble.

"At times my appetite was voracious, but when indulged, indigestion followed. Other times I had no appetite whatever. The food I took did not nourish me and I grew weaker than ever.

"I lost interest in everything and wanted to be alone. I had always had good nerves, but now the merest trifle would upset me and bring on a violent headache. Walking across the room was an effort and prescribed exercise was out of the question.

"I had seen Grape-Nuts advertised, but did not believe what I read at the time. At last when it seemed as if I was literally starving, I began to eat Grape-Nuts.

"I had not been able to work for a year, but now after two months on Grape-Nuts I am eager to be at work again. My stomach gives me no trouble now, my nerves are steady as ever, and interest in life and ambition have come back with the return to health."

Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

MANY SIDES OF NEW YEAR'S

THE custom of celebrating the New Year by leaving behind, in theory at least, one's pet pernicious habit or besetting sin, may be hackneyed, but it certainly is not entirely relegated to the limbo of things forgotten or outworn. Some time New Year's day, when a quiet moment in the day's swirl offers time for thought, there will be a hasty taking stock of the year that is gone, a recounting of errors and failures, a silent promise that this or that will not occur again.

And what does it all amount to, after all, this old custom of revamping threadbare resolutions or selecting new ones? The cynic will smile and say that it is all a waste of effort, a flash in the pan, a half-hearted glossing over of mistakes by wordy and none too sincere promises of reform. The humorist will have his little fling in cartoon and witty quip and jest. He will gurgle with the sardonic glee of Robin Goodfellow over the folly of mortals and find in every resolve new subject for laughter. From the pulpit on Sunday will sound the admonition of the minister and the moralist. They will take good resolutions seriously, and set upon them the stamp of divine approval. And whether the wry sneer of the cynic, the mocking grin of the humorist, or the approving smile of the moralist prophesy the fate of the resolutions and their maker, it will be true that even the most momentary impulses toward better things will not be entirely wasted.

There was a time when, in the simple faith of childhood, you set down in black and white your promises to do better. On the first page of your new diary, a yearly Christmas present, you wrote in your best Spencerian hand—we knew none better in those days—something like this: "During this year I resolve not to lose my temper; not to be saucy at home; not to put off doing the things I dislike; to read my Bible every day." Direct, sounding blows were these on the chain mail of your besetting sins of a quick temper, a wickedly sharp little tongue, procrastination, and childish irreligion. Behind closed doors, lest any one see him in so meek a moment, Brother Dick was scribbling earnestly: "I promise myself not to be late for dinner, not to forget to wash my neck and ears, not to get in debt to father for my allowance, and not to play hookey a single day." Of course you failed, both you and Dick, before the little diary had its new gilt dimmed or the soft penciling of the latter had blurred itself into unreproachful illegibility. But the effort wasn't altogether wasted, and there were fewer fits of temper and cleaner neck and ears than would otherwise have been.

We grown-ups miss, as we get older, some of the past and gone aids to New Year's resolves. The day was once upon a time more marked by pleasant social customs. Only in officialdom is New Year's now a stately day of ceremonial. But it is not hard to recall that a decade or two ago there still survived some of the dignity and good cheer that had attached itself to the day. Before the Christmas fruit cake had all been devoured, or the stone jars of small cakes suffered too severely from the inroads of rapacious children, preparations for New Year's day were well under way.

A FLUCTUATING STREAM OF MEN IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE

Children were not included in this celebration. This was essentially the festival of their elders. Orders to keep from under foot were rightly enforced, and did you wish to see the fun no place remained but the second-story landing, which gave somewhat inconspicuously upon the hall below, with a strained view of the big parlors, and none of the dining room beyond. That it was there and in full working order was evidenced by a keen sense of smell.

It was always great fun to wander up and down the principal residence streets as noon drew near, to find out who were to be at home and who were not. A basket tied to the door knob with gay red ribbons said, for all the world to hear: "We are not receiving today." If you were a boy and daring, later in the afternoon you stole up on the step to peep in and discover, by the number of cards within, the respective popularity of village maids and matrons. Wherever the door lacked the basket, you knew that behind the drawn shades there was the soft glow of candles or the yellow glare of gas, poor substitute for sunlight on snow, but presumably kinder to complexions and gowns just a trifle passe. And you knew that in each house, subject only to trifling variations of background, there would be enacted the same scenes.

Into the front door that opened at the first touch of the bell passed a fluctuating stream of men in holiday attire. There were elderly beaux a-plenty in broadcloth that was brushed to the point of perfection, smart young dandies, sporting the newest fashion in ties; awkward beginners not quite used to the length of their frock coats—we called them Prince Alberts in the days when New Year's calls were in vogue—and a sprinkling of substantial-looking business men paying homage to the established custom of society. Everybody who was anybody in "our town" paid his devoirs to the incoming year by making the rounds of his friends' homes.

Once inside, there was the neat maid or solemn butler to receive the caller's card and help him with overcoat, hat and cane, and then a dash for his hostess and her daughters and friends under the chandeliers with the prism drops. "Happy New Year" resounded on all sides. In the course of the afternoon the indefatigable had seen all their friends, had sampled the choicest types of Christmas baking, had toasted again and again the New Year in punch of varying strength and pungency, or substituted coffee in homes where temperance principles were popular. They had said pretty things to popular dames in the stimulating atmosphere of holly and green wreaths, and had matched wits with fascinating damsels in the dangerous vicinity of mistletoe that still boasted some berries. It was all very gay, very informal, and very homey. At no other time or on no other occasion did the holiday hilarity reach so high a pitch.

"I'd like to do it all over again," is the testimony of one stately lady, whose home twenty years ago was the scene of yearly New Year's receptions. "No other social function on my calendar was such fun for the guests and so little trouble for the hostess. The decorating had been done a week before, and a few fresh flowers were all that were needed. Given bright lights, a dozen pretty girls to help entertain, the simplest cakes, and plenty of mildly exhilarating punch made from a recipe that my Kentucky grandfather declared harmless, and success was assured. When six o'clock came you had seen all the nice men of your acquaintance undisturbed by the usual influx of other women, and had sent them away at peace with the world in general and full of the spirit of neighborliness."

Meanwhile, upstairs in the library window seats curled the family small fry, watching the procession as it passed, commenting with juvenile frankness on the toilets of the callers, counting the visitors as they came, listening to the hum of voices downstairs, the girls hugging close to the sash, the boys making daring detours to "peek" through the balustrade, returning to report what young ladies were sitting on the steps with what young men, and even, in some cases, what they were saying. Longer tiptoeing prowls, down the back stairs to the lair of a friendly cook, led to quick and jubilant returns with offerings of cake and claret cup, wherewith the hours might be beguiled until six, when twinkling street lights warned the callers to retreat.

Not a serious way to start the New Year? No, but a friendly one, that left hostesses and callers with a glow of human friendliness to last as warmth for many a day. And if seriousness were lacking, the same decade that enjoyed New Year's calling found itself also at one with the custom of watch-night service. For, in "our town," as in yours, mayhap, it was the thing to spend the closing hours of the old year in the quiet seriousness of prayer and sacred song. Children had their share in this, for fathers and mothers had not in that simpler time learned to fear the giving of definite religious instruction to their sons and daughters. It was clear and plain that a child must be trained in the way he should go, and watch night was a part of that training.

And, indeed, no youngster ever tried to beg off. There was first of all the joy of doing the unusual and the fun of sitting up past his bedtime. So you hied yourself to the nursery couch or the sitting-room lounge, after a hot supper, an old-fashioned winter supper of sausage and fried potatoes or scalloped oysters and muffins, and took a long, long nap. At half-past ten, father waked you, tucked you into cap and overcoat, and the family party started out under the cold stars, snow crunching under foot, to the nearby church.

Not so very long ago the writer came across an old chromo, of the sort that looks, in a dim and favorable light, like a fairly decent oil painting. In its day it had doubtless been the chief ornament of a well-furnished, comfortable parlor. Now it cluttered the window of a second-hand shop, dingy and out of sorts with fate. But even in the unflattering light of a dusty show window, it had a certain charm for the one who found it. It was the picture of a watch-night service, such as she had once known so well. Bright moonlight flooded the scene, bringing out in sharpened detail the snow-laden boughs of drooping elms and the Gothic spire of a small stone church. From stained-glass windows and opened door came streaming the warm glow of shaded gas jets. From village streets flocked men and women and children, stopping to say a word of greeting as they passed into the vestibule. The spell of the picture took her, with the speed of the magic carpet or of the seven-leagued boots, back to the New Year's eves of her girlhood.

So she had walked with father and mother and a sleepy small brother. Just so the trees had looked in the frosty moonlight. And just as warm and softly glowing had been the stone church, through whose open doors came the resonant strains of the great organ. She remembered with aching vividness the faces of those who had filled the pews, especially that of one man, the governor of the state, whose aquiline profile, flashing eyes and straight, glossy black hair formed a never-to-be-forgotten personality.

Watch-night hymns have a personality of their own, as those of Christmas or Easter, if not so widely known. They are naturally serious and a bit foreboding, with a touch of the melancholy that is associated with the rapid flight of time.

The year is gone, beyond recall
With all its hopes and fears,
With all its bright and gladdening smiles,
With all its mourners' tears, is an old Latin hymn to a common meter tune that illustrates the tendency of this branch of hymnology. Charles Wesley has been most prolific in voicing this thought.

Wisdom ascribe, and might, and praise,
To God who lenthens out our days;
Who spares us yet another year,
And makes us see his goodness here, is an old favorite. Often just on the stroke of midnight another of his voiced the feelings of the congregation, that beginning:

Join, all ye ransomed sons of grace,
The holy joy prolong,
And shout to the Redeemer's praise,
A solemn midnight song.

GREAT FUN TO WANDER UP AND DOWN THE PRINCIPAL RESIDENCE STREETS

A bit more joyful is the splendid, quaintly irregular,

Come, let us anew our journey pursue,
Roll round with the year,
And never stand still till the Master appear.

It was easy after this to go home filled with loftiest aspirations, ready to begin the new diary with ambitious resolves that were bound to o'erleap themselves because of their very loftiness. There was one watch night when there drifted into the ken of the child the poem that has since meant to her, as it does to many, the very spirit of this day. From the choir gallery, just before the midnight hour, came the softened chorus of a strange melody. Then into the silence of the vaulted church rose a wonderful message in a voice that bore conviction to the listeners. It sang to the organ and the hushed accompaniment of the choir:

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild skies,
The flying cloud, the frosty light;
The year is dying, in the night;
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

Through the whole of the splendid poem it swept, on to the triumphant conclusion:

"Ring in the Christ that is to be."

To the child the most dramatic moment of the evening came just on the stroke of the incoming year. While outside whistles blew and giant crackers exploded, bells clashed and clanged, inside hands clasped hands while together they sang the good old standby, "Blest be the tie that binds," before the hush of the benediction and the glad chorus of "Happy New Year's" that concluded the service.

There is another sort of quiet ushering in of the baby year that is conducive to the good resolve that counts so easily under favorable conditions. There were those in the old days, as there are in these, who felt that after the gala afternoon the happiest way of all was to sit quietly about the fire, chatting with half a dozen congenial spirits, singing a bit if the spirit moved, reminiscing as old times came back in the hush, and ending with the silent toast and the dash of sentiment that makes "Auld Lang Syne" the fitting song for such a moment.

That some such happy hour may begin little 1911's first appearance is the best wish one can offer to friends.

Let the auspicious morning be expressed
With a white stone distinguished from the rest.

So the stately Dryden has put the same thought. May it be true of us all.

The Surprise of the Spiritual

By REV. HUGH T. KERR
Pastor Fullerton Avenue Presbyterian Church, Chicago

TEXT—The kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field, the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath and knoweth that field.—Matthew XIII, 44.

The discovery of hidden treasures was one of the expectant surprises of the past, said the Rev. Mr. Kerr. The secrecy of the soil was once the safest security. Nero became the laughing stock of his people because he was induced to investigate a marvelous treasure-trove in a distant part of his dominions said to be waiting for a finder. Men of our day, too, have become the laughing stock of their fellows by selling their all to invest in mountains of rock said to contain acres of gold and stratas of shale and to secrete rivers of oil. But this man of the parable was no laughing stock, but the wonder of his age and the envy of many men.

Without searching for it, he discovered a treasure. The glittering gold shone before his very eyes. According to the law of the land it was his. His heart danced for very joy and in his joy he parted with everything he had and possessed himself of that miracle-working field.

God is better far than mountains of gold, said Jesus. To find God, to possess him, is worth the sacrifice of every other thing. God is the greatest discovery a man can make. Job cried out for God. Philip asked after the father. Tennyson said the greatest desire of his life was to have a new vision of God. Let us follow the path of this unnamed discoverer and, if we can, learn his secret.

He was surprised into his discovery. It was all so unexpected and so amazing and so wonderful that he could not believe his eyes when the glittering gold and the shining silver lay spread out in a heap at his feet.

So does God sometimes surprise the souls of men. We would not be seeking him had we not already been found of him. Our search for God has been so long and so patient as has his search for us. Sometimes he discovers himself to us and ere we know it we are in his presence. Like Livingstone in the African wilderness suddenly facing his discoverer, so does God discover us. Nicodemus may search for God in the secrecy of the night, but in the broad daylight Jesus reveals himself to the surprised Samaritan woman. Zacchaeus may climb the tree to see the Christ, but Jesus unexpectedly calls Matthew from his customary place.

So do men stumble upon God in life. Men are surprised into the spiritual by the very act of the eternal spirit they are not looking for God, they are found of him. Paul went with slaughter in his heart to Damascus and lo! he found not the Christians but the Christians' God. Verily, said the prophet, thou art a God that hidest thyself. The spiritual life from beginning to end is one long series of discovery. The hidden treasure of God's all-pervasive presence is ever revealing new wonders to our souls.

He was surprised into a new mental temperament. The very grammar dances with joy. The words as they fell from the lips of Jesus are bubbling over with a new found delight. The man walks as it were on air and lives his life in gladness of a present possession. So rejoiced is he in his new found treasure that he again hides it away as something too precious to exploit, and holds his secret for a little while at least, in selfish monopoly.

The spiritual life must ever surprise men into a very intoxication of delight. The early church was one great merry making community. The people of that age did not understand the abounding joy and the overwhelming gladness that possessed the Christians who sang in the midst of defeat and who rejoiced in tribulation. When Gods surprises the soul there is abounding light-heartedness and a burst of melody. Every revival of true religion has been accompanied with a burst of song.

The miners of Wales went down into the darkness with gospel songs upon their lips. In the prison-house of Phillippi Paul and Silas sang songs of joy until the very prison was smitten as with an earthquake. God, pity us for our dry-as-dust religion! There is no gospel in the religion of many of our people, and the missing note in our modern Christianity is the note of abounding joy and spiritual cheerfulness. Our missionary meetings are too often places of tears and tragedies. Our prayer services are too often a rendezvous for dispirited followers. Awake, awake, put on thy beautiful garments. Our Christ is a conqueror and our treasure is pure gold.

He was surprised into a new interpretation of sacrifice. In his joy he goeth and selleth all that he has, and buyeth that field. There is nothing to weep over in that transaction. There is no use to shed tears over that sacrifice. Indeed, there is no sacrifice. Men talk about sacrifices, said the immortal Livingstone; God knows I never made a sacrifice. This from the man who wore his life out to heal the open sore of the world, and we, with out petty self-denials talk about sacrifice!

If we wish the priceless treasure we must pay the price.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT...

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL, Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle

The Message of the Hour to the Church and the World.

"The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, prepare ye the way of the Lord. . . . Make straight in the desert a highway for our God. . . . And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together. . . . The voice said, proclaim, all flesh is grass, and the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field. The grass withereth, the flower fadeth, because the spirit of the Lord bloweth upon it. Surely the people are grass" (Isaiah xl, 3-7).

Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle today addressed an audience of nearly four thousand people from the above text. His hearers were of all classes and very intelligent appearing. He had closest attention. He said in part:—

God has messages for those who have hearing ears at each great Dispensational change in earth's affairs. These messages have generally been in the nature of forewarning of coming distress and the reasons therefor. Such a message was given to our first parents when they were expelled from Eden—accursed would be the ground for their sakes. Thorns and thistles it would bring forth unto them. In sweat of face they should eat bread thereof until they should return to the ground, from whence they came. Another great message went forth at the time of the flood; another before the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah; another at the close of the Jewish Age, when Jesus and his Apostles called attention to the prophecies which foretold the Divine rejection of the nation of Israel for a time and declared that all things written in the Law and the Prophets concerning them would have fulfillment, quoting the prophecy which declared that their house would be left desolate; that they would have neither prophet, nor vision, nor priest, nor ephod for many years, but that eventually God's favor would return to Israel—that he would gather them again and fulfill to them everlastingly the blessings promised both to Abraham and to his descendants—"the sure mercies of David."

A week ago we considered the prophetic message, "Comfort ye, comfort ye, my people, saith your God" (Isaiah xl, 1). We noted then that the due time has arrived for the fulfillment to Israel of this comforting message—that as a people the appointed time for the return of favor to them is accomplished because their two-fold disciplines for sin have been fulfilled. Thus our present day is clearly marked and the words of our text following imply that now is the time for a special message to all, in proportion as each may have the hearing ear.

It is the voice of God which calls now through various channels and agencies. It cries not from the "City Babylon the Great." It cries not from the citadel of Christendom; but from the wilderness, from those who are more or less separated; from those who have heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues" (Revelation xviii, 4).

Prepare the Lord's Way.

The message of the hour to every hearing ear is, "The Lord whom ye seek shall suddenly come to his temple" (Malachi iii, 1). For centuries you have been praying, "Thy Kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven." Now your prayer is about to be answered, whether you prayed in sincerity or in hypocrisy. The glory of the Lord is about to be revealed. "All flesh shall see it together." It will not be revealed merely to one nation, nor merely to one holy class. His glory will be revealed in flaming fire—in judgments. All flesh shall see it—the rich and the poor, the learned and the ignorant, the holy and the unholy. But, as the Prophet Malachi declares, "Who shall abide the day of his coming, and who shall stand when he appeareth; for he is like fuller's soap (in its attack upon grease and dirt), and he is like a refiner's fire," as it melts and separates the dross of sin and iniquity (Malachi iii, 2).

The coming of a great earthly king to a city is the signal for a general cleaning up everywhere. And so the Lord declares that the message of his fast-approaching Kingdom should influence all who have the hearing ear to make preparation. To each nation it means, Set your house in order. An inspection is at hand. See that your laws are just and equitable and that they are administered justly. The same message comes to each self-governing city, and lastly, and most important of all, this message comes to each individual, and especially to all who have named the name of Christ. Or, as St. Peter declares, this inspection of the King of kings and Lord of lords must begin with the house of God (I Peter iv, 17). And if the inspection be so searching that it must begin with God's saints, what could we expect of it when it reaches those who are merely nominal Christians and then the world in general? Ah! we may expect just what the Bible advises us will come, "A time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation" (Daniel xii, 1). The message of this hour, dear friends, elsewhere stated in Holy Writ, is, "Seek meekness; seek righteousness. It may be that ye shall be hid in the day of the Lord's anger" (Zephaniah ii, 3).

Hidden Things to Be Revealed.

The greatest Teacher the world has ever known, a Jew, eighteen centuries ago, declared prophetically of our day that every hidden thing shall be revealed (Matthew x, 26). We see his prophecy fulfilling. The secrets of nations are being exposed. Injustice in its every form is being brought to light as never before. Inequity in financial institutions and in politics and in private affairs is being remorselessly muckraked and brought to light. Expediency and policy might say, Hide these things from public gaze. But under Divine Providence the light is being turned on everywhere and hidden things of darkness are being exposed, sometimes in the evil and sometimes in the good. And sometimes, perhaps, the Adversary succeeds in making the good to appear evil. We are merely noting the general tendency—the great fact so peculiar to our day. We are not saying that every charge of fraud is bona-fide.

Levelling Processes Are at Work.

The great levelling processes mentioned by the Prophet may be seen at work everywhere in society—in politics, in finance, in religion. A straight path is certainly being marked out in the wilderness. The people are coming to see gradually what constitutes Justice from the Divine standpoint—the path that Jehovah God will take when coming to mankind to require an accounting for the blessing of religion and of enlightenments granted to humanity in this, our day. Those who point out to mankind the straight paths do not always walk therein themselves. Nevertheless, the great purpose of the Almighty is being accomplished in the exposures of sin and injustices, whether made from the Christian pulpit or from the socialistic platform or in the public press. The Divine edict is, "Make straight in the desert a highway for your God" (Isaiah xl, 3)—show his path of righteousness; make it known to all the people.

We should remember, however, that it is one thing to know the path of righteousness, of justice and of equity, and another thing to walk therein. Let us, my dear hearers, see to it that we not only recognize the Divine standards of righteousness and that we proclaim these to all who have the hearing ear, but let us also take heed that we practice what we preach; that we be not condemned in respect to those principles which we allow and acknowledge and proclaim as the Golden Rule to others. Alas for the hypocrites who proclaim the way of the Lord to others, yet ignore that way in their own dealings. We have every reason to believe that honesty is one of the qualities which our God most highly appreciates in his creatures; hence we may be sure that hypocrisy is one of the most abominable qualities in his sight. Hearken to the words of the Great Teacher, "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! * * * for ye lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers" (Luke xi, 44-46).

Let all who have named the name of Christ; all who in any sense of the word profess to be God's people, put far from them the hypocrisies which appear so abominable in others. Let us be honest. Let us practice even more than we ever preached. Let all who belong to the Lord be indeed burning and shining lights in the world—examples of justice and righteousness in their homes, in their neighborhoods, in the workshop and in the markets. Let us not only proclaim and assist in making straight before our feet the pathway of our God, but let us conform our words and deeds and thoughts thereto. The general result of the uncovering of the hidden things of darkness, and the bringing of them to light, and the proclamation of the straight way of the Lord, will have a great effect, and that effect is declared by the Prophet. It will mean a Revolution—in symbolical language, an earthquake. Note the picture given: "Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low; and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places smooth." Not in one instant will all this mighty transformation of society be accomplished. Not at once will all the degraded members of the human family be brought to the general standard or level. Not at once will the mountains and hills (the kingdoms and princedoms of the world) be brought down to the common level. Not at once will thus a general equalization of society be effected. But it will be effected. "The mouth of the Lord hath spoken it."

"The levelling process already is begun. In Germany, for instance, one-fourth of the Reichstag is composed of Socialists, notwithstanding the fact that the wealthy have several votes to the poor man's one. Already we see the great mountain (or nation) of Russia yielding to the demands of the people and granting them a measure of civil rights. There we see a practical illustration of the lifting up of the valleys and the bringing low of the mountains. In Great Britain we see another wonderful illustration of this principle; for here, more than in any other Kingdom of Europe, perhaps, the distance between the mountain tops of autocracy and the depths of social degradation, have been lessened, so that in Great Britain, the change demanded by the new Kingdom, Messiah's Kingdom, will be less than in many other countries. Here it has come gradually.

The Glory of the Lord Revealed.

A well-known American authoress (Henry Ward Beecher's Sister) once wrote some words which seem prophetic:—

"I can see his coming judgments, as they circle all the earth,
The signs and groanings promised, to precede a second birth;
I read his righteous sentence, in the crumbling thrones of earth—
Our King is marching on.

"'The Gentile Times' are closing, for their kings have had their day;
And with them sin and sorrow, will forever pass away;
For the tribe of Judah's Lion, now comes to hold the sway—
Our King is marching on.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Christmas passed off very pleasantly in this community, with many joyous family reunions.

Among those who spent Christmas at their old homes we note: Misses Louise and Virginia Sperry, Kate and Mary O'Donnell and Blanche Chance, and Messrs. Ervin, Paul and Willard Sperry, Harrison Arnold, and Charles Weimer.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bennett are visiting Mrs. Bennett's mother, Mrs. C. C. Michael.

Rev. N. L. and Mrs. Baumgardner and Mrs. Mann, Mrs. Grub and Miss Buckman partook of a Christmas feast with Mr. and Mrs. Harmison.

Messrs. Cuppett, Leighton & Co. commenced filling their ice house Tuesday morning from the lake.

Married Sunday evening, by Rev. C. W. Hudson, Mr. George Hipsley and Miss Belle Michael, both of Mountain Lake Park.

Married Sunday morning by Rev. P. Z. Musgrave, Mr. Earl Wonderly and Miss Gussie Mumaw, both of this neighborhood.

Married Christmas, at Bittinger, this county, Mr. Benjamin Long, of Mountain Lake Park, and Miss Effie Bittinger, of Bittinger.

Mrs. Duke King was Monday called to the home of her sister near Keyser, W. Va., who is critically ill.

The Association has ordered an engine and as soon as it arrives and is adjusted the large ice house at the lake will be filled.

Special services will begin in the M. E. church Sunday evening preceded by cottage prayer meetings during the week.

Mr. Adolph Rambeau is spending his vacation among friends here.

Mr. E. L. Winchell is here for the holidays.

Miss Martha Carmichael leaves this week for her western home to be absent several weeks.

Your correspondent was the recipient Sunday of a handsome silk umbrella from his Sunday school class.

Mr. and Mrs. Aver Smith Ricks, of Pittsburg, Pa., are visiting Mrs. Ricks' sister, Mrs. Warren Rathbun, and other relatives and friends in Loch Lynn and Oakland.

Mr. Theodore Nihiser is in the Hinebaugh sanitorium under treatment for typhoid fever.

Messrs. E. E., G. B. M. and Willey Friend, accompanied by their wives and children, Tuesday attended the golden anniversary of the marriage of their father and mother, Rev. H. E. and Mrs. Friend, residing near Hoyes, this county. Nearly all of the children and many of the grandchildren were present and it was a joyous occasion, especially for the aged parents, who hope to celebrate their diamond anniversary before they go hence.

Mr. A. V. Cuppett returned last night from Mountain Lake Park, where he spent a couple of days visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Cuppett. He was accompanied home by his niece, Miss Effie Cuppett, who will visit him for several days.—Grafton Sentinel.

A dinner and reunion was held at the residence of Capt. and Mrs. J. A. Hayden to-day at which the following children, grandchildren and friends were present: Mr. and Mrs. J. Grant Hayden and daughter Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Lee N. Hayden and son Walter; Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hayden and son John D., and Gay W. Hayden; also Mr. and Mrs. George Hipsley, Mrs. Joseph Bennett and Miss Daisy Enlow.

FRIENDSVILLE.

Christmas is over! To some it was the best they ever had; to others it was not. Times are not just as they were. To the trust magnates, they could well give presents and dine in a sumptuous manner, while the high prices kept many from enjoying the festival of Christ's birthday as they have in times gone by.

A happy New Year to everybody and a prosperous one.

Our storekeepers have been doing a big business, but a good deal of Christmas goods will have to be put away for a year.

Harry and Albert Phillipi are spending the holidays with their mother, Mrs. Reed.

William Holman made a flying visit to his home so he could eat Christmas dinner with the old folks.

John Holman came home from college on Thursday and will return again early in the new year.

John Rumbaugh is home for his Xmas holidays from school.

Albert and Haman Kamp are home for a visit from their work in West Virginia.

Amster Friend is again able to perform his duties at the depot, after his bad attack of la grippe.

L. M. Reckner left last week for a visit to Pennsylvania returning on Saturday.

August Heil and sister Mary spent their Christmas in Accident.

The entertainment to be given by the band on Thursday and Friday is something that all should patronize. It will be well worth the price of admission, and it is for a good purpose. We all like to have a band in our town, and therefore should shut up shop and all turn out and show by your presence what you think of them.

There was preaching in the Lutheran church Sunday evening. Rev. Manges, of Gettysburg, held the service. Rev. Dean will preach next Sunday at 7.30 P. M.

Mrs. Arthur Chisholm was taken alarmingly ill suddenly last Saturday in the afternoon but is now better.

John W. McCullough, as his custom has been for several years, gave a Christmas treat to the children of Friendsville Monday morning. About two hundred children received a fine box of candy, a pop corn ball and a bag of peanuts, and from the delight evidenced on the children's faces, were as much enjoyed in receiving as was the kind donor in giving.

Joseph Dean, of Homestead, Pa., is a guest of Charles Taylor, also his brother.

Charles Frederick and wife, of Cumberland, spent a few days in our city.

The ice left the river Saturday on account of a thaw and the water rising.

John Shartzer was a visitor to our town last week.

Emmerson Ferrier came home to spend Christmas with his family last week.

Several serious falls were reported on account of the icy sidewalks, though no fractures. Ashes should be scattered on such places.

Santa Claus found Miss Izetta Fox in bed with a bad attack of measles. We trust he left her presents to cheer her.

For a temperance town Friendsville was quite boisterous over Christmas. Saturday night it was a common thing to see drunken youths and even Monday one young man was put in the lock-up and a couple taken home. One was just able to keep on his feet with the help of his companions. We won't mention names, but it is a disgraceful thing to see bright young men, brought up amidst good surroundings throw themselves away. Some one is evidently selling liquor in town, and before long we think they will be surprised, even if the people who were called before the jury at last court did not know anything about it.

A dance was enjoyed by a select party of young folks in the Opera House Monday night.

HAUSER.

Hauser has a long list for sick report this week:

Mrs. D O. Roth and daughter Marguerite are quite ill.

Mrs. H. A. Roth is now sick, and Harry Enlow who was reported sick last week is able to be about the house.

Mrs. Lem Reed has been quite ill for several days.

Christmas dinners, treats, etc., caused the usual remarks about not feeling well.

Grandma Hamstead spent Sunday visiting friends in Eglon and also partook of Christmas dinner there.

"Surely pride goeth before a fall." The proudest have been slain and bedecked handsomely and placed near the center of the table.

Mrs. John H. Roth and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Shaffer took Xmas dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson near Cherry creek.

Quite a number of young people took Xmas dinner with Mrs. Devers and family.

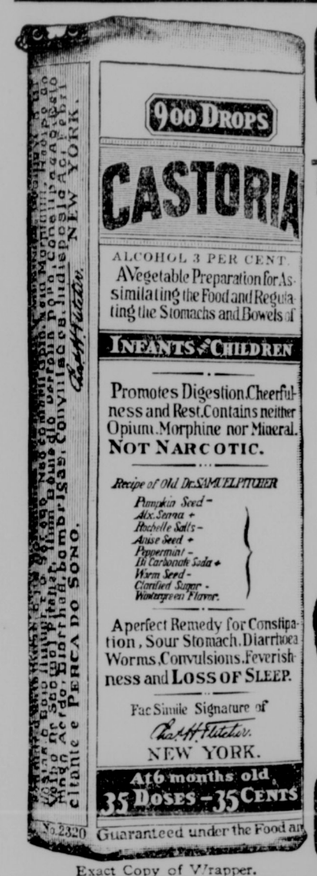
Mr. Robert Latham spent Xmas and Monday with his family. He was accompanied on his return to work at Dobbin by the whole family who thus had a nice sled ride.

Nearly all of the people in this vicinity were Oakland visitors last week, so the naming of county seat visitors will be omitted this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweitzer, of near Eglon, W. Va., visited Mrs. Sweitzer's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. O. Schaffer, Christmas. Master Robert Sweitzer, who has lived with his grandparents for two or three years, returned to visit his father and mother and get acquainted with his brothers and sister again.

Mrs. Wolf, of Cranesville, and Mrs. Dodge, son and daughter, of near Gortner, visited Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schaffer Xmas and Monday.

Mr. Arnold, who has contracted to cut Mr. Floyd Schaffer's lumber, has made all arrangements to move and by Jan. 15th he expects to be on the ground.



Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

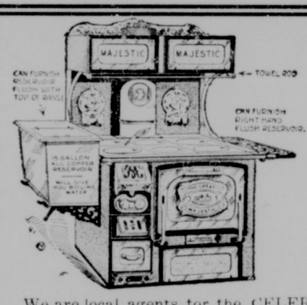
The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.



MAJESTIC RANGES

For Coal or Wood

HONEST GOODS.
HONEST PRICES.

We are local agents for the CELERRATED MAJESTIC RANGES—the Ranges with a national reputation. Nothing better is made in the stove line. Goods which are cheap, but not good, are dear at any price.

Why you should have a Great and Grand Majestic Range in your Kitchen—

It cuts the fuel bill in half because it is riveted air-tight, HOLDS the heat where it belongs, and has the proper arrangement of flues
It is used by your neighbor, who would have no other.
It browns bread all over just alike without turning.
Has large warming closets with the right kind of doors. The only warming closets that you can clean.
It is made in any size and style desired.
It is made of better and heavier material than any other.
It is the only range in the world made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron.
It costs a little more, but lasts much longer.
It is the only range made that has a ventilated ash pit.

S. LAWTON & SONS, Oakland, Md.

BITTINGER.

Santa Claus was especially liberal in his donations in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Brenneman, as he left a baby boy at their home on Christmas eve. Simon thinks the stork must have been off for the holidays and Santa Claus had to act as substitute.

Harry Wiley and his sister, Miss Leanora, are spending this week visiting, Cumberland.

C. E. Ellithorp made a business trip to Oakland last week.

Clarence Oester went to Mt. Lake Park last Monday, where he expects to spend a few days with relatives.

Miss Lucretia Wiley left last Monday for a week's visit at her sister's home at Jenningston, W. Va.

Messrs. Noah and Leonard Stark, of Chaffee, W. Va., are spending this week with their parents at this place.

Messrs. Columbus and Clark Brenneman made a business trip to Meyersdale, Pa., last week.

Albert Brenneman and family, are visiting relatives at Berlin, Pa., this week.

We wish THE REPUBLISAN, its editor and all its readers, a Happy and prosperous New Year.

MOUNT ZION.

We have been having winter in the lastest style for the last few weeks.

Messrs. Grover, Hollie and Will Sharpless made a flying trip to Piedmont Friday evening.

Mr. Edward Davis was at Swanton Thursday.

Mr. John Sharpless was a business caller at Blaine Friday.

Miss Nellie Tichinel, of Chaffee, was visiting her parents at this place one day last week.

Mr Jesse Sharpless made a business trip to Oakland Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Birkley Sharpless were at Piedmont Saturday.

Mr. Walter Shank was visiting his mother at Oakland Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sharpless were visiting his parents Sunday.

Mrs. Birkley Sharpless was calling on her mother, Mrs. George Paugh, Friday.

Rev. Yost has closed his meeting at this place till the weather is more convenient to hold it.

Mr. F. R. Sharpless and daughter Cora were in Oakland Friday.

Mr. Joseph Shank was at Swanton Saturday.

Miss Georgia Davis is spending the holidays with her parents near Mt. Lake Park.

Mr. S. R. Harvey made a business to Oakland Thursday.

Mr. Pearl Conn, of Chaffee, W. Va., and Miss Columbia Davis were quietly married at Swanton Friday morning. Their friends join in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

Call for Your Letters.

Jos. Baker, Mrs. I. J. Browning, Draper Vaughn, John C. Davis, R. R. McDonald, B. M. Maroney, Lillian Ficher, H. H. Pinnell, W. R. Hendricks, A. B. Gende, B. N. Chrisman, Nellie Smith.

County Boards To Meet In Baltimore January 12th.

Governor Crothers Tuesday notified the County Commissioners of the various counties that the annual meeting of the County Commissioners of the whole State will be held in Baltimore on January 12. A definite place for the meeting has not yet been selected.

Last year the first general gathering of County Commissioners was held, resulting in the enactment of the new assessment law. Mayor Mahool and Appeal Tax Court Judge Oscar Lesser are expected to attend the coming meeting and deliver addresses on topics relating to local government. Walter B. Miller of Salisbury is also booked to delive address.

Valuable Farm at Public Auction.

The undersigned will offer at public auction in front of the Court House in Oakland on Wednesday, March 1st, 1911, at two o'clock p. m., his farm of 170 acres, lying in District No. 4 at the head of Dry Run, 2¼ miles from the railroad. About forty acres of the farm are cleared and and under cultivation; 200 apple trees and other good fruit; good house and barn; 3 good springs; 200,000 feet saw timber.

Terms of Sale—$800 in cash on day of sale and balance to suit purchaser.

For further information address

DAVID T. MICHAEL,
R. D., 1, Swanton, Md.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 34. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, JANUARY 5, 1911. NUMBER 45

A LESSON IN TEMPERANCE WAS DELIVERED MONDAY

Afternoon at the M. E. Church by Rev. G. R. Williamson. The Pastor.

The sermon which follows was delivered over the remains of the late Clyde C. Liller in St. Paul's M. E. church in Oakland Monday afternoon by Rev. G. R. Williamson, the pastor, and is here published by special request of Mrs. Liller and quite a number of other Oakland people, including members of all denominations as well as some not connected with any church.

The scene before us is sad beyond all power of description. It is not my business as a minister to apologize for the mistakes of the dead man whose body lies in this casket.

"As the tree falls it must lie." Our limitations are such, and we see through a glass darkly, so that it is not always possible to tell how the tree falls.

It is customary to exalt the virtues of the dead, and to minimize their faults, while we exalt the faults of the living, and minimize their virtues. God would have us do justice to both the dead and the living. We who are living demand justice. If we are the object of criticism our demands are not so imperative if some one else is the object. Certainly, if the pale lips before us could speak we would only hear a mild demand for simple justice.

So I endeavor to approach the task before me, which is by no means a pleasant one, with a sense of justice to both living and dead. A man who himself must stand before the judgment bar of God to "give an account of the deeds done in the body," surely cannot afford to do on an occasion like this anything that would embarrass him in the great day. This funeral talk cannot be delivered without taking into account the living as well as the dead. The dead can't talk back, the living can, and probably will, so I will say as little of the dead as possible, and speak directly to and of the living.

First, Clyde Liller, the man. It is needless to say his sun has gone down while it is yet day. When he should have been at his best, in the prime of manhood's powers, the supporter and defender of his family, taking his place as a citizen in a great Republic, bearing his share of life's burdens, suddenly the light went out, and the "spirit went back to the God who gave it."

Clyde Liller, when at himself, was a generous, large hearted man. His wife has said more than once to the speaker that, "When Clyde was sober one could not wish for a better husband, a better father." But when whiskey goes in the man goes out. Social life in America is such that the man with a weakness for alcohol has a tremendous battle to fight, and in most instances is the loser. At some time in his life, I know not when, he tasted the poison and later found the scriptures true, "At last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder." The habit once contracted, its effects felt, his will power weakened, it got beyond his control, until the finished product, the legitimate fruit of the American saloon lies a helpless, pitiless corpse before us. A woman has been made a widow, three children made orphans, because the liquor traffic pays revenue, and some men will sell it regardless of the widow's cry and the orphans' wail.

Some one is saying, "He ought to have let it alone when he saw he could not control it." O yes, how easy to say that and how little it means. That strong man who boasts that he can take it or let it alone, usually takes it, and sooner or later becomes a hopeless wreck himself. Another says, "Let whiskey alone and it will let you alone." This is another assertion as false as Satan himself. These innocent children let it alone, but it did not let them alone. This heart broken widow let it alone, but it did not, it would not, let her alone. Either directly or indirectly this horrible monster, the liquor traffic, has his satanic clutches around the throat of every man, woman and child in our fair land.

I want to say here that to my personal knowledge Clyde Liller did made a struggle, and a brave one, to stem the tide aud free himself from the manacles that bound him hand and foot. When he would go to work in the hope that he was victor, on his way to the shop his nostrils were greeted with the stench of the foul poison; boon companions were ready to lure him away from all his good resolutions; men were ready to take his last nickel and sell it to him regardless of the protests of his innocent wife; every fibre of his being was crying out for alcohol. He fell time and again only to get up and make a brief struggle and fall again, until, a hopeless, helpless wanderer, away from home and friends, the tired bdoy lay down to sleep the dreamless sleep. Such is the picture, the awful tradegy, of one human life. But we make in this country 100,000 drunkrads' graves a year, 277 each day. During this funeral hour 11 other of our fellow citizens will go in the same way, and thus the miserable work goes on from year to year.

Clyde sought the comfort and help of religion. He had a religious nature. I have prayed with him in my own home, and witnessed with profoundest pity his hopeless struggle.

My predecessor, Rev. J. B. Workman, told me he never worked as hard to save a man as he did to save Clyde Liller. But the miserable grog shop with its doors always open was sufficiently powerful to overbalance any influence for good, and thus the task of saving him under the present conditions had to be abandoned. He tried working in a dry town, but the national government itself is in the miserable liquor business, and for the small pittance of $25 will give a man a federal license, and then protect him if he violates the law of the state in which he sells. Then when a poor drunkard wants to free himself from his slavish chains he may go from Maine to California, from the Gulf to the lakes, and on every foot of territory over which old glory waves her proud folds he is hounded and hunted by this monster until at last like poor Clyde he lies down to the sleep that knows no waking.

Who can picture in all its hideousness the American Liquor Traffic? Human words are inadequate. Figures daze us. We are led in our desperation to exclaim, "O Lord how long."

Gladstone said, it has destroyed more human life than war, pestilence and famine combined.

Somebody is to blame. This poor body is a murdered body and the murderer goes scott free in this great land of freedom, this land of churches, boasting one hundred thousand pastors; this land of colleges and universities; this land that has been styled "God's last chance for the human race," goes on murdering other wives' husbands, other children's fathers, other mothers' sons; goes on ruling congress, dominating state legislatures, intimidating town and city councils; goes on throttling the voice of the pulpit until God in His righteous anger has sent our land its greatest spiritual drought. And the pity of it all is, but few seem to care.

Lincoln said: "This nation can't live half slave and half free." Neither can it live half drunk and half sober.

Sin will down any of us; even in the strongest of men it is too mighty to contend against unaided. The greatest delusion in this world is that you can build yourself up by tearing somebody else down, or that success can be reaped out of the frailties and misfortunes of others. Upon this false principle the licensed liquor traffic acts. By this delusion the people of this fair town allow the accursed, stenchful, blackening, damning institution, the licensed saloon. An institution that fosters and perpetuates an evil almost as old as sin itself. An evil haggard, monstrous, furious and diabolical, that for ages has walked and crawled the earth combining all that is obnoxious in the races of men. It ha gored with its horns, it has torn with its tusks, it has crushed with its hoofs, it has poisoned with its fangs, it has stung with its insectile javelins greater numbers of the human race than have perished from all other causes combined. It bribes, it lures, decoys, charms, fascinates, tempts and seduces; has the eye of an eagle, the tooth of a rattlesnake, the jaw of a crocodile, the crushing coils of a boa constrictor, the slyness of the scorpion and the folds of the "worm that dieth not." It has cheated and deceived the nations. By our false system of regulation, or attempted regulation, it hisses, it lies, it cheats, it debauches, it kills.

I hate it with an eternal, uncompromising hatred, and I don't care who knows it.

It puts its poison talons on the home and robs it of its furnishings. It takes the clothes off the backs of innocent, helpless children and shoes from off their feet. It brings mothers to the wash tub and scrub brush, and straps burdens on their shoulders too heavy to be borne. It dashes out brains and pulverizes the human heart. It fills the poor houses, the penitentiaries, the lunatic asylums and peoples our grave yards with the flower of our manhood.

By somebody's consent ten saloons are fastened upon this fair town of Oakland, which, were it not for them, would be an ideal place in which to live. We silently tolerate them, and the authorities grant the license for a very small consideration in the way of money. Thus for less than two dollars apiece the town is sold to the liquor traffic.

A county seat should be the best town in the county. Here our professional men live, here all the people must come at times to transact business. We owe it to the surrounding country to have a decent, moral town so that a country boy can leave his mother in the morning, come here on business and return to her sober in the evening. But alas! How many boys go home whooping and yelling and cursing, reeling and staggering to their homes late at night because Oakland thinks she must have a little revenue.

Is there not some way to elect a man to represent us at Annapolis who will say this thing shall stop?

Whose boy will now take the place of Clyde Liller? Somebody's will.

To you men who are before me: The griefs, the scalding tears, the deferred hopes, the strangled aspirations of this woman ought to lead every man of you to lay the axe of absolute prohibition at the root of our license system and rest not till the whole tree is burned up root and branch in the fires of a holy and righteous indignation. As you behold the wound will you not bring the healing balm? As you witness the bondage will you not seize the hammer and strike off the manacles that bind at this very hour so many citizens of Garrett county? I know full well the criticism that will be heaped on me for saying this today. I have weighed every word and am prepared for the consequences. But I will not stand by and see a man cut down by liquor and witness the wreck and ruin of a home without raising my voice in solemn protest against the liquor traffic in Oakland, at whose door lies the responsibility of Clyde Liller's murder.

I am going to say something else: The men who run saloons are not alone in this. Others are responsible. When we get to the judgment the man who made the foul stuff, the man who sold it, the man who gave it to him when he could not buy it, the man who is bondsman for the saloon keeper, the citizen who by his silence or vote endorses the liquor traffic will all come up with fingers streaming red in the blood of poor Clyde Liller who fell a helpless victim into the clutches of the liquor traffic.

And now a word to these two precious boys. Hear me today. You are old enough to know what I am saying. You will never forget this hour. You have been left without a father at this early period in your lives, and will have struggles in life and heavy burdens to bear, but I beg of you today to resolve deep down in your hearts never to taste, handle or have to do with that which has caused your poor father's untimely death. Stay with your mother, encourage her, support her, be honest and true and the world will give you a place and you can make a living in it.

And to this widow let me say: You have the heart-felt sympathy of this congregation. You have my prayers, and in your hours of loneliness, when dark shadows gather around and life's mighty storms threaten to dash your frail bark to pieces, may you hear above the roar of the conflict the voice of Christ saying: "It is I, be not afraid," "Peace, be still." And the voice that silenced the waves of old Galilee will still your troubled soul, until at last the day breaks and the shadows forever flee away.

To this congregation: May you all live so that at last when you are called to answer the roll call of the skies, you may be numbered with those who shall hear the words: "Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

SEN. STEPHEN B. ELKINS OF WEST VIRGINIA DEAD

After an Illness of a Year the Distinguished Man Died This Morning.

Senator Stephen B. Elkins, of West Virgiaia, son-in-law of Henry Gassaway Davis, Democratic Candidate for vice president in 1904, and himself a Republican leader of the Senate, died this morning at 12.30 o'clock at his home in Washington, D. C., after an illness of nearly a year.

At his bedside when he died were his father-in-law, his sons, David, Stephen and Richard, his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Blaine Elkins, Miss Katherine Elkins, and Mrs. Elkins, all of whom had been summoned and had been in Washington for two or three days waiting momentarily the end.

CHRISTIAN M. RENNINGER.

Mr. Christian M. Renninger, father of Mr. Julius C. Renninger, died at his home in Pittsburg last Thursday night after an illness of three weeks of pneumonia coupled with advanced years, the deceased being seventy-two years of age. Mr. Renninger was a resident of Cumberland for many years having removed from that city to Pittsburg a few years ago where he was employed by the Westinghouse interests. After services conducted at his late home the remains of the deceased were taken to Cumberland and interred in that city.

CLYDE C. LILLER.

Mr. Clyde C. Liller, of Oakland, died in a hospital at Monessen, Pa., last Saturday, December 31st, after a short illness. The deceased was engaged until a short time ago in the barbering business in Oakland when he left here and went to Monessen where he was employed. He was aged thirty-nine years. The remains were shipped to Oakland from Monessen, arriving here Sunday morning and on Monday the funeral occurred from St. Paul's M. E. church, where the services were conducted by the pastor Rev. G. R. Williamson in the presence of a large congregation. The deceased was of an inventive turn of mind, an excellent mechanic and a whole-souled man. He leaves surviving him his wife and three children—two sons and a little daughter. The interment occurred in the Oakland cemetery. The sermon delivered over the remains of the deceased will be found elsewhere in these columns today.

ISAAC LEIGHTON.

Mr. Isaac Leighton died at the home of his son, Mr. H. V. Leighton, Loch Lynn, Wednesday night at 11.30 o'clock. Deceased was in the 85th year of his age, and died from infirmities incident to his great age. Funeral services at the residence of Mr. H. V. Leighton Friday afternoon at 2.00 o'clock and interment in Oakland cemetery. A more extended obituary will appear later.

MRS. MARY E. HAMMOND.

Mrs. Mary E. Hammond, aged 77 years, died at Meyersdale, Pa., last Thursday evening and was buried Monday afternoon. The deceased lady was the mother of Mr. C. F. Hammond, of Oakland.

BABY SHROUT.

At the home of its parents in Mountain Lake Park, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rizer Shrout, after an illness of two weeks of pneumonia, died last Friday and was interred in Oakland Sunday.

Call for Your Letters.

Laura S. Lanck, Eva Bryn Smith, Rodney Johnson, John H. Bell.

Married.

COMPTON—MILLER—At the home of the bride's father, Mr. David Miller, near Deer Park, on Sunday last, Mr. James Compton and Miss Bertha Miller.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY ON WEDDING EVE

Were to Have Been Married New Year's Day—Found By Her Mother.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Jan. 2—A New Year's Eve tragedy that has astounded the whole country hereabout was enacted at the home of Louis F. Elosser, merchant, 116 Taylor street. His daughter, Grace Elosser, and her husband-to-be, Charles Twigg, a prominent merchant and horticulturist, of Keyser, W. Va., 22 miles west of this place, were found dead seated on the sofa in the parlor.

The pair were to have been married Sunday at Grace Methodist Episcopal church, Cumberland. Mr. Twigg was a widower.

He telephoned his fiancee from Keyser that he would be down on the noon train. He went to the Elosser home with the wedding ring. It did not fit and the couple had arranged to go to a jeweler on Baltimore street Saturday night to have it fitted.

The pair were in the parlor alone from 1 until about 2.45 Saturday afternoon. Members of the family heard them chatting merrily. At about 2 o'clock Miss Elosser telephoned a girl friend about the coming wedding. Soon after this all was still but nothing was suspected. At length the girl's mother, who first called at the door and got no response, entered the room to find the pair seated on the sofa. Twigg's hand was hanging to one side. Mrs. Elosser took hold of her daughter and found she was dead. Twigg was also dead.

The bodies were removed to an undertaker's where a post mortem revealed death by cyanide potassium poisoning. The poison was in liquid form but the bottle has not been located. The authorities are completely non-plussed.

Miss Elosser was 28 years old. She was divorced from her husband, Maurice C. Willison, about three years ago and resumed her maiden name. Right after the divorce, Willison married Hilda Gorman. Miss Elosser was a born horsewoman and was known all over the city for the spotted pony she drove. Twigg was aged 33. He had prepared a fine home to take his bride to after a southern trip. He owned a large store and a big peach orchard from which he realized handsomely the season just closed.

In Memoriam.

At a regular meeting of the Youghiogheny Lodge No. 134, Knights of Pythias, held Dec. 23, 1910, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Supreme Being of the Universe to remove from our midst our late Brother Geo. M. Friend; and

WHEREAS, The intimate relations long held by our deceased brother with the members of this Lodge render it proper that we should place on record our appreciation of his services as a Knight of Pythias and his merits as a man; therefore be it

Resolved, By Youghiogheny Lodge No. 134, of the Great Domain of Maryland of Knights of Pythias, that while we bow with humble submission to the will of the Most High, we do not the less mourn for our brother who has been called from his labor to rest.

Resolved, That in the death of Geo. M. Friend this Lodge loses a brother who was always active and zealous in his work as a Knight of Pythias, ever ready to succor the needy and distressed of the Fraternity; prompt to advance the interest of the order; devoted to its welfare and prosperity; one who was wise in council and fearless in action; an honest and upright man, whose virtues endeared him not only to his brothren of the order but to all his fellow citizens. "He who seeks for heaven alone to save his soul may keep the path but not reach the goal; while he who walks in love may wander far, yet God will bring him where the blessed are."

Resolved, That this lodge tenders its heart felt sympathy to the family and the relations of our deceased brother in their sad affliction.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon the minutes of this lodge and a copy of them be sent to the family of the deceased brother, and a copy of the same to the county papers.

W. F. EAST,
LEON HARDIE,
C. V. GUARD, Committee.

Friendsville, Md., Dec. 23.

Honor Roll of Bittinger School.

The following named pupils of the Bittinger school merited 100 per cent. in deportment, averaged 90 per cent. in daily recitations during the month of December:

Fifth Grade—Ruth Brenneman, Zula Stanton, Hulda Stark, Verna Detrick, Lena Keller, Pearl Trump, Lucile Beahm, Ernest Hetrick, Lester Bittinger, Martin Stanton, Dewey P. Wiley, Dewey Wiley, Oscar Hetrick, Earl Brenneman and Dora Wiley.

Sixth Grade—Verno Wiley, Cora Bowers, Estelle Beahm, Lester Hetrich, Elmer Wiley, Leroy Emory, Chauncey Broadwater, George Stark, Edward Buckle, and Roy Hetrich.

Seventh Grade—Myrtle Emory, Ruth Beahm, Leonora Wiley, Oscar Brenneman, Clyde Broadwater, Charlie Wiley, Ray Engle and Columbus Oester.

DR. W. W. DAVIS HAS TENDERED RESIGNATION

As Superintendent and His Successor. Dr. Shelton. Elected by Park Board.

A rumor, current several weeks ago that Dr. W. W. Davis, superintendent of the Mountain Lake Park Association, had tendered his resignation, was known to be true by THE REPUBLICAN but we were in honor bound not to make the matter public, hence no publication of the matter appeared in these columns. Since, however, Dr. Davis' successor has been elected by the board of directors and the matter is now given publicity for the first time.

Dr. Davis was slated to be elected president of Pennington Seminary, a school for boys located in New Jersey. The matter was all but settled when another applicant for the position appeared and at a meeting of the board of governors of the school held two weeks ago the second man was chosen for the position. In the meantime, however, Dr. Davis' resignation as superintendent of the Park was in the hands of the board of directors and it was accepted, and his successor, Dr. Charles Eldred Shelton, president of Simpson College, Indianola, Iowa, for ten years, was elected and will assume his new duties within a short time.

Dr. Shelton is not entirely unknown in Oakland. He was recently a guest at the home of Lieutenant and Mrs. E. S. West, having stopped over in Oakland on his return trip from Europe. While here he met a numbnr of our citizens and created a most favorable impression, and his friends far and near have never had anything but the highest praise for him as a Christian gentleman, educator, college president and one who has demonstrated his executive ability and tact in every position he held.

We are assured that Dr. Shelton possesses the necessary qualifications for the position to which he has just been elected. He is a big, strong, broad-minded man of wide experience. He has traveled much abroad and is popular wherever known. Mrs. Shelton, his wife, is a most estimatle lady and has been in poor health for a number of years. It is this that caused Dr. Shelton to resign as President of Simpson College and to accept the position as superintendent of Mt. Lake Park, thinking that this climate would be beneficial to his wife's health. Their son, Prof. Whiteford Shelton, is one of the instructors in the State University at Boulder, Colorado.

Dr. Shelton's father and grandfather before him were Methodist preachers. While Dr. Shelton is a preacher of ability, he has never taken conference work, having been engaged in educational work all his life. He is a member of the Iowa bar, and has had considerable experience in Assembly and Chautauqua work.

The Mt. Lake Park Association and its friends are certainly to be congratulated on securing the services of this man. We predict a bright future for Mt. Lake Park and extend a hearty welcome to the new superintendent, regretting that we are to lose Dr. Davis, who has devoted all his time and energies to the interests of the Park and community with commendable success.

NEW YEAR'S GREETING.

To the Sunday School Workers of Garrett County.

DEAR FELLOW-WORKERS:—I extend to you this greeting because of my interest in you personally and the work you are doing in behalf of the child-life of your county. My social and religious intercourse with you in past years, the enjoyable visits to your homes and churches, the cordial receptions accorded me in every instance, have placed in the hall of memory many delightful pictures that will never fade. May God bless you and help you to make this the banner year of material and spiritual progress.

The New Year finds us confronted with conditions that will require a faster hold on God and the exercise of unusual energy, coupled with the beauty and power of righteous living. I am not a pessimist. It is my nature to look upon the brightest side of things; but I am saddened by the decedence of home-life, the general abandonment of the family altar, the alarming increase of juvenile criminality, the serious neglect of child-training and the apathy in church and Sunday school circles. These conditions are observable in all parts of Maryland. The Holy Spirit is ready to manifest His awakening and saving power. Let us get ready. Let us determine that we will do our part in changing these conditions, that the sanctity of our homes may be maintained; that those who have in charge the teaching and training of children may be fully consecrated to their great mission; that all the evils which menace our children's interests shall be fought and driven from the country; that material prosperity shall not cause us to forget our God, who is the dispenser of all blessings.

Believe me, as ever,

Your brother in Christ,
GEO. H. NOCK.

State Supt. Md. Ev. Association.
January 1, 1911.

Stork News.

The stork flew high over Oakland last week, alighting at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hilleary, near Gorman, Saturday morning where it left a little daughter, which has been named Madeline Maywood. A message from the delighted father states he is kept too busy at home since the arrival of the little stranger to visit much but that his friends in Oakland may expect him over within the next few months.

DIXON & KELSO

DIXON & KELSO have a lot

Men's and Boys'

OVERCOATS,

Ladies' and Misses' Coats

AND MEN'S

Winter Suits,

which we will close out at one-half price.

Can be seen on the center counter in store room.

Yours to Please. DIXON & KELSO.

The MAN in LOWER TEN

by MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

AUTHOR of THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT by BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

Lawrence Blakeley, lawyer, goes to Pittsburg with the forged notes in the Bronson case to take the deposition of the chief witness for the prosecution, John Gilmore, a millionaire. In the latter's house the lawyer is attracted by the picture of a girl whom Gilmore explains is his granddaughter, Alison West. He says her father is a rascal and a friend of the forger. Standing in line to buy a Pullman ticket Blakeley is requested by a lady to buy her one. He gives her lower eleven and retains lower ten. He finds a man in a drunken stupor in lower ten and retires in lower nine. He awakens in lower seven and finds his bag and clothing missing. The man in lower ten is found murdered. It is learned that the dead man is Simon Harrington of Pittsburg. The man who disappeared with Blakeley's clothes is suspected of the murder.

CHAPTER VI—Continued.

"Then you haven't heard the rest of the tragedy?" I asked, holding out the case. "It's frightfully bad luck for me, but it makes a good story. You see—"

At that moment the conductor and porter ceased their colloquy. The conductor came directly toward me, tugging as he came at his bristling gray mustache.

"I would like to talk to you in the car," he said to me, with a curious glance at the young lady.

"Can't it wait?" I objected. "We are on our way to a cup of coffee and a slice of bacon. Be merciful as you are powerful."

"I'm afraid the breakfast will have to wait," he replied. "I won't keep you long." There was a note of authority in his voice which I resented; but, after all, the circumstances were unusual.

"We'll have to defer that cup of coffee for a while," I said to the girl; "but don't despair; there's breakfast somewhere."

As we entered the car, she stood aside, but I felt rather than saw that she followed us. I was surprised to see a half dozen men gathered around the berth in which I had wakened, number seven. It had not yet been made up.

As we passed along the aisle, I was conscious of a new expression on the faces of the passengers. The tall woman who had fainted was searching my face with narrowed eyes, while the stout woman of the kindly heart avoided my gaze, and pretended to look out of the window.

As we pushed our way through the group I fancied that it closed around me ominously. The conductor said nothing, but led the way without ceremony to the side of the berth.

"What's the matter?" I inquired. I was puzzled, but not apprehensive. "Have you some of my things? I'd be thankful even for my shoes; these are confoundedly tight."

Nobody spoke, and I fell silent, too. For one of the pillows had been turned over, and the under side of the white case was streaked with brownish stains. I think it was a perceptible time before I realized that the stains were blood, and that the faces around were filled with suspicion and distrust.

"Why, it—that looks like blood," I said vacuously. There was an incessant pounding in my ears, and the conductor's voice came from far off.

"It is blood," he asserted grimly.

I looked around with a dizzy attempt at nonchalance. "Even if it is," I remonstrated, "surely you don't suppose for a moment that I know anything about it!"

The amateur detective elbowed his way in. He had a scrap of transparent paper in his hand, and a pencil.

"I would like permission to trace the stains," he began eagerly. "Also"—to me—"if you will kindly jab your finger with a pin—needle—anything—"

"If you don't keep out of this," the conductor said savagely, "I will do some jabbing myself. As for you, sir—" he turned to me. I was absolutely innocent, but I knew that I presented a typical picture of guilt; I was covered with cold sweat, and the pounding in my ears kept up dizzily. "As for you, sir—"

The irrepressible amateur detective made a quick pounce at the pillow and pushed back the cover. Before our incredulous eyes he drew out a narrow steel dirk which had been buried to the small cross that served as a head.

There was a chorus of voices around, a quick surging forward of the crowd. So that was what had scratched my hand! I buried the wound in my coat pocket.

"Well," I said, trying to speak naturally, "doesn't that prove what I have been telling you? The man who committed the murder belonged to this berth, and made an exchange in some way after the crime. How do you know he didn't change the tags so I would come back to this berth?" This was an inspiration; I was pleased with it. "That's what he did, he changed the tags," I reiterated.

There was a murmur of assent around. The doctor, who was standing beside me, put his hand on my arm. "If this gentleman committed this crime, and I for one feel sure he did not, then who is the fellow who got away? And why did he go?"

"We have only one man's word for that," the conductor snarled. "I've traveled some in these cars myself, and no one ever changed berths with me."

Somebody on the edge of the group asserted that hereafter he would travel by daylight. I glanced up and caught the eye of the girl in blue.

"They are all mad," she said. Her tone was low, but I heard her distinctly. "Don't take them seriously enough to defend yourself."

"I am glad you think I didn't do it," I observed meekly, over the crowd. "Nothing else is of any importance."

The conductor had pulled out his note-book again. "Your name, please," he said gruffly.

"Lawrence Blakeley, Washington."

"Your occupation?"

"Attorney. A member of the firm of Blakeley & McKnight."

"Mr. Blakeley, you say you have occupied the wrong berth and have been robbed. Do you know anything of the man who did it?"

"Only from what he left behind," I answered. "These clothes—"

"They fit you," he said with quick suspicion. "Isn't that rather a coincidence? You are a large man."

"Good heavens," I retorted, stung to fury, "do I look like a man who would wear this kind of a necktie? Do you suppose I carry purple and green barred silk handkerchiefs? Would any man in his senses wear a pair of shoes a full size too small?"

The conductor was inclined to hedge. "You will have to grant that I am in a peculiar position," he said. "I have only your word as to the exchange of berths, and you understand I am merely doing my duty. Are there any clews in the pockets?"

For the second time I emptied them of their contents, which he noted. "Is that all?" he finished. "There was nothing else?"

"Nothing."

"That's not all, sir," broke in the porter, stepping forward. "There was a small black satchel."

"That's so," I exclaimed. "I forgot the bag. I don't even know where it is."

The easily swayed crowd looked suspicious again. I've grown so accustomed to reading the faces of a jury, seeing them swing from doubt to belief, and back again to doubt, that I instinctively watch expressions. I saw that my forgetfulness had done me harm—that suspicion was roused again.

The bag was found a couple of seats away, under somebody's raincoat—another dubious circumstance. Was I hiding it? It was brought to the berth and placed beside the conductor, who opened it at once.

It contained the usual traveling impedimenta—change of linen, collars, handkerchiefs, a bronze-green scarf, and a safety razor. But the attention of the crowd riveted itself on a flat, Russia leather wallet, around which a heavy gum band was wrapped, and which bore in gilt letters the name "Simon Harrington."

CHAPTER VII.

A Fine Gold Chain.

The conductor held it out to me, his face sternly accusing.

"Is this another coincidence?" he asked. "Did the man who left you his clothes and the barred silk handkerchief and the tight shoes leave you the spoil of the murder?"

The men standing around had drawn off a little, and I saw the absolute futility of any remonstrance. Have you ever seen a fly, who, in these hygienic days, finding no cobwebs to entangle him, is caught in a sheet of fly paper, finds himself more and more mired, and is finally quiet with the sticky stillness of despair?

Well, I was the fly. I had seen too much of circumstantial evidence to have any belief that the establishing of my identity would weigh much against the other incriminating details. It meant imprisonment and trial, probably, with all the notoriety and loss of practice they would entail. A man thinks quickly at a time like that. All the probable consequences of the finding of that pocketbook flashed through my mind as I extended my hand to take it. Then I drew my arm back.

"I don't want it," I said. "Look inside. Maybe the other man took the money and left the wallet."

The conductor opened it, and again there was a curious surging forward of the crowd. To my intense disappointment the money was still there.

I stood blankly miserable while it was counted out—five $100 bills, six twenties and some fives and ones that brought the total to $650.

The little man with the note-book insisted on taking the numbers of the notes, to the conductor's annoyance. It was immaterial to me: Small things had lost their power to irritate. I was seeing myself in the prisoner's box, going through all the nerve-racking routine of a trial for murder—the challenging of the jury, the endless cross-examinations, the alternate hope and fear. I believe I said before that I had no nerves, but for a few minutes that morning I was as near as a man ever comes to hysteria.

I folded my arms and gave myself a mental shake. I seemed to be the center of a hundred eyes, expressing every shade of doubt and distrust, but I tried not to flinch. Then some one created a diversion.

The amateur detective was busy again with the sealskin bag, investigating the make of the safety razor and the manufacturer's name on the bronze-green tie. Now, however, he paused and frowned, as though some pet theory had been upset.

Then from a corner of the bag he drew out and held up for our inspection some three inches of fine gold chain, one end of which was blackened and stained with blood!

The conductor held out his hand for it, but the little man was not ready to give it up. He turned to me.

"You say no watch was left you? Was there a piece of chain like that?"

"No chain at all," I said sulkily. "No jewelry of any kind, except plain gold buttons in the shirt I am wearing."

"Where are your glasses?" he threw at me suddenly; instinctively my hand went to my eyes. My glasses had been gone all morning, and I had not even noticed their absence. The little man smiled cynically and held out the chain.

"I must ask you to examine this," he insisted. "Isn't it a part of the fine gold chain you wear over your ear?"

I didn't want to touch the thing: The stain at the end made me shudder. But with a baker's dozen of suspicious eyes—well, we'll say 14—there were no one-eyed men—I took the fragment in the tips of my fingers and looked at it helplessly.

"Very fine chains are much alike," I managed to say. "For all I know, this may be mine, but I don't know how it got into that sealskin bag. I never saw the bag until this morning after daylight."

"I Don't Want It," I Said.

"He admits that he had the bag," somebody said behind me. "How did you guess that he wore glasses, anyhow?" to the amateur sleuth.

That gentleman cleared his throat. "There were two reasons," he said, "for suspecting it. When you see a man with the lines of his face drooping, a healthy individual with a pensive eye—suspect astigmatism. Besides, this gentleman has a pronounced line across the bridge of his nose and a mark on his ear from the chain."

After this remarkable exhibition of the theoretical as combined with the practical, he sank into a seat near by, and still holding the chain, sat with closed eyes and pursed lips. It was evident to all the car that the solution of the mystery was a question of moments. Once he bent forward eagerly and putting the chain on the window-sill, proceeded to go over it with a pocket magnifying glass, only to shake his head in disappointment. All the people around shook their heads, too, although they had not the slightest idea what it was about.

The pounding in my ears began again. The group around me seemed to be suddenly motionless in the very act of moving, as if a hypnotist had called "Rigid!" The girl in blue was looking at me, and above the din I thought she said she must speak to me—something vital. The pounding grew louder and merged into a scream. With a grinding and splintering the car rose under my feet. Then it fell away into darkness.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Second Section.

Have you ever been picked up out of your three-meals-a-day life, whirled around in a tornado of events, and landed in a situation so grotesque and yet so horrible that you laugh even while you are groaning, and straining at its hopelessness? McKnight says that is hysteria, and that no man worthy of the name ever admits to it.

Also, as McKnight says, it sounds like a tank drama. Just as the revolving saw is about to cut the hero into stove lengths, the second villain blows up the sawmill. The hero goes up through the roof and alights on the bank of a stream at the feet of his lady love, who is making daisy chains.

Nevertheless, when I was safely home again, with Mrs. Klopton brewing strange drinks that came in paper packets from the pharmacy, and that smelled to heaven, I remember staggering to the door and closing it, and then going back to bed and howling out the absurdity and the madness of the whole thing. And while I laughed my very soul was sick, for the girl was gone by that time, and I knew by all the loyalty that answers between men for honor that I would have to put her out of my mind.

And yet, all the night that followed, filled as it was with the shrieking demons of pain, I saw her as I had seen her last, in the queer hat with green ribbons. I told the doctor this, guardedly, the next morning, and he said it was the morphia, and that I was lucky not to have seen a row of devils with green tails.

I don't know anything about the wreck of September 9 last. You who swallowed the details with your coffee and digested the horrors with your chop, probably know a great deal more than I do. I remember very distinctly that the jumping and throbbing in my arm brought me back to a world that at first was nothing but sky, a heap of clouds that I thought hazily were the meringue on a blue charlotte russe. As the sense of hearing was slowly added to vision, I heard a woman near me sobbing that she had lost her hat pin, and she couldn't keep her hat on.

I think I dropped back into unconsciousness again, for the next thing I remember was of my blue patch of sky clouded with smoke, of a strange, roaring and crackling, of a rain of fiery sparks in my face and of somebody beating at me with feeble hands. I opened my eyes and closed them again: The girl in blue was bending over me. With that imperviousness to big things and keenness to small that is the first effect of shock, I tried to be facetious, when a spark stung my cheek.

"You will have to rouse yourself!" the girl was repeating desperately. "You've been in fire twice already." A piece of striped ticking floated slowly over my head. As the wind caught it its charring edges leaped into flame.

"Looks like a kite, doesn't it?" I remarked cheerfully. And then, as my arm gave an excruciating throb—"Jove, how my arm hurts!"

The girl bent over and spoke slowly, distinctly, as one might speak to a deaf person or a child.

"Listen, Mr. Blakeley," she said earnestly. "You must rouse yourself. There has been a terrible accident. The second section ran into us. The wreck is burning now, and if we don't move, we will catch fire. Do you hear?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Prelude to Immortal Life.

A graceful and honorable old age is the childhood of immortality.—Pindar.

BREEDING SHETLAND PONY FOR CHILDREN'S PLEASURE

Little Animal Is Most Docile of Equine Tribe, and Seemingly Most Sagacious—Where They Originally Came From.

Children's Pets.

George W. Goodacre, a prominent figure on the Potomac Speedway, has introduced into the District of Columbia a new industry.

Mr. Goodacre proposes to devote much of his time in the future to the breeding of Shetland ponies, and has recently imported 12 head of beautiful animals which he has located on his estate in the vicinity of Brightwood. Since their arrival these ponies have excited much admiration on account of their gentleness and intelligence.

With one or two exceptions, the ponies are of the tiny kind, as the illustration shows; in fact, they are so small that the major portion of them could pass between the legs of a man of average size without the ruffle of a hair. The lord of the harem is a perfectly made tiny specimen of the Shetland tribe called Billie, black in color, and he can do almost anything he is called upon to do except talk and pay taxes.

The cutest in the band is a tiny symposium of horseflesh called Dr. Chase Jr., so named because he resembles the Doctor in color, being a golden sorrel, and again because his markings are similar to those worn by the great Speedway trotter. All of the ponies except two are of the popular color, being either white and black or bay and white.

The fashion in ponies runs strongly toward the extremely small ones. They bring fabulous prices when of right size and color in all large cities in this country, not only on account of their oddity, but because the size desired is hard to produce. The primitive home of the Shetland is in the islands which lie off the extreme northern coast of Scotland. Bleak and desolate are these islands, even in the midst of summer. The grass is sparse and not over-nutritious. It is in winter, however, that the sagacity and endurance of the Shetland is put to the test. He is compelled to dig through the snow for the forage he gets, or, maybe, if the snow is too deep for him to reach the ground, he lives on twigs and seaweed.

In the case of the Shetland pony, it is truly a survival of the fittest. The ponies are kept by their breeders in droves, and, when in the spring they wander to the water's edge to get a taste of seaweed to supplement their rations, scores of them perish as the treacherous tides frequently catch them unawares and the weakest are carried out into the ocean.

The oft-asked question: From whence did the Shetlands come? has been answered in different ways. The commonly accepted explanation is that they were taken to the islands from the mainland many centuries ago; that they were originally a horse, instead of a pony, and that the hardships they have been compelled to endure have diminished their size. This belief is fortified by the fact that when the Shetland is generously fed he increases in size and bulk, and this fact also has brought disaster to a number of breeders in this country.

Whatever fashion demands, breeders must supply or go out of business. A pony that is not much taller than a great Dane will bring $100 more in the market than one that measures six inches higher. Rich fathers and rich mothers seek the tiny ones for their children, and they do not stand on the matter of price when they find what they are seeking. The Shetland is the most docile of the equine tribe, and, seemingly, the most sagacious. Doubtless, his environments have sharpened his instincts to a remarkable degree. In blood he is the plebeian of the plebeians, as we moderns count horseflesh, for his breeding is only one degree higher than that of the ox or the ass; that is, the true Shetland.

The most remarkable breed of pony known is the Canadian French pony, his ancestors having been brought over from France by the French colonists. He evidently has good blood in his veins, and may have descended from the Spanish palfrey, as he paces and trots, is a horse of high spirit, and of considerable speed. The noted Hal family, The Pilot Jr. family, the Copperbottoms, and some of the other pacing families in the United States sprang from the loins of French-Canadian ponies.

HANDLE NERVOUS TEAM SAFELY

Bring Animals' Heads Within Twelve or Fifteen Inches of Each Other, Allowing Inside Reins to Slacken.

To handle a spirited team with perfect safety bring their heads within 12 or 15 inches of each other, writes J. G. Ball in Farm and Home. This will slacken the inside lines. I drive a team of mules in this way that I could not control otherwise.

I had snaps put on the ends of a four-foot rope. I pass this rope through the inner rings of the bits and snap them into the outer rings, as shown at a and b. The bits I use are jointed wire ones.

Ready for Safe Driving.

A friend of mine was recently killed by a fiery team running away. With such a rope as I use the accident would have been averted.

CHINESE GROW MANY TREES

Varnish Secured From One Small Tree That Takes All Colors Alike If Well Managed Does Not Lose Luster.

(By C. GRAHAME-WHITE.)

In China there are many trees which arouse the wonder of travelers. The varnish tree is of small size and has a leaf resembling that of the wild cherry; a gum oozes from it drop by drop, like the tears of the turpentine tree. If an incision is made in it, a greater quantity of liquor comes forth, but it soon destroys the tree. The varnish takes all colors alike, and if well managed, neither loses its luster by the change of the air, nor the age of the wood to which it is applied.

There is another tree from which a liquor is obtained that differs but little from the varnish. Another is termed the tallow tree. This is as large as a high cherry tree; the leaves are of a lively red, and the shape of a heart; fruit is contained in the rind, which when ripe, opens in the middle like a chestnut; it consists of white kernels of the size of hazelnut, whose pulp has the property of tallow and of which candles are made.

The white wax tree is no less extraordinary. It is not so tall as the tallow tree; it has large leaves and a whiter bark. A small kind of worm fixes itself to the leaves and forms a sort of comb much smaller than a honey comb, the wax of which is very hard and shining, and of far greater value than the common beeswax.

They have in china most kinds of weeds that are to be found in Europe, and several others, among which is tse-tan, or rosewood, which, if of a reddish black, and full of fine veins that seem painted. This wood is fit for the finest sort of joiners' work.

Seed for Pastures.

Best seed mixtures for permanent pastures are determined by the nature of the soil and climate—more probably by soil than by climate. In some localities it is not easy to secure any other permanent pasture than that indigenous to the country or than some introduced grass which comes to be the prevailing grass. Of the former class is buffalo grass, in localities where it is quite at home on the range. Of the latter class is Kentucky blue, which has come to be the prevailing grass over all the forest area in the northern and northwestern states.

Clean Dairy Cows.

Before milking the cows should be gone over with a brush and all particles of dirt removed. This need not take more than 30 seconds per cow. The cow's udder comes in contact with the floor and cannot be cleaned simply brushing. It is very important that the udder should be washed with a damp sponge or cloth, and this may take 30 seconds more. The sponging will be doubly effective if the long hairs around the teats and lower part of the udder are cut short.

In Black and White

AN EXQUISITE hat for high occasions is developed in black and white. The shape, of rich white felt, is faced with black velvet, perfectly fitted to the broad brim, with its graceful curves and flowing lines. Such hats are covered in factories devoted to making hats of a high class, and the velvet is steamed and stretched to the underbrim, turning up around the edge in a tiny cordlike finish.

Most hats of this character are very simply trimmed. A big spray of feathers, a curious novelty in gold, or a long curling ostrich plume are most often chosen. Big black hats with gold in a striking ornament and gold roses on the bandeau, resting against the hair, or such ornaments in tarnished brass effects, make superb millinery.

In the model shown delicate gauze roses surround the crown and cover the bandeau. Heron aigrettes are used here, but, as these are likely to fall into disuse on account of the crusade against them, and a growing public sentiment adverse to their use, it is best to make another selection. The feathers of the goura or crown pigeon are equally effective, and may be worn, with a clear conscience, or a comparatively clear conscience at least.

The wearing of heron, by the way, is prohibited by law in several states, and in July of next year it is said a law will go into universal effect prohibiting the buying, selling or wearing of these feathers. As they are very expensive, it is best not to invest in them. There are so many pretty feathers to choose from that cannot disturb the conscience or call down criticism, it would seem no hardship for a woman of taste to make another choice.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

ATTRACTIVE TAFFETA WAIST

This very attractive waist is of old blue taffeta with sleeves cut in one piece with the body of the waist.

Sleeves and waist are tucked and trimmed with bands and straps of black taffeta, and with buttons and silk embroidery matching the blue silk.

Reversible Cloak.

A useful and attractive garment, that can be made at home by any woman used to simple tailoring, is the reversible cloak, made semifitting, with kimono sleeves, and usually of broadcloth lined with soft satin. The broadcloth side is of some dark color or black, with plain light or white revers of satin; and it is used for afternoon wear. The satin side is in some light evening shade, with satin revers in a slightly darker color, and makes a charming wrap for the theater, etc. It is not nearly so hard to make as it sounds, and is extremely economical, being really two garments in one.

Stripes in Millinery.

New modes of using stripes—black and white and blue and white—in smart millinery are being devised as the season advances. The striped material is generally satin, and it may have as the outer covering of a hat or as a facing over a border for a white brim. A fetching new model is a toque made entirely of black and white striped satin and trimmed with a little rose colored velvet ribbon. Numerous bows and other forms of decorations for hats are also shown in which a striped effect is produced by the use of alternate rows of black and white soutache.

FLESHY WOMAN FINDS FAULT

Has Not a Good Word to Say for Frocks or Millinery of This Season.

It is interesting to note the animation with which women, or rather some women, attack the present styles. It is invariably the woman of flesh who is the most emphatic in disapproval. Not a good word is to be said by her for frocks or millinery of this season.

Hats are imprudently absurd, skirts immodestly cut, jackets trivial, and even the efforts of great dressmakers dubbed futile and unconvincing, as she tells it. It is a season, according to the woman whose hips refuse to remove themselves, of grotesque absurdities. The hysterical note is struck. So why argue?

Whether we argue or not, certain things must be acknowledged. The present fashions in some directions have reached such perfection that to condemn them is ridiculous, to ignore them impossible. So let us forget the fact that our too comfortable contours refuse brazenly to confine themselves within the slim limits of the present silhouette and see if we cannot judge of the fashions of the day with an unbiased eye, if not with entirely untrammeled hips.

In spite of criticism and caricature they may alone be called epoch making. Line and drapery have clothed themselves in such artistic grace; color and fabric have attained such perfection of combination and weave that they take their places with famous fashions of other days.

They are in a great measure revivals, yet revivals so skillfully adapted to our needs and environment that they are accepted with enthusiasm by the intelligent few. The lover of color and line rejoices in their existence, the beauty-loving eye revels in their softly woven and luxurious fabrics.

The great dressmakers have gathered from the Greeks and Romans, from Egyptians and Orientals, from the Alexandrian and first empire periods fashions, fabrics, and colors which, when combined and crystallized, place the styles of this season uniquely apart.

Beavers This Year.

More fashionable than the long nap or furry beaver is the one that has shorter fur and is smooth and shiny.

These are called silk beavers and very beautiful indeed they are. Sometimes the under part of the brim is of velvet, usually black, and the top part is another color, or may be black, as one prefers. This top part, however, is of this lustrous silk beaver, and the crown is usually composed of the same material.

These hats make charming picture hats, and are exquisite when trimmed with sweeping plumes.

The Kitchen Cabinet

UNDOUBTEDLY, we believe that spiritual virtues should concern us more nearly than material ones; but equally do we believe that if a thing be done, it had best be well done, except it be a canvasback duck; and no housewife ever lost her title to future bliss through the keeping of a good table while she was on earth.

—Owen Wister.

Ways of Serving Curried Dishes.

In spite of its high seasoning, people who have lived in India are enthusiastic in their praise of curry. Although it is not expensive it may be made at home.

Curry Powder.—Take one ounce each of turmeric, coriander seed, white ginger, nutmeg, mace and cayenne. Pound all together and sift through a fine sieve. Bottle and cork well. To make an Indian curry, a rabbit, chicken or other delicate meat is required. For chicken curry, cover the chicken with boiling water, adding a bouquet of herbs and two large onions. Simmer gently for an hour and a quarter, removing the fat as it rises. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a sauce pan, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and when well blended stir in the chicken broth. Add a teaspoonful or more of the curry powder with the flour. Beat the yolks of three eggs, stir in the gravy and the juice of half a lemon. Pour over the chicken and serve with a border of rice.

Curry of Mutton.—Fry one large onion, cut fine, in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Mix one tablespoon of curry powder, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of flour and stir it into the butter and onion. Add gradually one pint of hot water or stock. Cut two pounds of lean mutton into small pieces and brown them in hot fat. Add them to the sauce and simmer until tender. Place the meat on a hot dish and arrange a border of boiled rice around the meat.

Curried Eggs.—Remove the shells from six hard-cooked eggs, cut in halves. Fry one teaspoonful of chopped onion in one tablespoonful of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and half a tablespoonful of curry powder. Pour on slowly one and a half cupfuls of white stock, milk or cream; add salt and pepper to taste. Simmer till the onions are soft, add the eggs and when warmed through, serve in a shallow dish; or arrange the eggs on toast and pour the sauce over them. This may be used on any fish flaked and served as curried fish.

Curried Vegetables.—Cook one cupful each of potatoes and carrots, one-half cup of turnip cut in fancy shapes. Drain; add a half cup of peas and pour over the sauce made by cooking two tablespoonfuls each of onion and butter, remove the onion, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, salt, pepper and celery salt and a half teaspoonful of curry. Add gradually one cup of scalding milk and sprinkle with parsley.

REMEMBER this—that very little is needed to make a happy life. Suit thyself to the state in which thy lot is cast.

—Marcus Aurelius.

Recipes From Northern Europe.

Each country has its characteristic cookery, and a study of the dishes made in different sections of our country is most interesting.

Norwegian Cabbage Soup.—Take two pounds of the shin of beef, half a pound of salt pork, four onions, a root of celery, four quarts of water and a teaspoonful of salt. Boil three hours and then strain the broth and take off the fat. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, add a minced onion and a small cabbage cut fine. Stir and cook five minutes, then add a pint of the broth and cook one hour. Cut the meat in squares, thicken the broth with flour, cook, then add the cabbage and meat, pour the hot broth over it and serve.

Swedish Salmon Pastry.—Take two pounds of salmon cutlets, bread and fry brown. To two pounds of fresh pike, finely minced, add a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne, the juice and rind of a lemon, two beaten eggs and a tablespoonful of melted butter. Mix all together. Line a meat pie dish with pastry, spread a layer of the minced fish upon it, then the salmon with mushrooms between. Cover with the rest of the pike and lay on a cover of pastry, leaving a hole in the center. Bake one hour, then pour in a cup of white sauce or fish broth. Serve hot or cold.

Beef au Gratin (Polish).—Cut cold roast beef into strips the size of the finger. Mince four large onions and fry a light brown in butter. Add a tablespoonful of flour and a cupful of broth with three sprigs of parsley, minced. Lay the beef in a baking dish, the pieces crossing each other; on each layer put a spoonful of the onion and broth. Cover with a layer of bread crumbs, dot with bits of butter and bake 15 minutes in a quick oven.

Swedish Charlotte.—Cut a small sponge cake in thin slices and cover each slice with flavored sweetened whipped cream. Put the slices together in the shape of a leaf and cover with a meringue made of the whites of two eggs and five tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Brown in a slow oven and serve cold.

Nellie Maxwell.

PROOF POSITIVE

Boy—This is a good place for fish!

Angler—What can you catch here?

Boy—I don't know, but it must be a great place for fish, because I never seen any of them leave it.—Comic Cuts.

Resinol Ointment Cured When Nothing Else Would.

I have had a breaking out on my neck every summer with something like Eczema, and nothing ever cured it until I used Resinol.

Barbara Carpenter, Ogden, S. C.

Of Course She Must.

"What time does the dance begin?"

"Nine o'clock."

"Then we must be there at 8:30."

"What for?"

"I must have at least an hour in the dressing room to rearrange my hair.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for Infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over 30 Years.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

How He Lost Out.

DeShort—Don't you—er—think you could learn to love me, Miss Oldgold?

Miss Oldgold—Well, I don't know.

DeShort—Of course you can. One is never too old to learn, you know.

Miss Oldgold—Sir!

Its Office.

"This cork is very tight in your brandy bottle. I can't budge it."

"Yes, that's the nature of cork. It was put there to keep the bottle's spirits from going down."

His Talent.

"Is he a great artist?"

"No."

"But he gets good prices for his stuff."

"Yes. He's a great salesman."

Aromatic Spirits.

Mrs. Tarr—Sistah Lobstock has jest got a divo'ce fum her husban'.

Mrs. Wombat—Don' say? How much ammonia did de cou't done grant her?—Puck.

A Tripe Famine.

"I want to get two pounds of tripe," said the lady, entering the shop.

"Sorry, ma'am," replied the keeper, "but we haven't any tripe today."

"No tripe? Why, it's in season."

"No, ma'am, there's no tripe being shot just now."

"No tripe being shot! Why, what are you talking about?"

"I—I should say, ma'am, that the fisheries commission won't allow tripe to be caught now."

"Are you crazy, man? I don't want fish! I want tripe."

"Well, what in thunder is tripe, ma'am?"

"Why—why, I don't know just what it is, but if you haven't got any I'll try some other place."

Ill-Mannered Chicken.

Little Robert, 3 years of age, went with his grandmother to the chicken park to see her feed the chickens. When the little ones jumped upon the water dish and dipped their bills into the water, he cried: "Oh, grandmother, they are putting their feet on the table."

Cause and Effect.

"He's a poet of passion, isn't he?"

"Yes; I've seen him fly into one when his verses were returned."

Constipation Vanishes Forever

Prompt Relief--Permanent Cure

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS never fail. Purely vegetable—act surely but gently on the liver. Stop after dinner distress—cure indigestion—improve the complexion—brighten the eyes. Small Pill, Small Dose, Small Price

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

ASTHMA CURED TO STAY CURED

No relapse. No return of choking spells or other asthmatic symptoms. Whetzel system of treatment approved by best U. S. medical authorities as the only system known to permanently cure this disease. FREE TEST TREATMENT including medicines, prepared for any one giving a full description of the case and sending names of 2 asthmatic sufferers. Address FRANK WHETZEL, M.D. Dept. Z, American Express Building, Chicago.

PISO'S IS THE NAME OF THE BEST MEDICINE for COUGHS & COLDS

EVERY FAMILY and INDIVIDUAL needs our handsome DAILY RECORD. Send 50c. Agents wanted for specialities. EWING CO., Fremont, Ohio.

W. N. U., CLEVELAND, NO. 52-1910.

NOT A PENNY TO PAY

FOR FULLEST MEDICAL EXAMINATION

Professor Munyon has engaged a staff of specialists that are renowned leaders in their line.

There is no question about their ability, they are the finest physicians that colleges and hospitals have turned out and receive the highest salaries.

He offers their service to you absolutely free of cost. No matter what your disease, or how many doctors you have tried, write to Professor Munyon's physicians and they will give your case careful and prompt attention and advise you what to do. You are under no obligations to them. It will not cost you a penny, only the postage stamp you put on your letter.

All consultations are held strictly confidential.

Address Munyon's Doctors, Munyon's Laboratories, 53d & Jefferson Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

Be Wise in Time —

You cannot keep well unless the bowels are regular. Neglect of this rule of health invites half the sicknesses from which we suffer. Keep the bowels right; otherwise waste matter and poisons which should pass out of the body, find their way into the blood and sicken the whole system. Don't wait until the bowels are constipated; take

BEECHAM'S PILLS

They are the finest natural laxative in the world—gentle, safe, prompt and thorough. They strengthen the stomach muscles, and will not injure the delicate mucous lining of the bowels. Beecham's Pills have a constitutional action. That is, the longer you take them, the less frequently you need them. They help Nature help herself and

Keep the Bowels Healthy
Bile Active & Stomach Well

In Boxes 10c. and 25c. with full directions

Rich and Costly Furs

COSTLY FURS come from YOUR PART OF THE COUNTRY. Ship them to the BEST FUR MARKET and RIGHT FUR HOUSE. By shipping direct to US, you receive far better PRICES than you have obtained elsewhere, because we sell DIRECT to MANUFACTURERS of HIGH GRADE FURS.

WE NEED YOUR FURS. MAKE US A SHIPMENT. Our PRICE LIST is OUT, ASK FOR IT. Our PRICES are NET to YOU.

LEOPOLD GASSNER FUR CO.

34 East 12th St. New York City Capitalized at $250,000

The Farmer's Son's Great Opportunity

Why wait for the old farm to become your inheritance? Begin now to prepare for your future prosperity and independence. A great opportunity awaits you in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, where you can secure a Free Homestead or buy land at reasonable prices.

Now's the Time

—not a year from now, when land will be higher. The profits secured from the abundant crops of Wheat, Oats and Barley, as well as cattle raising, are causing a steady advance in price. Government returns show that the number of settlers in Western Canada from the U. S. was 60 per cent larger in 1910 than the previous year.

Many farmers have paid for their land out of the proceeds of one crop.

Free Homesteads of 160 acres and pre-emptions of 160 acres at $3.00 an acre. Fine climate, good schools, excellent railway facilities, low freight rates; wood, water and lumber easily obtained.

For pamphlet "Last Best West," particulars as to suitable location and low settlers' rate, apply to Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to Canadian Gov't Agent.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT AGENT
Gardner Building Toledo, Ohio

Use address nearest you. 37

Down in the dumps

—from over-eating, drinking—bad liver and constipation get many a one, but there's a way out—Cascarets relieve and cure quickly. Take one to-night and feel ever so much better in the morning. 902

Cascarets—10c box—week's treatment. All druggists. Biggest seller in the world—million boxes a month.

MANATEE-FLORIDA

Where fortunes are made on small farms growing Oranges, Grape Fruit and Vegetables. Cheap lands now available. Quick transportation—low freight rates to Eastern and Northern markets via S. A. L. Ry. Two and three crops a year, net $500 to $1500 per acre. Ideal climate year round—no freezes—no extreme heat. Write for illustrated booklet—it's free—address,

J. W. WHITE, Gen'l Industrial Agt.
SEABOARD AIR LINE RY.
NORFOLK, VA. DEPT. 603

KNOWN SINCE 1836 AS RELIABLE
PLANTEN'S (TRADE MARK)
C & C OR BLACK CAPSULES
SUPERIOR REMEDY FOR MEN ETC. ETC
AT DRUGGISTS. TRIAL BOX BY MAIL 50c
PLANTEN, 93 HENRY ST. BROOKLYN, N.Y.

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S
ASTHMA

Remedy for the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask your druggist for it. Write for FREE SAMPLE. NORTHROP & LYMAN CO. Ltd., BUFFALO, N.Y.

MAKE MORE MONEY

Than you ever dreamed possible decorating china, burnt-wood, metal, pillow-tops, etc., in colors from photographs. Men successful as women. Learned at once; no talent required. Takes like wildfire everywhere. Send stamp quick for praticulars.

C. M. VALLANCE COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

MORE EGGS

I have discovered a great secret—how to make 100 hens lay 80 eggs a day in winter; failure impossible; I prove it by sending my successful method on FREE TRIAL; you don't have to pay till your hens lay. Send for it TODAY to

Mrs. L. Alley, Dept. 10, New Madrid, Mo.

Self-reliant men shave with the Gillette
KNOWN THE WORLD OVER

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

PATENTS Watson E. Coleman, Washington, D.C. Books free. Highest references. Best results.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Quincy, Illinois.

5¢

COUPON IN EACH PACKAGE

CHEW AND SMOKE
MAIL POUCH TOBACCO
"TREAT YOURSELF to the BEST"

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

Entered at the Postoffice in Oakland, Md., as Second-class matter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

The Republican is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year.....$1.25
One copy six months ..... .75
One copy three months ..... .40

Advertising Rates made known upon Application.

Remittances may be made by Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft and addressed to

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 5, 1911.

THE CENTURY'S SECOND DECADE HAS BEGUN.

The first decade of the Twentieth Century closed Saturday night with the usual accompaniment of mirth and revelry which welcome the coming and speed the parting year. The brazen clamor of bells and sirens was at once a dead march and a jubilate. Here at the annual post-house of the century, the exuberance with which we renew the inexoreble pilgrimage is tempered with tender recollections, woven of sunshine and shadow, which have become ingrained with the web of life. Careless of condition, age or sex, the Angel of the Darker Drink has taken heavy toll, and new links have been added to the circle of love and friendship. A review of this annual tribute of mortality would include the names of many whose fame and achievements the world will not willingly let die, and yet the most casual foreglimpse of the future reveals an active vigor in every field of endeavor which gives promise of greater largesse yet to come. We have reached a perfod in our material prosperity when the farmer who "feeds them all" produces eight billions of annual wealth from a fruitful soil, while the figures still expand with a rapidity which dazzles the imagination and makes patriotism an instinctive impulse. Never before have we attained so nearly to the conquest of earth, sea and air; time and space are shrinking to a span.

Pert cynicism has done its puny best to discredit the personal inventory, the annual determination to build more stately mansions of the soul, which immemorially belongs to the new leaf of the calendar, and yet it is a wholesome custom. The stir of our better nature, in its effort to rise above the welter of human weakness, gets its impulse from a divine aspiration which ridicule cannot wither nor failure render wholly ineffective. The years would be barren, indeed, were it not for the high purposes which enrich their beginning and throughout the twelvemonths are not altogether spent. The minstrel moralist did not sing amiss of the steppingstones of their dead selves by which men may rise to higher things.

With the easy confidence of a rich experience which has witnessed the nice adjustment of the world, we faced the fortunes of the new year, knowing that—

No rose of sunset folds it glory up
But bursts again from out the heart of dawn.

WOULD WIN DISFRANCHISING AMENDMENT BY STEALTH.

The last legislature, in the face of two emphatic defeats of constitutional amendments limiting the suffrage, first in 1905 and again in 1909, passed another to be submitted to the voters at the election next November. Since the veto of the companion pieces of legislation known as the Digges bills, which attempted to nulify the constitution by requiring registers of voters to refuse to register negroes to qualify them to vote at State or local elections, there has been little said about the newly proposed amendment. Of late, Democratic leaders have been giving it out that while the amendment will have to go upon the ballot, that in view of the hostility of both Democrats and Republicans to disfranchising schemes as revealed by the rejection of the other two, no attention will be given to this one and that Democrats will not make it the "paramount" issue, as was done in the cases of the others. This argument amounts to nothing. The last legislature knew just as well as these leaders that the others were rejected yet they forced the new one through. They would now win by stealth what they know could not be won in an open fight with the people's attention focused upon it. This is their scheme and they know full well the regular organization Democrats will all vote for it and if they can lull to sleep those opposed to it, by giving out the impression that it has been dropped, they will get it through. It is a cunning move and a very dangerous trap to be avoided. All citizens who are opposed to disfranchising schemes in direct and flagrant violation of the constitution should keep close watch on this amendment and early begin to organize to accomplish its defeat. "Eternal vigilance in the price of liberty." Let no man be deceived. If they should get it through it is almost certain to be set aside by the courts, but it would take years to get a final decision in the Supreme Court and it would cost thousands of dollars. Kill it at the ballot box.

Marriage Licenses.

The following marriage licenses have been issued by Clerk E. Z. Tower since our last report:

Wheeler McComas Saunders and Saville C. Moon, both of near Sunnyside, Md.

George Hipsley and Belle Michaels, both of Mt. Lake Park, Md.

Thomas E. Minnear and Minnie Lee Wood, both of near Worthington, W. Va.

William Riley Collins, of Worthington, W. Va., and Augusta Davis, of Farmington. W. Va.

Ernest Clarence Garber and Elizabeth M. Ankeny, both of Jenners, Pa.

Willis M. Amos and Maggie Reese, both of Fairmont. W. Va.

Earl Conn and Columbia F. Davis, both of Garrett county.

George Ernest Whetsell and Pearl Shaffer, both of Preston county, W. Va.

William F. Burkhard and Myrtle Birdie Windell, both of Garrett county.

Lloyd Bittinger and Mary Gilpin, both of Garrett county.

Earl O. Wonderly and Gussie Moomaw, both of near Mt. Lake Park.

Walter Scott Heath, of Rowlesburg, and Martha Severe, of Kingwood.

Josephus Isaiah Eddy and Florence Belle Gray, both of Greene county, Pa.

Richard Earl Lawson and Clare Eleanor Martin, both of Bridgeport, W. Va.

Charles Wotring, of Rowlesburg, and Edith Flynn, of Clarksburg, W. Va.

George M. Layton, of Anderson, W. Va., and Mrs. Ella A. Davis, of Rowlesburg. W. Va.

George Wiles Barnet, of Helen, Pa., and Grace Glenwood Upole, of Deer Park, Md.

Philip Thomas Peddicord and Anna Marie Helbig, both of Oakland.

Elisha Teats and Mary Jane Savage, both of Friendsville.

Jesse Lemasters and Bertha Maxwell, both of Clarksburg, W. Va.

Oliver Raymond Case, of Rowlesburg, W. Va., and Bertha Elizabeth Browning, of Deer Park.

William Anderson and Edna Elizabeth Ault, both of Wheeling, W. Va.

Omar N. Singleton and Zura Cutlip, both of Nicholas county, W. Va.

Alexander Cumings, of Clarksburg, and Gladys Alma Logan, of Wolf Summit, W. Va.

William E. Johnson, of Wellersburg, Pa., and Savannah Folk, of Grantsville, Md.

George David Sloan and Vora Etta Shreves, both of Buckhannon, W. Va.

Bruce William Otto and Vernie May Wolf, both of Albrights, W. Va.

Artie Earl Benson, of Terra Alta, and Ida Mae Phillips, of Hambleton, W. Va.

Charles Ezra Knapp, of Amblersburg, W. Va., and Ruhama O. Davis, of Morgantown, W. Va.

Elmer Jacob Schafer and Gretta Jenkins, both of Wheeling, W. Va.

Kenneth George Deakins, of Aurora, and Ada Alma Beatty, of Amblersburg, W. Va.

Abner Frank Teets, and Hazel Gladys Wallsbort, of Albrights, W. Va.

Charles Theodore Hickman, of Clarksburg, W. Va., and Emma Lucille Pritchard, of Weston, W. Va.

Albert Ray and Elizabeth Lowe, both of Fairmont, W. Va.

Michael Thomas Fallon, of Belington, W. Va., and Ina Dimond, of Volga, W. Va.

Willard Filmore Dotson and Hettie Montgomery, both of Central Station, W. Va.

Charles Wesley Stark, of Bittinger, and Emma Sharpless, of Swanton.

Glen Arlie Perine and Beulah Gay Wolf, both of Clarksburg, W. Va.

Three with request not to publish.

The Republican for Job Printing.

Church Services.

ST PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 2:15 p. m.
Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.
Epworth League Monday 7:30 p. m.
Prayermeeting Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

G. R. WILLIAMSON, Pastor.

ST. MARK S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
Preaching 7.30 p.m.
Luther League Wednesday 7:30 p. m.
Deer Park—Preaching at 11 a. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

ST. MATTHEW'S P. E.

Service every Sunday at 11 a. m.
Sunday School at 2:30 p. m:

W. H. SHEARER

MT. LAKE PARK M. E.

Class meeting at 10 a. m.
Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7.30 p. m.
Sunday school at 2.30 p. m.
Epworth League at 6:45 p. m.

P. Z. MUSGRAVE, Pastor.

A Card of Thanks.

I desire to thank my parishioners and friends of St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church for their kind remembrance of me and my family during the holiday season, and especially Sheriff Shartzer for a fine dressed turkey for a Christmas dinner. E. MANGES, Pastor.

Subscribe for The Republican.

FRIENDSVILLE.

The new year came in with rain and a general thaw, most of the snow disappearing rapidly.

School reopened Tuesday morning with all teachers present.

George Dowler is a guest of Arnold Fox at present.

Calvin Coddington and wife had an additon to their family on Monday.

J. G. Kolb, Fred Kamp and W. F. East attended the joint council meeting of the Accident charge on Monday at Accident.

Everybody was delighted when they saw the electric lights come on Friday evening. On Sunday evening we were again in darkness, owing to the waste gate having been washed away. However the damage was repaired on Monday and the lights again appeared.

Rev. O. C. Dean arrived on Saturday, preaching in the Lutheran churches at Accident and Friendsville on Sunday, returning to Gettysburg on Monday.

Ernest Kamp left on Monday for Washington, D. C., where he expects to take a situation on the street car line.

August Neil leaves on Tuesday for Philadelphia, where expects to learn a trade.

Several of E. C. W. Ryland's children have been very sick, but are now better.

Ora Umble is very ill at the home of her parents.

Most of the young men who came home to spend the holidays have returned to work.

We hear that Emerson Ferrier has purchased land in Oregon and will most likely move out there in the near future.

The entertainment at the opera house Thursday and Friday night was a sucsess, large audiences filling the house both nights. The duets and songs were finely sung by the performers, Miss Effie Fox and Arnold Fox and Miss Byrel Lichty. The negro farces, by members of the band, took well with the audiences, they getting round after round of applause. The orchestra that gave their services for the benefit of band was composed of the following: Mrs. Earl Statler, Miss Mable Savage, and Misses Katie and Gladys Mason, assisted by John Holman and rendered some excellent selections, and the band in their concert under the direction of F. G. Fox did splendidly. The boys will be able to put a nice sum into the treasury.

A meeting was called one evening last week for the purpose of seeing what had been done and make further arrangement pertaining to the new road contemplated between here and the State road near Accident. It is understood that many of the people of Accident are not in favor of it, they fearing it would take trade away from their town. This is something not often heard of—one town not being in favor of having good roads to her neighboring towns and want to be isolated from them. A good road with a water grade is what is proposed. Surely that alone would be an inducement enough, when we consider the hills that have to be traveled now. Wake up, good people of Accident, and help the good cause. In unity there is strength. The road is sure to be built anyway, and it would be to the advantage of Accident to help it along. There are other ways for the State road to go besides through that town, and do good to as many people of the county as the way first thought of.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

BITTINGER.

The weather has moderated and a protracted rain has taken much of the snow, relieving the water famine, which has troubled not a few people throughout the fall and winter.

A number of persons from this village were guests at the home of Perry Bowser on last Sunday afternoon, and witnessed the marriage of Mr. Bowser's eldest daughter, Miss Ida, to Mr. M. W. Sechrist. Among those attending from this vicinity were Prof. J. C. Beahm, Chauncey Broadwater, Clarence Brenneman, and Jonas Bittinger and wife.

Albert Brenneman and little daughter, Ethel, are confined to their home this week by illness.

Harrison Wiley and sister, Miss Leonora, returned last Sunday afternoon from Cumberland, where they had spent the holiday week visiting.

Miss Mary Buckel spent last week visiting friends and relatives at and near North Glade.

Miss Estella Reckner, of North Glade, is spending a few days among friends here.

We learn that Miss Anna Belle Bowser, has been appointed assistant teacher in the Bittinger school, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation and marriage of her sister, the former assistant.

Mrs. Hettie Doolittle and little son, Ivan, of Jennings, visited Mrs. Doolittle's parents near hear last week.

Notice To Delinquent Tax-Payers.

Notice is hereby given to all delinquent tax-payers that if taxes now due and in arrears are not paid before

JANUARY 1ST, 1911,

I will proceed by law to collect. I refer to Section 50 of Chaptor 566 of Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, which provides as follows:

SECTION 50. The said Treasurer shall during the first week in December in each and every year, give notice to all delinquent tax-payers of said county, by advertisement inserted in two newspapers published in said county, and in hand-bills posted in five of the most public places in each election district of said county, and at the court house door, warning them that the payment of all taxes then due and in arrear will be enforced by advertisement and sale unless the same be paid before the 1st day of January next following.

Please pay promptly and save costs.

R. L. FRIES,
Treasurer or Garrett County.

Notice to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Garrett County, Md., has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

AGNES R. A. M. WHITTINGTON,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 11th day of May, 1910, they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 10th day of November, 1910.

W. H. FREDLOCK,
Administrator.
Piedmont W. Va.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett Co., Md., deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 11th day of April, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

CLEAVER H POOL,

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

GERTRUDE E. POOL,
Administratrix,
Kitzmiller, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County, Marylanv, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

FREAKLIN SUTER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the day 11th of May, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 10th day of November, 1910.

LUCINDA SUTER,
Administratrix,
Hoyes Md.

ORDER NISI.

Edward H. Sincell, Trustee, vs William A. Harvey and Benjamin E. Harvey.

No. 1755 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Ordered, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting as a court of equity, this 8th day of November, 1910, that the sales made and reported in the above cause by Edward H Sincell, Trustee, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 20th day of December, 1910; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 23rd day of December, 1910.

The report states the amount of sales to be $85.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

The Maryland Agricultural College
COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND.

Maryland's School of Technology
Fifty-fourth year begins Sept. 15.
Entrance examinations 13, 14.

Eight courses of Instruction leading to professional degree of B. S.
Agricultural, Horticural, General, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Biological and Chemical.

The College has a close association with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. College students are permitted to visit the Experiment Farms at Arlington and Beltsville and thus secure an additional equipment for their professional career.

The demand of the age is for men for life's activities. Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all departments. Graduates qualified to enter at once upon life's work. Boarding department supplied with all modern improvements. Bath room, steam heat, electric lights. Location unsurpassed for health.

Tuition, books, heat, light, laundry, board, medical attention, annual deposit, chemical and athletic fees all included in the annual charge of $60.00 per quarter, payable in advance.

Sanitorium for issolation of contagious disease, resident physician and trained nurse in attendance.

Catalog giving full particulars on application. Attention is called to the Two Years Courses in Agriculture and Horticulture. Failure to report promptly means loss of opportunity to student.

Early application necessary for admittance. Write for particulars.

R. W. SYLVESTER President.

Subscribe for The Republican, Oldest and Best Paper in Garrett county.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank Of Allegany County.
Stands First among the State Banks of Maryland

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and open an account with us.

JAMES M. SLOAN, President. DUNCAN R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

Capital - $50,000
DEPOSITS, - $175,000

The First National Bank
Friendsville, Md.

Surplus Fund, . $26,000
Undivided Profits, 26,000

OFFICERS:
L. E. FRIEND, President,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Vice-Pres't
R. C. McCANDLISH, Vice-Pres't
ORVAL A. WELCH, Cashier

DIRECTORS:
L. E. FRIEND, Merchant,
J. W. McCULLOUGH, Lumber and Coal
W. W. SAVAGE, Merchant,
D. S. CUSTER, Merchant,
H. M. RUMBAUGH, Farmer,
W. H. H. FRIEND, Pension Agent and Surveyor,
HORACE R. DEWITT, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCANDLISH,
JOHN T. GEARY.

THREE GOOD THINGS TO KEEP: Your Temper, Your Secrets, Your Money

Your money kept with us will earn you 4 Per Cent. interest compounded semi-annually. Keep it here and after while it will keep you.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank
Of Grantsville, Md.
Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department Takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.
C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. EDW. WINTERS, - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.
C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
W. A. Hitchens, Frank Watts,
W. E Stanton, W. T. Stanton.

THE GREATEST SALE OF
Gas Stoves, Heaters
AND TINWARE
In the history of Oakland.

We have on sale at our show rooms the largest and best selection of Gas Stoves, Heaters and Ranges, and Coal Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever exhibited in Oakland, and at prices that cannot be beaten.

These goods were bought early in the spring at prices away below the present market, and will be sold so as to give our customers the benefit.

In addition to our line of Stoves and Heaters we quote special low prices on Tin Cans, Agate Ware, Tinware, Hods, Reflex Gas Lamps, Galvanized Tubs and Buckets.

Gas Fitting, Roofing and Spouting
A SPECIALTY.

Call upon us, get our prices and compare them with others.

G. A. SHIRER & CO.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., Dec. 15, 1910.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, Jan. 2nd, 1910,

to appoint Road Supervisors and Constables and transact general routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building

DR. J. G ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

DR. LOUIS I. PREVOST,
VETERINARY SURGEON,
MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.
Office Hours in Oakland from 2 to 5 o'clock p m

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Ravenscroft Building, Second St.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing Investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

DR. EDWARD E. SOLLARS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
DEER PARK, MD.
Prompt attention given all calls day or night.
Garrett County Telephone. 24-1yr.

DR. W. W. GRANT,
DENTIST,
Office, McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Bridge and Crown Work a Specialty.
Gold and Silver Fillings. 21-09-1y.

GEORGE W. LEGGE, JR.,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Practice in the Courts of Garrett and adjoining counties, and in the Maryland Court of Appeals. Associated with Thomas, J. Peddicord, First National Bank Building.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Garrett National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Commenced business November 14, 1888.

CAPITAL, ...	$ 50,000
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, .	45,000

OFFICERS:

D. E. OFFUTT, President.

G. S. HAMILL, Vice President.

S. T. JONES, Cashier.

G. A. FRALEY, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Daniel E. Offutt — Gilmor S. Hamill
John M. Davis — George W. Legge
John T. Mitchell — William R. Stull
Scott T. Jones

Interest at the rate of 3% per annum paid on Time Certificates of Deposits and Savings Accounts.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent at reasonable rates.

Ex-Sheriff Andrew J. Oester, of Bittinger, spent Monday and Tuesday in Oakland.

Miss Alma Scherr, of Morgantown, W. Va., is here on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Julius C. Renninger.

Mrs. Clarence Lashorn, of Uniontown, Pa., if visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Enlow, near Oakland.

Mrs. J. B. Workman, of Wheeling, who spent a few days in Oakland visiting her daughter, Mrs. G. C. Stemple, returned home Saturday.

Wild Cherry and Amonia Compound will do it. 25 cents at the Hamill-Gonder Pharmacy.

Dr. N. I. Broadwater, of Oakland, was at Grantsville Sunday where he spent the day as the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilead Broadwater.

Miss Lulu Fringer arrived at her home in Oakland from Talbottom, Ga., last Friday evening and will remain here several weeks before returning to the south.

Mr. W. H. Jacobs, of near Lonaconing, was in the city Tuesday on business before the County Commissioners and while in town made this office an agreeable call.

Miss Orpha Ashby, until the holidays teacher of the Elder Hill school, has been appointed teacher of the Pleasant Valley school, assuming her new position Tuesday morning.

Miss Catherine Manges, of York, Pa., who spent a week with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. E. Manges in Oakland, returned to York Monday morning to resume her professional duties.

Miss Sue Shirer, who spent the holidays in Oakland as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Shirer, returned to Baltimore Tuesday morning to resume her studies in the Baltimore Business College.

Fire on last Saturday night destroyed a building at Lumberport, West Va., in which was stored the furniture and effects belonging to Miss Mae Duty, who recently moved the same from Oakland to that point.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Sincell, of Oakland, Md., are in the city as the guests of Mrs. Theo. Bush and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bush, the latter's uncle and aunts.—Grafton Sentinel.

Mr. John Lee Harne, of Bluefields, West Va., arrived in Oakland Tuesday night to visit his father, who is in a very precarious condition owing to advancing age and a malady with which he has suffered for several years.

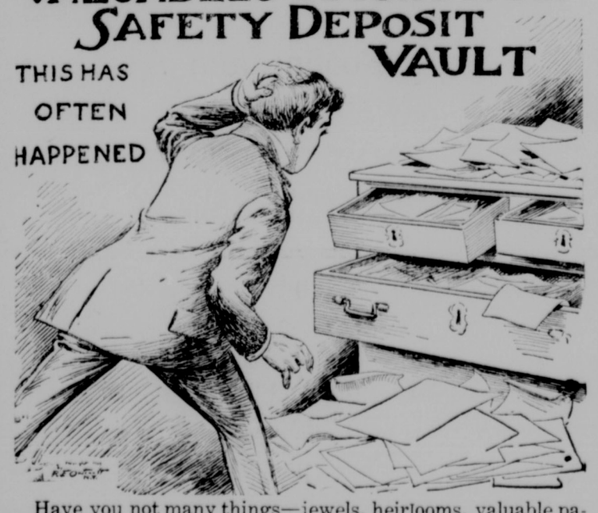
Mr. James Treacy spent Monday in Cumberland with his brother, Mr. Owen Treacy whose illness in the Western Maryland Hostital was noted in these columns two weeks ago. Mr. Treacy's condition shows a slight improvement.

The officers of the State Horticultural Department desire to inspect all nursery stock shipped into the State this fall and next spring. All persons receiving nursery stock from out-state nurseries are requested to notify the State Entomologist, College Park, Maryland. 3t

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Garlits, Messrs. Thomas Frazee, Joseph Groer and George Liston, all of Friendsville and vicinity, were in Oakland yesterday on business connected with the settlement of the estate of the late Charles Mitchell.

The Board of County Commissioners in session this week have appointed road supervisors for the county. The detailed list will appear in these columns next week. The board will probably adjourn today after appointing constables for the various districts of the county.

YOU'D BETTER HAVE all YOUR VALUABLES SECURE in our SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULT



Have you not many things—jewels, heirlooms, valuable papers, notes, and perhaps YOUR WILL—which you would like kept in an absolutely safe place? Our vaults are strictly fire proof and burglar-proof. We shall gladly show them to you if you will call. For $2 and up we will rent you a box in our safety vaults for a whole year. So your valuables will be safe.

Make OUR Bank YOUR Bank.

We pay liberal interest consistent with safety—3 per cent.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OAKLAND, MD.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

The only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

No Alum, No Lime Phosphate

Mr. and Mrs. King Delawder, of Oakland, Md., were the guests of the parents of Mrs. Delawder, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Jameson, of Westernport Hill during the Christmas holidays. Mr. Delawder returned home on Tuesday, but Mrs. Delawder will remain a fortnight longer.—Piedmont Independent.

Mr. Wilbur Davis returned to his home in Oakland from a two weeks' visit to Blackstone, Va., where he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lantz and family. Mr. Davis is not very favorably impressed with the country surrounding Blackstone, it being low and flat, while the climatic conditions are everything but good.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Rasche left Oakland this morning for Chicago where they will join a number of the members of the Railway Agents Association for tour of the south, the objective points being Tampa, Florida, and Havana, Cuba. At the latter city they will sojourn two days and expect to return to Oakland the latter part of the present month.

Mrs. Margaret Connell and her daughter, Miss Ellen Connell, returned to Oakland Monday morning after a week's visit to relatives and friends at Terra Alta, where on Sunday Mrs. Connell celebrated her eighty-fourth anniversary at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Parley DeBerry. Monday evening Miss Connell entertained a number of her friends in Oakland and had as her guests Mrs. Tina Taylor, of Romney; Mrs. D. E. Offutt, Mrs. A. D. Naylor, Miss Julia Byrne, Mrs. Benj. H. Sincell.

County Assessor Harry M. Rumbaugh, of Friendsville, and District Assessor A Clyde Smith, of District No. 13, were in Oakland on business before the board of County Commissioners Monday. The work of making the new assessment in Garrett county has been greatly delayed because of the weather and also owing to the fact that the general assessors were not appointed and qualified until late in the summer. Thus far three districts have been completed by the men having charge of the work, namely, Nos. 1, 10 and 13. The entire county will probably be completed by August of the present year.

Dr. W. W. Davis, superintendent of the Mountain Lake Park Association, spent Tuesday in Oakland, going from here to Wheeling where he will remain until Saturday. A new haulage engine for the ice house at the Park has been received there and as soon as it is installed and the weather conditions permit a large force of men will be employed by Dr. Davis to fill the ice house at the lake and load cars for shipment to points both east and west, a contract having been made by the Association officials and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company to fill the latter company's ice houses all along the line.

Judge U. S. Kendall, of Crellin, who has been associated with the Kendall interests in Garrett county and elsewhere for several years, has severed his connection with that firm and left here last Thursday night for Detroit, Michigan, where he will open offices for the purpose of practicing law, his profession prior to associating himself with his brothers. As a lawyer Judge Kendall was successful, having been elevated to the bench while still a very young mand and a practitioner at the bar in Fairmont, West Va., from which point he came to this county. The departure of Judge Kendall from this community is sincerely regretted by all who are acquainted with him. He is followed by the best wishes of his friends for a successful professional life in the city of his adoption.

Maryland Sixth in Density.

Maryland, according to the census report, still remains the sixth in the list of states with regards to density of population, having 130.3 persons per square mile as against 119.5 in 1900 and 104.9 in 1890. Rhode Island is the most thickly settled state, having 508.5 the sqare mile. Then in order comes Massachusettes, New Jersy, Connecicut, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Ohio. Nevada is the most sparsely settled having but 0.7 of a person to the sqare mile. The average for the country is 30.9 to the mile.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

Attendance Roll.

The following high school pupils were neither late nor absent during the month of December:

Ruth Arnold, Hosmer Cropp, Mamie Clark, Nelle Compton, Edward Chance, Russell Cuppett, Preston DeBerry, Walter Dawson, Letitia Friend, Nora Gauer, Evelyn Helbig, Harold Harned, Eleanor Hinebaugh, Bernardette Hart, Vernon Lyon, Patrick Murphy, Paul Musgrave, Frank Ross, Morris Sincell, Edna Trickett, Harry Turney, Robert White, Rhoda Welch.

U. G. PALMER, Prin.

Maryland's New Railroads.

According to a report published in yestesday's Manufactrers' Record, Maryland laid but one-tenth of one per cent of the new railroads of the South last year. Its total for the year was three miles. West Virgina built 110 miles. For next year there is promised 61 miles of new road for Maryland and 119.51 for West Virginia. Last year saw the smallest amount of road building in Maryland of any year since railroad building began.

New Roller Process for Buckwheat.

